THE
AUBURN COURIER

Microfilmed for:
ECKHART PUBLIC LIBRARY
Auburn, Indiana

STARTS WITH

JAN 2 1890

MICRO PHOTO DIVISION
BELL & HOWELL COMPANY

IL

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 2, 1890. NUMBER 1.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

BEFORE INVOICING.

In order to reduce ourstock to the lowest limit, so that it can be more easily handled, we offer an all around

DISCOUNT OF 10 PER CENT.

NOTE THIS!

Most merchants make a sale after invoicing, to work off old calamity catchpennies. We make our sale before invoicing, and offer

THE PICK OF

OUR ENTIRE STOCK

Without reserve, at this general discount,

For 15 Days
THIS OFFER HOLDS GOOD
And No Longer.

REMEMBER THIS:

Our prices are always lower than any others, and our discount of ten per cent, is equal to twenty offered by two-profit stores.

THE BEST, BIGGEST BARGAINS!

Ever offered in our line will be made during this short sale.

DON'T SUPPOSE

That this is the old chestnut sale or the snap variety.

COME AND SEE

The genuine reductions and be convinced that

We Do All We Claim.

The FAMOUS Clothier,

North Side Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

Primary Elections--2.

In our last, we referred in a brief way, to the workings of the primary system in our township elections. Next after the township elections, will come the May elections in the incorporated towns. Here the operations, though several offices are to be considered, will not be materially different. Let the local committeemen, and others they may consult, agree on a date for the primary meeting. The hour, we will say, should be at 5 p. m., and the polls be kept open till eight. This opening at 5 will give those who are on night duty in our factories and elsewhere a chance to vote as they go on duty. After supper, the others can come to the polls at any time during the remaining hours, for the very essence of a primary election is to secure for every individual the opportunity to record his free choice. As in the case of townships, the candidates for the various offices may have been announced in the papers, or the names may be decided on at any time up to the opening of the polls. Printed tickets or written ones can be used, and if several candidates are seeking a nomination for the same office, they can have separate tickets, or if printed ballots are used, all the names may be put on one ballot, and the voter designate which he prefers by a check, just as will be done under the Australian system that goes into use next fall. These primaries should be held a few days before the election, so that in case no choice is made in a given office, another meeting could be held to decide it. A failure to choose may happen now and then in any of these cases. It is likely, therefore, that some rule should be adopted. Say we have this: That in case more than two are running for the same place, the one who has a plurality shall be the nominee, just as in the election the one who gets a plurality is elected. It might be well to say that this plurality must be at least a third of all the votes cast. For if there are four or more names, the one who had a plurality might not have one third. In this case a second ballot should be had, requiring a second meeting. In such event, all the candidates except the 3 highest might be dropped, and the vote taken on the three. This would, of course, result in some one getting at least one-third of the votes. We again add that we make these suggestions hoping that something of this kind will meet the approval of all democrats. We believe it is not only fair and honest, but that it will prove satisfactory.

The Press on the Appointments.

The Waterloo Press is not very well suited by the two recent appointments in DeKalb county. We print below, its article on each, the appointment of Mr. Ensley, as state pension agent, and of the new postmaster in his own town, J. N. McBride. As to Senator Ensley, he says:

The appointment of Senator Ensley as State Pension Agent, settles a few questions in this locality. The principal opposition that Mr. Ensley had to contend with was the fact that this congressional district had already received more than the proper proportion of public patronage, and it does not require a prophet to say that the candidacy of several other parties for preferment is in consequence ended. It is possible that Judge McBride had given up the hope of a position, and Hon. R. M. Lockhart will have to place his boom for supervisor of the census for this district in pickle for the present.

Then he gives the following as to the Waterloo postoffice:

"Since the suspense is all over and the postmaster has been designated, it may not be out of place, and perhaps due to the public for us to say, first, that we were not a candidate for the position, and have not been, secondly that we are not a candidate for any position under the administration, neither have we been; thirdly, that had Mr. J. G. Brown been appointed the office would not have been moved into our store building, neither would we have been in control of the office. This statement is made out of justice to Mr. Brown and to put to shame the parties who profess to be our friends and who willfully, maliciously and designedly, so far as the facts go, circulated the above untruths to injury Mr. B's candidacy. Fourthly, the appointment as secured was unrepublican in its methods, from the action of Chairman Michener, down to the local politician who engineered the appointment, in that it does not represent the wishes of the people, and was secured by the disreputable means of wire working. So far as Mr. McBride himself is concerned we have no complaints to offer. He is a lucky man, and while his appointment is not made through any personal effort or because his qualifications are peculiarly fitting, or because he will be any strength to the party, yet we concede he will do his level best to serve the people faithfully and will no doubt make a good postmaster.

Then he adds the following good words for the retiring postmaster:

Mr. Kelley will retire from the postoffice with the satisfaction of knowing that his work has been well done. Even members of his own party who were so bitter against his appointment must admit that he has exceeded their expectations in this regard. His removal is purely political and in consequence brings no reproach with it, as this is the law of politics. His experience in the office will be a recommendation for his future efforts either in public or private life.

An Unusual Club Offer.

THE FORUM is the foremost review of living subjects, and it has more authoritative contributors than any other periodical (including nearly 300 of the ablest writers and most distinguished workers on both sides of the Atlantic). The price of THE FORUM is $5 per year. We have made a special arrangement, whereby we can fill orders for the COURIER and THE FORUM for $5.

New York Health Department.

Dr. Cyrus Edson, Superintendent of the Sanitary Bureau of New York City writes the following unsolicited letter regarding Speer's Port Grape Wine.

New York, January, 1888.

Mr. Speer, The box of wine has been safely received. I trust that 1888 will do you the justice you deserve. I never lose an opportunity to recommend your good wine, for I know it to be one of the pure brands obtainable.

Yours sincerely,
CYRUS EDSON.

For sale by all druggists.

Best theater company of the season, the Loranger Co., Jan. 1, 2, 3, and 4.

1890.

RICKEL & SPROTT

WISH YOU ALL A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS 1890.

1890.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE OVER,

And we must now

PREPARE FOR SPRING TRADE.

In order to reduce our STOCK, We have cut prices in

EVERY DEPARTMENT.

WE WANT YOU TO GET OUR PRICES ON

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

LADIES' WRAPS, Etc.,

WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY.

WE HAVE A FEW

SETS OF FURS LEFT,

Which we will sell one-fourth off regular prices.

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always courteous and pleased to show goods. We are yours, respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO., Auburn, Ind.

Root & Co.,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Holiday season is close at hand, seekers after novelties are crowding our big store daily. Mail orders are pouring in thick.

Black Cascade Silks.

Will make an elegant present. The silk we warrant at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, and $2.00 per yard.

ELEGANT LINENS.

Novelties for Sideboards, Tray cloths, Stand covers, Tidies, Mats, Silk and Linen Scarfs and Mats, etc.

Embroidered Bed Sets, Sheet and Pillow Shams, and Cushion covers to match.

Seal Wraps, Plush Wraps,

Walking Coats and Jackets.

Combination Dress Patterns,

Handsome Novelties. Embroidered and velvet effects. Embroidered and Fringed combinations.

KID GLOVES,

In Suede and Glace—button and lace hook—any length desired—Kids for gentlemen and misses.

Handkerchiefs,

Hem stitch, Lace, Embroidered, Prints, Silk, pretty embroidered Handkerchiefs, fine at 25 to 50 cents. All-linen hemstitch 12½.

Dainty Real Lace Handkerch'fs.

170 feet of space devoted to special Holiday Novelties, Papier Mache, Bric-a-brac. Single piece Novelties in fine Queensware, at low prices, lovely painted sets in satin, plush, bolting cloths, silk throws and tidies.

The magnitude of the stock and low prices will pay you to visit us.

ROOT & CO.

A Veteran's Birthday.

Newville, Ind., Dec. 25, 1889.

EDITOR COURIER: Christmas day was celebrated at Mr. Mack Cole's, not only for the birth of our Savior, but also for the sixty-third birthday of an old soldier, A. Stepleton. There was quite a number of old soldiers present, and on such an occasion, a little hard cider was indulged in, of course. To pay respects to the old comrade, they presented him with an easy chair. A speech being then in order, "speech," "speech" was heard from all parts of the house.

Sixty-three years ago to-day, a child was born in the elm bud country, who grew up to be a man and enlisted in the home guards, of Ohio. He fought bravely and gallantly in Camp Dennison, when John Morgan made his attack. The battle lasted three days, and I must say this old comrade waded in and fought to a finish in blood up to his eyes. Dear comrades, may this birthday be remembered by the soldiers who survive to tell the story, and may their children bless them for the noble union which all now enjoy.

A COMRADE.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1890, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Mich. The Transfer Books will close on January 14th, and remain closed until January 25th.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Adminis of the estate of Frederick Peters deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

AUGUSTUS BARTELS Administrator.

December 13, 1889.
E. D. HARTMAN, Att'y.

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to

JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries,
Mention this paper. Rochester, N. Y.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

CORRESPONDENCE.

CONCORD.

R. Gillson has gone to Toledo on a business trip.

Mrs. Mansfield has returned from Adrian, Mich.

C. Smith and family have relatives visiting them from Garrett.

Bert Timmerman and wife spent Christmas at Logansport.

Mrs. Cal Ollinger, of Walkerton, is the guest of her father, G. W. Morr.

Mrs. Wm. Howey has returned from visiting her son George, at St. John.

B. Gifford and wife visited their sick friends at Spencerville last Sabbath.

Grant Keller was at Butler last Saturday, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Sherck.

Harry and Lloyd Clear, of Churubusco, were the guests of Miss Alice Draggoo.

Mrs. Lee Ames and son, Walter, of Ft. Wayne, spent Christmas here with relatives.

Milton Wasson came home from California last week, bringing a great many curiosities.

Messrs. P. Heim and K. Stull, of North Liberty, were the guests of Mrs. Baughman last week.

Mrs. John Baker will go to Fort Wayne this week to have her eyes operated on. She can only distinguish daylight from darkness.

Christmas eve gathering was largely attended, notwithstanding the dark night and muddy roads. The little folks acquitted themselves nicely and the music was especially fine.

M. M. Darling, of Mansfield, Ohio, came last Thursday to attend to his financial affairs. Saturday noon, he received word that Mrs. D. who has lung trouble, was very ill. He returned home on the two o'clock train.

SUMMIT.

Grandfather Keller, of Hudson, was in town last Saturday.

Mrs. Ann Chilcoat, of Hudson, made our town a short call last Tuesday.

H. D. Snowberger visited the family of Robert Snowberger last Sunday.

Wm. Mortorff and family were the guests of C. Oberlin and family, last Sunday.

There will be a debate at the district school No. 6. Smithfield township, Thursday evening, January 2, 1890. Question: "Resolved that the Indiana school book system is beneficial to the schools."

Estray Notice.

Came to my residence about 4 miles south of Wm. Carr's in Jackson township, Friday evening, Dec. 27, 1889, a dark bay gelding horse about 14 or 15 years old. Owner can have him by calling on me and proving property and paying expenses. JESSE HARNISH 3

Cook's Cotton Root Compound.—Composed of Cotton Root, Tansy and Pennyroyal. Successfully used monthly. Safe, Effectual, Pleasant. $1 by mail, or druggists. Sealed particulars 2 stamps. Ladies address POND LILY COMPANY, 131 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.

Sold in Auburn, Ind., by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

On February 1,

we will move into our new building, and in order to close out our stock as much as possible, we will give

10 Per Cent. Discount

On all goods sold during the month of January. Now is your time to buy cheap at the

BARGAIN STORE,

SOUTH OF JAIL.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Lines on the death of Milton Maurer.

Our home is draped in mourning,
Our hearts are lone and sore,
For one we loved most dearly,
Has crossed the mystic shore.

Sadly in the grave we laid him,
His work on earth is done,
Our Heavenly Father called him home.
As He calls us, one by one.

Though Milton's hands are folded,
And we see him no more,
He is with his Father,
Waiting on the heavenly shore.

Then friend why should you weep so.
Would you wish him back again
In this world of sin and sorrow,
Just to suffer and die again?

No, oh no, it would be cruel!
He's far happier than we;
May this one thought help and comfort.
That from suffering, Milton's free.

Could we lift the vale between us,
And the loved one laid to rest,
We might say in one grand chorus,
Heavenly Father it is best.

Reunion.

A very remarkable reunion took place at the residence of Ex-Sheriff Plum, near Waterloo, on Dec. 25th, 1889. This being the fifty-seventh anniversary of the wedding day of this aged couple, the family, all met at home to celebrate that day. It was the first time they had met together, in 32 years, and are as yet an unbroken family. Father, mother, four sons and three daughters, the eldest being 55 years and the youngest 39 years of age. They are: Obadiah Plum, Iowa City; Martin Plum, Shelby, Iowa; Andrew Plum, Butler; Phil Plum, Auburn; Mrs. J. W. Jones and Mrs. Phil Texter, Waterloo, and Mrs. D. T. Smith, of Auburn. There was also present Mrs. Andrew and Mrs. Phil Plum, D. T. Smith and 13 of the 26 grand-children. The combined age of the grand-children is 326 years, of the family 481 years. It was a very remarkable sight, as they sat down to a most bounteous repast to see the father with four sturdy boys, the mother with three noble daughters at their side, and one which you could not see again, perhaps in a thousand families. The day was passed in talking of happy childhood days, and as the shades of evening began to gather, all separated for their several homes, wishing for a return of many such happy days.

Notes from Congress.

Now while our local republican papers are claiming that a tariff tax makes the article affected cheaper, we note what is said by protectionists who came before that committee in congress, "Ways and Means" that has the tariff under consideration. The stove makers of Michigan ask that mica be kept as it now is, on the free list, for if a duty is levied on it, it will make it so high priced they cannot afford it. An anvil maker wants 2.3 cents a pound levied on anvils, so they can be sold cheaper. But the duty now is 2 cents, and he don't seem able to explain why an added tax would make them cheaper, nor the additional fact, which he states, that under this tax of 2 cents a pound, the number of anvil firms has decreased from 25 to 3. Another man wants a higher duty on fence wire, so as to make it cheaper. He says to take off the tax would be to raise the price. Gen. Imboden of Virginia, the first man by the way, who entered on active hostilities in the late war, by capturing Harper's Ferry, wants the tax kept up on coal and iron ore, as he says this would make mining pay better. He adds that farming no longer pays in Virginia. Of course it don't, because, the farmer has all the legislation against him, and in favor of the mining interests, and men like Imboden, who owns mines are interested in keeping it so. Then, farmers who have to give up their business must work for low wages or starve. Great is protection.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings, of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

Pre-Historic Remains.

While excavating at a gravel bed on the Fleming farm, near the Salimonie River, about one mile southwest of Warren, Ind., the workmen of Jerry Shea, a contractor, found, at a depth beneath the surface of ten feet, the bone remains of human beings, comprising skull, occipital, parietal and frontal bones, temporal bone, lower law, clavicle, cervical vertebræ, the humerus, ulna, parts of the ulnal vertebræ, ilium, femur, and in brief the entire bony system of the skeleton of man. As many as a dozen of these skeletons, of very large persons, were unearthed, some found in sitting postures, and others regularly or irregularly interred. The teeth, in most cases, were still in the jaws, but dropped out on the exposure of the jaws to the air. A serious oblique fracture of a femur was observable in one skeleton. How many of these pre-historic people were buried at that place, Mr. Shea has not discovered, but as excavations proceed, he will be enabled to ascertain.

A Divorce That Didn't Count.

Jersey City special: In the court of sessions Charles W. Bligh was found guilty of bigamy. On August 10, 1878, Bligh was married in Brooklyn to Miss Julia Waters. After several years they quarreled and separated, Bligh went to Chicago and secured a divorce under the laws of Illinois. Then he married Miss Kate Gorgardt in Jersey City. His first wife learned of the second marriage and caused his arrest. Illinois divorce papers were produced in court, but the district attorney claimed that a divorce granted in Illinois when a person went to that State for the purpose was, under the laws of New Jersey, no divorce at all, and did not protect Bligh. The court agreed with the District Attorney, and upon his advice the jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

The Great Outrage.

Charleston, (S. C.) special: Great indignation is felt throughout the State at the massacre of prisoners at Barnwell, and the strongest appeals are being made to the Governor to make an example of the mob. An address has been issued to the colored people of the State by the representative colored men of Charleston and vicinity. It says in substance: "We, the undersigned, citizens of Charleston and vicinity, request the leading colored men of this State to assemble in the city of Columbia on the fourth day of January, 1890, at 8 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of consulting and formulating a plan by which the law can be enforced and order preserved throughout by the proper officers of this State." It is signed by about 200 colored men.

Slain in Their Beds.

A double murder was committed at Mount Sterling, Crawford County, Wis. Jerry O'Neil and his wife were fatally shot while in bed, the former in the breast and the latter in the stomach, by an unknown assailant. The victims were well-to-do and inoffensive people, about fifty years of age. The shots awoke two daughters, who slept near the old folks. Their cries summoned the rest of the family, who were in the second story, but the murderer had escaped. What the object was is not known, and nothing was stolen. There were eight members of the family in the house at the time, most of them full-grown people.

The Boys Go on a Strike.

Three hundred youths, composing the Chicago Press-feeders' Union, struck for an advance in pay. Except in one instance, the demand was refused. The strike affects only the book and job printing offices. The employers have decided unitedly to fight the strikers. All the houses are running.

Carelessness Was the Prime Cause.

Twenty-six persons, passengers on the Chesapeake and Ohio train wrecked at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Saturday, signed a paper stating that in their opinion, after examination, the cause of the wreck was rotten ties, defective rail and too high rate of speed. The road is in bad condition.

The Failures of the Past Year.

Bradstreets reports 11,719 failures in the United States for the year 1889; liabilities, $150,359,490; assets, $70,599,769. This is the largest number of failures and greater liabilities than for any year in the past five.

Death of Mrs. Gov. Marquis.

A special from Bellefontaine, Ohio, says: Mrs. Addie Marquis, wife of Lieut-Gov-elect Marquis, died at the family home in that city. Mrs. Marquis was formerly a resident of Cincinnati.

Blackburn to Succeed Himself.

Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, of Kentucky, was unanimously nominated on the first ballot by the joint Democratic legislative caucus to succeed himself as United States Senator.

Paralyzed the Freight Traffic.

Terre Haute (Ind.) special: The strike on the Evansville and Terre Haute, and the Evansville and Indianapolis, both in the Mackey system, paralyzed freight traffic on those roads.

Death of Mrs. Blaine's Sister.

Miss Susan L. Stanwood is dead in the Augusta home of J. G. Blaine. She was Mrs. Blaine's sister, and was 76 years old.

Mrs. Gen. Longstreet Dead.

The wife of Gen. Longstreet died at the home of her husband in Gainesville, Ga.

Thirty-seven Deaths from Diphtheria.

A Leola (S. Dak.) dispatch says: Dr. Gamble has returned from a trip to Hyde Settlement, the scene of the diphtheria epidemic. He says he has the names of thirty-seven Russian children who have died of the disease. Only two of those taken sick have recovered. A number are still sick.

Decision by Secretary Noble.

Secretary Noble has decided the case of the Winona and St. Peter Railroad vs. numerous settlers in Minnesota, involving 12,180 acres of land on which the settlers had pre-empted previous to the road's being given the grant, in favor of the settlers, holding that their title was good notwithstanding the grant.

MR. GLADSTONE'S 80TH BIRTHDAY.

"The Grand Old Man" Receives Many Telegrams of Congratulation.

A London cable says: The eightieth anniversary of W. E. Gladstone's birth absorbed so much attention as to make it a day of national remembrance. Telegrams and letters of congratulation and admiration poured into Hawarden from not only all quarters of England but literally from all parts of the world. All the members of the Gladstone family branches were gathered at Hawarden to meet and greet their eminent kinsman. The church attended by Mr. Gladstone was crowded at the morning service and a large throng remained outside unable to gain admittance. Mr. Gladstone took his usual part in the service, reading the lessons, and said a few words of devout thankfulness for the blessings of health and friendship.

LOST WIFE AS WELL AS THRONE.

Dom Pedro's Empress Dies Suddenly at Oporto.

The ex-Empress of Brazil, who was visiting in that city with Dom Pedro, died suddenly of heart failure at Oporto, aged 68 years. Since her death Dom Pedro has been fairly deluged with telegrams and letters condoling with him on the loss of his wife. The last utterances of the ex-Empress were expressions of regret that she could not be surrounded by her children and that she could not return to beautiful Brazil. A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says the news of the death of the ex-Empress was a great shock to the people, monarchists and republicans alike. The regret is very general, for she was greatly loved, and her charities were innumerable. She was, in fact, held in higher estimation than Dom Pedro himself.

JOHN BULL'S BLUFF.

The British Squadron Ordered to Rendezvous at Gibraltar.

The British squadron of action has been ordered to rendezvous at Gibraltar, in order to be in readiness to move at once to Lisbon. The Temeraire has already arrived, and the Colossus and Benbow have left Malta. This is interpreted as indicating that the Government no longer apprehends that a quasi war-like movement will add to the irritation already existing, or stand in the way of a peaceful solution of the troubles. Semi-official papers at Lisbon say that the Portuguese Government does not contemplate submitting the dispute with England to arbitration.

COLLIDED ON THE SOUTHWESTERN.

A Wreck Near Scottdale, Pa., in Which Several People Are Seriously Injured.

A Scottdale (Pa.) dispatch says: A frightful collision occurred between two freight trains in the deep cut just south of Moyers Station, about three miles south of this place, on the Southwestern Road. Engineers Johns and Dayton, together with the entire crews of both trains, were injured, some seriously. Both engines were wrecked, and about fifteen cars are piled on top of each other to the height of thirty-five or forty feet. From what can be learned, the collision was the result of a mistake in train orders. The injured are being well cared for, and it is thought no fatalities will occur.

CHECKS FOR $7,436,961.

The Equivalent of Interest on Bonds Mailed by the National Treasurer.

The Treasurer of the United States has mailed 34,069 checks, aggregating $7,436,961, in payment of interest due Jan. 1 on registered 4 per cent. bonds and Pacific railway bonds. All these checks are punched with figures representing the amount for which they are drawn, and are the first checks so marked ever issued by the Treasury Department. The idea of punching the checks originated with Treasurer Huston, and is intended as an additional protection of the interests of the Government in preventing the raising of checks.

WILL DRIVE OUT HUNGARIANS.

A Crusade Against Them in the Connellsville Coke Region.

With the beginning of 1890 a movement will be inaugurated which will rid the Connellsville, Pa., coke region of the Hungarians, who have been more than unruly during this year. They have fully demonstrated their uselessness as residents. The Order of United American Mechanics will begin a crusade against them which will eventually oust them from that region. The business men of Connellsville and, indeed, all the towns in the district, are also interested in the matter.

A MONUMENT TO H. W. GRADY.

Over $9,000 Has Already Been Raised in Atlanta for That Purpose.

Over $9,000 has been raised by the Atlanta (Ga.) young men's committee for a monument to Henry W. Grady, and only a few subscriptions have been received from outside of Atlanta as yet. From all parts of the State come telegrams saying that the people want to help in the work, and doubtless many of Mr. Grady's friends North and South will desire to aid in building this monument, and for that reason the committee in charge has decided to hold the lists open for some days.

ROBERT GARRETT QUITE ILL.

A Consultation of Eminent Physicians Regarding His Condition.

A Baltimore dispatch reports that Robert Garrett is in very poor health. At times he is much depressed and occasionally becomes much excited. He is still at his country place, "Uplands," near Catonsville. A consultation of several doctors from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore was held at Uplands recently, and Mr. Garrett's friends have not been encouraged by the reports from his physicians.

FIGHTING OVER A COUNTY SEAT.

A Long and Bitter Contest in Nebraska Between Two Rival Towns.

For twenty years a bitter county seat war has been waged between Plattsmouth, Neb., and Weeping Water. At last, to settle it, the County Commissioners called an election to vote $80,000 in bonds for a Court House there, and the proposition carried. The opponents of the bonds contested the election on the ground of fraud, and the election was decided void. As a consequence the feeling is very bitter.

Gloomy Outlook in Southern Russia.

Great uneasiness prevails throughout the agricultural districts of Southern Russia owing to the fact that the ground, which is ordinarily covered by three or four feet of snow at this season of the year, is entirely bare, while the temperature is even lower than usual. It is feared that the winter crops will be destroyed, leaving the inhabitants confronted by almost certain famine and disease next year.

Great Strike at Belgium.

A general strike of colliers has been inaugurated throughout Belgium. The scarcity of coal is already beginning to be severely felt.

Hebrew Workingmen to Organize.

A convention of delegates representing twenty-eight organizations of Hebrew workingmen, with a total membership of 10,000 persons in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Providence, Cincinnati, Baltimore, and this city, met at New York and decided to form the Hebrew Labor Union of the United States and publish a daily paper in its interests.

The Texas Bulldozers.

All the Fort Bend County (Texas) bulldozers arrested and taken to Galveston under indictment for conspiracy have been released on bond. Those charged with conspiracy and murder are still held as prisoners, awaiting the decision of United States District Judge Boarman of the question whether they can give bail or not.

Reorganization of a Railway.

The reorganization of the Cincinnati, Baltimore & Washington Railroad is to go into effect Jan. 4, with General Orland Smith as President. The capital stock is to be $5,000,000, and the company will be known as the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern, covered by the initials "B. O. S.," which, it is expected, will cause the line to become known as the "Boss" road.

Three People Asphyxiated.

In an Oakland (Cal.) boarding-house, Mrs. Jane Erwin and her two daughters, Mary and Bessie, aged 16 and 12, respectively, were found dead in bed, having been asphyiated by gas. They had just arrived from Cold Camp, Benton County, Mo., en route to Ventura County, Cal., where the husband of Mrs. Erwin has a ranch.

Fatal Fall from a Scaffold.

Three workmen fell with a scaffold from the Thomson-Houston Electric Light Company's new building at Omaha, Neb. Frank Werte was injured internally and will die. John Michel was badly bruised about the body, and E. L. Anson had one eye knocked out and received several painful bruises.

Russian Military Works.

Gen. Vannovski, Russian Minister of War, has given orders to proceed more rapidly with the work of building detached forts around Batoum. The whole of the 2,000,000 rubles allotted for enlarging the commercial port of Batoum will be expended on military works.

Slavin Got the Stakes.

A cablegram from London says that Smith's backer handed over to Slavin the entire stakes of the recent fight. Slavin bears no marks of punishment about the head except that one eye is slightly discolored and there is a scratch on one of his ears.

Tried to Kill Bob Ford.

An attempt was made in a Kansas City (Kan.) gambling house early on Christmas morning to murder Bob Ford, the slayer of Jesse James. A man known as "Fat" tried to cut the ex-outlaw's throat with a knife, but was unsuccessful and made his escape.

Shoe Factory in Ashes.

A large shoe factory near Portland, Ore., has been totally destroyed by fire. The blaze resulted from the explosion of a lamp. None of the stock or machinery was saved. Total loss, $35,000; insurance, $10,000.

Statement of Atchison Earnings.

Atchison earnings for the second week in December show a gain of $27,743 in comparison with the corresponding week of last year. The increase for the first week was $16,103; for the second week of November, $61,444.

Sneezing in the West.

The Russian influenza has at last reached the Rocky Mountains. Three-fourths of the citizens of Denver are suffering from the plague. Reports from Cheyenne are to the effect that that city is similarly affected.

Five Persons Drowned in a Collision.

A London cable says: During a fog on the River Clyde the steamer Ovington came into collision with the steamer Queen Victoria and the former sank. Five persons were drowned.

The Eight Hour Law in Philadelphia.

It has just been decided that the eight-hour law, which was placed on the statute books twenty-one years ago, is applicable to the departments of the Philadelphia city government.

To Suppress Gambling in Mexico.

The President and the Secretary of the Interior of Mexico are said to be considering plans for the suppression of gambling of every description.

More Money for the Germany Army.

The Hamburger Correspondenz says it has reason to believe that fresh military credits will be asked by the German Government from the Reichstag.

The Charleston in Commission.

At the Mare Island Navy Yard, the new United States cruiser Charleston has gone into commission, being turned over to the charge of Capt. Geo. C. Remey.

Gen. Raum Has a Chill.

Commissioner Raum is quite ill at his home on Rhode Island avenue, Washington. He has had three chills, followed by a high fever.

Injured by His Bravery.

In attempting to stop a runaway horse at Elizabeth, N. J., General J. Madison Drake was severely injured.

More Coal Miners Strike.

The strike of the coal miners in the Charleroi district of Belgium is spreading. The strikers now number 10,400.

Wife of Rear Admiral Rogers Dead.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of Rear Admiral Rogers, died at Washington.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.25
Good	3.50	@ 4.50
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.25	@ 3.75
SHEEP	4.00	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .77½
CORN—No. 2	.31	@ .32
OATS—No. 2	.20	@ .20½
RYE—No. 2	.44	@ .45
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.23	@ .26
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh	.18	@ .19
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.37	@ .43
PORK—Mess	8.25	@ 9.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.73	@ .74
CORN—No. 3	.28	@ .28½
OATS—No. 2 White	.22	@ .23
RYE—No. 2	.44½	@ .45
BARLEY—No. 2	.46½	@ .47½
PORK—Mess	9.00	@ 9.25
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.50	@ 5.00
HOGS	3.00	@ 3.75
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.81	@ .81½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.33½	@ .34½
OATS—No. 2 White	.25½	@ .26
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.81	@ .81½
CORN—Cash	.32	@ .32½
OATS—No. 2 White	.22	@ .23
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.50	@ 5.00
HOGS	3.50	@ 4.25
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .86
CORN—No. 2	.41	@ .42
OATS—Mixed Western	.27	@ .30
PORK—Prime Mess	10.50	@ 11.00
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 5.00
HOGS	3.25	@ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
CORN	.25	@ .25½
OATS	.19	@ .20
RYE—No. 2	.44½	@ .45½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.50	@ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 3.75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76½	@ .77½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@ .35
OATS—No. 2 White	.23½	@ .24½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.00	@ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.31	@ .32
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.24	@ .25
RYE—No. 2	.47½	@ .48½
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	3.50	@ 4.75
HOGS	3.25	@ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.89	@ .90
CORN—No. 2	.36½	@ .37½

OLD '89 TAKES LEAVE.

BRIEF REHEARSAL OF SOME OF ITS NOTABLE HAPPENINGS.

Record of the Great Dead of the World—Loss of Life and Property by Casualties of Various Kinds—Legal Executions and Victims of Mob Law During the Year.

CHRONOLOGICAL.

JANUARY.
1—One of the features of New Year's Day was a total eclipse of the sun, the totality lasting less than three minutes, and being visible only in California; successful observations were made by scientists....Governor Hill, of New York, inaugurated for a third term....Colored people of Atlanta, Ga., celebrate the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation.
18—Bill giving women the right to vote at municipal elections killed in Ohio House of Representatives.
24—Ohio Senate passes a bill providing that executions shall be by electric shock instead of by the rope; similar bills introduced in the Missouri and Illinois Legislatures.
FEBRUARY.
5—Massachusetts House of Representatives adopted proposed constitutional prohibitory amendment.
11—W. H. Bury, believed to be the Whitechapel fiend "Jack the Ripper," arrested at Dundee, Scotland, for another shocking murder.
18—James Robbins, of Franklin, Ind., sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for stealing two chickens, valued at 30 cents.
21—The heaviest snowstorm on record in that region prevailed at Columbia, S. C.
MARCH.
1—Bill passed the Arizona Legislature making train robbing in the territory a capital crime.
5—The announcement was made from Peru, South America, that the juice or sap of peuca or maguey leaves will cure hydrophobia.
12—Ex-President Grover Cleveland elected an active member of the New York Bar Association.
23—The Northern Pacific Railway secured control of the Wisconsin Central, thus giving it access to Chicago, the greatest railway center on earth, and adding 767 miles to its length.
APRIL.
3—Discovery of rich placer gold diggings reported at Bear Paw Mountains, Montana.
4—The ocean steamer Danmark, of the Thingvalla Line, from Copenhagen for New York, with 710 persons on board, broke the shaft of her propeller when about 800 miles from Newfoundland, but was taken in tow by the steamship Missouri, Capt. Hamilton Murrell, which took aboard all of the Danmark's passengers and crew, and proceeded safely to the Azores; the Danmark being found abandoned in the meantime, caused profound grief and mourning throughout Christendom for a fortnight.
11—Meredith Stanley, an athlete, jumped from the high bridge on the Cincinnati Southern Road into the Kentucky River, the distance being 285 feet; the bridge, with one exception, is the highest in the world.
24—The Minnesota Legislature passed a law making it a misdemeanor for any newspaper to print anything more about the hanging of criminals than the mere announcement.
30—Steamship Gaelic arrives at San Francisco, from China and Japan, making the fastest time recorded—from Hong Kong, 21½ days, and from Yokohama, 13 days 18 hours 25 minutes.
MAY.
31—Appalling loss of life in the Conemaugh valley, Pennsylvania, caused by the breaking of the dam on the South Fork of the Conemaugh River.
JUNE.
7—President Harrison issued an order to the army to dispense with the Sunday drill and inspection of arms.
9—Jacob Walker and Frank Davy, young men residing at Niagara Falls, while boating above the falls, were drawn into the rapids and swept over the Horseshoe fall; "Pi" Walker, uncle of Jacob, committed suicide two years before by lying down in his boat and going over the American fall.
20—First new wheat of the season arrived at Baltimore, from Virginia, and sold at $1.50 a bushel....In latitude 43, longitude 48.27, the French steamship La Burgogne passed the largest iceberg ever reported—estimated to be 160 feet high by 975 feet long.
JULY.
12—Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, expressed the opinion that the New Orleans and Northwestern Railway laid itself liable to forfeiture of its charter by its action in conveying Sullivan and Kilrain, with other participants, to a prize-fight.
26—The ocean steamer Columbia made the run from The Needles to Sandy Hook (3,100 miles) in 6 days 21 hours 37 minutes, the best time on record over that course.
27—Chicago experienced a remarkable rainstorm; in four hours more than four inches of rain fell.
AUGUST.
1—Grand national monument in honor of the Pilgrims dedicated at Plymouth, Mass.; sons and daughters of Plymouth and visitors from far and near were present in large numbers.
14—Ex-Judge David S. Terry, of California, killed by Deputy Marshal David Nagle at Lathrop, Cal., while Nagle was protecting Judge Stephen J. Field from assault at the hands of Terry.
15—The high court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, in session at Minneapolis, voted to sever all connection with the high court of England; the differences arose over the admission of colored men to the order, the English high court insisting upon it and the Americans objecting.
22—Mrs. Maybrick, an American woman who was to have been hanged at Liverpool, England, for the murder of her husband, had her sentence commuted to penal servitude for life, the decision being in accord with public sentiment. Mr. Lincoln, the United States Minister, and many members of the American colony in London signed a petition for the reprieve of Mrs. Maybrick.
26—Four tramps, arrested at Moberly, Mo., for vagrancy, were sold at public auction; two went to farmers at $2 a head and one was bid in for 75 cents; the three to serve their purchasers for four months.
28—Steamship City of Paris made the trip from Queenstown to Sandy Hook lightship, N. J., in 5 days 19 hours 18 minutes.
31—During the three months ending at date there were exported to England 90,000 head of cattle, 40,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, and 34,000,000 pounds of canned beef.
SEPTEMBER.
3—Empress Augusta of Germany reported to have joined the Catholic Church.
4—The largest bar of gold ever cast was turned out at the Helena (Montana) assay office; it weighs 500 pounds and is worth over $100,000.
5—Slight damage to corn crop reported from frost at various points in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota.
10—Another of London's fallen women found butchered by a mysterious assassin, making the twelfth tragedy of this character in the Whitechapel district.
27—First consignment of Chicago cattle arrived at Mainz, Germany.
OCTOBER.
1—During the year, up to date, 3,111 miles of new railroads were built in the United States.
8—A wife-beater was given thirteen lashes at the public whipping-post in Baltimore—the fifth whipping since the passage of the law in 1882.
11—Axtell, a three-year-old horse, trotted a mile in 2:12 at Terre Haute, and was thereupon purchased for $105,000.
NOVEMBER.
2—Twin stars added to the national constellation by the admission of North and South Dakota to the grand sisterhood of States.
5—M. S. Oakes, of Decatur, Ala., died of hydrophobia from a dog-bite received seventeen years ago.
8—One more State—Montana—formally admitted to the Union by proclamation of the President.
11—Washington, the fourth star of Columbia's new constellation, became a State of the Union.
15—Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, deposed, and a republican form of government established; the old Emperor was ordered to leave Brazil, and will be allowed a certain amount to live on in Europe; he sailed for Lisbon.
18—John Chama, of Pottstown, Pa., cursed his Creator, and fell paralyzed and stricken dumb.
30—In the matter of Moore and other Mormon applicants for citizenship at Salt Lake City, Utah, Judge Anderson rendered a sweeping decision that Mormons who have passed the endowment house cannot become citizens; neither can foreigners who are merely members of the church.
DECEMBER.
8—Alton Bay, N. H., startled by earthquake shocks; crockery and glassware broken in many houses; bell on steamer Mount Washington, in the middle of the bay, rung by the disturbance.
11—Commemoration of the inauguration of George Washington, first President of the United States; Chief Justice Fuller delivers a masterly oration in the House of Representatives, in the presence of the President and various branches of the Government.

ILLUSTRIOUS DEAD.

JANUARY.
1—Colonel John C. Dent, brother of Mrs. General Grant, at Carthage, Mo.
5—David Irwin, who was acquainted with President Washington, and served in the war of 1812; Waseka, Minn., aged 115.
8—Owen Brown, son of John Brown, the Liberator; Pasadena, Cal., aged 64.
11—Alvin B. Taylor, inventor and manufacturer of printing presses....Ex-Congressman O. R. Singleton, of Mississippi.
13—Mrs. Jay Gould, wife of the centi-millionaire....Rev. Dr. Alexander T. McGill, professor of theology at Princeton College.
14—Alessandro Gavazzi, anti-Popery lecturer; London, aged 79.
17—Mme. Ilma Di Murska, opera singer.
20—Isaac Bell, Jr., ex-U. S. Minister to the Netherlands.
23—Congressman James N. Burnes, of Missouri.
30—Archduke Rudolf, Crown Prince of Austro-Hungary, aged 31.
FEBRUARY.
3—Mrs. F. T. Frelinghuysen, widow of the ex-Secretary of State, aged 72.
4—Judge William M. Merrick, Supreme Court District of Columbia.
7—Flora Bowman (colored), at Baltimore, Md., aged 114 years 10 months 12 days.
9—Thomas M. Nichol, the earnest and eccentric advocate of "honest money."
10—Rear Admiral Chandler, U. S. N.
11—General H. M. Hunt, the famous artillerist, and Governor of the Soldiers' Home at Washington.
15—Dr. Holland N. McTyere, senior Bishop of the M. E. Church South.
21—James C. Flood, one of the money kings of California....Dr. D. W. Bliss, who attended President Garfield during the latter's long illness.
23—Joseph H. Lenhart, Supreme Receiver of the Ancient Order of United Workmen.
27—Ex-U. S. Senator John W. Johnston, of Virginia.
MARCH.
3—Ex-Congressman Magoon, of Wisconsin.
5—Miss Mary L. Booth, editor of Harper's Bazar.
8—Capt. John Ericsson, the eminent engineer and designer of the famous ironclad Monitor; New York, aged 86.
9—Congressman R. W. Townshend, of Illinois.
12—Hon. John A. Campbell, ex-Justice United States Supreme Court.
14—Hon. Moses Field, the original Greenback advocate in Michigan....Henry Tamberlik, the celebrated Italian tenor singer.
20—Sir Thomas Gladstone, elder brother of Rt. Hon. William E. Gladstone, aged 85.
22—Associate Justice Stanley Matthews, United States Supreme Court.
27—John Bright, eminent English statesman and philanthropist, aged 78.
31—Major Marcus A. Reno, formerly of the Seventh U. S. Cavalry.
APRIL.
4—Philo Remington, head of the well-known firm of E. Remington & Sons, of Ilion, New York.
9—Rear Admiral T. H. Patterson, U. S. N., retired.
10—David A. Gage, one of Chicago's pioneer citizens, and in early days a popular hotel-keeper.
13—John P. Usher, who was Secretary of the Interior under President Lincoln.
20—Postmaster Henry G. Pearson, of New York City.
21—Don Sebastian Lerdo de Tejada, ex-President of Mexico.
25—Hon. Elijah M. Haines, for many years ex-Speaker and one of the most prominent figures in Illinois politics....L. U. Reavis, whose project to make St. Louis the capital of the nation gained for him the name of "Capital-mover."....Ex-Congressman E. J. Ellis, of Louisiana.
30—Ex-Senator W. H. Barnum, of Connecticut....Carl Rosa, the composer.
MAY.
9—General William Selby Harney, a hero of the Blackhawk and Mexican wars.
12—Hon. Henry A. Foster, ex-U. S. Senator, at Rome, N. Y., aged 89.
13—Washington Irving Bishop, mind-reader.
15—Rear Admiral Donaldson, U. S. N.
16—Hon. Allen Thorndyke Rice, just appointed U. S. Minister to Russia, aged 35.
24—Laura Bridgman, Boston's noted blind and deaf mute, who was made widely famous by Charles Dickens in his "American Notes," aged 59 years.
31—Dr. S. P. Moore, who was Surgeon-General of the Confederate States.
JUNE.
8—Leonard Swett, a distinguished lawyer of Chicago, who was a contemporary and intimate friend of Abraham Lincoln.
17—Rev. William Hosmer, a conspicuous figure in the anti-slavery agitation and one of the first temperance advocates.
20—Gen. A. C. Meyers, late Q. M. General of the Confederate army, who served in the Seminole war in Florida and in the Mexican war....Father John Carroll, of Chicago, the oldest Catholic priest in the United States, and perhaps in the world, aged 93.
23—Rev. Wm. H. Beecher, eldest brother of the late Henry Ward Beecher; at Chicago, aged 87.
25—Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes, wife of ex-President Hayes.
26—Gen. Simon Cameron, the venerable political leader and financier, of Pennsylvania, aged 90.
28—Maria Mitchell, the noted astronomer; Lynn, Mass., aged 70....Carlotta Patti, the third of the Patti sisters, all noted for their wonderful voices.
JULY.
1—Theodore Dwight Woolsey, ex-President of Yale University, aged 88.
5—Hon. John Norquay, ex-Premier of Manitoba.
10—Julia Gardner Tyler, wife of ex-President John Tyler....Bishop J. H. Machebeuf, Prelate of Colorado.
11—Ex-Congressman Edmund Rice, of Minnesota.
14—Hon. A. N. Cole, known as the "Father of the Republican Party;" Wellsville, N. Y., aged 67.
24—Father Curley, of Georgetown (D. C.) College, the oldest priest in the United States, aged 93.
31—Ex-U. S. Senator Edward Henry Rollins, of New Hampshire.
AUGUST.
4—Horace S. Leland, the well-known hotel man; Springfield, Ill., aged 53.
8—Mrs. Dr. Hettie K. Painter, who gained prominence during the rebellion as a nurse, and highly esteemed by the Woman's Relief Corps and G. A. R. men....General Henry Dupont, head of the great Delaware powder house.
16—Joseph Queen, an aged colored man, the original "Old Black Joe" of musical renown; Mount Holly, N. J., aged 112 years.
19—Hon. Charles W. Clisbee, Secretary of the Republican national conventions of 1880, 1884, and 1888; Cassopolis, Mich., aged 56.
25—Henry Shaw, the venerable philanthropist of St. Louis, and founder of the famous botanical gardens....Colonel Alfred Aylward, who fought with the Union forces during the civil war and also with Garibaldi and with the Boers in the Transvaal.
29—George Fawcett Rowe, actor and playwright.
SEPTEMBER.
6—Henry W. Genet, prominent in New York politics during the Tweed regime, and known as "Prince Hal."
9—Tony Delight, a widely known barber missionary of Chicago, aged 60.
10—Congressman Samuel Sullivan Cox, of New York, famous as a statesman, author and wit.
16—Bob Younger, one of the notorious bandit brothers; Stillwater (Minn.) penitentiary.
18—Mrs. Elizabeth S. McClellan, mother of General George B. McClellan; Philadelphia, aged 90.
23—Wilkie Collins, the famous English novelist.
24—Ex-Surgeon General Joseph Beale, U. S. N.
25—General Daniel Harvey Hill, a prominent officer of the Confederate army.
26—Ex-Congressman William Loughbridge, of Iowa.
27—E. G. Bartlett ("Wild Curly"), a famous scout and a survivor of the Mountain Meadow massacre.
29—General Samuel D. Sturgis, U. S. A.
OCTOBER.
17—Ex-Gov. John F. Hartranft, of Pennsylvania.
19—King Luis I. of Portugal, aged 51.
31—M. Tschernischewski, novelist and father of nihilism; St. Petersburg, aged 61.
NOVEMBER.
10—David S. Wambold, the well-known minstrel performer; New York, aged 53.
24—Hon. George H. Pendleton, ex-U. S. Minister to Germany.
29—Martin Farquhar Tupper, well-known poet and prose writer; London, England, aged 79.
DECEMBER.
6—Jefferson Davis, the leader in the great rebellion; New Orleans, La., aged 81.
9—J. B. Rathbone, founder of the order of Knights of Pythias.
10—Mrs. Scott-Lord, sister of Mrs. President Harrison.
11—Gen. David Atwood, proprietor of the Wisconsin State Journal...."Aunt Mary Tyler," the original heroine of the household poem "Mary Had a Little Lamb;" Somerville, Mass., aged 83.
12—Robert Browning, English poet and playwright.
15—Carl Formes, once the greatest basso singer in the world.
21—Benjamin Henry Day, founder of the New York Sun, aged 79.

FLOOD AND FLAMES.

JANUARY.
1—Richardson's drug house at St. Louis, Mo., burned; loss $900,000.
9—A cyclone in Pennsylvania left death and destruction in its path, an unfinished seven-story building at Pittsburgh, a silk-mill at Reading, and a nail-mill at Sunbury being demolished; the loss of life at Reading exceeded forty, mostly young girls; at Pittsburgh twenty perished; and at Sunbury half the working force were killed or injured. The storm created havoc at Niagara Falls, the suspension bridge nearest the falls being carried away and deposited in the river; loss, over $1,000,000. Two gas reservoirs at Brooklyn, N. Y., exploded; loss, $500,000.
FEBRUARY.
2—Fire at Buffalo, N. Y., covered a territory of six acres; losses, about $3,000,000.
4—Collision of steamer Glencoe with bark Largo Bay, off Beachy Head, England; the former sunk, with all on board, fifty-four persons.
16 and 17—The American men-of-war Trenton, Vandalia and Nipsic and the German men-of-war Adler, Olga and Eber were driven on a reef off the Samoan Islands and wrecked; following is a record of the officers and men lost: Eber, the captain and all other officers except one, and seventy-six men; Vandalia, the captain, four officers, and forty men; Nipsic, seven men; Adler, altogether fifteen persons. The loss of property by Germany and the United States was $3,000,000.
18—Mysterious explosion in the Park Central Hotel, Hartford, Conn.; thirty-five or more perish in the blazing ruins.
APRIL.
3—Destructive prairie fires in Dakota; many people perished in the flames; the pecuniary loss exceeded $2,000,000.
19—New York experienced the greatest fire it has had during this generation; one life was lost, many people injured, and $4,000,000 worth of property destroyed.
MAY.
8—Fire at Gokoto-Akita-Ken, Japan; over a score of lives lost, 1,000 houses destroyed, and 10,000 people made homeless.
13—Steamer Alaskan foundered in the Pacific Ocean, off the coast of Oregon; thirty lives lost.
16—St. Sauveur, a suburb of Quebec, almost wiped out by fire; 500 buildings burned, 1,200 families left homeless, with loss of $600,000.
31—Johnstown, Pa., almost completely swept from the face of the earth by the bursting of a reservoir above the town; a strip of country two miles long and half a mile wide devastated by the deluge; over 6,000 lives lost; two ruffians were lynched for having despoiled some of the dead of jewelry; four of these wretches were driven into the river and speedily drowned; loss to property estimated at $30,000,000....Woodvale, Conemaugh, Nineveh, Morrellville, Mineral Point, Cambria, and Conneaut, small towns in the valley of the Conemaugh, were utterly destroyed.
JUNE.
2—The horrors of the Johnstown disaster blinded the world's eyes to the sufferings in other flooded districts; at Williamsport, on the Susquehanna, from 50 to 100 lives were lost, and $7,000,000 worth of property swept away.
6—Business portion of Seattle, the chief city of Washington Territory, reduced to ashes; loss $7,000,000.
12—Fire swept over Grinnell, Iowa, once wrecked by a cyclone; forty-one business houses in ruins; loss, $100,000....Near Armagh, Ireland, a train in which were 1,200 persons, chiefly Methodist Sunday-school children and their teachers, was wrecked, with a loss of seventy-three lives.
JULY.
4—Ellensburg, Wash. Ter., scorched by flames, and ten blocks of the business portion laid in ashes.
7—Bakersfield, a thriving city of Southern California, wiped out by fire; loss, $12,000,000.
10—Fire at Lu Chow, China, burned for twenty-three hours, destroyed 67,000 dwellings, and caused the loss of 1,800 lives, no less than 1,200 persons having burned in the flames.
22—The Yellow River overflowed its banks in the Province of Shantung, China, causing widespread destruction, the number of persons drowned being too great to be counted.
AUGUST.
4—Business portion of the city of Spokane Falls, W. T., destroyed by fire; twenty-five blocks reduced to ashes; loss, $14,000,000.
20—Great floods in Japan, which destroyed the city of Wakayamo; 10,000 persons drowned.
22—Much damage done by gales on the English coast; severe hailstorms passed over Austria; many persons killed; heavy storms in France caused much damage.
24—Famine prevailed at Khartoum, Kassola, Tokar, and other river towns of Egypt, causing many deaths from starvation, and forcing the survivors to become cannibals.
26—In an earthquake at Khenzorik, on the Russian frontier, 129 persons were buried alive.
SEPTEMBER.
5—Explosion in colliery near Edinburgh, Scotland; sixty-two miners entombed.
6—Explosion of dynamite in a cartridge factory at Antwerp, Belgium's commercial city; 160 persons killed, 250 seriously hurt, and 300 slightly wounded.
9—Damage to property aggregating millions of dollars was caused by a storm that swept the Atlantic coast for two days; Coney Island, with all its pretty summer resorts, was one magnificent wreck; the hurricane in New York City was phenomenal in its severity; eight feet of water on the race-track at Brighton Beach.
19—Landslide at Quebec; thirty persons killed.
OCTOBER.
16—Explosion in Bentilee colliery at Longton, England; sixty unfortunates buried.
NOVEMBER.
1—Fifty women and girls crushed to death by falling walls of a carpet factory at Glasgow, Scotland.
26—Fire in the Bay State shoe town of Lynn utterly destroyed all the factories, stores, and dwellings in Ward Four; loss, $10,000,000; 8,000 operatives thrown out of employment.
28—Boston, Mass., visited by a great fire; loss, $6,000,000.
DECEMBER.
3—Collapse of a platform of a theater at Wienhen, province of Shantung, China, during a performance; 200 persons killed.

DIED BY LEGAL PROCESS.

JANUARY.
3—Robert Elder at May's Landing, N. J.
25—John Yancey at Yanceyville, N. C....Charles McGill at Cameron, Texas....Jas. Seames at Eutaw, Ala....Ed Fry at Marietta, Ga....Charles Blackman at Ellaville, Ga.
FEBRUARY.
8—James Ross at Brandenburg, Ky.
15—John Lee at Alexandria, Minn.
MARCH.
14—Virgil Jackson at Utica, N. Y.
15—Willis Green, Anderson Mitchell, and Daniel Jones at Arkadelphia, Ark.
22—Tim and Pete Barrett at Minneapolis, Minn....Monroe Wilkinson at Scottville, Ky.
29—Jud Pritchett at Chatham, Va.
APRIL.
18—John H. Swift at Hartford, Conn.
19—Sylvester Grubb at Vincennes, Ind....Malachi Allen and Jim Mills at Fort Smith, Ark.
26—Cæsar Frazier at Charleston, S. C.
MAY.
10—Three notorious Bald-Knobbers, Dave Walker, his son William, and John Matthews, at Ozark, Mo.
17—Nelson Colbert at Washington, D. C.
JUNE.
14—Alexander Henderson at Banbridge, Ga....Will Dibell at Thomasville, Ga....John Pickett at Leesburg, Ga.
18—Hardy Hamilton at Rome, Ga.
21—Andrew Grimes at May's Landing, N. J.
25—Michael Rizello at Wilkesbarre, Pa....Mrs. Sarah Jane Whiteling at Philadelphia, Pa.
27—Junis Labee at Paterson, N. J.
JULY.
10—John Kelly at Canandaigua, N. Y.
13—Thomas Jefferson at Memphis, Tenn....Charles Wirt at Somerville, Tenn.
19—Albert Bulow at Little Falls, Minn.
26—Charles Sellers at Rayville, La....Tom Bowling at Baton Rouge, La.
31—Charles Dilger and Harry Smart at Louisville, Ky.
AUGUST.
9—George D. Bryson at Bowlder, Montana.
23—Four men—Patrick Packenham, James Nolan, John Lewis, and Ferdinand Carolin—hanged on one scaffold in the Tombs jail yard, New York City. All had murdered women—two their wives and two others their mistresses....Jim McCoy at San Antonio, Texas.
SEPTEMBER.
7—George Allen at Charleston, Miss.
20—Thomas Brown at Moorhead, Minn.
OCTOBER.
16—William Drager and John Olson at Placerville, Cal.
23—Pietro Baranovski at Pottsville, Pa.
NOVEMBER.
8—Louis Nugent at Baton Rouge, La....Willie Williams at Abbeville, Ga....Pig G. Vann at Summerville, Ga.
13—Joseph Hillman at Woodbury, N. J.
15—Peter Sullivan at Canyon City, Oregon.
29—W. A. Harvey at Guelph, Ont.
DECEMBER.
6—John Theodore Wild, alias Greenwald, at Brooklyn, N. Y.
13—Thomas Spooner at Port Allen, La.

JUDGE LYNCH'S COURT.

JANUARY.
4—Bud Spears, near Meridian, Miss.
7—At Gilman, Wash. Ter., an Italian with the assumed name of Albert Schaffer.
10—Isaac Wills, at New Florence, Mo.
15—George Meadows, at Pratt Mines, Ala.
16—Henry Thomas, at Bolar, Mo.
FEBRUARY.
4—George Haggerman, at Schuyler, Neb.
MARCH.
14—Magruder Fletcher, at Tasley, Va.
APRIL.
3—Buck Newton at Lebanon, Tenn.
5—John Wolfenberger at Rutledge, Tenn.
14—George Driggs at Hempstead, Texas.
27—Unknown negro at New Iberia, La.
29—Scott Bailey at Halifax Court House, Va.
MAY.
21—Noah Dickson at Walnut Grove, Ala.
27—Albert Martin at Port Huron, Mich.
30—John T. Newell and George Babcock at Ainsworth, Neb.
JUNE.
3—Pat Cleary at Lincoln, Kan....Dick Connelly and —— Huey, near Oyyka, La.
12—E. R. Reynolds and Thomas J. Lloyd at Huntsville, Tenn.
13—James Deavin and Charles Tennyson at Corydon, Ind.
19—Alf Crizzard, alias Hawkins, at Tiptonville, Tenn.
23—Tony and —— Cravasso, brothers, at Pineville, Ky.
25—Thomas Ardell at Shepherdsville, Ky.
JULY.
11—Felix Keyes at Lafayette, La.
21—Kate Maxwell, the noted "Cattle Queen," and her partner, James Averill, postmaster, at Sweetwater River, Wyo....Two Mexican horse-thieves near Kelly, N. M.
23—Dan Malone at Covington, Ga.
23—George Lewis near Belden, Texas.
26—Joseph Chaca, at Wallace, N. M....James Kelly at Paris, Ky.
AUGUST.
11—Two brothers named Hollis in McDowell County, Kentucky.
14—Fred Loshman at Roslyn, Wyoming.
17—Walter Asbury near Savannah, Ga.
30—John Turner at Fayetteville, W. Va.
SEPTEMBER.
4—Warren Powers at East Point, Ga....Four ringleaders of a riotous mob of negroes at Shell Mound, Miss.
7—George Bush at Columbia, Mo.
27—John Steel at Birmingham, Ala.
OCTOBER.
15—Robert Berrier at Lexington, N. C.
[illegible]—James Hickey in Chilton County, Alabama.
[illegible]—Jos Harold near Columbus, Miss.
[illegible]—Green McCoy and Milton Haley at Hamlin, Ky.
NOVEMBER.
8—Owen Anderson at Leesburg, Va.
14—George Washington near McComb, Miss.
24—Hans Olson at Preston, Wis.
DECEMBER.
3—Joe Vermillion, at Upper Marlboro, Md.
10—In Johnson County, Wyoming, eleven members of Kettle Jack's gang of horsethieves and cut-throats.
19—"Doc" Jones, at Owensboro, Ky.

BRAZIL NOT ALL SERENE

RUMORS OF ANOTHER POPULAR UPRISING.

The Provisional Government Said Not to Inspire Confidence Among the Friends of Dom Pedro—Minister Barboza Declares the Safety of the Republic Is Assured.

The steamship Savona, which has recently arrived at New York from Brazilian ports, reports that the people of Santos are divided in their adherence to the republic, a large number favoring the exiled Emperor. There was nothing new to report at Rio Janeiro, and quietness prevailed at Cerea.

Capt. Fisher of the steamship Sirius, which left Rio Janeiro Dec. 4, reports that several foreign warships, among them the United States steamer Richmond, had arrived in the harbor, and that quietness reigned in the city, but that a riot had taken place in the Rio Grande district, although no particulars could be learned up to the time of sailing.

A Washington special says that Brazilians in the United States look for trouble in the new republic. The reluctance of some of the most prominent liberals to give their adhesion to the provisional government of Da Fonseca is taken as an indication that these men have intimated that it would be advisable to ascertain whether the new authorities are entitled to general confidence or whether they have undertaken something that they are not strong enough to carry out. They regard the refusal of Don Jose Mariano of Pernambuco to accept the Governorship of that province as very significant. Mariano is described as a man of immense influence, and it is said that if he should advise the people of Pernambuco to withdraw from the republic they would do so and would be joined by neighboring provinces in establishing a new government of the north. There is no fear of intervention by Germany or any other European power, as it is believed that a hostile demonstration against Brazil would bring all the provinces together and develop a unity of the South American republics that would be astonishing and perhaps unprofitable to all foreign nations interested in Brazilian affairs.

Private cables to merchants here report that exchange has declined 3½ pence since Dom Pedro was deposed. Rubber has advanced from 2,200 to 2,400 reis. There is only a fortnight's supply of rubber in stock, and should trouble occur in Brazil it is feared that rubber factories will be forced to shut down.

A Washington special says: The following telegram from Ruy Barboza, the new Brazilian minister of finance, has been received at the Brazilian legation:

"From cablegrams we learn that, unfortunately, there is no speculation from newsmongers against us which is not credited in Europe, in spite of all our warnings against this sort of conspiracy. Reports about mutiny of corps of artillery false; only mutiny of a few soldiers. Immediately suppressed. The aggravation of Gen Fonseca's illness not true; on the contrary, he is recovering speedily from his former complaints. In the army itself the revolution can rely on other chiefs of great prestige and no less devoted to the cause. All the different political parties have espoused with enthusiasm the term fixed (Nov. 15, 1890,) for the meeting of the constituent assembly, they considering by this act the stability of the republic insured. Beware of newsmongers."

Later Minister Valente received another cablegram from Senhor Barboza, giving the reasons why it was impossible to call the constituent assembly before November.

Rio de Janeiro cable: The government has issued a decree providing that all persons found endeavoring to corrupt the allegiance of the soldiers or contriving or proposing any measure for active opposition to the republic shall be tried by a military tribunal. An opposition journal was suspended on Tuesday.

The government at Para has established a monopoly of the india-rubber trade. Many of the export houses—chiefly American and French—doing business amounting to 300,000,000 francs yearly have sent protests to the legations of their respective countries. M. Spuller, the French foreign minister, has telegraphed to the French minister in Brazil for details.

CALIFORNIA FLOODS.

Widespread Destruction by Washouts and Overflows.

A Los Angeles dispatch says: Railroad communications are cut off in all directions as a result of the heavy rainfall. The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe people report washouts and landslides and bridges washed away in many places. The road across the Mojave desert is badly demoralized, as is the case also on the line between this city and the Tehachapi mountains. Over seven miles of the Southern Pacific track on the San Pedro branch are under water. The railroad superintendents state that they do not know when trains will be running, as it is still raining. The Southern Pacific reports their loss, so far as known, on tracks and bridges at $150,000. The Santa Fe say their loss is $200,000. The damage in this city is great. Many streets are impassable. The last train on the Southern Pacific road from the East and North arrived Monday. The railroad bridge across the San Gabriel river at El Modena is gone. Supt. Muir says that trains will not go through to San Francisco for days—at least five. Los Angeles, San Gabriel and New San Gabriel rivers overflowed the land between them forming one river, which is rushing to the ocean, doing much damage. A lake five miles in extent was formed on the Laguna ranch. Serious washouts occurred in Soledad canyon, where five miles of country are under twenty feet of water.

Several stretches of 1,000 feet on each side of the railroad track are washed out, and one iron and many wooden bridges have been washed away. It will take a week to place the track in running order.

A Tehachapi (Cal.) dispatch says: The Southern Pacific is open as far as the south side in Soledad canyon. From there to the Santa Clara river the track is gone for several miles, with the bridge across the river. Within the last twenty hours six work trains, with 600 men and loaded with material, hurried south, Supt. Pratt being with the last one. Both bridges are gone over the Los Angeles river. The road for through trains can not be opened with reasonable weather for some days. The Atlantic & Pacific lost a bridge across the Mojave river at Barstow yesterday, and slides are reported at Cajon pass. It was raining to-day and no mails have been received for three days.

PRINTERS WILL STRIKE.

Compositors on the Philadelphia Morning Papers Demand an Increase.

Typographical union No. 2, of Philadelphia, at a meeting, has decided to strike by a vote of 245 to 20. The union demanded 45 cents per 1,000 ems instead of 40 cents from the morning papers, which was refused. To-day's decision must be submitted to the International union, and if they approve the strike will then take place. E. T. Plank, of Indianapolis, the International president, was present at the meeting to-day.

MANY MINERS IDLE.

About 14,000 Without Work in One Pennsylvania District.

At Scranton, Pa., the announcement is made that the Erie railroad mines will close down, and also fifteen of the Delaware and Hudson mines in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys, which, with the individual operators who will shut down and the idle operatives of the Pennsylvania Coal company and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western company, will leave 14,000 men and boys in this region alone without work.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT
RED
CLOVER BLOSSOM
THE GREAT Blood Purifier.
PURE AND EFFICACIOUS.
TRADE MARK
IT CURES
Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.
PRICE, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.
J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
CELEBRATED
WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, ETC.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR
ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO, | 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. | 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write
WM. T. LINDLEY & CO.,
214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAN, Treas. Woman's Exchange.
CHICAGO, Dec. 1 '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co.
JOS. M. NORRIS, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.
BUFFALO, N.Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years, BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.
ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av.
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTERSON, D'gs 109 S. B'way.
Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES.
Chicago Times, March 28, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.
Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS
75 CTS. PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS
A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA
☞ One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. ☞ It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,
GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.
☞ Always mention this paper.

MY SHIP.

BY F. LLEWALD BRUCE.

My ship is on the bay,
Sailing, sailing fast away;
She spread her wings at break of day
Toward the sun, and sailed away
O'er the ocean wide.

Will she meet tempestuous gales?
Will gentle breezes fill her sails?
Will they greet her with hearty hail
When they see her approaching sail
On the other side?

'Twas a message sweet that she bore
To my love on a foreign shore.
As I ponder it o'er and o'er,
My ship speeds on to the other shore.
I, waiting, stay.

My ship comes back from o'er the sea,
Bringing this message home to me:
My love is true, from o'er the sea,
She's coming back again to me,
God speed the day.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER II.

WHO WAS HE?

Every one now was eager to examine the ladder.

But they had been forestalled by Mr. Hasnip. That active officer had already thrown open the window in the passage, hard by the red notice-board, which bore a gilt hand and the inscription, "To the fire-escape." Just under the window was a narrow step, surrounded by an iron hand-rail, below which was the usual small ladder, with the rungs let in close to the brick-work; a difficult method of descent, which none but an acrobat or burglar would willingly use, unless driven to it by an imperious desire to escape from pressing danger.

Duty, or curiosity, or both, sent the detective down the ladder hand-over-hand, and I stood with the manager at the window watching him descend.

He stopped suddenly and threw up his head.

"Why, it's broken!" he cried, as he quickly climbed up again and in at the window.

"Then there can be no question that the fire-escape was not used as a means of exit?" I said, rather triumphantly. "That brings us back to my first proposition. The murder was committed by some one inside the hotel."

"You advance that statement very positively, my dear Mr. Leslie," said some one behind, placing his hand familiarly on my shoulder.

"I turned and found myself face to face with the chief constable of the borough police, a man with whom I had something more than a nodding acquaintance. He had been extremely useful to me in a legal matter altogether foreign to the present narrative, and I had expressed my gratitude so warmly that a certain amount of intimacy had sprung up between us.

"Mine is only an unofficial opinion, Mr. Smart. You may take it for what it is worth."

"It is far too early to express opinions." said the chief constable, rather abruptly. "Forgive me, Mr. Leslie," he went on, half apologetically, "but it is time for the law to take this horrible affair in hand. Mr. Gray, I must ask you to allow me to clear the bedroom and the passage. There are too many people about."

The constable was accompanied by a couple of policemen in uniform, to whom he issued a few short orders. Within ten minutes none of the crowd of eager and mostly excited busybodies remained but the doctor and myself.

Mr. Smart was a rather stout, smooth-faced man with long gray whiskers and the well-to-do, altogether respectable appearance of a prosperous tradesman or commercial traveler; one of those placid, easy-going people, who are sometimes a little too self-satisfied and apt to depreciate the efforts and opinions of others.

We were still in the bedroom—the manager of the hotel, Mr. Gray, one of the waiters, whom he called Cornelis, and kept to convey messages, Dr. Peard, Captain Fawcett, the chief constable, Hasnip and myself.

"I don't want to stay here longer than can be helped, but there are one or two little things I should like to know," said the chief constable.

"Are you going to hold an inquiry?" asked Mr. Gray. "If so, you had better come down-stairs to one of the sitting-rooms. Run, Cornelis——"

"Stay, we will all go down together. I only want to look at the corpse again and ask the doctor one or two questions, privately, of course. The official inquiry will be conducted by the Coroner. He has summoned a jury and will be here very shortly to open the inquest."

The corpse still lay on the floor.

"It had better be laid on the bed," said Mr. Smart.

"Lend a hand, Hasnip, and you"—to the waiter.

But the latter shrunk from the unpleasant duty and showed a not strange reluctance to touch the body.

"Why, Cornelis," said the manager to him, "you're growing very squeamish."

"I am always afraid of such things," he confessed, frankly. "I obey, if you order, but it makes me shiver."

The man—evidently a foreigner, although I was not certain of his nationality—was trembling visibly, and his face was very white. It was naturally a pale face, and with his pale, straw-colored hair and white eyebrows he might have been an albino. Now the little color natural to his countenance had altogether disappeared.

"You're not the first man who has hesitated to touch a corpse," said the doctor, in a kindly, reassuring way. "It is more in my line, perhaps. Come, we will lift it together," he added, to the detective.

"I want you to tell me the cause of death. Yes, yes; I know you have given your opinion positively, but I want it verified by ocular demonstration.

"In that case it will be necessary to strip the body."

"Let us do so." The clothes were removed gently and the corpse laid on its stomach.

"The shape of the orifice indicates that the knife was double-edged toward the point, becoming triangular with a flat back near the haft."

"Ah!" said Mr. Smart, gently; "an English knife?"

"Possibly; it might have been a surgical knife, a bistoury, or even a dagger."

"This is a point that will have to be looked more into by and by," said Mr. Smart to his assistant, Hasnip.

The detective nodded and whispered a few words into his chief's ear.

"Yes, yes, of course; I was going to tell you so," said Mr. Smart, aloud. "I think now we will adjourn," he went on. "You can give us a sitting-room, Gray, I think you said?"

"Yes; on the next floor," said the manager.

"May I go with you?" I asked.

This strange case began to possess an extraordinary fascination for me.

"All right; let's hear what the Chief is after, and then we'll go back."

We were still the same party in the sitting-room, except for Captain Fawcett, who had disappeared.

"I should like to know who first found out what had occurred," said Mr. Smart, seating himself magisterially at a table in the center of the room, while we ranged ourselves around.

"The chambermaid."

"Is she here?"

Emma Jones was called in.

"You were the first, I hear, to find the body. What took you to No. 99?"

She was a chubby-cheeked, robust country girl, in a pink cotton dress and neat cap. Her face still wore a look of startled, horrified surprise, and her fright increased at his abrupt question.

"Don't be afraid, my girl. Tell me all you know," went on the chief constable, more kindly. "What took you to No. 99, I ask, this morning?"

"He (the corpse) was to be called at half-past six. It was down on the board."

"Had you called him?"

"Yes, sir, punctually."

"Had he answered?"

"No, sir; but that often happens. I thought he was asleep."

"And you went away?"

"Yes, sir."

"But you came back to No. 99? You must have, to find the body."

"Oh, yes, sir; I came back about half-past 8 or 9."

"On purpose? What brought you?"

"I was only passing, but I saw the door ajar."

"Ha!" The exclamation was mine. But Mr. Smart held up his hand.

"The door was ajar. Was it so at half-past six?"

"Oh, no, sir," she said, quickly.

"You are sure?"

"Quite sure, sir; at least I think I am quite sure."

"A great deal depends on this." Mr. Smart looked at me and I saw plainly that his thoughts and mine followed the same line. "You must try and recollect positively." Hasnip, in spite of himself, looked disappointed. "Remember what you have told me. At 6:30 the door was——"

"Closed. I am almost certain——"

"Only almost certain? That won't do, my dear. Stay. Let me help you to fix your memory. You say you knocked at the door. Hard?"

"Yes, with my knuckles; hard enough to be heard inside."

"Then the door, if it had been open, would have given way. Did it?"

"No, sir, it didn't give way."

"Then you can no longer have any doubt that it was closed at 6:30?"

"I suppose not, sir," she said, with her eyes cast down. It was clear that she was not absolutely convinced, although she had admitted as much.

"Well, now, go on, my dear," continued Mr. Smart. "At any rate you found the door ajar at 8:30 or 9."

"I am certain of that, sir."

"And what did you do?"

"I knocked again."

"Did you think No. 99 was still there, asleep?"

"No, sir; I thought he had gone down-stairs, and I wanted to make sure before going into the room."

"You got no answer?"

"No answer, sir; so I went in."

"Meaning to do up the room?"

"Yes, sir."

"And then you found——"

The chambermaid turned very white at the recollection of the horrid sight that had met her gaze on entering the bedroom and could only give a low, almost inarticulate reply.

"Well, well, I won't press you. I understand; and I think that will do for the present," said the chief constable. "You will have to tell the coroner all this, my good girl; remember that, and mind you, don't vary your story."

"The chambermaid throws a new and very important light on this mysterious affair," I could not refrain from saying.

"No more hasty conclusions, I beg," quickly interposed Mr. Smart.

"Some person," I went on, looking hard at the detective, "passed the door of No. 99, between 6:30 and 9. He—or she—may have gone out then for the first time after the murder. That may have been his—or her—first chance of getting away. Or he—or she—may have gone back——"

"Rather risky," said the detective, with a laugh that seemed uneasy.

"The object in view was perhaps worth the risk. It might have been to pick up and remove some clew, some article or paper dropped or forgotten, and only missed when afterward brooding over the deed."

"This is all pure conjecture," put in the chief constable, more and more displeased, as I thought, at the freedom which the various points in the argument were discussed.

"It will be very awkward and perplexing if all papers have been removed," I went on. "We may have no other means of identification. Don't you"—to the manager—"don't you know anything of the murdered man?"

"Next to nothing, I believe," replied the manager. "We have his name—the name he gave us on taking his room yesterday—and his address—London; but that is all."

"Identification is very necessary, I presume?" the Doctor inquired.

"Essential. Indispensable," said the chief constable, warming with his subject. "We shall never arrive at a solution of the mystery in any other way. Given the man's name, antecedents, ways of life, friends, associates, and so forth, and we shall obtain a clew to the causes of the crime. Every great crime has its mainspring. Fear, passion, or greed; it is one of these three that has led to the commission of ninety-five per cent. of the murders known."

"There must be two to make a quarrel, and the second person, the dead man, would thus have been on his guard; forewarned, in fact. But it may safely be presumed that he was taken unawares, eh, Doctor?"

"Quite so. The blow was struck in the back, secretly and without warning, I should say."

"This conclusion disposes of a fight or struggle. Passion may, therefore, be also eliminated from the motives of the crime, I think, Mr. Smart?"

"It is impossible to deny your logic, Mr. Leslie. All causes seem excluded, then, but fear."

"Fear of what?"

"Fear of some compromising revelations. The dead man had the murderer in his power; perhaps knew something to his or her discredit; was in possession of some damning fact, and threatened exposure."

"A case of blackmail, in fact."

"Possibly. But this is still mere conjecture, of course."

"To accept it we must show that the murdered man had relations, was more or less intimately acquainted, in fact, with other persons staying in the hotel. Yet so far the evidence is all the other way."

"He was alone in the hotel, certainly," said the manager.

"Had no friends here?"

"So far as we know, none."

"Was he absolutely solitary? Did he speak to nobody?"

"They tell me that is the fact. I have inquired within the last half-hour from the head-waiter and others."

The foreign waiter, Cornelis, was still present, and had heard the whole of our arguments. I fancied as the talk turned upon the loneliness of the dead man that a look of dissent crossed the waiter's white, pasty face. It was very fugitive, and was not followed by any remark tending to elucidate this last point, whether or not the dead man had friends or acquaintances in the hotel; but it was sufficient to make me resolve to subject Cornelis to a little dexterous cross-examination by and by.

CHAPTER III.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN.

At the end of the dialogue already recorded—and it was more a desultory conversation than an inquiry—Hasnip, in obedience to a look from his chief, rose and left the room. I followed immediately, and overtook the detective as he was close to No. 99. He was unlocking the door when I asked:

"May I go in with you?"

He looked at me curiously.

"Well, as a rule, I like best to work alone. I don't care for help. Advice, suggestions, and all that only put me off my business."

"Work alone, if you like, with all my heart. Only don't prevent me from working, too. Let each go on our own way, until, at least, you wish it otherwise."

"That's fair enough," said Hasnip, more cordially. "Anyhow, come in."

We entered the bedroom.

"I think it will be the best to lock the door inside," went on the detective. "We shall be safe from all interruption then."

To be locked in a room with the corpse of a murdered man, even when that room was brightened by the full rays of a September sun, and filled with the sounds of life in progress upon the beach below, was enough to make one shudder. I could not prevent myself from looking at the bed. It was there—the body—a white mass, covered decently with a clean sheet, motionless but not shapeless, telling its story of death and horror only too plainly.

My companion meanwhile had set to work in a business-like manner. He had evidently been taught to conduct a search as part of his profession; and while I was lingering, sentimentally gazing at the bed, he had gone straight to the dead man's portmanteau, which he had opened without difficulty.

There were a few shirts, a suit of clothes, a pair of thin shoes, a collar-box of cardboard, and that was literally all. Not a scrap of paper, nothing whatever, written or printed, to help us in our inquiry. The linen was not marked. The only reference to the owner was an address label—a piece of coarse yellow paper—pasted on the top.

This label bore the name, "Joseph Cooch," with the words, "Passenger to London," underneath, the whole written in a large, straggling hand.

"He has a foreign look, rather; so has his handwriting. This name under which he was registered at the hotel was probably false," I said.

"We shall know where he hails from when we know what brought him here; and I expect we shall have to wait till then before we lay hands on his murderer," replied Hasnip.

He bundled the clothes back into the portmanteau and dropped on to his knee. At this moment he was near the dressing-table, with his back to the light. In this attitude he crawled slowly along the carpet, inch by inch, circling round the hideous spot in the center where the half-dried pool of blood still stained the floor, and ending at the bed. He searched the whole room in this way, and last of all lifted the valance of the bed and disappeared underneath.

I, on the other hand, having thus watched the detective for a time, began to work on my own account. I stood erect where I was, and made a slow, careful survey of the room, its furniture, and its fittings throughout, from the door to the window. As my eye rested on the latter meditatively, I remembered that it gave upon a balcony. It was an ordinary window, but the panes were of plate glass, and the lower sash reached to the floor.

With the idea of further investigating the balcony I approached the window, and found to my surprise that it was open a few inches from the ground. How long had this been the case? From the early morning? It was impossible to fix this with any certainty at the moment, but I knew that if the window had been open at the time of our first irruption into No. 99, the fact had escaped my observation, and, so far as I knew, that of every one else. The point of the open window was one to note for future consideration, closely affecting as it did the question of access to the death chamber.

Meanwhile, as Hasnip was still under the bed, I lifted the sash and stepped out on to the balcony. As the manager had said, it did not serve No. 99 alone. That room was at the end of a corridor; it was really a corner room in the northern flank of the building. The Grand Hotel, Bythesea, consisted of a central block, with two square flanks slightly in advance of the center. The balcony I now stood on encircled one of these squares, and was apparently an external means of communication with all the rooms belonging to this part of the building, an important fact, bearing closely on this same question of access to No. 99.

I did not think it fair to pursue this fresh scent alone, and I turned to re-enter the bedroom. As my foot was on the window sill, something lying amid the long hair of the wool-mat below, and glittering in the sunlight, caught my eye. I stooped at once and picked up a tortoise-shell hairpin.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Queer Salutations.

The Hindoo falls in the dust before his superior.

The Chinaman dismounts when a great man goes by.

It is common in Arabia Petræa to put cheek to cheek.

In Germany brothers kiss each other every time they meet.

Germans consider it an act of politeness to kiss a lady's hand.

A Japanese removes his sandals, crosses his hands, and cries out, "Spare me."

The Burmese pretend to smell of a person's face, pronounce it sweet, and ask for "a smell."

A striking salutation in the South Sea Islands is to fling a jar of water over the head of a friend.

Russians consider it the proper thing to press their lips to the foreheads of the ladies they know intimately.

The Australian natives practice the singular custom, when meeting, of sticking out their tongues at each other.

In some of the South Sea islands the natives spit on their hands and then rub the face of the complimented person.

The Arabs hug and kiss each other, making simultaneously a host of inquiries about each other's health and prospects.

The Turk crosses his hands upon his breast and makes a profound obeisance, thus manifesting his regard without coming into personal contact with its object.

A Moorish gentleman rides at his friends at a gallop, shoots his pistol, and fancies that he has done everything in the line of courtesy which can be expected of him.

An Englishman, meeting his brother after twenty years of separation, will say: "How do you do, Jack?" will shake hands, and will be quite contented with an answering, "How are you?"

The savages of the Pacific Ocean rub each other's noses to show their friendship, varying this peculiar greeting by rubbing their faces against the hands or feet of those for whom they wish to show their respect and affection.

In Siam a man throws himself on the ground and waits to see whether he will be raised up and welcomed or kicked away, the choice of receptions being usually made according to the personal cleanliness of the saluter.

A race known as the Kalmucks resort to a salute very similar to that of the Esquimaux. They, too, rub noses; but before they reach the same spot they sink upon their knees and creep together, when the salutation culminates in an energetic contact of the olfactory organs.

IF you stay awake all night you will be sleepy next day.

A TRAGEDY IN HIGH LIFE.

BY A. C. GRISSOM.

PERCY was hanging on the front gate at the home of his only love, softly whistling to her to come forth and chin him a spell.

Percy was very happy, for he had just given his rival, Jamison Tough, the cold shake around the corner, and he was fondly anticipating the sweetness of the coming chat with his darling Belinda.

He did not know that Jamison Tough was approaching stealthily on the opposite side of the street, clasping a suspicious-looking something in his right hand, and wearing on his ghoulish face, as a sort of mask, a savage scowl.

Now Belinda was very swell, and would never have come forth to the gate to meet Percy, but Percy was boycotted by Belinda's pa, and their meetings were therefore clandestine.

As Percy whistled, the door of the mansion softly opened and Belinda came tripping out.

Percy was in raptures.

The ferocious Jamison Tough, on the opposite side of the street, was stirred to madness. With a horrible imprecation he raised his arm, aimed at Percy's head——

Percy heard a loud report, and Belinda staggered, covered her face with her hands, and shrieked. "I am shot! I am shot!"

Jamison Tough, after his deed, disappeared in the darkness.

Percy would have run to the aid of his only love, but her papa suddenly arrived on the scene and he was forced to hastily decamp. He was in an agony to know the extent of her injury and who was the dastard who had perpetrated the crime.

The solution of the mystery was not reached by him until a few days afterward, when Belinda's little brother suffered himself to be bribed.

Belinda had received the bad egg intended for Percy.

On Business.

The Governor of Georgia had just dismissed a delegation of Prohibitionists, when a card bearing the name "Judge J. T. W. Madison" was handed him. The chief executive was very tired, having been harassed with dry speeches, and would have sent down an excuse, but the high-sounding name on the card bespoke a visitor of importance; so, wearily yielding, he told the porter to show the gentleman up. A few moments later one of the most deeply colored gentlemen in the State stepped into the room.

"Dis yere de gubner?"

"Yes. What do you want?"

"I's called on bizness, sah. I's er jedge down——"

"You are a judge?"

"Yes, Justice o' de Peace down in de swamp districk."

"Well, state your business with me as quickly as you can."

"I'll do it, sah. Caze dat's whut I come yere fur. Lemme see, now. Oh, yas. Some time ago, sah, I had er man named Sam Bly 'rested an' tried for stealin' co'n. I tried him myse'f and fined him four hundred dollars an' six munts in jail. Dis wuz all satisfactory, 'specially ter me, but de blame lawyer he tuck er 'peal ter de circus cou't. Now, sah, my bizness wid you is dis yere: Ef you's got any 'fluence wid de jedge o' dat circus cou't, I wush you'd drap him a few lines an' tell him ter send dat case back ter me. Now, is you got much 'fluence wid dat judge?"

"You old scoundrel, get out of here or I will have you thrown out.'

"Jest wait er minit, sah; jest wait er minit. I know dat nigger stole dat co'n, an' I know dat he wants ter take er 'peal just so he ken skape de justice dat is atter him. Dar's anuder thing: Dat nigger is er mighty p'litical bother down dar an' de folks wants ter git rid o' him till atter de leckshun—knows da does, er da wouldn't er promised me er hunnud dollars ter send him up. Now, it's er gubnor's duty ter do whut de folks wants him ter do an'—hol' on, hol' on, I'll go. Neber seed sich times ez dese comin' ober folks. Hol' on, fur I'se dun gone."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Hints for Amateur Sportsmen.

An excellent treatment for a bullet wound is to wash the wound clean and cover with clean muslin saturated with a solution of carbolic acid or alcohol. The great object is to keep the wound clean and protected from the air. Do not foolishly probe for the bullet. It can be better extracted after the healing of the wound.

To extract fish hooks from your flesh or clothing cut the leader free and push the hook on through, depressing the upper end so as to bring the point out as near as possible to where it went in. Don't try to pull the hook back over the barb.

Thirst can be abated by the eating of acid fruits or plants. The chewing of twigs, barks or leaves of trees and shrubs will also afford temporary relief. Snow and ice aggravate the thirst by chilling and closing the salivary glands.

Learn to shoot without closing your eyes when you pull the trigger. Beginners will find it hard to do this, but it must be done.

In sighting either shotgun or rifle the left eye should be closed, except in the case of left-handed persons; then the right eye should be closed. Some men keep both eyes open, but the majority of shooters and all the crack shots close the left eye.

An extra pair of socks are handy on a one-day out trip. Then, with your shoes nicely dried at my lady host's fire you will be in comfort for the next morning on your way home.

Avoid sleeping in close rooms. Keep the apartment well ventilated. Let in fresh air, but keep out the draught.

When out shooting carry a small square of shamois skin saturated with pure oil. Then you are prepared to well-grease your gun in case of a rainstorm.—Nature.

Didn't Want to Be an Angel.

"I say, Jones, what's the matter with you? You're as uneasy as a fish out of water; can't sit still a minute."

"Oh, it's smoking that makes me so nervous."

"Well, why don't you quit it, then?"

"The fact is I've given up all my other bad habits and I don't want to be an angel."

"Well, why don't you risk it, anyway?"—National Weekly.

NATURE is upheld by antagonism. Passions, resistance, danger, are educators. We acquire the strength we have overcome.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
CURE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing
SICK
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured
HEAD
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head
ACHE
Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.
Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING!
HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.
By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.
Octavo, 600 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.
WE ESPECIALLY INVITE
LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS.
to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.
(When writing, mention this paper.)
CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's
MEMORY
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD
In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address
Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y

FOR MEN ONLY!
VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *3 30	pm *8 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 00	pm ‡3 35
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 20	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark..........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus.....ar	1 30	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	11 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 05	10 03
Deshler..........	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 23	5 48	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn Jc.........	......	6 40	11 34	10 23	3 58
Avilla............	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford Jc.......	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 15
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *3 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford Jc.......	......	......	11 00	2 03	8 23
Avilla............	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn Jc........	......	7 05	12 38	3 22	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 45
Mansfield........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 53	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday.
‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

G. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era............	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn..............	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo...........	12 50	5 42	9 28
Summit..............	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake......	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola..............	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont............	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading............	2 04	7 04	2 10
Bankers............	2 15	7 15	2 30
Hillsdale..........	2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville.........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson............	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson............	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville.........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale..........	......	12 30	7 45
Bankers............	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading............	10 03	1 17	8 11
Fremont............	11 26	1 35	8 40
Angola..............	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake......	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit..............	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo...........	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn..............	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era............	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne.........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..............2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express...............5:45 am—Daily.
Detroit Accom................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express...............1:22 am..Daily
Logansport Accom............6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express...............12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim......5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES,
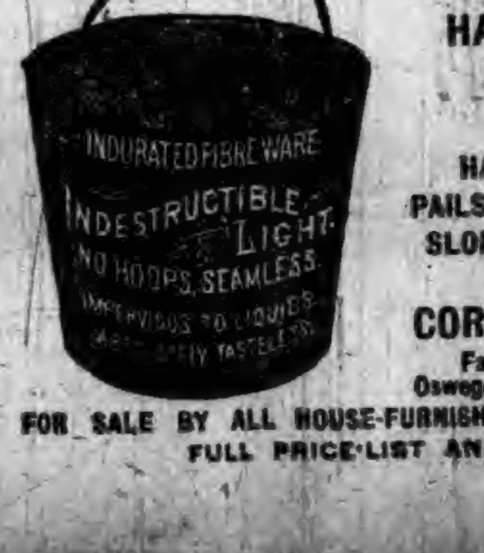
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.
A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.
SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.



INDURATED FIBRE WARE.
ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!
HAS NO HOOPS!
NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!
NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!
HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.
PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.
LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.
CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.
Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.
FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS.
FULL PRICE-LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY........JANUARY 2, 1890

To Our Friends.

The COURIER begins its 20th volume this week with better and brighter prospects than ever before. Its circulation has steadily increased in spite of the great number of papers in the county, and in face of the fact that we have not for years made any special effort to get new names. Not but what we want them, but we have not had the time. However, we find that our friends all over the county appreciate the COURIER and are speaking a good word for it among their neighbors. It is now the largest paper in the county, by a considerable, and gives more reading matter than any other. Looking over the past year, we see we have given many valuable items that no other paper has given. Our correspondence has a wider range of territory, and comprises some of the ablest writers in the county. Then, too, our democratic friends, we find, are suited with the COURIER's politics. It is always sound, never flinches, pours in its hot shot wherever the head of an opponent appears, and is fully committed to the plan of "a campaign for education of the people" on all living subjects. We are grateful to our people, who have shown their appreciation of the COURIER in the past, and if health and strength continue we expect to continue to give them the worth of their money, and as much more as we can. To our advertising patrons, we should also return thanks for abundant favors. They have shown business ideas by putting their advertisement where they will reach the most people, and go over the entire county. In no other paper could this be done as fully. We believe it has done them good, and by directing our people to where they can make the best use of their money, we believe we have done them good. So the COURIER enters on its 20th year with bright prospects, and a feeling of friendship to all its many patrons. Let us hope that 1890 will be the most pleasant and profitable year for all of us, that we have had since our first acquaintance.

OUR state debt is rapidly increasing, and the state has been republican for several years. Taxpayers should take notice.

IF a tariff cheapens an article, why not put it back onto tea and coffee? Respectfully asked of about fifty republican newspapers.

JOHNSTOWN has been again re-chartered as a city having with the small towns around that it has taken in a population of about 10,000.

THE recent discovery of gold in northern Michigan has proved valuable, and will add greatly to the already enormous mineral wealth of that region.

RAILROAD statistics show that 316 new lines have been under way during the past year, on which 5,291 miles of track have been laid. Indiana shows 7 new lines and 123 miles of track.

SENATOR DOLPH, of Oregon, has introduced bills enough to use up 143 millions of the surplus already, and the session has not lasted so far over three weeks. Wait till the senator gets down to business.

LARGE quantities of English mistletoe were imported into New York for holiday uses. That smashes another "infant American industry." Our home mistletoe will no doubt wither and die on the tree that gave it sustenance.

FIRE destroyed a dwelling in Hurontown, Mich., Sunday morning, eleven persons losing their lives, the father and mother, eight children and a young lady who was visiting them. Two older sons escaped with difficulty.

HENRY W. GRADY, the brilliant journalist died last week at his home in Atlanta, after an illness of but a few days. He had contracted typhoid pheumonia at Boston, where he delivered the fine address a part of which we published.

CHICAGO railway crossings are getting to be as fatal as revolvers "not loaded." Seven people were killed by the cars at crossings in that city in twenty-four hours last week. The lives lost in this way in '89 were 250, and for the past four years not less than 1,000.

THE ex-empress of Brazil, Dom Pedro's wife, died Saturday, at their present stopping place at Oporto, Portugal. Her last words, were of regret that she could not see her children and the beautiful home in Brazil. She had been more popular than the emperor, and her death in exile, will have a tinge of sadness.

WE have received several marked papers, in favor of this or that man for candidates for a state office. No rush, gentlemen. If a candidate won't keep through the winter, he is no good. We think the same of county candidates. Some want to begin a new campaign the next day after election. We don't. Some time next spring or summer would do just as well, perhaps.

PLUM pudding is now being imported into this country from England. While this "infant industry" is not mentioned in the list by name, we believe it is construed to come under the head "fruit comfits and sweetmeats," and taxed 35 per cent. Of course this will save the plum pudding industry from going to the "demnition bow-wows," and at the same time "make pudding cheaper" as per instructions from republican headquarters.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Frogs were heard croaking Christmas.

W. H. Crane, of Sedan, was in town Monday.

Who says they have not seen a Kentucky winter.

J. R. Duncan went to Ft. Wayne on business Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Braun went to Angola, Christmas.

Mr. White, of Jonesville Mich., was here last Thursday.

Mrs. Archibald Smith is sick with the prevailing influenza.

Mr. Knott is in very poor health, quite feeble as we are told.

Joel Harmes is selling cigars as a side line, for a Toledo firm.

Mr. Howard, of Syracuse, was in town last week visiting friends.

Miss Phebe Walker returned to her school in Troy on Monday.

Where is the man who said we were going to have a cold winter?

Several of the young ladies of our town went to Auburn Christmas.

A new sidewalk is much needed in front of the M. E. parsonage.

Our former townsman John Somers, is said to have moved from Angola.

Miss Libbie Bevier was home during the holidays from Fayette, Ohio.

Mr. Hudson, an attorney of Angola, was here on business last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Harper went to LaOtto Christmas.

Friday evening Mrs. Nill and other friends came to visit Mrs. Phil. Morell.

Misses Effie Lock and Nora Butler went to Ft. Wayne to spend the holidays.

Mr. Carpenter and wife, of Hamilton, were here Friday on their way to Auburn.

Mrs. Imhoff, who had a stroke of paralysis some time ago, remains about the same.

The Chautauqua Club held their anniversary Tuesday evening Dec. 31, at hotel Locke.

Frank Fisk is home from Ann Arbor for the holidays, but is very ill with influenza.

Mattie McBride went to Indianapolis to spend a few days with relatives during the holidays.

Rev. Crouse commenced a protracted meeting on Monday night in the U. B. church of this place.

J. N. McBride peeps in at the "receipt of postage stamps," now and then, to get the hang of the thing.

Capt. Edge has opened up a meat market in the south room of his house. He sells at hardpan prices.

On Monday morning the telephone wire was found to be broken between Auburn and Ft. Wayne.

An effort is being made to have the town numbered. Waterloo should not be behind her neighbors.

The meeting of the agricultural society last Thursday was well attended and harmonious, as it usually is.

Mr. J. B. Conover, of the firm of Soule & Co., Washington D. C. was in town this week looking after pension claims.

George Kennedy is beginning to recover from a siege of influenza, and his mother is now suffering from the same.

Rev. Mygrantz has held a series of meetings near Hudson, which will result with several accessions to the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull and Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker, of Pleasant Lake, were here Friday on their way home from Butler.

Mr. Hassog is in luck. He drew one of Henderson's prize watches. Some men are born lucky instead of handsome.

The smoke pipe of J. D. Fitzgerald's factory was blown down several nights ago, necessitating the purchase of new pipe.

Mrs. Clifford, a former resident of Waterloo came last Tuesday to visit at S. J. Locke's and other friends. She left on Friday.

The largest lot of hogs for the season were brought here last Saturday. Farmers don't forget that the Waterloo markets equal the best.

A number of our people attended the U. B. quarterly conference at Corunna on last Saturday and Sunday and report a good successful meeting.

The Commercial agency's new report of "bad paying" persons was received on last Monday, and shows some new names reported. The list is very large.

Saturday afternoon, Dec 28th at the residence of John S. Jackman, Mr. Harry Jackman was married to Miss Emma Waterman, by Rev. Smith.

Bernie Ackman had an overcoat stolen at the opera house not long since, and Rev. Mygrants had a lot of clothes line a few nights ago. Look out for theives.

Rev. D. B. Keller and wife went to Churubusco, on Monday to visit the family of Rev. Tedrow, whose daughter was lying at the point of death with typhoid fever.

It is said that the walk at the bridge on Wayne St. is not properly bannistered. A little attention to the matter now, may at some future time save an expensive suit for damages.

Mr. Jackson Wolf, a brother of Michael Wolf, and of the late George Wolf came out last week from Starke county, Ohio, to visit the relatives. He also visited E. Y. Williamson and other friends.

We were in error last week in stating that the Disciple church had a tree for their Sunday school. They had a ship laden with gifts. The exercises were very interesting, especially a speech or address by Mrs. Ackman.

J. A. Slaybough has returned from Michigan where he has been for a year or two, and will again go into business here. He will become a partner with Elmer Stamets in the business of making shaved handles. They will be located at the Stamets shop near the school house. We bespeak for them a successful business.

The grocery of Wm. Henderson, which has been cutting such a splurge is now in deep water. The brother, who went west to get married must have trouble to find some one to marry him. It looks like one of the greatest attempts at swindling that Waterloo has had in a long time. A number of judgments are taken against them.

At the Presbyterian church Christmas the Sunday school were treated to something new. A Mother Hubbard cupboard filled and overflowing with gifts of all kinds. The exercises were interesting and especially so as they were largely taken part in by the little wee tots. The house was filled and many obliged to stand.

Jerry Plum, our old townsman enjoyed the pleasure of a complete reunion of his family Christmas. All of his children were home, including his two sons from Iowa, one of whom had not been home for thirty-two years, and also thirteen grand-children. There were also thirteen grand-children that were not present. A photograph was taken of the group from the veranda. May they enjoy many more such occasions.

BUTLER.

Our next letter will be in the new year 1890.

The wind blew last Sunday. Did you know it?

Fireman Delater has friends visiting in his family from Logansport.

E. K. Strong, of Columbia City, is visiting his brother, Aaron Strong.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Burnett, of Ashland county, Ohio, are visiting friends in town.

Ott Baxter is home from Adrian for the holidays. He is well pleased with the school.

Mr. Weldon, of Evansville, Ind., is stopping for a few days with his daughter, Mrs. A. Plum.

Watch meeting was observed at the M. E. church last Tuesday evening, they saw the old year fade away and the new one appear.

The ladies' society of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. J. C. Brown Friday afternoon. All interested in church work are invited.

Although the roads are extremely muddy our town was crowed with teams and people last Saturday it is evident that business before pleasure is their motto.

L. J. Miller, and F. A. Borst and his wife and children came over from Auburn Saturday, and spent Sunday in this place, the guests of Mr. McNabb and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. J. A. Barns the better-half of the COURIER spent several days a guest of the families of R. H. Murch and J. W. Boyle in town. We were pleased to see her at church on Sunday.

Rev. Cone preached a very practical sermon last Sunday from the text, "What lack I yet," which gives plenty of room for thought, as there are so few of us but what lack in something pertaining to the christian work.

Court.

Business was pretty lively till Tuesday evening, when they adjourned for New Years. J. E. Sherlock was fined $2 for dumping garbage too near town. Wm. Whitcomb was fined $5 and costs for breaking that stove, and $5 for assaulting the supposed Mrs. W. As his ship was still kept at sea by the recent adverse winds, he went over to board at our popular bastile till the winds change. The case of Penfield vs Church Furniture Co., Judge O'Rourke refusing to serve as special judge, he was let off and Judge VanFleet, of the Elkhart circuit, selected. In the Probat case for partition of property, E. D. Hartman was appointed guardian ad litem for the minor heirs. John Oberlin vs Jay Brown and Wm. Oberlin, note, judgment for plaintiff, $112.54. France and others vs Isaac Hose, on account, judgment for plaintiff, $64.13.

Marriage Licenses.

There has been a great rush of business in this line, usually considered as a sign of a hard winter, but some other cause must be assigned this year. Clerk Bishop reports 37 for December. The following are those since our last list:

C. W. Kimball, to Jennie McClish; Barley Baker, to May Brown; John A. McComber, to Lily M. Wilson; John W. Snyder, to Katie Shaffer; Frank Gunsenheuser, to Carry Wilson; Samuel Parsons, to Alta Melindy; John W. Lower, to Amanda C. Neidie; Lewis M. Lewe, to Electa Ritter; Marshall Andress, to Jennie Monroe; V. E. Harding, to Belle Cox; John Likens, to Eda Rohm; Carl Miller to Anna Kahnlein; W. S. Tyndall to Minnie Provines; Henry Witt to Rose Lahnum; W. E. Crueger to Elnora Mark; W. J. Wallace to Mollie Harper; Benj. Bailey to Nettie Wise; John E. Surfus to Martha Swihart; Harvey McBride to Adell Delvin; J. Boyle to Reua Markham; Lewis Day to Addie Clark; D. B. Matheny to Mellie Cool; Wm. E. Hoffman to Mettie Veley; Harry E. Jackman to Emma W. Waterman; H. C. Elsner to Margaret Deetz; Charles Nodine to Barbara Nodine; Jas. B. Heatley to Elizabeth Eberly; Benj F. Hawver to Audree E. Fair; A. L. Gengnagel to Jennie Gramling; Ed. E. Smead to Tena E. Anthony; Oscar Hite to Emma Gerber.

Marriage Bells.

MARRIED: At the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. L. Meese in Auburn, on Christmas Day, Dec 25, 1889. Mr. Benjamin F. Bailey to Miss Nettie Wise, both of this county. We wish the bride and groom a happy and prosperous life journey.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents near Auburn, on December 23, 1889. Henry H. Witt to Rosa A. Lahnum, daughter of Dennis Lahnum, Rev. W. L. Meese officiating. The happy couple at once started on a trip to Ohio, where the groom has relatives residing in Morrow county. The congratulations of many friends go with them.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents, two miles southwest of Auburn, Ind., Dec. 25, 1889, at 5 o'clock, p. m., Mr. John Surfus, of New Era, and Miss Martha Swihart, Rev. H. A. Sawyers officiating. There were present their immediate relatives, and several valuable presents were given the bride and groom. They went to New Era Thursday, where they will make their future home. The COURIER extends hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

MARRIED: At the residence of Mr J. C. Veley, on Thursday evening, Dec. 26, by Rev. H. M. Lamport, Mr. William E. Hoffman, of Bangor, South Dakota, to Miss Mettie Veley, of Auburn. The wedding was a quiet one, only a few of the relatives and special friends being present. After the ceremony, the guests were served a bountiful repast of cake, cream and fruit. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman leave in a few days, for their far-off home in Bangor, South Dakota. Their many friends join in wishing them a safe journey and a long and happy wedded life.
H. M. L.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents in Fairfield township, Dec. 25, 1889, W. J. Wallace to Miss Mollie Harper, Elder James Barton officiating. Mr. Wallace is one of our enterprising young business men, having a tinshop, and is doing a good business. The young couple are living in their nice little home on West Seventh St., and the COURIER joins in with hosts of friends in extending congratulations to Mr. W. and his young bride.

Also, by Elder Barton, at his residence in Richland, Nov. 25, 1889, J. S. Palmer to Miss Ida Ann Ruffner.

Also, by the same, at the residence of the bride's mother in Fairfield, Dec. 8, 1889, Charles A. Row to Miss Etta Parnel.

Also, by the same, at his residence, Dec. 22, 1889, John Likens to Miss Eda Rohm.

A Christmas Wedding.

On Christmas eve about four o'clock Miss Belle Cox was married to Mr. V. E. Harding at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cox in Richland township south of Corunna. Rev. F. A. Pattee of the Lutheran church in Fairfield, officiated. The bride's brother George E. Cox was best man, and Miss Blanche Britton was bridesmaid, doing their parts charmingly. About twenty-five invited guests were present to witness the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony, all sat down to a bounteous supper, which certainly did credit to Mrs. Cox and her generous husband, as well as giving promise of successful housekeeping on the part of the young bride. They received many valuable and useful gifts. All present speak highly of this enjoyable occasion. We learn that Mr. Harding is an enterprising, industrious and self-sustaining young farmer. Of such is the salt of the earth. We congratulate the young couple on behalf of all the COURIER folks, and the friends everywhere.

Application for School.

Doctor Slowcoach, Deacon Wayback & Squire Kicker: Surs i seen your notis for a schoolmaster and would like to take thee Job. i weigh 170 pounds and hav always had order in my skule. i hav figured as fur as Double Position. can reed most enny book in fact i hav red several. and as to bordin round i can shoot a beef, season sassage or salt the Kraut with the bast. it wood sute me two begin about Friday Jan 17 1890
Jonathan Birch

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Signs of the Times
The Short Quick Wind
Waterbury Watches

"SERIES J," FOR GENTLEMEN, $4.00. "SERIES L," FOR LADIES, $4.00.

ACCURATE, RELIABLE AND INEXPENSIVE.

Sold only by Regular Retail Watch Dealers.

W. J. BOWMAN

OFFERS TO

THE PUBLIC,

A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.

Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.

Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.

E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,

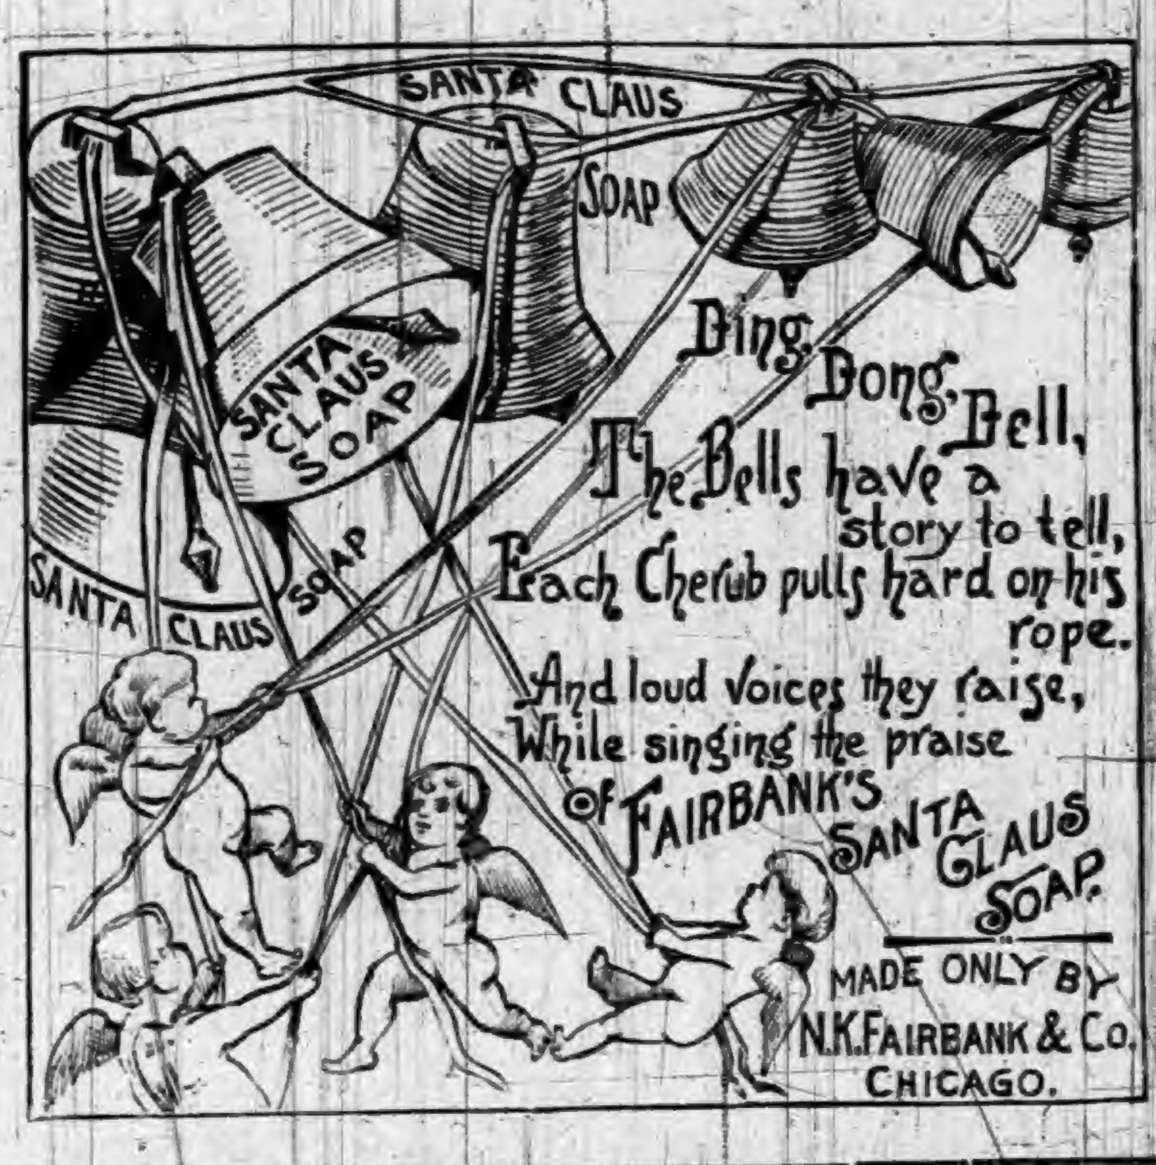
FOR

MEN'S USE.

The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.



DON'T - FAIL

—TO SEE THE—

Good Samaritan

—AND—

KING OF CURES.

He Tells Your Disease

Without Asking questions.

CONSULTATION FREE.

He takes no patients without he can cure them.

He Has Practiced Medicine

FOR 40 YEARS.

AS A SPECIALIST,

FOR 20 YEARS

In all Parts of the Globe.

Cures All Chronic Diseases.

No matter who has pronounced you incurable, The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight, and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.

He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, bilious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.

Piles Cured Without a Knife.

Female Complaints a Specialty

Cured without local treatment.

All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his appointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to

J. H. ANDREWS, M. D.,

WAUSEON, OHIO.

Auburn, Swineford House, Jan. 7, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House, Jan. 23 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Jan. 20. One day only.
Garrett, Ross House, Jan. 11.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Jan. 12 and 13

THE AGED SING THE PRAISE OF SMITH'S BILE BEANS

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

"TIME TESTED"—"VICTOR CROWNED."

If you would be well and live to a ripe old age, you should keep a never failing supply of SMITH'S BILE BEANS always at hand.

Their Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic qualities have been "time tested," and the thousands of testimonials which we have and still receive, show that there is nothing better on sale.

If you feel NERVOUS or UNSTRUNG, the LIVER no doubt is to blame, and a single dose of BILE BEANS (one bean) will LINE YOU UP.

Call on your Druggist for them. Sold everywhere, 25c. PER BOTTLE. Sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price.

J. F. SMITH & CO., Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS, MO.

READ THIS.—"I wish to add my testimony to the efficiency of Bile Beans for all Bilious and Nervous Troubles. Myself and wife have lately given them a trial, with most satisfactory results. We shall always keep them in the house."
H. T. PENDLETON, Spc'l Ag't Equitable Life Ins. Co., St. Louis, Mo.

THE STAR SPANGLE BANNER

Still Waves Over a Large Line of

WATCHES,

Spectacles, Jewelry & Clocks.

WE KEEP

THE

TIME AND

MAKE A SPECIALTY

In Fitting Spectacles, Repairing them and changing Lenses, and Repairing Watches, Clocks and Jewelry. Kindly soliciting a share of your patronage, I am, Respectfully, yours,

E. SPANGLE, Auburn, Indiana.

SALESMEN WANTED.

to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. SALARY AND EXPENSES paid to successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership existing under the firm name of Grogg, Kandel & Co., has been dissolved, and all accounts of said firm are now in the hands of Isaac Grogg.
GROGG, KANDEL & CO.

Jan. 1, 1890. 3

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron

Is a remedy every farmer should keep on hand, as it is invaluable for many diseases. All dealers sell it. Price $1.00.

Happy Donors.

On last Thursday was spent one of the most pleasant days, experienced at Fairfield for some time. Long before noon there might have been seen wagons loaded with provision coming to gladden the heart of the pastor, Rev. Pattee, with a liberal donation. The members of the church and friends turned out en masse, bringing provisions to the amount of $42, while there is still more to come. But the most enjoyable thing of all, was the hospitality shown the liberal donors to the pastor and wife in spreading before them a most enjoyable dinner. All went away wishing many such times to come, and success and happiness to Rev. Pattee and family in their new field of work.

LAST week, a court in Missouri decided a queer case. A colored woman, who had just learned that she was free, had sued the supposed owner for wages for 25 years. She got part of the claim and should have had ten times as much. Her "master" had lived in a secluded part of the country since early in the war, and kept her so close at home that she had not heard that the slaves were free.

TOO MUCH WARM WEATHER!

And on account of it we have too many Cloaks on hand. For the next twenty days we offer for cash every Ladies'. Misses or Childs' Winter Wrap, at Half Price.

Read this over carefully if you are in need of a Cloak:

$16.00	Plush Jacket, now	$ 8.00.
22.00	Plush Sacque, now	11.00.
25.00	Plush Sacque, now	12.50.
33.00	Plush Sacque, now	16.50.
38.00	Plush Sacque, now	19.00.
20.00	Plush Walking Coat, now	10 00.
25.00	Plush Walking Coat, now	12.50.
15.00	Plush Newmarket, now	7.50.
20.00	Plush Newmarket, now	10.00.
23.00	Plush Newmarket, now	11.50.

All Ladies' and Misses Newmarkets at $11.00, $12.00, 13,00 and 13.50.

Your Choice for $5.

This is no advertising scheme, but real facts. So do not miss this opportunity of securing a genuine bargain,

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW

BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.

If You want to Save Money During 1890

BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF

SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

Positively

—TO THE—

Front

—ON—

Hosiery and Underwear.

Ladies' all-wool Cashmere Hose, 25 cts. per pair.

Gents' all-wool Cashmere Hose, 25 cts. per pair.

Also good value in Children's Hosiery.

Ladies' White Merino Vests, at 25 cents.

Also good value in Scarlet and Natural wool Underwear for Ladies and Children.

We have extra value in Ladies' 25 cent Mittens.

White Blankets at 75 cents per pair.

All-wool factory flannel in Scarlet and Plaids at 25 cents per yard.

Cotton flannel for 5 cents per yard.

Ladies' Skirts for 75 cents each.

Toboggans 25 cents.

Fascinators 25 cents.

Mufflers 25 cents.

Silk Handkerchiefs 25 cents.

And many other goods. Good value and at as low prices as we have mentioned.

Always glad to show the goods as we are receiving new goods daily.

Remember our

HOSIERY

—AND—

UNDERWEAR.

Mrs. Jones & Son.

WEST SIDE OF SQUARE

AUBURN, - INDIANA.

LOCAL NEWS.

1890.

Number 1.

Volume XX.

Volume XX, No. 1.

Don't forget the new date.

Loranger Theater Co., always good.

Post's closing out sales are immense, not their low prices.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Ladies', gents' and children's underwear. See our prices, at Post's.

Preaching on Saturday evening at the new Lutheran church, by Mr. Kain of Albion.

They have the Russian sneezes in Indianapolis. It is said to be troublesome and annoying.

Miss Flora Jones, of Columbia City, paid a holiday visit to her relatives, the COURIER folks, last week.

The family of Mr. Smith the new Baptist minister will be here this week. Mr. Smith has been here a week or two.

Rev. D. F. Kain will preach at the new Lutheran church Saturday evening of this week. All are cordially invited.

DR. A. N. COATES:—Dentist, Davis Block, Auburn, Ind. Wednesdays of each week at Waterloo, over Maxson's jewelry store.

Mrs. Dr. S. B. Johnston and Miss Tena Moody, presented to Rev. Sawyer's two little children a nice coat each, as a Christmas gift.

James Staley and wife, and Mrs. Belle Brown of Coldwater, Mich., are the guests of their parents Mr. and Mrs. John C. Staley, of this city,

From every town where they have appeared, we hear good words for the Loranger Theater Co. They will be at the Opera House Jan. 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Mr. Cass last week presented the Baptist church a new and tasty pulpit. It was much needed, and the minister and congregation will appreciate Mr. Cass' thoughtfulness and liberality.

Our friend John Kettle, of Wilmington, was up to see us Tuesday. He is a dyed-in-the-wood democrat, and thinks those farmers who had the wool pulled over their eyes and voted for Harrison, have "had wool enough to last them awhile."

Dr. Richard Elson, now a resident of Canton, Ohio, has been here a few days visiting among his former neighbors. He resided here many years and has plenty of warm friends here yet. We regret to see, he is not looking in his usual good health, but hope it is only temporary.

Walter Hartman, will for the next few days, sell rubber stamps, steel stamps, stencils and everything in that line at a great reduction in order to get rid of the goods on hand, which are all warranted and can be examined at his office over "Crystal Palace meat market." It will pay you to buy now. Orders by mail promptly attended to. Walter C. Hartman, Auburn, Ind.

No where in Auburn can dress goods be bought as cheap as at Post's.

Mrs. Ehlers conducts a bible class each Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Baptist church.

Bowman, the boot and shoe man, starts in the new year with a double-sized ad., which means business.

Leesburg, about thirty-five miles west of here, in Koscinsko county, had a destructive fire last week.

W. S. Getts, of Waterloo, was down here Monday, helping put the new roof on the Kiblinger factory.

Abraham Sherck redeemed his promise to get us some wood last week, in spite of the terrible roads.

Notice is hereby given that I will not be responsible for any bills my wife, Margaret Boren, may contract hereafter.
F. M. Boren.

Billy Bradshaw was in town Saturday having been paying a Christmas visit to his father. He is now working in a stave factory east of Ft. Wayne.

Edison, America's great inventor, will have to fall back on Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure. Sold and warranted by Robbins & McCord.

Several items, including some correspondence did not appear last week as they should, as we went to press a day earlier, on account of holidays.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock and Dandelion is the cheapest and best blood remedy in use, as it only costs a dollar for a quart bottle. Try it.

See our notice of that excellent democratic paper, the Chicago Weekly Herald. We will send it with the COURIER one year, for $2.25 for both papers. 2

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf.

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Phil Pinm Friday afternoon from 2 to 5. A full attendance is desired to make arrangements for the church entertainment.

We see by the Indianapolis dailies, that Miss Sarah E. Tarney, daughter of S. J. Tarney of Jackson, read an able paper before the recent State Teachers' Association. DeKalb always gives a good account of herself.

A New Discovery: Weakened and deranged livers, stomachs and bowels should never be acted on by irritants like common pills, bran, etc. Miles' Pills cure liver complaint, constipation, piles, etc., by a new method. Samples free at F. E. Davenport. 1

J. B. Hoover can be seen daily on our streets enjoying a talk with old friends. The death of his wife, and later the marriage of his youngest daughter, breaks up his home in Waterloo, and we presume he will hereafter spend the time with his children here and at Waterloo.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Dr. F. A. Reynolds, of Kendallville, Ind., will be at Swineford House, in Auburn, Indiana, on January 7, where he will treat all diseases of the eye, ear and throat. Special attention given to fitting glasses, and will carry a full and complete assortment of spectacles. All errors of refraction corrected. Catarrh successfully treated. 52-1

The ladies of the Presbyterian church last week made a Christmas gift to Rev. H. A. Sawyers, of three chairs, rockers, a fine hanging lamp and a center stand. Then at the excercises at the church, Christmas eve, they received a set of silver spoons and a silver and glass syrup dish. The worthy pastor and his good wife are very grateful for this kind remembrance.

Ligonier Banner: The new election law goes into effect on the first Monday in June. The county commissioners, at their first session after that date, will have to divide the townships into election precincts and establish the boundaries of the same. Every township shall at least have one precinct, and each precinct shall contain, as near as practicable two hundred and fifty voters.

E. E. Stamets and J. A. Slaybaugh have formed a partnership for the manufacture of shaved hickory handles at the shop near the school house in Waterloo. Both are good workmen, honest and competent, and have had extensive experience in this special line of work. The excellence of the handles they have put on the market, is well known and acknowledged everywhere, and will insure them abundance of business. Already they have orders for work enough to last them till spring. We believe they want all the good hickory butts they can get. Give them a call.

On a ten dollar purchase of shoes, etc., at Wilson,s cost sale at Waterloo you can pay your railroad fare and make a good days wages besides.

The Dispatch office has a new sign that is a daisy. We don't know who painted it, but at all events it shows that the boys over there are full of enterprise.

The tin roof on the old part of the Kiblinger factory was torn off by the gale Sunday, and by Monday he had all the tinners in the county here working to put on a new one.

The W. R. C. No. 2, of Auburn will have a called meeting Friday, Jan. 3, 1890. And it is earnestly requested that the officers elect should be present.
Augusta Green, Sec.

John Brown's fort at Harper's Ferry, the old brick engine house of the arsenal there, is to be torn down. The B. & O. want to put their tracks over it so as to get a better chance to cross the river.

The figure "9" will now be used in dating for 110 years, and the year just passed counted in, will make it 111 years. The figure 9 is the most peculiar of the lot, and a whole column could be written about it.

An exchange says that "The Chicago Herald is the cleanest, sharpest and most readable paper published in the West," and it might have added that its Weekly issue is only one dollar per year. See advertisement in another column.

The Russian influenza "La Grippe" is playing havoc in Europe. Several crowned heads have it. It has heretofore not been considered dangerous. But it has taken a fatal form in Paris, where 580 died from it in a single day, last week.

Clerk Bishop has got out a fine court calendar, which will prove a convenience, giving the dates and work as laid out for a year. It is a neat job, and done by the Dispatch. Gradually our county officers are finding out that nearly all the printing can be done at home.

Republican papers all over the country are claiming that there is no "bar' in the vice-president's building the "Shoreham." Oh, no we now remember. It is not to be called a "bar;" it is a "buffet." Excuse our ignorance of these high-toned terms for high-toned guzzling.

W. P. Harter, the popular dry goods merchant was given a Christmas present of a beautiful silk hat by the employes of the store. And now he can dress as well as his customers. He is always rather good looking, though too modest to admit it, but he looks quite stylish with his new hat.

Alta Moody last week copied on a type writer, the brief in the appeal of the Morgan case against the Wabash railroad. It was a big job and covered several hundred pages. A skillful hand like Mr. Moody can make the keys of the type-writer fly like those of a piano when manipulated by a skillful player.

Last Sunday morning was very bright, warm and spring-like, but by evening we had terrible wind, and it had turned cold. Next morning the mud would bear up a horse, but the weather came fair. This item is well known here, but D. P. Hale in California and Wm. Lessig in Tennessee, would like to hear about what weather we have.

On getting on the train to go to Waterloo last Thursday, J. B. Hoover recognized in the caboose, an old time acquaintance, Jackson Wolf, of Stark county, Ohio. He is a brother to Michael Wolf east of Waterloo, and to the late George Wolf, both well-known to our people. He was out here to pay the remaining relatives a visit.

Indianapolis Sun: Silcott stole the much-needed salaries of several congressmen, but like Capt. Boycott, he has done some service to mankind. He has left to our vocabulary a much-needed comprehensive word. Hereafter, when a man runs away to "furrin" parts with money belonging to others, he will be said to have "silcotted."

The Chatauqua Circle of this place is in a flourishing condition and doing a great deal of valuable work. The membership is large and includes many of our best known ladies. Last Saturday, they met at the residence of Hon. D. D. Moody, and Saturday of this week, the meeting will be at the residence of Mrs. Anna Moss on South Main St.

Jerome Showalter went up to Waterloo last week to attend a family reunion on Wednesday and Thursday at the home of his father, Peter Showalter, who is now seventy-nine years old. All the family were present for the first time in many years. Under such circumstances, it is truly pleasant to be able to say "We're all, all here."

Every child and every parent in Auburn should have heard Sawyers' sermon to the children Sunday morning. It was a fervent plea for more thorough religious training, and for greater care and oversight on the part of parents. Only those who heard it can appreciate fully its value. The children who were present listened as attentively as did the older ones.

Ben. Goodwin sends in his $1.50 from far-off Kansas for another year of the COURIER. That's Ben.'s style. By the way, he uses a fine copyrighted cut for his letterheads, showing his metallic cornice, and there on the inside of the store stands Ben. himself, behind the counter, waiting on some of the best looking folks in town. With his enterprise and industry, we have no doubt he will succeed.

The excercises at the various churches on Christmas were quite successful. At the M. E. church was a large attendance and besides the gifts for the children, there were many family and friendly gifts distributed. At the Presbyterian church, only the Sabbath school children received gifts. These were distributed by Mr. Carruth as Santa Claus, assisted by Mabel Hartman. The little folks all got something and went home happy. The literary exercises and the cantata were splendid, and the audience went home well pleased.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith. tf

Last Thursday we had the pleasure to dine at the cosy residence of J. C. Boyer, in Waterloo. Only four were present, Mr. Boyer, Mrs. Boyer, ourself and the turkey and we all had a lively time. "To be there" was a good thing for all but the last named.

I want to tell suffering humanity what was the matter with me and what cured me. I broke out with rash the most uncomfortable thing I ever had because it itched so and I had to fan my hands to get ease. You could not see the veins on my hands there were so many pimples on them. I used one bottle Loose's Fluid Extract of Red Clover and was completely cured.
T. A. Smith,
St. C & L. W. Ry. Toledo, O.

Washington, D. C. Jan., 25, 1984.
MR. ALFRED SPEER, Esq. Passaic, N. J.
Dear Sir; I have to acknowledge the superior quality of wines of your production, notably your Port Wine, and to say I have prescribed them for my patients for the past two years, with uniform and satisfactory results. I have full confidence in the purity of your wines and that they are uniformly of standard strength, hence prescribe them almost exclusively in my practice.
Very truly yours,
D. W. Bliss, M. D.
1329 F. St., Washington, D. C.

On coming home from the Christmas exercises at the Prespyterian church last Tuesday evening, the COURIER folks found leaning against the door, a nicely finished black walnut cane, with a card, "For J. A. Barns, a relic from the first jail of DeKalb county, erected in 1838" And so it was the real article, and a very fine piece of wood and workmanship. It turned out that it was on the Christmas tree at the M. E. church, and when the name was called, the donee was at another church. But he is just as thankful to the giver, our friend George McCord, who made the cane and gave it.

It is well known that Sarsaparilla is the great purifier of the blood, and at this season of the year we would direct attention to a preparation carefully compounded from the best Honduras Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Dandelion, Wild Cherry, and other valuable remedies by Wm. Johnston & Co. It is no quack medicine, and contains nothing injurious. Having used it ourselves, its efficacy we can vouch for, and earnestly recommend it to the readers of the Journal and for family use especially, satisfied it will prevent many complaints and relieve much suffering. Essex Journal, 1863.

The derrick at gas well No. 3 blew down in the strong wind Sunday, twisting off the pipes and letting the gas out with a roar. There was a sudden failure in the supply of all stoves at once, and people were not long in finding out that something was wrong. Even well No. 1 was of no use at first, as it was shut off. But it was at once connected again with the mains, and the stoves burned again as usual. Then came the work of fixing up and confining the flow at No. 3. This was finally accomplished, after some trouble, and everything was right. But the derrick, which cost $450 was smashed to kindlings.

Don't forget the meeting of the stockholders of the Auburn fair Jan. 16, a notice of which is given elsewhere. It is an important meeting, as officers for the coming year are to be elected. No doubt it will be considered the wisest and best thing that can be done, will be to have the present efficient officers and board of directors hold their places through the entire year. The experience they have so far had, will make this more desirable as more work will fall on the society during the first year, than will ever be the case in after years. The entire list of officers is good, and if they will serve, they should be kept in.

Frank Benedict and his son, Ernest, have set up their novelty and repair works in a new locality, and under more advantageous circumstances. They have bought the wooden building which was moved off the ground to give place to the additions to the Kiblinger carriage factory. It had since stood on the north side of Ninth street, just west of the Swineford House. This ground, they have leased and have now got their machinery in place. They have a new boiler, and an expensive lathe for turning iron work as well as many other improvements. It might also be added, that they have a small dynamo and light the building with incandescent lights.

M. V. B. Spencer one of the leading attorneys of Ft. Wayne was in town last Friday, to get some work ready that he has in court here. We acknowledge a very pleasant visit from him. Mr. Spencer is one of the straightout and reliable democrats of old Allen, who always takes his stand by choice on the front line, and never wavers when the party's interests are at stake. He was a candidate for congress at the last convention, and had a good following in his county. And when Judge McClellan was the successful man no one did him more service than Mr. Spencer. And he is still solid for McClellan, just as he would be for any democrat who is entitled to his second term.

Wm. Treace one of the most enterprising and intelligent of Allen county's farmers was up here the other day to visit friends in this vicinity, and while here called on the COURIER. We were pleased to renew the pleasant acquaintance formed a few years ago, and to learn that he is still prospering financially, though mourning the untimely death of their only daughter. This sad bereavement came on them only a short time ago. We were also pleased to learn that Mr. Treace will be a candidate for the honorable position of commissioner for his district in that county. His well known ability and integrity coupled with his knowledge of the needs of the district he resides in, would make him an unusually valuable member of the board. We hope the people of Allen county will give him the place, for we believe they would never regret it.

Vol. XX, No. 1, for the COURIER.

Ed and Harry Rainier visited at Fort Wayne Friday.

Mrs. Rebecca Jones is at North Manchester, visiting her children.

Loranger's Dramatic Co. played at Garrett last week to crowded houses.

Mrs. John Shugers, and her son, Frank and wife, have been visiting relatives in Wayne county, Ohio, during the past week.

Mrs. P. W. Silver found several wild flowers in full bloom in her garden on Christmas day. This is certainly the warmest winter on record.

The armature at the electric lights works, burned out Saturday evening. As a consequence, the lights both in doors and out, went out with a flash. A new armature was at once telegraphed for and got here Wednesday, but it was not accepted, as it had got wet, which spoiled it.

We are pleased to learn that Prof. O. W. Nottingham of Delaware, O. is in our city and will organize a class for the instruction of penmanship; he comes highly reccomended and it is probable a large class will be organized. Classes will commence Jan. 7, at high school building. 1

The largest attendance ever seen at the rink was on Christmas night. Hundreds of skaters were on the floor, the seats around the hall and the gallery were full, and standing room was all taken. The Auburn Machinists band furnished excellent music, and all enjoyed Christmas night to the fullest extent.

Miss Della Shugers received a letter Tuesday from her brother Geo. at Pasadena, Cal., stating that he had reached his destination in good health, and likes the country very well, but it isn't as fascinating as old DeKalb, and the chances are that the attractions around Auburn are strong enough to make him think of "Home, sweet home," and his return will be soon.

H. E. Little, who does the chief wind work for the Clipper went on another big drunk Saturday. About the middle of the afternoon he was taking all the width of the ten-foot sidewalk along the north side of Seventh street. He looked wishfully at the telegraph poles as he passed them but wasn't in very good shape to "Clipper" them. The last we saw of him he was still going west, "looking for McGinty."

As Mrs. Virge Dewitt came along north Jackson street last Wednesday evening about half past eight, just as she approached the residence of J. L. Davis she was surprised to see a man leap from the parlor window on the north side. He put his coat collar up around his face and ran north, dissapearing in the darkness. Mrs. Davis was at the time occupied in the west part of the house, and heard nothing of it. When told what had happened, she went into the parlor to see if anything had been taken, but nothing was missing. She had left the window up to air the room, and the would be thief had got in that way. It is supposed he was scared off by some noise, and got out without seeing Mrs. Dewitt till he was away from the house.

The Dispatch did the manly thing last week by admitting that some republicans may do wrong as in case of Vice-president Morton and others. It evidently means to say further, that it is not wise to support for office, any man with bad habits. This sounds more like reason, than did its attack on those democratic officers the week before. The editors of the Dispatch, when they are here long enough to get acquainted, will realize that some of their leading politicians are not only hard drinkers, but habitually do other very disreputable things. As we said before, we are at any time willing to compare the personal character of the democratic officials of this county, with that of the republicans. So, it will pay our friends over the way to go a little slow on that matter.

Our sturdy friend, Sydney Reed, received a box containing Christmas gifts last week. He should have received it on that especial day, but it was delayed. Just why it was delayed has not yet been explained, for it came at last to the rightful owner. Mr. Reed received the box with pleasure, paid the express, sent the expressman on his way rejoicing, and then proceeded to open the box. Everything was all in order, till he came to a nice box of choice cigars that nestled lovingly in one corner. Of course he opened that box at once, when lo! there lay but one solitary Havana, looking solitary and alone, like

> "The boy who stood on the burning deck
> Whence all but him had fled."

Indeed, the lone Havana was the last of its race, the only survivor of a numerous family. The rest had evidently gone up in smoke, as a result of having made the acquaintance of some railroad or express employes along the road. And now, if anyone sees friend Reed enjoying a fine cigar as he trips along the street, it is certain it is not one of the many his friend sent. It is a recent purchase.

OFFICE OF LAGRANGE PUBLIC SCHOOLS
LAGRANGE, IND. Dec., 20, 1889.
TO THE PUBLIC: Mr. O W. Nottingham came to us an entire stranger, but well recommended. He has just completed a course of instruction to a large class here and has excellent results of his work. He is a good penman, a faithful teacher, and a very worthy young man. We gave him the use of our school building of evenings. He is orderly and careful in conducting his class. You will get value received if you engage his services. Truly, A. J. Johnson, Supt. Schools

Prof. O. W. Nottingham is fairly under way with his writing school and has an attendance of nearly sixty. He is certainly a master of the art of penmanship and his pupils will doubtless make progress satisfactory to themselves and creditable to him.—LaGrange Democrat, Dec. 13, 1889.

Prof. Nottingham is a skilled penman and thoroughly understands his profession. His method of instructing, gives universal satisfaction.—The Register, Dec. 18, 1889.

S. W. Ralston went to Plymouth, O. Tuesday night for a visit to his relatives.

Bauer Bros, will move into their new store on site of the old jail, west Eighth street, Feb. 1. 5

Leveret Williams, of Troy, was here Tuesday, as jolly as ever in spite of bad weather and bad roads.

The Misses Stella Kane and Lillie Fox of Ft. Wayne are visiting their cousins Edith and Annie Trentman.

Sheriff Pinm has two brothers visiting him. They reside in Iowa, which has been their home many years.

Mrs. Henry Kline and her daughter, Mrs. Milo J. Thomas, of Corunna, were here visiting relatives Tuesday.

Walter Hartman and Frank Davenport went up to Waterloo Tuesday evening to enjoy the lovely roads.

A sister of James and John McClellan and Mrs. John Sheffer, is here visiting. She resides at Mansfield, Ohio.

Division 153, B. of L. E., gave their twelfth annual ball at Wagner's opera house at Garrett, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dills entertained a few friends at tea New Years day, when an hour or so was passed very agreeably.

Bauer Bros. give 10 per cent off on all sales this month, so as to have a small stock only to move to the new building Feb. 1. 5

If a B. & O. train from the west is behind time, make up your mind that a portion of a freight train is off the track at Albion.

W. B. McCallum, the gentlemanly advance agent of the Loranger Theatre Co., gave us a call last week. Thanks, for favors received.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will be entertained by Mrs. Elias Zimmerman on next Friday afternoon, Jan. 3rd. All are very cordially invited.

Mrs. Minnie Bowles, of Osceola, with her daughter, has been here a few days visiting the family of her brother, Rev. H. M. Lamport. She returned home Tuesday.

James Hoffman returned to Purdue University, last Monday. He is now finishing the last year of his course at that institution, which bespeaks a prosperous future for Jim.

The members of the old folks hop association are requested to meet at the treasurer's office Saturday evening at 7.30, Jan. 4. to make arrangements for their annual ball. By order of the President

The "Busy Bee Society" will meet next Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock at the lecture room of the M. E. church. All members are requested to be present, and any others who may wish to join the society.

The friends of Mrs. Lawrence will be glad to learn that she will soon return to Auburn. At the time of her recent visit, she purchased the old Parks property from Charles Resch and will make that her future residence.

Among our enterprising patrons who greet our readers early in the new year, with new advertisements, are Harter & Co., Schaab & Murphy, Louis Laemle, Rickel & Sprott, Wilson of Waterloo, Bauer Brothers, W. J. Bowman, Schaab & Bro. and G. H. Post, all worthy of patronage.

We note in another place, the wedding of Mr. Surfus and Miss Swihart last week, and came near omitting thanks for the nice box of cake we received as a souvenir of the happy event. Judging from the samples we received, Mrs. Swihart and her daughter, now Mrs. Surfus, will never lose their husband's love through any poor cooking.

We agree with the Hicksville News in regard to laying loose boards across the street to walk on. If a person is too lazy or in too big a hurry to walk to a regular crossing, they should be compelled to cross in the mud. Many accidents have occurred by this careless practice, by horses crippling themselves or the boards tilting up and injuring the occupants of the vehicle in passing over them, and the town marshal should look after this as any other obstruction to street travel. Such practices are not in keeping with the statutes.

The four churches named below have arranged to unite in observing the following program for the Week of Prayer: Monday, Jan. 6th, Baptist church, "Confession and Supplication;" 7th, M. E. church, "Nations and Their Rulers;" 8th, Lutheran church, "The Young;" 9th, Presbyterian church, "The Church at Home;" 10th, Presbyterian church, "The Church Abroad;" 11th, M. E. church, "Thanksgiving."

H. M. Lamport, }
T. C. Smith, } Pastors.
H. A. Sawyers, }

The finest harness ever seen in DeKalb county, is the one at Trout's livery barn, and which was made for him to order by Wm. Sheffer, our popular harnessmaker. It is of the best leather, and very heavy and strong, yet so neatly made that it appears light and graceful. The metal parts are very strong, yet appear light, and are of the best nickel finish. Mr. Sheffer, as we said made this to order, and Mr. Trout is free to say it suits him better than anything he could have got in any of the large cities. It is for especial use with the costly new cab he bought a short time ago, of Merts & Riddle, Ravenna, O. Anyone who has a taste for fine work of this kind should go over to the livery barn and take a good look at it.

* * *

If the Butler Record will agree to publish the COURIER's answers to his patent original editorials, we will let his readers judge whether we have answered their arguments, or whether the Record editor is lying when he says we have not been able to do so. This is a fair proposition and we dare the Record to accept it.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE Royal Humane Society has lately presented awards to four ladies for saving life.

THE first [illegible]awmakers' anvil used in this country [illegible] the possession of E. Andrews, of Williamsport, whose uncle inported it from England in 1819.

THE late Emile Augier left the following complete account of his life: "I was born in 1826, and since then nothing extraordinary has happened to me."

THREE years ago seven working girls, who moved in the same set, resolved never to marry. Now they are provided with husbands except one, and her engagement is announced.

THE bed which the German Emperor and Empress occupied during their visit to the Sultan was of solid silver, with Oriental curtains of surpassing richness, heavily embroidered with gold.

GERMAN papers assert that both ex-Empress Frederick and her sister, Princess Alice, regularly reported to their mother, Queen Victoria, the secrets of Germany's diplomatic and military operations during 1870.

A MISTAKE of one word recently cost S. O. Fisher, of West Bay City, the price of fifty bushels of potatoes. He told his clerk to write to a Grayling man for twenty-five or thirty bushels, and the clerk wrote for barrels.

AN English scientist says that if we were to visit the moon we should find the days and nights a fortnight in length, and if we "survived the scorching during the day, we should certainly be frozen to death during the ensuing night."

THE Norwegians are said to be the longest lived people in the world. Official statistics show that the average duration of life in Norway is 48.33 for the men, 51.30 for the women, and 49.77 for both sexes. The duration of life has increased of late years.

ALECK SMITH, of Bull Creek, near Jeffersonville, Ind., is probably the only farmer in the Union, perhaps in world, who devotes all his time and territory to the raising of butter beans. He owns a small place and has on this for years grown the butter bean, realizing a comfortable living therefrom.

A FEW weeks ago two Pittsburgh surgeons performed an operation on the side of a woman by removing a tumor. Since then the woman suffered excruciating pain. The other day another surgeon was called in, and on examination found a small pair of forceps used by the former physicians in the woman's side.

RUSSIA, although in many respects a semi-barbarous nation, is making steady progress in civilization. The announcement is made that the infliction of corporal punishment on peasants is to be abolished in the Baltic provinces. It has been the custom to employ the lash for petty offenses or as a means of extracting rent or taxes.

LARGE deposits of ice, believed by some to be relics of the glacial period in this country, have been discovered in Idaho. They are imbedded in earth and overgrown with moss, which has prevented them from wasting away. It is seriously proposed to form companies to mine this ice for sale in Western cities, where ice is always dear and scarce.

IT is doubtful if there are many families in the country that can show an army record equal to the family of Gersham Davis, of the town of Welles, near Towanda, Pa. Davis and his eight sons enlisted in the Union army early in the war. The father and four of the sons served until the war was over and returned home. The four other sons were killed in battle.

HORATIO E. FRANCISCO, of Mason City, Iowa, has received the official announcement from Governor Hoard, of Wisconsin, stating that he won the gold medal voted by the Legislature a few years ago to the youngest soldier to have entered the Government service during the late rebellion from Wisconsin. He is also thought to have been the youngest soldier who carried a musket in the entire army, being but a trifle over fourteen years of age when he enlisted. He served in Company H, Forty-second Infantry.

IT has been observed that many of the rivers of Saxony which flow through loose or soft materials have a steep bank on the east, northeast, or southeast, while the opposite shore is flat. Herr Rucktaschel, who has been studying the subject, attributes this one-sidedness to the action of the prevailing southwest, west, or northwest winds, which drive the rains almost at right angles against the bank sloping from the east, and wash away the soil in much greater quantity than from the western bank. Some of the river valleys of Prussia and Bavaria exhibit similar phenomena.

THE story goes that when Captain Cook discovered Australia he saw some of the natives on the shore with a dead animal of some sort in their possession, and sent sailors in a little boat to buy it of them. When it came on board he saw it was something quite new, so he sent the sailors back to inquire its name. The sailors asked, but not being able to make the natives understand, received the answer, "I don't know," or in the Australian language, "Kan-ga-roo." The sailors supposed this was the name of the animal, and so reported it. Thus the name of the curious animal is the "I-don't-know."

A CURIOUS accident which happened recently in Paris points out a possible danger in the wearing of combs and bracelets of celluloid. A little girl sat down before the fire to prepare her lessons. Her hair was kept back by a semi-circle comb of celluloid. As her head was bent forward to the fire this became warm, and suddenly burst into flames. The child's hair was partly burned off, and the skin of the head was so injured that several months after, though the burn was healed, the cicatrix formed a white patch on which no hair would grow. The burning point of celluloid is about one hundred and eighty degrees, and the comb worn by the girl had attained that heat as it was held before the fire.

VERY few persons can truthfully say that their destiny has been decided by the drawing of a straw. Edward Spangenburg, one of the most successful of the younger attorneys of Cincinnati, owes much of the good things that have come to him to such an apparently trivial circumstance. The time was just at the close of the war. Mr. Spangenburg and his brother had done service under the stars and stripes, and with their father found themselves in Denver, then a small place. A good opening was found for one of the boys, but which was to stay there was a question. Neither had a profession. So the good father prepared two straws and, covering them in his fingers, bade each son to pull one. Young Edward drew the short one and was obliged to return to Cincinnati. He left the West with a heavy heart, arrived in Cincinnati, procured employment without trouble, gained the fancy of the late W. T. Forrest, began to study law, and in a few years has, by diligent work and honest methods, builded a practice that many an older attorney would be proud to possess. Mr. Spangenberg says the short end of the straw turned after all to be the long end.

GERMAN JOKES.

QUITE APPROPRIATE.

Governess—Miss Emma, have you found in Schiller's works an appropriate poem to recite at the silver wedding of your parents.

Miss Emma—Yes, I have found an appropriate poem. It is entitled "The Fight with the Dragon."

SHE WAS UP TO HIM.

He—My dearest, darlingest little wifey——

She—You needn't employ any of that sort of taffy, for you won't get the latch key, no matter what you say.

MUSICAL ITEM.

A.—So your dog has run away again, has he?

B.—Yes; since my daughter has been taking singing lessons there is no such thing as keeping him on the premises.

HE LIVED HIGH.

Visitor—How did you come to rent a room the stairs to which are so steep and dangerous?

Poet—I had an object in view. You should see how polite the bill collectors are when they get up here and I hint about kicking them down stairs.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

Father—Why do you ask for the hand of my younger daughter instead of that of her elder sister?

Sister—Because I think the elder sister would more satisfactorily fill the position of aunt to my future children.

A DEAD GIVE-AWAY.

Inquisive neighbor—Your ma's hair is as black as if she dyed it. Does she really dye it, Tommy?

Tommy—O, no, she don't dye it. That's the color it was when she bought it.

NOT AN ELIGIBLE BOARDER.

Landlady's daughter—Mother, you tell that man in the front room to clear out at the end of the month.

Landlady—Why so, my daughter? He is a very nice gentleman.

Landlady's daughter—He is a fraud. I've been through his trunk, and found lots of letters from a woman to whom he is engaged to be married. What sense is there in wasting the nice front room to that sort of a boarder? We want one who isn't engaged.

MEDICAL ITEMS.

A.—Dr. Jones is a good-hearted man.

B.—In what way?

A.—Very often he don't take a cent from his patients.

B.—O! I see. The executor of the patient's estate is called to pay it.

A FEW PASSING REMARKS.

Jones—What did your wife say when you got home last night?

Smith—What did she say? My dear fellow, it would take me three hours to tell you half of what she said.

A Business Man's Mistake

Stranger (who has yelled himself hoarse over Jinks' telephone without getting any reply)—See here, I can't do anything with this telephone.

Jinks (with an air of innocence)—Did you wish to speak to any one, sir?

"Certainly."

"Oh! It has been disconnected for about a month."

"Disconnected? You didn't saything about it."

"I thought everybody knew we had disconnected our telephone on account of the bores. I didn't know you wished to talk to any one, sir. I supposed you merely desired to exercise your lungs."—New York Weekly.

TWO ALMOST perfect spheres about four inches in diameter—one black and of vegetable origin and the other white and a mineral product—were lately exhibited to the Geneva Society of Physics and Natural History. Both were remarkable as having been produced by a mechanical movement. The black ball was one of two produced by the slow rolling together of dust in a cavity of the oak shaft of an old mill-wheel, and the white ball was a calcareous pebble found with many others in a grotto traversed by a torrent flowing into the Rhone.

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Photograph Swindler at Work.

About six weeks ago an agent canvassed Kokomo in the interest of the so-called Empire Copying Company, No. 1022½ Walter Street, New York City, taking orders for copying and enlarging photographs, collecting invariably 75 cents in advance of all his customers, chiefly ladies, to pay express charges, he said. In addition to the small sum of money taken, a large number of valuable photographs have been taken and no returns have ever been received. It has been learned that he has worked other towns over the State playing the same game. The Superintendent of Police of New York writes that there is no such number as 1022½ Walter street, so he is undoubtedly a fraud. He signs the receipts which he gives B. D. Manor, and is a smooth talking and appearing chap. The editor of the Kokomo Free Press will give $5 reward for information that will reveal his whereabouts, and will attend to the remainder himself.

Minor State Items.

—The Valparaiso City Council has raised the liquor license to $260 a year, from next June.

—Logansport traveling men have formed a branch of the T. P. A., with C. M. Taylor as President.

—Mrs. Jessie Brandyberry, residing near Decatur, fell dead from heart disease at the breakfast table.

—Hiram Bermish, aged 16, of Jennings County, fell under a moving train, at North Vernon, and both legs were cut off.

—Seymour business men have formed an association with Charles Leininger as President and F. S. Collins, Secretary.

—Mrs. Mary Guion made an unsuccessful attempt to hang herself at Noblesville. She is a widow with four children.

—John Deibert, one of the earliest settlers of Miami County, well known, and identified with its interests, died at Perrysburg, aged 84.

—William Ashby has sued the city of Lafayette for $25,000 damages for permanent disablement, suffered by tripping over an electric-light wire.

—The Connersville Knights of Labor held their semi-annual election under the Australian system, as a means of teaching their members the new law.

—Berry Gwin, an old and well-known citizen, dropped dead of heart disease at Vincennes, aged 74 years. Deceased was an uncle by marriage of Gen. W. Q. Gresham.

—Gibeon Crawford, of Cambridge City, received a serious kick in the head from a Texas pony, so lacerating his ear as to require delicate surgical work to replace it.

—James Brizendine, a deaf-and-dumb inmate of the county asylum, three miles east of Greenfield, was instantly killed on the railroad track while on his way home.

—Rev. Gilbert E. Farr, for the past three years pastor of the First Baptist Church of South Bend, has received and accepted a call to the First Baptist Church of Dubuque, Iowa.

—"White Cloud" and his band of patent medicine Indians were attacked by a mob of roughs at St. Paul. Several shots were exchanged, and a number of the attacking party were seriously injured.

—Lee Gray married a girl born without hands at Indianapolis this week. He has since been arrested on a bastardy charge preferred by a woman who is aged 40, married, and the mother of ten children.

—Mr. Clem Nutter, aged 63 years, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Martinsville, was stricken with apoplexy, and died. Mr. Nutter has been a resident of that city for many years, and was an exemplary man.

—Pendleton decided, by a vote of ten to one, to make the four pikes entering the city free in the future. The Commissioners have made the appraisement, and the old-fashioned toll-gate will soon be a relic of the past.

—Henry Messman, a brick-layer, and Henry Hilderman, a cutter, of Richmond, have received $8,000 each in cash from the estate of a deceased relative in New York City. They were two of nine heirs to an estate of $85,000.

—At Martinsville, Ind., Martin Hammons drove over his little boy Howard, thinking him in the wagon. The little fellow's right arm and leg were broken and he was dreadfully injured, from which he can scarcely recover.

—The 15-year-old son of Cumming Bennie, three miles east of Clay City, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun, the entire charge of the shot entering his abdomen, and driving part of his clothing into his body.

—George Schrack, residing southeast of Montpelier, while at a shooting-match, was fatally shot. He had just shot his revolver and had gone to look where he had shot when his friend shot and hit him in the lower part of the bowels accidentally. It will result fatally.

—There is a cistern in the cellar of the German Lutheran Church, on the South Side in Indianapolis, and over it lay boards seemingly securely placed. Henry Vahle, the sexton stepped on this coverning, fell into the water and was drowned.

—A mysterious patient, calling himself Marquis Cook, was brought to the Howard County Infirmary by unknown persons. He was suffering from a broken arm, injured foot and ugly scalp wound. He refused to account for his injuries.

—Zacharia Eberly, a maniac, entered the law office of H. Z. Zimmerman, at Albion, and threatened to kill him for a fancied injury. He was with great difficulty dissuaded until help could be procured. Two loaded revolvers were found on his person.

—The west-bound vestibule train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis Railroad collided with a freight engine which was partly on the side-track, at Morristown, Shelby County, wrecking both engines and piling up several cars. No one was killed and no one dangerously hurt.

—While curling her hair, Miss Mary Miles, daughter of Auditor John W. Miles, one of the prettiest young ladies of Marion, accidentally drew a hot culing-iron across her eyes, scarring the eyes. The sight of the eyes is undoubtedly destroyed.

—John Kemp, aged 35 years, residing a few miles west of Elwood, was run over by at least one train, and probably two, and literally ground to pieces. His remains were found scattered along the Lake Erie and Western Railroad track a half mile west of Elwood. Kemp was in Elwood reeling drunk.

—There is a man at Crawfordsville who has left his wife four times. The first time he was gone seventeen years, five years the second time, two years the third time, and one year the fourth time. After leaving the fourth time his wife obtained a divorce, and now he is back again. She has always made her own livelihood.

—The largest plate-glass ever cast in the United States, was cast at the Diamond plate-glass works at Kokomo. In dimensions it was 122x202 inches, or 170 square feet. Its weight in the rough was 1,530 pounds, and when finished 582½ pounds. Think of a pane of glass ten feet two inches wide and seventeen feet long, weighing 1,500 pounds.

—William Hargrove, a colored barber, met his wife on the street in the upper portion of Evansville while on her way to spend the evening with some friends, and, calling her into an alley, commenced slashing her with a razor. She received two horrible wounds, one in the neck and one in her left breast, from which her physicians say she cannot recover. Hargrove escaped.

—Dubois County White Caps paid a visit to the residence of Mrs. Kallahan, at Mentor, a few nights ago, and dragging her from her bed, gave her a severe beating and a lecture on morality. The band then went to the house of the village school-teacher, situated only a short distance away, and commanded him to call at every house in town, and inform the citizens of what had been done.

—The citizens of Montpelier, having never been fully satisfied as to the extent of drilling for oil in that vicinity, have concluded to give the field a fair test, and have just completed an organization known as the Northern Indiana Oil Company, with a paid-up capital of $5,000. Drilling will be commenced soon, with a determination to sink five wells, even if nothing good is found.

—G. W. Blount, a prominent citizen of Muncie, was at the Big Four depot, attending the departure of a relative, and did not start to get off the train until after it was in motion. In his hurry to alight he missed his footing, and the train passed over both feet below the knees. He was taken to his home where amputation followed, but the patient could not survive the shock, and death ensued before morning.

—William Stilley, Lynn Smith, and Harley Moore, of New Castle, were out hunting, when Moore was accidentally shot by Stilley. They were hunting in a thick woods, where they became separated. Stilley got up a covey of quails, which flew in the direction of young Moore, who was near by. He fired at the birds, the shot striking Moore in the face, inflicting serious wounds, and it is thought that one eye is permanently injured.

—Patents have been granted to the following residents of Indiana: Herbert Barnard, Lotus, thill-coupling; Geo. W. Freeman, Frankfort, combined buckle and snap-hook; Brenzon Doud, Chili, wire-tightener; Theodore H. Haberkorn, Fort Wayne, combination valve for air-brakes; John H. Hinds, Palmyra, napkin-holder, table attachment; Joseph M. Rhodes, assignor to S. S. Rhodes, Covington, combined plate-holder for cameras.

—Mrs. Edgar French, of Fort Wayne, had prepared a Christmas tree for her children, and had dressed herself to represent Santa Claus. While walking about the tree her flowing robes caught fire from the candles, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. The children ran screaming out of the house, and before Mr. French could put out the fire his wife was horribly burned about the face, hands, and body. She suffers exceeding pain, and it is thought her injuries will prove fatal.

—A few weeks ago James A Williams, of Hartford City, was awarded $500 damages against the Salamonie pipe-line, which supplies Fort Wayne with natural gas. The pipes of the company were laid through Williams' farm. The company appealed and decided to remove its line from Williams' farm. A force of men were engaged in that work when they were arrested by Williams for malicious trespass. Farmers are watching closely the result of Williams' struggle with the corporation.

—The Indiana State Teachers' Association elected the following officers: President, W. W. Parsons, of the State Normal school; Vice Presidents, Miss Julia Bierbauer, of Evansville; W. S. Almond, of Salem; Miss Kittie E. Palmer, of Franklin; W. R. Nesbit, of Sullivan; Miss Mattie Lough, of Lebanon, and L. O. Dale, of Wabash; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Annie E. Lemon, of Bloomington; Treasurer, D. E. Hunter, of Bloomington; Railroad Secretary, Nelson Yoke, of Indianapolis; with D. W. Thompson, of Elkhart, heading the Executive Committee.

—The two story brick residence of Dr. John Williams, two miles west of Bowling Green, was destroyed by fire the other day, in the doctor's absence. Three years ago the house was supposed to be haunted, but the ghost was allayed on the disappearance of over a thousand dollars in money secreted about the premises. A grandson was afterwards arrested and tried for the crime. He made a sort of confession and implicated others, including a son-in-law. The fire was evidently incendiary. Loss, $3,000; insured for $600.

—Jephtha Thomas, of Firley, Scott County, went out to kill a bird for his mother, who is sick. The gun exploded, a piece fracturing his skull and injuring him fatally. He lay helpless in the woods for hours before being found.

—Fred Horn, aged 17, caught his right hand in a cording machine at the Muncie Bagging Company's mills, and the member was slowly chopped to pieces by the sharp steel teeth. In attempting to free himself he pulled the muscles out of his arm to the shoulder. It was a horrible sight, and the boy suffered frightfully.

LIQUOR WAS THE CAUSE.

ELEVEN PERSONS PERISH IN A BURNING BUILDING.

Father, Mother, Eight Children and a Guest Burned to Death, Leaving Only Two Sons of the Family to Tell the Tale of the Awful Night.

A Hancock (Mich.) dispatch says: A calamity, the horrors of which have seldom been equaled in this country, was that which occurred at the little village of Hurontown, when the family of Theodore Gross, consisting of the parents and eight children, with one visitor, were cremated by the burning of the house in which they lived. It appears that the family attended a dance the previous night and did not return home until about 2 o'clock, being followed at 2:30 by their son Theodore, Jr., who is employed in the Huron stamp-mills. Having prepared to retire, he, as he supposed, blew out the lamp and went to bed. Soon after, however, his brother Nicholas awoke him and declared that he heard screams that seemed to come from a room next to theirs and which was occupied by three of their sisters and their little brothers. Running to the door, they were horrified to find the room a mass of flames and fire rapidly climbing the stairway. Finding it impossible to assist their brothers and sisters, who were being roasted alive in the now fiery furnace, and being warned by the stifling heat and smoke which encircled them that they must flee, if they would save their own lives, they rushed to the nearest window and leaped to the ground, having received serious cuts from the glass. One attempted to enter the house on the ground floor, where the father, mother and two children slept, but he was driven back by the roaring flames that now completely enveloped the building.

Many spectators had gathered by this time, but it was utterably impossible to render any assistance to the unfortunate prisoners, and the crowd was compelled to stand by and hear their agonizing cries.

In the course of three hours a searching party went over the ruins and discovered the charred remains of the eleven bodies, which were distinguishable only by the size of the bones. They were gathered in a sleigh box and deposited in the public hall. The victims were:

THEODORE GROSS.
MRS. GROSS, his wife.
JOHN GROSS.
TONY GROSS.
JOSEPH GROSS.
MICHAEL GROSS.
CATHERINE GROSS.
MARY GROSS.
LIZZIE GROSS.
LENIE GROSS, all children.
LENA ERBST, the guest.

The ages of the children range from 2 to 22 years. There is no reliable information as to how the fire started. Theodore Gross, Jr., says that it might have originated from the lamp that he supposed he extinguished before he went to bed. One point is certain—it started on the inside of the house. There are rumors that the dreadful calamity occurred through the carelessness of the parents, who are alleged to have returned home intoxicated from the dance.

The holocust is the second which has occurred in the little village in the last two weeks. In the former three lives were lost.

MURDERED IN THEIR BED.

Jerry O'Neil and Wife, of Mount Sterling, Wis., Murdered While Asleep.

A Boscobel (Wis.) dispatch says: A double murder was committed at Mt. Sterling by an assassin of whom not the slightest trace has been found. Between 3 and 4 o'clock two revolver shots rang out at the side of the house of Jerry O'Neil, two window panes were shattered and dropped to the floor, and O'Neil and his wife lay dead in their bed. Two of O'Neil's daughters, who were sleeping in an adjoining room, were awakened by the shots. They ran immediately to their parents' bedroom only to find them dead. The girls set up a cry that aroused the hired men on the place. They woke the neighbors and a search was instituted for the murderer. This availed nothing, as the murderer had quite a start and made his escape through the woods. So far there is not the slightest clue to the perpetrator of the terrible crime, but all the towns in this region have been notified of the murder and officers are on the lookout. There is no known reason why this cowardly murder should be committed. Mr. O'Neil was a wealthy farmer, who had long resided near Mount Sterling, and both he and his wife were highly respected. They had no known enemies and their children are well liked among all who know them. The people of the village and the neighboring farmers are greatly excited over the crime, and should the murderer be found in the woods, where he is supposed to be in hiding, it is not improbable that he will be lynched.

EIGHT NEGROES LYNCHED.

Taken From a Jail and Riddled with Bullets.

Barnwell (S. C.) dispatch: The murderers of Heffernan and Martin, eight negroes in all, have been lynched here. The sheriff anticipated trouble, it seems, from information of the jailer.

About 300 men, all disguised or unknown to the jailer, entered the jail. After putting him under control the party applied to the jailer to deliver some of the prisoners, and when he came to receive the expected prisoners he was overpowered.

Eight negroes were riddled with bullets just on the outskirts of the boundary line of the town.

Charleston (S. C.) dispatch: Advices from Barnwell Court House say that all is quiet and no further outbreak is feared as the result of the lynching of the eight negroes. The threats of vengeance come chiefly from infuriated black women. The talk of the negroes leaving the State is not looked upon as serious, as the community at large and their friends and denounce the horrible butchery.

Sheriff Lancaster for a long time had the jail thoroughly guarded, as threats of violence had been made, and he only withdrew the extra force when it was believed all danger was past. It is admitted that the murder of Martin by negroes precipitated the lynching.

IS NOW KING OF PORTUGAL.

Carlos I. Takes the Oath of Office—The Ceremonies.

Lisbon cable: The ceremony of proclaiming Carlos I. King of Portugal took place Saturday. The weather was cloudy, but this had no effect upon the crowds of enthusiastic people who thronged the streets through which the King passed on his way to the palace of Necessidades.

The ceremonies were carried out according to program. King Carlos proceeded at 11 a. m. from the castle to the palace of Necessidades and there, before the assembled Cortes, take the oath of office. He was then proclaimed to the people from the balcony of the palace. A procession was then formed of the King and all the state dignitaries, who went to the church of Santo Domingo and heard the te deum, and thence to the town hall where the president of the municipal government handed to the King the keys of the city of Lisbon. In the evening the city was illuminated.

Cox's Turkish Decorations.

Washington dispatch: Mrs. Cox has placed temporarily in the national museum the jewels and other decorations given her husband, the late Congressman Cox. Later on they will be returned to the Sultan, as the custom in Mahommedan circles requires that such expensive gifts shall be returned to the donor when the recipient dies.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

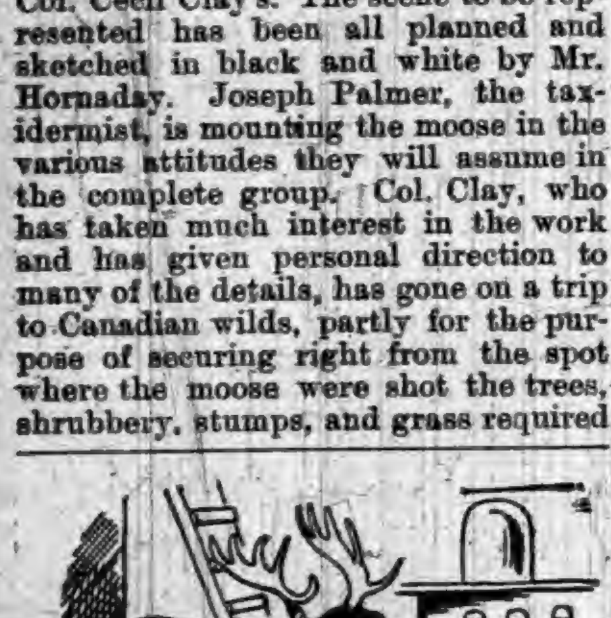
LAST OF THEIR RACE.

A STRIKING COLLECTION IN THE NATIONAL MUSEUM.

A Group of Moose Now Being Mounted by the Taxidermists—The Noble Animals So Scarce that Specimens Have with Great Difficulty Been Secured.

ONE of the most striking objects or collection of objects in the National Museum at Washington is the huge case containing what is known as the buffalo group. This represents a small section of Montana scenery, a spot in the prairie where there is a pool of water and a group of buffalo mounted by the taxidermist in most life-like attitudes gathered about the pool. The animals were secured by Mr. Hornaday in his famous hunt "for the last of the buffalo." The scenic accessories down to the last little tuft of prairie grass were arranged by Mr. Hornaday, and the buffalo were mounted by him, all in faithful conformity with nature, which he had ample opportunity for studying.

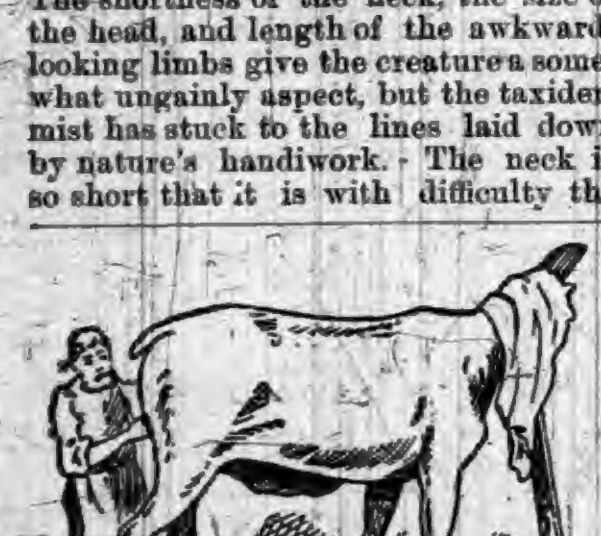
Soon there will be placed near this buffalo group another of equal size and importance. It will tell as well as one such collection can the life history of the moose. The moose group will be made up in part of trophies of Col. Cecil Clay's. The scene to be represented has been all planned and sketched in black and white by Mr. Hornaday. Joseph Palmer, the taxidermist, is mounting the moose in the various attitudes they will assume in the complete group. Col. Clay, who has taken much interest in the work and has given personal direction to many of the details, has gone on a trip to Canadian wilds, partly for the purpose of securing right from the spot where the moose were shot the trees, shrubbery, stumps, and grass required to make the scene a truthful representation of what a stealthy hunter who could get near enough to such a group of moose might actually have seen.



In the Taxidermists Room

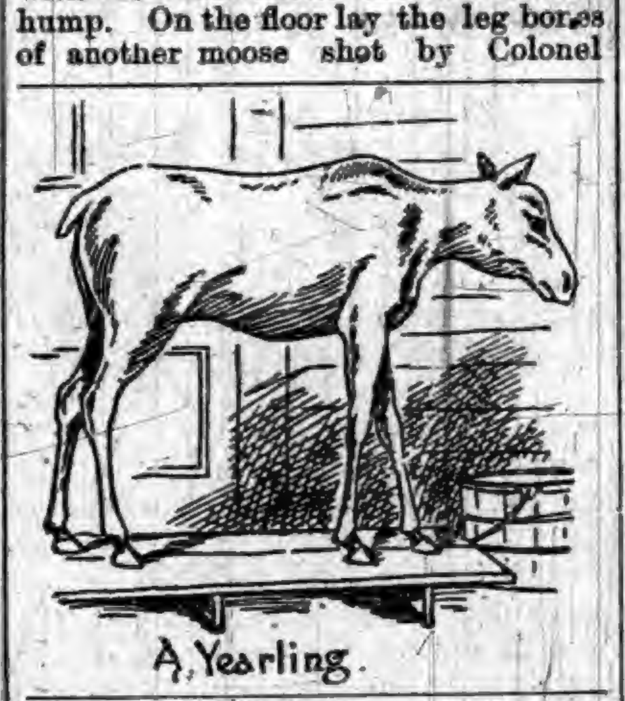
The larger of the rooms occupied by the taxidermist is now devoted almost entirely to the moose. In fact, there is room on the floor for little else, but the shelves are covered with casts, drawings, skies, antlers, and the many materials used by the taxidermist. On one shelf is a cast made from the head of a big moose, showing the great development of the flexible nose—a provision of nature which enables the animal to plow beneath the surface of the crusted snow in winter in search of the foliage of bushes upon which it feeds at that season, and also aids as a horn to give volume and effect to its peculiar and prolonged bellow when calling to its mate.

On low platforms on the floor stand the moose already mounted or in process of mounting. The largest of the group is a cow, and the taxidermist has about completed work upon this animal. This is the huge creature from the province of Ontario shot for the museum by Col. Clay and which measured 6 feet 4 inches in height at the withers. It is as large as a big horse and weighed 1,500 pounds. It is represented with legs somewhat spread and its short neck and long head stretched at an angle upward, as if reaching out to seize with its tongue and overhanging upper lip a leaf or twig from the branch of a tree. The shortness of the neck, the size of the head, and length of the awkward-looking limbs give the creature a somewhat ungainly aspect, but the taxidermist has stuck to the lines laid down by nature's handiwork. The neck is so short that it is with difficulty the animal gets its nose to the ground, and instead of grazing as common cattle or deer do it feeds upon leaves from the tops of bushes or on the lower limbs of trees.



Putting on the Coat

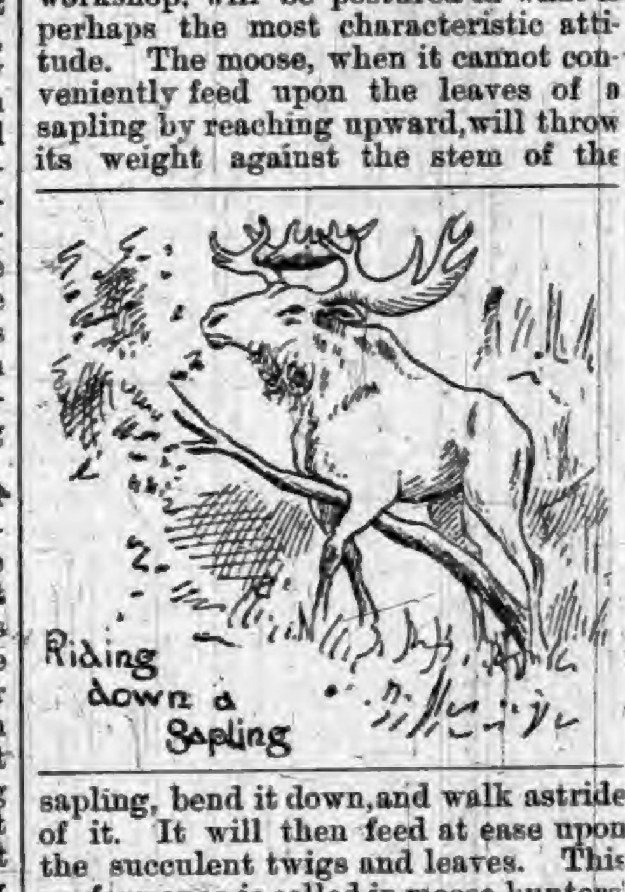
A recent visit to the work-room showed Joseph Palmer and his assistant, A. H. Forney, giving the semblance of life to the legs of a yearling moose which is to form one of the group. Near by stood another cow, about completed, and the calf secured by Colonel Clay with the big cow was off in a corner by itself ready to take part in the moose tableau. The calf, which was a very young one, is distinguished, like its mother, by the length of its legs. A bull shot in Maine stood on the ways near by, not yet ready to be launched. It was the most interesting object in the room to one who wanted to see how a moose is made—that is, a moose made by a taxidermist. It had not had its coat put on yet. The head was there, a genuine moose skull with branching antlers and some deficiencies in the body structure supplied by the skill of the taxidermist. The body, well rounded out and made in the perfect image of a moose, was composed, so far as the eye could see, of fine "excelsior," wound, and packed, and padded, and molded, and wired into the form of muscles and flesh. There were the shoulders, and the joints, and the line of the backbone all brought out and well defined. The legs had for their foundation or base the leg bones of the moose rearticulated by the taxidermist and strengthened and supported by slender but strong iron rods bent into proper shape. About these bones were twined the muscles and tendons of "excelsior." The taxidermist, by utilizing the skull and bones of the animal, secures outlines and dimensions for which nature is responsible and cannot be questioned. This half-made bull is almost as large as the great cow. Colonel Clay is not satisfied with its size, however, and hopes to secure one to substitute for it—a monarch of its race, which will represent fully the height and size attained by the full-grown old moose bull. This bull is represented standing quietly and naturally in its tracks, with its head about the level of its hump. On the floor lay the leg bones of another moose shot by Colonel Clay, and which soon will have to perform service as part of the skeleton of a moose, whose heart and vitals, circulatory system, muscles and flesh will be excelsior. When the body and limbs have been modeled to accord perfectly with measurements, sketches and casts taken from the animal before it was dismembered the skin has to be put on, and in this the skill of the taxidermist is severely tested. The skin has in the first place to be removed with much care from the animal after it is shot. Then it has to be treated carefully so as to preserve all the natural color and aspect of the coat, and be kept in a flexible condition without either shrinking or stretching. Nature's tailoring is done with much nicety, and even when the taxidermist has nature's own materials, it is not an easy task to secure the same exactness of fit in one place or the soft fold in another as that which characterized the coat of the live animal. The workman has to study his subject thoroughly in order to have his reproduction of nature look comfortable in its skin.



A Yearling.

The group, when mounted, will be represented feeding in a clump of trees, birch and ash, such as might be found in the moose country in Northern Maine or Ontario in the autumn.

The glass-case in which they will be placed will be of the same size as that inclosing the buffalo group—12 by 16. In the foreground the big cow will stand, reaching up and grasping at a twig with its tongue and lip. By it will stand the calf, and the yearling moose will be standing by with its head down and tongue protruding, licking the calf's forehead. The other moose will be feeding near by. The bull moose, still to be mounted in the workshop, will be postured in what is perhaps the most characteristic attitude. The moose, when it cannot conveniently feed upon the leaves of a sapling by reaching upward, will throw its weight against the stem of the sapling, bend it down, and walk astride of it. It will then feed at ease upon the succulent twigs and leaves. This performance is called in moose-hunters' parlance "riding down" a tree, and the moose yet to be rehabilitated will be represented in the act of feeding on a sapling which it has ridden down.



Riding down a Sapling

The Game of Information.

The newest game for winter evenings takes the form of an information party, and is begun by passing to each boy a card and to the girls small pieces of paper, which should be numbered from one up to the number of girls in the game. The boys then write a number on their cards, and those who discover the same number on their card and paper are partners for the game.

Each couple must think of a question, sensible or ridiculous, historical or in regard to the weather, to be written on cards, after which the cards are to be gathered together, and the leader reads each in turn, giving a few moments for the partners to consider the subject and write the answer, which should be read aloud in turn.

This is where the fun of the game begins, as many of the answers are exceedingly queer.

Those having a correct answer mark their card 10; a wrong answer 0; and if the answer is anywhere near right it is counted. When all are added, prizes may be distributed as in progressive games for the best and the poorest record.

This is an amusing game because of the misinformation it elicits. A great many people will be surprised at their own ignorance in regard to such questions as to the number of States and Territories, the location of cities in Europe, the names of well-known rulers, and so forth.

Of course it is not fair to ask for exact dates in history, but outside of that, there is plenty of chance to trip somebody who thinks he "knows it all."—Golden Days.

"Miss Jennie and Me."

One evening a man, tall and spare, surrounded by a country atmosphere, cautiously approached the desk at Willard's Hotel, Washington, and hesitatingly said that he wanted a room. Mr. Harris placed the register before him and handed him a pen.

"What's thet for?" inquired the would-be guest.

"Sign your name, please," was the reply.

"I've got a lady with me. It's my wife—we've just got married," was the faltering remark of the visitor.

"Then write both your names on the register," was the advice given.

An inspection a moment later revealed the following entry:

"Miss Jennie & me."

It may be love that makes the world go round, but you can't make the old maid believe it.

THE SAMOAN ISLANDS.

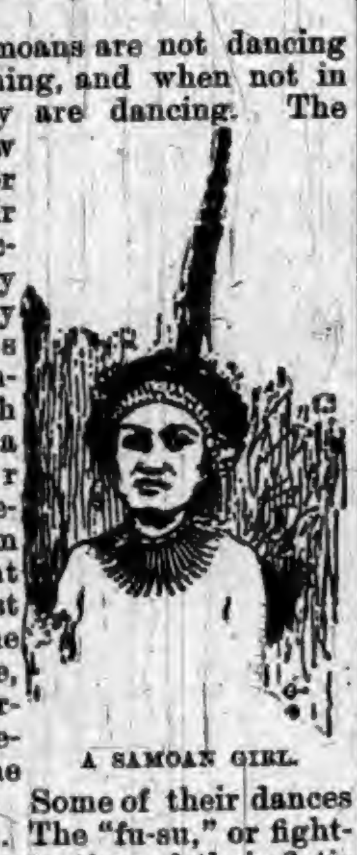
FACTS CONCERNING A VERY PECULIAR PEOPLE.

The Inhabitants of the Navigator Islands in Peace and War—The Men Are All Tattooed—Males Mature at Fifteen and Girls at Eleven Years of Age.

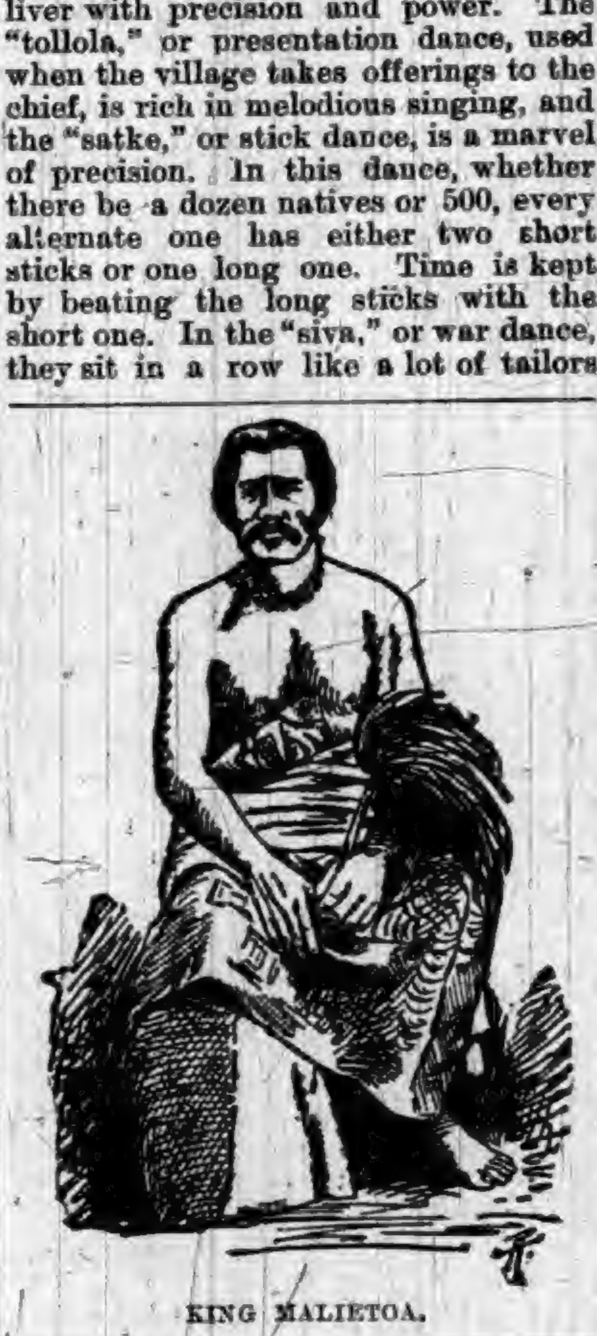
THE Samoa or Navigators Islands are situated some four thousand miles in a southwesterly direction from San Francisco. The regular monthly steamers that ply between San Francisco and Australia pass the Islands but do not stop. They "slow up" enough for the transfer of mail for officials or missionaries to a small boat and continue on their course. There is practically no trade with the islands, and merchantmen rarely visit them.

The missionaries in the Samoan Islands are not permitted to teach the natives the English language. There are schools in which the people are taught, but they are conducted in the Samoan tongue, a limpid language which has been called "The Italian of the Pacific."

When the Samoans are not dancing they are swimming, and when not in the water they are dancing. The wonder is how they find time for work. All of their dances are accompanied by songs, and every conspicuous event is commemorated with a song and a dance. Their singing is entirely different from the discordant yells of most savages. The basso, baritone, and air are carried with precision, and the time is perfect. Some of their dances are a revelation. The "fu-su," or fighting dance, is illustrative of their fistic skill. The Samoans are accomplished boxers, and in this dance assume almost the same attitudes seen in the prize ring. Ages ago they discovered the "knock-out" blow, which they deliver with precision and power. The "tollola," or presentation dance, used when the village takes offerings to the chief, is rich in melodious singing, and the "satke," or stick dance, is a marvel of precision. In this dance, whether there be a dozen natives or 500, every alternate one has either two short sticks or one long one. Time is kept by beating the long sticks with the short one. In the "siva," or war dance, they sit in a row like a lot of tailors and go through a series of extraordinary calisthenics.



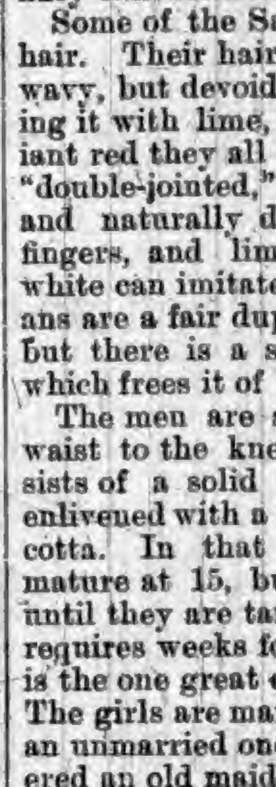
A SAMOAN GIRL.



KING MALIETOA.

Some of the Samoans have fiery-red hair. Their hair is naturally long and wavy, but devoid of kinks. By bleaching it with lime, they obtain the brilliant red they all admire. They are all "double-jointed," and they are able to, and naturally do, move their arms, fingers, and limbs into positions no white can imitate. In color the Samoans are a fair duplicate of the mulatto, but there is a sub-tint to their skin which frees it of any "muddy" effect."

The men are all tattooed from the waist to the knees. This tattoo consists of a solid background of blue, enlivened with a smaller design in terra cotta. In that sunny land the boys mature at 15, but they are not men until they are tattooed. The operation requires weeks for its completion, and is the one great expense in their lives. The girls are married at from 11 to 15, an unmarried one of 16 being considered an old maid.



All values are computed by mats. The value of a mat is determined not by its size or beauty but by its age, an old ragged affair, full of holes, often being almost priceless.

The religion of the Samoans is little more than a mythology. At birth every child is given a god. When one sleeps the god is away; when one awakens the god has returned to him. Hospitality is part of their religion. Every village has its "Fale-tale," or guest-house, set apart for visitors. The people, with songs and dances, bring their offerings, and while he is with them all they have is at the command of the stranger within their gates.

Autumn Poetry.

His darling—George, dear, how sad and solemn are the thoughts connected with the close of the year. The beautiful summer is dead. The boughs of the trees, stripped of their foliage bend and sway in the chill autum breezes that sough through their—their——

"Whiskers?" suggested George himself.

"No; branches, dearest. And listen to the melancholy chirping of the toadstools——"

"Those are not toadstools; they are crickets, dear."

"Oh, is that so? I knew it was something to sit on."—Judge.

Something New.

With the compliments of the season, we find on our table a very attractive little volume which contains very many useful items of information, besides the novelty of a large collection of autographs of prominent men, and also humor and rhyme well illustrated. A special attraction is its offer of "Free Music," which offer is set forth therein. The little book is the annual St. Jacobs Oil Calendar for 1889-90, which is in every way as good as the best published in this line, and is gotten out in the interest of The Great Remedy for Pain, St. Jacobs Oil, and the other valuable specifics for the cure of disease which THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md., the publishers and proprietors, have placed on the market. These great remedies are by reputation standards in trade. The book is to be found at druggists and dealers', for free distribution, or, it can be had by sending a two-cent stamp to the publishers.

Bootblacks Who Ring Up Their Shines.

As the Philadelphian stepped down from the chair and surveyed his well-polished boots with satisfaction, the bootblack rung up the price of the shine on a primitive-looking concern, an imitation of the cash registers that ornament the city's bar and lunch counters.

Philadelphian—What in the world is that?

Bootblack—Dat is de register, boss. Dat tells how many shines I does.

Questioning brought out the statement that this particular "shiner" was one of several who were working for an employer, and the crude register was an invention of the capitalist to prevent his employes from "knocking down," as the bootblack put it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Merry Children.

Mrs. Murrayhill — Celeste, what is Master Harold crying for?

Celeste—I happened to say, madam, that I lived with a boy who had 104 presents one Xmas.

Mrs. Murrayhill —Well?

Celeste—Why, then he insisted upon counting his, and he has been kicking and crying like this ever since; because he has only ninety-eight.

Mrs. Murrayhill (soothingly)—There, Harold, dear, you shall have some more if you want them. I should think, Celeste, you could get on peaceably with the little fellow to-day of all days.—Life.

He Told Her So.

"There goes another of those dress reformers, Brown. Did you ever see anything so ridiculous? Just look at it?"

"Yes; I told her it wasn't becoming, and would cause remarks."

"You told her? Why, what do you mean? Told who?"

"Told that woman yonder. She's my wife."—American Commercial Traveler.

"WHY need it be?" we say, and sigh
When loving mothers fade and die,
And leave the little ones whose feet
They hoped to guide in pathways sweet.

It need not be in many cases. All about us women are dying daily whose lives might have been saved. It seems to be a widespread opinion that when a woman is slowly fading away with the diseases which grow out of female weaknesses and irregularities that there is no help for her. She is doomed to death. But this is not true. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is constantly restoring women afflicted with diseases of this class to health and happiness. It is the only medicine for these ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers of its giving satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills; 25 cents a vial; one a dose.

True Friendship.

She (whispering)—You see that Mrs. Youngboy playing at the piano? I do feel so sorry for her husband—she flirts so outrageously, and they fight like dogs and cats!

He (interested)—Indeed!

She—Yes; and their poor children are so neglected! They both have vile tempers, you know, and I don't suppose anyone could get along with either of them.

He—But how do you come to know all this?

She (surprised)—I?—Why, I am their best friend, don't you know!—St. Paul Eye.

Deafness Can't Be Cured.

By local application, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Why Are Hotel Cooks so Often Fat?

"Did you ever wonder why most cooks are fleshy?" asked the chef of a well-known hotel. "Well, I have a theory that is held by many people to be correct. The unusual amount of flesh is undoubtedly due to the absorption through the nostrils, mouth, and pores of the skin of the aroma, or what ever you call it, of food which is being cooked. The man or woman who, day after day, lives in an atmosphere permeated with savory odors of cooking food soon begins to get fleshy. Think this over and you will agree with me."—Philadelphia Press.

A Wonderful Flesh Producer.

This is the title given to Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil by many thousands who have taken it. It not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food. Use it, and try your weight. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable. Sold by all Druggists.

"HAVEN'T you finished scaling the fish yet, Sam?" "No, master; 'tis a very large one." "Why, you have had time to scale a mountain."

WHAT an irascible father says: As the twig is bent the boy is inclined to shoot out at the door.

Many imitate "Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

WHAT weed does a gardener seldom object to? A cigar in his own mouth.

Helpless 40 Days

"For twenty-five years I have suffered with sciatic rheumatism. Last November I was taken worse than ever, and was unable to get out of the house. I was almost helpless for forty days, suffering great agony all the time. In December I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the second bottle I was able to be out and around and attend to business. I took five bottles, and am now so free from rheumatism that only occasionally I feel it slightly on a sudden change of weather. I have great confidence in Hood's Sarsaparilla." CHARLES HANNAH, Christie, Clarke Co., Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD PAID, or highest commission and 30 DAYS' CREDIT to AGENTS on our NEW BOOK. J. S. ZEIGLER & CO., Quincy Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. A Quick and Positive Restorer of Manly Vigor, and the only Legitimate Specific for Sexual Debility and Lost Vitality known. A Marvelle in Invigorator. [illegible]

The Grave Gets Tired Yawning.

Seemingly, for certain wretched invalids who toddle feebly along, though always looking as if they were going to die, but omitting to do it. They dry up, wither, dwindle away finally, but in the meantime never having robust health, know nothing of the physical enjoyment the zest of that existence to which they cling with such remarkable tenacity. They are always to be found trying to mend by tinkering at themselves with some trashy remedy, tonic or "pick me up" to give a fillip to digestion, or "help the liver." If such misguided folks would resort and adhere to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters it would be well with them. This superb invigorant supplies the stamina that the feeble require, by permanently re-enforcing digestion and assimilation. It overcomes nervousness, insomnia, malaria, kidney complaints, biliousness, constipation, rheumatism and neuralgia.

Seemed Strange.

Willie—That's an awful pretty doll of yours, Gracie. I wonder what's the reason they always make dolls to look like little girls.

Gracie—'Cause girls are prettier than boys.

"I know it but it seems to me mighty strange they don't make a boy a doll sometimes. Now this one of yours can roll its eyes up and down, and sort of talk, you know, Gracie, and—"

"And call out 'papa' when you squeeze it."

"Yes, that's what makes it seem so strange. Girls don't do that, you know."—Chicago Tribune.

Copy of Original.

VAN WERT, Ohio, July 11, 1889.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich:

GENTS—This is to certify that I had what is called sciatic rheumatism so badly that I was all drawn over to one side. My hip sank in so that you could lay your hand in the cavity, and I could do no work for over one year. I tried some of the best physicians and did almost everything I could hear or think of, and nothing did me any good until I purchased a bottle of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup of Hines & Son, druggists, Van Wert, O. Four bottles cured me and have never had it since.

ALBERT KING.

We certify to the above testimonial.

HINES & SON, Druggists.

Forcibly Struck.

"Did you read my play?" said Penley to Banks.

"Yes."

"How did it strike you?"

"Forcibly; I couldn't restrain my emotion."

"That's true," broke in Banks' wife; "I was in the next room when he read it and I never heard a man swear so in my life."—Washington Capital.

To-Night and To-Morrow Night.

And each day and night during this week you can get at all druggists' Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, acknowledged to be the most successful remedy ever sold for the cure of Coughs, Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Asthma and Consumption. Get a bottle to-day and keep it always in the house, so you can check your cold at once. Price 50c and $1.00. Sample bottle free.

The Ball at Johnson's.

"I regret to say, gents," said Mr. Johnson, stopping the dance in "partners to the center," "de ice cream man's here, but he won't leave de viand till he's paid, an' as all my cash uz los' in the nex' room on de dice, ef it is de wish o' de comp'ny dat de ice cream be lef', it'll be my duty to collec' a small sum from each gent."—New York Sun.

THOSE who use Dobbins' Electric Soap each week (and their name is legion) save their clothes and strength, and let soap do the work. Did you ever try it? If not do so Monday sure. Ask your grocer for it.

A NEGRO minstrel, when asked what his trade was, responded that he was a caulker.

AN EXTENDED POPULARITY.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have for many years been the most popular article in use for relieving Coughs and Throat troubles.

A MECHANIC'S wife rarely wears a tulle bonnet, and yet her bonnet is usually the result of the use of the tool.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

A FIRE-PLACE has a grate opportunity.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

ASTHMA. Popham's Asthma Specific Relief in TEN MINUTES. PETER D. SWOYER, M. D., Fritztown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 20 years; found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid. TRIAL PACKAGE FREE. Address, T. POPHAM, PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

A MAN at Genoa, Ohio, has a clock two hundred years old. That must be one of the old times we read about.—Tid-Bits.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass, and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address the Oregon Immigration Board, Portland, Oregon.

DID you ever notice how they struggle to conceal the identity of hash on a bill of fare by putting it in French?

LUMBAGO.

Lumbago is a form of the chronic stage of rheumatism, in the lumbar region or muscles of the back, which is readily cured by rubbing the parts freely with St. Jacobs Oil. It is commonly known as:

BACKACHE.

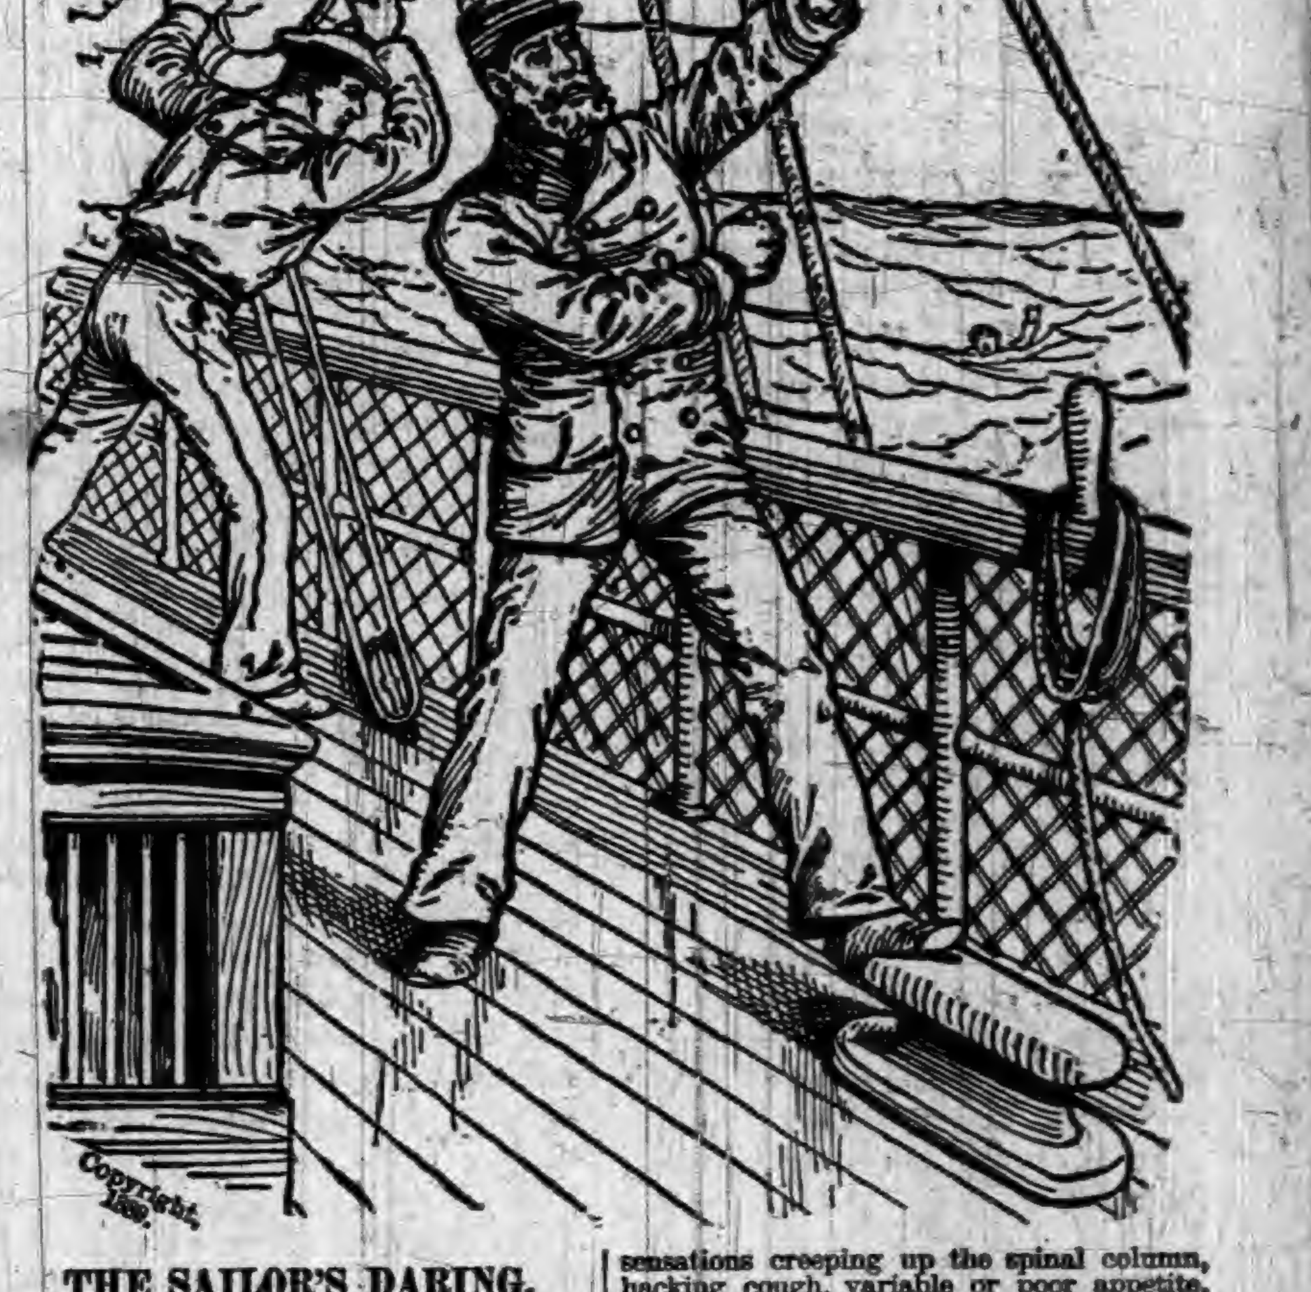
Victoria, Tex., June 22, 1888.

I was in bed two months with backache; suffered about three months. I was cured by St. Jacobs Oil permanently; no return in 14 months. G. W. JEFFERSON.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. DR. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.



Copyright, 1889.

THE SAILOR'S DARING.

"Man overboard! Stand by to lower away the boats!" With what alacrity every man on board springs to his post at the dread cry, knowing a fellow creature's life is at stake! Yet that life is in no more danger than that of the man or woman who trifles with what may seem "a simple blood disorder," but which in reality is fast sowing the seeds of a fatal disease, when the early use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would cleanse the blood, restore impaired digestion, tone up the vital organs and ward off consumption. It should take the place in the family corresponding to that occupied by the life preserver on shipboard. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, "Golden Medical Discovery" is guaranteed to cure. This it will do if taken in the earlier stages of consumption, but after a large part of the lungs have broken down, no medicine can stay its fatal progress. How important then that the earliest premonitory symptoms be heeded! Short breath, spitting of blood, occasional chilly sensations creeping up the spinal column, hacking cough, variable or poor appetite, feeble digestion, with gradual loss of flesh, cold feet, lassitude or general debility, should admonish one that all is not right.

You can't afford to fool away precious time if suffering from any considerable number of the above significant symptoms of approaching danger! It's madness to trifle and experiment with uncertain means of relief and cure when thus afflicted! Don't forget, at such a critical time, that the only medicine possessed of such positive curative properties as to warrant its manufacturers in selling it, through druggists, under a positive guarantee of its benefiting or curing in every case, is the world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery." For all Bronchial, Throat and Lung Affections, Weak Lungs, and kindred ailments, it is an unequaled remedy.

For a Complete Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases, or for one on Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, enclose ten cents, in stamps, state which book you want and address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 OFFERED for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF

MONT.
DAKOTA
WISCONSIN
NEBRASKA
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
N. MEXICO
ARK.
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE.

THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

YOU ARE A LIAR When you dare to say that Jones of Binghamton, Binghamton, N. Y., doesn't sell the very best FIVE-TON WAGON SCALES Beam Box, Tare Beam, for $60 Free price list, every size. "Jones he pays the freight."

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to Learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Address VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

N. U., F. W.........No. 1—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Annual Fair Meeting.

Notice is hereby given to the Stockholders and stock subscribers of the De-Kalb County Fair, that on Thursday January 16, 1890 at 1 30 p. m. at Ensley's Hall, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Ind., a meeting will be held for purpose of electing officers of said Fair for the ensuing year: a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary and twenty directors. A full attendance is requested.

C. P. Glazier, Pres. W. H. Dills, Secy. 2

The Forum for January.

The contents of The Forum for January are: The tariff and the Farmer, by John G. Carlisle, ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, which is an argument in answer to Senator Cullom's recent article in The Former, to show that the "home-market" theory is a fallacy, and that what the farmer buys is made dearer and what he sells is made cheaper by the tariff. Prehistoric Man in America, by Major J. W. Powel, of the Smithsonian Institution, who denies that there is any scientific evidence of an American people preceeding the Indians. The theory of a distinct race of mound builders he regards as unsound.

Lumber Proposals.

The executive committee of the De-Kalb County Fair, will until 2 o'clock p. m., on Saturday, January 4, 1890, receive sealed proposals for 7,100 feet of fence railing 2 x 4 inch, 16 feet long; 660 posts 5 x 5 inch, 8 feet long, and 350 posts 4 x 4 inch, 6 feet long. All to be of sound and green White, or Burr Oak. To be delivered by March 1, 1890, on the Fair ground, and piled up where designated. Bids in lots of 1,000 feet for railing, and 100 posts are solicited. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved,

C. C. Shaffer, Chairman.

Dec. 2, 1889.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Mr. W. P. Johnson, Atlanta, Ga.

Whose picture adorns the head of this column, is an extensive coal and wood dealer. He said lately: "My business necessitates a good deal of exposure upon me, and last winter, owing to this fact, I was attacked with a very severe case of inflammatory rheumatism. "What I suffered from this dread disease can better be imagined than described. "I did everything I could to cure myself. I tried every means in my power and every remedy left me as bad or worse than I was before. I could not raise my hand to my head, and it looked as if, even if I were rid of the disease, its effects would CRIPPLE ME FOR LIFE. "About four weeks ago I was persuaded to try Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure, and my relief was almost instantaneous. I am now on my fourth bottle, and I am as sound a man as there is in Georgia.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE.

Is a superb tonic and blood purifier, quickly curing all diseases of the blood, skin and kidneys. $1 per bottle. Book of testimonials free. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. Manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, for bronchitis, coughs, asthma and colds.

USED ALL THE YEAR ROUND!

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA

For LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, PURIFYING the BLOOD.

Used for 30 Years. Best Preparation in the World for Sick Headache, Pain in the Side and Back, Constipation, Pimples on the Face, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Boils, Piles and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or an Impure Blood. It is a powerful tonic for the weak and feeble, especially females & children. It cannot hurt the most delicate constitution.

It is the Best Medicine in use for Regulating the Bowels. QUART BOTTLES, $1.00. Three Bottles for $2.50. Delivered free of any charge. Sold by all Druggists. Send for Circular.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich.

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS, A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

ASK FOR SMOKETTES
SEED AND HAVANA
5 CENT
CIGARS

For Sale in Auburn, by
Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.
Waterloo Agencies,
Locke's Hotel.
A. V. Sinclair & Co.

LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

Waterloo Fair Meeting.

The annual meeting of the directors and stockholders of the Waterloo fair association met at the secretary's office in that place last Thursday Dec. 26. The board of directors met at 10 a. m. and proceeded to close up all unfinished business, and then listened to the reports of the secretary and treasurer. Mr. Kiplinger, secretary, gave an itemized statement of the year's business including a list of all expenses and of receipts. The total receipts for the year, from all sources, were over $4,000, and the money paid out was nearly the same, leaving but a small balance on hand. This statement showed that after paying all the ordinary running expenses of the fair, they had paid $660 on the principal of the debt and $249 of accrued interest, or a total reduction on the debt of $909. In addition, permanent improvements, such as new stables had been made amounting to about $356 showing that the association had earned and used over and above its ordinary running expenses more than $1,265. This is considered a good showing for the past year, when all things are considered. The treasurer's report showed the same items in substance. A committee consisting of Milo J. Thomas, Albert Buchannan and [illegible] was appointed to examine the books of both officers. They reported in the afternoon that everything was in good shape. The directors meeting then adjourned after a brief session in the afternoon and the stockholders meeting at once convened. The same reports were read to them and approved. Election of officers being in order, Mr. Boyer declined to serve again as president, as it interfered so much with his business. R. N. Crooks was put in nomination, and received the unaminous vote. John W. Boyle, of Butler, was unanimously elected vice president, M. Kiplinger for secretary and H. K. Leas for treasurer, were both unanimously re-elected. A committee, consisting of Judge McBride, M. Leas and Henry Hood, was appointed to draw up a list of directors to be submitted to the stockholders. While the committee was thus engaged, encouraging speeches were made by a number of members, and Mr. Lockhart talked briefly about farmers' institutes; thinks one will be held in Auburn. Dr. Chamberlain made a speech favoring the selecting of young men, for places of active duty. The committee, on directors, reported the following names, A. D. Moore, J. A. Barns, R. M. Lockhart, Albert Buchanan, J. H. Leas, F. W. Fanning, W. A. Patterson, J. M. Waterman, Herman Boozer, Harry Chamberlain, M. B. Willis, Milo J. Thomas A. G. Daniels, J. C. Boyer, B. L. Duncan and Wm. H. Parnel.

On motion by Gen. Blair these officers were unanimously elected to serve the coming year. It was shown that some of the additional stock authorized, had been taken and more was promised, and altogether the outlook of the association, was considered unusually bright.

THE FAVORITE WASHER.

Testimonials from Leading Citizens of DeKalb County.

October 31, 1889.

We the undersigned citizens of De-Kalb county, having purchased and used the improved Favorite Washer manufactured by B. M. Ball, Muncie, Ind., and sold by W. L. Meese, of Auburn, Ind., hereby certify that we consider it the best and most practical of which we have any knowledge. It is the only machine that we have ever seen that will wash everything from a pocket handkerchief to the heaviest bed quilt or blanket, without the use of a washboard, and we can fully recommend it to all in want of a washer.

C. C. Walter, Auditor,	Auburn	Ind.
A. J. Carmer,	..	..
Mrs. H. M. Lamport,	..	..
T. J. Saxton,	..	..
Mrs. J. B. Casebeer,	..	..
Mrs. S. L. Gibson,	..	..
Mrs. Wm. Murphy,	..	..
John Keeran,	..	..
Mrs. Julianna Hensinger,	..	..
Mrs. H. Draggon,	..	..
Mrs. A. Lewis,	..	..
Mrs. C. P. Houser,	..	..
Mrs. G. W. Quince,	..	..
J. D. Rowley, Butler	township,	Indiana.
James Weurick,	Waterloo,	Indiana
Mrs. Obe Leas,	..	..
W. S. Dancer, Jackson	township,	Ind
A. J. Harris,	..	..
L. E. Lane,	Auburn,	Indiana
E. C. Potter,	Franklin township,	Ind.
John Fee,	..	..
J. W. Platter, Comm'r,	Newville,	Ind.
Mrs. R. N. Crooks,	Grant township,	Ind.
T. E. Imhoff,	..	..
Geo. O. Denison,	..	..
L. G. Duesler,	..	..
Daniel Thomas,	Richland township,	Ind.
John Harris,	Auburn Junction,	Ind.
G. I. Patterson, Co. Comm'r,	Rich.,	Tp
Isaac B. Brandon,	Auburn,	Indiana.
Mrs. L. Demoss,	Garrett,	Indiana.
Mrs. J. A. Caldwell,	..	..
Dr. A. A. Kester,	..	..
H. A. Clark,	..	..
C. C. Buss,	Auburn.
W. A. Feagler,	DeKalb,
Mrs. S. M. Knott,	Cedar Creek
C. H. Baber,	New Era,
Mrs. T. Hall,	Butler Center.

Important to Soldiers and Their Heirs.

Soldiers and their heirs who have unsettled claims, or who wish to apply for pension, increase or bounty, should call upon Mr. J. B. Conover, representing the well known firm of Soule & Co., Attorneys, of Washington, D. C., who will be at the Swineford House Auburn, Ind., Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 4, 6 and 7, for the purpose of giving free advice to all claimants. Claimants should bring their discharges and all papers relative to their cases. Under present liberal rulings soldiers are certain of receiving their rights, and all who have rejected claims should have them reopened. If you cannot call, write to Soule & Co. and state your case.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well-known nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.
CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Chicago, Ill

Wannamaker, postmaster-general, has been trying to have postage reduced on fourth-class matter, and might have succeeded, had it not been discovered that his game was to increase the sales by mail, of his great retail store in Philadelphia. So he will probably fail to get government help in his private business. But what better ideas of propriety could we expect of a man whose only recommendation to his high position was the raising of a vast sum of money to corrupt a presidential election?

The Record wants to know if we favor the repeal of the duty on sugar. Well, as the Record hints, "that depends." If the duty is to be taken off and at the same time, this republican administration will leave the internal revenue standing as now on whisky and tobacco, then we are agreed, as it will still leave us an amount of revenue, sufficient to carry on the government. But as our surplus revenue is reported by the president and secretary of the treasury at 57 millions last year, and estimated at 43 millions for the present year, we don't see how we can reduce the revenue all around to as great an extent as cutting off both the 130 millions of internal revenue, and 58 millions on sugar. This would not do. But it seems to be just what republicans desire. Then they can raise the tariff higher on other necessaries, and help enrich their freinds who raised campaign money. But it appears, the sugar dealers did not pay anything to that fund, and hence must take what comes.

The United States have had but seven chief justices of the supreme court. The first, John Jay of New York was appointed by Washington in 1789. Five years later, he resigned to go as minister to negotiate the treaty with France, and William Cushing of Massachusetts was appointed but declined to serve. In 1796 Oliver Ellsworth, a senator from Connecticut was appointed but in 1799 he resigned to go as minister to France. President John Adams then appointed his secretary of war John Marshall, of Virginia in 1801. His successor, Roger Brooke Taney, was appointed by Gen. Jackson. He had been Jackson's attorney-general. He died in 1864 and was succeeded by Salmon P. Chase of Ohio. Morrison R. Waite, also of Ohio, succeeded Chase, and when he died, Cleveland appointed the pesent chief justice, Melville W. Fuller, of Chicago.

"Protection" says the Butler Record, "discriminates in favor of the American manufacturer, who gives employment to domestic workmen." But he knows better. The American workman is not protected. There are more foreigners at work in places where Americans should be, than we had thirty years ago. Nor does "the protected manufacturer keep the profits from his business in this country," for much of the easily gotten gains of those who are "protected," we see spent in pleasure trips abroad, among the nobility and other snobs. That is the way Blaine spends his. And his dear friend, Carnegie, whose profits by the aid of protection, amount to a million and a half in a year, spends his in the same way, besides buying extensive manors and building fine castles in Scotland. And while Carnegie was doing this, his workmen at home were working at rates so low, that they were compelled to strike, and a long struggle followed before they could get living wages. Protection is a humbug. It means only protection for the rich so they can oppress the poor.

Coal and coke dealers in the Pennsylvania mines have started a new scheme to "protect the American laborer from the pauper labor of Europe." They have been getting so many new Hungarians lately that suspicions were aroused. It now appears they have been making arrangements with government officials in various parts of Hungary, to frighten ignorant poor people, laborers and small farmers, by telling them it had been proved they had been talking against the emperor, and that rather than see them put to death, the emperor had ordered that they sell all their little property, and go to America. The officials would take all the money they got by the sales, and claim it took all of it to pay the passage here. Of course, there was often a sum left, which they put into their own pockets. The poor, ignorant immigrant reached America out of money, and out of heart, and the coal barons readily secured his labor at a price, lower perhaps, than he had received in his own country. These facts are just coming out and will be investigated. If proved, the officials in Austro-Hungary will have to suffer. In any case, it has proved the great love the highly "protected" coal men have for American labor. It is another proof that "protection don't protect." Protection's a robbery.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Treotman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city, leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Treotman.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Altetative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

The lumber cut of the season just closed is estimated at 128,000,000 feet, and that of lath at over 33,000,000. This is greatly in excess of last season's cut.

Blood vs. Nerves.

Great mistakes have been made in the world, by supposing many nervous troubles were due to bad blood. Thus headache, fits, dizziness, sleeplessness, etc., are always due to weakness or irritation of the nerves of the brain; dyspepsia, pain, wind, etc. to weakness to the nerves of the stomach: weak lungs is caused by weakness of the parts; biliousness, constipation, etc. to weakness, of the nerves of the liver or bowels; pains, irregularity, sterility to derangement of the uterine nerves. For all weakness, Dr. Miles' great nerve and brain food surpasses all other remedies. Trial bottles free at F. E. Davenport. 1

They keep it in the family at Logansport, a man named Wilson, democratic mail carrier, retires and his brother takes his place.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial Bottles Free at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

Christian Sunday-school at Kokomo now said to be largest in U. S. of denomination. Has had over 600 average attendance for past six weeks.

Dropped Dead.

Physiologists estimate that the heart does 5,000,000 pounds of work each day. No wonder people drop dead with worn out hearts. This could be prevented by Dr. Miles' new and great discovery, the new cure. Always commence when you first begin to get short of breath, have weak, faint or smothering spells, pain or tenderness in side, etc. Sold at Davenport's. 1

LaPorte has been howling for a lake channel for a long time, but the Herald is still positive it will come.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Mr. Blaine recovers readily from lumbago, but there seems to be no relief for him from the sting of the presidential bee.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Jas. J. West, ex-editor of the Chicago Times, found guilty of over-issuing stock and sent to the pen for five years and fined $1,000.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

James Doegern, the Clay county forger admits having passed four forged notes of $600 each on Worthington bank two years ago.

Our Druggists.

F. E. Davenport says they are selling more of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup than any other preparation, for coughs, colds etc., it being cheaper, more pleasant to take and guarranteed to cure. The price is only 25cts., making it the cheapest reliable cough medicine in the market. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Anderson and five other townships in Madison county voted by big majority to free toll roads. People feel jubilant over result.

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's which makes it a very necessary article for the family.

Yours, G. W. Spellman.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Greatest Discovery of the 19th Century.

DR. I. C. TEAGUE'S
MEDICATED AIR

Medicated Air
Dr. Teague's
NEW REMEDY
CURES
Catarrh! Asthma!
THROAT AND
LUNG DISEASES!
HAS NO EQUAL
For Sick or Nervous Headache.

Teague's Lung Balsam is a positive cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Diphtheria, Spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough and all Throat and Lung Diseases. Teague's Eye Salve cures all diseases of the Eye: Granulated Lids and Weak Vision. In conjunction with Medicated Air as an ointment in Catarrh it has no equal. Teague's Medicated Obliterator is a perfect Toilet Powder. Its purity allows of perfect freedom of use, imparting a delicate softness to the complexion.
☞ If not kept by your druggist, send to the Medicated Air Co., Richmond, Ind., U. S. A. For sale by Geo. McKay & Co., Auburn, Ind.

1890! LOW 1890!

PRICES

FOR ALL, AT

WILSON'S SHOE STORE,

IN WATERLOO, IND.

Boston and Candee Rubber Boots, $2.30.

Such well known makes as Whitney & Bowen, and Blocher Bro's Boots at corresponding low prices and

EVERY PAIR WARRANTED.

Ladies' and Gents', Misses' and Children's Fine and everyday Shoes, in large variety and very low prices.

FELTS, RUBBERS, ARCTICS, Etc.

We handle only a reliable make of goods and guarantee our prices as low or lower than any dealer in North Eastern Indiana for same quality of goods. Thanking you for past patronage, and soliciting your future trade, we are, respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON, & SON,

Waterloo and Fremont, Ind.

John G. Carlisle.

The Forum.

A MONTHLY REVIEW OF LIVING SUBJECTS

By the Foremost Writers in the World.

The Forum has won the highest place reached by any periodical; for it publishes articles by more authoritative writers and by more workers along instructive lines of activity than any other publication. It contains eleven studies of great subjects every month. It is impartial, giving hearings alike to each side. It is financially independent, and it belongs to no sect or party or "interest." It is never sensational, but it aims always to be instructive.

The Forum is of great value to that part of my college work which deals with practical politics and current questions. Two sets are hardly enough for daily use by students.—Prof. ALFRED BUSHNELL HART, of Harvard.

I consider The Forum as furnishing the most intelligent and sympathetic audience that a thoughtful writer can find to address in any land.—Prof. ALEXANDER WINCHELL, of the University of Michigan.

The Forum continues to hold its place as the foremost of our magazines, for the variety, the value, and the weight of its contributions.—THE NEW YORK TIMES.

There has come forward no problem of grave importance since The Forum was established that has not been discussed in its pages by masters of the subject. Announcements of forthcoming articles can seldom be made long in advance, for The Forum's discussions are always of problems of present concern. Every such problem that the year 1890 will bring forward will be discussed, whether in politics, or religion, or social science, or practical affairs. The January number will contain a reply by ex-Speaker J. G. Carlisle to Senator Cullom's recent article on "How the Tariff Affects the Farmer."

THE FORUM PUBLISHING COMPANY, 253 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

50 Cents a Number. Subscriptions received at this office. $5,00 a Year.

TRY THE CHICAGO WEEKLY HERALD THIS YEAR.

All the News-Fine Illustrations Good Stories-Full Market Reports-Able Editorials.

A Complete Family Newspaper and the leading Democratic Weekly of the Northwest.

8 PAGES 1 YEAR $1.00

Send for Sample Copy.

James W. Scott Publisher Chicago Ill's

CORRESPONDENTS.

[LAST WEEK]

NEWVILLE.

Dan's bear had quite a skirmish with Jake's Coon.

Aunt Julia Rex is some better, but not able to be up yet.

Alice Rex, of Pleasant Lake, was the guest of Dr. Hull's last week, she also called on other friends.

Jake, is the guest of John Quincy, every Sabbath evening. We have plenty of wood, Jake, bring a little oil.

A great many are growling, growling for snow. I say my kind people the Lord will provide (Spokeshave.)

Lucius Loveland's silver wedding was a success, had a grand time and friends were there that had not met for years.

In our last issue we spoke plainly to the boys about cider, if you do not want to hear it boys, stop your tippling.

The Brethren have contemplated holding their protracted meetings through the holidays, as they get three or more new members every night.

The funerals of Charles Wanamaker and the wife of Rastus Wanamaker, were preached the same hour in the disciple church. Everyone sympathizes with the bereaved friends.

I will have to tell you before it is too late,
G. N. Rex has had some words with Hate.
Hate had in his hand a big meat saw
Which he whirled over his head and took G. N. on the jaw.

G. N., got up and gave Bill a twitch,
And threw him on his back in the ditch.
'Squire Headley nipped the racket in the bud;
Billy went with him rubbing off the mud.

SEDAN.

A Happy New Year to you all.

B. L. Hine is teaching the Cedar Lake school.

Miss May Clark, of Auburn, spent Sunday at this place.

Steckly Bros., of this place, have their chop mill in runing order.

Mr. L. E. Hine, of Purdue University, is at home during the holidays.

The wedding spoken of by the correspondent to the Press last week has not come off yet, but we presume he can give the particualrs anytime (that is the particular reason it did not come off.

SUMMIT.

Mr. John Crampton is slowly improving.

Frank Gramling was in town Wednesday evening.

Miss Aggie Baxter went to Waterloo last Saturday on business.

Ol. Gramling has been laid up with the mumps the past week.

Miss Margaret Mortorff visited a few days last week with Mrs. Emily Smith.

The Butler Record has settled the queston for the farmers. He says "they are producing too much." Now, Mr. Farmer, is this so? Are you producing more wheat than you want to, more corn, more oats, more beef, more pork? If you have by long hours of hard labor been producing twenty bushels of wheat per acre, would you be any better off by spending more time in sleep, or in hanging around town, allowing the weeds to choke your crop down to ten bushels per acre? Would you prosper better, if instead of twenty acres of wheat or corn you should put out only ten? Would you prosper more by raisng only ten hogs or ten steers to sell, instead of fifteen or twenty? Would any such change be better for you? We have no doubt as to your answer. Farmers are the one class, at least, who can never be deceived by the "last-ditch" cry of "over production." There need be no over production if the markets of the world were open to us. The world needs all our farmers can raise, all our manufacturers can make, all our mines can produce. But a silly and suicidal course adopted and kept up as a national method for thirty years, has shut us off from the markets of the world, and clogged the avenues of trade everywhere, till farmers have found themselves taking each year, lower and lower prices for their produce, until that chief of all the industries of the world is pushed to the foot of the ladder, their onetime prosperity checked, and as a final windup to the long series of indignities that have been forced upon them, they are told by some one whose hand never felt a plow handle, or bound a sheaf, that "they are producing too much." Bah! Go tell these stories to the "horse marines." You can't fool a farmer with such truck.

The Butler Record once more tries to deceive by saying the Courier mentioned coffee, as one of the articles affected by the tariff. The Courier did no such thing and we ask the Record to produce what we did say. The Record had said that farmers were getting the articles they buy cheaper than heretofore, and carried the idea, that this would make up for the lower prices they have to take for their produce. To this, the Courier replied: "We still insist that while farmers must sell for a third less than they got last year, they are not able to buy articles for a third less. A few things are cheaper, but the most of the necessaries of life remain about the same, and some have been, and still are, very much higher. Notice groceries, especially coffee and sugar. All this makes it much more difficult for a farmer to make both ends meet than was the case last year." This is all we said in the entire article to which he alludes, and from this the Record tells its readers, that we said the tariff made the coffee higher. As the Record says, coffee was put on the free list in 1872, and has been free since. But for the past year the price has been high making it as we said, that much worse for the farmer who must take much lower price for his produce. If the Record's home original editorials are going to be as untruthful as this, then we certainly prefer his foreign "original," ready-made editorials foolish as they are.

Ladies, all our $1.25 corsets at 85cts to close them out, at Post's.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1890. NUMBER 2.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

BEFORE INVOICING,

In order to reduce our stock to the lowest limit, so that it can be more easily handled, we offer an all around

DISCOUNT OF 10 PER CENT.

NOTE THIS!

Most merchants make a sale after invoicing, to work off old calamity catchpennies. We make our sale before invoicing, and offer

THE PICK OF OUR ENTIRE STOCK

Without reserve, at this general discount,

For 15 Days
THIS OFFER HOLDS GOOD
And No Longer.

REMEMBER THIS:

Our prices are always lower than any others, and our discount of ten per cent, is equal to twenty offered by two-profit stores.

THE BEST, BIGGEST BARGAINS!

Ever offered in our line will be made during this short sale.

DON'T SUPPOSE

That this is the old chestnut sale or the snap variety.

COME AND SEE

The genuine reductions and be convinced that

We Do All We Claim.

The FAMOUS Clothier,

North Side Courthouse,

AUBURN, IND.

A BAD SHOWING.

How Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., Muddle the Geography of One Indiana County.

The Indianapolis Sentinel has the following letter from Clay county, to show that the old school books themselves are not as perfect, as they have been claiming. It reads:

"Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., have spent much time and money in pointing out to the public minor defects in the new series of Indiana school books. Among the most serious objections they have to the new geographies is that Connersville, in Fayette county, is placed on the wrong side of the river. Now if Fayette county has a river of any very great magnitude, and Connersville is placed on the wrong side, it seems to me like a very serious, if not irreparable misfortune for Connersville. I do not know of my own knowledge on which side of the river Connersville is located, so I went to Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co's geography for information. But they run the river right through the town and so I remain uninformed.

But as I was looking up this Connersville matter in Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co's geography, I was startled to discover that Bowling Green is marked as the county seat of my own county. We native Hoosiers have been paying taxes for the last fifteen years at Brazil, and it is pretty generally understood that Brazil is the county seat of Clay county. The new geographies say it is, but what is still better, the people here know it. No Cincinnati man and no Cincinnati geography can convince us differently. Our minds are thoroughly made up on this question, and our information comes from the very best source possible. The fact is, we are on the ground, and ought to know, and do know that Brazil is our county seat.

Now my son, having reached Brazil and paid our taxes, we will take a little stroll out east of town and look at the coal shafts. Halloo, here is a town, the first one east of Brazil.

"My friend, what town is this?"

"Knightsville," says an old resident.

"Are you sure?"

"I am."

"You must be mistaken, my friend, for Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co.'s geography calls it Harmony."

Well, here we are in another town, a few miles further on, and the second town east of Brazil, in Clay county.

"I say, old man, what town is this?"

"Harmony."

"I guess not. Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. call it Knightsville. Look at their geography No. 2, latest edition, and see."

The oldest inhabitant is outdone. Old campaigners know very little about their own county, as compared with the information of the smallest children in our public schools who have made a study of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co.'s No. 2 geography.

Clay City has fifteen hundred inhabitants, and with its suburban town of Martz and other coal villages quite near, contains twenty-five hundred people. It is by far the best town in any direction, within a radius of twenty miles. It is situate about the center of the strip of country extending from Brazil to Sullivan and from Terre Haute to Spencer, and is the only town of any consequence situated within this vast area of sixteen hundred square miles, in the best portion of the state. Not only this, but it is one of the livest, if not the very livest town of its size in the state.

"Now, my son, look at the very latest edition of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co.'s geographies and tell me in what part of Clay county it is located."

You say it is not there? Is it possible that the publishers of a geography with so many defects right under our nose, should have us searching their books to put us right on defects which, they allege, exist in our new home series of books? By all means, let us pray.

FRANK A. HORNER.

Clay City, Ind., Dec. 30.

Another Link in the Chain.

On Friday afternoon, Jan. 3, Captain A. A. Rowland, of this place, together with the members of his staff of officers, went over to Butler to muster in the charter members of what will be known as Headley Camp No. 205, Div. of Ind. S. of V., U. S. A. Everything went off in apple-pie order, and the camp starts out with a roll of seventeen charter members, with as bright prospects before it as could be desired. And it may be added that much of the success of this enterprise at that place, is due to the earnest zeal and untiring energy of Comrade Young, a member of the G. A. R. Thus another link has been added to the rapidly growing chain, which is gradually and firmly weaving its strong bonds of patriotism in every nook and corner throughout this broad land. Carrying with it, and practically directing the minds of several thousand sons of those veterans whose heroic deeds the organization perpetuates. May Headley camp find just as much enthusiasm manifested by its membership as has been experienced by its predecessors elsewhere, is the wish of the writer. In closing it will perhaps be well to give the Butler folks what is due them concerning their hospitality. They are up with the times in extending a hearty welcome to those who may chance to visit the city.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith. tf

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304, 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400, $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302, 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 269. Two vacant lots in Brandt and Ashley's addition.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $3,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100-barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 130 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307, 220 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ¼ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill. 36-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation, 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1¼ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot fine what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE OVER,

—And we must now—

PREPARE FOR SPRING TRADE.

In order to reduce our STOCK, We have cut prices in

EVERY DEPARTMENT.

WE WANT YOU TO GET OUR PRICES ON

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

LADIES' WRAPS, Etc.,

WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY.

WE HAVE A FEW

SETS OF FURS LEFT,

Which we will sell one-fourth off regular prices.

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always courteous and pleased to show goods. We are yours, respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO., Auburn, Ind.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1890, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Mich. The Transfer Books will close on January 14th, and remain closed until January 25th.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to

JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries,
Mention this paper. Rochester, N. Y.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Grapes for Changeable Weather.

The effect of changeable weather on ladies of delicate constitutions is very depressing and serious, and something strengthening is needed to assist nature in withstanding the strain. Nothing more effective can be found than Speer's Port, Burgundy and Claret Wines, which are in general use in the New York and other hospitals. For sale by druggists.

IMPORTANT!

We are now prepared to furnish at once,

Extra Fine

ROSES,

CARNATION and HOLLY.

Elegant Floral Designs

ON SHORT NOTICE.

T. E. COVINGTON,

35 W. Washington St,

FT. WAYNE, IND.

Mr. Cleveland.

[Harper's Weekly.]

It cannot be denied that the defeat of last year has not made Mr. Cleveland a less interesting and significant public figure. His conduct since he re-entered private life has been dignified, discreet, and becoming. A president who retires in the vigor of his prime, with general respect, and the recognized representative both of certain great principles in politics and of definite policies and measures, cannot dissapear from view except by an inexorable resolution to seclude himself completely in privacy. There is no reason why Mr. Cleveland should do so, and it will not be denied that upon every occasion on which he has publicly appeared since he left the White House he has deepened the general confidence and respect with which he is regarded. The secret of this result is the universal belief that he represents with entire sincerity the higher political feeling and aspirations of the country. This is the more striking, and it makes his position the more remarkable, because it is not the universal belief that this is true of his party, although in every speech he naturally assumes that it is. It will not be denied, however that if his party should set him aside, and select another candidate in 1892, there is a very large and intelligent vote which the candidate would not receive. That is to say, it is a vote for Cleveland, and not for the democratic party. It is one of the extraordinary incidents of politics that the man who really stands for political progress in the best sense is one of the leaders of the party which Governor Hill leads in New York. Mr. Cleveland's recent speech in Boston illustrates the familiar fact that we mention. It was delivered at a dinner from which partisan discussion was excluded. It was devoted to the practicle morals of politics, and he spoke simply and strongly for political honesty in the highest sense. The acclamation with which it was received sprang from the feeling that he was the embodiment of the views which he expressed. Gov. Ames and Mr. Andrew Carnegie, both of them his party opponents, paid homage to his sincerity and fidelity, and the whole occasion was typical of Mr. Cleveland's present position. It is certainly a good sign of the political health and vigor of the country that the representative of political honesty and wise progress, although a private citizen, is the most popular American.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

An Astounding Declaration.

[Indianapolis News.]

The attorney for the United States in this district, Mr. S. N. Chambers, in an explanation in The Journal of why he refused to sanction the warrant against Col. Dudley, after exhausting the law of the case, so to speak, tackles its morals thus:

"I wish, also, to state that I have read the letters printed in the press, purporting to be written by the colonel, and, in my opinion, unattended by any extraneous evidence, they do not advise bribery, as appertaining to the election of 1888. The letters, construed in the light of the knowledge that we all posess of how elections in Indiana are conducted by both parties, have nothing in them of a criminal character, but upon the other hand, when so construed, are honorable, and indicate simply a patriotic interest in the elections."

The letter that Col. Dudley stands charged with writing, and which neither invocation of law nor the temptation of reward can induce him to deny, said among other things:

"Divide the floaters into blocks of five and put a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five, make him responsible that none gets away and that all vote our ticket."

This, Mr. Chambers declares, he thinks is not advice of bribery. This is amazing. If there is no bribery intended, why are the recipients of the letter warned to see that the "necessary assistance" is "husbanded and made to produce results"? If this does not mean the debauching of the ballot box, the highest crime in our civilization, what does it mean? Will Mr. Chambers tell us? And what does he mean by further declaring that the letter, "construed in the light of knowledge we all posess of how our elections are carried in Indiana," is not only not criminal, but honorable? We do not know the men nor the associations that hold a standard of morals which reckons such advice as "honorable" and as "indicating simply a patriotic interest in the elections," and it certainly is in order to put Mr. Chambers on the witness stand and compel him to impart some of that "knowledge" which "we all posess as to how elections in Indiana are conducted by both parties." What does Mr. Chambers know? Who are his associates? Certainly this standard of public morals makes his incumbency of a public office a shame and a disgrace. President Harrison owes it no less to himself than to the public service and to this community to promptly relieve Mr. Chambers. The knobs of Crawford county might approve as "honorable" and as "indicating a patriotic interest in elections," advice to "divide floaters into blocks of five" and to put a "trusted man with the necessary funds, to see that none get away, but that all vote their own ticket."

See our notice of that excellent democratic paper, the Chicago Weekly Herald. We will send it with the COURIER one year, for $2.25 for both papers. 2

On February 1,

we will move into our new building, and in order to close out our stock as much as possible, we will give

10 Per Cent. Discount

On all goods sold during the month of January. Now is your time to buy cheap at the

BARGAIN STORE,

SOUTH OF JAIL.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's

Joint Installation.

On Monday evening, Jan. 6, the G. A. R., W. R. C., and the S. of. V., of Auburn met at the G. A. R. Hall in a joint assembly for the purpose of administering in public, the installation ceremonies upon their newly elected officers, who will serve in their respective stations for the year 1890. The G. A. R., gave their installation first. And to all who were permitted to be present, it was a pleasure both in formality and feature. Pension Commissioner Ensley, being the retiring commander of Delong Post No. 67, gave a full report of the financial and social standing of the order at this place, which was very flattering for the boys in blue, and showed that the Grand Army of the Republic is finding favor with the people whose freedom is the result of the many years of suffering endured by those brave boys who now seek to perpetuate the memory of the deeds done, and victories won, that marked them heroes every one, while the strife was at its heighth, which should close with liberty or oppression for this grand nation of nations, in whose government every citizen has a voice. He closed his report with a very appropriate speech, in which he exhorted his comrades to a higher aspiration in the perpetuation of fraternity, charity, and loyalty. Comrade Green, takes his place as commander of this post, and it is believed that with the assistance of his subordinates, without which, his success as commander would be a failure, he will be able to make a report at the end of his term, as encouraging as the one just submitted by Ex-Commander Ensley.

Next came the installation of the officers of the W. R. C., which was no less pleasing in its every feature, than that of the G. A. R. The retiring commanding officer, gave a report of the proceedings of that order at this place, for the year just ended, which spoke well for them, and demonstated the fact, that the efforts of those noble women to relieve the wants of their fellow creatures were not in vain, but that they and their purposes are receiving the recognition, not only of those to whom they are bound by the ties of love and fraternity, but by the general public as well. They have a membership which would be an honor to a town much greater in size than this. Mrs. Ensley, being the retiring commanding officer, administered the installation ceremonies.

Then came last, but not least, the installation of the officers elect of the S. of. V., in which the enthusiasm was no less than that experienced by their noble mothers and brave fathers, who listened to, and watched their ceremonies with marked attention. Thus demonstrating the fact that they appeciated the efforts of their boys, in thus banding themselves together in a grand brotherhood, for the purpose of perpetuating the memory and taking care of those who sacrificed so much in their behalf. For the benefit of those with inquiring minds, we submit herewith a list of the officers installed, who will serve during the coming year:

Capt., A. A. Rowland; Camp Council, M. B. Willis jr., J. C. Noel and J. A. McClellan; 1st Lieut., F. A. Provines; 2nd Lieut., Elmore Likens; Chaplain, E. M. Hilkey; 1st Serg't, Lewis B. Fretz; Q. M. Serg't, Geo. Ditmars; Serg't of Guard, A. L. Kuhlman; Corp'l of Guard, U. S. Weaver; Camp Guard, C. L. Martin; Picket Guard, Elza Housel; Principal Musician, J. J. Wolf. The camp has a good round membership, which is gradually increasing. Capt. Rowland may be congratulated upon his selection of staff officers. Properly speaking, much of his success as captain of Samuel Ford Camp No. 114, will depend largely upon the efficiency of those officers. It's funny, but nevertheless it's true, that you seldom ever see women get left because of their forgetfulness of the inner man, and it is our pleasure to say that this occasion was no exception to the ordinary. For when the business of the evening was finished, what did those thoughtful ladies do, but to bring before the assembly's astonished gaze, a bounteous repast, in the line of cake and fruits. All in all, this affair was a grand one, and will be kept in memory for many years to come. And when the soldiers, their wives, sons and daughters shall have answered the final roll call, may their organization be just as perfect, their career just as brilliant, and their fraternal love as complete and joyful as it was in this world.

Bauer Bros. give 10 per cent off on all sales this month, so as to have a small stock only to move to the new building Feb. 1. 5

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings, of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

WILD SHOUTS.

They Greeted Imprisoned Miners and Their Rescuers.

Wilkesbarre special: At the Nottingham mine in Plymuth—where the disastrous cave-in occurred last week—a terrible accident was averted the other evening. About 7 o'clock a terrific explosion of gas took place. There had been a heavy fall of coal and this forced the gas toward the shaft, but on its way it was ignited by the naked lamps of the miners and exploded. The battice work and timber caught fire at once and burned fiercely. Five men were caught between the cave-in and the fire, and all manner of exit cut off. The report spread that the men were dead and in a few minutes hundreds of men, women, and children gathered at the mouth of the slope waiting to see the dead bodies hoisted out. The wives and children of the imprisoned men became frenzied, and their grief was terrible to behold. About one-half an hour after the fire broke out John D. Humphreys and John Richards were lowered into the mine. When they reached the fire they heard shouts on the other side. Putting their hands before their faces they rushed through the fire and dragged the five imprisoned men out one by one uninjured. When they reached the anxious crowd above, the rescued men and heroes were received with shouts of welcome. Thomas Richards who was in another part of the mine was severely burned by the explosion and it is feared he cannot recover.

A BAD EXPLOSION.

A Naptha Still at Lima, Ohio, Explodes and Several Workmen Are Badly Injured.

A thousand-barrel still of naptha at the works of the Standard Solar Refinery, Lima, Ohio, exploded with terrific force. The still is at the east end of the grounds, and at the south school building it nearly caused a panic among the children. The cause of the explosion is not yet explained. A number of men working near were covered with debris. The oil immediately caught fire, causing considerable excitement. William Culver, foreman, was found insensible under a brick pile with a bad gash in his head, and his face was burned. Peter Devine, a brickmason, had his right leg broken in two places and was badly bruised and burned. Their injuries are serious and may prove fatal. J. F. Dreman, face and hands badly burned; William Murphy, J. L. Galler, L. E. Helser, Walter Ævans, Frank White and John Sullivan, bruised and burned, but are not thought to be seriously injured. Charles Landkammer was blown quite a distance into a tank of water and came very nearly drowning. The fire was extinguished without any great loss to property.

Another Explosion.

The explosion of a kerosene lamp caused the total loss of the Felertown Manufacturing Company's factory in Manistee, Mich., and the sacrifice of the life of an unfortunate employe named William Chambers. Chambers was employed in the finishing department of the factory, which is constructed of wood. Desirous of beginning work before daylight had set in he borrowed a lamp from another workman, but on attempting to light it the lamp instantly exploded, setting fire to the varnish and to the clothing of the unfortunate man. The factory was in flames in a few moments and the man fell writhing in his death throes. The other workmen had barely time to escape. Loss, $40,000, insurance, $18,000.

A Bad Day for Accidents.

Pittsburgh special: The mail train on the Pennsylvania road made a record for itself Tuesday last. At Troone, it killed Yardmaster Adam Wolfgang, and probably fatally injured Robert Worley, a conductor of Altoona. The men were standing on the track and were struck by the engine. At Hennis Creek, about ten miles east of here, she ran over and killed two unknown men supposed to be Hungarian laborers in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad. They stepped out of their cabins onto the track directly in front of the engine and were run down and horribly mangled. The train stopped, the bodies were taken aboard and brought to this place and now lie awaiting identification.

Yellow Fever in Rio Janiero.

The London Times' Lisbon correspondent says that a Brazilian paper reports that the Government at Rio Janeiro intends to expel the Russian Envoy in consequence of Russia's refusal to recognize the republic. Private letters from Rio Janeiro say that intensely hot weather prevails there and that yellow fever of the most malignant type has appeared in the city.

Two Girls Asphyxiated.

New York special: Two young girls named Mary Fallon and Lizzie Cunningham, who slept together, either blew out the gas or turned it off carelessly in retiring. Next morning the former was found dead and the latter unconscious and will probably die.

Ohio Legislature Meets.

The Sixty-ninth General Assembly of Ohio convened Monday, the Democratic caucus nominees for the various positions being elected and the seats drawn, after which the Governor's message was read.

How Is This?

A prominent coffee dealer in Baltimore claims to have a dispatched from Brazil stating that the new government has increased the export duty on coffee from 11 to 15 per cent.

Fire in a Tacoma Hospital.

A Tacoma, Wash., dispatch reports that fire broke out in the Fannie Paddock Hospital, an institution which was crowded with patients. They were carried out into the snow and saved, but it is thought the sudden change and excitement will be fatal to a number. The fire was extinguished in a short time.

Senator Blackburn Renominated.

The Democratic caucus at Frankfort, Ky., nominated J. S. Blackburn to succeed himself as United States Senator from Kentucky. After the nomination, which was made without opposition, Senator Blackburn made an address in which he thanked his supporters, the people of Kentucky, and the Democracy.

UNFORTUNATE RAILWAYS.

List of the Foreclosures, Sales and Receiverships During the Year 1889.

The year 1889 makes a much less favorable showing in respect to foreclosure sales than did its immediate predecessor, but its record is much less discouraging than in the three years preceding 1888. According to statistics compiled by the Railway Age, railways in operation which were sold under foreclosure during 1889, with their mileage, and the amount of capital which they apparently represent, were as follows:

Roads.	Miles.	Funded debt.	Capital stock.
W. Pennsylvania & Shenango Conn'g	22	$ 400,000	$ 500,000
Vicksburg & Meridian	143	4,017,000	5,903,000
Keokuk & Northwestern	52	660,000	720,000
Wabash Railway	948	27,000,000	....
Richmond & Allegheny	252	9,060,000	5,000,000
Texas West. (N. G.)	53	636,000	500,000
St. Jo. Val. (N. G.)	11	54,000	54,000
Pont. Oxford & Pt. Austin (N. G.)	218	1,806,000	1,000,000
Alameda County	6	*100,000	*100,000
Denver, S. Park & Pacific (N. G.)	325	7,560,000	6,235,000
Bright Hope (N.G.)	33	307,000	179,000
Chattaroi	50	2,000,000	1,500,000
Canada & St. L.	29	*261,000	*290,000
Ithaca, Auburn & Western	39	898,000	1,000,000
Geneva, Ithaca & Sayre	77	1,350,000	1,675,000
Battle Creek & Bay City	17	288,000	65,000
St. Louis, Sturgis & Battle Creek	41	664,000	1,000,000
Cincinnati, Wash'n & B'ltim're	281	22,210,000	18,879,000
St. Louis & Chi.	62	1,300,000	2,800,000
Fort Madison & N. West'n (N. G.)	45	210,500	500,000
Seneca Falls & Waterloo	4	71,000	40,000
St. L., Des Moines & Northern	136	2,600,000	4,000,000
Savannah & Tybee	18	175,000	251,000
N. Y. & Atlantic Highlands	3	20,000	*20,000
Rome & Decatur	65	1,050,000	*650,000
Total, 25 roads	2,930	$84,864,000	$52,951,000
Total funded debt and stock			$157,815,000

*Estimated.

In addition to these three companies having partially graded lines but no track in operation—namely, part of the Burlington & Southwestern, the Lehigh & Eastern, and the Savannah, Dublin & Western Short Line—were sold in payment of old debts, bringing merely nominal prices.

WHEAT IN THE NORTHWEST.

The Stocks in Country Elevators in Minnesota and the Dakota.

The stock of wheat now in country elevators in Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota aggregates 9,914,000 bushels, an increase of 54,000 bushels for December. The stock has change but little for the last two months, and will not probably show great alteration this month, as the farm movements promise to be small. The wheat in transit to Minneapolis is only about 500,000 bushels, against an estimate of about 1,000,000 bushels a month ago, and 1,250,000 Nov. 1. This includes all the wheat between country elevators and terminal elevators in Minnesota, so that the total wheat out of farmers' hands in Minnesota and the Dakotas that has not yet been included in the reports of public and private stocks in Minnesota amounts to 10,464,000 bushels, against 10,910,000 bushels in December, and 11,220,000 bushels in November.

AN IDAHO TOWN BURNED.

Flames Destroy the Business Portion of Wardner.

A special from Wardner, Idaho, announces the fact that that thriving little town is in ashes, at least the entire business portion is a mass of smoldering ruins. The fire originated in a laundry, and a determined effort was made to check the flames, but the water gave out. A stream runs through the center of the town, and the fire company attempted to get water from this source, but the thickness of the ice prevented. The entire population had in the meantime turned out and fought the flames with snow. Twenty-five stores were burned to the ground and their contents are a total losss. Holley, Mason, Marks & Co., extensive hardware dealers, are the heaviest losers. The aggregate loss is estimated at between $100,000 and $150,000.

E. T. JEFFERY'S SUCCESSOR.

C. A. Beck Appointed General Manager of the Illinois Central.

President Stuyvesant Fish, of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, has given official notice of the appointment of C. A. Beck as General Manager of the company. Mr. Beck has been Acting General Manager of the road ever since Mr. Jeffery's resignation. Previous to that time he was General Superintendent in charge of the operating department. As Mr. Beck is a thorough operating man, but has not heretofore given any special attention to traffic affairs, it is quite probable that he will continue to devote his principal attention to the operating affairs of the company, in which line of business he has few, if any, superiors.

REMARKABLE PROSPERITY.

Growth of St. Paul and Minneapolis the Past Year.

The St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press has published an elaborate statistical article entitled "Tale of Two Cities," presenting a very comprehensive review of the progress achieved by the twin communities during the last year. Among others the following carefully compiled figures may be of interest:

Bank clearances	$449,626,000
Increase of clearances over 1888	39,087,000
Banking capital	14,120,000
Bank surplus	3,397,000
Real-estate transfers	56,756,000
Building improvements	20,223,000
Assessed valuation of cities	250,065,000
Total jobbing of all sorts	348,872,000
Total manufacturing products	162,284,000
Total population	400,000

LOSS OF THE STEAMER GLAD TIDINGS

The Missionary Vessel Cast Ashore on the Coast of British Columbia.

Intelligence is received at Victoria, B. C., from Kitkatlah harbor, in the northern part of that province, that the little missionary steamer Glad Tidings was cast ashore there during a heavy gale Dec. 15. Details are meager, and at present it is unknown whether there was any loss of life, but it is thought not. It is believed the Glad Tidings will be a total loss. The craft had been doing good work civilizing the Indians along the north shore. She was the home of the Rev. Mr. Crosby, who had devoted himself to that work.

FOUND FLOATING BOTTOM UP.

The Schooner Joseph Souther Picked Up at Sea—All Her Crew Lost.

A Boston dispatch says: "The schooner Joseph Souther, Captain Baxter, of Thomaston, Me., from Brunswick, Ga., October 2, for Boston, has been towed into this port. She was found bottom side up off Cape Henry. Her crew of eight men are undoubtedly lost. She is a total wreck, but her cargo of hard pine will be saved.

PEACE IS FINALLY PROCLAIMED.

The Strike on the Mackey Roads Ended, and the Men Go to Work.

An Evansville (Ind.) dispatch says: The conference between President Mackey and the committee from the Evansville & Terre Haute, the Evansville & Indianapolis, the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis, the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville roads, comprising the Mackey system, came to an agreement, and the men have returned to work. The details of the compromise are not known further than that Master of Transportation Hurd will be retained in his position.

ELECTED SENATOR FROM MONTANA.

Thomas C. Power Chosen to the Second Seat in the Upper House.

A Helena (Mont.) dispatch says: The Republicans in joint session have elected Thomas C. Power as the second United States Senator from Montana. Mantle's friends made a desperate fight, but were unable to overcome the strength developed by Power. Lieutenant Governor Rickard's candidacy was looked upon as a joke by his friends, and they wisely refrained from voting for him.

SIX PERSONS POISONED.

A Louisville Servant Girl Suspected of Putting Arsenic in the Coffee.

At Louisville, Ky., Gerard Gregory, his wife and four children were poisoned with arsenic in their coffee. A servant, Emma Dumes, is suspected. She disappeared soon after the poisoning was discovered. Her mother asked at the police station to know if her daughter was under arrest. No cause can be assigned for the poisoning, and the case is not now explained.

WANTS TO GOVERN OKLAHOMA.

John I. Dille, of Indiana, Likely to Secure a Good Appointment.

John I. Dille, at present Register of the Land Office at Guthrie, Oklahoma, is being pushed by friends in Indiana for the position of Governor of Oklahoma. He was Secretary of the Indiana State Central Committee in the last campaign, stands well with politicians, and is supposed to have a sure thing on the appointment.

Turkish Troops Routed by Cretans.

Advices from Crete report that another encounter has taken place between the insurgents and the Turkish troops, the latter being routed with considerable loss of life. The ammunition of the troops was abandoned and fell into the hands of the enemy. The Russian Government is displeased with the restrictions of the Turkish Government's firman in regard to Crete, and has requested the Porte to extend amnesty to every one in the island and to abolish the state of siege.

Want to Rule the Kansas G. A. R.

The Hon. Dick Blue, of Pleasanton, and the Hon. Ira F. Collins, of Sabetha, are seeking to be Commander of the Kansas Department of the Grand Army of the Republic. Each has a strong following. Mr. Blue is the original service-pension advocate of Kansas and is a member of the Pension Committee appointed at the national encampment, and Mr. Collins is a member of the Board of Managers of the State Soldiers' Home.

Damages by the Laeken Fire.

A Brussels cable says: The damage caused by the fire at Laeken is estimated at $1,200,000. Some priceless statues have been destroyed, and the table upon which Napoleon signed the declaration of war against Russia was shattered. Their Majesties intend to reside in the portion of the palace which has been preserved. Only the contents of the palace were insured, and these for $550,000.

To Escape the Turks.

A Constantinople cable says: The Armenians in the province of Flashgerd recently sent a petition to the Shah of Persia asking permission to emigrate to that country in order to escape the oppression of the Turks. The Shah not only assented, but granted lands to the petitioners, besides offering them money to assist in the work of cultivation.

Green B. Raum, Jr., Married.

A Philadelphia (Pa.) dispatch says: "Green B. Raum, Jr., son of Pension Commissioner Green B. Raum, was married to Miss Annie Iredel Rogers, daughter of Mrs. William D. Rogers, widow of the late William D. Rogers, a wealthy carriage builder of this city."

Negroes Leaving the Carolinas.

Negroes are leaving North and South Carolina for Mississippi and other Southern points. Poor crops and scarcity of money are given as reasons for the exodus.

To Help American Rubber Buyers.

It is given out that the State Department at Washington will take action to put a stop to discrimination against American buyers of rubber at Para, Brazil.

Frenzied by Religious Excitement.

A number of people have been made crazy at High Prairie, Kan., as the result of excitement growing out of a powerful revival in progress there.

A Railroad Manager Resigns.

Mr. John C. Gault, general manager of the Queen & Crescent Road, has resigned, to take effect Feb. 1. Superintendent Richard Carroll will be made general manager.

Death Sentence for a Boy.

Otto Leuth, the 17-year-old boy recently convicted at Cleveland, Ohio, of the murder of little Maggie Thompson, has been sentenced to be hanged on April 16.

A Boston Failure.

Charles M. Barrett & Co., hide and leather dealers, Boston, have gone into insolvency. Assets and liabilities not given.

A 3 Per Cent. Dividend.

The Central Ohio Railroad has voted a 3 per cent. dividend, and also decided to lease the Columbus and Cincinnati Midland line.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@	5.50
Good	3.50	@	4.50
Common	2.50	@	3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.25	@	3.75
SHEEP	4.00	@	5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@	.78
CORN—No. 2	.29	@	.29½
OATS—No. 2	.20	@	.20½
RYE—No. 2	.44	@	.45
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.23	@	.26
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09	@	.10
EGGS—Fresh	.17	@	.18
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu	.38	@	.43
PORK—Mess	9.00	@	9.50
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—Cash	.75	@	.76
CORN—No. 3	.27½	@	.28½
OATS—No. 2 White	.22	@	.23
RYE—No. 2	.44½	@	.45½
BARLEY—No. 2	.47	@	.48
PORK—Mess	9.00	@	9.50
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@	4.00
HOGS	3.00	@	4.00
SHEEP	3.50	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.81	@	.82
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.31	@	.32
OATS—No. 2 White	.25	@	.25½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.81½	@	.82
CORN—Cash	.30½	@	.31½
OATS—No. 2 White	.21	@	.21½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.75	@	5.25
HOGS	3.75	@	4.50
SHEEP	4.00	@	5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.86	@	.88
CORN—No. 2	.42	@	.43
OATS—Mixed Western	.27	@	.30
PORK—Prime Mess	10.50	@	11.00
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@	5.00
HOGS	3.25	@	3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77½	@	.78½
CORN	.25	@	.26
OATS	.19	@	.20
RYE—No. 2	.44½	@	.45½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.50	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	3.75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76½	@	.77½
CORN—No. 1 White	.34	@	.35
OATS—No. 2 White	.23½	@	.24½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.25	@	3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@	.78
CORN—No. 2	.30	@	.31
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.23	@	.24
RYE—No. 2	.49	@	.51
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	3.50	@	4.25
HOGS	3.25	@	3.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.91	@	.91½
CORN—No. 2	.35	@	.35½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Multiplicity of Living Ancestors.

A very uncommon family relationship has just developed in the family of Ira Cooper, who lives near Mitchell. His infant son, Oliver Perry Cooper, enjoys the distinction of having six living grandmothers, and of these the four great-grandmothers each have Ann as a part of their names. This peculiar consanguinity is certainly a rare circumstance, and perhaps cannot be equaled in all the world. The young child's great-grandmothers are Mrs. Ann Beasley, Mrs. Ann Neal, Mrs. Mary Ann Roberts, and Susan Ann Cooper. Their ages range from seventy to eighty-three years. One of them lives in Monroe County and the other three in Lawrence County, in which Mitchell is located. They are so near in their locations that all could be summoned together at the home of their little grandson in ten hours' time. The two grandmothers are Mrs. Sarah Cooper and Mrs. Mary Beasley, and they live at Mitchell. Both the grandfathers are living, and their names are Daniel Boone Cooper and Henry W. H. Beasley. One great-grandfather is living, and his name is John Beasley. Although the child has so many grandmothers living, its own mother is dead. She died about a week after the birth of the son. The remarkable longevity of these people is a fact that will be a delight for scientists to consider.

Minor State Items.

—Wm. Cain, a butcher at Martinsville, killed three hogs that averaged 650 pounds each.

—A. R. Shadamy, of Waynesville, was dangerously injured by falling from a train near Seymour.

—Samuel Lamire, aged 16, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother, while out hunting near Jackson.

—Miss Ella Tilford, a teacher in the Martinsville high school, who recently went to the Pacific coast for her health, died at Orange, Cal.

—A barn belonging to Grafton Johnson, at Greenwood, Johnson County, was burned a few days ago. Loss, $1,200; no insurance.

—John M. Oren, an inmate of the Dearborn County asylum, drowned himself in the creek near Newtown. He was an ex-soldier, aged 83.

—Charles Schenck was badly burned about the head by the premature explosion of a charge, while blasting stumps near Seymour.

—Howard Green, of Kokomo, aged 18, was accidentally shot in the leg while out hunting, the wound rendering him a cripple for life.

—Mrs. Ruth Phifer, of Dublin, went out to kill a chicken, and in five minutes was dead herself from the effects of a violent hemorrhage.

—Hon. Nelson Bernerd, legislative Representative from Porter County, lost an eye while hunting rabbits. A shot glanced from a tree.

—Mrs. David Fitzgibbon, of Franklin, was fatally injured by falling to the floor. A chair was pushed from under her as she was sitting down.

—Louis Peas, a Corydon farmer, committed suicide by blowing out his brains with a pistol. No cause is assigned for the act. He leaves a wife and two children.

—While Mrs. James Carr, of Richmond, was cleaning house she placed a can of concentrated lye on the stove and was terribly burned in the resulting explosion.

—Martin Edmunson, aged 60, an old soldier, of Hyatt, dropped dead at his home. He had just remarked to his sister that she had just come in time to see him die.

—M. J. Mangan, a well-known conductor on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, fell off his train near Wheeler, a small station near Valparaiso. He fell directly under the wheels of the moving train, and was instantly killed. He resides in Fort Wayne, and leaves a widowed mother and sister.

—Diphtheria is playing havoc among the children at Delaware, and the mortality is alarming. Nine deaths have occurred, and a frightful number are prostrated. Two little children of Alfred Dolss were buried in the same coffin, and the deaths are averaging one a day. The physicians seem unable to control the disease.

—Prof. J. M. Coulter, of Wabash College, has been appointed scientific head of the Botanical Department at Washington. The appointment was made when the Professor was at Washington a few weeks ago. His duties are such as pertain strictly to the scientific part of the Botanical Department, and will not necessitate his withdrawal from Wabash.

—Joe Kerlin, himself poor enough, but the son of a well-to-do farmer, hanged himself with a halter in the barn at Richmond. He went to the barn, and, as it is found, curried his horses, and did up his work generally, before he did himself up. He was not yet cold when found. Unless it was debts, that need not have worried him, no cause is known.

—Mrs. Rayburn, residing in Kokomo, had a cancer removed from her arm last week caused by a bite from an infant child. It is one of the most curious medical cases on record.

—The cases of Jonathan Everhart and George Patton asking damages from the Pennsylvania Company for personal injuries received by a train striking their wagon at a crossing near Scottsburg, has been compromised. They sued for $10,000 and $5,000 respectively, and by the compromise are to receive $4,000 and $1,200, respectively.

—A negro named Riley, sentenced to five years in the penitentiary at Michigan City, escaped from a deputy Sheriff at Michigan City, but was found near LaPorte and retaken at the muzzle of a revolver.

—Adolph Gallese, aged 13 years, was watching a brush fire in the woods north of Brazil. He was standing on a log when he lost his balance and fell headlong into the roaring fire. When rescued, his clothes were burned almost from the body. His hands and face were terribly burned. The doctors consider his injuries fatal.

—Jesse Miller an aged and well-known citizen of Goshen, was struck and fatally injured by a railway engine.

—George Hardemeyer, a prominent man of Warwick County, dropped dead of apoplexy, in the court-room at Boonville, just after having testified in a case on trial.

—Mrs. Mary Crane, aged 75 years, of Columbus, died at her residence of blood-poisoning. On the 28th inst., she was smoking to ease the toothache, when she suddenly became dizzy and fell to the floor in her residence in such a manner as to force the stem of her pipe through her tongue and into her throat. The nicotine from the pipe stem caused blood-poisoning, which caused her death.

—Andrew Cain, while "snaking" a log off a hill on his father's farm near Martinsville, was suriously hurt. The end of the log was dragged against a small stump and the horses were stopped. Andrew, while trying to disengage the log, was working on the lower side, when the horses started suddenly and the log rolled down on him mashing his legs and thighs in a severe manner.

—Daniel Bowman, formerly proprietor of the Woodford (Ky.) Sun, and later a well-known business man of Chicago, was found dead on the Monon road, near Bloomington. He had fallen off the platform of a sleeper in some way, and was crushed to pieces. He was preparing to commence the publication of a paper in Chicago in a few days. He was widely known throughout the South and West.

—At Marion, William Newcomb, 18 years old, a hardened young criminal, plead guilty to highway robbery, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. On the way to the jail Newcomb threw a handful of pepper in the eyes of Deputy Sheriff Frank Fagan, who had him in charge, and attempted to escape. The officer knocked Newcomb down and choked him until help arrived.

—Twelve years ago, when but a small boy, James Stewart, colored, left Martinsville for parts unknown. From that time nothing was heard of him, and his friends in Martinsville had given him up as dead. Imagine their surprise, the other evening, when James came back on a visit. The strangest part of the whole story is that the boy had been in Danville, Hendricks County, all the time, only twenty-five miles away.

—William Stilley, Lynn Smith, and Harley Moore, of New Castle, were out hunting, when Moore was accidentally shot by Stilley. They were hunting in a thick woods, where they became separated. Stilley got up a covey of quails, which flew in the direction of young Moore, who was near by. He fired at the birds, the shot striking Moore in the face, inflicting serious wounds, and it is thought that one eye is permanently injured.

—A dog supposed to be afflicted with rabies bit Clarence, the 11-year-old son of James Wert, at Dillsboro, and after biting several dogs and a number of cattle, the animal was shot. The lad was taken to Milton, and the famous madstone, which is kept in the safe of the County Treasurer, at Burlington, Ky., and owned by the Tanner heirs, was applied. The stone adhered to the wound for three hours, and on falling off was dropped into a cup of milk, when green bubbles were seen to arise, and the boy was pronounced safe.

—While Mr. N. M. Holmes, of Columbus, was going through his large safe, arranging it for this year's business, he found a sealed envelope, on which was marked, "Last will and testament of Samuel J. Linton." Dr. Linton was one of the oldest citizens in this county, and died on December 29, 1889. It was not known by his relatives that he had made a will. The instrument was executed in 1870, and placed in this safe, which was then owned by Mr. Gus Hurzsch, a druggist. The instrument will be probated to-morrow.

—The following patents have been issued to Indiana inventors: Louis Bell and W. H. P. Creighton, Lafayette, governor for steam-engines; Deloss Cornell, Boon Grove, grinding mill; Benjamin F. Heiney, Huntington, door check; Lorenzo Kushner, Terre Haute, pedal attachment; Albert L. North and H. Howe, Patriot, barrel-head holder; Lewis J. Rice, Indianapolis, hose coupling; Chas F. Walters, assignor to Richmond City mill works, Richmond, flour packer; Arsen S. Woods, assignor to H. E. Misener, Servia, gunpowder.

—John Hicks, the oldest convict in the United States, was released from the State Prison South, at Jeffersonville, last week. Hicks was born in Montgomery County, Virginia, in 1806, and came to this State with his brother when quite a young man, locating in Wayne County. The first crime of which he gives any account was larceny, for which he was committed at Salem, this State, in 1809. He was sent to the Prison South, and served out his time. He has since served six terms in prison at Jeffersonville, one at the Michigan City prison and two in the Ohio penitentiary, making a total of forty-eight years, he has spent behind the bars. He left for Indianapolis, where the State Board of Charities has promised to provide him a home. His last term in prison, which has just ended, the old man declares, winds up his career of crime, as he is determined to lead a better life and earn an honest living for himself.

—The Little River drainage canal in Allen and Huntington counties is finished. With its branches it drains about 80,000 acres. Of the $152,602 collected for it $2,447.89 still remains in the hands of the Commissioners.

—A young man named John Ray, of Wabash, met with a bad accident while hunting rabbits, three miles south of that city. Ray laid his gun down while he looked into a hollow log, when the weapon was discharged by his dog, blowing off one of the young man's arms.

—Russell Sims, one of the first settlers and founders of Columbus, died at that place, aged 86 years. He was at one time quite wealthy, but of late years had distributed most of his property to his children. He had been a resident of Columbus nearly sixty years.

—The Menominee Transit Company, which is made up of leading citizens of Cleveland, was incorporated with a capital of $2,000,000. It will have six steel steamers built next year, and more later, with which to transport ore from the Escanaba region to Lake Erie ports.

FATAL FIRE IN A SCHOOL

TWENTY-SIX YOUNG VICTIMS OF THE FLAMES.

Scenes of Horror at an East London Institution—A Destructive Fire in Havana—A Palace Burned—Bismarck's Blind—Foreign News.

A London cable says: Fire broke out during the night in the large building of the Industrial school, situated in East London. The building was crowded and the alarm of fire produced an indescribable scene of confusion and disorder. The fire department promptly sent an efficient force to the scene of disaster, but despite their heroic efforts twenty-six children were suffocated by the dense smoke which filled the building. It is not yet fully known what the pecuniary loss is, nor has it been certainly ascertained whether or not any more lives were lost or how many persons were injured.

The scenes in the death chamber, where relatives and schoolmates of the victims were viewing the bodies, was very pitiful. The school was filled with boys who had been committed to its care because of their incorrigible habits, and altogether the inmates were of a character from which little discipline or obedience might be expected in moments when both were imperatively demanded. As a rule, however, the boys yielded readily to the directions of their superiors, and to this fact is due the safety of scores who otherwise would have perished.

Of the twenty-six who lost their lives only two were burned to death, the others being suffocated. Many of the latter were aroused, but became stupefied with smoke and crawled back to their cots to die.

The hero of the occasion was a boy who acted in the capacity of monitor in the fatal ward, himself a boy whose vicious habits had made him an inmate of the institution. Trough his efforts many boys were literally driven from the building, and he ceased his work of rescuing his fellows only when he was himself driven out by the flames. He dragged several of his companions, unconscious, out of the windows, while others he carried into the air in his arms.

Paris cable: Friends of Mary Anderson characterize the story of her engagement to Antonio de Navarro, of New York, which was sent from Nice, as absurd. They state that Miss Anderson has been a member of the De Navarro family for many years, and that the report of her engagement is simply the revival of a rumor prevalent ten years ago.

Much amusement has been caused in society circles in New York by the publication of a cable report from Nice, France, intimating that Mary Anderson, the actress, was engaged to Antonio de Navarro. Mr. De Navarro, who is the son of a wealthy real estate owner and elevated railroad capitalist, has been a devoted admirer of Miss Anderson for years, and their engagement has been frequently reported in consequence, but it is understood by friends of both young people that they will never be more than friends. Mr. De Navarro's brother, who is here, says he has not been apprised of any such engagement, and places no faith in the story.

A Havana cable, via Tampa, says: The loss to the Spanish-American Light and Power company by the recent fire at their wharves here is much greater than was supposed. Nine thousand barrels of petroleum were burned. The company also lost one of their new wharves, several large barges loaded with petroleum and several large buildings, one of which contained a great deal of valuable machinery. Four big petroleum tanks exploded, and to save the gasometers, which were located at some distance, from the oil tanks, it was necessary to cut all communicating pipes. It is now believed that the loss will reach $250,000. There was no insurance. The origin of the fire is believed to be due to spontaneous combustion of burred petroleum.

A Brussels cable reports that the Laeken palace caught fire, and Princess Clementine, second daughter of King Leopold, had a narrow escape. In the effort to rescue the princess her governess was burned to death. The splendid art gallery with its collection of paintings, was entirely destroyed.

The palace is a mass of ruins. Nothing but the Gobelin tapestry and the plate was saved. Princess Clementine, her governess and a lady attendant were the only persons in the castle at the time of the discovery of the fire. King Leopold and Queen Clementine witnessed the burning. It is reported that the fire was of incendiary origin.

The German military attaches at Paris and St. Petersburg are at present in Berlin. They were present at an extended conference with the Emperor and Prince Bismarck. They submitted such evidence of the martial activity of Russia and France as warrants Bismarck in asking an increased appropriation for the German army.

FATHER DAMEN DEAD.

The Well-Known Jesuit Priest Passes Away at Omaha.

Father Damen, of the Society of Jesuits, who was stricken with paralysis several months ago at Cheyenne, has died at Omaha. He was brought from Cheyenne to Omaha, and has been at Creighton college ever since. He was unconscious all day, and did not recover consciousness until the hour of his death.

FATHER ARNOLD DAMEN.

Special dispatches were sent out several months ago saying that Father Damen had died. These reports were based on a rumor, afterward proved to be false, but no correction was made by the correspondents who sent out the original dispatches. Father Damen was removed from Cheyenne immediately after being stricken with paralysis and had been at Omaha ever since in the care of the management of Creighton college.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

New Year's Reception at the White House.

Washington dispatch: The drizzling rain which ushered in the new year did not affect the attendance at the White House reception. All the members of the cabinet were present except Mr. Blaine. The President was assisted by Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Morton, and the ladies of the cabinet except Mrs. Blaine and Mrs. Proctor. The following order was observed: The Vice-President and members of the Cabinet, the Supreme court, members of Congress, army and navy, civilians. The presence of members of the pan-American congress and marine conference in court costumes added brilliancy to the scene. At noon Vice-President and Mrs. Morton withdrew and were driven to their residence, where a reception was held.

KAISER WILLIAM has sent a sword to Vice-Admiral Commerell of England, as a souvenir of the late visit to Portsmouth.

"LA GRIPPE," NO DOUBT.

DR. SHRADY ON THE PREVAILING EPIDEMIC.

He Pronounces the Malady a Mild Type of the Genuine Russian Influenza—Spread of the Disease in This Country and in Europe, as Indicated by the Press Dispatches.

Dr. George F. Shrady, of New York, in an article upon the epidemic of influenza, says:

"There is now no doubt that influenza, or what is popularly known as 'the grip,' has become epidemic in this city and is scattered broadcast over the country. It is also quite evident that its general characteristics correspond with those noted in connection with the prevailing type of the malady in Russia, Germany, and France. Fortunately it is of such a mild type that, save for its invasion of large districts and for the large number of persons attacked, it would scarcely be noticed in the category of ailments connected with the usual ones which occur during the winter months associated with rapid and varied changes of temperature and humidity.

"The type of the present epidemic partakes more of the febrile and nervous variety than that of the purely catarrhal. The increased temperature in the beginning of the attack, with the severe pains in the head, back, and lower extremities, are the leading phenomena which are noted in the large majority of cases. Only in a comparatively few instances are the coryzal symptoms the leading features of the seizure. This latter is, perhaps, a fortunate circumstance, in view of the generally accepted opinion concerning the greatly exaggerated danger of bronchitis and pneumonia as necessary complications.

"The reports of the fatality of the disease, as might have been expected, have been very much exaggerated. Particularly does this remark apply to the alarming reports of the recent death rate in Paris. In point of fact, there is no disease with such a wide prevalence which has such a comparatively low mortality. In this country, at least, there is yet to be reported the first case of death which can be laid to a pure and simple attack of the disease. Even the serious complications are so few as scarcely to merit recognition alongside of those which are constantly occurring with the usual diseases of the season."

The rapidity with which the malady is spreading in this country, as well as the progress of the disease abroad may be judged from the following dispatches from the several points mentioned:

Scottdale, Pa.—Harvey Jones, a clerk in the Union Supply company's store, died of an attack of influenza.

Jefferson City, Mo.—There are twenty-eight cases of influenza here. Labor Commissioner Merriweather and Gov. Francis' private secretary, M. A. Fanning, are among the victims.

Greensburg, Kan.—Twenty-three mild cases of influenza are reported by the physicians here.

New York—Clinton prison, this State, has 400 grip cases among its inmates. The official clerical force is all abed, too.

Montreal, Quebec—The influenza epidemic is increasing and there is a great deal of other sickness. Little snow and ice remains, and the weather is very mild and unwholesome.

Paris—The mortality is still abnormally great. On Tuesday there were 389 deaths and on Wednesday 334. The re-opening of the schools already closed is postponed and others are about to close. The deaths from influenza last week were 2,334.

Vienna—The number of victims of the epidemic is decreasing, but the disease is growing more virulent. In Prague and Dresden it is increasing.

Reports from St. Petersburg say that the Czar's attack turns out to be a case of influenza. Ignatieff and many other prominent people are dangerously ill.

London—La grippe continues its ravages. The Queen of Saxony, Count Taafe of Austria, and Premier Crispi of Italy are among its victims. The St. Sulpice seminary, the greatest school in France, is closed by the disease.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

Uncle Sam's Obligations Increased Over $3,000,000 in December.

The following is a recapitulation of the public debt statement for January:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent		$121,367,700
Bonds at 4 per cent		629,795,700
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent		110,550
Navy pension fund at 3 per cent		14,000,000
Pacific railroad bonds at 6 per cent		64,623,512
Principal		$829,897,462
Interest		10,088,447
Total		$839,985,909
DEBT OF WHICH INTEREST HAS CEASED SINCE MATURITY.
Principal		$1,884,625
Interest		151,958
Total		$1,996,583
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Old demand and legal tender notes		$346,737,458
Certificates of deposit		9,000,000
Gold certificates		122,085,880
Silver certificates		282,949,071
Fractional currency, less $8,375,934, estimated as lost or destroyed		6,914,137
Principal		$768,586,552
TOTAL DEBT.
Principal		$1,600,328,636
Interest		10,240,414
Total		$1,610,569,050
Less cash items available for reduction of debt	$427,021,000
Less reserve held for redemption of U. S. notes	100,000,000	527,021,000
Total debt less available cash items		$1,083,548,050
Net cash in the treasury		30,505,143
Debt less cash in the treasury Jan. 1, 1890		$1,053,042,911
Debt less cash in the treasury Dec. 1, 1889		1,056,081,004
Decrease of debt during month		$3,128,093
Decrease of debt since June 30, 1889		23,693,716
CASH IN THE TREASURY AVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF THE PUBLIC DEBT.
Gold held for gold securities actually outstanding		$122,085,880
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding		282,949,071
United States notes held for certificates of deposit actually outstanding		9,000,000
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid		12,985,032
Fractional currency		908
Total available for reduction of the debt		$427,021,000
RESERVE FUND.
Held for redemption of United States notes, acts Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882		$100,000,000
UNAVAILABLE FOR REDUCTION OF THE DEBT.
Fractional silver coin		$21,927,926
Minor coin		83,774
Total		$22,011,700
Certificates held as cash		34,180,068
Net cash balance on hand		30,505,143
Total cash in the treasury as shown by treasurer's general account		$613,705,911

Criminal Notes.

A NEGRO was found hanging to a tree in Bossier parish, Louisiana. He had been guilty of many offenses.

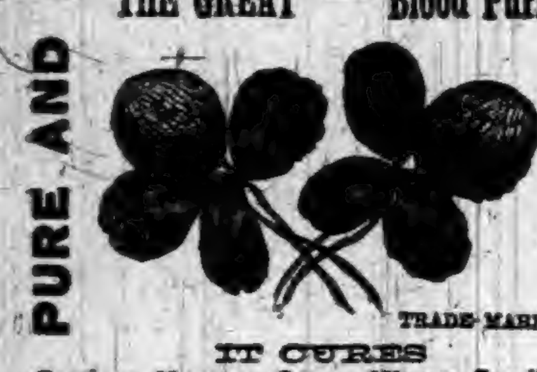
W. E. TABLER, a Paducah, Ky., harness manufacturer, has fled, leaving behind forged indorsements to $2,000 worth of notes.

AN unknown man made an attempt to kill Rev. Father James Kelley, of St. Patrick's church, Rochester. After assaulting and badly injuring the priest with a blow on the head he made his escape. The motive for the crime is a mystery.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.



LOOSE'S EXTRACT

RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

THE GREAT Blood Purifier.

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS.

TRADE-MARK

IT CURES

Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

PRICE, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.

J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.

UNDERWOOD'S ·CELEBRATED· WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, ETC.

☞ SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO. | 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. | 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK BRIGHT'S DISEASE,

DIABETES

LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES. Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange. CHICAGO, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years; BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. JOS. M. NORRIS, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R. BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co. ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av. St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTBROOK, D'gs 109 S. B'way. Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES. Chicago Times, March 25, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88. PRAISE BRIGHTINE. Refer to Mst. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U.S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE

EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT

NO TROUBLE NO BOILING

POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN

STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS

☞ One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and keep the Kidneys and Bladder in the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. ☞ It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions with each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packages for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

☞ Always mention this paper.

MY SONG.

BY NINETTE M. LOWATER.

Once in my early youth I knew a song,
I know not how I learned it now, or when;
But oh, it was so sweet! if I had sung,
The world perforce had paused and listened then.
But many a pathway lured my willing feet,
And oft I tarried long at pleasure's gate;
And when I heard a whisper, "You should sing,"
I said, "It will be sweeter if I wait."

But when the lengthening shadows eastward turned,
And heavier grew the burden I must bear,
I said, "I shall forget it if I wait,
Now I must sing my song, so sweet and rare."
But ah, I had forgotten! And the world,
Restless and eager, would not turn aside;
None heard the faint, uncertain notes which rose,
Trembled and faltered, and in silence died.

ROCK ELM, Wis.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER III—Continued.

It was of a kind that had become fashionable in late years, since the hair had been dressed upward, so to speak, and worn high on the top of the head. Large pins were needed to maintain the edifice, and I had seen many like the one I held in my hands in the shop windows of the Palais Royal. A neat design in brilliants—whether they were real or false diamonds, I, a mere uninitiated male, was unable to declare—ornamented the circular end of the pin; but between each flashing stone was a small turquois. The whole appearance of the pin was that it had cost money, and was a little out of the common run.

But it was far less valuable to its owner, whoever she might be, than to us, eager to snatch at any clew.

I rushed into the room, triumphantly exhibiting my prize.

"See, Hasnip," I cried, "this was on the mat!"

He looked upon the pin with a melancholy air, disgusted evidently that I should have come upon such a clew.

"I always said it was a woman," he began.

"All pure conjecture, Hasnip, you know that," I retorted.

"At any rate, my conjecture is now supported by evidence, which is more than can be said of any of yours."

"We must look for its fellow. They generally go in pairs, these things. We may find the other in the back of some woman's head here in the Grand Hotel."

He did not answer. All at once his face had assumed a fixed look; he was listening with all his ears intently.

"H—sh!" he whispered, placing his hand on my arm. "I was certain I heard a footstep—the rustle of a dress."

The next instant the door was tried. We heard distinctly the handle turned once, twice—ineffectually, of course, as the door was bolted within.

A third attempt was made—convulsively, as I thought—and then followed a sound as of some one falling to the floor.

"She has fainted," said Hasnip, taking it for granted it was a woman. "Stop! what are you going to do?"

I rushed to the door, disregarding his protests, opened it hastily and found it was as Hasnip had said.

A female figure lay prostrate in the passage, and I immediately recognized Miss Clara Bertram.

"What did I tell you? I was right to trust my luck," I heard Hasnip say behind me, as he caught sight of the inanimate figure and also came to the door.

I was for running on down the passage to summon help.

"Hold hard, Mr. Leslie, hold hard. Don't call any one. We must manage this ourselves. Come, let us get her inside."

"What, into that room, where the body is? Surely not——"

"Yes, yes. You lift her by the shoulders, I will take her feet. There!" I had the beautiful girl now in my arms, and could look down on the fine face from which all color had faded, and which looked the whiter from its sharp contrast with her coils of raven hair.

We carried her tenderly—at least I can answer for myself—into the bedroom, and laid her upon the sofa. Hasnip, after the most approved fashion, hastily sprinkled water from the ewer on the washstand in her face, then took one soft hand and rubbed it vigorously, directing me to do the same with the other.

This treatment soon had its effect, and Miss Bertram, with a deep sigh, a piteous, painful sigh, opened her eyes.

As they fell upon two strangers, two men, leaning thus familiarly over her, she started with terror, half sprung from the sofa and cried:

"Where am I? What has happened? Who brought me here?"

"We found you, fainting at the door," I began.

"And carried you in here. This is No. 99," continued Hasnip, rather brutally, taking the words out of my mouth.

"No. 99! No. 99!" she gasped. "Here! Merciful Heaven! Here! Let me out. I cannot, I will not stay here! I will not. Let me go!"

Her voice rose to a shriek almost, as she rushed toward the door.

Hasnip interposed.

"You cannot leave the room yet," he said, firmly, but in a very low voice. "There are other people outside. It is so, really. Listen for yourself."

Miss Bertram put her ear to the door, and by her next movement admitted the truth of Hasnip's statement.

"Yes; you are right. It is my sister and Captain Fawcett. I hear them plainly; they must not find me here. Please, I implore you, as gentlemen. I appeal to you."

"They shall not come in. See, the door is bolted. But you will betray yourself if you speak so loud," replied the detective.

Miss Bertram seemed to understand, and moved at once toward the window.

"I will go this way," she said, placing her hand upon the sash to lift it.

The action, betraying, as I fancied, so intimate a knowledge of this second exit from and approach to No. 99, struck a cold chill into my heart. It was obvious she must have traveled this road before.

"No, no, madam; not yet," said the police officer, in a peremptory way, not to be mistaken. "I want to ask you a question. Is this yours?"

He suddenly produced the hair-pin which he had kept in his hand.

I was watching the girl's face closely. Pale as it had been before, the evidently unexpected production of the pin turned it the gray ashen hue of death. Her eyeballs, round and staring with terror, at first seemed starting from her head; then the lips drooped over them, as with a sudden faintness, and but for my arm she would again have fallen to the floor.

"Is it yours?" repeated Hasnip.

"No, no," she faltered quite low, almost in a whisper. "Don't ask me—I cannot tell you."

"You are quite sure? It has its fellow, I believe"—this was a mere shot, of course—"and I know where I can lay my hands on it."

The working of her face indicated a fresh access of terror, but she could frame no words of reply.

"This is too cruel, Hasnip," I said, feeling bound to interfere. The mere sight of her anguish would have stirred me to the soul, but I was yet more moved by the mute look of appeal—like that of the hunted stag—in her great, sorrow-stricken eyes.

"I must and will know!" he replied, coarsely.

"You have no right to put such leading questions. It is quite illegal; you know that as well as I do, and I shall not permit it." I felt bound to protest.

"We shall find out nothing if we are too squeamish," said Hasnip, looking very sulky.

"You must get at what you want by fair means. I will not be a party to anything else," I replied, hotly.

During this passage of arms Miss Bertram stared at us from one to the other as if dazed, scarcely understanding what was said. But suddenly recovering herself, she made a fresh move to the window, threw it open, and passed quickly on to the balcony.

"It is hardly safe for her out there," I cried. "She is so weak. Look how she totters and staggers along; at this height, too"—and I followed her quickly.

She caught at my arm, I thought gratefully, and we walked along the balcony together, passing several windows, some open, some shut, but none of the rooms were occupied so far as I could see, greatly to my delight, and more indeed to that of my companion.

"Quick, quick," she whispered, nervously. "If they should see us it would be terrible. What could I say?"

"Whom do you fear?" I ventured to ask, gently.

"There, in there; it is the sitting-room. Mrs. Sarsfield's, my sister's. See, it is empty."

I looked in cautiously, but no one was there, and we hurried past to the second window beyond, where she stopped.

"This my room. I can get in quite easily, thank you. You must come no further."

I had hardly contemplated any such intrusion, yet the remark was justified by the anxiety I still felt for her, and which was no doubt visible on my face.

"Are you sure you are able to take care of yourself, Miss——"

"Bertram. Clara Bertram, is my name. To whom am I so greatly indebted?"

"I am called Frederick Leslie, at your service," I said, with perhaps more meaning than I intended.

"I will not trespass further on your kindness," she said, simply. "You are anxious, no doubt, to return and continue your researches."

"There is nothing——" I really hesitated, for the question implied suspicion, and black as were all the circumstances that connected her with No. 99, I could not bring myself to believe her guilty of complicity in this horrible crime. "Nothing," I stammered, "you would like to say to me—no explanations you wish to——"

Her face darkened, and her fine eyes filled with tears.

"You, then, believe," she began; "but what right have I to expect you to think——" Just then she stopped, and her manner instantly changed. "No, no; nothing shall tempt me to speak. I cannot justify myself; you must think what you choose."

"I feel so sure you could explain," I repeated.

"No; please go away. Leave me—please do," and she put her hand on my arm with a gentle gesture, as though to push me away, and then passed through the window into her own room.

I could do nothing but raise my hat, and then retrace my steps toward No. 99. But at the second step I was arrested by the sound of voices in the Sarsfields' sitting-room.

CHAPTER IV.

CLEWS.

"I will not answer that question," said a woman's voice, Mrs. Sarsfield's.

"Have I not a right to ask it?" said her companion, whom I recognized as Captain Fawcett.

"No; I deny it. I owe explanation to no one except my husband."

"Poor man! It is something new to hear you acknowledge your allegiance to him."

"I have never forgotten it. My conscience is perfectly clear, and you know it."

"I do not; if so, why did I find you at the door of No. 99? I tell you I must and will know."

There was no answer.

"Anna, why won't you tell me? Don't you see what your silence implies?"

Still no answer.

"Anna, I implore you, by the memory of all that has passed between us, by our old—friendship, our old—love!"

"Faugh!"—this had aroused her—"don't talk to me of love; keep that for your latest fancy, my young sister. I know too well the hollowness of your professions."

"You should not say that, Anna. Was it my fault that we did not come together years ago, when I first knew you? Did I not offer myself, such as I was? A poor subaltern, perhaps, but I loved you truly. You preferred a richer parti!"

"And you are retaliating now. It is my sister's fortune that attracts you to her; I know that."

"You are wrong. I have the most profound admiration for Miss Bertram herself. I do not love her, perhaps, as I did you——"

"Would to heaven I had never met you again!" cried Mrs. Sarsfield, bitterly.

"Until this morning I should have been sorry to re-echo that wish. Now, after what has occurred, I am disposed to agree with you."

He was evidently taunting her, but with what? The murder? Or merely an intrigue with the murdered man?

"Listen, Captain Fawcett!"—she had turned on him sharply—"you ask me what took me to No. 99. Will you tell me what took you there?"

"I followed you."

"That is not true. I went from this room, which is quite close. No one was about at the time."

"I was watching you."

"I don't believe it. It was something far worse that drew you thither."

"How dare you! That speech covers an accusation I will not tolerate."

"You hated him; you were jealous; you fancied——"

"Silence! tell me what I want to know. Why did I find you just now at the door of No. 99?"

"Curiosity took me—a morbid but irresistible desire to know what was going on."

"It is a clever excuse, but it will not do. Was it mere curiosity, too, that took you there this morning between 6 and 7? Hardly that. No one then knew that the man was dead."

"I do not understand you," was the cool, self-possessed reply. "What new suspicion is this?"

"Will you deny that you passed my window this morning early—at the time I say?"

"Most certainly."

"I saw you plainly."

"It is not so; it's a lie!"

The denial was so flat that it seemed to stagger her interlocutor.

"But I tell you I recognized you. You were in a loose blue wrapper. I could not be mistaken."

"You were mistaken, completely," said a new voice, the sound of which startled me and set my heart beating violently. "It was my dress you saw."

"Clara!"

"Miss Bertram. Impossible!"

These two exclamations were the last words I heard. I knew from the voice that Miss Bertram had entered the sitting-room. She had, therefore, left her own room, which, with the intermediate room, her sister's bedroom, was probably en suite with that in which the conversation I had just overheard had taken place.

The coast was now clear. I had played the eavesdropper more than I liked, and I had no longer any hesitation as to retracing my steps.

Hurrying back, I once more arrived at the window of Miss Bertram's sitting-room. It was still open. Three steps would take me across the room and out into the corridor. Why not accept the easy method of escape thus offered?

I decided, on the spur of the moment, and jumped lightly into the room. Hurried though I was, for the life of me I could not help looking round.

An ordinary hotel bed-room; the commonplace furniture, the pink-and-white hangings, the cheap paper on the walls. But it seemed adorned and brightened by the occupation of the beautiful creature that called it—temporarily—hers. A subtle, indefinable charm pervaded it. A few dainty touches—lace on the looking-glass, ribbons to the bed-curtains, photographs in gay plush frames—quite changed the character of the room. Nor was the eye the only sense gratified. I was conscious also of a vague but penetrating perfume, some delicate and favorite scent, plentifully used, and proceeding probably from the dresses hanging behind the door, or the richly embroidered handkerchief sachet lying by an ivory glove-box on the chest of drawers, or from the dressing-table, with its toilet appliances, bottles and pots, and the thousand odds and ends that most pretty women delight to use.

My eye traveling round the room and noting its contents, with the half trembling pleasure of an intruder tasting forbidden fruit, rested last and longest on this dressing-table.

There, just as I was about to leave the room, where I had already lingered too long, I encountered a sudden and unexpected shock.

Just in front of the satin pin-cushion, before the looking-glass, was a little silver tray, what the French call a vide-poche. Half a dozen trifles—trinkets, keys, and what not, lay heaped together, and among them was a tortoise-shell pin.

The impulse to take it up and examine it was perfectly irresistible.

Yes, it was the exact fellow of that I had found in No. 99.

What an extraordinary chance! The luck that Hasnip exultingly claimed was really mine. Here were new facts; proofs almost overwhelming, indeed, of Miss Bertram's complicity in the crime.

Could there be any doubt of it now? I had heard her own confession that it was she who had visited No. 99. This was corroborated by what I saw here with my own eyes. In the privacy of her bed-chamber, and with every ground for presuming it to be her property, was a hair-pin exactly similar to that dropped in the room of the murdered man.

Surely this was enough to justify the strongest suspicions—something more. Yet I could not bring myself to condemn her, but she could justify herself I was sure. She had told me that herself, although not in so many words.

I paused, doubting, hesitating to absolve entirely, yet hardly daring to condemn.

Then, as I waited, I was aroused to the fact that I had no right to be where I was; that if discovered it would be difficult—nay, impossible—to excuse my presence; in no case could I be found there without more or less compromising Miss Bertram.

So I turned to go, having the hair-pin still in my hand. But had I any right to that, either? It was hers; if I took it I should be no better than a thief.

And if I left it there—this important, dangerously compromising clew—and it fell into other hands? Into Hasnip's, for instance, who would move heaven and earth to secure it?

Miss Bertram would be lost, absolutely lost, and although I knew not whether to blame or exonerate, I still wished to help her.

"I will keep the pin at any rate, for the present," I said to myself. "It will be safer for her." And then I slipped cautiously and quickly out of the room into the corridor, which led me back to No. 99.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Extinguished.

Thomas Corwin, Tom Corwin he was almost always called, was famous for his power of quick repartee. He was witty, and his wit was always at his tongue's end. "There go some of your constituents, Corwin," said John C. Calhoun, pointing to a drove of Ohio mules. "Yes," said Corwin, gravely, "they are going down South to teach school."

In one of his political campaigns, Governor Brough was pitted against Corwin. In the course of his speech, the Governor said: "Gentleman, my honored opponent himself, while he preaches encouragement of home industry, has a carriage at home which he got in England—had it shipped across the ocean to him. How is that for supporting home industry and labor?"

When Corwin's turn came, he began slowly and in a stammering, confused manner, as if he felt himself in a very embarrassing predicament.

"Well, gentlemen," he said, "you have heard what my friend, Mr. Brough, has to say of my carriage. I plead guilty to the charges, and have only two things to say in my defense.

"The first is that the carriage came to me from an English ancestor as an heirloom, and I had to take it. The second is that I have not used it for seven years, and it has been standing in my back yard all that time, and the chickens have converted it into a roost.

"Now, gentlemen, that is all the defense I have to offer; but before I go on with what I have to say upon the topics before us, I should like to ask how Brough happens to know anything about my carriage, unless he has been visiting my chicken roost."

Exploding an Error.

An extraordinary fallacy is the dread of night air, says the Sanitary World. What air can we breathe at night but night air? The choice is between pure night air from without and foul air from within. Most people prefer the latter—an unaccountable choice. What will they say if it is proved to be true that fully one-half of all the diseases we suffer from are occasioned by people sleeping with their windows shut? An open window most nights in the year can never hurt any one. In great cities night air is often the best and purest to be had in twenty-four hours. One could better understand shutting the windows in town during the day than during the night for the sake of the sick. The absence of smoke, the quiet, all tend to make the night the best time for airing the patient. One of the highest medical authorities on consumption and climate has told me that the air of London is never so good as after 10 o'clock at night. Always air your room, then, from the outside air if possible.

THE first bridges were of wood, and the earliest of which we have any account was built in Rome 500 years B. C. The next was erected by Julius Cæsar for the passage of his army across the Rhine. Trajan's great bridge over the Danube, 4,770 feet long, was made of timber, with stone piers. The Romans also built the first stone bridge, which crossed the Tiber. Suspension bridges are of remote origin. A Chinese one mentioned by Kirchen, made of chains supporting a roadway 830 feet in length, was built A. D. 65, and is still to be seen. The first large iron bridge was erected over the Severn in 1777.

The reformer becomes a fanatic when he begins to use his emotions as a substitute for his reasoning faculty.

HOW I RAN INTO MATRIMONY.

BY CHARLES S. BLACKBURN.

I WAS setting type in a Southern State. The editor of the paper was a "Knownothin'" fellow who made up for his lack of knowledge by the free use of big words. He knew nothing of the printing business, and could learn nothing; if alive now, he could not tell a foot-slug from a column-rule. He was tall and exasperatingly lean, wore a plug hat and a sack coat, and prided himself on doing the drinking of the establishment. But he was a good man, for he trusted me once, of which I shall tell.

One afternoon in June, when the dark-green hills and shady valleys looked unusually tempting and made me long to be a fish, or a squirrel, or a grasshopper, anything than a printer at $10 a week, he came into the office, stuck his elbow on a half galley of small pica, and pied a stick-full of his leader, "The True Solution of the Negro Question." I wet the matter and began straightening it up. He said:

"Say, Eph, I've got an idea."

"If you have you stole it," said I to myself; to him I answered:

"What is it?"

"You're a good printer and can write purty well. When I left town last spring to keep way from the 'Gran' jury, your work you done then was well spoke of by the patrons of the Eagle."

"Well, what's the idea?" I said, as I distributed the pi.

"This new town out here, where they've put the cotton factory, needs a paper. I've got more stuff here than I want. S'pose you take some of it, and one of them presses, and give 'em one?"

I went. Begonia was the name of the place. It was in the woods, seventy-five miles from a railroad.

The "city" was not incorporated, and hilarious people had therefore a wide field for the exercise of their predilection. The Border Sentinel—that was the name of my paper—did not assume a pious role, but it occasionally admonished the boys to keep their practical jokes for the vulgar multitude. This admonition was first wrung from me by the fact that one evening they made a target of my signboard. They laughed at my warning, and said something about dumping my old shop into the road. On a certain Saturday when they had been unusually atrocious they wound up their entertainment by shooting an old negro's mule and sending me the ears. The next issue of the Sentinel contained this paragraph:

> Hank Best, Jim Gosling, and another mule become engaged in a personal altercation in front of Tobe Canfield's saloon last Saturday evening. The trouble grew out of a wager between them as to which could bray the loudest. We could not get all the particulars of the affair, but it seems that the other mule make some funny remark about Hank and Jim and got the laugh on them with the crowd. They got mad, pulled their pops, and in less time than it takes to tell it the poor other mule fell mortally wounded and died in a few minutes. But it seems that Hank and Jim lost each an ear in the fracas, for a friend of ours, who went over the ground soon after the fight, picked up two ears—and they are both left ones. They are now in our possession, and having been previously "well done" in alcohol, there is no need for us to submit them to the preserving process. If Jim and Hank want their ears, they can get them by calling at our office.

Working in the spinning department of the factory was a little red-headed girl, with filbert-colored eyes, and a peach-blow complexion, partly hidden beneath a layer of brown freckles. I boarded with her mother, who was a widow, and fell in love with her—the girl, I mean. One night I was "making-up"—not to the girl but the forms, at the office. The weather was clear and cold, with starlight. I had justified the last column, and was washing my hands, when there was a knock at the door. I have as much grit as the ordinary printer man, but that knock scared me. The door was locked. Pistol in hand, I walked to the front, and, in the most composed voice I could assume, asked:

"Who's there?"

"It's me."

If a man loves a woman, her grammatical inaccuracies are pleasing eccentricities. When he hears them at midnight, instead of the assassin's whisper he is fearing, they are sweeter than music. The voice was Ella's—that was her name. I laid down my pistol, opened the door, and took her in my arms.

"O, good gracious, Mr. Lester, do you think I came all the way from home this time of night to let you hug me?"

"No, Ella, but——"

I stopped short, for I saw she was very pale.

"What's the matter, Ella?" I asked.

"It's jes' this, Mr. Lester. You're in awful danger. Hank Best and Jim Gosling's fixin' to kill you. Mamma's sick, an' I went to the comp'ny store to git some medicine. When I passed the blacksmith shop I heard your name spoke. I stopped and listened. Jim Gosling, he said: 'All right, boys. I'll sot fire to his office to-night, and we kin git the drap on 'im termorrow ef he 'sinuates anything erbout it.'"

"The constable lives two miles from here," I said. "My nearest neighbors are of the Hank and Jim kind. You go home, Ella, and I'll stay here and see Jim set fire to the Border Sentinel office."

"No, no," she pleaded, "if you stay here, I will, too."

"But, think. What will people say——"

"I don't care what they say, when I know I'm right."

A gust of wind blew the door open and put the light out.

"Now, you must go," I said, after having rummaged the office in search of a match.

"Hush!" she whispered, after a pause. "There they are."

The house was a pine box structure, and stood on the edge of the wood. I stole out, bidding Ella stay within, and turned the corner. The undergrowth rustled and a dark form appeared. It walked up to the rear of the building and fixed a big mass of stuff beneath the sill. Then it struck a match. I fired. A shot answered mine and my pistol dropped from my hand. My arm was broken. Simultaneous with this came a report from behind me, which was answered with a groan from the wood. Then all was still.

The next and last issue of the Sentinel contained the report of the Coroner's jury. It showed that I killed Jim Gosling, and that Ella had put a bullet through Hank Best's knee. Hank's wound kept him from running way, but it did not keep him from running into the penitentiary. Ella and I ran into matrimony.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING: HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.

By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.

Octavo, 690 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.

WE ESPECIALLY INVITE

LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS.

to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.

(When writing, mention this paper.)

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY

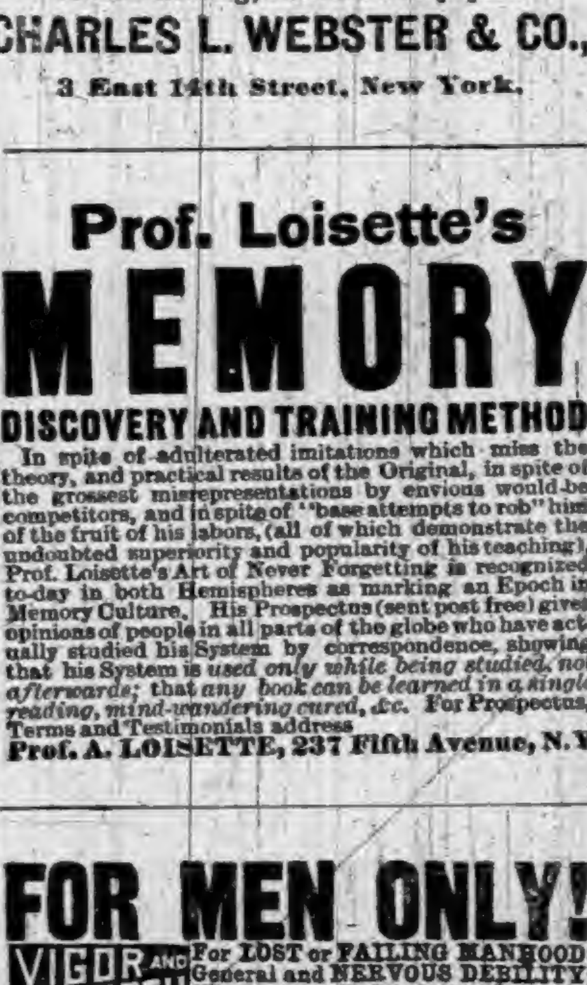
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.



DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD,

A Sure Cure for all Diseases in

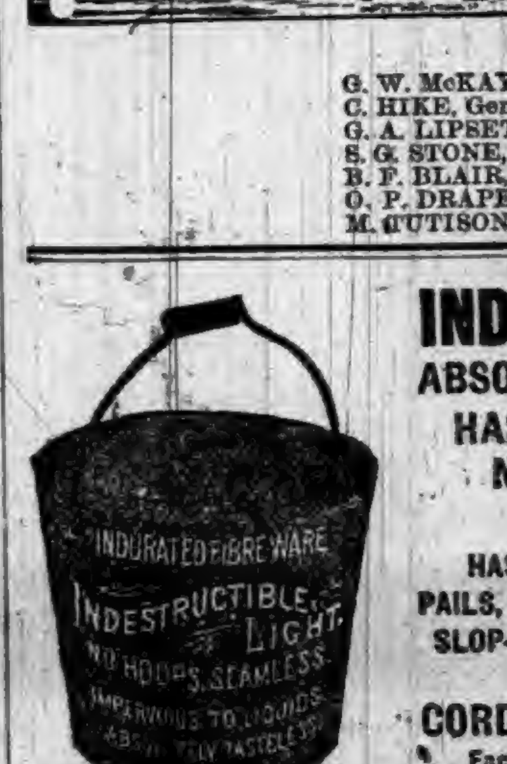
HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs

Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY

G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. GUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.



INDURATED FIBRE WARE.

ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!

HAS NO HOOPS!

NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!

NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!

HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.

PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.

LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.

CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.

FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS. FULL PRICE-LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—		WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg	lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling		am *7 35	9 10	9 10	9 00	pm ‡3 15
Zanesville		10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 11 30	7 01
Newark		pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 06
Columbus	ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus	lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield		pm 12 57	am 2 30	......	pm 4 04	10 08
Deshler		3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance		4 22	5 43	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc		......	6 40	11 34	10 32	2 58
Avilla		......	......	pm 12 05	10 45	......
Milford jc		......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 15
Wellsboro		......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago	ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations—		EAST-BOUND.
Chicago	lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro		......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc		......	......	11 00	2 05	8 20
Avilla		......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc		......	7 06	12 33	3 22	9 40
Defiance		pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 27	10 48
Mansfield		6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus		*5 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark		8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville		8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 20
Wheeling	ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh	ar	......	7 25	7 35	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington	ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore	ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	6 20	......
Philadelphia	ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York	ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent,
Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—		Mail.	Exp's.	Frg't.
Fort Wayne	dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era		12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc		12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn		12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo		12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit		1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake		1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola		1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont		1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading		2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers		2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale		2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc		2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville		2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson		3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale	......	12 30	7 45
Bankers	9 40	12 36	8 01
Reading	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..............2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express...............5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..............1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom.............6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express..............12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim......5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time-Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT.
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER,
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY........JANUARY 9, 1890

Italy is agitating in favor of a republic. France is blamed by some for encouraging this move.

COLUMBIA S. C. is having a colored fair to show the progress of the colored people of that state. It is being observed with great interest.

THERE is promises to be lively bidding this winter for the Alaska seal fishery. The present fur company has made a great deal of money out of it, but as their contract expires the coming spring, several other strong companies have been formed to bid against them.

CULVER, the juror in the Cronin trial, by whose votes the accursed were saved from hanging, has sued the Chicago Herald for libel, calling for $25,000. The Herald had criticised him, and still keeps it up. The Herald knows what it is about, and will not, we predict, have to pay a cent.

DEFENDING the tariff steal the Butler Record, speaking of farm products say, "With low prices we can meet competition tariff or no tariff." Well, we have got the low prices since Harrison came in. Wheat in Chicago $1.50 in Oct. '88 and in Oct. '89, it was 82 cents. Now who's afraid of competition?

OLD TIPPECANOE, the grandfather, had the "coon" for his campaign emblem. But Benny don't know a coon from a pig. He went hunting in Virginia the other day, and took aim at a coon, as he thought, but filled full of lead, the favorite pig of a resident darky. The party paid the negro $12 to avoid a row.

BYNUM, representative from the Indianapolis district, has introduced a resolution in the House to have a special committee appointed to investigate U. S. District prosecutor Smiley at Indianapolis for his refusal to arrest Blocks-of-five Dudley. Voorhees has introduced a similar resolution in the Senate.

"THE whole tendency of a tariff," says the Record, "is to advance the prices of farmers products, as we have shown from time and again, therefore the farmer should be the most interested in sustaining protection." But after about thirty years of high protective tariff, wheat is selling for just half what it brought then. Will the Record explain?

AND now comes the unco-good editor of the Press and slyly chuckles over the escape of Boodler Dudley, from arrest for his crimes. From what we read in various republican papers, we have been forced to conclude that if a man should steal a horse, they would shelter and defend him, if the crime was committed to secure the success of the republican party.

MRS. HARRISON has raised a little tempest in insisting that her daughter, Mrs. McKee shall be first in order of precedence at receptions. This place has usually been given to either the wife of the vice-president, or the secretary of state. Mrs. Morton has the good sense to see the folly of the whole business, and says she will stand at the foot if they want her to. She don't think Americans should mind such nonsense.

WILL the Butler Record tell how a protective tariff is a protection or an advantage to a manufacturer, when, according to the Record's teachings, it makes the manufactured article cheaper? In other words, tell how it benefits a manufacturer to force him to sell his goods at a lower and lower price. Give us the answer. Or this: Why "levy a tariff on competing foreign products," if such a levy makes the home manufacturer sell at a lower rate?

THE Press says that we quote our own language instead of Harrison's when speaking of "trusts." Let us see. We said Dec. 12, "Harrison, in his message says, They are dangerous to the public good." Now we will give Harrison's exact words as found in his message in the COURIER and in the Press of Dec. 12, when in speaking of trusts he says, "they are dangerous conspiracies against the public good." Now will the Press claim that the words quoted are the COURIER's?

THERE is still trouble in the republic of Brazil. Many who remain loyal to Dom Pedro, are trying to overthrow the new government. If the new government is wise, it can maintain itself. If not, there is no telling what may happen. In the meantime, it would no doubt strengthen the hands of the new administration, if the United States would give a formal recognition to the new government. It is something of an object to this nation to have every division of the new world, a republic similar to ours.

THE FT. WAYNE JOURNAL anounces that Charley Munson positively declines to be again a candidate for auditor of state. This will disappoint thousands of his enthusiastic friends all over the state who remember the gallant fight he has made. No matter what may be Mr. Munson's sphere of life, he will have warm friends for he deserves them. The same paper announces that Henry Berghoff will probably be a candidate for treasurer of state. We have not the pleasure of Mr. Berghoff's acquaintance, but he has a high and honorable reputation as a business man, and is well respected as a citizen. The Journal, however, speaks from a personal knowledge of his character, and gives him a high eulogium. It will give the COURIER great pleasure to see Mr. Berghoff on the state ticket. And as Allen county puts up a big lot of democratic votes, we believe she is entitled to a good place on the ticket.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

TOTAL reduction on the public debt for 1889 foots up $81,000,000. The year before, Cleveland and his men paid off ten millions more. And Harrison has had a larger revenue to draw from.

WANAMAKER is likely to become as famous, or infamous, as Blocks-of-five Dudley. In a recent speech in a holiday address at Philadelphia, he said, "Put your money into politics," and "plant men throughout the state as thick as grasshoppers to see that there are fair elections and a fair count." No one will object to a "fair election and a fair count," but how it requires "men as thick as grasshoppers" all over the state with money to buy "floaters" to secure a "fair vote," few except Wanamaker and Dudley can tell. Perhaps their "trusted men with necessary funds" can tell.

THE RECORD insists that a farmer can produce a bushel of wheat for less than he formerly could. Well, has anybody denied this. But we do deny that he can produce a bushel of wheat and sell it for 75 cents, and make as good a profit as he could when he got $1.25 to $1.50. There was a profit in raising it at $1.25 but there is nor at 75 cents, no matter if the cost of production has been lessened a trifle. The Record also speaks of products here being protected. He knows there is no protection for the farmer, unless it may be in a small degree on certain kinds of wool, and on sugar, things that do not help farmers in this county at all. How can a man be so foolish as to claim that a duty of 20 cents a bushel on imported wheat, is a protection, when no wheat is imported into any section of the United States raises that wheat to sell. Wheat goes out of the country by millions, but it don't come in. The Record says under "free trade" thousands of men would be thrown out of employment and the home market for farmers would be ruined. From which we gather that he thinks these men would at once stop eating, and also go naked. The facts are, more men have been thrown out of employment during twenty-five years of "protection" than in all the years of our history before that genteel robbery was invented.

THE Waterloo Press came out last week enlarged to a seven column paper. That's right. Shows enterprise on the part of Bro. Willis, and a disposition to emulate the COURIER. True, he did not seem to think the enlargement of the COURIER amounted to much at the time. In fact he sneered a little in the usual way like this: "The COURIER spreads itself by the addition of another column. It improves the appearance of the paper, but the quality of the reading matter is very much like the past, very poor." Now what if the COURIER should talk in this jealous strain and say the "quality" of Bro. Willis' reading last week "was very poor." But our heart is altogether too, too full of the real, genuine milk of human kindness to do that. (But we are not even certain that this too common expression is exactly correct to nature, for we are told it is not the function of the heart to prepare milk. But that is the way folks say it.) No, we won't say the Press' articles last week were as poor as usual, for they were not. We liked the change. There were some half dozen articles, intensely interesting they were too, telling how old the Press is, and how good it is, and how big it is, and how much better it is than any other. Even the Dispatch, which has posters up almost everywhere, asserting that it is the very best, has to stand in the great big shadow of the Press. Yes, all this is intensely interesting reading. It makes one oblivious to all else while reading it. Thrice and once, as we fixed our charmed gaze on these dazzling articles, did the voice of our better-half call us to "bring some wood," and as often did the rapt reader, ask for "time a little time, to call our thoughts together," or "wait till the chapter is done." Then that picture!! It hangs to the side of the paper in all its fatal beauty, like the tomb of Mahomet suspended on nothing. Like the picture of Genevra, "he who sees it once will come again, and gaze, that he may call it up when far away." But never mind the picture. It don't look as well as Brother Willis does anyway, for he is the best looking editor in the county, except Brother Campbell, of the Dispatch, who is a single man, and is, of course reputed good looking. But still, if we were even as good looking as Bro. Olds, or Bro. Higgins, we don't believe we would make a Lydia Pinkham of ourself by getting into the paper "at the top of column next to reading matte." But after all, Bro. Willis, has done a good thing by enlarging. It gives according to his figures last summer, about thirty per cent more space, and will make him and the "boys" work hard to fill it up. This will keep him out of mischief, and we shall expect the Press and its editor to keep clattering along with the editorial procession of DeKalb county, and be a credit to its neighborhood and to the county. In the language of Beethoven, "So mote it be."

CORRESPONDENTS.

WATERLOO.

Hail 1890!

Charlie McBride is at home again.

Geo. Sinclair was in Toledo last week.

Royal Fisk went to Cleveland, Ohio, last week.

Augustus Hull, of Denver, Col., was here last week.

A series of meetings is being held at the U. B. church.

James Robertson went to Pleasant Lake last Friday.

Mr. Casebeer, of Auburn, was in town Tuesday morning.

Miss Bessie Bassett has been paying a visit to friends in Angola.

J. A. Hoover has sold his property to A. Ghrulke for $500 spot cash.

A cement crossing is very much needed between Bigby's property and Kennedy's.

John Voss, the latest survivor of the Graham Earle company came home last week.

Arlie Carpenter, of Pleasant Lake, was here last week on his way home from Defiance, O.

David Seery has sold 25 acres off his farm to Albert Beard, who will, we suppose, make it his home.

Orlando Seery has bought a lot west of Ben. Duncan's residence and will put up a dwelling in the spring.

Rev. H. C. Smith was called to his old home on Monday to see one of his brothers who is seriously sick.

Bernie Ackman offers a reward of $10 for his overcoat that was stolen from the opera house, not long since.

Waterloo needs a wood yard. Yes, by all means. We shall have a wood famine if the mud lasts much longer.

Henry Getts, an engineer on the B. & O. railroad, is home for several days while his engine is being repaired.

L. C. Hine, of Sedan, who is a member of the junior class of pharmacy in Purdue College, Lafayette, was in town last Saturday.

Frank McEnterfer has bought one of the lots opposite the residence of F. W. Willis, on Center street, and will soon put up a residence.

The first meeting of the town council for the new year, was held Monday evening. They report the corporation taxes lighter than usual. Satisfactory.

Last Sunday, the rain was almost constant during the day, and continued so nearly all night. A good time to show who are the fair weather Christians.

Rev. H. C. Smith and wife were very neatly surprised by several of their friends New Years evening, and presented with a fine lamp and other articles that were very much appreciated.

There was a serious wreck at the station here Tuesday forenoon. As an east bound through freight came in, one of the trucks broke under a car about the middle of the train. It is believed it got loose soon after leaving Sedan. But as it approached town, it seems a wheel got off the track, and as the train men were not yet aware of any trouble, they kept right on through the crossing. But as the broken car struck the frog at the crossing, it was thrown sideways across track and the wreck began in earnest. The train was broken in two and the engine and first part of the train went on, but the rear part came plunging onto the broken car, smashing it to splinters, tearing up the track, and making kindling of the plank walk at the station house. In fact, those in the building thought the wreck was coming right in there, and they hustled out in a lively manner. However, the building was not hurt, but three cars were demolished and one left standing up on end, the corner being so deep in the ground that much force was required to get it loose. The broken cars were loaded with wheat, corn and oats, a great part of which was saved. No one was hurt. The train men said they felt only two jerks and can hardly realize how it all happened. Men were soon on hand with the wrecking car, and by night the track was all clear. But there was no delay as the double track allowed them to pass freely. In fact, there are at this point several tracks that could be used with little trouble.

BUTLER.

The M. E. church fire has been adjusted at $76.57. Expensive carelessness.

The U. B. revival has closed with a very large accession to the church, about eighty were reported.

The U. B. parsonage had a close call from fire on New Years night, caused by a spark from a stove igniting the carpet. Rev. McCloe, the minister, being away from home, the fire had its own way for a time.

The writer spent a few days in the thriving city of Toledo, last week and noticed many substantial improvements being pushed to completion, that ordinarily would have to have been deferred until summer. Nearly all the street rail roads will soon be supplied with electric cars, that seem to run of their own volition and at a pace that lays the horse cars in the shade.

Many persons have noticed the dangerous proximity of the Lake Shore depot, to their main track, and as several of their trains pass at a high rate of speed without stopping, accidents are daily feared. This depot will be removed in the spring we understand. Now, would it not be a consummation devoutly to be wished, to move it directly south across their tracks and about twice its length east and make a union depot of it, and thus avoid the death trap passage between the two depots that is beset with seen and unseen dangers to the unwary stranger in his effort to change cars by a foot path of about twenty rods rather than the half-mile route by the street?

NEWVILLE.

Aunt Julia Rex is not so well.

Jim April No. 2, is trying to contract cabbage plants.

The old St Joe is booming, the water is out of its banks.

John Quince has rented one of Dan's chairs for the winter.

Pond lilies are in bloom. How is this for the 9th of January.

Jas. caught a foul ball on the jaw, it stopped the play a short time.

Old comrade Stepe is on the turf yet. He claims the right to celebrate.

Rain, rain and bad roads, keep Davy carrying shavings, can't haul any wood.

Sam and Dave are going to have a skirmish with Camma, if he don't haul them their share of the wood.

Predicting and presumption of one of the old settlers says the ice will be five inches thick in February. Uncle John.

It is whispered around that our new postmaster is not the man the republicans thought he was. Benny is making a good many mistakes.

Friend Harter ate bologna enough to reach three times around his body and twice the length of him, in twenty-six minutes. He is not well a present.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. Frank Hilt is on the sick list.

J. Smathers, of Hudson, was on our streets last Saturday.

Mrs. McDougle visited her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lawson one day last week.

David Reese and wife, of Butler, were visiting in the family of Warren Boyer last week.

Mr. Gengnagel and wife, of Butler, are visiting in the family of John Gramlings', at this writing.

Wm. H. May, teacher of district No. 2, surprised his schools last Tuesday with candy, oranges and popcorn.

Mrs. Hosea Dayhuff, of Pleasant Lake, was in our town last Thursday. She is visiting her brother, Wm. Wilcox, west of this place.

AUBURN JUNCTION.

George Summers is down with "La Grippe."

Dr. M. Greenawald is putting a new front in his residence.

Fred Carper and wife are comfortably settled in their new home.

The weather now looks as though it might have a spell of the "grip" also.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gonser were made happy by the birth of a baby boy Saturday, Jan. 4th.

Oscar Hite has taken a partner in the rag and tinware business. We did not learn who tied the knot. Now look out for another partner.

MANY negroes are moving from North Carolina to Georgia and Mississippi where they expect to have a better chance. It is estimated that 10,000 have gone within a year.

THE first train ran across the channel known as "Arthur Kill" from New Jersey to Staten Island, Jan. 1. This is where the B. & O. reaches the waters of New York bay. A big stride for the B. & O.

INDIANA has an admiral in the navy. Rear Admiral George Brown is a brother of the well known Austin H. Brown, who was press agent at the democrat national convention in Chicago in 1884. The admiral is on his way west to take charge of our naval forces on the Pacific.

PRESIDENT HARRISON presided over the republlican state convention in 1886, that passed resolutions declaring "unalterable opposition to subsidies, local, state and national." But now he and nearly every republican paper all over the country, are fighting bitterly to subsidize about everything in sight. Have they left their party, or has their party left them?

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M. C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

FORT WAYNE,

Cincinnati and Louisville

AND

White Water Railroads.

The Direct Line to and from Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne Time Table.

Going South. Ar. from South.

5:30 am—Fort Wayne Accomm'n....—10:00 am

10:45 am—Cin. & Louis'lle Mail & Ex.— 4:10 pm

5:00 pm—Indianapolis Express........—10:00 pm

S. A. WIKEL, Gen. Tkt. Agt.
Fort Wayne, Ind.

TIME IS MONEY

$4 to $6 Per Day. AGENTS WANTED!

☞ Circulars Mailed Free.

100% PROFIT

In selling Reinhold's Self-Rotary Knife Sharpeners.

No Kitchen is completely furnished without one. Every Lady buys one or more. It is the only Sharpener revolved by the knife ever seen.

Address: THE EAGLE MFG. CO.
Office, Eagle Block, DETROIT, MICH.

W. J. BOWMAN

OFFERS TO

THE PUBLIC,

A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.

Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.

Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.

E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,

FOR

MEN'S USE,

The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

A laundrymaid's hope is the SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
For it saves both her time and her labor,
And she'll find that her clothes with a brilliancy glows
And are softer than those of her neighbor.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
Manufactured only by
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO.,
CHICAGO.

DON'T - FAIL

—TO SEE THE—

Good Samaritan

—AND—

KING OF CURES.

He Tells Your Disease
Without Asking questions.

CONSULTATION FREE.

He takes no patients without he can cure them.

He Has Practiced Medicine
FOR 40 YEARS.

AS A SPECIALIST,
FOR 20 YEARS

In all Parts of the Globe.

Cures All Chronic Diseases.

No matter who has pronounced you incurable. The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight, and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.

He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, billious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.

Piles Cured Without a Knife.

Female Complaints a Specialty

Cured without local treatment.

All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his appointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to

J. H. ANDREWS, M. D.,
WAUSEON, OHIO.

Auburn, Swineford House, Feb. 3, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House. Jan. 23 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Jan. 20. One day only.
Garrett, Ross House, Jan. 11.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Jan. 12 and 13

THE AGED SING THE PRAISES OF SMITH'S BILE BEANS

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

"TIME TESTED"—"VICTOR CROWNED."

If you would be well and live to a ripe old age, you should keep a never failing supply of SMITH'S BILE BEANS always at hand. Their Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic qualities have been "time tested," and the thousands of testimonials which we have and still receive, show that there is nothing better on sale. If you feel NERVOUS or UNSTRUNG, the LIVER no doubt is to blame, and a single dose of BILE BEANS (one bean) will LINE YOU UP. Call on your Druggist for them. Sold everywhere, 25c. PER BOTTLE. Sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price.

J. F. SMITH & CO., Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS, MO.

READ THIS.—"I wish to add my testimony to the efficiency of Bile Beans for all Bilious and Nervous Troubles. Myself and wife have lately given them a trial, with most satisfactory results. We shall always keep them in the house." E. T. Pendleton, Spe'l Ag't Equitable Life Ins. Co., St. Louis, Mo.

THE STAR SPANGLE BANNER

Still Waves Over a Large Line of

WATCHES,

Spectacles, Jewelry & Clocks.

WE KEEP THE TIME AND

MAKE A SPECIALTY

In Fitting Spectacles, Repairing them and changing Lenses, and Repairing Watches, Clocks and Jewelry.
Kindly soliciting a share of your patronage.
I am, Respectfully, yours,

E. SPANGLE, Auburn, Indiana.

FOR DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS

JOHNSTON'S ROYAL ENGLISH BUCHU

Will cure all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Burning Urine, Gleet, Gonorrhœa in all its stages, Mucous Discharges, Congestion of the Kidneys, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy of Kidneys and Acid Urine, Bloody Urine, PAIN IN THE BACK, Retention of Urine, Frequent Urination, Gravel in all its forms, Inability to Retain the Water, particularly in persons advanced in life. IT IS A KIDNEY INVESTIGATOR and restores the Urine to its natural color, removes the acid and burning, and the effect of the excessive use of intoxicating drink.

PRICE $1; Three Bottles for $2.50.
Delivered free of any charges.
☞ Send for Circular. Sold by all Druggists.
W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich.

SALESMEN WANTED.

to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. SALARY AND EXPENSES paid to successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership existing under the firm name of Gregg, Kandel & Co., has been dissolved, and all accounts of said firm are now in the hands of Isaac Gregg.

GREGG, KANDEL & CO.

Jan. 1, 1890

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

Is a remedy every farmer should keep on hand, as it is invaluable for many diseases. All dealers sell it. Price $1.00.

TOO MUCH WARM WEATHER!

And on account of it we have too many Cloaks on hand. For the next twenty days we offer for cash every Ladies', Misses or Childs' Winter Wrap, at

Half Price.

Read this over carefully if you are in need of a Cloak:

$16.00	Plush Jacket, now	$ 8.00.
22.00	Plush Sacque, now	11.00.
25.00	Plush Sacque, now	12.50.
33.00	Plush Sacque, now	16.50.
38.00	Plush Sacque, now	19.00.
20.00	Plush Walking Coat, now	10 00.
25 00	Plush Walking Coat, now	12.50.
15.00	Plush Newmarket, now	7.50.
20.00	Plush Newmarket, now	10.00.
23.00	Plush Newmarket, now	11.50.

All Ladies' and Misses Newmarkets at $11.00, $12.00, 13,00 and 13.50.

Your Choice for $5.

This is no advertising scheme, but real facts. So do not miss this opportunity of securing a genuine bargain,

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW

BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.

If You want to Save Money During 1890

BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF

SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

Positively

—TO THE—

Front

—ON—

Hosiery and Underwear.

Ladies' all-wool Cashmere Hose, 25 cts. per pair.

Gents' all-wool Cashmere Hose, 25 cts. per pair.

Also good value in Children's Hosiery.

Ladies' White Merino Vests, at 25 cents.

Also good value in Scarlet and Natural wool Underwear for Ladies and Children.

We have extra value in Ladies' 25 cent Mittens.

White Blankets at 75 cents per pair.

All-wool factory flannel in Scarlet and Plaids at 25 cents per yard.

Cotton flannel for 5 cents per yard.

Ladies' Shirts for 75 cents each.

Toboggans 25 cents.

Fascinators 25 cents.

Mufflers 25 cents.

Silk Handkerchiefs 25 cents.

And many other goods. Good value and at as low prices as we have mentioned.

Always glad to show the goods as we are receiving new goods daily.

Remember our

HOSIERY

—AND—

UNDERWEAR.

Mrs. Jones & Son,

WEST SIDE OF SQUARE

AUBURN, - INDIANA.

LOCAL NEWS.

Post's closing out sales are immense, not their low prices.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Ladies, all our $1.25 corsets at 85cts to close them out, at Post's.

Ladies', gents' and children's underwear. See our prices, at Post's.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Mrs W. H. Dills found quite a number of pansies in bloom in the open air in their yard Jan. 1. And many others have found various sorts of flowers out doors and doing nicely We have even heard of dandelions by the roadside. It is wonderful for this climate.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Walter Hartman, will for the next few days, sell rubber stamps, steel stamps, stencils and everything in that line at a great reduction in order to get rid of the goods on hand, which are all warranted and can be examined at his office over "Crystal Palace meat market." It will pay you to buy now. Orders by mail promptly attended to. Walter C. Hartman, Auburn, Ind.

I want to tell suffering humanity what was the matter with me and what cured me. I broke out with rash the most uncomfortable thing I ever had because it itched so and I had to fan my hands to get ease. You could not see the veins on my hands there were so many pimples on them. I used one bottle Loose's Fluid Extract of Red Clover and was completely cured.

T. A. Smith,
St. C & L. W. Ry. Toledo, O.

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.

Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

Our friend Henry Myers, one of the most prosperous farmers of Butler township, had a neat trick played on him by his neighbors last Friday. His birthday came on Thursday, and fearing a surprise, he absented himself but got back the next day all right, and his friends who had got hold of the trick, were ready to turn the tables on him. They came in and took him by storm. He had to give up beaten, and they all had a splendid time. Mr. Myers has finished a fine residence, one of the very finest in that section of the county. They gave him as a token of esteem a fine chair in which he can now sit and meditate on future plans to avoid being surprised on the second of January.

The grass along the streets and yards is growing nicely.

Real estate list of Rickel & Sprott, this week—entirely new.

The wife of Rev. N. Crary, of Hicksville, died of paralysis, Dec. 30.

Mrs. W. E. Rush lost nearly all her chickens by cholera last week.

No where in Auburn can dress goods be bought as cheap as at Post's.

Joe. Rainier, our popular butcher, was taken with a severe attack of rheumatism Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Roland went to Angola last week to attend the funeral of a relative.

McGinty will not have the influenza. He is too "deep" a man to let it catch him. D'ye "see?"

Sunday was a warm, rainy day, reminding one of a May day, more than the 5th of January.

Mrs. L. D. Britton, of Corunna, will soon move to Auburn, where she has already purchased a property.

Jim Perry, who for a long time was the popular painter in the Kiplinger carriage works, is again in town.

In many places farmers are plowing for their spring crops. Sward ground is in splendid condition for plowing, but stubble ground is rather too wet

Luther Loveland and a young friend, M. C. Robinson, from Stafford, called up to get acquainted with the COURIER last Friday. Always glad to see our young friends.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

School began again Monday after the holiday vacation. The young people have had a much needed rest, and will now, no doubt take hold of the work with renewed energy.

Hay, corn, wood, and other necessaries from farmers are scarce in town. It is almost impossible for farmers to get to town with a load, for the roads are in a very bad condition, and no telling how long they will remain so.

Cathartic Pills are Whips to the liver and bowels, but give no strength. The more you take the more you need. Miles' Pills (M. P.) positively strengthen. The longer taken, the less required. Samples free at Davenport's. 2

If anyone ever saw a steadier rain than we had all day Sunday, and Sunday night we should be glad to hear about it. We are getting even for the last two dry summers. If this keeps on there will be a wood famine, as the roads have now been bad for a month.

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

Miss Ida Stahl is home after a holiday visit to her sister, Mrs. Com. Urie, at Burr Oak, Mich. She found Com. and family well. He is station agent for the Lake Shore road there. Will Urie is also there, and in the hardware business, and also prospering. As the boys were old neighbors of ours, of course we feel an interest in their welfare.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Smith & Madden are now at work, in their new building and have been a couple of weeks. The front is not finished but a temporary partition is used to enclose the room, making it tenable this warm winter. But if it should turn cold they would not be able to keep warm. They are doing a good deal of marble work this winter. People should give them a big trade.

Rev. T. E. Burrows, of Hicksville, has introduced phonograph entertainments in that place to divert the minds of the young people from attending theaters, dances, etc. This is a good and moral idea. But we think he would have his hands full in Auburn, as our young people are a very lively generation, and they attend theaters, dances, skating rink, socials and go to church and Sunday school. He would need a perpetual phonogrape here.

The drunken dead beat that plays editor for the Clipper, H. E. Little, was up hauled once more for drunkenness last week, and brought before 'Squire Ralston, who fined him $5 and costs. It was over the 100th offense and our people are getting tired of the disgrace. People who love order and decency, should present a vote of thanks to Joe Pfeffer, who went before his honor and made the complaint. Let us now hope that hereafter these public drunks will be less frequent.

The L. L. C. elected officers at their Saturday's meeting. They are: president, Mrs. Alice Lewis; vice president, Mrs. E. Willis; secretary, Mrs. Tillie McCord; treasurer, Mrs. H. J. Ralston; critic, Mrs. E. Schaab. The work for the coming year will be general history, interspersed with papers on various subjects. They meet this Saturday with Mrs. Ralston; leader, Mrs. Barns. Subject of lesson, Egypt, followed by a paper by Eva Ensley, "The Nile, and its Explorers.

Hill's Buchu is a permanent cure for all diseases of the urinary organs.

Alza Ralston has returned from her visit with friends in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Clara Otto has returned after a holiday visit with friends in Ft. Wayne.

The 48th Indiana regiment will hold a reunion at Ligoinier, Ind., Feb. 7, 1890.

Miss Lottie McLain, of Butler, spent New Years week with her sister Mrs. J. A. McIntyre.

Invitations are out for the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wasson of Spencerville, for the 16th.

A. E. Ashley is now at Ft. Wayne, where he has a steady job. Young men like him can generally find work.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon at the residence of Hon. W. L. Penfield, on South Jackson St.

A. B. Nickey, formerly of Auburn, but now of Ft. Wayne is said will organize a big bank in that city in a short time.

J. J. VanAuken was at Angola last week, attending the funeral of the late Alex. McConnell, who was a brother-in-law.

Mrs. Jessie Zollars is back home at present visiting her family, that of Mike Douglas. She has been a resident of Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Yesbera spent several days during the holidays at West Unity, Ohio, where his father and relatives reside.

W. H. H. Cornell, of New Era, was up here Saturday. He has been having serious trouble with his hand, a bad case of catarrh or something like a felon.

Mrs. Simon McEntaffer died at her home near Russel, Kan., Dec. 24. She was a former resident of this county, and well known in this vicinity.—Waterloo Press.

At Windfull, this state, the people get natural gas at 30 cents a month and can use all they please. What a boon that would be with our muddy roads in DeKalb.

Morris Eckhart who has been making a holiday visit with his parents, has returned to Toledo, where he is taking a thorough course in the business college located there.

Groscup and Mader were the successful bidders for the fence posts and railing, for the fair ground. Their bid was at the rate of $15 per thousand, and will amount to about $325.

Editor Hale, of the Angola Republican, died Sunday, Dec. 29. He was under treatment at the Logansport asylum when overtaken by death. His remains were interred at Angola.

Johnny Altenburg and Orrie Lewis are in the news agency business. They are selling the Albany Gazette and Elmira Gazette two excellent papers published in New York state.

Talmage is the pride of the American pulpit, but the hearts of the poultrymen leap with joy at the mention of Ganter's chicken cholera cure. Sold "no cure, no pay" by Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. Wm. McIntyre gave a tea to a number of lady friends, Monday evening. Auburn ladies are neighborly and social and we are pleased to see quite a number of them taking an interest in these social meetings.

Be careful what you write on a postal card. The extreme penalty for writing on a postal card anything intended to reflect injuriously upon the character of another, is a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for five years. Exchange.

The Daily issue of The Chicago Herald is now eight, ten, twelve or sixteen pages as the news demands, and it is sent one month by mail for fifty cents. How so much can be afforded for so little money is a wonder to every Herald reader.

A son of Capt. Ede Fisher of, Rome City, it is reported shot himself at that place last Friday evening. No cause is assigned. He was a bright young man of about 23, and had been employed in a wholesale house at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

A sneak thief entered the woodhouse of Wm. Madden, on South Maine street and relieved him of a nice ham of meat and several pounds of flour. It would be a good idea to "fix up" a good months' rations for these sneaks, and thus find out who they are.

Among the many fine Christmas gifts we tried to remember last week was the fine writing desk and bookcase presented to Frank Blattner, by his father, Ed. Blattner of Waterloo. It is of the celebrated Wooten manufacture and is a fine piece of furniture.

The stray horse advertised by Jesse Harnish last week, turned out to have been lost by Ed. Smith of this place. Mr. Smith went down Saturday and brought him home. Mr. Harnish did the proper thing, to put a notice in the COURIER where everybody will see it.

Saturday evening the electric lights shone out once more as brightly as ever, and it was plain the second new armature had been received and put at work. Fortunately the break had occurred during the bright moonlight of the past week, and so it was not as bad as it might have been.

The Wabash well diggers are experiencing some difficulty in obtaining water at Butler to supply their shops. Now if they were to move their shops to Auburn, they could get an abundance of water without digging into the earth. Perhaps the road will resort to this scheme in the near future.

We believe the matters of the Lutheran church buildings are all settled now and closed up. The old building has been transferred to the Church of God, and the new one is all completed and everything in good shape, thanks to the perseverance and hustling qualities of Mr. Walborn and Mr. Bowers who have stood by it from first to last.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hanna spent the holidays with their freind in Ft. Wayne.

Hortie Culbertson, who made a holiday visit to her friend Josie Klotz at Van Wert, is home again.

Mrs. Geo. Schaab entertained a few lady friends at tea Friday evening. Of course they had a pleasant time.

Ticket No. 14,136 drew the gold watch at Post's Jan. 1. It is a lady's watch and a nice one. We have not heard who got it.

Edna Davis was visiting relatives in Chicago during the holidays. She took advantage of the opportunity to hear Patti sing.

Henry Witt has returned from his wedding trip and settled down to married life. We wish him and his bride abundant happiness and success.

Mattie Moody took the child's part in the play last Thursday evening, and Anna Lewis had the similar part Friday evening. The little misses did their parts well, and acted charmingly.

Shelbyville Democrat: A stop should be put to the British scheme of buying up American distilleries. It would be disgraceful for the Vice-President of the United States to be driven to buying his cafe supplies from Britishers.

The papers give glowing accounts of ripe fresh strawberries at Chattanooga, Tenn., on New Years day. It is said they grew on the slopes of Missionary Ridge, and we have no doubt our freind Frank Culbertson got his share of them.

LA GRIPPE: Be prepared to protect yourself and loved ones from the sometimes fatal attack of the Russian Influenza. Send 50 cts. for Dr. Williams' "sure cure" receipt with full directions. Address at once, A. Prendergast, Findlay, O.

The Churubusco People came out in fine holiday number with an illuminated pink cover and three or four times as large as usual. Kinsey Brothers are hustlers, and are giving the Churubuscans a paper that is valuable to the town and its interests.

Miss Belle Ressigue of Garrett, was pianist for the Loranger company here last week. She is an accomplished musician as well as an estimable young lady. She was assisted by Prof. Moore, who played the violin. They made a splendid orchestra.

S. H. Snyder, a former Auburn young man, is now proprietor of a drug store, at Neodesha, Kansas. For Sam's sake we hope the people there will have a reasonable amount of ailments—not enough to kill 'em but just enough to require a good amount of drugs to help help 'em out.

The Clipper wind editor when on his prolonged drunk last week, evidently took his usual round of the court house offices, begging a quarter of each "to sober off on." And from the way he wrote them up it is evident the democratic officers gave him ten cents each and the republicans $1. "Business is business."

There was no sermon at the new Lutheran church Saturday evening, as Mr. Kain could not be present. He sent word that he had been called to another point on some church matters by the president of the synod. It was quite a dissapointment to the people, as quite a number assembled at the church at the hour appointed.

The Auburn Windmill Company recently erected two fine mills near Butler, and they find orders coming in on them from every direction. The company as now reorganized is E. McDowell, president; J. P. Kandel, secretary; F. M. Boyer, treasurer. Wm. McDowell and James McDowell are also members. All are energetic and industrious young men, and we believe they are on the road to success.

A photographic fraud is "doing" the towns of the state, ostensibly working in the interests of the New York copying company. He takes orders for the enlargement of photographs, taking the pictures with him, always collecting seventy-five cents "to pay express charges," andt hat is the last seen of pictures, agent or money. Look out for him.—Lagrange Democrat.

H. G. Eakins, agent for the Century Company, is intending to canvass Auburn in a few days for the most intensley interesting, as well as the most valuable work on the late war that has ever been produced. It is the Century Company's great work, "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War." Those who have read a few of these letters in the Century will at once see how valuable this work will be, which contains not only those, but several times as many letters and articles not before published. They are written, not by men who fought on one side only, but by able men from both sides. We hope many of our people will feel able to take this great work for their libraries.

Detroit News: The republican leaders of Michigan seem to be in advance of their party and of their local newspaper organ, if we may judge from the interview the News had yesterday with Mr. Clarence A. Black. Mr. Black is a strong partisan and a good enough politician to know that that party will win which can please the greatest number of people, by any means. He is, therefore, anxious to keep his party in Michigan well in line with the persons who have the votes to save or damn it, and if it be necessary to shift the position of the party, it is better to do it voluntarily before elections than to be obliged to do it after them. When Mr. Black says "Our extreme position on the tariff question is not tenable, and the sooner we recede from it the better," he says only what hundreds and thousands of republicans believe, but dare not give the utterance. If the tariff system for protective purposes is wrong at all today, its defect must be either in its principle or its application. The republicans have been applying the system so long, have collected so much revenue through it, have its machinery so well organized and manage so well to tax every man, woman and child in the country under it that they would be stultifying themselves at this late day.

Little Flossie Leasure has been quite sick, but is now able to sit up.

Elza Shaffer, of Albion, is reported to be quite sick with influenza.

Co. Supt. Merica has an important notice in this week's paper, as to the examinations. Read it.

W. H. McIntosh went to Chicago yesterday morning on business. He will visit his brother George McIntosh, and may go on to Wisconsin to visit other relatives.

The rooms on the second floor of the Farmers' Bank building will soon be occupied again by a temperance billiard room. We believe Art. Steele is one of the parties interested.

Mrs. G. W. Gordon found a nicely budded branch on one of their apple trees this week and cut it off, put it in the house where it is now fully blossomed. Who cares for California?

The Post reports building done in Columbia City last year to the amount of $220,000. Columbia is taking on a solid and healthy growth, as any one familiar with the town for the past twenty years can see.

As Jack Little must have edited the Clipper again last week during Hank's drunk, it will be seen he is as full of venom against Auburn and its people, as his low down brother. Slush is slush, no matter who writes it.

W. K. Shaffer, formerly of the Angola Herald, has purchased the Kendallville News, of Dr. Parker. Good for Sheffer. We "stop the press" to say godspeed to our Angola friend. He is just the man they need in Kendallville.

The Funeral of Miss Nina Potter was largely attended Wednesday. The scholars in the room of which she was a member, were dismissed so that all might pay their last respects to their youthful classmate. Nina, once full of life and energy, is no more. She is sweetly sleeping the sleep that knows no waking.

Prof. David S. Jordan, of the State University of Bloomington, will be one of those provided for in the course of lectures laid down by the Ladies' Literary Club. He will deliver his great lecture "Ascent of the Matterhorn," Jan. 28. It is a thrilling account of his experience in climbing that famous peak in the Alps, and will be a great treat to our people.

H. E. Little, the Clipper editor, came near ending up his drunken spree fatally last week. He was found Tuesday evening, lying dead drunk between the rails on the Wabash track about two-thirds of the way down to the Junction. Harry Stafford, night operator at the Junction, found him, and with some difficulty got him off the track. No. 58, coming this way, was just pulling into the Junction, and would surely have killed him.

The change in the ownership of the Angola Herald, which we noted last week was made. Editor Shuman, stepped down with a graceful bow and sensible farewell words, and Mr. A. S. Roberts, the new publisher has a graceful and vigorous introduction. We like the good sense he displays, and admire his clear cut political ideas. We believe he will make the Herald a success, not only for himself but for the democrats and all Steuben county.

The Graham Earle matter that we give at some length will be a surprise to our people who had always considered him a different sort of man. From all accounts it seems, he and Agatha Singleton had never been married, though passing here and elsewhere as man and wife. In fact the lots he bought a year ago in the north side addition in Goshen, are deeded to "Agatha Singleton Earle" as if she was his wife. It seems that when she found he had left her, she secured $300 he had in deposit at Rochester this state, which is their home, and where she now is. We believe her maiden name was Gordon. Earle's case will be tried next week in Albion, we understand.

Obituary.

Nina Emma Potter, daughter of J. A Potter died at their home Auburn, Jan. 6, 1890 at the early age of 12 years, 3 months and 11 days. She had been sick for some time, in fact since the death of her mother. She had come home from her mother's funeral worn out and grief-stricken and scarcely left her room afterwards. Her disease finally took the form of consumption of the bowels, and her life was gradually wasted away. The funeral was at the M. E. church Wednesday at 1:30 p. m, Mr. Lamport officiating. Following so soon the death of Mrs. Potter, it is a terrible blow on the family, and all, and especially Mr. Potter, have the deepest sympathy of the community.

Court.

Work is still going on at a fair rate. The young man whose forgery is noted elsewhere, was put through all O. K. George Barney vs Ellen and I. W. Lowman, note and attachment. Judgment against both defendants, $105, but by agreement costs were taxed on plaintiff except those of Lowman for depositions which are against defendant. The road case of W. S. Dirrim vs Crane, road is located and damages ordered paid. Same in the W. S. Dancer road running east from the Knott school house in Butler township to the old Lockwood place in Jackson.

Indianapolis Sun: The Chicago Herald makes this cute little remark: "Harrison reports that our foreign relations are satisfactory. He might have added that his own relations have nothing to complain of, either."

Marriage Bells.

MARRIED: In Auburn, Dec. 30, 1889 by Rev. W. L. Meese, Mr. Edward E. Smead to Miss Tena E. Ankney. Both are residents of Auburn, and will continue to make this their home.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents, in Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 25, 1889, Dr. B. G. Watson, of Auburn, to Miss Lillie Cleveland. The Doctor has many friends in Auburn, who will welcome him and his bride, and wish them a long, happy and prosperous life.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents, at Pleasant Lake, Ind., Dec. 25, 1889, Mr. James Lewis, of Auburn, to Miss Belle Sharp. Mr. Lewis has lived in Auburn several years, and is an industrious young man, having been in the employ of John L. Davis, as tinner, to the satisfaction of all. The COURIER extends the usual congratulations.

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's parents in Norwalk, Ohio, Dec. 26, 1889, Dallas A. Myrtle and Miss Anna Cully. Mr. Myrtle is a printer, having worked for sometime in Waterloo. His home is in Angola, and his father is also a typo, he having worked in Auburn on the DeKalb County Republican, when R. H. & G. W. Weamer were the editors. We extend our [illegible] and may the young couple live a long [illegible] and all their !!! be filled with joy.

John Wallick, who has been in Nebraska for three or four years arrived at his parental home Christmas eve., with a young lady he introduced as his wife, having been married Dec. 20, 1889. He will continue his visit in Ohio, before returning to Nebraska, in February.—Stafford Cor. Waterloo Press.

A Case of Conscience.

Funny things sometimes happen. W. E. Rush who has been in the grocery business a long time had quite a good story to tell the other day, though he won't give names. A man recently came to him and said he had a matter that was resting on his mind and troubled his conscience, and he wanted to get rid of it. He said that about twelve years ago when Mr. Rush had a grocery where the Beuret block stands, he had sold him some produce, and in paying for it, Mr. Rush had handed him a ten dollar bill, when he should have given him a five. He however, kept the money and for all this time has said nothing. Lately he has become one of those who believe in sanctification, and it so quickened his conscience that he came to town and made this explanation, paying Mr. Rush a five dollar gold piece. Mr. Rush had never discovered his loss, and was agreeably surprised at his good fortune. From this, it would appear that sanctification is a pretty good thing. It is better in fact than the "Commercial Agency" to make a man square up old accounts. It still falls short a little however, of perfection, for where is the interest on that $5 for twelve years? At the rates of interest prevailing during that time there should have been about another $5. We shall withdraw a part of our confidence in sanctification till we hear from the interest.

Unclaimed Letters.

List of letters remaining uncalled for at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice for the week ending Jan. 7, 1890: N. A. Beard, James Foust, Thomas Jetmore, H. Klix, B. F. Myers, Daniel Mullen, Michael Sheens, Geo. E. Shull, M. J. Weller, Phillip Watson.

Persons calling for the above letters will please say advertised.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

1890.

Harper's Young People.

[An Illustrated Weekly.]

The Eleventh Volume of Harper's Young People, which begins with the number for Nov. 5, 1889, presents an attractive program. It will offer to its readers at least four serials of the usual length, and others in two or three parts, namely, The Red Mustang, by William O. Stoddard; Phil and the Baby by Lucy C. Lillie; Prince Tommy, by John Russell Coryell; and Mother's Way, by Margaret E. Sangster; two short serials by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen. Two series of Fairy Tales will attract the attention of lovers of the wonder-world, namely, the quaint tales told by Howard Pyle, and so admirably illustrated by him, and another series in a different vein by Frank M. Bicknell. There will be short stories by W. D. Howells, Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, Harriett Prescott Spofford, David Ker, Hezekiah Butterworth, Sophie Swett, Richard Malcomb Johnston, etc.

A subscription to Harper's Young People secures a juvenile library. There is useful knowledge, also plenty of amusement.—Boston Advertiser.

TERMS: Postage Prepaid, $2. Per Year.

Vol. XI. begins November 5, 1889.

Specimen Copy sent on receipt of 2-cent stamp Single Numbers, Five Cents each.

Remittances should be made by Postoffice money order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

Indianapolis Sun: Wonder if President Harrison had Levi's buffet in his mind, when he advised, in his message, some legislation looking to the control of the liquor traffic in the District of Columbia?

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE United States bought over 2,000,000 worth of eggs from Canada last year.

PRIVATE SECRETARY HALFORD was once a newsboy, and he is now earnestly urging some action looking to a betterment of the condition of the waifs of the streets.

NOTHING that has happened of late in Constantinople has excited so much comment as the action of the Sultan in driving about in an open carriage with the German Empress.

IN a little town of Schleswig-Holstein there is a tax exemption for dogs "that sleep with their masters and mistresses and so preserve them from gout, rheumatism, and like pains."

THE operator of an electric car at Pittsburg, Pa., reversed the current very suddenly a few days ago and the iron work became so heavily charged that two passengers received severe shocks.

LADY FORESTER, of London, is a practical philanthropist. Each week she sends to the factory girls of London upward of two thousand bunches of flowers gathered by the servants on her estates.

A POCAHONTAS COUNTY (West Virginia) ghost in the shape of a woman in white wearing a belt stuck full of revolvers turns out to be nothing but the shadow of a tree as thrown against a wall by a street lamp.

A SCIENTIST says that there is such a thing as a hoop-snake, but that it doesn't roll like a hoop. It simply makes a succession of loops, like the inch-worm, but so rapidly that it seems to roll around like a hoop.

JANE DETHERIDGE, of Kingston, Jamaica, has refused thirty-seven offers of marriage. Jane has $1,000,000, and is an orphan. She does not think she can afford a husband who cares only for her money.

MRS. GIFFORD, of New Haven, Conn., has given $115,000 to societies and institutions for the prevention of cruelty to animals. She has endowed a home in Boston with $30,000 for stray and starving animals.

WHEN a clergyman at Pennsburg, Pa., handed his wife the envelope which contained the customary present from a groom, she found it contained only six cents. The minister had been called out of bed to perform the ceremony.

OF the seven weeds which the "weed law" of Wisconsin requires farmers, under penalty, to destroy, only one is a native of the United States, all the rest being naturalized importations from Europe, where they are common wild plants.

OVER half a million "letters that never came" are reported for last year, all due to careless and insufficient addresses and to lack of postage stamps. This shows that the public is itself responsible for a good deal of the fault that it finds with the postal service.

SECRETARY BLAINE attributes his good health to the fact that he has given up his habit of eating meat three times a day. He eats eggs for breakfast, cracked wheat for lunch, and roast meat for dinner. Since he adopted this regimen his health has been greatly improved.

IN a private letter a New Orleans teacher declared that the pupils in Southern schools obey only when compelled by force or fear, and that they have little sense of right or honor. Somehow or other the letters got published, and now they are making it hot for the teacher.

JUDGE MARK BLANDFORD, of the Georgia Supreme Bench, is a firm believer in the zodiac signs. He lost an arm at the battle of McDowell, Va., in May, 1862, and he declares that he and every other soldier who got wounded in the arm in that combat recovered, while all the leg wounds proved mortal. He says he had occasion to take particular notice of that fact.

THE old gunboat Condor, which, under the command of Lord Charles Beresford, did such efficient service at the bombardment of Alexandria, has been condemned and sold. The Condor will be broken up for the iron that is in her. Lord Beresford takes command of the cruiser Undaunted, and will do duty in the Mediterranean.

A YOUNG lady of Augusta, Me., has received a bill amounting to over $100 that tells a little history. The bill came from Peter Clark, of New York, and in it she is charged with twenty-two yards of silk dress goods, two gold bracelets worth $40, one diamond ring, a hat and several other items. Clark was a rejected suitor of the lady, who claims that the above named articles were presents from him.

FLORIDA will soon be the greatest lemon-growing country in the world. Lemons weighing a pound each are common in Florida, and along the banks of Caloosahatchie there is a single tree which bears 5,000 lemons, many of which weigh a pound each. But, except for show, such large lemons are of little value, as they are coarse-grained and pulpy. The best lemons are grown on poor soil, and for that reason they are a very profitable crop. This country consumes more lemons every year than all other countries combined, and the consumption is constantly increasing.

WE shall have to cease talking of American fire-proof buildings. Recent fires have demonstrated that there is no such thing. During the last few years great progress has been made by architects and builders in reducing the combustibility of buildings, but the best of them will burn, and it is a misnomer to call any fire-proof. Some of the so-called fire-proof buildings may resist an ordinary fire, but none of them can withstand a great one. The best that architects and builders can do is to reduce the chances of burning to a minimum and provide simple means of escape in case of fire.

A YOUNG lady near Clayton, Ga., a few days since prepared a wedding supper and invited relatives and friends to be present and witness her marriage to a young man of the neighborhood. The company assembled, the bride was attired in her wedding costume and the supper was in waiting, but the bridegroom did not appear. At a late hour, however, he accidentally happened along, dressed in his every-day clothes, and, being made acquainted with the object of the assemblage, expressed great suprise, stating that he had no notice whatever of the intended wedding. The wedding was postponed, but the supper was highly enjoyed all the same.

A GREAT outcry has been raised in the Swiss Canton Tessin against the prevalence there of bribery at elections. The political workers are constantly racking their brains to devise new means of buying votes. The Mayor of a small city near Locarno recently, while running for re-election, invited every man who would promise to vote for him to eat and drink at his expense for three months at certain specified taverns. The success of his plan is shown by the fact that he was re-elected, and that his bills at the tavern in question amounted to 14,000 francs. Votes bought in the old-fashioned way cost from 20 cents to $5 each. Even the clergy are said to bribe electors right and left.

THERE are some good-sized families in Maine to-day, but probably none so large as one mentioned in the histories of old colonial days. It is told on the authority of Cotton Mather that the first royal Governor at Boston was one of a family of twenty-six children, and was born in the woods of Maine near the mouth of the Kennebec, in 1651. His mother was left a widow when he was a child, and is said to have had all she could do to provide for the wants of her family. It is hoped that when the Governor got $100,000, a knighthood, and a goblet valued at $5,000 as a reward for finding a Spanish treasure ship that had gone to the bottom half a century before, he remembered his mother and made her last days easier than her earlier ones had been.

THE oldest officer in the United States navy is Commodore Henry Bruce, now on the retired list and living in Boston. He was born on Feb. 12, 1789, and was appointed a midshipman in the navy from Massachusetts on Nov. 9, 1813. During his seventy-six years of life in the navy he was forty-two years on the active list, but had only fifteen years of sea service and eight years of shore duty. Three of his fifteen years of sea service, from 1837 to 1840, were spent as Lieutenant on the famous frigate Brandywine, in the Mediterranean squadron, and his only command was the brig Truxton, on the coast of Africa, in 1848. His last promotion on the active list was to the grade of Commander, on Sept. 8, 1841. He was retired Sept. 13, 1855, but on April 4, 1867, he was promoted to Commodore, a favor which officers on the retired list no longer have.

Found Wanting.

If a servant obeys orders as far as he can, and does his work correctly as far as he goes, what more can be expected? And yet the result is not always satisfactory, even to reasonable employers.

The Boston Courier has a story of a woman who own a very large and handsome dog, of which she is very fond, and perhaps a little proud. The other day she sent him out to the stable to be weighed, confiding the operation to a new servant, who looked upon the powerful animal with considerable awe, and apparetly with some real affection.

The man was gone a surprisingly long time, but at last reappeared, and announced that the dog weighed one hundred and twenty pounds.

"One hundred and twenty pounds!" repeated the lady. "Are you sure you weighed him right? He must weigh more than that."

"Oh, yes, marm; sure an' I weighed him right, but I could't get him all on the scales."

A Present for a Husband.

Furniture Dealer—Yes, madam, there is no nicer present for a man than a handsome writing-desk. Look at this one, for example.

Customer—It's very pretty; but what are all those square things?

"Drawers, madam. That desk has one hundred and sixty separate drawers."

"Huh! And every time he mislays anything he'll expect me to find it. Show me a desk with one drawer."—New York Weekly.

Didn't Suit Him.

"Waiter, what is this?"

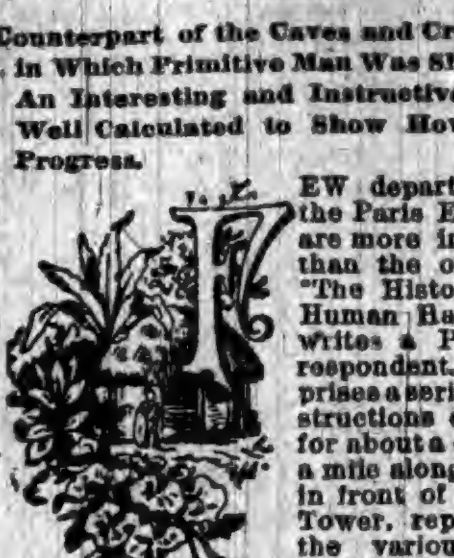
"Beef stew, sir."

"Beeves, two, eh? Well, I should think by the bones there are in it, it was at least a dozen. I say, waiter, they needn't put in the horns next time."

HUMAN HABITATIONS.

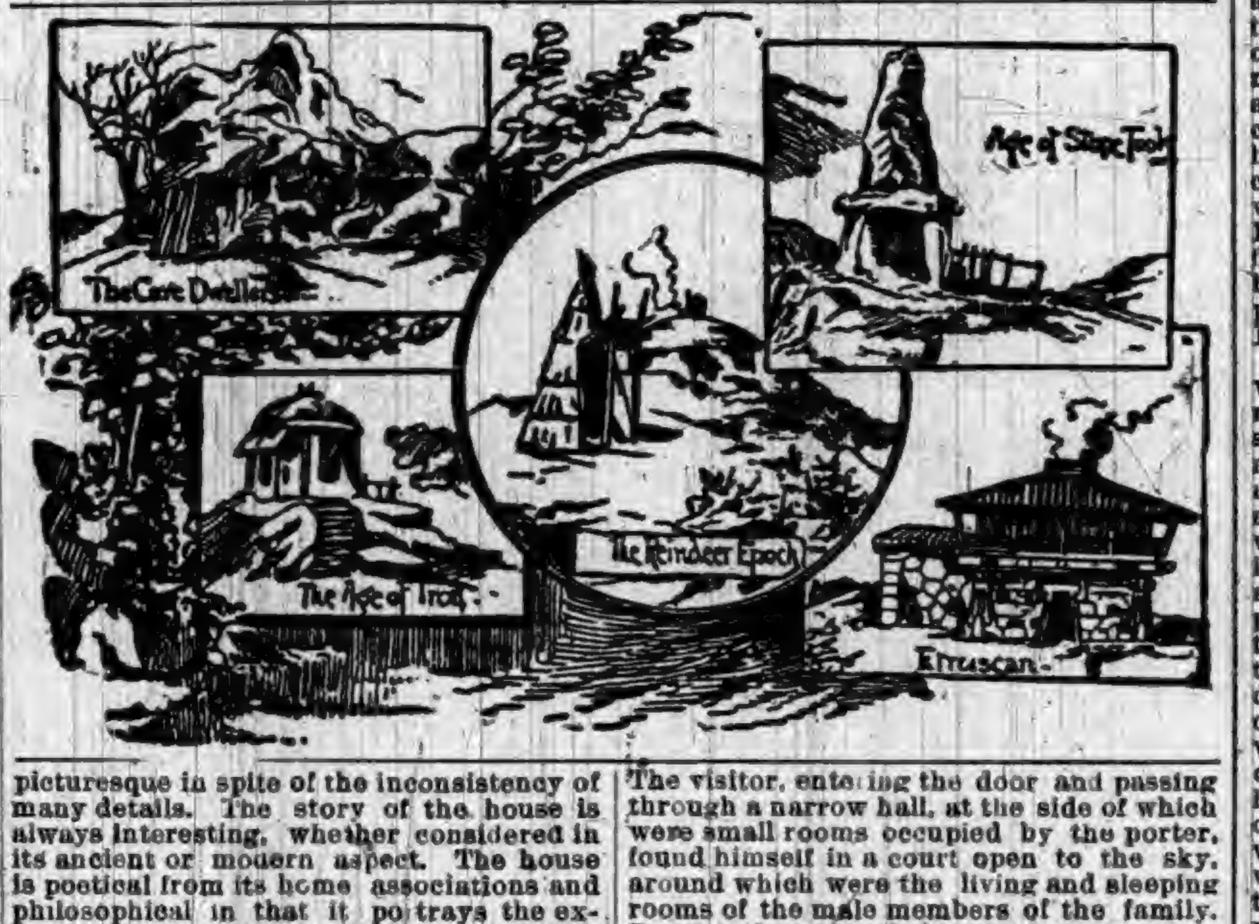
A CHAPTER SHOWING THE WONDERFUL GROWTH OF ARCHITECTURE.

Counterpart of the Caves and Crude Huts in Which Primitive Man Was Sheltered—An Interesting and Instructive Exhibit Well Calculated to Show How People Progress.



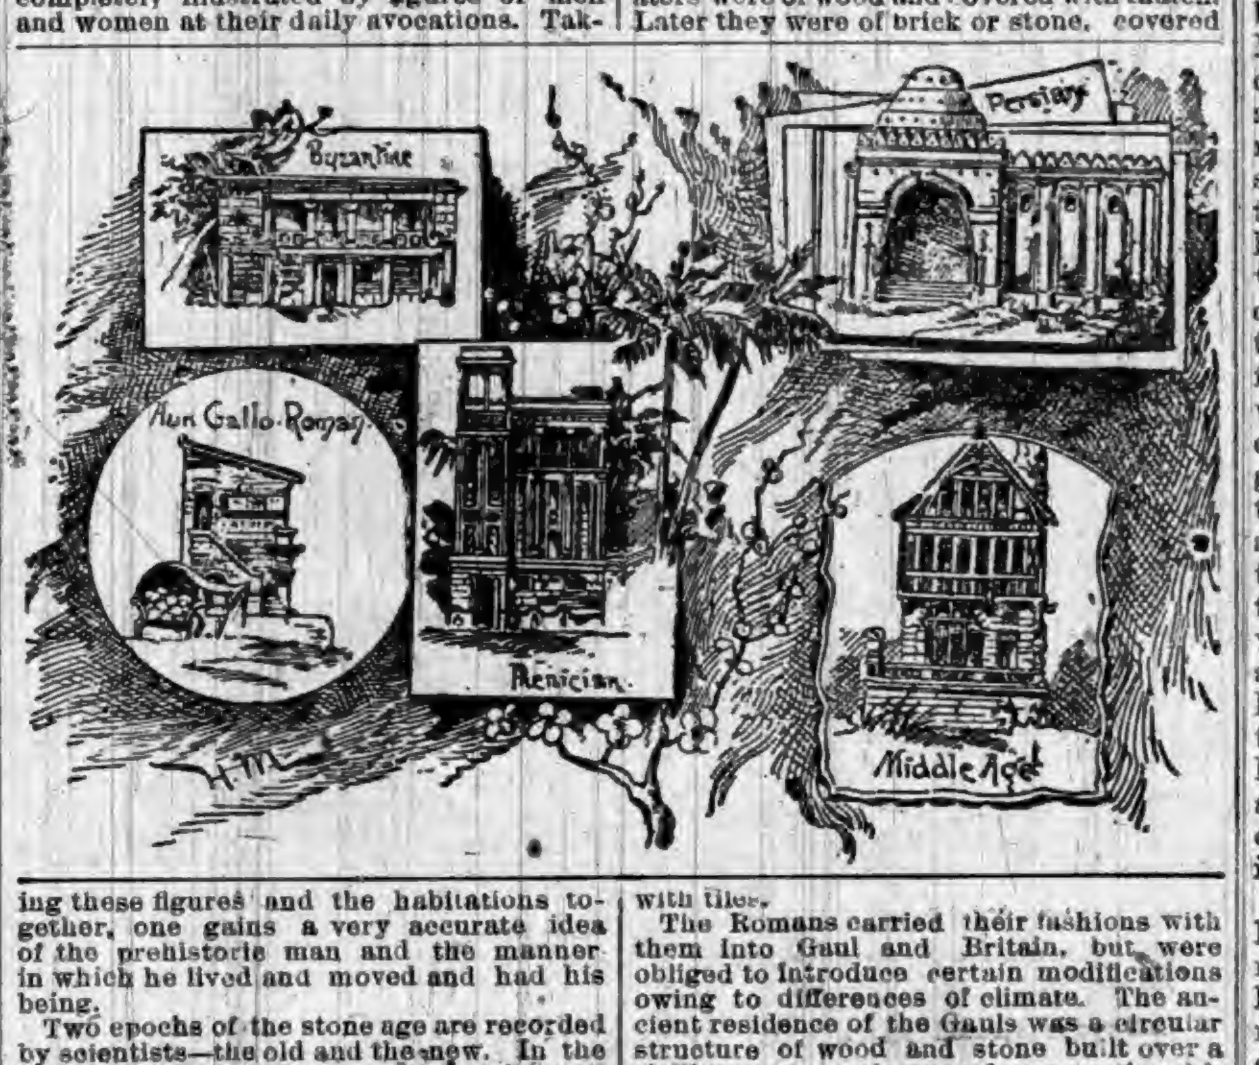
FEW departments of the Paris Exposition are more interesting than the one called "The History of the Human Habitation," writes a Paris correspondent. It comprises a series of constructions extending for about a quarter of a mile along the quay in front of the Eiffel Tower, representing the various efforts that the human animal has made to shelter himself from the elements, and render himself comfortable, since the first man sought refuge in the dens and caves of the earth. The series begins with the one, and ends, so far as civilization is concerned, with the house of the middle ages. Later specimens of the style of building in Europe are not thought necessary, though the present form of the house in China, Japan, and among some of the savage tribes of Africa and America, are shown by sufficiently accurate models. The labor of designing these buildings—and it was by no means an easy task—was intrusted to Charles Garnier, who has acquitted himself with credit and in a manner that only captious critics are disposed to find defective.

Whatever may be the defects of these illustrations of the human dwellings of all ages, the ensemble is interesting and highly picturesque in spite of the inconsistency of many details. The story of the house is always interesting, whether considered in its ancient or modern aspect. The house is poetical from its home associations and philosophical in that it portrays the expansion of man's intellect and the growth of civilization. So, without following the architect in his researches after historical accuracy, I will attempt to give some idea of the evolution of the house from its first effort to simply shelter its occupants from the elements. The first men sheltered themselves as they could, not as they would. They had no idea of building to be compared with the instinct of the beaver or that of certain birds that build—as nests—marvels of mechanism. If it was cold or if it rained they crept under an overhanging rock or into a crevice. If they occupied the same place for a certain period they probably endeavored to render it more comfortable by adding branches, dry grass, or skins as a couch, and by stopping the entrance in some primitive fashion. If they lived in the tropics it was only shelter from the rain and heat that was needed, in which case a rock sufficed, if there were any, or a tree, whose downward-sloping branches may have given the first idea of a hut. But the human animal, having begun to walk erect, developed rapidly. A hollow rock ceased to be considered a satisfactory dwelling, besides which hollow rocks were not to be had in sufficient number. On the plains, in the meadows, in the marshes near bodies of water, other shelter was needed, and some sort of construction became necessary. It should, however, be remembered in this connection that the time has never been when some men have not, in some parts of the earth, lived in dens and caves, as thousands still do in the valley of the Loire, in France. So, during the epochs that succeeded, which geologists call respectively those of the reindeer, of polished stone, of iron, of the lake-dwellers, of bronze, there were always some persons in the northern hemisphere who continued to live in caves, the walls of which they decorated with paintings more or less elaborate as they progressed in intelligence. In another part of the exposition these epochs are further and more completely illustrated by figures of men and women at their daily avocations. Taking these figures and the habitations together, one gains a very accurate idea of the prehistoric man and the manner in which he lived and moved and had his being.



Two epochs of the stone age are recorded by scientists—the old and the new. In the beginning the first man supported himself by hunting, fishing, or partaking of such wild fruits as were accessible. At the end of it he made rude tools, began to construct huts with branches, and as the reindeer and bear became numerous used the skins of those he killed for various purposes. In the new stone epoch he began to construct circular houses, to build lake villages, to domesticate animals, to wear sewed garments, to weave, to make baskets and rude pottery, and to cultivate the earth in a systematic manner. For this improved existence a great variety of tools was found necessary, which his skill permitted him by this time to make in a passable way. The lake dwellings were simply small houses of wood built on platforms supported by piles, a style of construction adopted for the greater safety of the inhabitants. Such dwellings, perhaps not so elaborate, may still be seen in Central Africa and in the valley of the Amazon. In the latter stone age the great dolmens seen in such numbers in France were constructed, and the dead were buried in tombs that show the respect of the survivors as well as some germs of architectural skill. The life of man as regards his shelter and the degree of civilization he has attained presents these general features down to the beginning of authentic history. During the iron age the house is said to have been built in the more inhabited regions of the earth on the hillside accessible by steps. This seems to have been the theory of M. Garnier, but it is a point which cannot be settled with accuracy. Even if this style prevailed it was only local. All the other forms of habitation that had preceded continued to exist in localities where they were found most convenient or where the people remained in the primitive state of debasement. There are scientists who estimate the length of the period between the appearance of the first human beings and the beginning of an authentic history at 200,000 years. That is a matter, however, on which it is not probable that learned men will ever be perfectly agreed.

Authentic history begins with the annals of the Assyrians, the Egyptians and the ancient inhabitants of Greece and Italy. The original inhabitants of Greece are called the Pelasgi; those of Italy of which anything is known with certainty, the Etrurians. To reproduce an accurate type of a Pelasgian house, none of which have existed since 1,500 or 1,000 years before Christ, was naturally difficult, and the same objection may be made to that of Etruria, which dated back to nearly the same epoch. The Pelasgian house must have been a hovel, like those built in the stone age, and as such it has been reproduced. The Etrurian house is certainly very pretty. It is a square edifice, with a balcony at a certain height and a roof projecting sufficiently to amply protect the balcony from the sun and rain. As the walls lean outward the roof naturally covers a much greater area than the base of the building. For the Greek and Roman houses the difficulty was less, matter abounding in paintings on walls and vases, in ruins, especially Pompeii and some of the resurrected Greek cities. The reproductions of the Hindoo, Assyrian and Egyptian houses do not call for much criticism, material for the designs existing in sufficient quantity. The Hindoo and Assyrian house present similarities, especially in the basement, which forms the greater part of the height of the structure. The dwelling proper, elegant in itself, seems perched on the top of a column. The reasons for this peculiarity were probably to render the building more defensible, and, as the climate of the valleys of the Tigris and of India is hot, to have a freer circulation of air. In India there would be the additional advantage of greater immunity from venomous serpents and other forms of vermin that infest the country. The Egyptian residences were also built with a view to the free circulation of air, a consideration never lost sight of in the houses of the wealthy Moors and Arabs of to-day. There is in the dwellings of the latter a blank and forbidding expanse of exterior wall, which once passed gives access to an open court with a garden beyond enlivened with fountains and kiosks. This, with beautiful women, is the basis of the Mohammedan idea of paradise.



The Greek house had a narrow front on the street, for which it atoned in depth. Sometimes there was a small yard in front, with a tree and an altar to the favorite god. The visitor, entering the door and passing through a narrow hall, at the side of which were small rooms occupied by the porter, found himself in a court open to the sky, around which were the living and sleeping rooms of the male members of the family. Passing through another narrow passage, he entered another court, around which were ranged the sleeping-rooms for the women. The houses of the rich were more extensive, more elaborate, and ornamented with paintings and statuary. Still there was on the whole an absence of luxury, the Greeks living much in the open air, and preferring to expend their architectural skill rather on their temples and other public buildings. The idea of the Roman house was the open court with rooms arranged around it. Their first plan of the house was taken from the Etrurians, and comprised a single court, in the center of which was a basin filled with water coming from the roof that sloped in on all sides, or from a fountain. The later Roman mansion may be briefly described as follows: The front usually came to the street. There was an entrance in the middle of the facade, on each side of which were small shops, for the ancient Roman was a thrifty individual, either carrying on some form of business himself or leasing some part of his house to be used for the purposes of trade. A narrow passage gave access to the first court, which in the more luxurious days of the empire was surrounded by rooms used for storage or business. A gallery led from the rear of the court into the larger court behind it, in the center of which was a fish pond and on the sides the living and sleeping rooms of the family. Sometimes there was a garden in the rear of the house. This fashion of living it will at once be seen was one of great seclusion, the house being a sort of fortress surrounded by walls on all sides, easily defensible, and hearing the noises from the street only as faint echoes. Sometimes, as in the Greek houses, there was a party wall, sometimes a narrow alley connecting the rear of the building with the street. There might have been one or several stories. Most of those at Pompeii, whole streets of which are in a perfect state of preservation, had but one story. In the early days of Rome houses and even theaters were of wood and covered with thatch. Later they were of brick or stone, covered with tiles.

The Romans carried their fashions with them into Gaul and Britain, but were obliged to introduce certain modifications owing to differences of climate. The ancient residence of the Gauls was a circular structure of wood and stone built over a shallow excavation and covered with thatch. After their subjugation they adopted and followed for several hundred years the manners and customs of their conquerors, that is, until the invasions of the Franks and other savage tribes from the east, which occurred in the fifth century. The first epoch after this conquest was that of the Merovingians, of whom Clovis was the first king. The Roman style of building remained during all this period and long afterward. The house was built over a cellar arched with masonry, and consisted of two stories, the sleeping-rooms being in the second. The nobles lived in the country. In the cities, which were little more than large fortresses surrounded by a strong wall, the walls were contracted and the houses necessarily smaller. The staircase was generally on the outside, at first unprotected, but later inclosed in a tower, as may still be seen in many of the old chateaux in France and elsewhere in Europe.

The houses in England in Saxon times were often of more than one story. In the Bayeux tapestry King Harold, before his departure for France, is represented at a banquet in the second story of a house, the first story being composed of arches. A staircase leads down to the water's edge. In Scott's "Ivanhoe" is found a description of the house of Cedric the Saxon, the date being about 100 years after the conquest. The style of building is presumably that which prevailed while the Saxon kings were still on the throne. As depictured by the novelist, it is a huge, barn-like structure of wood, the principal room in which was the great dining-hall, where the lord of the house took his meals in company with his entire household, the swineherd not excepted. In the midst of it stood a long table made of planks roughly hewn from the trees of the forest. The roof was composed of beams and rafters, with nothing to separate the interior from the sky but the planking covered with thatch. At either end of the room were chimneys constructed in such a clumsy fashion that as much of the smoke escaped into the room as by the roof. The rafters and roof were black with smoke. The walls were ornamented with arms and trophies of the chase. The lord and lady of the castle occupied handsome carved chairs on a raised dais at the head of the table, while their followers were ranged according to rank on rough wooden benches extending its entire length. The Lady Rowena had for sleeping-room an apartment hung with rich draperies, but so badly constructed that the wind entered at all sides. The rooms for guests were little more than cells in a distant part of the building, furnished only with a rough stool and a narrow couch of straw covered with a sheepskin. The structure could hardly be said to be of two stories, though the apartment of the Lady Rowena was reached by a staircase composed of a few steps. Altogether the style was such as can not be conscientiously commended to the architects or builders of the present generation.

After the Norman conquest the style changed in Europe. The round Roman arch disappeared generally, and rectangular windows and doors and the Gothic arch came in. The great period of church building that began with the crusades was followed by a wonderful activity in the erection of castles. The middle ages were the period per se of defense. The houses up to this time had their lower story of stone, those above of wood. Thereafter the whole building was generally of wood, a material used everywhere in the north of Europe before the Roman invasion. The houses in the cities were generally made of wood, with projecting upper stories, which rendered the streets narrow and dark. The windows were rectangular, had small panes, and were of different sizes. Instead of the Gallo-Roman dwelling, with its two stories supported by round Roman arches, its shop in the first story and other rooms in the second, there appeared this handsome edifice, with its front of carved wood, its statues in niches, and its elaborate doors and windows. Specimens are still numerous in France and England. The houses had in the city sometimes a party wall, sometimes a narrow alley that served as passages or to carry off to the middle of the street the drainage from both buildings. The style continued until the time of Louis XIII. In the time of Louis XIV. cities in France were built mostly in stone, with the houses high and of the same appearance. Architecture had lost its picturesque character. Families had ceased to occupy separate houses, and lived in apartments, many families under the same roof, as at present in Paris. In England the changes had not been so arbitrary. The house in the style of Queen Anne's time came long afterward, and still later there were erected picturesque wooden houses in London, which finally had to give place, from a sense of safety, to the unattractive buildings of stone and brick which form at present the staple of the architecture of London.

Glass has been blown almost since the world began. There are various traditions regarding its discovery from the fusion of sand on which fire had been built by hazard, none of which are particularly well authenticated. The Egyptians, the Greeks, and the Romans were all well acquainted with the material, though they did not use it in any systematic way, if they used it at all, for their windows. Oiled cloths or paper was deemed sufficient, or they left their houses open to the weather. During the middle ages the use of glass in windows was not universal, either in dwellings or in churches. For the latter stained glass was used as an ornament, but many of the openings that served for the admission of light were unglazed. In private houses oiled paper or white material of some kind was employed. When glass was used it was set in lead in small pieces, and sometimes in intricate patterns. Windows were, nevertheless, in many houses, as well as in the churches, real works of art, some of the designs of which the builders of the present time have begun to reproduce, particularly in America.

The building of the houses that represent the human habitation has not been accomplished without the expenditure of considerable money and trouble. The material used has generally been wood, sometimes in the form of boards or planks, sometimes in logs. The use of more or less stone, bricks, lime, mortar, and other material has been found necessary. The architectural designs, often elaborate, have been most scrupulously executed.

FADS OF NEW YORK WOMEN.

Their Idiotic Affectation of Æstheticism.

THINGS a woman cannot learn in the beauty parlors of New York, where Mme. de Cosmetique lolls about in scented hair and clinging silks, are not worth prosecuting. But it isn't every Lady Jane who can get the entree and the privilege of being robed æsthetically. Regular patrons are asked to be chary about recommending new people, and unless the "would be" is properly presented she "can't be," and that ends the matter.

But the sweet ways a patroness can be taught! Shade of the guileless Martha Washington! There's the Piccadilly walk, for instance, that requires a free leg from the knee, and a rotary motion at the hip, with a three-quarter side advance—as the lesson says. Master the formula and you save ten dollars. Then, there's the hollow back, which is as hard to master as a table of logarithms. It will be remembered that the bustle was dropped like a flash, and all of a sudden the rubbers were unbuckled, and away went the extenders, leaving the style flat, the gown flatter, and the girl the flattest thing in clothes. For awhile she was afraid to sit back in the cars. But that didn't hurt anybody's eyes. The trouble began when she stood up or walked about with her stomach out and her back as hollow as a grace hoop. Madam puts her patrons in training for a week, at five dollars an hour, walking first in her night gown, and by degrees through and into her clothes, rounding off with a full evening dress.

Another costly lesson is the stage laugh, warranted to sound well, to ring musically, and to prevent wrinkles. It has been proven that merriment and hearty laughter is more productive of wrinkles than care or the cruel touch of Time. The instructress does not pretend to remove the furrows already ploughed about the eyes of beauty, but she does claim that her method will keep the face in repose, and while it remains so the creases will be insignificant. She gives the pupil a handglass, seats her in a mirror-lined corner, and commands "a quiet face." Then she gets a funny paper, for which the very cream of risibility is selected, and as she reads the listener is expected to look in the mirror and laugh, if at all, with the lower part of her face. "Move your lips and chin, and open your mouth if your teeth are good, but keep the muscles of your eyelids rigid." The expression produced is simply fiendish, and if the laugh is not a vocal shudder it is of the cylindrical sepulchral sort with which all theater-goers are familiar. In the training it is necessary to bind the cheeks and temples with strips of court-plaster, and the mockery of it all would be ridiculous if it wasn't so serious. But there's good even in humbuggery, and loud laughs are cut down, harsh voices sweetened, and gratuitous advice given in "making faces," tinting ears and lips, and dyeing hair. At the rate of fifteen dollars a sitting, Madame can afford to be magnanimous.—New York letter to Chicago Ledger.

KIND words produce their own image in men's souls, and a beautiful image it is. They soothe and quiet and comfort the hearer. They shame him out of his sour, morose, unkind feelings. We have not yet begun to use kind words in such abundance as they ought to be used.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COURIER.

MY OWN ILLINOIS.

BY EVA KATHARINE CLAPP.

There is many a pleasant land that lies
  Under the sky unfurled,
Countries fair, whose beauty rare
  Is the theme of half the world.
But in each wanderer's heart of hearts,
  Could his true choice be known,
Ever you'll find inscribed the name
  Of the land he calls his own.
And to me, there is a haunting melody,
  That no discord doth destroy,
In the soft, sonorous title of
      My Own
          Illinois.

I claim for her no legends,
  Like the German for his Rhine,
She does not boast the classic palm,
  Nor yet the gothic pine;
But, like some gray-eyed, brown-haired maid,
  Not blonde, nor dark brunette,
The temperate charm that is her own
  Her lovers ne'er forget.
From tropic sun, or arctic seas,
  No fierce extremes alloy
The hope-inspiring air that sweeps
      My Own
          Illinois.

How blithely o'er her fertile fields
  The prairie breezes blow
Across the level corn lands,
  Where a nation's harvests grow.
The royal Mississippi laves
  Her golden sunset side;
Gleams on her brow Lake Michigan,
  A coronal of pride;
Her stately Garden City towers
  With worthy pride up-buoy
Above all would-be rival States
      My Own
          Illinois.

Dear State, the glint of thy wild flower,
  The song of thy wild bird,
Were of color, and of music,
  All my childhood saw or heard;
Thrilling, like scents of paradise,
  Across these dusty years,
They still make tenderest memories
  That tremble into tears.
Untouched by bitterness, and, like
  A child's kiss, sweet and coy,
Drifts back the dream of innocence in
      My Own
          Illinois.

* * * * * * *

When on me dawns that fateful hour—
  The Archer Death's own time—
Perchance his shaft may still this heart
  In some far foreign clime,
But I pray that my dreamless dust may sleep
  Where his song of reckless joy
The blackbird pipes to the prairie sod
      In my Own
          Illinois.

CHICAGO, Ill.

AT THE OPEN WINDOW.

BY WILL HUBBARD KERNAN.

FALLING WATER is the name of the most picturesque spot in the Cumberland country of Tennessee. It is situated a few miles south of Cookeville, and is one of the first places visited by tourists who venture up to that highland village. Caney Fork, a tributary of the Cumberland River, rises in the mountains, and surges over the rocky ledges a full hundred feet into the sequestered valley below. And it is this cataract that is known as Falling Water.

The surrounding country is wild, lonely, and romantic, and was a favorite resort of the moonshiners, until the United States revenue officers swept down upon them, shooting a few of them dead and sending many of them to the penitentiary.

Not far from Falling Water is a deep, precipitous ravine, the sides of which are covered with pines and an impenetrable undergrowth of vines and shrubbery. The density of the foliage hides the bottom of the ravine from view, but if you follow a dim bridle-path trending from the road, you will find that it leads to the door of an old cabin surrounded by a stake-and-rider fence, half hidden by blackberry bushes, sassafras, and weeds.

This cabin was the home of old Melton, a moonshiner, and his family, until the spring of 1879.

The still was located within a stone's throw of the house, between two gigantic bowlders, and so cleverly was it hidden by the rocky walls that towered up on three sides of it, and so curtained in was it on the remaining side by the vines that fell in green festoons from the gray ledges of free-stone above, that the old moonshiner felt himself perfectly safe from the prying eyes of both officers and informers.

One evening about dark, as old Melton sat in the gallery of his cabin, drawing consolation alternately from a stone jug and a corn-cob pipe, he was saluted by a young man on horseback, who had ridden up from the right and whose face betrayed an expression of keen annoyance.

"Hello!" cried the horseman, drawing rein, "can you tell me how far it is to Cookeville?"

"'Bout fo' miles, stranger," replied Melton, rising to his feet and slouching forward. "Hev yo' lost yer bearin's?"

"Yes; went down to old Davenant's to collect a bill this morning and——"

"Long Jack Davenant's, stranger?"

"Yes; up at the head of Caney Fork, and——"

"Why didn't yo' turn to the left when yo' came to Squar Mills' place?"

"I did; but I took the wrong road out in that confounded flat woods."

"Jesso, jesso! Been thar myself! 'Tis a puzzle to a stranger. An' what shell I call yer name?"

"Wilford—Harry Wilford."

"Any relation t' the Wilfords down t' Smith's Fork?"

"No; my home is in Nashville. Am a professional man there. Had to look after a farm of mine down in DeKalb County, and so I concluded to ride up here and collect a bill from old Davenant before I went back to Lebanon. The old man wasn't at home, though. By the way, could I find a place here or hereabout to stay all night? It will rain long before I can reach Cookeville."

"I dunno. P'r'aps Henry Q. could keep yo'."

"Who is Henry Q., and where does he reside?"

"Henry Q. Clark, yo' know. Lives 'bout a quarter out on the Cookeville road yander," pointing to the left. "Henry Q.'s rich—Henry Q. is. His house must 'a' cost a cool five hundred. Jest foller thet——"

A blinding flash, a thunder-peal and a driving torrent of rain interrupted the speaker.

"Wall, I say, Mr. Wilford, if thet are's ther way ther weather's er-gwine ter act, I 'low yo'd better stay with we'uns. We haint much t' offer, but sech ez we hev yo're welcome to."

Wilford leaped from his saddle, threw the reins over a sapling bough, and bounded gracefully over the grass into the cabin. He was a tall, slender, handsome young fellow, with blonde hair, a beardless face, and large, blue, winning eyes, that sparkled with humor or scintillated with wrath according to his varying moods.

Mrs. Melton was sitting before the huge fire-place, industriously dipping snuff. She was a lank and angular woman of forty, barefooted and dressed in homespun. She rose as Wilford came in, responding to his bow with a queer little bob of her head, and then withdrew into the kitchen.

The room in which Wilford found himself was large and trimly kept. A bedstead stood in one corner, while a row of rush-bottom chairs, a table and a spinning-wheel completed the stock of furniture. On the log walls of the cabin were tacked a few unframed photographs of family relations, while on the mantel was a little mirror in a pine-cone frame.

Mrs. Melton returned presently, and began to spread the table for supper. While bringing in the last dishes, a large, bony, and sallow girl ran into the room, her garments dripping with rain and clinging close to her stalwart frame.

"Whoop-ee! but wusn't I skeered!" The lightnin' struck a tree not——"

She stopped short on seeing Wilford, her eyes flashed with anger, and she ran out of the room as unceremoniously as she had come into it.

"Thet thar's my darter Nance," remarked old Melton; "an' she's the smartest gal in these hyar mountings. She wus sorter set back when she seed yo', but she'll come in arter erwhile an' play us a chune on the organette. Nance is a pow'ful hand at the organette, Nance is."

"Supper's ready," vouchsafed Mrs. Melton, in a high, cracked voice. "Sit thar, stranger, an' reach fer yo'self."

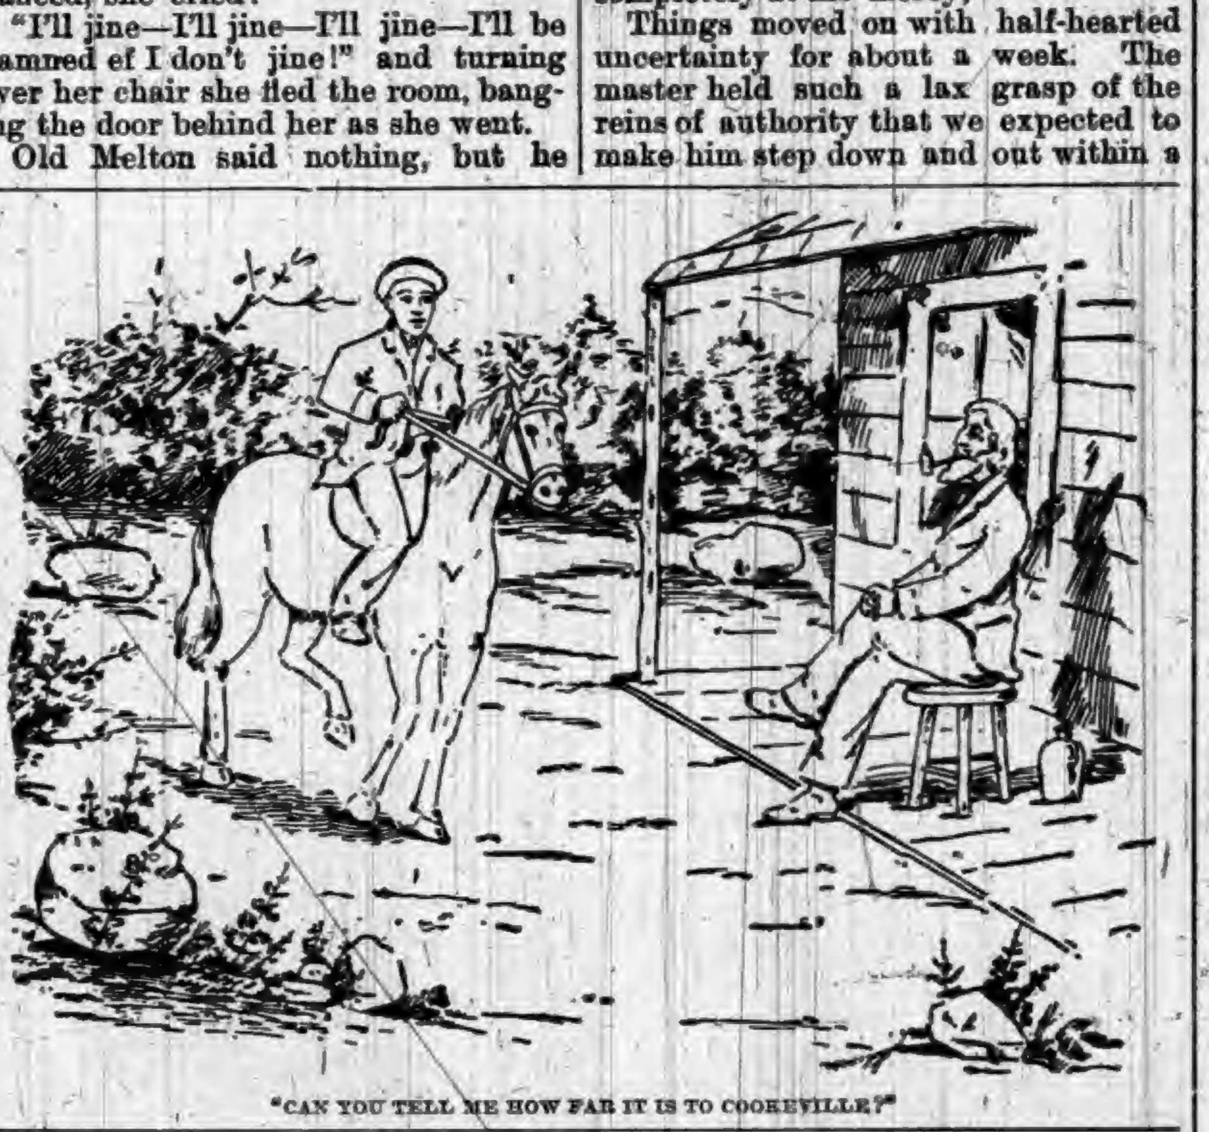
Old Melton bowed his head, said grace with all the gravity of a minister, and then plunged headlong into a discussion of religion.

"I b'long to the Baptisses, I do. Tilda—thet's my wife thar—she b'longs to the Hardshell Baptisses, the no-'countest church in these hyar mountings. Nance thar's been a threatnin' ter jine the Methodisses, but if she do I'll drub her 'till she cain't holler."

The wife made no reply to the fling at her faith, but Nance glared at her father, and then, bringing her fist down on the table so fiercely that the dishes danced, she cried:

"I'll jine—I'll jine—I'll jine—I'll be damned ef I don't jine!" and turning over her chair she fled the room, banging the door behind her as she went.

Old Melton said nothing, but he clinched his teeth with an ominous significance.



"CAN YOU TELL ME HOW FAR IT IS TO COOKEVILLE?"

Supper over and the table cleared off, the old man went to the kitchen door and called for Nance.

"What do yo' want?" inquired the girl.

"I want yo' to come an' play us a chune on the organette."

"I wont."

"Yo' will."

"I tell you, pop, I wont."

"Yo' wuthless wench! I'll larn ye who's boss. I'll beat you till the blood runs down yer legs, so he'p me!" Running to a distant corner of the main room he caught up a gnarled hickory cane and hastened back to the kitchen.

"Where's Nance?" he demanded of his wife.

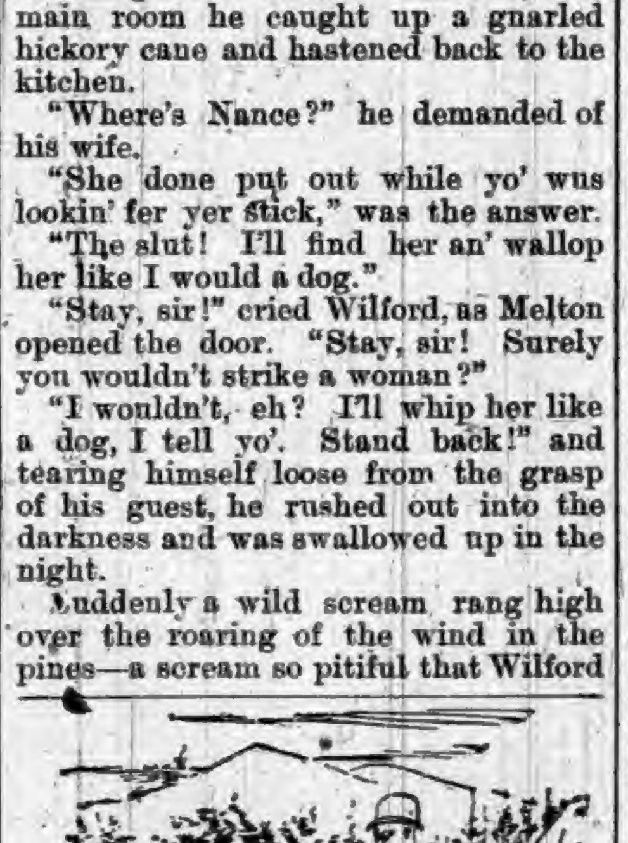
"She done put out while yo' wus lookin' fer yer stick," was the answer.

"The slut! I'll find her an' wallop her like I would a dog."

"Stay, sir!" cried Wilford, as Melton opened the door. "Stay, sir! Surely you wouldn't strike a woman?"

"I wouldn't, eh? I'll whip her like a dog, I tell yo'. Stand back!" and tearing himself loose from the grasp of his guest, he rushed out into the darkness and was swallowed up in the night.

Suddenly a wild scream rang high over the roaring of the wind in the pines—a scream so pitiful that Wilford rushed off in the direction from whence it came.



"THROTTLING MELTON, HE DASHED HIM AGAINST THE ROCKY WALL."

"Help! help! help!"

It was a woman's voice—Nance's voice—and Wilford hurried forward through the blinding rain and darkness of the wretched night, till he stood in front of the towering boulders that shut in the still.

"Damn yo'!" he heard Melton pant, "yo'll disgrace yo'self an' yo' fambly afore strangers ag'in, will yo'? Yo'll jine the Methodisses, will yo'?" and with that he struck his daughter a fearful blow, causing her to reel forward at the feet of the young man.

"Dog!" cried Wilford, "devil! Take that!" and throttling Melton, he dashed him against the rocky wall and struck him between the eyes.

Melton drew a revolver, but, before he could use it, Wilford wrested it from his hand, and knocked him headlong into the shelter of the still.

"Ha!" cried Wilford, as a vivid flash of lightning revealed the character of his surroundings. "A moonshiner, I see. I thought as much," and, taking a pair of handcuffs from his pocket, he clasped them on the wrists of the prostrate man.

"You will come with me," he continued, dragging his prisoner into the open air. "You will come with me. I have been looking for this still of yours since last December, but I wouldn't have found it if you hadn't been the brute that you are."

Stunned, confused, the old man staggered to his feet.

"What is hit, daddy? Why don't yo' speak?"

It was the daughter who spoke—it was the bruised and bleeding daughter who now flung her apron around the old man, and kissed his wrinkled face.

"Hit's all up with we'uns, Nance," answered the old man in a husky voice. "Hit's all up with we'uns. This feller's a detective."

"I knowed hit, daddy—I knowed hit. He's been prowlin' 'round hyar all day. I'd a-told yo', but I seed he hadn't diskivered the still, an' I didn't want his blood on yo' hands. But," and she hissed the words through her set teeth, "I'd a warned yo' when I went home ef I'd a knowed hit 'd come ter this."

The party went back to the cabin, and at daybreak Wilford prepared to start with his prisoner for Cookeville.

They had proceeded less than twenty yards from the door, when the sharp report of a rifle was heard, and Wilford reeled from his saddle—dead.

At the same moment the white, tense desperate face of Nance vanished from the open window.

How the Joke Was Evened.

We had a new master in W—— Academy, New Hampshire, says R. Redwood, in the New York Mercury, when I was a pupil there not many years ago, with whom we promised ourselves some sport, before we got through with him the first morning he faced us in the class-room. He was a moderate-sized, rather delicate man, with a mild, defensive air that seemed to appeal to our generosity to make his life less of a burden to him than we had made that of his predecessor.

He appeared to fear we would carry him out of the building or spring some sort of a mine under his feet for the first few days, and he eyed Wilkins Sharp, our ringleader in all mischief, with a sort of care, as though he felt completely at his mercy.

Things moved on with half-hearted uncertainty for about a week. The master held such a lax grasp of the reins of authority that we expected to make him step down and out within a few days at the furthest. His reading of a lengthy chapter from Chronicles or Deuteronomy every morning before prayers was a grievance which the more active spirits determined to redress.

We knew there was fun on hand, of what nature the majority of us were ignorant, when we went into the class-room one morning in the second week. A loud bray greeted us, which we answered with shouts of laughter. A donkey stood in the master's place at the desk before the open Bible, with a huge pair of rusty-rimmed glasses straddling his nose and a ludicrously solemn expression of countenance, as if he wished to bear the honors thrust upon him with becoming dignity.

We were all in our seats trying to smother the mirth, when the master came in. He walked up to the desk as usual, and seemed to look right through that animal without seeing him. "Behold thy brother!" staring at him from the board made no impression on his optic nerve. He stood upon the right of the desk, looking down upon us without a word. As we watched he seemed to rise inches beyond his usual height. His eyes fairly blazed behind his glasses. His mild, defensive air changed to such masterly aggressiveness that we fairly quaked before him.

Presently he brought his glance round upon Wilkins Sharp and concentrated it on his face. Those orbs of flame seemed to scorch him. His face reddened, as if he had been pulling chestnuts out of the fire.

"Wilkins Sharp, come here!" said the master.

Wilkins obeyed with a look of bravado.

"Ride that donkey out of the room!"

Wilkins did not move to obey with alacrity.

"Do you want a lift?" inquired the master, and in a flash, by some dexterous movement of arm and boot that fairly dazzled us, Wilkins was "boosted" upon the creature's back and was on his way to the door amid a roar of laughter.

We looked at the master. He had relapsed into his usual calm.

"Now that we are rid of the donkey and his brother," he said, as he turned over the leaves of the Bible leisurely, "we will read the third chapter of Leviticus."

He Found a Job.

"Has your husband found work yet, Mrs. McGarrity?"

"He hez thet, mum. He's a picter hanger."

"A picture hanger? Why, I supposed that required artistic skill and a good deal of taste."

"Paste, indade it does, mum. It takes a dale av paste, sure. The poor bye carries a bucket av it wid him all day, and then sometimes he can't make the blissed picters stick to them ould boards at all, at all."

Handsome Is as Handsome Does.

Robson—Where are you bound?

Remsen—Up to ask my pretty cousin to marry me.

Robson—Well; good luck to you.

Remsen—Thanks, dear boy.

Robson (an hour later)—Well, did your pretty cousin say yes?

Remsen—No; the homely thing refused me.—Judge.

SELF-FORGETFULNESS in love for others has a foremost place in our ideal of character, and our deep homage, as representing the true end of humanity. Who does upbraid himself for his slowness in those sympathies which are as a multiplying mirror to the joys of life, reflecting them in endless play?

Poor Humanity!

The common lot is one of sorrow say—at least—the pessimists, they who look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where inefficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely supersensitiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases—so called—which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears. Use the Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

Their Appropriate Meat.

"What part of the fowl do you prefer?" asked the landlady, addressing the musical boarder.

"The drumstick," was the reply.

"And you?" addressing the boarder who was always late for his meals.

"Neck or nothing."

"And you?" addressing the dude.

"The bweast."

"And you?" to the fly boarder.

"The wing."

And each was supplied with the part he preferred.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, }
  LUCAS COUNTY, S. S. }

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. '86.

{ SEAL. } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

FAME is a greasy pole.—Unknown philosopher. And it takes a deal of sand to climb it.—Merchant Traveler.

1890—SUNSHINE AND MOONLIGHT—1890.

Another Christmas and New Year's Annual, by "A Man," of the Rock Island Route, Now Ready for Distribution.

The "Boys and Girls of America," and adults as well, who have read the instructive pages of "Watt-Stephen" (1885), "Voltagal" (1886), "Petroleum" (1887), "Coal and Coke" (1888), and "Iron and Steel" (1889), will be pleased to know that the latest and brightest of the famous ROCK ISLAND series, "Sunshine and Moonlight" (1890), now confidently awaits that chorus of approval which welcomed each of its predecessors.

"A Man" invites the attention of his inquisitive boy and girl visitors this year to wonders in the heavens above revealed by the telescope. He tells them all about the sun, moon, planets, satellites, fixed stars, comets, and their movements, and explains the laws by which they are governed. The achievements of science in the field of astronomical research are presented in language so clear as to be easily understood by all readers. The book fascinates, while it elevates and improves.

"Sunshine and Moonlight" comprises 112 pages, profusely illustrated with choice engravings. Its covers are ornamented with appropriate designs, beautifully printed in colors. Practically, it is a Christmas gift to the patrons and friends of the ROCK ISLAND ROUTE, and will be sent post-paid to any part of the world (as also previous issues if desired), at the nominal price of ten (10) cents per copy. Write your address plainly, and inclose ten (10) cents, in stamps or coin, to JNO. SEBASTIAN, G. T. & P. A., Chicago.

MISPLACED switches cause a great deal of trouble, not only to railroads but also in the family circle.

Important Notice.

We are now making small size Bile Beans (forty little beans in each bottle). They are the most convenient to use; specially adapted for children and women. Price 25 cents a bottle. J. F. Smith & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

"THERE is a report around, Jinks, that you have inherited a landed estate." "It is groundless, my dear fellow."

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

STRANGE but true: A word in season is scarcely ever spoken by a man in a peppery frame of mind.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass, and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address the Oregon Immigration Board, Portland, Oregon.

THE man who ate his dinner with the fork of a river has been trying to spin a mountain top.

What It Costs

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people before buying an article which seems absolutely necessary. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla taken according to directions will average to last a month, while other medicines last but half or quarter as long. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see for yourself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

WHAT SCOTT'S EMULSION CURES

CONSUMPTION
SCROFULA
BRONCHITIS COUGHS COLDS
Wasting Disease.

Wonderful Flesh Producer.

Scott's Emulsion is not a secret remedy. Containing the stimulating Hypophosphites and Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, the potency of both being largely increased. It is used by Physicians all over the world.

PALATABLE AS MILK.

Sold by all Druggists.

SEVEN SEVENTEEN SEVENTY

SMITH'S BILE BEANS act on the liver and bile, clear the complexion, cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. The small size are most convenient for children—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7—17—70," mailed on receipt of 4c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. A Quick and Positive Restorer of Manly Vigor, and the only Legitimate Specific for Sexual Debility and Lost Vitality known. A Marvelous Invigorator, curable by emissions. By mail, $1, 6 for $5. Circulars free. DR. CATON, Boston.

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

Close Call.

May—Charlie, you must be careful and not expose yourself. You were out in all that rain last night.

Charlie—No, I wasn't. What made you think so?

May—Why, papa came home and said he met you coming home from the lodge, and that you were thoroughly soaked.—Kearney (Neb.) Enterprise.

What Everybody Says

must be true, and the universal verdict of those who have used Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and Strengthening Plasters is that there is no doubt of their curative qualities. E. Larzelere, agent M. C. R. R., Albion, Mich., says "he was cured of Bright's disease" by the use of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup.

Mrs. M. E. Jones, Prairie City, Iowa, says: "For three years I have been afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism and kidney and liver troubles. I have taken Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and applied their Plasters over my stomach and am entirely cured. It is the greatest remedy that I have ever used."

First ask your druggist; should he not keep it, we will send on receipt of price, $1 per bottle or six for $5.

RHEUMATIC SYRUP CO.,
Jackson, Mich.

"PLEASE pass the butter," a maid was heard to say who was attempting to milk a fractious cow.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. At all Druggists'.

AN Irish doctor says "raw pork should never be eaten unless cooked."

ANY article that has outlived 24 years of competition and imitation, and sells more and more each year, must have merit. Dobbins' Electric Soap, first made in 1865, is just that article. Ask your grocer for it.

WHEN a fellow rushes from a house into the street in a towering passion, it is an out-rage.

A COUGH, COLD, OR SORE THROAT should not be neglected. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, and give prompt relief. 25 cts. a box.

THE marksman who sets up his own target is making a name for himself.

Many imitate, none equal. "Tansill's Punch." America's finest 5c. Cigar.

"WHAT will you give me if I restore your eye-sight?" asked the quack. "I will see," replied the blind man.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

A MAN who fines a good deal to talk about—a police judge.

ST. JACOBS OIL

CURES PERMANENTLY

Horse and Cattle Diseases.

For General Use.

The Arms' Palace and Stock Car Co.,
Toledo, Ohio, June, 1888.

We cheerfully recommend St. Jacobs Oil as the best for general use on stock.

H. ARMS & CO.

Cold, Swelled Limbs, Inflammation.

Neponset, Ill., May 21, 1888.

My mare caught cold; result: swelled limbs, lump between forelegs and inflammation. Cured her with St. Jacobs Oil.

L. O. GARDNER.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

"MOTHERS' FRIEND" MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY SHORTENS LABOR LESSENS PAIN DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD

BOOK "TO MOTHERS" MAILED FREE

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THIS IS THE GREAT "OHIO" TUBULAR WELL AND PROSPECTING MACHINE famous for succeeding where others have failed.

SELF CLEANING. Drill drops 60 to 90 times a minute.

CATALOGUE FREE.

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

☞ Write us what work you wish to do with a well machine.

ALL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY.

HAY & STRAW PRESS

I will ship this PRESS out on trial to compete against any other two-horse-power press. It it cannot press 3 tons more of hay in a day, no sale, freight refunded and satisfaction guaranteed. For conditions, circulars, etc., address

J. A. SPENCER, Dwight, Ill.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS & FREE Government LANDS.

MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address

CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Commissioner, ST. PAUL, MINN.

WORK SHOPS

Of Wood and Metal Workers without Steam Power, Equipped with Outfits of

BARNES' PATENT

Foot Power Machin'y

allow lower bids on jobs, and greater profits than by any other means for doing work. Sold subject to trial in your shop. Send for Price-List Catalogue.

W. F. & JNO. BARNES CO.,
Address 633 Ruby St., ROCKFORD, ILL.

ASTHMA.

Popham's Asthma Specific

Relief in TEN MINUTES.

PETER D. SWOYER, M. D., Fritztown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 20 years; found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid.

TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.

Address, T. POPHAM, PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

DETECTIVES

Wanted shrewd men to act under instructions in Secret Service work. Representatives receive the International Detective, Grannan's Warning Against Fraud, Grannan's Pocket Gallery of Noted Criminals. Those interested in detective business, or desiring to be detectives, send stamp for particulars. Employment for all. GRANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU CO. Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

HOME STUDY. Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. ☞ Send for Circular.

TELEGRAPHY. We guarantee a good paying position to every graduate. American School of Telegraphy, Madison, Wis.

COPYRIGHT, 1888

Three little maids from school are we,
Free from pains of all description;
But once we were sick as sick could be—
Cured by the "Favorite Prescription."

A standard remedy for the peculiar ills incident to that critical period in a girl's life when she is just entering upon her "teens," is found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Young ladies' boarding-schools have sent their pupils home rosy-cheeked, romping lasses, like the three beautiful maidens in the above illustration, when they have resorted to the use of "Favorite Prescription" for building up and regulating the systems of those delicate, pale, sickly girls, just approaching puberty, who need a generous, supporting tonic and a quieting, strengthening nervine—free from alcohol and injurious drugs. Whether in boarding-schools or homes, it is guaranteed to correct all those delicate derangements and weaknesses incident to females.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Manufacturers, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

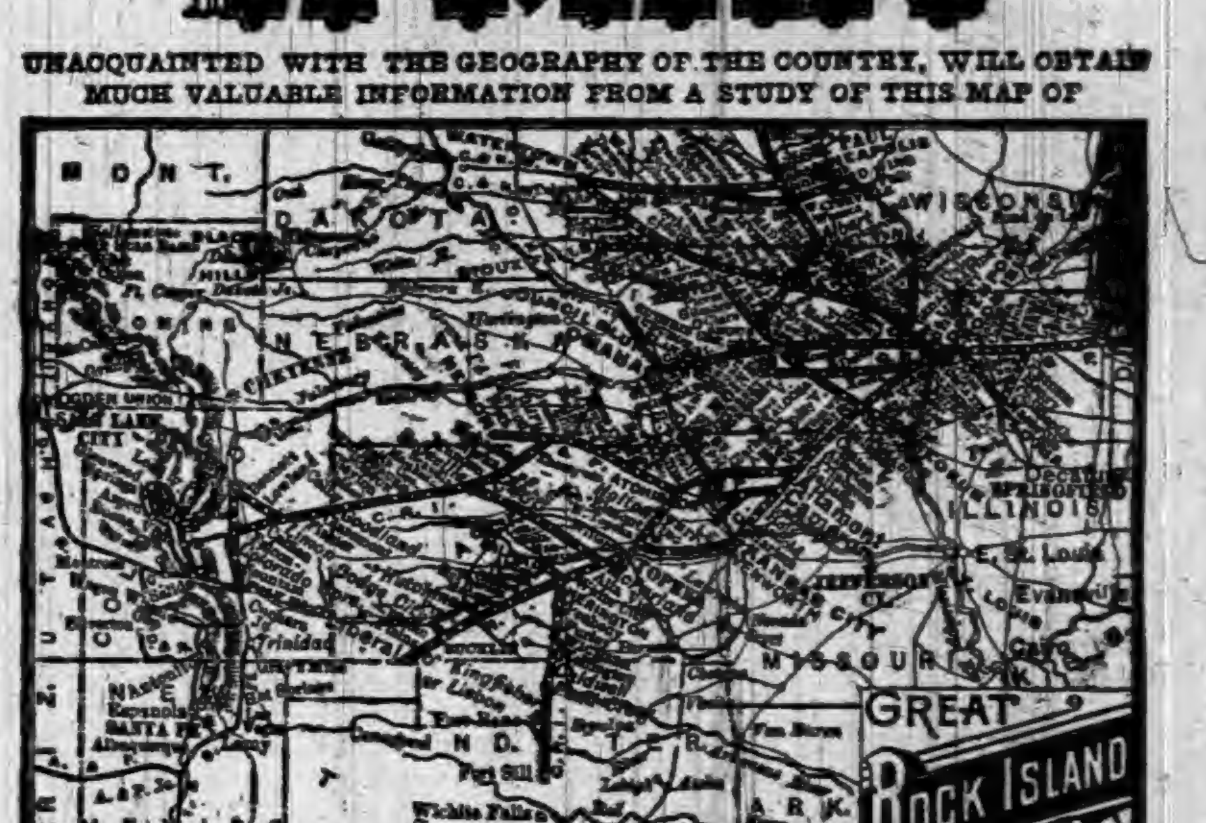
DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS: PURELY VEGETABLE and PERFECTLY HARMLESS.

Unequaled as a LIVER PILL.

Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. One tiny, Sugar-coated Pellet a dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

25 CTS

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

25 CTS

Oh don't you remember, 'tis almost December, And soon will the Holidays come!

CANTATAS FOR CHILDREN.

CHRISTMAS AT THE KERCHIEF'S (20 cts.; $1.80 doz.), Lewis. CAUGHT NAPPING (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Lewis. JINGLE BELLS (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Lewis. CHRISTMAS GIFT (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.), Rosabel. GOOD TIDINGS (25 cts.; $2.40 doz.), Rosabel. KING WINTER (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Emerson. MESSAGE OF CHRISTMAS (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Towne.

FOUR CHRISTMAS SERVICES

By Rosabel. Each 5 cts.; $4 per hundred.

Birthday of Our Lord, Holy Christ Child,
Old, Sweet Story, Joyful Chimes.

CAROLS AND SONGS.

3 Collections by Howard, 11 Carols; 10 Carols; 7 Carols (each 10 cts.) HOLLY BOUGHS (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.) 10 NEW PIECES FOR XMAS (10 cts.)

WE PUBLISH, IN SHEET MUSIC FORM, very many superior pieces that, for quality, might well be termed Prize Songs. Six good specimens are:

Signal Bells at Sea. (40 cts.) Hays.
Visions of Old Folks at Home. (40 cts.) Stults.
Mammy's Lil' Boy. (40 cts.) Edwards.
Cotton Field Dance. For Piano. (40 cts.) Gilder.
Paris Exposition Grand March. (50 cts.) Knight.
Military Schottische. (30 cts.) Rollinson.

Any Book or Piece Mailed for Retail Price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,
☞ Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS.

Red Cross Diamond Brand.

The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

PRICE-LISTS OF RUG MACHINES, Patterns and Yarns, and Colored Pattern Book free. Agents Wanted. E. ROSS & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

AN INTELLIGENT MALTESE.

It Brought 'Lizy from the Meeting, but Its Offspring Was a Failure.

Over at the West End there lives a colored family which is noted for possessing a breed of cats which it seems to have a monopoly of—remarkably intelligent animals they are, if not always sleek and handsome. Not long ago a lady on Beacon Hill who was in need of a servant, and to whom a daughter of this colored household had been recommended, called one evening at the little house up an alley where the people lived. A stout black woman came to the door.

"Does Eliza Orangeblossom live here?" the lady asked.

"Yes, she do, ma'am; but she ain't in jes' dis minute," said the stout colored woman. "But ef you'll step in I'll sen' out arter her."

She led the way in and seated the lady in the living room of the house. There were several cats present, one of which, a scrawny but alert looking Maltese with green eyes, rubbed up amiably and inquiringly against the visitor's dress.

"You come 'way from dar, you Malty!" exclaimed the colored woman to the cat. "You hyah me? Now you go ober t' de chu'ch and git 'Lizy, and bring her home. You go fetch 'Lizy!" she repeated, holding the door open.

The cat, after sidling and wavering on the threshold a moment, as cats always do in order not to appear too obedient, disappeared through the door.

"Will—will the cat bring your daughter?" the lady asked in astonishment.

"Laws bless ye, ma'am, you wait an' see," said the colored woman.

Some minutes went by, and the lady began to think that the mission was quite a failure, when the door opened and a strapping colored girl came in with the Maltese cat at her heels. The girl had hardly got in when she broke out:

"Mammy, did you send dat 'ar Malty to fetch me?"

"Co'se I did."

"Wal' now, I'm tired o' havin' dat cat follerin' me up wherever I go. Seems like I can't go nowhere but you send her after me! Dere I wus in de pra'r meetin' sittin' quiet in de pew listenin' to Matildy Johnson relatin' her 'speriences wid grace, an' all 't once in walks dat cat right up de aisle, and begins mewin' and yowlin' at de pew doo! Oh, dey wus all lookin' and laughin' and nothin' fer me ter do, o'co'se, but ter went right out. I hope ye'll 'scuse me, ma'am, but I reckon you wouldn't like ter be fotched home way f'om de pra'r meetin' by a little, screechin' Maltese cat, neither!"

The visitor could not help inwardly reckoning that she wouldn't. But her admiration for the cat was so great that she made a point afterward to get one of her kittens. The animal, however, was a great disappointment. Not that he seemed to be lacking particularly in intelligence—he was intelligent enough, on the contrary, to get himself lodged and fed and petted without rendering any return whatsoever. He sits in the window pretty nearly the entire day, watching the panorama on the street with evident interest, and never appearing to dream for a moment that he has any social duties.—Listener in Boston Transcript.

Who Was Your Great Grandfather?

The Detroit Journal desires to receive, by postal card, the address of all living male and female descendants of Revolutionary officers and soldiers of 1776 and, when possible, the name and state of the ancestor. Wonder if W. H. Brearly, proprietor of the Detroit Journal, is contemplating a raid upon the national treasury?

DO NOT FAIL

—TO TRY—

SMOKETTE.

It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE, SEED and HAVANA Cigar for

Five Cents.

For Sale in Auburn, by

Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.

Waterloo Agencies,

Locke's Hotel.
A. V. Sinclair & Co.

LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

The Blood is the Life!

SAMUEL DUNLAP, OF ATLANTA, GA.

The above gentleman had rheumatism in its most excruciating form, took two bottles of

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE,

and has enjoyed perfect health ever since. We have thousands of similar certificates. It is made of barks, roots and herbs indigenous to the South. It is a superb blood purifier, an excellent tonic and the gem of all remedies for the cure of blood, stomach and kidney diseases. One bottle often effects a cure. Price, $1 per bottle. If not kept by your druggist, send to us direct. Prepared by who also manufacture Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, a sure cure for Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs and Colds. Book of testimonials FREE.

Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Bauer Bros. will move into their new store on site of the old jail, west Eighth street, Feb. 1. 5

Graham Earle in Trouble.

Our exchanges last week contained items in regard to Mr. Earle's difficulties, but in the absence of reliable information, we thought best to wait for further proof. His desertion of his company at Steubenville O., Dec. 25, and marriage to a girl in Kendallville, became known, and he was finally arrested by Prosecutor Peterson, and brought to Albion on a charge of bigamy, and his wife, better known as Miss Agatha Singleton, was sent for. It appears that when he left them at Steubenville, he came into the hotel where they were stopping, and told one of the company, John Voss, of Waterloo, that he had been called away suddenly by a dispatch that his brother was very sick. They were to play "Josh Whitcomb" that evening, and he told Voss to take the part of "Josh," which he himself would have taken. After it was found he had left for good, his wife sent a dispatch, Dec. 28, to the Goshen News, giving them the facts as to his leaving. We now copy from the Kendallville Standard an answer from the county clerk, as to Earle's marriage.

"David Graham Earle, of Rochester, Indiana, a theatrical actor, aged thirty-four, was married at Albion by Rev. M. M. Marshall on Dec. 27, 1889, to Miss Cora A. Hammell, of Kendallville, Ind. It is the groom's second marriage and the bride's first marriage.

M. C. SKINNER, County Clerk."

Also (quoting from the Standard) a clipping from the Rochester Republican:

"While playing at Steubenville, O., Mr. Earle packed his trunks containing the manuscripts of the several plays, and departed for parts unknown. He deserted the troupe Christmas night, owing his people about a week's salary and a board bill at the hotel. He had $100 in the bank at Rochester, which he telegraphed for, but it did not arrive in time, and it fell into the hands of Mrs. Earle. The people of Steubenville were very kindly disposed toward Mrs. Earle and gave her a benefit night, which enabled her to pay all accounts and quit the road honorably. On Saturday evening Mrs. Earle, her daughter, and Mr. Frank L. Gordon, who is a near relative, returned to their home at Rochester, and will probably remain there until a future line of action is developed. Mrs. Earle is universally recognized as a lady of desirable attainments, and so far as we know she is not chargeable with a fault. Mr. Earle had many friends here and elsewhere, and no one had reason for a moment that he would be guilty of such unnatural conduct. But this incident reveals the fact that he deserted a former wife and two small children, and that many persons denounce him for the inhuman deed. It is said that the first wife was killed in a railroad disaster while in pursuit of her truant husband. It is said that Mrs. Earle will apply for a divorce."

The Standard then says:

If either or all of the above items leads anyone to the belief that Agatha Singleton has a legal right to Mr. Earle's name, he may as well banish it at once. She has none, and the Standard will waste no sympathy for her.

Graham Earle probably became acquainted with Miss Hammell during one of his theatrical engagements in this city, the last of which was last fall. It is not known to her parents that he visited her here more than once since then before their marriage, and that was about two weeks ago, at which time the marriage arrangements may have been provided for. Mr. Earle returned again last Thursday, and on Friday the marriage occurred at Albion, as telegraphed by Clerk Skinner to the Goshen News. The mother and father of the girl accompanied them and were present at the ceremony. Mr. Earle had, of course, previously convinced them that there was no legal obstruction to his marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hammell then returned home, leaving them at Albion, where Mr. Earle had expressed his determination to remain for the purpose of organizing a new company.

Reports of trouble reaching the parents' ears shortly after their return, Mrs. Hammell went to her daughter again last Wednesday, where she now is.

On the same day Prosecutor Peterson telegraphed Agatha Singleton (Earle) asking if she and Earle were married. She replied that they were, and Peterson immediately caused the arrest of Earle for bigamy. At his hearing on Thursday, we believe, Agatha Singleton appeared against him and at the same time confessed that there had never been any legal marriage, that all which bound them was a pledge each had made to the other that they should live as man and wife. In this capacity they had traveled together. Earle was at once discharged, but almost immediately rearrested for adultery. This time he was bound over for trial to the Circuit Court. Bail was provided and he was released.

As to Mr. Earle's guilt of the latter charge there can be little doubt. Almost any hotel register where he and Miss Singleton have stopped bears evidence that they have occupied the same rooms as man and wife would. The register of the Reyher House, of this city, shows that on Monday, Feb. 6, 1888, they occupied room 10 during the week's engagement they filled at the opera house. His name was written "Mr. Graham Earle" and her's "Miss Agatha Singleton." They also occupied the same apartment at a private boarding house here in October, 1888, and October, 1889, and to all appearances were man and wife.

As for the little girl Fern there are conflicting reports. Some say she was an adopted child and others that she was their own offspring, and Mr. Earle may have been responsible for one or both reports.

Mr. Earle's theatrical company has been a popular one in Kendallville for a number of years. His gentlemanly bearing and apparently honest determination to be a "straight" man made him so many friends that his engagements were invariably successful. People would go to his show when they could not be tempted to any other.

As court opens next week, Mr. Earle will not be kept long in the dark as to what punishment he deserves.

An Open Letter.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRETT:

A recent article in a vile publication entitled "Garrett Smut Sheet," calls attention to "OUR Theatre." The article in question is not only defamatory to the members of my company, but also to the respectable citizens of Garrett, who by their presence and financial encouragement, demonstrated the fact that our entertainments were of a meritorious description. The cur who penned the infamous libel descends to the utmost depths of vulgarity in his description of imaginary performances, and not content with parading his ignorance and obscenity among the few readers who have been coerced into subscribing for his miserable sheet, has scattered it broadcast throughout the territory that we are visiting, with the intent to injure my business. Now, I have never seen this reptile personally, have never spoken to him, and have never injured him in any manner. He has accepted my money through my agent, for work performed, and at his own price. He has accepted free tickets for my entertainments, and been accorded the treatment of a gentleman. Then, why should he imply that those who attended my performances were on an intellectual par with the "fifteen jovial, honest fellows," who gave the performers "round after round of long, wooly cat-tails?" Why should he insult the ladies of my company, and one of whom, Miss Carlton, was suffering, nightly, untold agony, so that we might pay our just debts (his among the number). As to myself, he will require no searching party "to run me down." I never carry a weapon, and wear No. 9 shoes to kick curs with. The poems that aroused the anger of this freak of nature were originally published in the Chicago Herald, New York Clipper, New Orleans Item, Chicago Tribune, Kansas City Times, Toronto Telegram, &c., and consequently were criticised prior to publication by editors of ability, and not by a "pimple on the face of nature," therefore I am proud of them. I possess the originals, and also press notices from the leading newspapers of this and nearly every state of the Union, proving who and what I am and have been. In conclusion, I would ask those who know that I am right, to discourage the "Garrett Smut Sheet,"—a blot upon journalism, a pander to vice, and a disgrace to an educated community—whose columns are edited by a LIAR, a COWARD and a SNEAK. Respectfully, the public's obedient servant, WM. E. TODD.

BEFORE YOU BUY
A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

On a ten dollar purchase of shoes, etc., at Wilson's cost sale at Waterloo you can pay your railroad fare and make a good days wages besides.

The Lorangers.

The Loranger Theater Company that were here last week were unusually good, in fact a very strong company. They were accomplished artists in their profession. This was especially noticeable in the correctness of their reading. They were elocutionists, something that cannot always be said of theatrical people. They were morever a quiet and orderly set of people, evidently ladies and gentlemen of culture and refinement. They had fair houses, but the weather was against them. The first evening, Wednesday, it rained so continuously that they decided not to give a performance. Besides, Mr. Loranger was quite sick. The following evening he was but little better. In fact, he had to keep his bed all the time except when at the opera house in the evening. It was a wonder that he could play at all. And yet he was the life and soul of the entertainment, though his support was excellent. Several of the other members of the company were ill, all having taken cold by exposure, or, perhaps it was the "Grippe" they had. The last evening Mrs. Loranger, the leading lady, was so ill, she fainted twice, while behind the scenes. We hope they will some day return under more favorable circumstances.

Where Farmers Lose.

[Chicago Herald.]

The tariff has undoubtedly lost us a share of the English grain trade. Our levying of heavy duties on her goods has been an incentive to her encouragement of wheat growing in India, and she is now getting a large quantity of wheat from that country. The same result has followed the operation of our tariff in another direction. An American from the Argentine Republic, where he is engaged in business, is now in this country to purchase the machinery for a number of grain elevators. The gentleman says that the heavy tax placed upon the quality of wool produced in that republic by our present schedule has rendered the exportation of wool to the United States impossible, and that, in the absence of a demand as great as they might supply, they have taken to the raising of wheat with wonderful success. He says also that a vast area of the country consists of the finest wheat lands, and believes that the republic will soon be able to supply a large share of the wheat consumed by Europe. The bad effects of protection may become so obvious at last as to require no other "free trade arguments" to enlighten the sluggish cerebral matter of even what the Tribune calls "the fool farmers."

Sharp Practice.

[Communicated.]

MR. EDITOR: I thought I would drop you a line for the benefit of those who have turkeys to sell, and also to warn them against unprincipled buyers who live and do business at Newville, Ind. They called at my home and bought ten turkeys, four hens and six gobblers. They made out that the four hens weighed 48 pounds, and the six gobblers only weighed 52 pounds, making in all 100 pounds. They offered a five-dollar bill in payment, and knowing we could not figure, had the face to tell us it was a ten-dollar bill and asked for change or the difference between $7 and $10, and in that way tried to get the turkeys for $2. When such chaps come along it would be well for farmers to turn loose their dogs. **

The Song Friend.

We are in receipt of the popular musical monthly, "The Song Friend." We find it filled with very interesting matter for musical people, such as musical news from all parts of the world, instructive articles for both vocal and instrumental students, and the following choice music: "Silver Threads are often seen," song and chorus; "Sometime," vocal solo; and "Always or never waltzes." There is printed in the "Song Friend" in the course of each year music that would cost in a sheet form over $10.00. The subscription price is only $1.00 a year and new subscribers get a premium of three pieces of excellent sheet music. The publishers, S. W. Straub & Co., 243 State St., Chicago, offer very liberal terms to canvassers.

"The Tariff is Not a Tax."

[Binghamton (N. Y.) Leader.]

People who live at the east end of Lake Ontario and St. Lawrence, go over to Canada and purchase Scotch twill for $25. On this side the same article costs them from $32 to $35, according to the pressure of the negotiation. Some little risk is encountered in this operation, but if they are not caught, and they are not frequently, they manage to save from $7 to $10 by evading the tariff that is not a tax.

Annual Fair Meeting.

Notice is hereby given to the Stockholders and stock subscribers of the DeKalb County Fair, that on Thursday January 16, 1890 at 1.30 p. m. at Ensley's Hall, in Auburn, DeKalb county, Ind., a meeting will be held for purpose of electing officers of said Fair for the ensuing year: a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary and twenty directors. A full attendance is requested.

C. P. Glazier, Pres. W. H. Dills, Secy. 2

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long-not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city, leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Trentman.

The camel is used successfully as a pack animal in Australia, and is considered superior to the mule for that region.

Effects of Modern Life.

Eminent authorities unanimously agree that the high pressure methods of modern life are rapidly making us a race of helpless invalids—subject to all manner of nervous affections, headache, insanity, dizziness, neuralgia, backache, hysteria, nervous troubles of the heart, stomach, kidneys, brain, etc. Ladies and gentleman who are thus afflicted, or who are compelled to keep late hours, do much mental or physical work, who worry and fret about business or domestic troubles, should remember that no other remedy in the world will so speedily cure these diseases, remove worry and the blues, induce tranquil sleep, relieve pain, or build up the nervous systems, as Dr. Miles great discovery, Restorative Nervine. It contains no opium or morphine. Trial bottless free at Davenport's drug store. 2

Sheriff at Punxsutawny, Pa., will take his time about ejecting families of strikers. Costs the company $3,000 a day, to support its army of Pinkerton thugs.

An Unusual Club Offer.

THE FORUM is the foremost review of living subjects, and it has more authoritative contributors than any other periodical (including nearly 300 of the ablest writers and most distinguished workers on both sides of the Atlantic). The price of THE FORUM is $5 per year. We have made a special arrangement, whereby we can fill orders for the COURIER and THE FORUM for $5.

Reported that Mary Anderson will wed Antonio Fernando de Nevarro, of New York. Ferd and his mother are now traveling with Mary in France and Italy.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

T. J. Munson, Black River Falls, Wis., fell in love with the girl who waited upon him at a restaurant. Met her at noon and married her at sundown.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

Prior to 1829, all ballots used throughout the states were written. The first printed ballot was used in Massachusetts in 1830, by David Henshaw and was refused. It took a decision of the Supreme Court to establish its validity.

Our Druggists.

F. E. Davenport says they are selling more of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup than any other preparation, for coughs, colds etc, it being cheaper, more pleasant to take and guarranteed to cure. The price is only 25cts., making it the cheapest reliable cough medicine in the market. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Gus Heagy, Anderson, unearthed big jaw bone. Bigger than that of any boomer now living in Anderson, and has all the teeth in.

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's which makes it a very necessary article for the family.

Yours, G. W. Spellman.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

The gentle orange peel will now vie with the banana skin as a joke inspirer. Daniel Sittason stepped on an orange peel at Albany, and fell and broke one leg.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

The phosphate lands of Florida are to be developed by a New York company. They are said to be very rich.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Jimmy—Aha, my dog has a new collar. Billy—Go on! dat's nothin'; my dog got kicked clean down stairs an' it did'nt hurt him a bit.

Greatest Discovery of the 19th Century.

DR. I. C. TEAGUE'S MEDICATED AIR

Medicated Air
Dr. Teague's
NEW REMEDY
CURES
Catarrh! Asthma!
THROAT AND
LUNG DISEASES!
HAS NO EQUAL
For Sick or Nervous Headache.

TEAGUE'S LUNG BALSAM is a positive cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Diphtheria, Spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough and all Throat and Lung Diseases. Teague's EYE SALVE cures all diseases of the Eye: Granulated Lids and Weak Vision. In conjunction with MEDICATED AIR as an ointment in Catarrh IT HAS NO EQUAL. TEAGUE'S MEDICATED OBLITERATOR is a PERFECT Toilet Powder. Its purity allows of perfect freedom of use, imparting a delicate softness to the complexion. ☞ If not kept by your druggist, send to the MEDICATED AIR CO., Richmond, Ind., U. S. A. For sale by Geo. McKay & Co., Auburn, Ind.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well-known nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age. CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Chicago, Ill

France, acting in accord with England is about to recognize Hippolyte as president of Hayti.

1890! LOW 1890!

PRICES

FOR ALL, AT

WILSON'S SHOE STORE,
IN WATERLOO, IND.

Boston and Candee Rubber Boots, $2.30.

Such well known makes as Whitney & Bowen, and Blocher Bro's Boots at corresponding low prices and

EVERY PAIR WARRANTED.

Ladies' and Gents', Misses' and Children's Fine and everyday Shoes, in large variety and very low prices.

FELTS, RUBBERS, ARCTICS, Etc.

We handle only a reliable make of goods and guarantee our prices as low or lower than any dealer in North Eastern Indiana for same quality of goods. Thanking you for past patronage, and soliciting your future trade, we are, respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON, & SON,
Waterloo and Fremont, Ind.

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

The Forum.

A MONTHLY REVIEW OF LIVING SUBJECTS

By the Foremost Writers in the World.

THE FORUM has won the highest place reached by any periodical; for it publishes articles by more authoritative writers and by more workers along instructive lines of activity than any other publication. It contains eleven studies of great subjects every month. It is impartial, giving hearings alike to each side. It is financially independent, and it belongs to no sect or party or "interest." It is never sensational, but it aims always to be instructive.

THE FORUM is of great value to that part of my college work which deals with practical politics and current questions. Two sets are hardly enough for daily use by students.—Prof. ALFRED BUSHNELL HART, of Harvard.

I consider THE FORUM as furnishing the most intelligent and sympathetic audience that a thoughtful writer can find to address in any land.—Prof. ALEXANDER WINCHELL, of the University of Michigan.

THE FORUM continues to hold its place as the foremost of our magazines, for the variety, the value, and the weight of its contributions.—THE NEW YORK TIMES.

There has come forward no problem of grave importance since THE FORUM was established that has not been discussed in its pages by masters of the subject. Announcements of forthcoming articles can seldom be made long in advance, for THE FORUM'S discussions are always of problems of present concern. Every such problem that the year 1890 will bring forward will be discussed, whether in politics, or religion, or social science, or practical affairs. The January number will contain a reply by ex-Speaker J. G. CARLISLE to Senator Cullom's recent article on "How the Tariff Affects the Farmer."

THE FORUM PUBLISHING COMPANY, 253 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

50 Cents a Number. Subscriptions received at this office. $5.00 a Year.

TRY THE
CHICAGO WEEKLY HERALD
THIS YEAR
All the NEWS—Fine ILLUSTRATIONS
Good STORIES—Full MARKET
REPORTS—Able EDITORIALS
A Complete Family Newspaper and the leading Democratic Weekly of the Northwest.
8 PAGES 1 YEAR $1.00
Send for Sample Copy.
James W. Scott Publisher
Chicago Ills.

Wanted to be a Forger.

Our town was the scene of a lively incident Friday afternoon. Between three and four o'clock a young man, apparently a stranger, came into the First National Bank, and presented a written check for $75. It was signed "Oscar Gandy" and was claimed to come from the well known mill firm of Nickey & Gandy. Something about the paper, and the appearance of the young man at once struck Cashier, W. H. McIntyre, who like all experienced cashiers seemed to have an intuitive knowledge of something wrong, whenever approached by anyone with a crooked piece of business on hand. The signature to the check was evidently suspicious and Mr. McIntyre started to compare it with a genuine one. But he did not find one at hand, and not caring to waste much time, he asked the young man to sign his name to a piece of paper, which would give Mr. McIntyre a chance to see what sort of a hand he wrote. The fellow declared he could not write, but afterwards owned that he could print a little. This declaration showed him to be on his guard, and gave the matter a more suspicious aspect. Mr. McIntyre, then told him it would be necessary to go down to Nickey & Gandy's office, to see if the matter was all right. But the chap objected to such a delay, saying he was in a hurry, as his sister was outside waiting for him. But Mr. McIntyre came outside and as the man still refused to go, but started off, he called to several person's near by to fellow up, and he himself started for the court house to get the sheriff. The follow, seeing himself in danger, started west on Ninth street past the Swineford House, and finally broke into a run. A hot chase ensued, and he was not caught till he had nearly reached the Jackson railroad, not far from the school house. Mr. McIntyre and Sheriff Plum met the returning party, and the young man, not being able to give any satisfactory account of the matter, was locked up in jail. He gave his name as Simon Wyatt. He was taken to jail and Monday was called up and sentenced to two and a half years in the penitentiary. Sheriff Plum took him there on Tuesday.

Examination of Teachers.

AUBURN IND., Jan. 6, 1890.

The schools of the county are all in session, and hence at present, there is no demand for any teachers. A few of the townships have hired their teachers for the winter terms only, and will probably make a few changes for the summer terms. These changes, however, will not occur before the middle of March, and consequently there is no special need of holding an examination this month. There would undoubtedly not be in attendance to exceed four or five, and as my time can be employed more profitably to the county in attending a township institute and visiting schools, than in holding the examination and marking manuscripts, there will be no examination in this county the last Saturday of this month. The examination will be held the last Saturday of February as usual, and the last Saturday of each month thereafter, until notified otherwise.

The examination for state and professional licenses will be held in connection with the regular county examinations in February, March and April.

The examinations for common school graduates will be conducted by the township trustee of each township, at the school house most centrally located in the township, on the THIRD (3) Saturdays of February, March and April.

I trust that teachers and others interested in these examinations will take note of the above dates and thus avoid any mistakes as to the time etc. of the various examinations.

Yours Respectfully,
C. M. MERICA, Co. Supt.

Thanks for Cash.

Since our last list and up to Jan. 1, we have received subscriptions from the following:

Christian Lehner, D. Mottinger, J. J. Blodgett, A. H. Deetz, Geo. Apple, E. L. Siver, C. A. O. McClellan, W. L. Blair, J. J. Latson, Albert Zerwis, Wm. Sherwood, H. Stomm, D. T. McNabb, Sol. Barney, Willis Bishop, N. J. Myers, C. C. Buss, E. L. Pfaff, J. P. Gœtschins, T. F. Franks, M. Owen, A. Brenninger, S. S. Shutt, J. A. Clifton, D. Magginis, C. Ashelman, Geo. Wagner, W. F. Till, W. D. Miller, Daniel Welch, G. H. Packer, Ed. Long, G. W. Maxwell, John Rudolph, T. H. Sprott, W. D. Bickel, W. S. Betts, B. S. Sheffer, J. I. Best, H. C. Bohm, J. C. StClair, Rebecca Dickinson, David Maxwell, G. F. Liens, C. Eckhart, J. Truit, E. A. Triplett, D. W. Slaybaugh, H. E. Coe, J. W. Clark, G. W. Lewis, A. H. Bisker, R. N. Crooks, Joseph Strouse, Fred. Funk, Geo E. Cox, G. I. Patterson, S. C. Swineford, J. B. Hoover, William Treace, J. L. Rinehold, W. H. Simanton, Cal. Husselman, J. H. Smith, W. H. Dills, G. W. Gordon, G. W. Pepple, S. J. Tarney, G. F. Wittmer, J. M. Gœtschins, A. Sherck, C. C. Neidig, Chas. Schnell, Mrs. John Baltz, R. Elson, B. Goodman, R. J. McOscar, John Snyder, Obe Leas, Jesse Harnish, and Leveret Williams.

Kate Field's Washington.

This is a new venture in the field of literature, and one in every way unique. It is a magazine devoted to things about the capital city, and the brightest, wittiest and most entertaining of them all. Judging perhaps too hastily, from the first number, the subjects it will treat run the whole gamut of literature from religion to puzzles for children, including in the range, a theatrical department, news, essays, politics, criticism and almost everything else that makes a magazine valuable. And all is of the highest order. We hope to see this new venture become an established institution.

Look to Your Heart.

Mrs. Charles Greenwood, of Indianapolis, had what the doctors called asthma, but she got little relief until she took Dr. Miles' New Cure, which soon made long wind, stopped the pain in chest, swelling of ankles, cough, palpitation etc. Sold at Davenport's

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1890. NUMBER 3.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

JUDGE BENJAMIN PATTON, of Hicksville, was one of the speakers at the Chicago celebration of Jan. 8, Jackson's birthday. The Judge was when a young man, an intimate friend of Jackson, and tells many interesting anecdotes of him.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla — the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING at "7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE, PANEL SIZE. Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

No Dudleyism for Us.

We are not yet ready to concede that the Dispatch is right in its defense of Boodler Dudley. It accuses us, by implication at least, of a want of sincerity. But we assure him we are sincere and earnest. We believe a man guilty of crime, when he is openly and everywhere charged with it, and will not deny it. Dudley has had abundant opportunity to disprove any of the charges made against him, or at least to give a denial. But he has done neither. There is a standing offer at Indianapolis to pay him $1,000 if he will come into that city and make oath before any magistrate, that he did not write that infamous letter. Has he offered to deny it? When he was there the other day he could have made $1,000 in ten minutes. But he would not attempt it. When his letter was first published by the Sentinel, it was copied by the New York World. The righteous Dudley sued the World for publishing the letter. Why did he not sue the Sentinel, which has the original and first published a copy of it? But his suit against the World was only a bluff. He did not intend to go into court. The World has tried every way to get him into court, or even into the jurisdiction of the New York courts, but he refuses to take the first step. He knows he is guilty, and that the first step he takes will force him to an exposure of that letter and of the republican leaders who helped as "trusted men" to take charge of the "necessary funds" for buying "floaters." He knows too, that if he is silent, he will be protected by the administration that owes its election to his peculiar methods. How does he know this? By the result of the attempts of those two grand juries, the Dispatch says could find nothing against him. What are the facts? The first grand jury was charged by Judge Woods, that an indictment should be found against a man guilty of writing a letter intended to influence corruptly, the voters at an election. It is now known, that the jury soon became satisfied that Dudley wrote that letter, and consequently that he had intended to corrupt the electors. To make sure that they had understood Judge Woods' charge correctly they asked him to repeat his instructions. By this time, it would appear, he began to fear that Dudley was really in danger, and he at once told the jury that "an indictment could not be found against a man guilty of writing a letter intended to influence corruptly, the voters at an election" unles it was further shown "that the letter had actually effected a corruption of the ballot box." Thus, apparently to shield Dudley, he took a view exactly opposite the instructions he had given them a few days before. As no evidence had been submitted to them, showing that that any specified votes had been so influenced, of course they had to drop the matter. They could see that with such backing as Dudley had, there was no use to go a step further. But they never decided that he did not write that letter, nor did they decide that it had not corruptly influenced votes. The next grand jury faced the same condition of things, and gave up the attempt with scarcely an effort, for they saw all the election cases quashed on technicalities, one after another. The attempt of a grand jury to secure an indictment does not give the suspected man a verdict of innocence. In that same court, a grand jury failed to get an indictment against Coy. According to the Dispatch, that proved Coy's innocence. But it happened that this court was then trying to punish a democrat, which seems to be quite a diffeient thing from its attempts to punish a republican. Coy was taken up before a United States Commissioner, just as it was attempted to do the other day with the "innocent" Dudley. But the authorities didn't want Dudley tried. They did want Coy tried. They found Coy guilty and sent him to the penitentiary after the grand jury failed to find an indictment. We presume the court did right in Coy's case, though he strenuously asserted his innocence, which Dudley has never done. The Dispatch speaks of Coy, as trying to get Dudley convicted. Coy never did anything of the sort. He was in prison all the time. Bailey did try, as it was his sworn duty to do, and just as it is the sworn duty of the present republican, who has Bailey's place, but who not only refused to help punish Dudley, but said publicly that the infamous letter "is honorable and shows Dudley's patriotic interest in elections." And those who have a regard for pure government and honest elections, and who would be glad to see punished those who openly assist to corrupt our elections—these are the ones that the Dispatch terms "crawling worms." As the ice began to get thin where he was standing the Dispatch man slides off onto the wrongs of the south, and wants the COURIER to do the same. The COURIER is more anxious to purify the ballot box in Indiana than it is in South Carolina. We don't believe in winking at fraud at home, while hunting for it at a distance. There is more election fraud, and of a worse character practiced in Indiana than in South Carolina. When republicans help to cleanse Indiana, and our own elections have become what they ought to be, we are ready to start south with them.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the Incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, and State of Indiana, that the undersigned will make application at the next regular session of commissioners court of said DeKalb county in March, 1890, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the premises where sold, as follows: Twenty and one-half (20½) feet in width, east and west, and running the entire length, north and south, off the east side of a part of lot numbered sixty-five, in the original plat of the town of Auburn, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana, said part of said lot being thirty-four (34) feet in width, east and west, and fifty-six (56) feet in length, north and south, out of the southwest corner of said lot.

ALBERT ZIRWES.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Joseph Strauss deceased to appear in the DeKalb circuit court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of February, 1890, and show cause if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 11th day of January, 1890. ETTA STRAUSS, Administratrix.

JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y for Estate. 213

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term, 1890. Elizabeth Albright is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, for a divorce, by George Albright and that the same will be heard and determined on the 7th judicial day of the next term of said court, which commences March 3d, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 10th day of January, 1890.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

C. M. PHILLIPS, Att'y. 5

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400. $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 269. Two vacant lots in Brandt and Ashley's addition.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $3,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 102 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100 barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 231. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 130 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307. 220 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 201. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill. 56-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1¼ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot fine what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE OVER,

——And we must now——

PREPARE FOR SPRING TRADE.

In order to reduce our STOCK, We have cut prices in

EVERY DEPARTMENT.

WE WANT YOU TO GET OUR PRICES ON

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

LADIES' WRAPS, Etc.,

WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY.

WE HAVE A FEW

SETS OF FURS LEFT,

Which we will sell one-fourth off regular prices.

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always courteous and pleased to show goods. We are yours, respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO., Auburn, Ind.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1890, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, Jackson, Mich. The Transfer Books will close on January 14th, and remain closed until January 25th.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries, Mention this paper. Rochester, N. Y.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Grapes for Changeable Weather.

The effect of changeable weather on ladies of delicate constitutions is very depressing and serious, and something strengthening is needed to assist nature in withstanding the strain. Nothing more effective can be found than Speer's Port, Burgundy and Claret Wines, which are in general use in the New York and other hospitals. For sale by druggists.

IMPORTANT!

We are now prepared to furnish at once,

Extra Fine

ROSES,

CARNATION and HOLLY.

Elegant Floral Designs

ON SHORT NOTICE.

T. E. COVINGTON,

35 W. Washington St.

FT. WAYNE, IND.

Primary Elections.

(No. 3)

We have considered the primary election in regard to the township and city elections; we now come to a consideration of the more complex and difficult work of the county election. In this case, there are more offices to be filled, and usually a number of candidates for the nomination to each. In this case, there are at least two methods that may be suggested, to overcome what may at first seem to be a difficulty. That difficulty, is the possibility that in some instances, a vote at a primary will not decide fully who is to be the candidate. A part of this subject has already been treated. It is when there are several candidates for the same office and no one gets a majority. On the supposition that there will be no delegate convention, the primary must settle the whole question. In this case the votes from the various precincts will be sent in to the county seat and counted either by the various inspectors or judges as in case of the votes at an election, or they may be counted by the central committee, which may meet for that purpose. Suppose now there are more than three candidates. If one has a majority over all, that settles it. Or if his plurality is a strong one, let him be the nominee. But if the one with a plurality, has less than one-third of all, there should be no nominee, and a second primary could be held in which there should be the names of only the three highest on the last. Then the one who gets even a plurality on this second trial, would be the nominee. All this would make some trouble and take a little of the voters' time, but not more perhaps, than the old methods usually do, and it would, we think, be fairer and therefore give better satisfaction. Ballots would be used at this county primary election. They should contain the names of all who are running for each office. Then, as said before, the voter could put a check before the name of his favored candidate for each office, thus enabling the clerks to get a correct count of the affirmative votes given to each candidate for a nomination. But it may perhaps be preferred by some to merely elect delegates at these primary elections and let these delegates hold the usual county convention. This, for lack of space now, will be considered in the next article.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith.

1890.

Harper's Young People.

[An Illustrated Weekly.]

The Eleventh Volume of Harper's Young People, which begins with the number for Nov. 5, 1889, presents an attractive program. It will offer to its readers at least four serials of the usual length, and others in two or three parts, namely, The Red Mustang, by William O. Stoddard; Phil and the Baby by Lucy C. Lillie; Prince Tommy, by John Russell Coryell; and Mother's Way, by Margaret E. Sangster; two short serials by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen. Two series of Fairy Tales will attract the attention of lovers of the wonder world, namely, the quaint tales told by Howard Pyle, and so admirably illustrated by him, and another series in a different vein by Frank M. Bicknell. There will be short stories by W. D. Howells, Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, Harriett Prescott Spofford, David Ker, Hezekiah Butterworth, Sophie Swett, Richard Malcomb Johnston, etc.

A subscription to Harper's Young People secures a juvenile library. There is useful knowledge, also plenty of amusement.—Boston Advertiser.

TERMS: Postage Prepaid, $2. Per Year.

Vol. XI. begins November 5, 1889.

Specimen Copy sent on receipt of 2-cent stamp. Single Numbers, Five Cents each.

Remittances should be made by Postoffice money order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

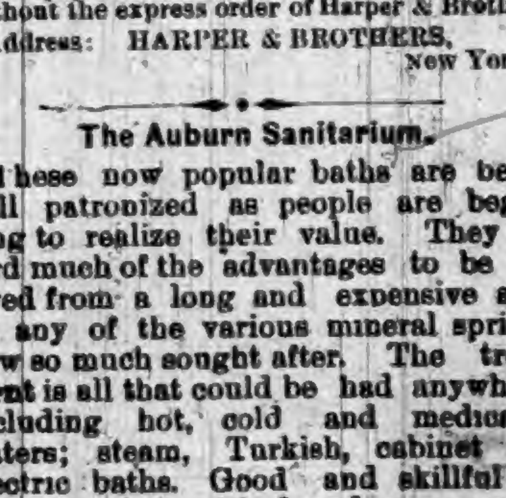
Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.80	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

On February 1,

we will move into our new building, and in order to close out our stock as much as possible, we will give

10 Per Cent. Discount

On all goods sold during the month of January. Now is your time to buy cheap at the

BARGAIN STORE,

SOUTH OF JAIL,

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Notes from Congress.

Those who are coming before the Ways and Means committee, had a new idea put into their heads the other day. As every one, nearly, who came before the committee, was abjectly begging to have his "infant industry" protected against the pauper labor of Europe, they were startled by this:

"Our hens cannot lay against the pauper hens of Europe, and should be protected by a duty of five cents a dozen on eggs," said V. E. Piollet, a Pennsylvania farmer, to day, in addressing the ways and means committee. "The American farmer," he continued, "wants a duty imposed on all agricultural products imported equal to the difference in cost of labor, and if this Congress does not do this the farmers will get one that will. There should be a duty on hides equal to the duty on leather, and the cabbage growers should also be protected.

A New York man and a Michigan man each wanted the duty on beans and peas raised from 20 to 40 cents a bushel, barley from 10 to 20 cents and hay $4 a ton.

A New Jersey man asked to have a duty of 12 cents a pound put on "sugar of milk."

Landreth, the great seedsman, wanted a duty of 40 per cent on all imported seeds.

Several rice dealers and growers asked to have higher duties on rice.

Numerous wool growers were on hand, all asking to be saved, by having a tax of 10 cents a pound on all sorts of wool.

All these people, were, we suppose asking for a tariff tax, in order, as republican editors insist that the various articles affected may be made cheaper.

Birthday Surprise.

Thursday Jan. 2, 1890 being the 56th birthday of Henry T. Myers, his children, together with his many friends and neighbors resolved to give him a surprise which they accomplished in a most pleasant manner. About 9 o'clock Henry shouldered his ax and started to the woods to get a load of wood, and on his return found the parlor filled with friends and neighbors determined on having a good time. And after the usual greeting of welcome his son stepped forward and presented him a beautiful upholstered rocker the gift of his sons and daughters, together with a number of other beautiful presents. After which all settled down for a day of enjoyment. About 12 o'clock the guests were summoned to the dining room where all sat down to a bountiful repast such as the hostess and daughters, know only too well how to serve. Among those who were so fortunate to be there were, Mr. and Mrs. Hollopeter, Mr. and Mrs. James Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. John Rowley, and son, Mrs. Milton Carnahan, son and daughter, Mrs. Bailey Carnahan, Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Myers, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Myers, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Depew, and son, Mr. Alex Baltz, and daughter, Mrs. Catherine Harkey, Mrs. Ann Hollopeter, Mrs. Edmund Freeman, Nettie Comeskey. Mr. Myers is a kind and good neighbor, and respected by all who know him. As the day began to draw to a close, the guests began to depart for their respective homes feeling that it was good to be there, and wishing Mr. Myers, and family, many more such pleasant birthday rejoicings.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Improved after the first dose.

JAMES C. DUNLAP, ATLANTA, GA.

This gentleman's wife was cured of a violent attack of sciatica by taking

HUNNICUTT'S

RHEUMATIC CURE,

Infallible for RHEUMATISM in all its forms, Kidney Affections, Eczema, Dyspepsia, General Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Syphilis, Running Sores, Ulcers, Tetter, and all diseases of the skin and blood. It is a strictly vegetable compound, a superb tonic and invigorator, and a fine alterative and diuretic. It tones up the system. Price $1 per bottle by druggists. Send for book FREE. Prepared by

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO.

ATLANTA, GA.

MANUFACTURERS OF HUNNICUTT'S THROAT AND LUNG CURE.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE Russian Minister of the Interior is preparing a scheme to check the increasing immigration into Russia, especially of Germans.

A MAN came into Bradford, Pa., the other day and paid a bill of $18 in old-fashioned paper currency—5, 10, 25 and 50 cent shinplasters, which he had kept since 1864.

THE French Government has sent a representative to this country to make a study of college athletics. France loses no opportunity to acquire the art of modern warfare.

THE bastinado is still in use in Hungary to make refractory peasants testify about accomplices or as to their own misdeeds, and the Hungarian press has recently engaged in a campaign against this relic of barbarism.

WHEN the visiting Amesbury military company marched to the Biddeford (Me.) depot the other day, an old lady leaned out of a window in the "Blarney Block" and called out, "Good-by, boys. God bless you all, and don't come back again till you free Ireland."

FROM 180 to 200 bottle-nosed whales were driven ashore below Barnstankerness, Scotland, the other evening. About twenty boats took part in the exciting chase, and the finish was witnessed by a large number of people. Some of the whales were unusually large.

JEFFERSON DAVIS was confident that the Emperor Napoleon had deceived him during the war. When he was in Paris a messenger informed him that the Emperor would be pleased to see him. Mr. Davis replied: "Tell his Majesty that I am obliged for his message, and if he wants to see me he will have to call on me."

ONE-THIRD of the inhabitants of Oklahoma are women, many of them having gone to set up in business for them themselves. One young woman from Arkansas City walked to the new Territory when it was opened, slept all night on the ground, got a fine "claim," and raised delicious potatoes and corn on her farm, which adjoined one taken up by her father.

PRINCESS CHRISTIAN, the second and most popular daughter of Queen Victoria, is on the eve of entirely losing her sight. She has been suffering for some time past from an affection of the eyes similar to that which afflicted her great-grandfather, King George III. of England, and also her first cousin, the late King of Hanover, both of whom were totally blind during the last forty years of their lives.

ALTHOUGH the buffalo has become extinct in the United States, vast herds of this distinctively American "big game" roam over the boundless plains of Northern Australia, and wallow in their shady pools. These animals, which are magnificent specimens of the Bison Americanus, are the descendants of some buffaloes landed at Port Essington in 1829. They have rapidly multiplied, and now afford excellent sport to the hunter.

THE smallest, simplest and best-protected postoffice in the world is in the Strait of Magellan, and has been there for many years. It consists of a small keg or cask and is chained to the rocks of the extreme cape, in the straits opposite Terra del Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to take letters out and put others in. The postoffice is self-acting and unprovided with a postmaster and is, therefore, under the protection of all the navies in the world.

M. PHILIPPE DE FERRARI, perhaps, has the largest and most valuable collection of stamps in the world, amounting to 250,000, and within the present year sold one single stamp to a collector in Paris for $50,000. There are about 6,000 varieties of postage stamps now in use by the different nations of the world. The museum of the Berlin Postoffice alone contains a collection of between 4,000 and 5,000 specimens, divided between the Americas, Asia, Africa, and Australia.

SAYS a railroad man: "A passenger engine averages 60 pounds of coal to the mile, and travels about 56,000 miles per year, while a freight engine averages 90 pounds of coal to the mile and makes about 43,000 miles per year, while yard engines burn less. Freight engines travel much slower than passengers, and therefore burn more coal per mile. The largest mileage made in 1888 by a passenger engine was 81,000 miles, and by a freight engine 50,000 miles."

FEW good wives, says the New York Sun, will object to their husbands going to the Audubon Club of Detroit. Whoever smokes in that club must bring his own cigar to the club-house, and whoever wants a drink there must have brought it along with him—a dreadful condition that has not yet been known in the club. The aim of the club is to provide rooms for reading and card-playing, but no playing for money is permitted, and at 10 o'clock every night the club-rooms are closed.

THE Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the House of Representatives, is a native of Philadelphia, and was born in 1823. He lost the sight of one eye when quite young, and the other soon became practically useless. He mastered the blind alphabet, and at the age of 20 was ordained a minister. After that he traveled over two hundred thousand miles, filling appointments to preach in all the Southern States. Within the last thirty years he has preached in nearly every State in the Union and in some European countries. He has been chaplain of the House since 1883, and can, in all probability, hold the place indefinitely.

A GENTLEMAN who purchased a skeleton ticket from an Oil City ticket agent about a year ago called at the office of the same agent a day or two ago and wanted a ticket "just like the other." It seems that he had ridden around on the ticket indiscriminately for an entire year. Each conductor to whom it was presented scrutinized it closely, at arm's length, and with spectacles on, and in every other way, punching and handing it back. The owner or anybody else couldn't read it, but it appeared to be good. It had been so thoroughly punched that it fell to pieces, and no wonder the gentleman wanted another "just like it."

DOM PEDRO, ex-Emperor of Brazil, once called on Victor Hugo and asked the privilege of dining with him. The two men talked until 3 o'clock in the morning. Hugo asked the Emperor what countries in Europe struck him as being the happiest. "Switzerland, France, and Scotland," was the answer. "What reason do you assign for this?" continued the poet. "The fact that Switzerland is an old republic; that France has accomplished a republican evolution; and that Scotland has a republican form of church government," explained Dom Pedro. "The church has given a moral strength to Scotland which is unique, and her climate has imposed hardy habits on the Scotch people."

TRAVELERS in India sometimes have strange bedfellows. A first-class passenger, by a slow passenger train running between Howrah and Assensole, was disagreeably surprised to find, on waking from a sound sleep, that something cold had come in contact with his hand. On looking at his hand, what was his horror to find that underneath it was a cobra. As the snake was asleep and had not coiled itself around the hand, the gentleman sprang up and managed to evade its bite. How it got into the carriage is one of those mysteries no one can unravel. It may have effected an entrance while the carriage was in the siding at Howrah, and quietly ensconced itself behind the cushions of the carriage seat.

THE latest version of "The Girl I Left Behind Me" comes from California. In this case the young man did not seem to realize the girl's attractions until he got across the continent, and then, after a year or two of hard work in California and with the prospect of wealth before him, he bethought himself of a young lady who used to be a schoolmate of his in Maine. He wrote to her to see if she had forgotten him. She hadn't, and cordially answered the letter. The return mail brought a proposal of marriage, which was accepted. A ticket for California came next, and though her friends did not quite approve of the journey, the young lady started. Unlike some who have made similar trips, she liked both the farm awaiting her and its possessor even better than she thought she did before she saw them. The wedding came next, and everybody was happy at last accounts.

Cornfield Philosophy.

THE weather cannot possibly please every one. The plumber rejoices when the weather is freezing, while the ice dealer is joyous only in the hot summer time.

Greediness is sometimes its own reward, especially when the greedy small boy helps himself to a very large chew of his father's tobacco.

Instead of fighting, run away and you will live to fight another day, but the chances are that you will run faster the next time.

Dark shadows are cast by bright lights.

A mirror reflects what is in front of it, and is not to blame if the reflection is not pleasant to see.

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush; but this same logic will not apply to thorns. There is a wide difference between birds and thorns in this world.

A barking dog may not bite, but he will scare a tramp half to death.

A corn may be a better weather indicator than the almanac, and yet most folks would rather trust to "Old Probabilities."—Chicago Ledger.

Rights of a Chinese Husband.

If a man beats his wife, but does not break her limbs or maim her, the law takes no notice of it; if a wife beats her husband she is liable to receive 100 blows, and the husband may separate from her. Those who have been shocked by the sale of women in the famine regions will be interested in knowing that the law provides that "he who from poverty sells his wife shall not be heavily punished; let the woman revert to the last husband (that is, to the man she was sold to")."—Pall Mall Gazette.

An Afflicted Family.

Old lady (to small boy, who is endeavoring to attach tin can to dog's tail)—You naughty little boy! What would your mother say if she saw you acting so cruelly?

Small boy—She wouldn't say anything; she's dumb.

"But if your father could see you, he—"

"Would give all he's worth; he's blind."

ROASTED BY VOORHEES.

HARRISON AND DUDLEY ARRAIGNED BY THE INDIANA SENATOR.

The Conductors of the Notorious "Blocks of Five" Campaign of Corruption Scathingly Denounced and the President Urged to Clear His Own Skirts.

[Washington special to Chicago Herald.]

There was a sensational scene in the Senate on the 8th of January, when Mr. Voorhees called up his resolution of inquiry into the failure of the Federal authorities at Indianapolis to arrest Colonel William Wade Dudley. Voorhees, always a forceful, robust speaker, was at his best, and when he carefully described the offense of Dudley, his former intimate relationship with the man who is now President of the United States, and the long series of efforts made by the administration to defeat justice and shield an offender, the people in the galleries murmured applause, while the empty seats on the Republican side bore testimony to the unwelcome nature of the characterization. Among the few Republicans who faced the storm were Chandler, Ingalls, Sherman, Edmunds, and Quay. For the first time since Congress met the last-named appeared to take genuine interest in the proceedings. He watched Voorhees like a hawk, and it was with a timid voice and crestfallen manner that he rose during the delivery of the Indiana Senator's address to enter a brief denial of a statement concerning himself. At first Ingalls, Sherman, and Chandler affected unwonted interest in their correspondence or morning newspapers, but as Voorhees made his case stronger and stronger, and heated to a white heat the shot which he was pouring into the Republican party's National Committee, the President which that party had elected and other officers of the administration, newspapers and letters were laid aside, and the orator was listened to with close attention. These Republican Senators could not close their eyes to the significance of the occasion. With a skillful hand Voorhees unmasked the whole conspiracy, in which it was soon seen there were enmeshed the President of the United States, his former personal and political friend, a former Republican office-holder and the present Republican leader and Treasurer of the National Committee; a Federal judge, who is also the close personal friend of the President, and who would in all probability have been promoted to the Supreme bench but for the fear that he could not be confirmed; a Republican Senator and Chairman of the National Committee; the Attorney General of the United States, the President's personal friend and former law partner, and a Federal District Attorney appointed by the President. To none of these did the orator show mercy, and before he had gone far in his effort of an hour's duration every Republican in the chamber looked like a man struggling in the embrace of la grippe.

Senator Voorhees said Dudley had inflicted an indelible stain on that memorable election and impeached the integrity of the political result that followed. The fact of the crime, he said, was open, universally known, and practically confessed by its perpetrator and his coadjutors, and yet, by constant vigilance in obstructing the law and in denying and preventing justice, the crime has thus far gone unpunished. The beneficiary of a polluted ballot-box, now in high place, the Senator declared, had felt compelled to shield the corrupt instrument of that success from the penalties due to such notorious guilt. It was high time, he said, that that most disgraceful and most alarming episode in the Presidential election should be fully understood by the whole people, and that the proper degree of responsibility should be assigned to the instrument by whom it was perpetrated and to those who tried to hide the offense. He should "nothing extenuate, nor aught set down in malice," but forbearance on the subject had long ceased to be a virtue in the estimation of all honest people in Indiana, and for those alone he spoke.

BROUGHT QUAY TO HIS FEET.

Mr. Voorhees sent to the clerk's desk and had read the notorious "blocks-of-five" letter, and went on to say that the days and weeks which immediately followed the publication of that polluted and polluting campaign document would always be remembered for the rapidity, audacity and fecundity with which the most self-evident falsehoods were conceived and put forth by the Republican press in order to avert the odium and to escape the legal penalties of an organized attempt at wholesale bribery. "This document, emanating officially from the National Republican Committee and never disavowed, had pointed out," he said, "that an ample corruption fund was already in hand and gave explicit directions for its use by agents selected for their skill in such rascality. Dudley was the immediate personal representative in the National Republican Committee of Benjamin Harrison, then a candidate for the Presidency and now the President of the United States. He had been put upon that committee at the earnest request of Harrison, and between them were the most confidential and intimate personal relations. They had been political Siamese twins in the State of Indiana. When, therefore, the scheme of bribery and corruption was exposed on the 31st of October as far and as fast as the lightning carried the shameful story, was it to be supposed that Dudley was left without advice, instructions, and assistance? Senator Quay, Chairman of the National Republican Committee and Senator from the State of Pennsylvania, arrived at Indianapolis and held repeated and protracted conferences with those who held the fate of Dudley and the interests of the Republican party in the hollow of their hands."

Senator Quay, who had not taken his eyes from Mr. Voorhees during his speech, here arose and said: "I state to the Senator from Indiana that it is not true that in Indianapolis I conferred with those who had the Republican party in the hollow of their hand or conferred with any one in regard to the case of Mr. Dudley."

"The hands of those with whom the Senator consulted," replied Mr. Voorhees, "were rather small, it is true, but to the extent of their palms they did hold the interests of the Republican party in their hands. Does the Senator deny that he called on President-elect Harrison in Indianapolis?"

"I called on President-elect Harrison," admitted Quay.

"Certainly you did!" Mr. Voorhees exclaimed. "The Senator will not blame me if I draw the big inference that he wanted the prosecution of Dudley stopped and that he went to Indianapolis to see him, and that he did say certain things in quarters where it would do the most good, and with an emphasis that was not forgotten."

DUDLEY'S BLUFFING LIBEL SUITS.

Concerning the libel suits which Dudley brought in New York Senator Voorhees said:

Before the election Dudley thought to blind the people by bringing suits against several papers in New York. Subsequent proceedings, however, have doubtless convinced even Dudley how difficult it is to play Jekyll and Hyde at the same time; how difficult it is to combine the assumption of injured innocence and honesty with the conduct of a scheming, conspiring political freebooter. From the earliest day it was possible for any one of his libel suits in New York to be forced to trial by the more than ready and willing defendants to the present hour Dudley has been an alert, vigilant and persistent exile from the jurisdiction of the Empire State. With the first symptoms of an opportunity to put his good name to a judicial test and to recover enough money for another huge corruption fund he fled from New York with the speed of a bank embezzler, and found in this District as safe a refuge, it seems, as if he had gone to Canada.

For more than a year the defendants in the libel suits have been exhausting all legal methods to get him (the plaintiff) into court to prosecute his own case in vindication of his own damaged and battered reputation, and as yet their efforts have all been in vain. These defendants, failing to secure the personal presence of Dudley in court, have also made every effort to obtain his testimony in his own behalf, to induce him to inform them and the court of all the particulars whereby he has been damaged in his fair fame and reputation to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars.

In this laudable search after light and knowledge by which these defendants might defend themselves they have likewise failed. I believe in one instance an attempt was made in this District by counsel from New York to take Dudley's deposition in one of the libel cases, but he stood mute, by the direction of an eminent Republican lawyer, formerly from Indiana, and an intimate friend of the present occupant of the White House.

In view of such protected evasion of a trial and such chronic and cowardly skulking from the courts of his own seeking, what other conclusion than that of overwhelming guilt can be reached by any fair mind? The defendants whom he has sued for libel, and on whom he has called for the payment of big sums of money with which to soothe, solace, and especially repair his battered reputation, have from day to day and from time to time mocked, derided, and defied him; they have scorned and scoffed at his plea of forgery; they have trampled all his contemptible subterfuges under their feet at every step for the last year, and still he comes not to the precincts of a New York Court. He seeks the arena of judicial combat as Bob Acres seeks his antagonist for a fatal duel. He runs the other way.

JUDGE WOODS TAKEN IN HAND.

Senator Voorhees then turned his attention to Judge Woods, and showed how that Judge, in charging the Grand Jury on Nov. 14, before the Republican leaders had a chance to get together and sound the alarm, had spoken his own judicial mind, and fairly instructed the jury in its duties. His charge fully and completely covered the case of Dudley and his allies. At this point, however, the Republican leaders, roused to the danger of exposure, began work, and from this time henceforward a reaction was noticed in Judge Woods' court. For no apparent reason, court was adjourned for three weeks. Mr. Voorhees thus explained the delays:

While the Grand Jury was yet in recess, Dudley told prominent men of both political parties whom he met in New York that his pockets were full of dynamite, and if he was indicted and prosecuted a very loud explosion would occur. He did not intend that his associates and co-workers in the campaign, while enriched with the spoils of victory and glittering with official honors and distinction, should look on his arraignment, trial, and inevitable conviction with a complacent sense of security to themselves.

His threats of dynamite were well understood in certain quarters which had power to protect him. He had carried and disbursed the corruption fund of his party for eight years in Indiana, and was in possession of political secrets of a character to humble and bring low many a proud head if he was abandoned to his fate.

Dudley is a stanch and extreme party man, nor do I think him wanting in personal fidelity to those with whom he breaks bread and eats salt; but to go to the penitentiary, not merely for his own sins but also as a scapegoat for the sins of others, who from high places were intending to let him make the journey alone, was more than even his patriotic devotion to the Republican party and his personal adhesion to Harrison could stand. He pointed to the well-known dynamite in his pockets, and the menacing gesture and hint were heeded with startling promptitude.

The Grand Jury assembled Dec. 4, and within the next four days it was known from the witnesses who had been called and testified that an overwhelming case had been made against Dudley, and that his indictment was an assured fact under the rulings of the court as they then stood. Suddenly, on Dec. 9, Judge Woods adjourned court at Indianapolis to hold a week's term at Fort Wayne, which term at Fort Wayne, I have been informed, lasted one hour and forty minutes and involved the trial of one very unimportant and trivial case. But time had been gained, and the Grand Jury did not reassemble until Dec. 17.

In the meantime the District Attorney in charge of the case resigned and Mr. Bailey, an able and very competent man, was appointed in his place. Thereupon a strange coincidence took place between the views of Republicans at Washington and Indianapolis. Republican Senators with singular unanimity and promptness declared for the ear of the public that they would under no circumstances allow Bailey to be confirmed, while Judge Woods, with equal promptness and publicity, declared that he would under no circumstances receive an indictment from the grand jury signed by Mr. Bailey until he had been confirmed by the Senate.

Another adjournment of the court and the grand jury followed the advent of the Chairman of the National Republican Committee, this time suspending all action and going over from Dec. 23 to Jan. 14, a period of full three weeks. And then, when the court and the grand jury came together again, the object for which justice had been delayed and jockeyed and juggled so long in the interest of partisan crime was speedily made manifest.

On the 15th day of January, 1889, a day long to be remembered in the history of the judiciary with shame, Judge Woods delivered the infamous second charge to the Grand Jury whereby Dudley and his confederates were enabled to escape, at least for the time being, from the lashes of the law. In his first charge Judge Woods, in the plain, simple words of Section 5511, had told the jury that to counsel or advise any one to attempt to bribe a voter was an indictable offense. In his second charge he says that such counsel or advice, whether in a letter or otherwise, setting forth a scheme of bribery, however bold or reprehensible, is not indictable in his court. To make it so he declares there must be shown, in addition, that the person receiving the letter, who may be unknown to the Grand Jury and legally described as unknown in the indictment, has himself made an attempt to bribe somebody, or has instigated some other rogue to make such attempt.

The impossibility of making this kind of additional proof in the Grand Jury-room or before a traverse jury had been very carefully welched and considered in the close and high councils of the party before the second charge was given; but, as if fearing that the Grand Jury might adhere to solid principles, although he himself had betrayed and abandoned them, Judge Woods went further, and gave notice, in substance, if not in terms, that if an indictment under his first charge should be returned he would allow no conviction on a trial of the same.

HARRISON INVITED TO CLEAR HIMSELF.

Senator Voorhees then paid his respects to President Harrison and District Attorney Chambers as follows:

Chambers in ordering the warrant not to issue calls for his summary dismissal from office, unless the administration, of which he is a member, is willing to have the law still further violated in order to still further protect Dudley. It is not worth while to have it put forth and heralded over the country at stated intervals that the administration did not shake hands with Dudley at the inauguration ball, and that he now only enters the White House at the back door or not at all. No fairer opportunity can occur than the one now presented to the President to define his position as to Dudley and his crime and its indorsers. It matters not whether District Attorney Chambers had the legal right to prevent the arrest of Dudley or not. He exercised that right, and not only refused to prosecute him, but declared himself in earnest sympathy with the felonious act with which Dudley is charged.

The fact that Dudley committed a substantive offense against the laws when he advised his correspondents to attempt the bribery of voters stands out as the great central feature of this whole question, and can never be escaped as long as section 5511 endures. The attempt of Judge Woods and his counselors to dwarf Dudley into an accomplice and an abettor, and to exalt the miserable pigmies who are his tools in Indiana to principals, only excites derision and contempt among honest and intelligent people. This issue can be left where Judge Woods has placed it, with the certainty of a conspicuously shameful place in the history of the judiciary of the United States.

And now in view of the indignity, the injustice, and the open outrage inflicted upon the people of Indiana in the name and by the authority of the National Committee of the Republican party, aided and abetted in the protection of Dudley by the action of the Federal court, it will not, I hope, seem strange that as one of the representatives of that abused and insulted people I should desire to know by whose instructions and by what authority of law the responsible law officer of the Government in Indiana, selected and appointed by the present administration, felt himself warranted a few weeks ago in ordering a United States Commissioner not to issue a warrant for Dudley's arrest when he had ventured to return to Indianapolis for the first time in more than a year, at the same time characterizing Dudley's letter, with all its world-wide infamy, as an honorably and patriotic political document, "indicating simply a patriotic interest in the elections."

In behalf of the people of Indiana I desire the Attorney General of the United States to inform this body whether the action of his official subordinate in interfering with and obstructing the duties of a United States Commissioner was inspired by his instructions or now meets his approval; and, if so, to further inform the Senate and the country by virtue of what law he and his subordinates are upheld. Sir, I here assert, fearless of any intelligent contradiction from any Senator or from anybody else, that a District Attorney for the United States has no more legal right over the action of a United States Commissioner in the issuance or the refusal to issue a warrant of arrest than he has over the appointment of a Minister to England.

Is the President willing to be held responsible for the conduct and the language of his law officer in Indiana, who openly declares "the blocks of five" letter to indicate simply a patriotic interest in the election? If so, he will allow Smiley N. Chambers to remain in office. If not, he will call very promptly for his resignation.

EDMUNDS TO THE RESCUE.

Senator Edmunds then took the floor and endeavored to break the force of Voorhees' ringing arraignment of the administration. He cited the Morey letter as evidence that bad men do bad things in the interest of all political parties. He endeavored to make it appear that the Democratic District Attorney had failed in his duty, and asked why Dudley had not been punished under the State law.

Mr. Edmunds then cited the case of Sim Coy and the other alleged tally-sheet forgers at Indianapolis.

A WHACK AT PARTNER MILLER.

By the time Edmunds had concluded his provokingly ironical and satirical apology for Republican election bribery Senator Voorhees was recklessly indignant. In replying he did not mince his words. He said:

The Senator from Vermont has held this morning the brief of the Attorney General, and as barrister has spoken for him here, and inasmuch as he was coached very thoroughly this forenoon by the Attorney General in person, in this Capitol, I am surprised at the trashy and quibbling character of the stuff that he has trumped up from Indiana. Nobody could have given him such material except somebody charging himself with that duty from the State, and inasmuch as the Attorney General was known to call the Senator from the Committee on Foreign Relations this morning and hand him his notes, I take it that I am not transcending any rule of propriety in saying that he has spoken the answer of the Attorney General to whatever impropriety may attach to his conduct.

In conclusion Mr. Voorhees deplored the obvious "trifling of the Senator from Vermont with a great question, an attempt to belittle a great wrong in a manner unbecoming a pettifogger before a Justice of the Peace."

A QUIBBLING SUBSTITUTE ADOPTED.

Mr. Edmunds then offered a substitute for the resolution as follows:

"That the Attorney General be and hereby is instructed to inform the Senate what instructions, if any, the Department of Justice has given to S. N. Chambers, District Attorney for the District of Indiana, on the subject of the arrest of W. W. Dudley and his exemption from arrest; and by what authority of law any such instructions have been given; and that copies of all such correspondence be transmitted to the Senate."

The amendment was agreed to by a party vote of 31 to 24, and this ended one of the liveliest days ever known in the Senate.

How It Affects the Humorist's Wife.

"Bridget, we'll have chestnuts, nicely browned, for breakfast."

"Shure, mum, an' Oi tink Oi'd best give yez warnin'. Oi've cooked mony the quare dish fer my missuses, but browned chestnuts is wan too mony for me, mum."

"Oh, did I say chestnuts? I meant griddle cakes. But my husband is the funny man of the Weakly Grin, you know, and I heard him wrestling with his annual giddle cake joke just now."—Detroit Free Press.

He Knew the Time.

A bore who has called upon a busy author asks: "Are there not times when you cannot think?"

"Oh, yes; when I have a caller."—Arkansaw Traveler.

CYCLONE IN ST. LOUIS.

A PORTION OF THE CITY SWEPT BY DEVASTATING WINDS.

Buildings Overthrown, Telegraph Wires Broken, and Several Persons Killed and Injured—The Property Loss Will Exceed $100,000—The Storm General Throughout the West.

[St. Louis telegram.]

The city of St. Louis was visited last Sunday by a frightful wind storm which did great damage to property, and resulted in loss of life. The storm struck the southwestern section of the city and swept through to the northern limits, making a pathway nearly a quarter of a mile wide and leaving death and desolation in its track. There was scarcely any warning of the approaching storm, owing to the fact that the sky had been overcast for several hours before the full force of the wind was felt, and it was all over in an incredibly brief period of time, those residing in and near the path of the cyclone scarcely realizing what had happened until it was all over.

In addition to dozens of dwellings and stores in the southern, central and northern sections of the city more or less wrecked, the following buildings were damaged: The Anchor mills, Goodwin candle factory, Pullman shops, Van Brock's furniture factory, Kingsland & Ferguson's farm implement works, Missouri Pacific hospital, Hodgen school, German Evangelical church, Second Presbyterian church and others yet to be heard from. The losses on property are roughly estimated at $100,000, but will likely prove more.

The cyclone seemed to have entered the city in its full force at Twenty-third street and Choteau avenue, passing northeast until it reached Seventeenth and Olive streets, where it swerved, taking a direct easterly course to Fourteenth, and then again turned to the northeast, leaving the city and striking the river just north of Tyler street. The only announcement of the approach and progress of the storm was a dull, sullen roar, quickly followed by a torrent of rain, which in turn was succeeded by sleet, and before the victims could realize what had happened the storm swept by and on, leaving wreckage and mangled humanity in its pathway. Trees were torn up by the roots and broken off, telegraph poles swept down as though mere sticks, while the roofs of buildings were lifted from their moorings like feathers and tossed into the streets.

Mrs. Charles Miller, who resides with her husband at Twentieth and Eugenie streets, was sitting in a rocking chair, with her babe in her arms, when the roof was lifted from her house. She rushed to the window, and just then the wall gave way and Mrs. Miller and her babe were buried under the debris. The babe miraculously escaped without a scratch, but the mother was badly hurt and may not recover. Mr. Miller was in another part of the house and escaped unhurt. This is but one of dozens of incidents of the storm.

It is just reported that a number of passenger cars were blown from the tracks in the upper part of the Mill Creek valley, the western outlet of the union depot yards. The list of killed, so far as known is as follows:

MRS. MAGGIE CONNERS, aged 40.
BERNARD M. CONNERS, aged 40.
JOE WEAVER, aged 8.
WILLIE MARKS, aged 6.

The injured are.

TERESA WEAVER, aged 6, both legs broken; will probably die.

MRS. CHARLES MILLER, badly cut and bruised.

ANNIE CONNORS, badly bruised.

MAGGIE CONNORS, bruised and cut badly.

FRANCIS CONNORS, slightly bruised.

Dr. Nichols, who is attending Mrs. Miller, says that she is dangerously hurt. The babe is all right.

The last death reported is that of Willie Marks, aged 6 years, whose parents reside in the northern part of the city. He was in bed sick with a fever. The storm blew the roof off the Marks home and bricks came crashing into the room, resulting in the death of the boy from sheer fright.

The cyclone was of not longer duration than five minutes' time, but in that short space it left behind it a track of ruined buildings, unroofed houses, shattered walls, dismantled churches and schools, wrecked factories and mills, streets heaped with debris, telegraph poles blown down by thousands, the wire service of the city temporarily destroyed, and the usual dread accompaniment of loss of life and widespread injury to human beings that left a panic-stricken populace gathering at every street corner to discuss the sudden horror. From the evidence of eye-witnesses the storm was an undoubted cyclone, dropping upon the city at about the inital point designated and gaining in intensity as it swept in a diagonal path toward the river. The usual sudden darkening of the skies at the point where the cyclone burst, the awful descent of the funnel-shaped cloud, and the havoc of ruin following its touching terra firma, are all told in the stories of those whose terrifying fortune was to mark the approach and passage of the hurricane.

The telegraph and telephone wires were badly knocked out by the cyclone. The Western Union and Postal have been at their wits' end with but half a dozen wires between them, while 700 of the telephone wires of the city are down.

A messenger just arrived from the east side of the river says that the storm in St. Clair county, Illinois, was unusually severe. Brooklyn, a village of about five hundred people, seems to have suffered most. The damage at East St. Louis and Venice was largely confined to railroad property and small dwellings and telegraph and telephone poles. Brooklyn is about three miles north of East St. Louis. Its population is largely composed of colored people. It was first reported in East St. Louis that the little village had been swept off the face of the earth. It proves not quite so bad as that, though bad enough, and though several were injured no lives were lost. A number of dwellings are in ruins. The Baptist church is entirely demolished, and the Methodist Episcopal church, a frame building, unroofed and turned clear around on its foundations.

Omaha (Neb.) dispatch: The terrible blizzard which raged in this State and throughout the Northwest has been recalled by the blinding snow storm which raged here Sunday. Street railway traffic on horse, electric, and cable lines was suspended after vain struggles against the increasing drifts. All passenger trains are from one to three hours late and freight traffic is suspended. The thermometer ranged during the day in the neighborhood of zero.

St. Paul (Minn.) dispatch: A terrible wind and snow storm has been raging throughout the Northwest since Saturday midnight. Trains on the Omaha, the Watertown division of the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Aberdeen division of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railways are all delayed by heavy drafts. None of the telegraph wires in Minnesota are down yet, but reports from the Dakotas and Montana are to the effect that the storm is of great severity. This is the first storm approaching blizzardly proportions that has occurred in the Northwest this season. Nearly a foot of snow fell on a level, and the wind is still blowing a gale.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

BY YON LONE GROVE.

BY AD H. GIBSON.

By yon lone grove I found a grave
Over which the daisies wave,
In the sad-voiced autumn gales,
Sweeping down secluded dales.

Where the rabbit's tread is heard,
And the trill of woodland bird;
There the wild vines climb and creep,
Where is kept that dreamless sleep.

Underneath the falling leaves,
Free from all that vexes, grieves;
Rid of this world's mad strife
And all the ills of human life.

Who lieth there I cannot tell,
Sleeping in that quiet dell;
No name is on the low, gray stone
At the mound's head, vine-o'ergrown.

Is that grave by all forgot?
Does no one visit that lone spot
In memory of the one once here,
Who reveled in this life's brief sphere?

* * * * * * *

It is as well. The spirit fled,
Only the ashes remain there dead.

STAR VALLEY, Kan.

SOME GENTLE SAVAGES.

BY L. D. MURPHY.

SITUATED at the foot of the Greenhorn Mountain, in the State of Colorado, lies the beautiful Apache valley.

A small stream bearing the same name, after making its way down through gloomy, rock-bound canyons, into whose silent depths the bright sun never shines, flows away to the east to mingle its waters with those of the Huerfano. The tall cottonwood trees which grow thick on either bank form a broad belt of darker green across the valley's rolling bosom.

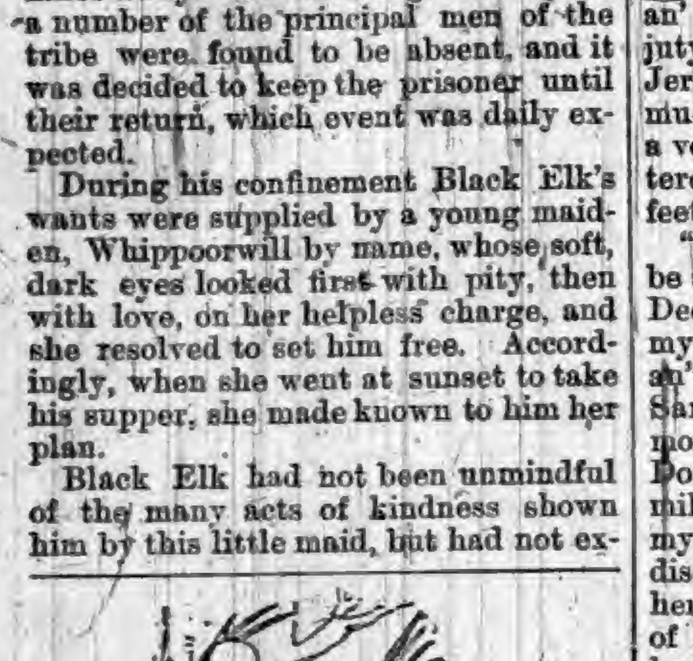
This lovely spot, now dotted here and there with the settler's rude cabin, was, at the time our story opens, occupied by a village of Apache Indians, and many specimens of their rude workmanship are still found there, such as stone arrows and spear heads.

The time had come for the great fall hunt, and small parties were sent in all directions to locate herds of buffalo. Black Elk, a young chieftain of some note, went with six warriors up the Arkansas River, and, coming in contact with a superior force of Blackfeet, his men were all killed, and himself taken prisoner.

The victorious party at once set out for their own village, two hundred miles away. On arriving there quite a number of the principal men of the tribe were found to be absent, and it was decided to keep the prisoner until their return, which event was daily expected.

During his confinement Black Elk's wants were supplied by a young maiden, Whippoorwill by name, whose soft, dark eyes looked first with pity, then with love, on her helpless charge, and she resolved to set him free. Accordingly, when she went at sunset to take his supper, she made known to him her plan.

Black Elk had not been unmindful of the many acts of kindness shown him by this little maid, but had not expected this. Should he escape, she would at once be suspected, and most likely put to death, and his heart grew warm toward her who would risk so much for his sake. He refused to go and leave her to suffer in his place, but told her that if she would go with him and be his bride they would make the attempt together.



"CUT HIS BONDS AND PLACED WEAPONS IN HIS HANDS."

Whippoorwill was unable for a time to decide; her lover, on one hand; friends, relatives, and the home of her childhood, on the other; but she at last consented to go.

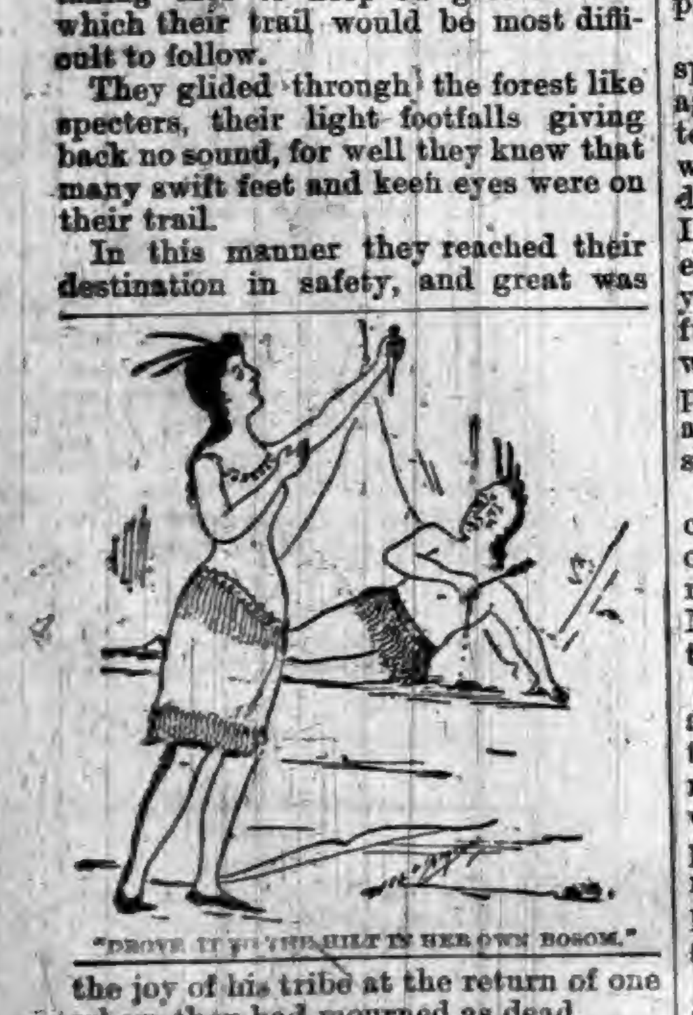
Returning to her own lodge she anxiously awaited the approach of night, for well she knew that should the expected war party return her lover would be put to death in the most cruel manner.

Slowly the hours dragged by, and at last, near midnight, all grew still. Silently as a shadow she entered the captive's lodge, cut his bonds, and placed weapons in his hands. Slowly and cautiously they moved away, and succeeded in reaching the dark forest of pine and cedar, which covered the mountain side, without being discovered. They halted not, but kept on their course until the rosy-tinted eastern sky warned them that day was approaching.

Entering a cavern they remained concealed until the shadows of night again fell over the earth, when they came forth and resumed their journey, taking care to keep on ground over which their trail would be most difficult to follow.

They glided through the forest like specters, their light footfalls giving back no sound, for well they knew that many swift feet and keen eyes were on their trail.

In this manner they reached their destination in safety, and great was the joy of his tribe at the return of one whom they had mourned as dead.



"DROVE IT TO THE HILT IN HER OWN BOSOM."

Black Elk at once announced his intention to make the Whippoorwill his wife, and ordered a great feast prepared. The appointed time soon came, and every dusky face beamed with pleasure, save one—the Willow-Bough. She had long looked with jealous eyes on the young chieftain, and had fondly dreamed that some time he would take her to his lodge. She took no part in the grand preparation. Her little savage heart was full of hatred for this daughter of the Blackfeet, and the light that shone in her dusky eyes boded no good to the happy pair.

The hour had come for the marriage ceremony, and Black Elk sat beside his intended bride within the nuptial lodge, now beautifully decorated with wild flowers and evergreens, when suddenly, and before any one could prevent it, the Willow-Bough stepped in front of the open door, and, drawing an arrow to the head, let it fly, piercing the heart of Black Elk, who fell dead at the feet of the horror-stricken girl so soon to have been his bride. Hastily throwing the bow aside, she drew a long hunting-knife from her girdle and drove it to the hilt in her own bosom, and her spirit followed that of the one she had loved to the shadow land.

Sorrow and gloom now fell on all. Loud cries of grief and lamentation filled the air on all sides; bereaved friends and relatives blackened their faces, and spent the night in mourning for the dead.

Whippoorwill, thus left among strangers, and fearing to return to her own people, wandered about for a time, and finally disappeared and was seen no more.

The superstitious red men supposed that she was transformed into the bird whose name she bore, and all through the summer nights the note of a whippoorwill could be heard coming from the grave of the murdered chieftain.

UNCLE JERRY TODD'S DUTY.

"GOOD-MORNIN', young feller," said Uncle Jerry Todd, a thin-faced, grizzly haired, raw-boned old Westerner, addressing the new teacher of the Big Wolf Prairie school, in the western part of Kansas.

"Bein' as I'm one o' the skule boa'd in this deestrict, an' bein' as yer hev been wrestlin' with ther kids o' Big Wolf Purary now fur nigh onter four months, with nary a visit frum me, I jest kinder concluded ter drap in an' see yer herd these blamed young critters a spell this mornin'."

"Come in, Mr. Todd. Have that seat," returned the teacher.

"Yer see, I'm gol-durned pertickler an' conscientious-like erbout doin' my juty by eddercation," proceeded Uncle Jerry, seating himself on the end of a much-whittled bench and discharging a volley of tobacco juice that bespattered the legs of a desk and the bare feet of a grinning urchin hard by.

"When my neighbors 'lected me ter be a board member o' Big Wolf Purary Deestric' I done gin my word ter do my juty straight an' simple, an' straight an' simple I'm aimin' ter do it. So, as Sary Mariar was a mite grunty this mornin' an' wanted me ter go down ter Doc Duffer's ter git a matter o' calomile fur her stummick, I jest made up my mind ter come by ther skule house, discharge my juty straight an' simple here, then go on an' git ther medicine of Doc, an' git home fur dinner." And he emphasized his remarks with another robust expectoration that made the unlucky urchin draw up his feet out of danger's way, something as a crawfish does.

Seeing the urchin's squirming, and observing the general titter it was occasioning throughout the school, Uncle Jerry's straight and simple duty moved him to speak again.

"I'm feared, young feller, as yer fail ter make these kids toe their mark proper. See thet young un thar a squirmin' like as ef he's in a ager fit, an' all ther others ready ter bust at him. Yer orto keep him straight in his seat, and not 'low 'em ter giggle. It's powerful bad ef left ter go uncurbed in a skule. When I went ter skule back in Injiany, I tell yer I wasn't 'lowed ter wriggle all over like that kid was. Naw, sir! I was kep' straight, an' when visitors come I hed better manners than ter be a-gapin' all round me, like I seen most o' yer young uns a-doin' as I come in. My teacher was strict on me, I kin tell yer, an' I'm glad he was, fur it has been ther makin' o' me. Teacher, yer kaint watch ther leetle acts o' yer kids clost enough. Them leetle acts is what leads ter big ones. It's well I'm not your teacher, young uns, fur ef I was I reckon I'd plumb churn ther very daylights outen yer hides, but I'd hev yer mind an' show respect when members o' ther skule board visits ther skule. Then yer orto show more respect fur yer teacher than ter wiggle an' giggle that away. Allus respect an' obey yer teacher.

"Teacher," he continued, facing the young pedagogue, "I felt it my juty straight an' simple to make a few remarks. A few remarks keerfully drapped at ther right time may be of ontold benerfit ter both teacher an' youngster. That was what ther old fellers who use ter sarve on ther deestrict boards in Injiany 'lowed. Now, kids, yer kin see what a attentive, good little boy I must a-been ter pay so strict attention ter what my elders said. Ef I'd giggled an' wiggled an' acted oncivilized, like some o' yer, I wouldn't a-been able ter a-tole yer this day. It pays ter notice an' imertate yer elders.

"Another thing I feel it my juty to speak of. This 'ere is fast becomin' a age o' slang. Childurn, don't slang; teacher, don't set ther example. It would be a onpardonable sin fur yer ter do so. Be keerful o' yer language. Agin I say unter yer young uns, watch yer elders, an' imertate ther words, an' yer'll not be apt ter fall inter thet awful habit o' usin' slang stid o' English, what this deestric wants taught an' practiced right here on Big Wolf Purary. I repeat, teacher, childurn, don't slang!

"I hope as yer kin all tumble ter ther chune o' my rackit on this subject, without any furder words frum me; fur I must be goin' on ter Doc's fur Sary Mariar's calomile, an' kain't stay longer ter reitirate my remarks.

"But in conclusion, I'll jist say: Set a good example, teacher; hev a keer ter yer acts an' words; an', yer kids, mind yer elders, shun slang, an' now, while yer young an' full o' sap, light in, put in yer best licks at larnin'—larn so much as ter make yer dads an' mams plumb 'shamed o' ther ignurance—an' git thar, Eli!"

And with his "duty" thus discharged, Uncle Jerry Todd left teacher and pupils to their anything but sober reflections. They had food for thought for the rest of that term.

Pugnacity in a Woman.

It was at a spiritualistic seance in San Francisco, and the Chronicle is responsible for the story. She is a refined, sensitive, educated, womanly woman; but she went to a spiritualistic meeting at a medium's establishment. There were several other ladies there, and suddenly she found herself attacked by a curious nervousness, which developed into an insane desire to tear the Psyche knot off the back of the woman's head in front of her. The sensation then began to increase in volume and change in character. She felt inclined to double her fist and hit out from the shoulder. It kept increasing until she could no longer resist, and she rose and strode across the room, and, banging her fist on the table, called out in a decidedly masculine tone:

"Oh, I would just like to clean this room out! Wow!"

Then she came to her senses, and, with many blushes and much confusion, began apologizing to the company. They did not seem at all moved or surprised.

"Don't apologize, Mrs. ——. It's nothing," said the medium. "You were simply controlled by Yankee Sullivan."

A Tramp's Pocket.

One night recently a tramp applied for lodging at the station. On searching his person these things were found in his pocket: A pocketbook containing fish-hooks, medical receipes and memoranda, drawings of inventions, three brass rings, Catholic prayerbook, Spalding's Base Ball Guide, Catholic Christian Instructor, four feet of lace leather, roll of copper wire, three memorandum books, pieces of newspapers, bottle of ink, pipe and tobacco, electric light wire, box of snuff, small brass kettle, box of matches, bottle of hot drops, teaspoon, steel punch, box of assorted nails, including horseshoe nails, tool handles, bunch of keys, jack-knife, cigar-holder, several brass washers, coarse cotton bag, towel, soap, three handkerchiefs, two pair celluloid cuff buttons, wrench, needles, wringer crank, two files, piece of alum, strap and buckle, writing paper, and a lot of other stuff which no one could ever think would be worth anything. The whole made a pile 8 inches high, 12 inches wide and 15 inches long.—Medford Mercury.

His Little Snack.

It is perhaps because there are exceptions to all rules that some persons seem to be able to bid defiance to many of the recognized laws of health.

"Wouldn't you like a little something to eat before you go to bed?" said an old farmer to a guest who was about to retire for the night.

"No, thank you," was the reply. "I never eat anything after supper."

"You don't? Well, I couldn't sleep if I didn't have a little snack of some sort 'fore I went to bed. Of course I don't eat a reg'lar meal, but I feel all the better for a piece of pie and two or three doughnuts with some cheese and a pickle and a bite of cold pork—some light refreshment, you know, just to stay the stomach."

The Right Bower.

Business Manager—Things here are in bad shape this morning. The printers have struck for higher wages.

Great Newspaper Proprietor—Let 'em strike; plenty more.

"And the editors and reporters demand shorter hours."

"Get new ones."

"And the carriers and agents are mad about the reduction in price, and won't sell the paper."

"Who cares?"

"And the circulation editor refuses to swear to any more lies, without more pay."

"My goodness! Double his salary."—New York Weekly.

Waked Up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous cholagogues. A gentler, pleasanter, and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouched for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the biliary organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant upon health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effect is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness, debility, kidney troubles, and neuralgia, it subdues effectually.

They Just Laugh.

During the civil war a man, great in his own eyes, was, by some influence, appointed a Brigadier General. His sense of his own importance was greatly increased. He could hardly speak of anything else but his new dignity. Meeting a "homespun" Yankee one day he accosted him as thus:

"Well, Jim, I suppose you know I have been appointed Brigadier General?"

"Yes," said Jim, "I heerd so."

"Well, what do folks say about it?"

"They don't say nothin'," replied truthful James; "they jest laugh."—San Francisco Alta.

She Was a Freak.

"How did you like me as a living statue?" asked Mrs. Schmidt of her husband on their return from an entertainment at which she had figured conspicuously.

"To tell the truth, I was dumbfounded," he replied.

"At my statuesque appearance?"

"No, my dear; at your being able to keep your mouth shut so long."

WHY ought Lent to pass very rapidly? because there are so many fast days in it.

Don't Feel Well

And yet you are not sick enough to consult a doctor, or you refrain from so doing for fear you will alarm yourself and friends—we will tell you just what you need. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will soon lift you out of that uncertain, uncomfortable and dangerous condition into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfulness. You've no idea how potent this peculiar medicine is in such cases as yours.

N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS If you want to sell or exchange your farms, store and stock, or town property, send for our circulars at once. FRYE FARM AND MERCANTILE ADVERTISING AGENCY, 1k7 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. A Quick and Permanent Restorer of Manly Vigor, and the only Legitimate Specific for Sexual Debility and Lost Vitality known. A Marvellous Invigorator, entirely harmless. By mail, $1, 6 for $5. Circulars free. DR. CATON, Boston.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD PAID, or highest commission and 30 DAYS' CREDIT to AGENTS on our NEW BOOK. J. S. ZEIGLER & CO., Quincy Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Lifting By Arithmetic.

Civil engineers are mostly commonplace people, but an odd stick occasionally turns up among them, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. One of the oddest I ever met lives here in St. Louis. He is an old man, thoroughly educated in his business and a paragon of exactness, even for a mathematician.

Not many months ago he was called to East St. Louis to make a new survey of an old line originally run by himself. On the first survey he had driven a certain corner stake deep into the ground and covered it up with a large stone. When he came to the spot he got a spade and cleaned the soil away from around the stone, and then cleared it off nicely with some dry leaves, top and sides.

Next he took out his rule and made a careful measurement of the stone, which he used a moment later on the basis of a calculation to determine its weight. When he saw the product his face lighted up with joy, for the number of pounds, ounces and drams represented therein was within the limit of his lifting power. He made no attempt to lift the stone as a means of testing his ability to handle it, but relied on his mathematical knowledge to settle that point for him. This is the only case I ever knew of where a man demonstrated his own lifting power by the use of arithmetic.

Catarrh Can't Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATION, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

No Meeting Likely.

Mrs. A. (enthusiastic female advocate)—Just my luck. There is to be a great meeting of the Women's Society at Cooper Institute to-night to demand that the avenues of out-door employment be opened to woman; and here Aunt Sallie has come and I can't go.

Mr. A.—You won't lose anything, my dear. No one will be there.

"I'd like to know why?"

"It looks like rain."—New York Weekly.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

WHAT is that which must play before it can work?—A fire-engine.

After 22 Years,

St. Jacobs Oil cured a man of chronic pains from sunstroke, which took the form of chronic HEADACHE, which was completely cured as follows:

Paragon, Ind., July 30, 1888.

I suffered with pains in my head from sunstroke 22 years. They were cured by St. Jacobs Oil and have remained so four years.

SAMUEL B. SHIPLOR.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. DR. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.

HOME STUDY. Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to Learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Address VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

Only One Bottle.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., August 23, 1888.
Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.:

GENTLEMEN: Having suffered severely for some time with rheumatism, so that I was unable to work, Messrs. Dreier & Bro. recommended Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. After taking one bottle I was entirely cured. I have recommended your remedies frequently to my friends with like results.

L. C. ZOLLINGER.

Ask your druggist for it.

We have personal knowledge that the above statement is correct.

DREIER & BRO., Druggists.

Very True.

Teacher—All things which can be seen through are called transparent. Fanny, mention something which is transparent.

Fanny—A pane of glass.

Teacher—Quite correct. Now, Fanny, mention some other object through which you can see.

Fanny—A keyhole.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequaled. Dr. Thos. Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

IT is a pity that politicians can't paint a town red without rubbing their noses in it.

IF not above being taught by a man, take this good advice. Try Dobbins' Electric Soap next Monday. It won't cost much, and you will then know for yourself just how good it is. Be sure to get no imitation.

TOMATO red is the new shade. A toper's nose is in the height of fashion.

A Family Gathering.

Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or a brother who has not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, why, when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist, and the large size costs only 50c and $1.00?

YOUNG ladies smile no more on Wales. He is fat, and, horrors! threatened with gout.

FOR COUGHS AND THROAT DISORDERS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—"Have never changed my mind respecting them, except I think better of that which I began thinking well of."—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Sold only in boxes.

THE elements that go to make up a mad dog are a tin can, a string, and a small boy.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass, and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address the Oregon Immigration Board, Portland, Oregon.

THE oldest mention of opera was "when the stars sang together."

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

OHIO is called the Buckeye State because a tree of that name flourishes there.

WE recommend "Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

THE flour of the family often makes a loaf-er ill-bred.

O don't you remember, 'tis almost December, And soon will the Holidays come!

CANTATAS FOR CHILDREN.

CHRISTMAS AT THE KERCHIEF'S (20 cts.; $1.80 doz.) Lewis. CAUGHT NAPPING (30 cts.; $3 doz.) Lewis. JINGLE BELLS (30 cts.; $3 doz.) Lewis. CHRISTMAS GIFT (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.) Rosabel. GOOD TIDINGS (25 cts.; $2.40 doz.) Rosabel. KING WINTER (30 cts.; $3 doz.) Emerson. MESSAGE OF CHRISTMAS (30 cts.; $3 doz.) Towne.

FOUR CHRISTMAS SERVICES

By Rosabel. Each 5 cts.; $4 per hundred.

Birthday of Our Lord. Holy Christ Child.
Old, Sweet Story. Joyful Chimes.

CAROLS AND SONGS.

Collections by Howard (1 Carols; 10 Carols; 7 Carols (each 10 cts.) HOLLY BOUGHS (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.) 10 NEW PIECES FOR XMAS (10 cts.)

WE PUBLISH, IN SHEET MUSIC FORM, very many superior pieces that, for quality, might well be termed Prize Songs. Six good specimens are:

Signal Bells at Sea. (40 cts.) Hays.
Visions of Old Folks at Home. (40 cts.) Stults.
Mammy's Lil' Boy. (40 cts.) Edwards.
Cotton Field Dance, For Piano, (40 cts.) Gilder.
Paris Exposition Grand March, (50 cts.) Knight.
Military Schottische. (30 cts.) Rollinson.

Any Book or Piece Mailed for Retail Price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

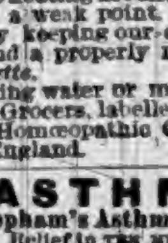
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

ASTHMA. Popham's Asthma Specific Relief in TEN MINUTES. PETER D. SWOYER, M. D. Fritztown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 20 years: found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid. TRIAL PACKAGE FREE. Address, T. POPHAM, PHILADELPHIA, PENN.



JONES, HE PAYS THE FREIGHT; 5-TON WAGON SCALES, $60. BEAM BOX BRASS TARE BEAM. Freight Paid. Warranted for 5 Years. Agents Wanted. Send for Terms. FARMERS' Barn and Warehouse Scales. JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N.Y.

A SOLID GOLD RING WITH A GENUINE Diamond Setting for $3. On receipt of $3 we will send a Solid Gold Ring with a Genuine Diamond Setting and one Mammoth Catalogue (this is not an Alaska, California or quartz stone, but a Genuine Diamond, which is guaranteed by Lapp & Flersham, wholesale jewelers of this city); or, on receipt of 50 cts. we will send the ring C. O. D. for examination. Send size of ring wanted, and money by P. O. order, express, or draft to REED & ANSON, 133 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

N. U. F. W............................ No. 3—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Books—NEW ISSUES every week. Catalogue, 96 pages, sent free; lowest prices ever known.

Alden's Ideal Revolving Book Case (the two sides are alike), prices $6.00 to $10.00; holds 125 to 150 volumes of the average size. No other article of furniture of equal cost will equally adorn a cultured home.

CYCLOPEDIAS

The following is an interesting comparison of Contents and Price of leading Cyclopedias:

	No. of Vols.	Pages.	Words.	Cost.
Appleton's	16	13,408	15,928,000	$80.00
Johnson's	8	6,263	10,962,310	48.00
Britannica	24	20,940	26,006,400	120.00
Alden's Manifold	40	25,600	14,080,000	20.00

Agents Wanted

ALDEN'S MANIFOLD CYCLOPEDIA is the BEST for popular use, as well as cheapest. Specimen pages free. Cyclopedias taken in exchange. Mention this paper when you write.

JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., NEW YORK; 242 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO; 73 Whitehall St., ATLANTA.

SEE SAMPLE BOOKS at the office of this paper, where you can, if you wish, leave your order. By thus clubbing your orders with others, the cost of transportation may be partially saved. A liberal reduction in price to early subscribers to the MANIFOLD CYCLOPEDIA.

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

COPYRIGHT 1889

THE SEA-SERPENT AGAIN.

A sea-serpent, 103 feet long, covered with silvery, shining scales, and having embryo wings on its shoulders, was seen to coil itself up in slippery folds on the coast of Florida last month. Three reliable persons saw this creature distinctly. After rolling and twisting its bulky form around on the beach for a few minutes, it slipped off into the water and disappeared in the east, followed by a path of foam which could be seen for an hour afterwards.

Reader, the above is a "yarn." If people would believe the following truthful statement as readily as they swallow sea-serpent stories, it would be the means of saving thousands of lives. The statement which we desire to make in the most emphatic manner, is, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, if taken in time and given a fair trial, will actually cure consumption of the lungs, which is really scrofulous disease of the lungs. If this wonderful medicine don't do all we recommend, when taken as directed, we will cheerfully and promptly return all money paid for it. Can any offer be more generous or fair? No other medicine possesses sufficient power over that fatal malady—Consumption, to warrant its manufacturers in selling it under such trying conditions. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not only the most wonderful alterative, or blood-cleanser, known to medical science, but also possesses superior nutritive and tonic, or strength-giving, properties which assist the food to digest and become assimilated, thus building up both strength and flesh. For all cases of Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, accompanied with lingering coughs, it is absolutely unequaled as a remedy. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Short Breath, Consumptive Night-sweats, and kindred affections, it surpasses all other medicines. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 OFFERED for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head by the proprietors of DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness, difficulty of clearing throat, expectoration of offensive matter; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Thousands of cases result in consumption, and end in the grave.

By its mild, soothing, antiseptic, cleansing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. This infallible remedy does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs, "creams" and strong caustic solutions with which the public have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh, as thousands can testify. "Cold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. By druggists, 50 cents.

HAIR ON THE FACE, NECK, ARMS OR ANY PART OF THE PERSON

EASILY, QUICKLY AND SAFELY REMOVED WITH

MODENE

AND THE GROWTH DESTROYED WITHOUT INJURY OR DISCOLORATION TO THE SKIN.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT. In compounding another preparation, the incomplete mixture was accidentally spilled on the back of the hand, and on washing afterward it was discovered that the hair was completely removed. We purchased the new discovery and named it MODENE. It is perfectly pure, free from all injurious substances, and guaranteed to be as harmless as water. It is so simple any one can use it, and you will be surprised and delighted with the results. It acts mildly but surely. Apply for a few minutes, then wash off and the hair goes with it. It has no connection whatever with any other preparation ever used for like purposes, and no scientific discovery ever obtained such wonderful results. IT CANNOT FAIL. If the hair be thin and fine, one application will remove it permanently. The heavy growth, such as the beard, or hair on moles, may require two or more applications before all the roots are destroyed, although all hair will be removed each application. Young persons who find an embarrassing growth of hair coming, should use Modene to early destroy its growth.

—Recommended by all who have tested its merits—Used by people of refinement.—

Gentlemen who do not appreciate nature's gift of a beard will find a priceless boon in Modene, which does away with shaving. It penetrates the hair follicle or sac and destroys the life principle, thereby rendering its future growth an utter impossibility. Modene sent by mail, in safety mailing cases, postage paid (securely sealed from observation) on receipt of price, $1.00. Largest size bottle, containing three times as much Modene, and sufficient for any case, $2.00 per bottle. Send money by letter, with your full address written very plainly. Correspondence sacredly private. Postage stamps received the same as cash. (BE SURE TO MENTION YOUR COUNTY AND THIS PAPER.) Address

AGENTS WANTED. MODENE MANUFACTURING CO., CINCINNATI, O. MANUFACTURERS OF THE HIGHEST GRADE HAIR PREPARATIONS. GENERAL AGENTS AND ADVERTISERS WANTED. You can register your letter at any post-office and insure its safe delivery.

$1,000 REWARD. To convince the public that Modene is an article of merit, we mail with each bottle sold a legal agreement to forfeit One Thousand Dollars to any Purchaser or Scientist, if Modene fails to permanently remove the hair, or discolors or injures the skin in the slightest manner, or produces any unpleasant sensation or feeling when applying or ever afterward.

EVERY BOTTLE IS GUARANTEED. CUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT OUT AS IT MAY NOT APPEAR AGAIN.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF

MONT.
DAKOTA
WISCONSIN
NEBRASKA
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
ARK.
MEXICO
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE.

THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

SEEDS SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN ARE THE BEST FOR ALL SOILS AND CLIMES, FARM AND VEGETABLE SEEDS A SPECIALTY, ROSES AND PLANTS BY THE 100,000 FREE CATALOGUE JOHN A. SALZER LA CROSSE, WIS.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.......JANUARY 16, 1890

BOTH democrats and republicans have chosen senators for Montana. The struggle will now, we suppose be carried to congress.

INDIANA supreme court has decided that miners must be paid in money and not in orders on the company's stores, known as "pluck me" stores.

BRAZIL talks of increasing the export duty on coffee from 11 to 15 per cent. From 1869 to 1879 it was 13 per cent. From 1979 to the present it has been 11.

THE town of Clinton, Ky., a county seat was almost totally destroyed by Sunday's cyclone. Twelve persons were killed outright, and many more seriously hurt.

OUR republican exchanges have evidently got over arguing that the tariff is not added to the price of goods. They have even quit saying it is not paid by the consumer. Wat's the matter with 'em?

SUNDAY there was a terrible cyclone in St. Louis. Several hundred buildings were destroyed, and a few lives lost. It did not last over five minutes, but that was quite long enough to cut a swath through the town.

THE republican editors will meet in February at Indianapolis. One of the papers to be read will be, "Importance of the Unity of the Republican Press." We suppose the writer will propose to keep up this "Unity" by their present system, that of furnishing each one with a patent "original" editorial each week from headquarters. They can't trust their editors to do their own thinking and writing.

CALVIN S. BRICE, was nominated by the democratic caucus at Columbus last Thursday evening on the second ballot, receiving 53 out of 73 votes. His leading opponents were John A. McMahon and John H. Thomas. Brice made a speech pledging himself to work for tariff reform. He takes the place of Senator Payne. He is chairman of the national democratic committee, just as Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, is of the republican national committee.

WINDSOR, Canada, last week elected a mayor who favors annexation to the United States. A year ago he was defeated by about 200 on the same issue. This shows a growing sentiment in favor of annexation. But it will likely be some time before it has a majority all over the Dominion though we believe it will come some day. As Windsor is just across the river from Detroit, that may to some extent account for the vote, while in the interior, and in the eastern provinces, the growth of such a sentiment is likely to be slower.

Obituary.

Rebecca Houser, was born in Schuylkill Co., Pa. March 18, 1826, and died at the home of her son Chas. Wiant, Jan. 12, 1890, aged 63 years 10 months, and 24 days. She was married to the late John P. Wiant, Jan. 4, 1855, and was a true wife and devoted mother. Mr. Wiant was an invalid for the last 18 months or more of his life, but during this long period she was untiring in her kindly ministrations, and there is but little doubt but what her own life was shortened by the care of these months, but the sacrifice was a willing one. She was suddenly stricken with paralysis and after a few days of suffering peacefully passed to her reward. She was converted in early life and united with the Presbyterian church, but finding no organization in the part of the county where they settled she did not transfer her membership, and hence died in the faith of her early choice. Her last words were: 'It pays to trust in the Lord." Her funeral service was conducted by the writer at Cedar Chapel, and her remains were laid by the side of her husband in the beautiful cemetery on the banks of Cedar Creek. "Peace to her ashes."

H. M. Lamport.

Long Time Loans.

We have on hand a limited amount of money to loan on farms on long time at 6 per cent. annual interest, in sums of $1,000, and up.

RICKEL & SPROTT 1t

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Aaron D Moore administrator of the estate of Sarah Meese deceased is plaintiff and Thadeus D. Meese is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of six hundred fifty-six dollars and seventy-five cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on Saturday, February 8th, 1890,

Between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit: Situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northwest quarter of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy two and twenty one-hundredths (72 20) acres, more or less. The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northeast quarter of section four (4), in the township & range aforesaid, containing seventy-three and ninety-three one-hundredths (73.93) acres, more or less, and the undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the following described tract in section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-four (34), north of said range fourteen (14) east, to-wit: Beginning at the southwest corner of said section thirty-four (34), and running thence north on west line of said section, forty (40) chains and thirty-nine (39) links, to land formerly owned by Hannibal Reve, thence east with the south line of said land forty (40) rods, thence south parallel with the west section line twenty-seven (27) chains and thirty eight and one-half (38½) links to the center of the state road, thence east with said road eight (8) rods and twenty-four and one-half (24½) links, thence south five (5) chains and sixty-one (61) links, thence east seven (7) chains and thirteen (13) links, thence south six (6) chains and ninety-six (96) links to the section line, thence west twenty-five (25) chains and thirty-seven and one-half (37½) links to the place of beginning, containing sixty (60) acres more or less. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two-thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment interest and costs.

Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, Indiana, Jan. 16, 1890.
E. D. HARTMAN, Attorney for Plaintiff.

CORRESPONDENTS.

WATERLOO.

Charley Speer is at home again.

Z. Dawson, of Pulaski, Ohio, was here last week.

W. H. Crane, of Sedan, was here last Thursday.

S. Arnold, of Metz, was in town last Thursday.

Frank Blattner, of Auburn, was here last Saturday.

The handle factory is not running for want of timber.

The Wrens are comming, will be here Friday evening.

Rev. W. O. Butler was home this week from Ft. Wayne.

Mr. Dinks, of Archbald, Ohio, was in town last Tuesday.

Mrs. Clutter, of Ft. Wayne, visited Waterloo last week.

Our schools are getting back to regular work since holiday vacations.

Sunday morning an apple tree was blown over in Mrs. Winslow's yard.

The postoffice will probably change hands about the first of the month.

Dr. Chamberlain is quite sick. Has a severe attack of the "Russian grip."

Wm. Bigler comes from Angola every Saturday to spend Sunday at home.

Henry Franks came home from Butler a few days ago, with a very sore throat.

S. J. Locke is quite sick, caused by blood poisoning from a cut on his hand.

The Choral Union will give a musical entertainment Feb. 1st. in Presbyterian church.

Dr. Fanning, of Butler, got left in this place last Wednesday on his way to Auburn.

The cold winter prophets are just coming to the front—that is the "I told-you-so-fellows."

Levi and Cyrus Brandaberry, with their wives went over to Auburn Wednesday on some court matters.

Is it winter or summer? Charles Sherwood, who lives in the country, saw a robin last week Thursday.

Henry Husselman's family west of town, have all been quite sick for two weeks, and it gripped them pretty hard.

The Epworth club was held at the opera house last Saturday evening. The Fiji Islander at home, memory test, etc.

Saturday the buds on the peach trees were so much swollen that in another week of as warm weather the blossoms would be open.

Bird Dickinson, who has been in Paulding, Ohio, for some time, made a flying visit here this week. Bird says Paulding takes the cake for mud.

Nellie and Alpha Carpenter were quite sick for a few days with considerable fever; better now. Henry Lehman is ill now with similar symptoms.

W. M. Leedy, a representative of the Ft. Wayne Gazette, was in town last week in the interests of that paper. He secured a very nice list of subscribers.

Mrs. Darby, Beckner, Daisy McBride, John Koons and many others are now sick with the same disease. Mrs. A. Smith is recovering from a two week's siege of the same.

Julia Lœwenstein goes back to school in Chicago this week. She was home to spend the holidays, but was detained by a severe attack of the "grip." She is attending school in that city.

Saturday night it rained all night very hard, all day Sunday and Sunday night until towards morning, when it began to grow cold, and the wind blew very hard. During the rain, buildings leaked that never leaked before, and the rain ran in streams down the chimneys. When the wind commenced blowing it set every thing loose flying.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Harding is on the sick list.

Miss Anna Geering is on the sick list.

A great deal of sickness prevails in our town and vicinity.

Miss Jessie Beyer is visiting friends in Chicago this week.

Aunt Hannah Ocker is a guest of friends at Edgerton.

Miss Cora Meek and Miss Anna Collins, of Newville, visited the past week, with old neighbors in Butler.

The oldest citizens, cannot remember of a winter, with so much rain, and so little snow as the present one.

We perceive that the Newville correspondent branches out into poetry. Thanks, give us another poem.

Rev. Cone will continue the meeting at the M. E. church, the coming week. We hope they will meet with success.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, were called to Hamilton last week, to visit the mother of Mrs. A., who fell and injured herself badly.

Ed. Carl, who moved to Lima, Ohio, a short time ago, is at present in Bryan, O., very sick. He is at the home of his father-in-law. His friends sympathize with him.

The ladies of the M. E. Church, will give a social at the Parsonage next Friday afternoon. Supper will be served at the usual mite. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Eli. Mutzfelt has sold his house and lot on East Oak St., to Mrs. Nelson. He intends to purchase another lot and build a stylish little residence thereon—no telling what may happen in the near future.

The influenza is quite prevalent in town at present, and many are suffering severely from its effects. It is a noteworthy fact, that when they get the "LaGrippe," they are sure to know it.

A man in this town has become so absent minded that he wanted to be kind to his wife, and he thought to grind the coffee. But he poured a part of a can of cherries into the coffee mill instead of coffee—he didn't help her long.

SUMMIT.

Isaac Barker is slowly improving.

Mrs. Milton Barker is on the sick list.

Wm. Smathers, of Hudson, was on the streets last Tuesday.

Orin Mortorff returned from Michigan where he had been visiting relatives.

Miss Jennie Gettz, from near Hudson, called on friends at Summit last week while on her way to Waterloo.

On Saturday evening last, about nine o'clock, some miscreants cut the telephone wire connecting the store of H. P. R Lawson with the house of H. D. Snowberger, after which they were seen making their way down the railroad track south. Anyone acquainted with the affair about Summit, will know who the parties were.

NEWVILLE.

H. W., is now living a 'tired life. Staying at home with his lonely wife.

Nappa turned over a new leaf with the New Year. He shaves hoops nights.

Charley Grim was the guest of Dan., last Sabbath. Had a good time as usual.

Yank don't know whether to stay here, or somewhere else since Easterday had his turkey fit.

Our hickory-butt friends are up the stump because the roads are so bad they can't deliver them.

H. Wanamaker's broken limb has got so he can use it some. He thinks he can plow all right by spring.

Go to Dan's, if you want a general line of hardware mostly in the back room. Hard cider—ta ta Danny.

The White Caps talk of calling on Chubb & Cripp, if they do not change their mode of doing business.

G. N. Rex contemplates building at Butler in the spring. Five staunch democrats in his family—hurrah for Wilmington township!

John Quince went to Butler last week, Tuesday, with a dressed beef. He got an old-fashioned "high-lonesome" and has not showed up yet.

JANE.

AUBURN JUNCTION.

The song of the frog has again been heard in the land.

J. H. Walters, and wife, of St. Joe, paid some of their old friends, at the Junction a visit Monday.

The Junction Hotel is doing a "land office" business. Very evidently Mr. Oberholtzer knows how to tickle the palate of the traveling public.

The roads were impassible for teams Monday, the consequence were "Bob" had to carry the mail on his back between Auburn and the Junction.

Anyone having a desire to hear the questions discussed that are agitating the public mind at present, should not fail to attend the literary at the school house Saturday evenings.

Traveler at depot: "Say agent how's No. 9?" "It's 15 minutes late." "How's 158?" "On time into Waterloo." "How's 53?" "One hour late." The above has been "stereotyped" and will not be changed until spring.

A wood famine struck the Junction last week and had not Mr. Gonser come to the rescue it might have been severe, as it is Mr. G's right bower, Frank Wood, will deliver the much needed article to any part of the city for 75 cts. per. cord. Cheap enough. Give him a call.

He was Queer.

It was a strange specimen of humanity, this Asa T. Green, who arrived in town last Saturday, and introduced himself to Supt. Merica. He came unheralded, and unexpected, but he will not be soon forgotten. He is the strangest compound of oddity, genius and human nature that ever struck this section of the state. Our people have heard of him before, but had not seen him. About ten years ago, he was much talked of, as a wonder, owing to his astonishing feats of memory. The papers carried his name over the country. At that time his memory, was so phenominal, that he could read a whole chapter, or a poem, and then repeat it from memory without missing a word. It was almost a miracle, and he became famous. He had also a wonderful faculty for thought and reflection, and though not by any means a scholar, he seemed to have such a power of mental concentration, that he could follow up and develop the most difficult problems of the obstruse sciences. Many of the ideas he developed in this way, were so original as to attract the attention of scientific men. Then he traveled about some, and lectured and taught, in his way. He visited many schools and public institutions, lecturing and talking on his favorite subjects, and was everywhere received as a sort of wonder. It would appear, however, that lately he has lost some part of his strange mental gifts, and is not as strong mentally as he was a few years ago. Whether because he has entered upon a mental or physical decline we cannot say. It appears that when he was young he had a hard fall, injuring his spine, and from that time it is thought that these two or three mental faculties, that have made him so noted, were developed, to the exclusion of all others. Physically he appears robust, but his legs are so weak, and so little under control, that he staggers as he goes along, and acts in many ways like a drunken man. In fact he has several times been arrested as a drunk, and been caused a good deal of trouble. So, he has secured testimonials from prominent persons testifying to his good character and sobriety, and asking, in the first words that he be not taken for a drunken man, for he is not. Testimonials from the schools where he has spoken, also speak of his wonderful gifts, and his powers of reasoning and reflection. On presenting himself to Supt. Merica, the latter, at once set him down as a drunken tramp. But the stranger insisted he must read some of his testimonials. These showed Mr. Merica, the true character of the man, and he called in several friends who came to the Hollister House, where the stranger was going to stop, and here a running conversation was kept up for some time, giving the listeners some better idea of what kind of a character he was. Mr. Harrison and Mr. Coe, of the public schools, took considerable interest in the man and his new ideas, and it was decided to have an informal meeting at the residence of Mr. Harrison that evening to hear him lecture. About twenty assembled, and were treated to one of the strangest scientific talks ever, perhaps, heard. His talk that evening, was largely on astronomy, and subjects connected therewith, and many of the strange theories he advanced, were startling and some of them reasonable. We can mention but one or two, to give our readers an idea of his originality. He denies the accepted theory, that the earth is flattened at the poles, because of its revolutions on its axis at a time when it was a molten mass. He says that at that date, it did not revolve, but that the poles were contracted more than any other part because it is colder there, and they cooled that much more rapidly. Whether true or false, this certainly opens up a subject for thought. Again, he does not believe the earth in revolving carries the atmosphere around with it, but that the atmosphere is the cause of the earth's revolution. His talk was full of strange points like these. Apparently, his hearers, while not able to see as he did, wondered at the strange ideas he advanced, and they may perhaps profit by some of his thoughts. He has a fair command of language and is something of an orator. But his physical defects make his speech unpleasant, and at times his articulation is poor and uncertain. On Monday, he spoke a short time in the high school room, and the pupils listened to the strange lecturer with a great deal of curiosity. Really he is a strange freak of nature. His home is in Troy, Ohio, and it seems he makes an uncertain living by traveling and lecturing. He got enough here to pay his expenses, and perhaps a little more.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1888, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes 1889.

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Jacob Fansler	und 1-5 w hf s e qr	27	33	12	16	00
do	und 2-5 in s w cor s hf s e qr	27	33	12	80	00	10 01
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	46 70
Huston M & D	in s w qr	14	33	12	00	20	1 17
Hillegass Sarah E	und pt s e pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	12	36	8 75
Miller Lovina	in n e 1-4 s w qr	26	33	12	13	47	7 44
West Curtis S	und 1-3 in e side s w qr	34	33	12	2	00	1 30
do	in s pt s w qr	34	33	12	4	60	2 76
Walter Sarah A	n e frth n e frth n e qr	31	33	12	10	00	6 38
Work W I	e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	73 01
do	und 2-3 w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	17 86
do	und 2-3 pt e hf s e qr	26	33	12	38	46	61 22
do	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	9 76
do	und 2-3 w hf n e qr	32	33	12	53	33	115 21
Work M E	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	28	33	12	11	75	4 97
Shunk Henry	L'add Cedar Creek lot 1
do	do do 2						8 27
do	do do e end 3						3 74
Ensley George	New Era lot 1	31	33	12			14 97
Holbrook Sanford	s e frth n e qr	31	33	12			1 16
do	in s w cor n e frth s e qr	15	33	12	20	00	18 87
Bertenwald Eliza L	s hf n w frth n w qr	15	33	12	151	50	82 28
Vandercook Fred	pt s w qr

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Bailey Barbara A	n hf s e frth n e qr	33	33	13	20	00	6 43
McClellan Permelia	w end s hf n e qr	3	33	13	30	00	32 01
Muggins Wm decd	pt e hf s e qr	4	33	13	76	67	133 74
do	e hf n e qr	9	33	13	80	00	59 65
Thomas Sophia	in n frc hf n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	6 61
do	pt n e qr	5	33	13	8	95	8 23
Tarney Ann	s end w hf n w qr	24	33	13	60	00	25 70
Stafford Samuel	e hf n e qr	15	33	13	80	00	28 92
Ferguson N P	s end w hf n e qr	29	33	13	8	00	10 12
Amstutz John	e hf n e qr	29	33	13	80	00	23 05

CONCORD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Cole Septimus	in s w qr	28	33	14	00	60	1 43
Ferguson John D	in s e frth s e qr	16	33	14	00	62	4 38
Hennessy James	in s side e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25	3 21
Johnson Rosetta	in n e frth n e qr	16	33	14	1	00	2 04
Kirk Wm B	n hf n w qr	3	33	14	75	20	31 35
Maxwell Jas H	und 1-3 s end w hf n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	2	66	1 41
Milton Susan	s w cor w hf n w qr	9	33	14	2	00	8 25
May J W & H E	und 3-4 n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	30	00	13 92
Morr Adam	e pt w hf n w qr	18	33	14	27	59	14 02
Place Susan	in n e cor s hf s e qr	1	33	14	1	00	1 20
Ricketts Ira	und frth n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	10	00	5 10
Smith James H	s e frth s e qr	8	33	14	40	00	14 66
do	s hf e frth n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	10	00	14 77
Wineland Simon	in s w qr	15	33	14	2	00	31 37
Wineland Elizabeth	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	38	1 37
Hamilton J G	town Orangeville und hf lot 109						38
Harrow J C	do do 109						38
Bair Samuel & Mary	town Spencerville lot 5						7 16
Gilford James B	do 25 ft s pt lot 1						2 01
Rhodes Wm	do [illegible] s pt lot 30						6 04
Gill David	C add town St Joe lot 6						4 74
Testison Martin	L 1st add do lot 8 blk 9						60 00
do	do do lot 9 blk 9						1 82
Walker J F	C add do lot 10						6 90
Dermott John E	in s pt s e frth n e qr	23	33	14	16	00	6 59

NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Beamer D A	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	6 29
Baird Emma E	w hf s w frth s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	11 45
Borden F H	s e frth s e qr	32	33	15	40	00
do	e hf n e frth s e qr	32	33	15	20	00	29 02
Davis Joel	s fr s e qr	7	33	15	78	50	42 09
do	n pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	45	00	25 82
do	in mid pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	14	46	7 70
Fusselman Quincy	s e pt n hf s w qr	6	33	15	1	00	5 10
Fusselman Mary	pt s w qr	6	33	15	00	50	4 43
Jefford David	in n w qr	6	33	15	00	80	78
Kirkbride G W	in s hf n w fr qr	6	33	15	3	00	2 50
Like Julia	in n pt e hf s w qr	5	33	15	00	75	78
Mullenix Moses	n hf n fr hf	9	33	15	55	00	21 79
Milliman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	19	33	15	21	00	7 90
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	8	33	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s w qr	6	33	15	7	48	16 50
Palmerton Geo N	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	00	1 58
Steel Martin A	s w frth s e qr	17	33	15	48	00	23 39
Tarney John W	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	50
do	do	6	33	15	3	77	7 81
Aikens Hales	Vienna pt of lot 44
do	do do 41						10 23
Catlett David	do lot 24
do	do 25						9 91
Fell Amos C	do 58
do	do n e hf lot 51						6 93
Friend Nancy	do lot 3						78
Harter Bryaney	do 30
do	do 89						2 19
Like Julia	do 2						2 62
Maxwell Margaret	do n w pt lot 46						1 71
Rex Joseph	do lot 63						3 56
Salmon Matilda	do 30 ft n end lot 44

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Murphy Adolphus	in w hf n e qr	19	34	12	40		7 97
Myers & Blatz	in w pt s w frth s w qr	1	34	12	50		58
Schrader Margaret	in n w qr						70
Gonser Geo	Lawrence lot 50 in n w qr						37
Wright Emily	do O P s hf lot 35						75
Wyrick Jacob	do do lot 63						6 24
Dunlee James	do do 19						1 07
Jarvis John B	Corunna O P lot 29						1 30
do	do do 52						1 57
do	do Jarvis add lot 3						1 66
do	do do 6						1 38
do	do do 10

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Hanna James T	s w frth s w qr	8	35	12	40	00	3 90
Binkley Amanda	s end w hf n e qr	23	35	12	47	00	18 21
Lower Wm E	in n e pt n w qr	22	35	12	1	50	7 66
Shade Judson	in n w cor n e frth s w qr	5	35	12	1	50	4 00
Sthair John	in n pt n e qr	22	35	12	1	00	2 19

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Buck Jefferson	e ½ e hf s e qr	4	35	13	40	00	20 08
Bell John W	e hf n w qr s e qr	23	35	13	20	00	11 11
Freed Peter	s e cor n w qr	16	35	13	1	00	1 26
Mulvey Wm	s hf s w qr	12	35	13	80	00	38 90
Myers Barbara E	in s w qr	16	35	13	12	25
do	in n pt n w qr	19	35	13	1	75	7 01
Mortorff Samuel	s w frth s w qr	15	35	13	37	60	24 64
Ball Augustus	n hf s e qr	3	35	13	10	00	22 39
Keys Maria	s hf s e qr	3	35	13	80	00	28 10
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e frth s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	22 31

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Aldrich Sarah	in sw cor sw qr	2	35	14	24	36	14 90
Beard Jeff Trustee	pt se qr	25	35	14	150	00	83 38
Cummings Martha	se pt nw fr qr	2	35	14	8	30
do	in sw cor ne qr	2	35	14	4	30	6 10
Enzor Stephen	n hf nw frth nw qr	13	35	14	20	00	9 60
do	ne frth ne qr	14	35	14	40	00	24 44
Oberlin Wm	s hf se qr	15	35	14	80	00	65 32
Willard Henry	in sw qr	2	35	14		25	92
Nelson Isaac	sw frth nw qr	25	35	14	40	00	26 09
Musser Catherine	ne frth nw qr	7	35	14	30	40	12 96

TROY TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Freeby John	und 9-10 ne cor sw qr	7	35	15		90
do	do se qr	7	35	15	154	00	57 72
Rickard Nancy	in s pt n hf sw qr	16	35	15	22	00	10 05
Rickard James	n end e hf n e qr	20	35	15	11	50	7 67
Sise Francis	s hf sw qr	8	35	15	80	00	76 29

KEYSER TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Cabe Frederick	pt ne qr	3	33	12		31	5 77
Depew John	w side w hf ne qr	30	34	12	66	67	48 18
Gœtschius James	s hf w hf w hf nw qr	28	34	12	20		8 36
Hanna James T	nw frth se qr	33	34	12	40		173 07
Myers & Hersler	und 2-3 in w pt w hf nw qr	2	33	12		07	5 50
Offen M A &
Hudson L S	in ne pt ne qr	4	33	12		25	38
Olinger G W	n hf ne frth se qr	35	34	12	20		14 16
Potter Mary L	in sw cor sw qr	7	33	12	20		6 66
Winterbalter John	in n pt nw qr	4	33	12		25	4 43
Newman Herman	T S add Garrett lot 11 block 3
do	do 12 3						9 86
Watson & Minshall trst	do 12 5						1 44
do	do 2 8						1 44
Hare Walter	Altona E add lot 32						74
Mason John	do E & C add lot 7						1 91
Stratton Artemas	n end e hf se qr	32	34	12	7	00	8 78
Rectenwald Joseph	pt e hf s e qr	10	34	12	76	50	31 37
do	w hf w hf sw qr	11	34	12	40	00	31 05
Clink Jacob	se frth se qr	4	33	12	40	00	38 78

TOWN OF AUBURN.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Amount of tax $ cts
Cullers Lewis & C A	O P pt lot 120	29 20
do	do 113	4 41
Cool Isaac N	do lot 289	17 58
Dills Emily A	do 44	20 52
Green Ruth A	do s hf w hf
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141	14 89
do	do 142
Hallam Thomas	G & D add lot 6	24 50
do	do 7	20 17
Kiblinger Wm H	Mel add lot 2
Moody D D	O P lot 109	48 92
do	do 124	3 00
	S add lot 12

TOWN OF GARRETT.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Amount of tax $ cts
Reynolds W G	O P blk 12 lot 20	17 14
Smith Jerry	do 23 w ½ lot 13	86
Vansolck Noah D	do lot 14	86
do	do 15	86
do	do 16	86
do	do 17	28 21
do	Oz 1st add blk 1 lot 1	2 41
Houser Margaret J	do lot 2	2 41
do	do lot 3	2 41
do	do n ½ lot 4	1 20
do	do n ½ lot 5	1 20
do	do lot 8	10 50
do

I, Cyrus C. Walter, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1888, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1889, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1890 (the same being the 10th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

CYRUS C. WALTER, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 13, 1890.

Court.

Much time has been taken in discussing and settling cases. As has often happened before, a case may be set for trial at a given date, and when the time comes the parties may come together and settle it, or spend some hours trying. Lydia Helms was divorced from Jacob Helms. Alvarez Walter was divorced from California A. Walter. She was given the custody of the children, and $800 alimony. Samuel Aldrich was ordered to pay Nettie C. Lewis $375, $80 down, and $195 in a year, on a charge of bastardy. Harry Keeler was adopted by Aug and Alice Statz, and takes the name of Harry Statz. The case of Baird vs Baird occupied a day or two, and Tuesday evening the jury went out. They agreed about one o'clock that night. They gave Mrs. Baird $335. The case of Coffee and Brandaberry vs Hammon goes to Noble county.

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place, The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Obituary.

Anna Deetz, the wife of George Miser, was born in Holmes County, Ohio, Mar. 17, 1833. Died at her home at Custer, DeKalb County, Ind., Jan. 8, 1890, aged 56 years, 9 months and 22 days. She united with the German Reformed church at Satillio, Holmes County, Ohio, Sept. 14, 1850, pastor, J. G. Zohner. She was united in marriage to George Miser, Apr. 22, 1854. To them were born five children, all of which survive her. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clayton in the M. E. church at Custer, Jan. 10, 1890. A large number of friends and neighbors then accompanied the remains to the Fairfield cemetery, where we had to say farewell until the resurrection morn.

Report of the Auburn Mining Company.

The undersigned, a majority of the directors of the Auburn Mining Company, of Auburn, Indiana, upon oath state that the capital stock of said company is twenty thousand (20,000) dollars, of which thirteen thousand one hundred and sixty-five (13,165) dollars is fully paid up. The debts of said Company amount to thirty-two hundred thirty-four dollars and fifty cents ($3,234.50). Witness our names this 11th day of January, A. D. 1890.

J. B. CASEBEER Pres.; W. H. MCINTYRE Sec.
J. C. HENRY,
C. C. SHAFFER,
F. E. DAVENPORT,
GEO. A. BISHOP,
Directors of the Auburn Mining Company.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me, a Notary Public in and for said county and state, the day and year first above written.
1t D. A. GARWOOD, Notary Public.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mary Magdalene Walborn, died at the old homestead near Auburn, Thursday, Jan. 9, 1890, aged 75 years, 3 months, 11 days. Mother Walborn, when quite young in years professed faith in Christ and united with the Evangelical Lutheran church and remained a faithful member till she was called to join the church triumphant. Jan., 29, 1829, she was married to Jacob Walborn. She was the mother of thirteen children, nine of whom still survive. To them we say "Mother cannot come to you, but you can go to her." Her last moments seemed to be her best moments and when the hour drew nigh for her departure the light of heaven seemed to burn brightly all around her. The funeral services took place from the Lutheran church, Auburn, Rev. W. Diffenbach, of Butler, officiating, assisted by Rev. H. M Lamport, and the remains were laid to rest in the family lot, Auburn cemetery.

"Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace." St. Luke 2, 29.

CAMPBELL, the new governor of Ohio, was inaugurated Monday, with a great deal of ceremony and big processions. Every body came, and there was a big time. Many presidents of the United States have been inducted into office with less ceremony. But as Ohio democrats don't get a governor very often, they may be forgiven for making a big splurge.

EMBROIDERIES.

WE open this week a Large and Handsome Line of Cambric and Swiss Edgings, Insertings, Allovers, and 22, 27, 45-inch Flouncings in Hemstitched, Tucked, Revers and VanDyke effects, which we offer at correct prices.

W. P. Harter & Co.
East of Court House,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW

BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.

If You want to Save Money During 1890

BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF

SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

EUREKA OPERA HOUSE,

FRIDAY EVE'G, JAN. 17, '90.

THE

DEESTRICK SKULE,

OF FORTY YEARS AGO.

ONE NIGHT ONLY.

FUN, * MIRTH * AND * LAUGHTER.

Scholars will appear in the costumes of our forefathers and foremothers, and will represent the different phases of brightness and dullness, good behavior and bad, as found in the school room.

DIRECTORS:

Deacon Wayback,
Dr. Slowcoach,
'Squire Kicker,

H. E. Coe.
Elias Zimmerman.
H. H. Hoisington.

TEACHER—JOHN WESLEY BAXTER.

PUPILS:

STAGE NAME.	REAL NAME.
Jemima Mehitable Jenkins,	Mrs. Anna Robbins,
Trinity Spoopendyke,	Mrs. Josie Brown,
Melissa Jane Porter,	Mrs. Hattie Culbertson,
Emanuel Porter,	Walter Penfield,
Michael Jones,	George Boland,
Sarah Ellen Jones,	Mrs. Priscilla Zimmerman,
Elizabeth Jane Lamont,	Mrs. E. J. Willis,
Mayflower Jenkins,	Miss Lettie Meese,
Jotham Jenkins,	John Zimmerman,
John Jacob Jones,	U. S. Raut,
Catharine Lamont,	Mrs J. B. Casebeer,
Billy Rudisill,	W. P. Harter,
Fritz Spoopendyke,	Robt. McDougall, (Dutch boy,)
Johnny Sherman,	Ben. Zimmerman, (Smart boy,)
William Tecumseh Sherman,	M. Boland,
Jacob Henry Rudisill,	A. Robbins,
Grover Cleveland,	Sylvester Zimmerman,
William Cleveland,	Geo. McCord,
Prudence Sniffles,	Mrs. W. L. Penfield,	Twins,
Patience Sniffles,	Mrs. Sylvester Zimmerman,
Gretchen Schneider,	Mrs. W. P. Harter, (Dutch girl,)
Uriah Johnson,	William Dirrim,
Matilda Ann Spoopendyke,	Miss Etta Heist, (Smart girl,)
Margaret Jones,	Miss Inis Green,
Peggy Ann Spoopendyke,	Miss Estella Merica,
James Johnson,	John H. Weaver,
Barbara Rudisill,	Miss Emma Gushwa,
Julia A. Willard,	Miss Carrie McDougall,
Betsy Jane Jones,	Miss Minnie Zimmerman,
Susan B. Anthony,	Miss Blanche Shilling,
George W. Johnson,	W. E. Rush,
Moses Smith,	M. B Willis,
Frances E. Willard,	Miss Hattie Casebeer.
Martha Jones,	Miss Addie McCord,
Roger William Anthony,	H. S. McIntosh,
Rose Cleveland,	Miss Ina Burke,
Ardent Sniffles,	Gene Altenburg,
Daniel Lamont,	Will Stonebraker,
Jerusha Lamont,	Miss Winnie Raut,
Matilda Sherman,	Miss Bertha Shaffer,
Constance Anthony.	Miss Della Weaver.

5000 Dollars'

Worth of Clothing which

MUST

BE SOLD WITHIN

30-DAYS-30,

AT

"THE FAMOUS."

COME AT ONCE WHILE THE SELECTION IS LARGE.

North side Courthouse, Three doors west of Postoffice.

LOCAL NEWS.

The old Deestrick Skule.

Post's closing out sales are immense, not their low prices.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Parents take your children to see the school of forty years ago.

Visit the old Deestrick Skule, Friday night at the Opera House.

Ladies, all our $1.25 corsets at 85cts to close them out, at Post's.

Ladies', gents' and children's underwear. See our prices, at Post's.

The old-fashioned Deestrick Skule at the Opera House Friday night, 17.

Mrs. James Campbell is up at Walkerton again, another brother being very sick.

Bauer Bros. will move into their new store on site of the old jail, west Eighth street, Feb. 1. 5

A little child of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Sthair died on Monday. We believe it was their youngest.

Bauer Bros. give 10 per cent off on all sales this month, so as to have a small stock only to move to the new building Feb. 1. 5

D. Z. Hoffman has pansies growing and in bloom in his garden, and says the elder bushes are pushing out buds almost ready to leaf.

O. P. Ensley goes to Indianapolis the last of this week to join his father and be ready to begin work in the pension office, as chief deputy.

On a ten dollar purchase of shoes, etc., at Wilson's cost sale at Waterloo you can pay your railroad fare and make a good days wages besides.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Uncle John Leas, of Waterloo, was in town Monday, on some business and called up to chat awhile. He is always welcome. And we are glad to see him looking well.

The delinquent tax list which we publish this week, will be of interest to many of our people. It is somewhat larger than last year, owing in part, we are told, to unpaid ditch tax.

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

David Stonestreet, one of the best known citizens of Butler township, died at his home near Cedar Creek Saturday, and was buried Monday. He was a man highly respected, and had served his township as trustee.

We have received a letter from Edward Foltz, son of A. P. Foltz, dated at Fort Crawford, Colorado, where he has been for several weeks sick in the hospital. We gather from this, that he is still in the army and that he is getting better, as he was able to write.

J. B. Hoover was around Saturday boasting that at Charlie Raut's they had that day for dinner, some cabbage taken from the garden, where it had stood and been growing so far into the winter. It was not protected, but was in good condition, fresh and palatable.

Mrs. Wyant, relict of the late J. P. Wyant, of Butler township, died Sunday evening. The funeral was on Tuesday afternoon at Cedar Chapel. Mr. Lamport of the M. E. church here preached the funeral sermon. She was stepmother to Mrs. C. M. Merica.

The Clipper says it will not make any more replies to the Courier and begs pardon of its readers for the slush it has already indulged in, in these words: "Think of it readers and forever forgive us for what we have been guilty of." This must be another case of "While the lamp holds out to burn, etc."

Read our report of the railroad meeting. Now, let every citizen of Auburn be prepared to put his shoulder to the wheel and help to make the thing a success. Another line would help the country west of us, especially, and all the towns; and possibly shops would be located here. That is what we want.

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

We have lately received some very gratifying words of encouragement from friends of the Courier here and there, but none that were more appreciated than those from our young legal friend, W. H. McNagny of Columbia City. He is one of those clear-headed men with positive ideas, whose words and opinions count for something. We agree with him that what Americans need is "a campaign of education," in which they will be called on to stop and think, and to draw enlightened conclusions from a better knowledge of the conditions that confront us.

The Presbyterian nickel social will meet at the residence of Mrs. Baldwin on South VanBuren street, Friday afternoon, from 2 to 5.

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

Milo Thomas was down from Corunna, Monday. He and the editor of this paper have proved their ability to swap hats without any inconvenience. It is a compliment to both of 'em

We don't know but it is rather late to congratulate Denny Johnson, but the fact is there's a little boy at his house, that is now about two weeks old. For fear he should forget it, we put this in as a reminder.

If any one doubts that this country was once the bottom of a sea, let them examine a couple of lake stones brought in the other day by Wm. Carr. He picked them up on his farm, and they are worn smooth by the action of the water

The Chautauqua Circle will meet Saturday with Miss Ramsey. Program: Outline History of Rome, Mrs. Baldwin, leader; Preparatory and College Latin, Mrs. McQuiston; Life in Mediæval Italy, Mrs. Hebel; The Railroads and the State, Mrs. McKay.

Charley Picker is as faithful as Yesbera's regulator. Every day he is on duty with his iron scraper, scraping the mud off the crossings. But about the time Charley gets used to this, we will have a change of weather, and he can lay up the old scraper to rest.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

This mild winter produces some queer events. Monday morning Mrs. Charles Cool discoverd that she was in possession of an old hen and a fine brood of little chicks. The mother hen had stolen her nest away under Rev. H. A. Sawyer's barn and hatched out her little chicks and then took them home. This is a strange coincidence for the month of January, but wonders never cease.

I want to tell suffering humanity what was the matter with me and what cured me. I broke out with rash the most uncomfortable thing I ever had because it itched so and I had to fan my hands to get ease. You could not see the veins on my hands there were so many pimples on them. I used one bottle Loose's Fluid Extract of Red Clover and was completely cured.

T. A. Smith,
St. C & L. W. Ry. Toledo, O.

Happy Hoosiers. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at Robbins & McCords drug store. 2

Our friend Henry Myers, one of the most prosperous farmers of Butler township, had a neat trick played on him by his neighbors last Friday. His birthday came on Thursday, and fearing a surprise, he absented himself but got back the next day all right, and his friends who had got hold of the trick, were ready to turn the tables on him. They came in and took him by storm. He had to give up beaten, and they all had a splendid time. Mr. Myers has finished a fine residence, one of the very finest in that section of the county. They gave him as a token of esteem a fine chair in which he can now sit and meditate on future plans to avoid being surprised on the second of January.

The south mill of Auburn has started up again under a competent miller, and is now in full blast. Kichler and Co. is the firm that will run it. Mr. Kichler is a practical miller, and a first-class workman, whose brand of flour has been on sale here for some time and thoroughly tested. He has been furnishing us with the fine Churubusco mills flour, at Hoff's and Stamet's. He has been here for some weeks overhauling the mill, putting in new machinery, and getting everything ready to run. They will do custom work of all kinds, buy grain, and do all kinds of first-class milling work. They have full rollers for making roller process flour, and will not be outdone by anyone. Our people should give the new men and new mill a trial.

A prominent physician of New York city writes as follows of the now almost universal malady: "The Grippe or Influenza has rapidly spread through northern Europe and is now epidemic in many portions of our own country. Its symptoms are inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose which may extend to a portion of the structure of the lungs, with cough, sneezing, running at the nose, and there may be severe aching pains and high fever. It is probably caused by a minute animal or vegetable germ which is inhaled from the atmosphere. The most effective way to treat it is to prevent it, that is to get the membrane of the nose and throat in such condition that it will resist the poisonous action of the germs, and also to destroy the germs which may have been inhaled before they have accomplished their work. A simple means of prevention will consist in evaporating a few tablespoonfuls of Pond's Extract, and inhaling the vapor morning and evening. The Pond's Extract may be poured into a tin cup, the cup held over the flame of a lamp (a nurse's lamp for heating milk will do), and the nose applied to the top of the cup so that all the vapor may be inhaled."

Miss Vieve Griswold started for Michigan Tuesday. She will visit relatives at Eaton Rapids for a time.

Mrs. Lamport, mother of Rev. H. M. Lamport, returned Friday to her home at Osceola, after a stay of several weeks.

Berry Lowry, was in town last week, Friday and Saturday. He is now a blooming postmaster, and being a Michigan man, of course, hurrahs for Alger.

High or low tariff does not concern poultry, America's greatest industry, but Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure does. Sold "no cure, no pay" by Robbins & McCord.

The fine printing of the Chicago Weekly Herald makes its illustrations—unexcelled by those of any other newspaper—very attractive. The Herald is only one dollar per year.

J. J. Martin and Elza Shaffer, were among the Albionites that came down to attend the railroad meeting. Both are looking well, and bring word that their families are in good health.

W. P. Myers, of Kendallville, was here a few hours Saturday. From a short conversation with him, we judge that, next to business, Cleveland and tariff reform, are as near his heart as ever.

W. H. McIntosh came home Monday evening from Chicago. His train was two hours late, owing to the usual wreck at Albion. The passenger train ran into a freight, the rear end of which had got loose from the rest. There was no one hurt.

The great popularity of Ayer's Pills as a cathartic is due no less to their promptness and efficacy than to their coating of sugar and freedom from any injurious effects. Children take them readily. See Ayer's Almanac for this year, just out.

Weak eyes and inflamed lids indicate an impure condition of the blood. The best remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It vitalizes the blood, regulates the secretions, and expels all scrofulous humors from the system. Try it. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

We have received a copy of the Helena, Montana, Journal, a big number which would be a surprise to those who think that far-off city is a mere frontier settlement. We suppose we have to thank our young friend Charlie Jackman for this, as it bore the name of the firm with which he is connected.

R. M. Lockhart read a paper at the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture at Indianapolis last week, in which he said that DeKalb and Steuben counties had sold not less than 300,000 bushels of apples last season. One man he said had received at the rate of $65 per acre for the land occupied by his orchard.

Census enumerators are not paid by the day, but by the piece, or item. For each inhabitant listed, they receive 2 cents; for each death recorded, 2 cents; for each form returned, 15 cents; for each industry reported, 20 cents; for each soldier or sailor reported, 5 cents. The district officer gets a salary of $1,000 for the year's work.

Mr. Henry C. Berghoff, who will be a candidate for state treasurer was in the city Tuesday, getting acquainted with his friends. He is one of Ft. Wayne's best citizens, a man of the strictest integrity, and who stands high, wherever known. He is a gentleman of fine appearance, and made a good impression on the few of our people he was able to meet. We hope he will come again and let the people see more of him.

Art. Steele and Clyde Nedry, opened their temperance billiard hall in the Farmers' Bank building, Friday evening, and quite a number were present to witness the ivory balls cued over the new tables. The young men have things in fine shape, everything is in neatness, even in the five front windows are hung fine lace curtains. These young men are well known in Auburn, as strictly temperate, and their billiard parlor will be conducted in a strictly tempearte manner.

Sarsaparilla.—The facility with which spurious medicines have been palmed off upon the public is apt to impair confidence in a genuine article. We can, however, assure our readers, that in Wm. Johnston & Co's excellent preparation of Sarsaparilla, they will suffer no disappointment. It is the preparation of a practical chemist and we are bold to say, unrivaled in its soothing and efficacious influence on the blood. Such an article, at this season of a year, when the blood needs purifying, is indispensable.—Detroit Tribune, 1872.

Wide Awake for January, is as ever, a neat little magazine for children. And not so little either, for it contains nearly as much reading matter as the large, standard magazines. And such beautiful pictures! They will prove a treasure to the young people, and will interest older ones. The cutest thing by the way, is the picture of "Photographing Lawrence's Baby." It is the real thing, and will make every photographer who sees it think of the thousand-and-one babies that have come before him for pictures. But the whole book is good. D. Lothrop & Co. Boston, $2.40 a year.

The Waterloo Press of last week says: "If Congressman McClellan wishes to do a good work he should introduce a bill construing the arrears of pension act as regards the date of filing a pension claim to mean the date the original declaration was executed before the Clerk of Court. Such a law would be just, for the reason that the soldier himself should be the judge as to when he desired to file his claim, and any delay on the part of his attorney, or miscarriage of the mails would be overcome. Another law should be passed, and that is to appropriate a certain fund for the payment of bounties, back pay and like claims in the second auditor's office. Under the present law these claims are prosecuted and when allowed they must go over until the meeting of Congress, when the auditor asks for an allowance to pay them. This often works a hardship to the claimant."

Mrs. Etta Finke has been quite sick with the LaGrippe.

The wind Sunday night, blew down the windmill near the Lake Shore depot.

Frank Ashley, who has been in Toledo on business for some time past, is at home now for a few days.

Mrs. Jacob Lutz, and Miss Alice Wolf, her niece, both of Waterloo, called up to see the Courier folks last Wednesday.

Word comes as we go to press that Mrs. Wallace, mother of T. H. Tomlinson died at her home in Corunna yesterday.

Everybody seems to be going to the "Deestrick Skule" at the Opera House Friday evening. The reserve seats are about all taken.

George Shugars got back from California last Saturday. He is looking well, and came back carrying his overcoat on his arm and with a palm leaf fan in his hand. It was warm in California and was warm here.

John Leasure was down with "La Grippe" Sunday. It was the genuine, simon pure, article, and he wrestled with it manfully, for two or three days. Thanks to good care of his wife, who is a physician, he comes up smiling now and feels all the better for it.

One week from next Sunday, the pulpit at the Presbyterian church will be occupied by a minister from Cincinnati, who is connected with the colored people's school at Chester, Pa. He is appointed by the general assembly to travel in the interest of that school.

We have a letter from Prof. Latta of Purdue, asking if the people of Auburn and vicinity desire a "farmers institute." Let our people and especially the farmers talk the matter up. It can be made a very useful and interesting gathering. The state pays the lecturer and the people have only to pay for use of hall.

Jan. 20, is the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the State University at Bloomington. This dates the institution from Jan. 20, 1820. "Foundation Day" will be appropriately observed there. Thanks to Prof. Hoffman, for an invitation to attend. Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to be there.

N. W. Blackburn, of Garrett, who is serving on the trial jury, took advantage of the lay off last week to go and see his people near Lexington, Ky. He says vegetation was quite spring-like, there, peach trees, etc., showing blossoms. He was near the place where so many valuable horses were destroyed by fire. Out of thirty-one, only three were saved. Among those lost was the famous Belle Boyd, that was recently sold for $51,000. It was said the cries of the poor beasts, were heart-rending, as the flames reached them. But it was impossible to rescue them.

L. B. Rose, trustee of Troy township, was here Monday. He came to resign his office, as he has sold his farm, and will move to Butler, where he will go into business. He has been a faithful and efficient officer, and served his people well. A new trustee will have to be appointed by the auditor. Mr. Rose, named as a good man, his opponent at the last election, John B. Bryant, who though of opposite politics to Mr. Rose, he thought should be considered as having been at the last election, the second choice of the people.

We are in receipt of a letter from R. V. Potter, of Blakeslee, Ohio, in which he says we misrepresented him by an article in a recent issue of the Courier. We can assure Mr. Potter, such was not our intention. We suppose we had been correctly informed, and in fact, we have no doubt our informant also thought the statement correct, that Mr. Potter was a mason still. But as he says he has not been one for several years, we freely give him the benefit of saying so. We believe this is the substance of the point at issue, and hope the matter will now be satisfactory to all concerned. As Mr. Potter has the reputation of being a man of truthfulness, we have no doubt but he is stating the facts.

The boys are getting pretty fresh about town, on pleasant days when they could play out of doors. Last Saturday a lot of them in the south part of town got into the usual loud quarrel, when a fight ensued. A girl came out of a house near by to help quell the disturbance, and she too got mixed up in the racket. Then she took a club and went for one of the boys. As she went to strike him, he warded off the blow, knocking the club against her head, striking her near the eye. The boy was arrested and brought before 'Squire Ralston, but it appearing the girl was about as much to blame as he was, the case was dismissed. But boys should bear in mind that people don't like to be disturbed in their homes by so much loud and boisterous play, and still louder quarreling in which they so often indulge.

When Gen. Reub Williams says he "never heard of Nicholas Ensley" till he became a candidate for state pension agent, is putting it mildly, a very suspicious assertion, and one that leads his readers to think he is a trifle blinded by jealousy. We cannot believe that an editor as prominent as Reub. Williams, never heard of another prominent republican within fifty miles of him, who had twice been county treasurer, and served four years in the state senate from a district almost adjoining that of Warsaw, and who was almost the successful candidate of his party for treasurer of state, before a recent republican state convention. Does Williams claim that he was not at that state convention? And if not there, did not he, a prominent republican editor, read the report of its doings? Again, did he know nothing of the long struggle to make Harrison the United States Senator from Indiana, by a legislature that was unquestionably democratic by a majority of two? In all these things Mr. Ensley was prominent, and here is a very prominent republican editor in a neighboring district, claiming he "never heard of Ensley." If Reub. Williams ever said this, as is claimed, then he is open to criticism to say the least.

We are late on account of the delinquent tax list.

Mrs. Ball, of Canton, Ohio, is visiting her brother, Mr. Swisher.

Mrs. A. Wheelock starts to day to make a visit to her sister Mrs. Murdock, at Rochester, N. Y.

After several changes from hot to cold, the weather took a turn Wednesday night, and there was an inch of loose snow the next morning with signs for more.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Ehlers. Subject, the Assyrians; Mrs. Davenport, leader. Paper, Conquest of Babylon by Cyrus, Mrs. Houser; reading, from Will Carleton, Mrs. McCord.

Mr. Ensley started for Indianapolis Sunday evening and expected to take charge of his office sometime this week. He had already given bonds, $150,000, his bondsmen making affidavit that they represented $450,000 of property. This shows they feel able to guarantee Uncle Sam the faithful discharge of the duties of the office and a correct accounting for the moneys that are handled, and further that they have confidence in Mr. Ensley. It is likely he will make his son O. P. Ensley, chief deputy, that being the most responsible position. It will be a good choice in every way, as he is in every way well qualified. We believe the important duties of this great office will be as well attended to as they have ever been. And that is no disrespect to Col. Zollinger who leaves the office with the good will of all. In his hands the veterans have felt that their interests have been well cared for, and now there will be but a change of persons, the business going into other hands that will look to their interests and to Uncle Sam's just as carefully.

Settle Up.

All persons indebted to me on account are earnestly requested to call and settle, as I need the money.

James A. Potter.

Closing Sales!

25 and 40 per cent

DISCOUNTS

To show you what we are doing to make room for our new spring goods.

$1.00 Gents' All-Wooll Scarlen Underwear, reduced to 75 cts.

$1.00 Gents' white Conde Brown mixed Underwear for 75 cents each.

Line of Gents' all-wool half hose, Price 25 cents per pair, reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Line of Ladies' fine Cashmere hose 25 cents per pair, now reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Mrs. Jones & Son,

WEST SIDE OF SQUARE.

AUBURN, - INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings, of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

A LAMB IN A CORNER.

A Complicated Story of Two Forged Notes and One Much Embarrassed Man.

Toledo special: The story of the two forged notes on Richard Brown, the well-known iron man of Youngstown and Cleveland, contained in the Associated Press dispatches from Cleveland, first called public attention here to the matter. Joseph Lamb, the payee of one of the alleged forged notes, is cashier of the United States Express Company's office here, which he has held for twenty years. He says that the Miss Blythe, the payee of the other forged note, is a distant relative of his living in Cleveland, who, a year ago, made arrangements with him whereby he was to take charge of certain property to which she had fallen heir, and of which certain parties wished to defraud her. The property, valued at $25,000, came to her some way through her sister, who, she alleged, was the first wife of Mr. Richard Brown, of the iron firm of Cleveland & Brown, Cleveland. The money was partly given, she said, in consideration for a care of an imbecile child of Mr. Brown's first wife, which she (Miss Blythe) had nursed and reared. Mr Lamb agreed to assist Miss Blythe. He has been engaged to-day in endeavoring to get his wife to mortgage their homestead, which is in her name, to secure the banks. The tide of popular feeling so far is with Lamb, under the idea that he has been made a victim. It is evident, however, that the whole story is not yet out.

Railroad Accident at Milton, Ohio.

A passenger train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad ran into a box car at Milton station, north of Lima, Ohio, throwing the engine into the ditch on its side, and piling the baggage and express cars on top of it. Two passenger coaches were also derailed, but the passengers escaped with a few bruises. Engineer John Herbes, was caught under the engine and the hot water and steam from a broken pipe poured out on him. His fireman, Fred Harold, was thrown from the cab clear of the wreck and seriously hurt. Both were taken to Lima for treatment, and are resting comfortably. Express Messenger J. A. Hoffman, of Toledo, had a shoulder dislocated and was badly bruised and cut. He was taken home to Toledo. A box-car was blown from the siding to the main track by the heavy wind. The engineer saw it and reversed his engine, but could not stop in time.

It Wasn't Her Fault.

Clarence Muller, of New York, a conspicuous member of the Liederkranz Club and a reputed millionaire, is being sued for $100,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage by Miss Caroline J. Cammerer, of Philadelphia. Miss Cammerer alleges that her engagement to Muller dates from December, 1885, and that it was not through any fault of hers that the contract failed of fulfillment. Judge Ingraham in the Supreme Court Chambers heard arguments by both sides and denied Col. Ingersoll's motion for defendant to dismiss the case on ground that Miss Cammerer had once released Mr. Muller from his engagement. The case is still on.

The White Caps at Work.

The other morning a party of thirty masked men broke open the door of a house occupied by Andy Slate, a well-to-do farmer, living near Crotherville, Ind., and pulling him from his bed, demanded why he disobeyed the orders previously given him to leave the country. He said he had done nothing for which he should leave. Thereupon one of the White Caps fired at him, the ball passing through the body and inflicting probably a fatal wound. The raiders then left, going to the house of John Warner, whom they hauled from bed, tied him to a tree and gave a severe whipping. No cause for the outrage is known.

Death of a Noted Man.

Hon. William Fleming, Ex-State Treasurer of Indiana, died at his home in Fort Wayne, of acute asthma. Mr. Fleming has held many public offices and was a leading Democratic politician of Indiana, his advice and counsel being asked by the National Committee. He was the promoter of many of Fort Wayne's best industries, and while he was building up a large fortune for himself did not overlook anything that would benefit his own city. He leaves a large family to mourn his loss.

Cannot Return.

Assistant Secretary Tichenor has directed the Collector of Customs at Fort Benton, Mont., to discontinue the practice of issuing to Chinese persons about to leave the United States certificates that they are qualified to return. He says that a careful reading of the act of October 1, 1888, indicates that Chinese laborers are absolutely excluded from entering the United States whether they have heretofore been residents of the country or not.

Ohio Republicans' Candidate for Senator.

The Ohio Republican caucus to nominate a candidate for United States Senator was held at Columbus, and out of seventy-one Republican members fifty-nine attended, twelve being absent. Ex-Gov. Foster and Wm. H. Gibson were nominated, and Mr. Foster was selected on the first ballot.

Crushed by the Cars.

Barney Helwig, a 15-year-old lad of Peru, Ind., while stealing a ride on a Wabash freight train, fell between the cars and was terribly crushed.

Heavy Forgery Discovered at Cleveland.

Richard Brown, the well-known Youngstown (Ohio) iron man, and member of the firm of Cleveland, Brown & Co., iron brokers of Cleveland, has just discovered the existence of two forged notes bearing his signature. One is for $5,000 and the other for $30,000, the former being made payable to G. Blythe, and the latter to Joseph Lamb. Both notes were sent from Toledo to a bank in Cleveland for collection.

Fifty Thousand Miners on Strike.

A London cable says: Fifty thousand miners are now on strike in the Durham district for an advance of fifteen per cent. in wages. The price of coal is rapidly advancing in England, and it is believed that the miners will gain their point.

PORTUGAL ACCEPTS.

England's Demands Acceded To Under Threats of War.

A Lisbon cable says: Glynn Petre, the English Minister, imparted to Senhor Gomez, Minister of Foreign Affairs, England's ultimatum demanding the recall of the Portuguese forces, officials, and expeditions of every kind from the banks of the Shire, beyond the confluence of the Ruo and south of the Zambesi and from Mashonaland. If Portugal failed to reply in twenty-four hours the British legation would board the Enchantress and await a reply at Vigo. The King immediately convened a cabinet council to consider the ultimatum. The government replied to Minister Glynn Petre that Portugal, yielding to strong pressure from a power of the first rank, being too weak to withstand it, would order the withdrawal of the Portuguese from the Shire and Mashonaland, while reserving all rights to the Portuguese crown in these territories. It is asserted that this decision was further influenced by reports of an intention on the part of the British to make naval demonstrations at Quillimane, Delagoa Bay, and St. Vincent. It is reported that the opposition in the Cortes will make a strong attack on the Government for its attitude in this matter. It is rumored that Senhor Gomez, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, will resign.

EIGHTEEN MILLION BUSHELS SHORT.

The World's Supply of Wheat Has Decreased That Amount in a Year.

The current number of Bradstreet's contains the following exhibit of wheat stocks in bushels in the world up to Jan. 5, 1890:

United States and Canada, east of Rocky Mountains	54,227,000
United States, west of the Rockies	7,565,000
In Australia and New Zealand (cable to Bradstreet's)	5,528,000
Afloat for Europe in first hands, United Kingdom, Odessa, French ports, Paris, Berlin, Danzig, Stettin (Beerbohm's cable to Bradstreet's)	48,512,000
Total	115,832,000

Last year at the same date the grand total was 133,883,000 bushels. This shows a decrease in stocks of wheat in the United States, Canada, Australia, Europe, and afloat for Europe, as compared with one year ago, amounting to 18,051,000 bushels, or 13½ per cent. The exhibit gathers interest from the now admitted short stocks in Russia, the decline in Russian exports, and short supplies of wheat and rye in Germany. The weather is expected to shut off Russian shipments to the United Kingdom for part of the winter, and California stocks are not readily available at Liverpool. The Atlantic ports, then, it may be inferred, may have to be relied on.

ROYALTY IN A COFFIN.

The German and English Courts Ordered to Go in Mourning.

A Berlin cable says: The Emperor and Empress and other members of the imperial family visited the chamber in which the remains of the Empress are lying. Services were held in the chamber at night. After the conclusion of these services the servants of the Court Chamberlain conveyed the body to the central gate. Here the officers of the Fourth Grenadiers, of which regiment the dead Empress was honorary Colonel, received the body and escorted it to the chapel in their schloss. Court mourning has been ordered for three months, and the period of general mourning has been fixed at six weeks. The body of the dead Empress has been embalmed, a wax death mask made from her face, and her face was also sketched by Werner. Plackhorst sketched the death chamber. Queen Victoria and the Prince and Princess of Wales have telegraphed condolences. The English Court will also wear mourning for six weeks.

THEIR CREDENTIALS DEFECTIVE.

Montana's Four Senators-Elect Leave for Washington.

A Helena (Mont.) dispatch says: All the Senators have left for Washington. Sanders and Power applied to Gov. Toole before leaving for certificates of election, which the Governor refused to issue, having already given certificates to Clark and Maginnis. The applicants then induced the Secretary of State to attach the seal of the State to the certified proceedings of the Senate and House, which the Republicans took to Washington in place of the Governor's certificate. The Democratic certificates lack the State seal, which the Republican Secretary refused to attach. The Republicans, it is said, propose to declare the seat of McNamara, Democrat, vacant on the ground that, being a post trader, he is a government official, and therefore ineligible to membership. This done the Senate will stand nine Republicans and seven Democrats.

CONDITION OF SAMUEL J. RANDALL.

The Ex-Speaker Said to Have a Fair Chance of Recovery.

Al Fletcher, of Philadelphia, who held confidential relations at the capital for many years with Samuel J. Randall, called on Mr. Randall the other day and brings an encouraging report of his condition. He says Randall's health is not so bad as people have been led to believe. His mind is perfectly clear and active and he closely follows and takes lively interest in public events. Recently three physicians made an examination at Randall's request and after consultation informed him that he was not suffering from any incurable disease and had a good prospect of recovery. Mr. Randall himself thinks he will be well enough to take his seat in Congress by the middle of February.

NEW CŒUR D'ALENE TREATY.

By It the Indians Convey to the Government 222,000 Acres of Valuable Land.

Final papers of treaty between the United States and the Cœur d'Alene Indians have been signed. The treaty conveys 222,000 acres of the most valuable part of the Cœur d'Alene reservation, embracing the largest portion of the beautiful lake of the same name and much rich mineral and fine timber land. The Indians all signed the treaty willingly. The papers signed were final for all treaties—the one negotiated in 1887, and also the one of last August. The first treaty includes the land upon which Spokane Falls and Farmington, Wash., both stand, but which has never been paid for. The land of the last treaty is a twelve-mile strip on the north side of the reservation, part of which lies across the river from Post Falls.

PLEASED WITH PORTUGAL'S REPLY.

Lord Salisbury Thinks It Affords a Basis for the Settlement of the Trouble.

At Lisbon, it is semi-officially stated that Lord Salisbury, the British Prime Minister, regards the reply of Senhor Gomes, Portuguese Minister of Foreign Afairs, to the last British note relative to the Anglo-Portuguese dispute concerning territory in East Africa as affording the basis for an amicable settlement of the trouble. All the political groups in the Cortes concur in the opinion that the Serpa Pinto incident will not retard the two governments in reaching a satisfactory agreement.

RUINED BY A DEFALCATION.

The Glamorgan Iron Company Assigns—To Redeem Fraudulent Paper.

At Philadelphia a general assignment for the benefit of creditors was filed by the Glamorgan Iron Company. The liabilities of the company are $200,000, consisting wholly of legitimate paper issued by the company and indorsed by the principal stockholders. The assets are estimated at $250,000. The $72,500 fraudulent paper confessed to have been issued by the former Treasurer, C. B. Wighton, will be settled pro rata by R. B. Wighton, father of the defaulter, and the principal stockholders. The affairs of the concern will be wound up, and C. B. Wighton will not be prosecuted.

Parnell's Answer.

A London cable says: Mr. Parnell takes notice of the Ennis Board's vote of confidence in Captain O'Shea's charges only to say that this proceeding may be most advantageously met with the deadly weapon of silent contempt. He says: "I intend to defend the action. At the same time I utterly and entirely deny all culpability, for, to use the words of 'Stonewall' Jackson, there are times when the insignificance of an accuser is lost in the ingratitude of an accusation."

Dr. Doellinger is Dead.

A Munich cable says: Dr. Doellinger, the head of the "Old Catholic" movement in Southern Germany and one of the famous opponents of the doctrine of Papal infallibility, is dead. He was taken with influenza about ten days since.

Want the Free Zone Abolished.

Citizens of El Paso, Texas, have petitioned Congress to provide by treaty for the abolition of the Free Zone, the admission into which of goods free of duty is detrimental to the interests of American merchants.

A Big Bond Case.

Judge Ellis has ordered the Louisiana State Board of Liquidation to meet and pass upon the case of Hope & Co. of Amsterdam, holders of over $4,000,000 of bonds for which they claim that the State of Louisiana is liable.

National Banks Chartered.

Licenses have been issued to the First National Bank of Brady, Texas, capital $50,000; the First National of Clyde, Ohio, capital $50,000; the German National of Oshkosh, Wis., capital $100,000; and the West End National of Washington, capital $200,000.

Blackburn Again Chosen Senator.

Senator Blackburn has been re-elected Senator by the Kentucky Legislature in joint session. The votes of the Republicans, twenty-one in number, were cast for A. H. Stewart, of Prestonburg. Blackburn's vote was 105.

Horses Killed by Electric-Light Wires.

At St. Louis, Mo., several horses have been killed and many small fires have been started in the last few days by electric wires which were broken by a storm, and which are said to be in a demoralized condition.

Fourteen Drowned in a Caisson.

A Louisville (Ky.) dispatch says: Fourteen men employed on the construction of the new Louisville and Jeffersonville bridge were drowned by the sinking of the caisson.

Furniture in Ashes.

The furniture establishment of Raffson & Rugier, at Sandusky, Ohio, has been destroyed by fire. Loss on stock, $75,000; insurance, $50,000. Loss on building, $25,000; insurance, $15,000.

Boys on a Strike.

The boys at the Sumner Glass-Bottle Works at Steubenville, Ohio, have struck for an advance of $1 per week. The firm refused to grant the advance and the works have shut down.

Marriage of Miss Drexel.

Miss Elizabeth L. Drexel, eldest daughter of the late Francis A. Drexel, one of the wealthiest women in America, has been married at Philadelphia to Walter George Smith, a lawyer of that city.

Wilson Will Succeed Himself.

An Annapolis (Md.) dispatch says: In the Democratic caucus Senator Wilson was renominated by acclamation to succeed himself as United States Senator.

Mother and Two Children Cremated.

The house of Thomas Henderson, at Webster Springs, W. Va., has been destroyed by fire. Mrs. Henderson and two children burned to death.

Railways in French Colonies.

The French Government is about to negotiate a loan of 100,000 francs for the purpose of constructing railways in Tonquin and other French colonies.

Two Killed and Three Injured.

The boiler in the Cuero Brass and Iron Foundry at Cuero, Texas, exploded, killing two men outright and injuring three other persons.

Suicide of an Eleven-Year-Old Lad.

At San Francisco, Clement Flint, the 11-year-old son of a lawyer, committed suicide. He ran away from school, and feared punishment.

Anarchy in Belgium.

Belgium is said to be fast tending toward anarchism, desperate workmen giving vent daily to their recklessness by violence and crime.

Burial of Empress Augusta.

The Empress Augusta's remains were buried with ceremonials alike to those of her late husband and son, but with less military display.

An Aged Hardware Man Expires.

Charles O. Strong, senior member of the St. Paul hardware firm of Strong & Hackett, died, aged 81.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.50
Good	3.50	@ 4.50
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.25	@ 3.75
Sheep	4.00	@ 5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .77
Corn—No. 2	.28½	@ .29½
Oats—No. 2	.20	@ .20½
Rye—No. 2	.44	@ .45
Butter—Choice Creamery	.23	@ .25
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.09	@ .10
Eggs—Fresh	.14½	@ .15½
Potatoes—Choice new, per bu.	.37	@ .42
Pork—Mess	9.25	@ 9.75
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—Cash	.74	@ .75
Corn—No. 3	.26½	@ .27½
Oats—No. 2 White	.22	@ .23
Rye—No. 2	.45	@ .45½
Barley—No. 2	.45	@ .46
Pork—Mess	9.25	@ 9.75
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.00
Hogs	3.00	@ 3.75
Sheep	3.50	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.81½	@ .82
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.29	@ .30
Oats—No. 2 White	.25	@ .25½
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.81	@ .81½
Corn—Cash	.30	@ .30½
Oats—No. 2 White	.22	@ .23
NEW YORK.
Cattle	3.75	@ 5.25
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.25
Sheep	4.25	@ 6.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .87
Corn—No. 2	.38½	@ .39½
Oats—Mixed Western	.27	@ .30
Pork—Prime Mess	10.50	@ 11.00
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.25	@ 5.00
Hogs	3.25	@ 3.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.77½	@ .78½
Corn	.25	@ .25½
Oats	.19½	@ .20
Rye—No. 2	.42	@ .43
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping Steers	3.50	@ 4.75
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@ 3.75
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .77
Corn—No. 1 White	.30	@ .31
Oats—No. 2 White	.23½	@ .24½
CINCINNATI.
Hogs	3.25	@ 3.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .77
Corn—No. 2	.32	@ .33
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.22½	@ .23½
Rye—No. 2	.48	@ .52
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.00	@ 4.75
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.50
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	.91	@ .92
Corn—No. 2	.33½	@ .34½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Patents Issued to Indiana Inventors.

Patents have been granted Hoosier inventors, as follows: James W. Rader, Red Key, washing machine; Joseph Balsley, Seymour, clamping machine for wood-working machines and clamping device for saw tables; Jefferson M. Belote, Greenfield Mills, wire and picket-fence machine; Simon L. Bray, assignor of one-half to B. Gugenheim, Evansville, combined jug-handle and stopper; Calvin R. Davis, assignor of one-half to L. F. Kimberlin, Indianapolis, cultivator; William J. Hogue, La Otto, wind mill; Charles A. Jones and C. L. Bothwell, Lagrange, swinging chair; James Miller, Lafayette, car door; William Nehering, assignor of one-half to G. W. Warren, Evansville, soldering-iron heater; Herman Prather, Jonesville, corn-planter; William Brady, Sellersburg, separating apparatus; Frederick Siedentopf, assignor of one-half to J. H. Briggs, J. N. Phillips, A. Grimes, J. Q. Sutton, J. B. Reynolds, J. F. Gulick and J. Charper, Terre Haute, apparatus for making salt; Samuel D. Straw, Elkhart, wind mill; John W. Titus, Eckerty, combined roller, harrow and marker; Charles B. Wanamaker, assignor of one-half to A. G. Cox, Indianapolis, pencil sharpener; Frank T. Zimmerman, Auburn, wind mill.

Minor State Items.

—Oil in paying quantities has been struck seven miles northwest of Noblesville.

—Miss Susan Hines, residing near Bremen, committed suicide by hanging. No cause is known.

—William Britz, an Evansville merchant, swallowed carbolic acid with suicidal intent, and will probably die.

—The five trainmen injured in the recent railway collision at Kokomo are improving rapidly, and will all recover.

—A street railway from Warsaw to Spring Fountain Park will be constructed as soon as the proper franchise is secured.

—Stephen Gapen, of Thorntown, dropped dead near his home while returning with his wife from a visit to Greensburg.

—Judge Noyes, of LaPorte, has appointed Albert E. Thornton receiver of the Continental Insurance Company of Michigan City.

—The Standard Oil Company has purchased ground at Crawfordsville and will build several large tanks for coal. This place will be made a distributing point.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson, of Golden City, Mo., are in Lafayette to answer to a charge of embezzling $850 from Lulu Minnear, Mrs. Emerson's former ward.

—Mrs. James Strobridge, residing near Greenfield, dropped dead of heart disease. She leaves a husband and four small children, one of them being only four weeks old.

—Diphtheria is raging to an alarming extent at Sweetser. A number of cases have proven fatal. The public schools at that place were closed to check the spread of the disease.

—George W. Alford, elected from Martin and Daviess counties to fill the unexpired senatorial term of C. K. Tharp, claims to have been elected for four years, and will defend his claim in the courts.

—Miss Lota Pitchard obtained judgment in the Crawford County Circuit Court for $1,150 damages against the L., E. & St. L. Railroad Company for injuries received last June at a dangerous railroad crossing.

—Henry Mowry, a farmer, about sixty-five years of age, residing four miles west of Winchester, in felling a tree was caught and fearfully mangled and bruised about the head and body. His recovery is doubtful.

—The date of the spring meeting of the Rushville Trotting and Pacing Association has been fixed for June 10th to 13th. Liberal purses will be offered, and the new mile track and grounds adjoining the city will be dedicated to the trotting and pacing interests.

—Edwin Morrison, 17 years old, a son of William H. Morrison, was struck and instantly killed, at Hammond, by the fast mail train on the Michigan Central road. He stepped off the east-bound track to get out of the way of a freight, when the incoming mail train struck him, completely serving his head from his body.

—Fifteen years ago William Guthat, a Frenchman, suddenly disappeared from LaPorte, leaving considerable property. Recently a peddler appeared at LaPorte, claiming to be Guthat, and is taking steps to secure the property, which his wife deeded some years ago to one Cumro. Mrs. Guthat is a victim of intermittent insanity.

—At the annual meeting of Indiana coal operators, held at Terre Haute, the following officers were elected: President, S. M. Yeomans; Vice President, J. Smith Talley; Secretary and Treasurer, W. E. Eppert. The matter of company stores was discussed, and the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Hancock vs. Yadden came in for its share of attention.

—William Whitlock, employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, at Fort Wayne, was caught between the cars and so badly crushed that he cannot live. He has a large family.

—Fred Horn, aged 17, caught his right hand in a cording machine at the Muncie Bagging Company's mills, and the member was slowly chopped to pieces by the sharp steel teeth. In attempting to free himself he pulled the muscles out of his arm to the shoulder. It was a horrible sight, and the boy suffered frightfully.

—The large paper mill at Knightstown resumed operation last week under the new management. Extensive improvements have been made in the machinery, etc., and the mill has now almost double its former capacity.

—A stranger applied at the residence of County Clerk G. E. Miller, of Columbus, for something to eat. He was well dressed, and while Mrs. Miller was preparing his meal he took a pocket-book containing $15 in cash and a check for $15. The theft was not discovered until some time afterward, and the villain made good his escape.

—During the year just passed the Morgan County Clerk has issued 190 marriage licenses, and Judge Grubbs, of the Morgan Circuit Court, has granted fifteen decrees of divorce.

—Elmer Mandlin, a young man living at Williamstown, accidentally shot himself in the groin, making a severe if not dangerous wound. He had been firing his revolver, and thinking all the loads were out, attempted to put it into his pocket, when it was again discharged with the above result.

—A barn on the farm of Joe H. Kraft, about two miles north of New Albany, was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $6,000. Six blooded horses, one of which was alone worth $2,500, were consumed, together with nine buggies and other vehicles. The cause of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have been due to a lighted cigar having been left in the hay.

—Miss Emma Prewitt, of Cartersburg, who was injured in the wreck on the Big Four, near Morgantown, in August, 1887, has brought suit against the company for $10,000 in the Morgan Circuit Court. Henry Crone, a prominent farmer, near Martinsville, received a broken jaw and internal injuries in the same wreck, and has been offered $1,200 to compromise. He has not yet accepted.

—As Patrick McGee was employed at the Bee Line yards at Union City, shoveling coal from a car into a coal bin, a box car was shunted into the side track, striking the car in which he was standing. The concussion threw him on the track, when a car-wheel passed over his head, killing him instantly. He was about fifty-five years old, and leaves a widow, but no other family.

—About four hundred ex-Union soldiers, residents and members of the Service Pension Association, met at the Court House in Muncie, and indorsed Governor Hovey's appeal to Congress. Resolutions were passed strongly indorsing the Governor's address, after which a permanent organization was effected. Speeches were made by Hon. J. W. Ryan, Dr. Kemper, Dr. Good, Robert Snodgrass, W. H. Younts and others.

—William Stilley, Lynn Smith, and Harley Moore, of New Castle, were out hunting, when Moore was accidentally shot by Stilley. They were hunting in a thick woods, where they became separated. Stilley got up a covey of quails, which flew in the direction of young Moore, who was near by. He fired at the birds, the shot striking Moore in the face, inflicting serious wounds, and it is thought that one eye is permanently injured.

—Henry Hunter, of Spencer Township, Harrison County, was captured on the highway near his home a few nights ago by a band of "White Caps," and tied to a sapling and soundly beaten, the alleged reason for the punishment being that the victim failed to provide for his family. Hunter denies the charge, and states that he has always provided for his family. Several of the White Caps were recognized, and will be reported at the next sitting of the grand jury.

—Charles Kuryart, a prominent farmer of Pulaska County, and his neighbor, Ferdinand Gastings, in the adjoining county of Starke, quarreled over the boundary line of their farms. Gastings went to Kuryart's home, called him out, and shot him dead, and fired another load into the open door of the house, seriously wounding Kuryart's child. Gastings then walked a short distance from the house, reloaded his gun, sprung the trigger with a stick, and shot his own head off.

—John W. Cammins, a farmer living two miles south of Middletown, accidentally shot and killed himself at his home. He was preparing to go to a neighbor's to assist in the work of butchering. He had taken down his gun, and was in the act of putting a wad in the muzzle to protect it from the weather, when it was discharged, and the ball passed through his head from the mouth upward and backward. He died in a few minutes. He leaves a wife and several children.

—The first annual reunion of the Fort Wayne Division of the National Association of Ex-Prisoners of the War was held recently. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Capt. S. L. Lewis; Vice President, John A. Soliday; Secretary, J. W. Lynch, of Ossian; Treasurer, Capt. J. W. Clark. Gen. A. D. Streight, of Indianapolis, made a brilliant address in the afternoon. Hon. J. B. White also spoke entertainingly. In the evening a grand banquet was held at Standard Hall. The principal toasts were responded to by Gen. Streight, R. C. Bell, and Mason Long. There were many visitors from out of town.

—A. R. Hill, of Danville, Ill., and Benjamin F. Hayler, of Attica, Ind., have been employed to prosecute a civil suit against the thirty White Caps who took Rev. Lindsay out of his church, about six weeks ago, north of Covington. There was a long consultation in Hill's office as to the steps to be taken in the matter. The case will be commenced in the Circuit Court at Covington in a few days, and no doubt it will be transferred to the District Court at Indianapolis for final hearing. The prosecution claim that they can identify twenty-eight out of the thirty White Caps, and as there are wealthy farmers on both sides it is to be presumed there will be quite a determined litigation.

—A mulatto, giving his name as Charles Conor, which is clearly an assumed one, has victimized a number of negroes of New Albany out of considerable money by representing himself as a pension agent, with almost unlimited power in securing pensions, back pay and bounties for those members of the race who had served in the Federal army during the Civil War. He is thought to be the same adroit swindler who operated on a wholesale scale at Lexington, Ky., some two years ago, and carried off several thousands of dollars.

—The Allen County Farmers' Alliance was finally organized with 500 members. John M. Taylor, ex-County Treasurer, was elected President, and Wm. A. Kelsey, Secretary. The usual speeches denouncing trusts.

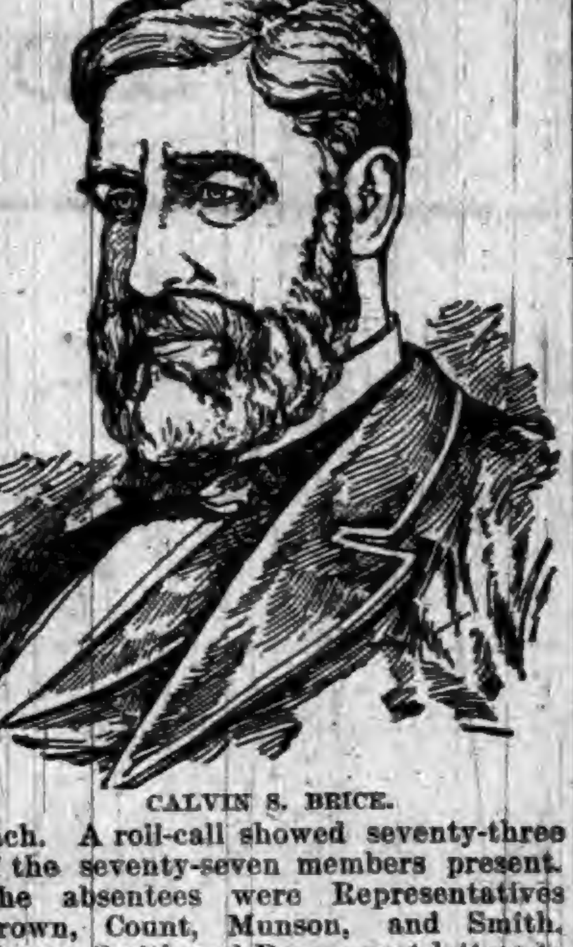
—Extensive additions will be made shortly to the plant of the New Albany structural iron-works and rail-mill, which will make these works the largest of the kind in the West. The establishment now employs about four hundred operatives, and the paoposed enlargement will greatly increase the number of employes.

C. S. BRICE A WINNER.

THE OHIO SENATORIAL CONTEST DECIDED.

Only Two Ballots Necessary to Decide the Matter—The Successful Contestant Thanks the Caucus for Its Action, and the Gathering Winds Up as a Ratification Meeting.

A Columbus (O.) dispatch says: C. S. Brice took the Senatorial prize in the Democratic Legislative caucus on the second ballot. The caucus was called to order by Senator Howells, chairman of the joint caucus committee, and Senator Perry N. Adams of Tiffin was selected permanent chairman. Nominating speeches were limited to five minutes each. A roll-call showed seventy-three of the seventy-seven members present. The absentees were Representatives Brown, Count, Munson, and Smith. Messrs. Smith and Brown sent letters to the caucus announcing they would support the caucus nominee.



CALVIN S. BRICE.

The names of Calvin S. Brice, Charles W. Baker, John A. McMahon, John H. Thomas, James E. Neal, Gen. Samuel F. Hunt and George I. Seney were put in nomination.

The first ballot resulted: Brice, 20; Thomas, 11; McMahon, 14; Baker, 6; Hunt, 2; Neal, 2; Seney, 2; McSweeney, 4; Geddes, 2; Outhwaite, 1.

After the second call of the roll had been begun Senator Corcoran withdrew the name of Hunt and was about to make a speech, when he was closed out under the rules and voted for Brice. Changes were rapid after this and the second ballot resulted: Brice, 53; Thomas, 3; McMahon, 13; Baker, 14; Seney, 2; Outhwaite, 1.

Monott, on behalf of Mr. Thomas, moved that the nomination be made unanimous, which was agreed to with a whirl and much enthusiasm.

Col. Brice was brought to the caucus by a committee and the caucus converted itself into a ratification meeting. Mr. Brice being introduced said:

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of this joint caucus: I tender to you my sincere and heartfelt acknowledgments for the greatest honor, it seems to me, to be possible to be bestowed upon a man reared in Ohio in sympathy with her people and her constitution. You will not expect me here and now, at the conclusion of this somewhat exciting contest through which we have passed, to do more than to acknowledge to you the weight of obligations which I bear to you and which I desire here and now to acknowledge. Whether the issue be a temporary one or a protracted one, I know I can test and determine the place where I will stand and where the Democratic party ought to be. [Applause.] Tariff reform is now of great interest. [Applause and cheers.] But, gentlemen, with tariff reform accomplished, new issues will demand the attention of legislators and where then will be the man whose only claim to Democracy is that of the temporary issue of a reform of the tax schedule. I think there is no one born and brought up in northwestern Ohio who is more in sympathy with every one and with every industry than I. [Applause.] I have in my time, man and boy, worked with, shared in the tasks and in the struggles and fears of every kind of laboring men in our northwestern country, and I have not lost touch with any one of them, and I include the temporary struggle—which I hope will never be repeated in our time—the temporary struggle for the preservation of our union in which I took a part, and I sympathize with the soldiers of our country whose memory I wish to have preserved, not only in legislation but in the hearts of our people."

Col. Brice was followed by Baker, Hunt, McMahon, and other unsuccessful competitors. They all accepted the situation with good grace and called for a united support to the nominee. During the speaking Mrs. Brice, her sister, and a friend came in to witness her husband's triumph. There is less bitterness shown at the conclusion of the present fight than in any that has been waged for the Senatorship in the last twelve years. The after meeting amounted to a jollification, and all signs of a bolt seemed to have disappeared. One of the most pleasant episodes of the after meeting was the finished talk of Gen. Hunt, who gave a brief story of his acquaintance with Brice from boyhood. The committee appointed to bring Mr. Thomas before the caucus was unable to find him. He is probably the most thoroughly disappointed man among the candidates.

Kniffin and Miss. Purcell Released.

Trenton (N. J.) dispatch: Dr. Arthur S. Kniffin and Emma Purcell, who are suspected of the murder of Myra Kniffin, were released from jail after a confinement of twenty-five hours. Their counsel, H. N. Barton and Chauncey H. Beazley, secured writs of habeas corpus from Chief Justice Beazley, and they were set free, each furnishing bail in the sum of $20,000. The coroner's inquest was adjourned until next Monday, the testimony containing nothing of a criminating nature against either of the suspects.

Telegraphic Brevities.

THE Florida Sub-Tropical exposition has opened at Jacksonville.

EX-GOV. WEST has been elected president of the Salt Lake City chamber of commerce.

QUEEN VICTORIA has the rheumatism and will not be able to open Parliament in person.

THE formal betrothal of Prince Albert Victor, eldest son of the Prince of Wales, to the Princess Mary of Teck, is arranged to take place after the Easter holidays.

THE Butler company, heavy dealers in mantels and tiles at No. 224 Wabash avenue, Chicago, have failed for about $25,000, with assets amounting to about $15,000.

MISS LETITIA ALDRICH, niece of Senator Stewart of Nevada, made her debut at the National theater, Washington, in the presence of a large and fashionable audience in Mrs. M. B. Seawell's play, "Maid Marian."

AT Indianapolis Judge Gresham entered a decree in the case of the Central Trust company of New York and Frank Sturgis against the Ohio, Indiana & Western railroad company ordering a foreclosure and sale of the company.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS AND WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted On—Gist of the Business.

IN the Senate, on the 7th inst., Mr. Voorhees offered a preamble and resolution reciting the newspaper report that Mr. Chambers, the United States District Attorney at Indianapolis, had interfered in his official capacity to prevent the arrest of W. W. Dudley on a charge of feloniously violating the election laws of Indiana at the last Presidential election, and directing the Attorney General to report what instructions the Department of Justice had issued to Chambers on the subject, and to furnish copies of the correspondence. He asked that the resolution go over one day, when he would submit some remarks upon it, which was agreed to. Mr. Morgan addressed the Senate on the subject of the bill heretofore introduced by Mr. Butler to provide for the emigration of persons of color from the Southern States. He closed by declaring it to be the duty of this nation, which once brought the negro in the chains of slavery from Africa, to assist him to return there and aid in building up the civilization, enlightenment and wealth of his native land. The Senate then went into executive session and shortly after adjourned. In the House Mr. McComas, of Maryland, offered a resolution that the House resolve itself into committee of the whole for the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill, the committee to be governed by the rules of the last Congress. Mr. Breckinridge raised the question of consideration against the resolution. The Speaker ruled that the question of consideration could not be raised against the resolution because the resolution was in the nature of a motion regulating the business of the House. Mr. Breckinridge appealed from the decision, and yielded the floor to Mr. Carlisle, of Kentucky, who vigorously attacked the Speaker's ruling. After several other speeches had been made a vote was taken and the decision of the Speaker sustained—yeas, 135; nays, 124. All the Republicans voted to sustain Speaker Reed's ruling and all the Democrats against it. The House then took up the District of Columbia bill and spent the remainder of the afternoon on its consideration and then adjourned.

AFTER some routine business in the Senate on the 8th inst., Mr. Voorhees called up the resolution offered by him the previous day in relation to the alleged interference by Mr. Chambers, the United States District Attorney at Indianapolis, to prevent the arrest of W. W. Dudley on a charge of violating the election laws of Indiana, and proceeded to address the Senate. He spoke of the crime as having inflicted an indelible stain upon the memorable election and impeached the integrity of the political result that followed. It was high time, Mr. Voorhees said, that this episode should be fully understood by the whole people, and that the proper degree of responsibility should be assigned to the instrument by whom it was perpetrated. Mr. Voorhees sent to the clerk's desk and had read the notorious "blocks of five" letter. At the conclusion of Mr. Voorhees' speech a number of unimportant measures were considered, and the Senate then went into executive session and made the following confirmations: Owen A. Luckenbach, Postmaster, Bethlehem, Pa.; John D. Deillis, Consul to Bristol. In the House the Speaker laid before that body a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury recommending that the estimated appropriation of $450,000 for the public building at San Francisco be made in a deficiency appropriation bill. The House then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, taking the chair, for the further consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The afternoon was spent in the discussion of the bill, and that portion of it relating to the laying of overhead electric wires underground was passed, and the House adjourned.

IN the Senate on the 9th inst. the Vice President presented a communication from Attorney General Miller in response to the resolution adopted by the Senate the previous day. The Attorney General declares that there have been no instructions given to District Attorney Chambers on the subject of the arrest of W. W. Dudley, and that no communication whatever has passed between the Department of Justice and the District Attorney in relation to the matter. The communication was referred to the Judiciary Committee. The Senate then went into executive session and confirmed a long list of nominations. Among the more important were the following: William P. Hepburn of Iowa, Solicitor of the Treasury; Charles S. Zane, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Utah; J. G. R. Pitkin of Louisiana, Minister to the Argentine Republic; Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, Minister and Consul General to Denmark; Richard G. Lay of the District of Columbia, Consul General to Ottawa. Consuls—James F. Hartigan, of the District of Columbia, at Trieste; Aulick Palmer of the District of Columbia, at Dresden; Edward A. Dimmick of Massachusetts, at Barbadoes. William W. Bates of New York, Commissioner of Navigation. Samuel V. Halliday of Pennsylvania, Commissioner of Customs. District Attorneys—Isaac N. Alexander, Northern Ohio; Eugene G. Hay, Minnesota. Collectors of Internal Revenue—Albert B. White, West Virginia; John Stekes, Fourth District of Michigan.

IN opening the House proceedings on the 10th inst. the Chaplain referred feelingly to the death of Congressman Kelley. Immediately after the reading of the journal, O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, announced the death of Mr. Kelley. It was the saddest duty, he said, that had ever devolved upon him. Judge Kelley's death was a personal loss to him and a great loss to the nation and the world. He presented resolutions expressing the deep regret and sorrow and providing for appropriate service to be held in the Representatives' hall at noon on the 11th and for the appointment of a committee to attend the funeral in Philadelphia. The resolution was adopted and the following committee appointed: Representatives O'Neill, McKinley, Cannon, Banks, McKenna, Carlisle, Mills, Holman, and Mutchler. An adjournment was then had as an additional mark of respect to the deceased. Vice President Morton appointed Senators Sherman, Cameron, Manderson, Butler, and Colquitt to represent the Senate at the funeral of the late Representative Kelley.

As Sharp as They Make Them.

There is a conductor on the Tenth and Eleventh street railway that could have given the first Napoleon points on generalship, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

He is the only knight of the punch who will go down the river of time with the fond satisfaction of having outwitted cranky female passengers. Last night, when the rain was pouring and the crowded passengers were smothering for air, a rotund maiden past the June of life, with more avoirdupois than is allowed a graceful form, waded through the crowd toward the door while the car stopped and the good-natured men on the right-hand side of the platform cleared a space for the passage of the maiden. But womanlike—at least womanlike on the street cars—she attempted to break the crowd of men on the left side. Here the conductor got in his fine work and made himself immortal.

"Madam," he said, with a solemn face, "there's a trunk on that side; get off where the way is clear."

The woman bolted, and the loud guffaws of a dozen men told the conductor how well he was regarded and the unreasonable passenger that she had been fooled.

"That's the way to get away with cranks," said the proud conductor. "People always go the way you don't want 'em to on a car, and a fellow's got to have a thousand guys to fling at 'em to keep 'em straight. I think this is the best one I have," he said, as a pretty girl boarded the car, compelled to stand on the platform because it was full inside. "This'll fetch em, see if it don't!" And it did.

"Let the lady in the car with a baby in her arms," he shouted, and all the men inside moved toward the front door with an alacrity that was a credit to American gallantry. By the time they had done moving up front there was a space near the back door for six passengers, and as the ingenious conductor shoved his platform riders in the vacant space he concluded: "You've got to run a street car on the twentieth century principle or you'll get left every time."

Punishing Him.

"Oh," said one high school girl to another, "how I do despise that new Latin teacher of ours."

"The good-looking young man who came this year?"

"Yes; he's horrid, and out of school he tries to court me. I wish I could get even with him some way."

"Why don't you marry him, dear?"—Merchant Traveler.

GANTER'S MAGIC CHICKEN Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

THE GREAT Blood Purifier.

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS.

TRADE MARK.

IT CURES Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

Price, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.

J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO. Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.

UNDERWOOD'S CELEBRATED WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, ETC.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

163 LaSalle St. CHICAGO, 30 Vesey St. NEW YORK, 10 Johnston St. TORONTO

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE. Bottle $1. Ask Druggists or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-220 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. G. Gilliam, Treas. Woman's Exchange. Chicago, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. Jos. M. Norris, Art. C. R. I. & P. R. R. Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. [illegible] Shannon, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co. St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 960 Franklin Av. St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. Mastenbrook D'gs 109 S. B'way. Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. Rev. John Hawkes. [illegible] Illustrated Century, Jan. 23, '88. [illegible] Commercial Traveler, Indo. Jl. [illegible] PRAISE BRIGHTINE. Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros. J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE

NO TROUBLE NO BOILING

EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT

POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN.

STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters [illegible] will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and strengthen the Kidneys and Bladder; the best tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. [illegible] Sold by Druggists generally [illegible] Price 25 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment.

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

LOVE AND I.

BY FLORENCE JOSEPHINE BOYCE.

I've been sitting in the twilight,
 Thinking, thinking all alone,
Listening in pensive silence
 To the zephyrs' muffled moan;

Building of the future's brightness,
 Castles mythical and fair;
Rising high above all others
 In imaginative air.

But among the fairest of them
 Comes a present fancy sweet—
Comes a voice like distant music—
 One that I with pleasure greet.

No, ah, no, I cannot spare him
 From my castle builded high;
We alone will dwell within it,
 Only we—my love and I.

And our home will be a cottage,
 Purely white as fallen snow;
Kissed by gently falling dew gems,
 Tanned by breezes soft and low.

And the birds will carol gayly,
 When the early morning sun,
Sheds its rays of glorious beauty
 Till the long, bright day is done.

And when evening shadows gather
 In our lovely, moonlit dale,
We will listen to the vespers
 Of the woodland nightingale.

And the lonely peeping, peeping,
 Of the frogs along the stream
Will be music, softly stealing
 O'er a real and blissful dream.

Thus thro' life we two will wander,
 And tho' sorrows may appear,
'Tis love's sunshine that will glimmer
 When the darkest clouds are near.

But when life's long journey's ended,
 And the messenger of death
Enters, silently, our cottage,
 And we feel his icy breath;

Then we'll clasp our hands together,
 And we'll seek our home on high;
Where, with hearts united ever,
 We'll remain as—love and I.

WAITSFIELD, Vt.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

Hasnip would not reply to my knock until I gave him my name. At length he opened the door, saying:

"I hardly expected to see you back here, Mr. Leslie. What have you done with your friend?"

"I saw her to her room," I replied, briefly and evasively. I did not like his tone or his manner.

"Anyhow, she sha'n't give us the slip; I've seen to that," said Hasnip, with a wink of self-satisfaction.

"You won't dare to have her arrested?"

"Dare? Certainly; when the time comes. It will be enough just now to have her well watched. The chief will see to that. If we should find another similar pin, or trace the ownership of this——"

He produced that picked up on the floor.

"Give me that pin!" I said, rather fiercely.

"I shall do nothing of the kind."

"I found it."

"Granted. But I represent the law for which you were acting, and I claim the pin. It is evidence, the strongest evidence in the case."

"If you look at it in that light"—what did it matter whether he kept the pin or not? I had its fellow and I would take care that it did not pass into his hands—"I suppose I must yield."

"Of course. The law is the first consideration. But there"—he spoke more civilly, being evidently pleased at my submission—"you sha'n't give it to me for nothing, we'll make a fair exchange. While you were away I, too, found something."

I felt sick at heart. Had this imprudent girl still further compromised herself?

"Here; in this room?"

"Yes; under the bed. A ring."

"Gracious heavens! a lady's ring!" But no; I was suddenly reassured by the thought that if it were a lady's ring and useful therefore to his line of investigation, he would not offer to make an exchange.

"I cannot say exactly. It's too small for even a child's finger. And it is only a common thing of brass."

He produced from his pocket a small circle of brass, very thin, its exterior surface adorned with a conventional arabesque pattern.

I took it, looked at it for some time, and shook my head.

"What is it, do you think?" asked Hasnip, carelessly.

I have not the least idea. Do you suppose it bears on the case?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"If it does, I shall be much surprised. But you may make something out of it. You can have it if you like. I'll keep the hair-pin."

I did not think the exchange was a fair one, but I took the ring and the detective went on to say:

"Well, we've about done here, I think. It is time to be going back to the chief."

"I have no desire to stay here," I said: "come along. By the way, there is nothing more to be got out of this, I suppose?" and I kicked the portmanteau with my foot.

It was a very ancient affair, foreign in make and look, of the kind seen so often on the Channel steamers in the hands of foreigners anxious to escape the expense and delays of registering baggage.

"Was that really his name?" I said once more, as I stooped to examine the address label closely.

I saw now that it was not very securely pasted down, and taking my penknife, I slipped the blade under a corner and presently lifted the whole label.

"See here, Hasnip! The man gave his name as Joseph Cooch in the hotel books."

Hasnip started.

"You'll be able to teach me my work yet. He was here, then, under an assumed name?"

The dark face of the corpse was more than sunburned.

"He was a sailor, or had been. A Spanish sailor. I expect that would count for the initials."

"How would it account for the initials?" Hasnip had no pretensions as a linguist.

"X would stand for Xavier. I do not think that there is a Christian name beginning with X in any other Latin language except French, and he is hardly a Frenchman. Again, the Y used indifferently with the I, is peculiarly the character of Spanish."

"I don't quite understand."

"This 'de Y' might be for 'de I.' For instance, Ysnaga for Isnaga, or Yglesias for Iglesias, and so on."

"Ah!" said Hasnip, indifferently. My philological deduction did not interest him. "Shall we be going, then—unless, of course, anything else strikes you here?"

"No, I think there is nothing else. Let us go down."

I was really anxious for a few quiet moments to think over the strange events of the morning, to consider them carefully, one by one, to examine their bearing on the several persons concerned.

The inquest assembled at 2 o'clock. Its proceedings were of a formal nature and elicited nothing more than we already knew. The only witnesses added little to our knowledge of the facts. The girl stuck to her story, and described exactly how she came upon the body; and the doctor, after expatiating upon the nature of the wound, was more than ever precise as to the hour when death was inflicted. He fixed it beyond question at between 11 and 12 o'clock at night.

The manager was then called in, and questioned about the murdered man.

"His name, as entered in the hotel books, was Joseph Cooch. He only arrived yesterday, and no one, except the office clerk, had noticed him particularly."

"He was quite a stranger, in fact?"

"The head-waiter, who is a great deal about, never saw him speak to any one. He has questioned the other waiters, and they say the same thing."

"This is only hearsay evidence," said the Coroner; "we must have the head-waiter and some of the others."

They were called—half a dozen of them, Germans mostly—Wilhelm, Fritz, Gustaf, and so on. Among them was the man Cornelis, whom we had seen that morning in the bedroom attending on the manager, and who, when asked where he came from, described himself as a Fleming, a native of the northern province of Belgium.

I examined this Cornelis closely as he gave his evidence, remembering the curious look on his face when this same question of the dead man's acquaintances was discussed.

He seemed rather frightened. His white face was paler than ever, and his manner was nervous and uneasy.

Still, he stuck to his former statement. So far as he knew, the dead man had had no dealings with any of the visitors in the hotel.

I was not quite satisfied with his answer, straightforward as it seemed, nor with his way of giving it. I was resolved to question him further if I got a chance; if not, I would make one.

The examination of the witnesses brought the inquiry to a standstill.

"I fear we must now adjourn," said the Coroner, gravely. "We have exhausted the inquiry as far as it goes, for the present. The investigation must now be continued by the police. It is in good hands," and he bowed civilly to Mr. Smart. "Our chief constable can be trusted, I think, to leave no stone unturned in his search for the miscreant who has done this most atrocious deed. I must ask you, gentlemen,"—this was to the jury—"to be in readiness to assemble whenever further news is forthcoming."

On the rising of the inquest, Mr. Smart and Hasnip went off together. I fancied the detective wished to drop me, and he seemed to have imparted his dislike, distrust, suspicions—whatever it might be—to his chief, for there was a want of cordiality in Mr. Smart's "good-day," as he nodded and left the room.

"They may be glad enough of my assistance yet," I said to myself. "But whether or not, I shall do my best to protect that poor girl. I shall not tell them what I have discovered, whatever they may think of my reticence if it comes out by and by."

CHAPTER V.

CORNELIS CONFESSES.

The rest of that day I was watching for an opportunity of speaking privately to Cornelis. None offered till evening, when I saw the waiter cross the central hall of the hotel and make for the offices at the back. I followed him along a passage leading to a two-storied detached building at the back of the hotel, which proved to be the male servants' quarters. Cornelis went up-stairs, paused before a door, unlocked it with a key which he took from his pocket, and went in.

His bed-room, no doubt. Without hesitation and without apology I went in, too, closing the door behind me. He looked at me with open-mouthed astonishment, unable, as it seemed, to question my intrusion.

"I must have a few words with you," I began at once. "I want you to answer a few questions, and be careful what you say."

"Who are you? What do you want here? This is my private room," he stammered out, trembling with either indignation or fear.

"You lied to-day," I said sternly, making the statement at hazard, but with all the positiveness of settled conviction.

"When? How? This is not fair. Go away. What do you mean?"

"I mean that you did not tell the inquest all you knew. You saw the poor man——"

"What poor man? You very strange gentleman, sir."

"Cooch—you know who I mean—the murdered man."

Cornelis shuddered at this reference to the crime.

"You saw him, I say, speak to some one; something passed between him and one of the other visitors? Is it not so? Come, tell me—at once."

Cornelis hung his head, still doggedly, obstinately silent.

"Suppose I tell you—you promise not to bring me in, not to mention my name?"

"I promise conditionally. If the police insist on knowing, or if the law requires it, I shall have to give up the source of my information."

He shook his head, apparently dissatisfied.

"But I cannot waste time in treating with you. Tell me at once or take the consequences. I will go straight to the manager."

And I moved toward the door.

"Wait, sir, wait. I did see the stranger talking fast, very fast; quarreling, I think, with one of the gentlemen here."

"With whom? Where was it? Come, out with it at once!"

"In the upper smoking-room. There was no one else present. They not see me, either of them; they too angry, too excited. But I see both, him that was killed last night, and the other."

"Who was he? Quick!"

"I not know his name for certain. He stay here for some time—fair gentleman with two eyes."

"You fool, that's nothing peculiar."

"Two different eyes; one blue, one brown."

"Captain Fawcett, a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Sarsfield?"

"Yes, that's him," cried Cornelis, catching at the name eagerly. "I remember him now. Fair gentleman. Speak sharp and short to we waiters. That him."

"And why did you not tell this to the Coroner to-day? It is most important information; you had no right to withhold it."

"I afraid. The Captain very cross man. Don't know what he do to me if I accuse him."

"You would have accused him of nothing. Only he would have been obliged to say what he knew about the murdered man."

"I hope you not get me into trouble, sir. I very quiet man; try to do right. Don't tell the manager, please, or this Captain; he is sure to be very cross with me."

"I shall have to do what is right, my friend; the matter cannot rest here." And so saying I took my departure, leaving Hans very woe-begone and unhappy.

The new facts thus wrung from the unwilling waiter naturally made a deep impression on me. They intensified my suspicions of Captain Fawcett, and, indeed, supplied very damaging evidence against him. Mrs. Sarsfield's insinuation was now corroborated in the most convincing way. Here was the waiter Cornelis, who had overheard the interview, altercation, quarrel, between Captain Fawcett and the murdered man.

If Cornelis had only understood what had passed between them! In this heated conversation, overheard, but unhappily not understood, was doubtless the clew to the crime.

On leaving Cornelis I went straight to the upper smoking-room, the scene of the altercation described by him. To my disgust I found I was not to have the room to myself; some one else was already there. But my annoyance gave place to surprise and satisfaction when I saw that the other occupant was Captain Fawcett himself. We had a nodding acquaintance, besides which there was a curious camaraderie that makes all smokers acquaintances, ready enough to talk together over the fragrant weed.

"So you have found out this quiet and retired spot?" began Captain Fawcett. "Do you often come here?"

"Not often; do you?"

"Only when I want to get away from the crowd. I have not been here for a week."

"Liar!" I thought to myself. "And Cornelius saw you here yesterday with your victim."

"But the rest of the hotel has become unbearable since that horrible affair. I was really glad to get away from every one. There is only one topic on their lips."

"It is very natural, however," I said, "that the murder should occupy every one to-day. For myself I can think of nothing else——"

"Oh! come, if you are going to talk about it too, I shall take myself off. Perhaps down upon the beach I shall escape from the inevitable subject. It begins to weary me, I confess."

"Pray don't let me drive you away; we will talk of something else. I suppose, like most men of your cloth, Captain Fawcett, you have been a great traveler."

"I have done my share. India, the West Indies, Canada, the Cape of Good Hope."

"Have you ever been in the South of Europe, in Italy or Spain?"

"Spain, yes; I was quartered at Gibraltar ten or twelve years ago."

"You can tell me, perhaps, is not Xavier—Havier, I believe, is the right way to pronounce it—is it not a purely Spanish Christian name?"

And as I asked this in the most unconcerned way I fixed my eyes upon him keenly, to notice whether the name made any impression.

His eyes, this curious dissimilar pair of eyes, met mine for a second or two boldly, as one acknowledges and resents a stranger's stare. Then quite suddenly he dropped them in confusion, I thought.

"Havier is the right pronunciation; the X is pronounced as a strong aspirate."

"And it is pure Spanish?"

"So far as I know, yes."

"Are there any other Christian names in Spanish beginning with X?"

"For the moment, I can recall none. But why do you ask all this?"

"I am only taking advantage of your knowledge, which is not common, and is likely to be particularly in request just now."

"In what way, pray?"

"You may be called upon to give evidence as to the Christian name. Through it the police may yet succeed in identifying the murdered man."

"I thought he was called Cooch."

"That is, and I think rightly, thought to have been only assumed. There is another name the police have unearthed"——

"In what way?"

"His portmanteau bears the initials—they were concealed under the address labels—the initials X. de Y."

"Pshaw! He may have bought, borrowed or stolen the portmanteau. Who knows?"

"Have you any idea what this is?"

And I produced from my waistcoat pocket the little brass ring which Hasnip had picked up in No. 99 and given me in exchange for the hair-pin.

"That! Let me look at it in my hand."

The ring was transferred from my palm to his, where it lay for a minute or two while he examined it curiously.

"No, it beats me. I have not the least idea what it is. Is there any history attached to it? Who gave it to you? Where did you get it from?"

Should I tell him? Why not? This ring, or whatever it was, had been picked up near the scene of the murder; but there was nothing to connect it with Captain Fawcett. Why should I conceal what I knew about the ring?

"The ring is of no intrinsic value, nor of any use, possibly; but I, like you, am in the dark as to that. It is only interesting from the fact"—I paused, slightly—"that it was picked up"—I again paused—"in the bedroom of the murdered man."

This shot told. His hand closed convulsively on the ring as though he would retain it. Was it, then, a tangible piece of evidence, what the French call piece de conviction, a clew tending to incriminate the guilty person?

"I must ask you to give me that back," I said with some sternness. "I have told you where it was found, and it belongs of right to the officers of the law. Give it me, please."

"Oh, of course, directly!"

But I gathered from his hesitating manner that he would like to convey it away anywhere, for choice to the bottom of the sea.

"I must have it at once," I went on, growing more and more peremptory.

"Don't be in such a hurry; I have not done looking at it."

"I don't like this, Captain Fawcett; I must insist upon your surrendering it at once."

"Come, come, sir, don't talk to me in that tone," said Captain Fawcett, evidently nettled.

"What's all this about?" cried a new voice. "High words? Don't lose your temper, Fawcett."

It was his friend, Mr. Sarsfield, who had come into the smoking-room unobserved, and overheard the last speech.

"I appeal to you," said I, "a friend of this gentleman. He is not behaving as he ought. I lent him something to look at, and he will not restore it to me."

"I was on the point of restoring it to him. It is a ridiculous thing to quarrel about. See, Sarsfield," and Captain Fawcett put the little ring into his friend's hand.

"It is a small thing, I will admit," said I, angrily, "but it has an importance far beyond its appearance, although neither of us know exactly what it is. Do you?"

Mr. Sarsfield stood silently examining it for so long that I was disappointed when he said at last:

"I fear I cannot help you. Perhaps you will tell me why it is so valuable?"

"Simply because it is one of the only clews that have yet turned up about the murder."

"Can it be possible?" cried Mr. Sarsfield, as much moved as Captain Fawcett had been. "How is that?"

"This trumpery bit of brass may yet lead to the detection of the murderer; it was picked up by the bedside of the corpse."

"You are right to say that it is of deep importance. There it is," and he handed it to me; "but if I were you, sir, I should not allow it to pass out of your own possession."

"You are quite right, sir. I shall not part with it again until I can surrender it to the police." And as I spoke I darted a meaning look at Captain Fawcett.

But he was busily engaged in refilling his pipe, and as I had no desire to get into a fresh dispute with him, I rose and left the room.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Carl Pretzel's Philosophy.

When you bractice demplerenz plaindy goot you dond nefer hafe a rye face on your head.

Dhere vas more echoes in dis vorld, as dhere vas voices.

When I see me a man mit a ret nose on his face, I got me some inflamation dat it vas besser dot man he go und hedge his bet.

When you valk der shdreet ofer dond been tempted by an Eve. Der tuyfel is der only fellow dot should hafe der monopoly of dot pishness.—Sunday National.

Money Talks.

"I say money talks!"

"Does it, now?"

"Yes."

"Then there must be a very faint whispering in my wallet. All I've got is a nickel!"

THE SOUL OF THE HOUSEWIFE.

Much Vexed by the Servant Question.

To be a millionaire's wife is not to escape petty domestic troubles. That fact was indicated by a dialogue between two Fifth avenue matrons.

"I do have such a bother about servants," said one, complainingly. "We keep two chambermaids, and neither of those we have now has been in the house a week yet. We have changed a dozen times in a month."

"Well, I have got along tolerably of late with my help," the other remarked, "except a maid for myself."

"But I thought you were delighted with Marie."

"O, she was the quickest and neatest girl I ever had in the house—pretty as a doll, too, wasn't she?—and she knew everything about toilet and wardrobe work. But what do you think? She had cold hands, and I couldn't bear to have her touch me. First along I thought it was impoverished blood that caused it, and I had our family physician dose her with iron and other things; but it wasn't any use—we couldn't warm her hands. She'd heat them when about to dress my hair, or do any other job around me, but they wouldn't stay heated, you know, and I really had to let her go."

So you see that wealth demands the utmost degree of refinement in luxury, but at the same time encounters difficulty in commanding it.

The soul of the housewife of the day is much vexed by reason of the servant question. It is a cry that the domestic is becoming uncontrollable. It, as a class, has dared to assert itself, and we hold up our hands and wonder what the upshot will be. The servant question is old. Our grandmothers and great-grandmothers, and remoter ancestresses still, sat in solemn conclave and lamented the days when servants knew their place and did their duty to the satisfaction of their masters; and as far back as we can trace the servitor seems always to have been regarded as a troublesome person. The same old story is repeated for generations, and will, I suppose, ever supply the housewife with a rich mine of complaint. The reverse side of the medal is not often contemplated, but I would ask you to consider it; for while we rail in the parlor, know that we are a no less fruitful source of complaint in the kitchen, and that we should find it very hard to refute the charges against us if we stood arraigned in a court of domestics. Let us weigh against their independence, insolence and idleness some of our own little failings with regard to them. Do we ever remember, when we have wearied ourselves in pursuit of pleasure, that there are, perhaps, tired limbs and aching heads in the kitchen? We insist upon the "early to rise" side of a doubtless excellent but not strictly accurate maxim, but its other half does not commend itself quite so forcibly when we have to apply it to the servants; and we are apt, if we ever permit ourselves to discuss such a question, to express strong views upon their proneness to "sleep away their senses" if permitted. Our own—shall I say tempers?—are not always strictly under control, either, and we are often led into little displays that are very unpalatable when served up to us again by the cook or chambermaid. We have a happy little knack, too, of taking the edge off our tempers on these individuals. We may be mistresses of ourselves when china falls up-stairs, but our pent-up feelings, strengthened by repression, are all the more forcibly expressed when our maid lays out the wrong dress.—Chicago Ledger.

Better than Faith Cure.

There were five men of us and three women, besides the driver, who were staging it between two towns in Kansas. We set out at 7 o'clock in the morning for an all day's ride, and had not made over two miles when the oldest man in the crowd, who was from the Nutmeg State, and built on Yankee principles, suddently exclaimed:

"By gosh to quash!"

"What's up?" asked one of the lot.

"The toothache! She hit me in that 'ere lower double tooth and I'm in for a bushel of trouble."

"Just try and not think of it," suggested one of the women. "Keep your thoughts on your family."

He tried it for two or three minutes, and a smile of affection came to his face. It suddenly died away, however, to be replaced by a look of ferocity as he yelled out:

"Hang my family, but it don't work! Has anybody got any camphor?"

Nobody had. We hadn't even a drop of whisky. One man had some tobacco, but the Yankee couldn't go it. The ache, once started, grew worse, and as he began groaning a second woman suggested:

"I've heard say as imagination has all to do with pains. Suppose you imagine you are sound asleep and dreaming of angels and such."

He tried it, and for a minute or two the ache let up. Then it struck him with a jump, and he seized his jaw and yelled:

"Jerusha Jackson! but I'll be gaul darned if I hain't goin' to die right here? Driver, stop the wagon!"

It was stopped and he panted to know how far it was to a town. He was told that it was twenty miles, and he fetched a groan a rod long and said:

"It's got to be done! Driver, come down here!"

"What do you want?"

"You've got to knock it out! You are the biggest man in the lot, and I guess you kin hit a purty hard blow. Give me a lifter right here on the jaw."

"Do you mean it?"

"Sartain, and don't waste any more time. Spit on your hand, haul off and sock me one right on that tooth. I want it knocked into a cocked hat."

"But you will go with it."

"Can't help that. Now, imagine that I've called you a double-barreled liar and whale away."

The driver drew back and then landed on the exact spot, and the Yankee tumbled head over heels in the grass. He was up in a minute, however, and he put his thumb and finger into his mouth and pulled out two teeth and shouted:

"Whoop! It's one extra, but that's all right! Shake, old man, and then drive on with the band wagon! We—whoop! Tooth ache gone—happiness come to stay! Here's a dollar, and if you want to brag around about knocking a feller fourteen feet I won't say a word."

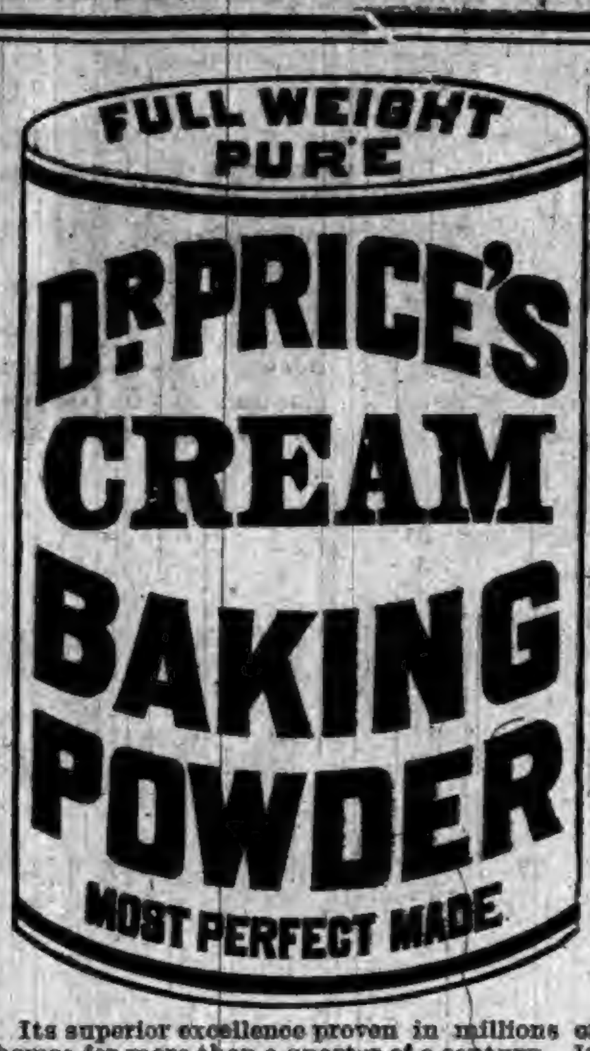
A Source of Annoyance.

A gentleman, coming home at evening, spoke harshly to his little three-year-old, who was playing very noisily. The little lady dropped her playthings and retreated hastily to a corner.

"What's the matter?" asked papa.

"Well," said the child, "I've been a good girl all this day, and now you come home and make trouble the first thing."

THE reason why some men are such inveterate wind bags would seem to be because their wives blow them up every day.



Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING: HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.

By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.

Octavo, 600 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.

WE ESPECIALLY INVITE

LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS,

to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.

(When writing, mention this paper.)

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH

For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 00	pm 11 30
Zanesville	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 0[illegible]
Columbus ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	[illegible]
Columbus lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 [illegible]
Mansfield	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 [illegible]
Deshler	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 01
Defiance	4 22	5 43	10 15	8 [illegible]	1 50
Auburn jc	......	6 49	11 34	10 23	2 58
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc	......	......	1 10	am 12 00	4 10
Wellsboro	......	8 02	2 08	2 00	5 40
Chicago ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm ‡10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 29
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc	......	7 05	12 29	3 20	9 40
Defiance	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 27	10 48
Mansfield	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus	*6 50	11 20	11 30	11 20	......
Newark	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville	8 50	1 31	1 48	1 20	6 20
Wheeling ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O.; City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't, Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

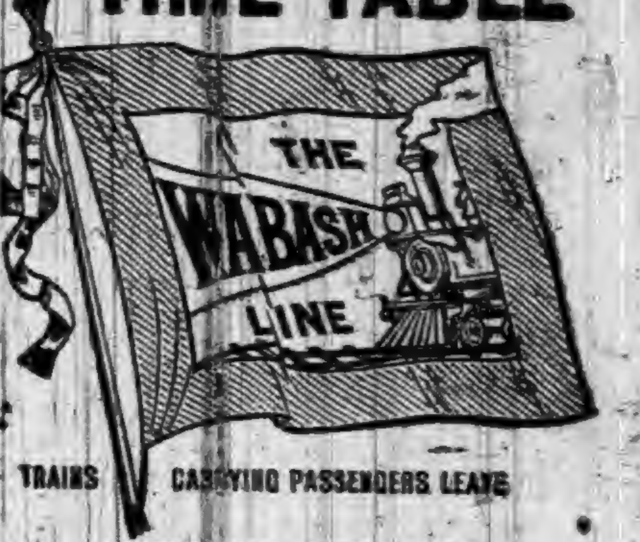
TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 [illegible] am
New Era	12 22 pm	5 16	7 20
Auburn Junc.	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale	2 27	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc.	2 46	7 39	4 05
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson	3 45	8 40	6 05

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.
Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc.	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont	11 20	1 36	8 40
Angola	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit	1 48	2 18	9 12
Waterloo	2 35	2 35	9 33
Auburn	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc.	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express	2:38 am	Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am	Daily
Detroit Accom.	2:28 pm	Ex Sun
New York Lim.	8:02 pm	Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express	1:32 am	Daily
Logansport Accom.	6:33 am	Daily
Mail & Express	12:36 pm	Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.	5:12 pm	Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD,

A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs

Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY

G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

INDURATED FIBRE WARE.

ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!
HAS NO HOOPS!
NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!
NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!
HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.
PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.
LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.

CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.

FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS. FULL PRICE-LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

W. J. BOWMAN

OFFERS TO

THE PUBLIC,

A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.

Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.

Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.

E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,

FOR

MEN'S USE.

The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

SANTA CLAUS
SOAP
SANTA CLAUS
SOAP
SANTA CLAUS
SOAP
SANTA CLAUS
SANTA CLAUS
PURE
MADE ONLY BY
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO.
CHICAGO.
SOAP
SOAP

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

SALESMEN WANTED.

to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed SALARY AND EXPENSES paid to successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership existing under the firm name of Grogg, Kandel & Co., has been dissolved, and all accounts of said firm are now in the hands of Isaac Grogg.

GROGG, KANDEL & CO.

Jan. 1, 1890

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

Is a remedy every farmer should keep on hand, as it is invaluable for many diseases. All dealers sell it. Price $1.00.

WHAT WOULD HE DO IN AUBURN?

I SAW a professional homesteader in Nebraska, standing by a prairie schooner, stovepipe stuck out of the top, behind it a cow, calf and two dogs. "Where is your home?" "I ain't got any home," he said, then kicked his dog and took a chew of tobacco. "Where do you live?" Wher'ed I live? I don't have to live nowhere; I'm marching ahead of civilization sir, I'm a homesteader. "Where do you sleep?" "Sleep? I sleep on the the government land, drink out of the North Platte, eat jack rabbits and raw wolf; but it's gett'n too settled 'round here, for they say a whole family is coming up the North Platte, fifty miles below here. I leave to-morrow; I can't stand the rush." Now, we differ with this "westerner." We can stand a rush The fact is, we want one and want it bad, and we are going to make one if we can get the help of "Old Crimp," we want to rush our Overcoats, want the money out of them for spring goods, want the room and we'll do our part to get up a circulation; it's no object to quote prices without you seeing the goods. We will only say that our knife is sharp and we are willing that it should cut deep. GOOD GOODS at low prices, is economy; we do not keep the other kind at any price.

O. J. SCHWARZ,

Dealer in Reliable Clothing.

Can we make a date with you?

DON'T - FAIL

—TO SEE THE—

Good Samaritan

—AND—

KING OF CURES.

He Tells Your Disease

Without Asking questions.

CONSULTATION FREE.

He takes no patients without he can cure them.

He Has Practiced Medicine FOR 40 YEARS.

AS A SPECIALIST, FOR 20 YEARS

In all Parts of the Globe.

Cures All Chronic Diseases

No matter who has pronounced you incurable. The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.

He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, bilious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.

Piles Cured Without a Knife.

Female Complaints a Specialty

Cured without local treatment.

All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his appointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to

J. H. ANDREWS, M. D.,

WAUSEON, OHIO.

Auburn, Swineford House, Feb. 3, One day only.

Butler, Waverly House. Jan. 23 from 7 to 1 o'clock.

Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Jan. 20. One day only.

Garrett, Ross House, Jan. 11.

Hicksville, Swilley House, Feb. 8 and 9

USED ALL THE YEAR ROUND!

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA

For LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, PURIFYING the BLOOD.

Used for 30 Years. Best Preparation in the World for Sick Headache, Pain in the Side and Back, Constipation, Pimples on the Face, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Boils, Piles and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or an Impure Blood. It is a powerful tonic for the weak and feeble, especially females & children. It can not hurt the most delicate constitution.

It is the Best Medicine in use for Regulating the Bowels. QUART BOTTLES, $1.00. Three Bottles for $2.50. Delivered free of any charge. Sold by all Druggists. Send for Circular.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Railroad Meeting.

Last Friday there was a meeting here in the interest of the proposed extension of the Wabash road from Auburn Junction to Chicago. It had been the work of but a day or two, to get the matter thus far started, but Albion and Ligonier were both well represented. As many as could be seen of our own people were notified, and they all showed a lively interest in the matter. At 1:30 the meeting convened in the office of Hon. W. H. Dills, who was made chairman of the meeting at the suggestion of J. L. Davis. Mr. Dills made a brief speech stating the cause of the meeting. Mr. Davis, by request, then stated what he knew of the contemplated movement. He said it had been certain for some time that the Wabash would build an independent line, to Chicago, and that this line, would leave the main line of this, the Detroit division either at Montpelier, or at Auburn Junction. If at the latter place, it would probably run north of the B. & O. opening up the country between that line and the Lake Shore line. J. A. Barns of the COURIER and W. B. Campbell of the Dispatch were made secretaries. E. B. Gerber, of Ligonier, was the next speaker. He had attended a meeting at Montpelier last year, and found the people there wide awake, and feeling sure the road would be built from that point. They had raised the necessary money, and would make a hard fight. Mr. Davis, spoke of the trip he and Mr. Ensley had made to Detroit, some time ago, to see Mr. Joy, the president of the Wabash. Joy had given no promise, but from his talk they felt encouraged. Mr. Dills spoke of the common interests between railroads and the people. No matter how independent the railroads are, they look to the people for support, and so each depends on the other. Their interests are identical. The people along the proposed line, should be consulted, and especially the towns. Alluding to the assistance a railway gives in the way of taxes, he drew from Mr. Davis, county treasurer, that the railroads of this county pay about one-sixth of the taxes, or over $25,000. Mr. Dills also alluded to the advantage to the people of competing lines, by saying that when the Air Line road had all the business for this county, it cost 12 cents to send a bushel of wheat to Toledo; but when our competing lines were in operation, the rate fell at once to 7 cents. So a new line would benefit, Garrett, Avilla, Albion, Ligonier, New Paris, Wakarusa, etc. Mr. Barns made some remarks suggesting that an account of business done by railroads at the points interested should be procured, to be used as an inducement to build the road along the proposed route. Mr. Campbell followed up this suggestion by reading from the report he had just secured from the different railroads of Auburn, showing that their total business in 1889 showed an increase of about 30 per cent. over that done the year before. Mr. Rose said that since the Canada Pacific road had made arrangements to send their traffic over the Wabash, they had found they must get a better connection or line into Chicago, and there was not the least doubt but the extension would be built. But we must do something more than talk. What the railroad people would listen to was something tangible. We should organize a company and have the proposed line surveyed, then go to the Wabash officers and show them the proposed work, and its desirable features, its probable cost etc The survey should extend to the Illinois line. H. C. Peterson said Albion was willing to do her full share. J. T. Johnston, civil engineer, spoke of the necessary surveys, and the necessity of having something definite to work from. He has had a good deal of experience in this kind of business having surveyed the "Gold Spike" and other contemplated lines. Gerber and Fisher, of Ligonier have had some correspondence with Joy, president of the Wabash road, who answers, that he does not know what will be done in regard to the proposed new line into Chicago. Gerber says he is authorized to say that his township, Perry, in which Ligonier is, will vote a 2 per cent tax to help the road. They expect it will go on the south side of their town. From various remarks, it was admitted that the line from Montpelier along the old Canada Southern roadbed, is 4 miles shorter, than a line by way of Auburn Junction. But the line via Auburn would have many advantages, giving the new road the business of many more, and larger towns and presenting also, a better and cheaper line to build. Davis made a motion that we organize a company, and this carried. Motion by Rose, that a committee of five be appointed by the chairman to prepare articles of incorporation, and make other necessary arrangements; carried. The chair appointed, Peterson of Albion, chairman of the committee, the other members, being E B. Gerber and C. V. Inks of Ligonier, J. L. Davis of Auburn, and on motion of Davis, Mr. Dills was made the other member from this place. Davis and Gerber were selected to notify parties along the line, at Garrett, Avilla, Benton, Wakarusa, New Paris, Stillwell, etc., of the date and place of next meeting. It was then decided that the next meeting, the one at which the organization is to be completed will be held in the court house in Albion, on Friday of this week, Jan. 17, at 1 p. m. The meeting then adjourned. There was quite a large attendance. M. E. Griswold of Montpelier was present a part of the time, and evidently took a lively interest in the matter, as he is one of the leading business men of his place, and working to get the line built from that point. From Ligonier were: Hon. E. B. Gerber, Frank Bothwell, and Hon. Orlando Kimmel. From Albion, were Jackson D. Black, J. J. Martin, Charles Howard, H. C. Peterson, Frederick Acus, Rocco Garromone, Richard Williams, Albert Sturgrey, Ezra Shaffer, C. N. Summerlin, Edwin Engle, James T. Johnston, John A. Sturgrey. Probably owing to the hasty call and very short notice, Garrett and Avilla were not represented But pains will be taken to secure a good representation from both at the next meeting. It is the belief of those present that this line will be built but that it will take some aid to secure it.

1890! LOW 1890!

PRICES

FOR ALL, AT

WILSON'S SHOE STORE,

IN WATERLOO, IND.

Boston and Candee Rubber Boots, $2.30.

Such well known makes as Whitney & Bowen, and Blocher Bro's Boots at corresponding low prices and

EVERY PAIR WARRANTED.

Ladies' and Gents', Misses' and Children's Fine and everyday Shoes, in large variety and very low prices.

FELTS, RUBBERS, ARCTICS, Etc.

We handle only a reliable make of goods and guarantee our prices as low or lower than any dealer in North Eastern Indiana for same quality of goods. Thanking you for past patronage, and soliciting your future trade, we are, respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON, & SON,

Waterloo and Fremont, Ind.

TRY THE CHICAGO WEEKLY HERALD THIS YEAR.

All the News - Fine Illustrations

Good Stories - Full Market Reports - Able Editorials.

A Complete Family Newspaper and the leading Democratic Weekly of the Northwest.

8 PAGES 1 YEAR $1.00

Send for Sample Copy.

James W. Scott Publisher

Chicago Ills.

Greatest Discovery of the 19th Century.

DR. I. C. TEAGUE'S MEDICATED AIR

Medicated Air

Dr. Teague's

NEW REMEDY

CURES

Catarrh! Asthma!

THROAT AND

LUNG DISEASES!

HAS NO EQUAL

For Sick or Nervous Headache.

TEAGUE'S LUNG BALSAM is a positive cure for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Diphtheria, Spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough and all Throat and Lung diseases. TEAGUE'S EYE SALVE cures all diseases of the Eye: Granulated Lids and Weak Vision. In conjunction with MEDICATED AIR as an ointment in Catarrh IT HAS NO EQUAL. TEAGUE'S MEDICATED OBLITERATOR is a PERFECT Toilet Powder. Its purity allows of perfect freedom of use, imparting a delicate softness to the complexion.

☞ If not kept by your druggist, send to the MEDICATED AIR CO., Richmond, Ind., U. S. A. For sale by Geo. McKay & Co., Auburn, Ind.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well-known nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Chicago, Ill

Capt. W. D. Plimpton and his bull-dog whipped the life out of three tramps at Monticello, Ill., who had attempted to rob him.

Who Was Your Great Grandfather?

The Detroit Journal desires to receive, by postal card, the address of all living male and female descendants of Revolutionary officers and soldiers of 1776 and, when possible, the name and state of the ancestor. Wonder if W. H. Brearly, proprietor of the Detroit Journal, is contemplating a raid upon the national treasury?

The Times says a play by the euphonious name of "Winkumsquint" is being revived in Brazil social circles.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Robbins & McCords drug store, large bottles 50c and $1. 2

Anderson: John W. Cummings, farmer near Middleton, blew into muzzle of his gun. Now in happy land of Canaan.

An Invariable Sign.

Swelling of the ankles or feet when not due to Rheumatism, Prof. DeCosta says, is always caused by a weak or diseased heart. So is shortness of breath, pain or uneasiness when lying on the left side, smothering spells. The only cure is Dr. Miles' New Cure. Sold at F. E. Davenport's 3

At South Bend electric and Postal telegraph wire crossed. Operator's instrument there demolished and operator at LaPorte, 25 miles away, was knocked across his office.

Our Druggists.

F. E. Davenport says they are selling more of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup than any other preparation, for coughs, colds etc., it being cheaper, more pleasant to take and guarranteed to cure. The price is only 25cts., making it the cheapest reliable cough medicine in the market. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Fallen electric wire killed two street car horses in St. Louis Tuesday. Frank Mahon, lineman, was shocked and fell from an engine house roof to the ground, and will die.

Fearful and Wonderful.

The Bible says, "man is fearfully and wonderfully made." But physiologists all concede that the most wonderful portion of man is the nervous system. In it are located the seats of life and mind, and the control of all the bodily organs. When the nerves are destroyed, the parts are paralyzed. The flesh, blood and bones are as nothing to it. Derangements of the brain or nerves are causes of headache, fits, dizziness, fluttering of the heart, sexual weakness, sleeplessness, neuralgia, cold hands and feet. A free trial bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine—the latest and most successful cure for all these diseases may be had at Davenport's drugstore. 3

At White Haven a gunner fired fourteen shots at a duck before he found out that it was a decoy placed on the water by two schoolboys.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

At a first-class restaurant in Philadelphia a patron ordering a terrapin is shown a box full of the reptiles and allowed to select his mind's fancy.

Two Doses.

J. W. Spellman, a prominent merchant of Elkhart, Ind., says: Two doses of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup completely cured my child of a severe attack of croup. I have used a great many different croup medicines but have never found any so efficient as Dr. Marshall's which makes it a very necessary article for the family.

Yours, G. W. Spellman.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

The scientists at Harvard University are engaged in experiments which they are confident will result in determining the exact location of the north pole.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

There is in Windsor Castle a gold punch bowl and ladle for which George IV, paid 10,000 guineas, but in which there has never been a drop of punch made.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

A tearful widow at Charleston, W. Va., obtained an order for $4 worth of groceries from the poor commissioners. Next day the provisions were spread as the refreshments at her wedding banquet.

Medical Value of Wines.

As a general rule the use of wine is not necessary for young persons in good health, breathing country air and not exposed to over work. As, however, life advances and the circulation becomes languid, natural red wine used in moderation, becomes an essential article and in many cases absolutely necessary, but it must be the pure product of the grapes. And even in the Eastern States the physician meets large numbers of town people, especially women, who cannot digest the food and drinks suited to outdoor laboring people. In such cases they resort to the beverage of tea which gives rise to a distressing dyspepsia. The wines produced in New Jersey, especially the Burgundy and the Port Grape Wines from Alfred Speer's Vineyards, at Passaic, are the more reliable and the most sought after by physicians and those who have traveled abroad and known what wines are.

ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your Socialite Claret and your Port Wine in my practice with great satisfaction.

Very truly yours, WM. CHILDS.

For sale by druggists.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 8 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory. H. J. Trentman.

DO NOT FAIL

—TO TRY—

SMOKETTE.

It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE, SEED and HAVANA Cigar for

Five Cents.

For Sale in Auburn, by

Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.

Waterloo Agencies,

Locke's Hotel,
A. V. Sinclair & Co.

LELAND. SMITH & CO.,

Sole Distributing Agents,

Toledo, Ohio.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1890. NUMBER 4.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

There comes a rumor that Columbia City is to have another democratic paper. We can hardly believe this, for the Post is one of the ablest and most prudent and valuable democratic papers in this part of the state, and another paper, even if equally able, would tend to create a division, and endanger the stability of the democracy of that staunch old county.

Coughing

Is Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure." —Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING AT "7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE PANEL SIZE Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

New England Farmers.

(Laporte Argus.)

The New England newspapers frequently teem with advertisements of farms for sale at prices that will not cover the cost of the buildings. In New Hampshire and Vermont it is a notorious fact that large numbers of farms have been abandoned by their owners, and the latter State is making an effort to induce colonies of Swedes to settle on the abandoned territory. Many of these farms are said to have excellent improvements and often they are located near manufacturing towns, but the owners say they cannot make their farms pay expenses, and they want to sell them at any price. In Connecticut the situation is but little better. T. S. Gold, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, discusses the matter at length, and thinks much of the trouble comes from the abandonment of small manufacturing establishments and the concentration of the capital in other places, thus depriving many farmers of markets near at hand. He says: "In many sections of the state, large farms which once were under culture are now given up to pasture or allowed to go back to woodland, and deserted dwellings and tumbling chimneys remain as reminders of their former occupants." It is conceded on all hands that farming in most parts of New England is not profitable. Such being the fact, what becomes of the "home market" doctrine for farmers? The protectionists claim that the farmer gets his benefit out of the high tariff from the home market it supplies by building up factories, but in New England where the factories are already built up, it seems, the farmers are getting decidedly the worst of it. Every farmer who will stop to think must realize that there is precious little in the home market theory, for he can readily see that two or three farmers can easily supply the home demand for nearly all agricultural products, and then where are the neighboring farmers going to find their market? Take any product and it will figure out that way. For instance, 100 acres of potatoes may easily supply the demand of a city of 20,000 inhabitants; five acres of turnips will supply the demand, and an acre or two of onions will fill the requirement. In short it will be seen that one good sized farm will supply about all the vegetables an ordinary home market can consume. What are the surrounding farmers going to do in such a case? Evidently the "home market" theory will not fit their case. They must need open markets where their supplies may find buyers, and any process that taxes them for the purpose of building up a limited home market robs them of just that much of their earnings. The home market theory, as applied to a defense of the tariff robbery, is clearly a delusion and a fraud.

At Albion.

A visit to Albion last week enabled us to meet a number of old friends. J. J. Martain, wife and son were all ailing with the "grip," but otherwise prospering. Elza Shaffer, wife and baby were in good health, he, the baby, not Elza, was enjoying life with his big toe in his mouth after the most approved fashion. Bro. Alvord, of the Democrat, was looking well, though the influenza had got into his family, and among the corps of hands in the office. H. C. Peterson was hotly engaged in dealing out brimstone by the scoopful on the head of Frank Carter, the scoundrel who, played "single man" and led astray a young girl of Avilla. "Pete" stuck hard for "five years," but was fairly well suited when Carter got three in the "pen" at the hands of the jury. Dick Williams was around as lively as ever. Frank Clapp, and Dick Stone did not attend the railroad meeting, as the influenza had gripped them, so we are told. Nelson Prentiss was around as usual. Surveyor Bortner, finds his work increasing and consequently has his hands full. Our young friend M. H. Widney has his sheds and other conveniences for his big lumber yard near the depot, about ready, and his father, ex-commissioner O. H. Widney was over there helping him. They will drive a large business, and we assure our Albion friends, they are sound and straight men to deal with. Judge Adair presided over the court with grace and dignity and has already won golden opinions on all sides for his ability and fairness. Bro. Prickett, of the New Era, was not visible, but we suppose he was in the neat new postoffice in the new court house. We ought not to close this without alluding to their beautiful new temple of justice. It cost about $115,000 including all the improvements on the grounds, and is a good building and we judge quite convenient. The basement is occupied by offices, including the postoffice, insurance, law and doctors' offices. The floor above is used for the most of the county offices, while on the third floor, we find the spacious court room and the rooms used in connection therewith. Every part is beautifully finished in modern style and the Albionites are very properly proud of it. Albion is evidently having a healthy and steady growth, and business men speak encouragingly of the outlook.

Old Folks' Hop.

There was quite a fair attendance at this annual hop of the "old folks," there being of course, quite a sprinkling of "young folks." The music was good being furnished by Freygang's Angola orchestra, Freygang himself, was not present, being down with the "grip." But they gave good satisfaction and made many friends among our people. The festivities, were closed at a sensible hour. It was a very successful and pleasant anniversary. The friends who were expected over from Garrett, did not come owing to the death of D. W. Ocker. A few were present from Waterloo, but the bad roads and sickness kept many away, who would otherwise have come.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Joseph Strauss deceased to appear in the DeKalb circuit court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of February, 1890, and show cause if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 11th day of January, 1890.

ETTA STRAUSS, Administratrix.

JAMES E. ROSE, Atty. for Estate. 2t3

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court. March term. [illegible], Elizabeth Albright is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court for a divorce, by George Albright and that the same will be heard and determined on the [illegible] juridical day of the next term of said court which commences March 3d, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 10th day of January, 1890.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

C. M. PHILLIPS, Att'y. 3

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 40 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400, $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres splendid farming land, good buildings, good fences, good orchards, within five miles of Hicksville, O. Must be sold soon.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $2,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100 barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 130 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307. 240 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well-painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill, 56-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 2 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1½ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot find what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE OVER,

And we must now

PREPARE FOR SPRING TRADE.

In order to reduce our STOCK, We have cut prices in

EVERY DEPARTMENT.

WE WANT YOU TO GET OUR PRICES ON

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

LADIES' WRAPS, Etc.,

WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY.

WE HAVE A FEW

SETS OF FURS LEFT,

Which we will sell one-fourth off regular prices.

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always courteous and pleased to show goods. We are yours, respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO., Auburn, Ind.

Notice to Stockholders,

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Wayne & Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 25th of January, 1890, at 10 a. m. at the office of the Company, Jackson, Mich. The Transfer Books will close on January 14th, and remain closed until January 25th.

R. G. ROLSTON, Secretary.

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to JONES & HOUSE, Lake View Nurseries, Mention this paper. Rochester, N. Y.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. [illegible], lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

When tunneling the Hoosier slide at Michigan City for the prison sewer a loaf of bread—probably restaurant bread—was found in a perfect state of preservation, according to the Dispatch.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

1890.

Harp r's Young People.

[An Illustrated Weekly.]

The Eleventh Volume of Harper's Young People, which begins with the number for Nov. 5, 1889, presents an attractive program. It will offer to its readers at least four serials of the usual length, and others in two or three parts namely, The Red Mustang, by William O. Stoddard; Phil and the Baby, by Lucy C. Lillie; Prince Tommy, by John Russell Coryell; and Mother's Way, by Margaret E. Sangster; two short serials by Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen. Two series of Fairy Tales will attract the attention of lovers of the wonder world, namely, the quaint tales told by Howard Pyle, and so admirably illustrated by him, and another series in a different vein by Frank M. Bicknell. There will be short stories by W. D. Howells, Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, Harriett Prescott Spofford, David Ker, Hezekiah Butterworth, Sophie Swett, Richard Malcomb Johnston, etc.

A subscription to Harper's Young People secures a juvenile library. There is useful knowledge, also plenty of amusement.—Boston Advertiser.

TERMS: Postage Prepaid, $2. Per Year.

Vol. XI. begins November 5, 1889.

Specimen Copy sent on receipt of 2-cent stamp

Single Numbers, Five Cents each.

Remittances should be made by Postoffice money order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

WORTH CONSIDERING!

DR. J. S. PEMBERTON, OF ATLANTA, GA.

Is a celebrated dealer in Proprietary medicines of his own manufacture. He said: "I had a most severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which brought me down upon my bed and entirely incapacitated me for business.

The disease appeared to have a lien on my system, and all I could do did not dislodge it. Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure was recommended to me, and I took it. In a day after beginning its use I began to improve, and in five or six days I was entirely free from pain and able to resume my business. I told Mr. Hunnicutt at that time, that his cure is the best medicine the world has ever offered for rheumatism."

The Doctor refused $2500 to say as much for another remedy. This he said free and voluntary.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE

Is a superb Female Tonic and blood purifier, rendering the skin soft and beautiful, removing blotches, pimples, etc., increasing the appetite and invigorating the system. Send for book of particulars, FREE. Address.

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO., Atlanta, Ga.

MARVELLOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY

Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

"The Leading Ladies' Home Paper."

Surely no other recommendation than the following list of contributors is necessary to convince our readers that in home papers, The Housekeeper, published semi-monthly at Minneapolis, Minnesota, is by all odds the best. "Notes on housekeeping," for the November number is made up of sketches by Mrs. President Harrison, Mrs. Ex Governor Martin, Mrs. Senator Ingalls, Mrs. Senator Morgan, Mrs. Senator Bate, Mrs. John Sherman, Mrs. J. P. Richardson, and Mrs. S. P. Snider. "Our Current Comment," devoted to the Scientific, Social News and artistic topics of the day, is filled with matter unsurpassed by Century, Scribner's or Harper's; Emily Huntington Miller expresses, in an able article, her views of Women Wage-workers. Canadian readers will be particularly interested in Judge Mahoney's Notes on annexation; Professor Bradley on Compulsory Education, says: "Efforts should be made by teachers, the public press, and all friends of intelligence and good citizenship to retain pupils in school until they can be really educated, and that a law to enforce attendance should be passed without delay." A not less interesting article is "A Field for Rich Women," by Frances A. Shaw. The writer, in speaking of the many charitable institutions founded and carried on by Mrs Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston, uses the gifts of fortune as wisely as she, the problems now agitating society and threatening to undermine our social system, would be easily solved, the great gulf between the rich and the poor would be narrower, and in place of the present rancors and jealousies, a feeling of mutual respect and good will would exist." The publishers inform us that a large supply of similar matter has been arranged for, and that the Housekeeper will be better than ever before. The December 15th number will be one-quarter larger. If you are not a subscriber, send ten cents to the publishers and mention our paper, and receive The Housekeeper for 3 months (6 numbers) as a trial; regular price $1.00 per year.

Long Time Loans.

We have on hand a limited amount of money to loan on farms on long time at 6 per cent. annual interest, in sums of $1,000, and up.

RICKEL & SPROTT 1t

Now is the Time.

Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Bauer Bros, will move into their new store on site of the old jail, west Eighth street, Feb. 1. 5

On February 1,

we will move into our new building, and in order to close out our stock as much as possible, we will give

10 Per Cent. Discount

On all goods sold during the month of January. Now is your time to buy cheap at the

BARGAIN STORE,

SOUTH OF JAIL,

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Albion R. R. Meeting.

The meeting at Albion last Friday in the interest of the proposed Wabash extention, met about 1:30 p. m. in the office of W. S. Kiser, in the basement of the court house. It was called to order by Mr. Dills, of Auburn, who stated the object of the meeting and alluded briefly to the recent meeting at Auburn. Mr. Peterson and Mr. Dills had been appointed by the Auburn meeting to draft articles of association. But Mr. Peterson, who had had the articles copied, was engaged in prosecuting the Carter case, up in the court room, and could not be present. Mr. Dills, however had the copy, which was then read by the secretary, J. A. Barns. It was in the usual form leaving blanks for the number of directors, the amount of stock, etc. E. B. Gerber, of Ligonier, suggested the first thing to be done, is to fill these blanks. Mr. Dills, said, the number of directors might be 9, 15, or any convenient number and that the amount of stock must be not less than $1,000 to the mile for distances of fifty miles and under, but $50,000 would do for over fifty miles. Remarks were also made as to the towns west of Ligonier. Mr. Gerber said, C. V. Inks of his place had sent word to parties west, but had no answer, and none of them had come to the meeting. Orlando Kimmel fully endorsed the movement, and while some people seemed opposed to voting aid to a railroad, he believed in being liberal in the matter. Dills spoke of the great railroad interests of DeKalb and Noble, and the help we get from railroads in the way of taxes. While they have cost us a good deal of money at first, they have paid it back in taxes, besides the benefit they have been in many other ways. He thinks Ft. Wayne has given a million or two, to roads since her first two great lines, the Pittsburg and the Wabash were in operation, and that she has been benefited by even this vast outlay. Gerber said his people favor the Wabash system believing it will be a valuable road. Here various persons explained the workings of an organized company like the one proposed. The necessary expenses of a preliminary survey etc., are generally secured by subscriptions or donations from all citizens who are liberal enough to help the cause along, and so the stock subscribed is not assessed, and is never paid. The matter of building the road is put into other hands. In this case, after the survey is made, and the expenses paid, the rest would be done by the Wabash road, provided they decide to build the road. If they do not accept our line, then the matter drops. Kimmel moved that the number of directors be twenty; seconded by Gerber, and motion adopted. Gerber said he was sorry Mr. Rose and Mr. Davis, of Auburn, and Mr. Peterson, of Albion, could not be present. He made a motion that the capital stock of the company be $50,000; seconded by Kimmel and the motion prevailed. Kimmel made a suggestion that a committee of three, one from Auburn, one from Albion and one from Ligonier be appointed to go along the proposed line, and talk the matter up. A motion to his effect was made by Ezra Ensley, of Auburn, and carried. The committee appointed are: J. E. Ensley, Auburn, J. D. Black, Albion and E. B. Gerber, Ligonier. The expenses of this committee must be paid by those interested in the project. A motion by Gerber to have a few copies made of the articles of the association, was carried. O. H. Widney, of St. Joe, was present, but did not feel like taking hold of the matter at present. It was decided that when we adjourn, it be to meet on call of the committee of three which had just been appointed. J. F. Johnston, who was one of the surveyors of the "Gold Spike" spoke of the way that company had been organized and operated. The preliminary expenses had been paid by collections and contributions, but the stock was never assessed. He thought that as the "Gold Spike" had organized on the old line from Fayette, Ohio, to Rochester, Indiana, there would be no chance for the Wabash to use that old line along the north part of this county. Meeting then adjourned to meet at call of the committee of three. This committee says it will get ready to work at once. The attendance was good, Besides the many in Albion, there were three from Ligonier, Gerber, L. J. Dunning and J. H. Hoffman, besides Orlando Kimmel, who resides southeast of there. From Auburn was a good attendance; J. A. Potter, G. H. Yesbera, F. C. Davis, H. R. Culbertson, Dr. D. A. Sebring, C. C. Shaffer, J. A. Barns, John Treesh, W. D. Rickel, J. E. Ensley, W. H. Dills, L. Bowers, C. E. Emanuel and W. R. Smith.

CORRESPONDENTS.

(LAST WEEK.)

SEDAN.

Ugh! this is winter!

No "LaGrippe" here yet.

Geo. Wittig, Sr., went to Cleveland last week, in answer to a telegram announcing the sickness of his sister.

Jack Amstutz, our popular merchant, talks of selling out. We should be sorry to lose Jack., as he has been doing a good business.

How things do change! We know of two good, strong republicans who always subscribed to the Press until lately. They are now reading something more reliable—the COURIER.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

A SNOW BLOCKADE.

Old Hiems Was Slow in Getting Here But He Has Come in Great Shape.

A Chicago special, dated the 21st inst, says: The snow blockade in the west and northwest is one of the most complete on record. Not only has travel become an impossibility on the western divisions of the Central and Northern Pacific, but the telegraph companies are equal sufferers, and every through wire is down on both these routes. The only means of telegraphic communication with the Pacific coast now is by the indirect route of the Southern Pacific, and the volume of business transacted is necessarily limited. Washington and Oregon are shut off from communication with the entire world, with the exception of one little zigzag wire that still works feebly between San Francisco and Portland. When this wire goes down these two Northwestern States will be further away from New York than China so far as telegraphic communication is concerned, as the trains are not running and the snow blockade renders it impossible for the telegraph force to reach the scene of the break. The Western Union repairers are snowed up at a half-dozen points in the West, and there is little prospect of renewed communication until the railroads have mastered the elements. The snow blockade on the Central Pacific road is at Emigrant Gap, near the summit of the Sierras. West-bound trains are snowed in, and the prospects of the road being opened in the next forty-eight hours are poor, as the snow-plows cannot work through the freezing ice, and the force of shovelers is inadequate. There are 1,500 men at work, but as the snow is seven feet deep on the level and fathomless in the cuts, the work of clearing the track while the snow falls is a tremendous labor. On the Northern Pacific there is a complete blockade at Sissions, near Mount Shasta. Col. Fred Croker, of the Southern Pacific, who was going north has been snowed in there for three days in a special train and hopes to get out to-morrow. The Southern Pacific road has been badly injured in the Tehachepi mountains by washouts, and beyond Los Angeles, the floods have done much damage. The only unobstructed road now is the Atlantic & Pacific, and this depends on the Southern Pacific connections between the Mohave desert and San Francisco.

The Western Union advices this morning are that snow is still falling throughout the West so that the prospects by no means are encouraging.

An Old Story Revived.

The New York Herald has revived the story about Secretary Blaine's resignation. It says the belief that Mr. Blaine's resignation as Secretary of State is impending has become very strong within the past few days, and after repeating the rumors current from time to time of the strained relations between the President and Secretary, adds: "The death of his son, Walker, it is believed, will furnish an additional and very strong reason to Mr. Blaine for quitting at once his place in the State Department. Not only is Walker's death an irreparable personal loss to his father, who was greatly attached to him, but in the discharge of his duties as Secretary of State, Mr. Blaine found his son an invaluable assistant, whose place it will be impossible to fill. Mr. Walker Blaine had the confidence of his father to a degree which naturally no one else could obtain, and was thus able to relieve the Secretary of State of a large amount of burdensome work, which will now necessarily fall upon him."

England and Portugal.

The complications arising from the dispute between England and Portugal are rapidly increasing. In addition to the now formidable boycott of England and Englishmen in the cities and towns of Portugal, a large number of English employes of Portugal merchants, manufacturers, etc., have been forced to become naturalized subjects of the King of Portugal or suffer dismissal from their situations. In these cases no middle course is possible. Every Englishman employed by a Portugese must forthwith sacrifice his means of obtaining a livelihood or forswear his allegiance to his sovereign. In sheer desperation a great many Englishmen are accepting the alternative in order to keep their positions. The value of these new recruits to the Lisbon Government is questionable.

Human Hyenas.

A bloody riot took place between two warring factions of the Polish church at Plymouth, Pa. The Lituvanians faction endeavored to bury one of their number in the cemetery. The Poles resisted and a fierce battle followed, in which pistols, stones and clubs were used. During the shooting, thirty men were prostrated by wounds, and the ground near the grave was covered with blood. The coffin was upset and the body rolled out. The Polanders were entirely routed by a posse of constables and citizens. Joseph Luwick was fatally injured. The ring leaders of the riot were arrested and the body was finally interred in the grave and is now being watched by a strong posse.

For Some Reason it Exploded.

Another fatal boiler explosion occurred at Chicago, this time in the old Wisconsin Depot freight house, at Polk street and Fifth avenue. George W. Wiley, the night watchman, entered the engine rooms and started a fire under the boiler. For some reason the boiler exploded. Pieces of steal and copper were hurled in every direction, and some of them struck Wiley, cutting off, almost cleanly, the top of his head and crushing his legs and arms.

Latest Intelligence from Samoa.

The steamer Lubeck has arrived at Sydney, Australia, from Samoa. She reports that a meeting of the British residents of Apia petitioned the Governor of Fiji to remove the British Consul. But the Consul had been already transferred to Noumea. The adherents and supporters of Malietoa and those of Tamasese had had a friendly meeting.

Fifty Years in the Navy Department.

A Washington dispatch says: Hugh A. Goldsborough, chief clerk of the Bureau of Construction and Repair in the Navy Department, and for fifty years employed therein, died of pneumonia, resulting from influenza.

SAD FATE OF THE CZAR.

The Ruler of Russia Said to Be Losing His Reason.

A London cable says: The repeated assertions of the insanity of the Czar are duly denied, but it is true that the officials nearest his person find it difficult to gain access to him even for the purpose of obtaining his signature to documents or conferring with him upon the most important subjects. While certain conciliatory projects were under his consideration there came the discovery of the latest plot, involving officers personally dear to him and in whom he had the most undoubting trust, and the history of Russia under the remainder of his reign will be that of an unceasing struggle between the cunning of unscrupulous tyranny and the craftiness of desperate anarchy. It is impossible to affirm or deny the reports as to the Czar's health, but the reticence held concerning it is deemed suspicious, and the effect is felt upon every bourse in Europe. Colonel Voleikoff, of the Czar's body guard, and several other military officers suspected of plotting against the life of the Emperor, have committed suicide. It is stated that a brother of the Czar will shortly be banished from the capital for meddling in political affairs.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Roosevelt and Thompson Placed on the Accepted Civil-Service Commission.

The Senate has confirmed the following nominations:

Chris Mamer, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Illinois; Theodore Roosevelt and H. S. Thompson, to be Civil Service Commissioners; A. J. Recks, to be Judge in the Northern District of Ohio; A. S. Edgerton, to be Judge in the District of South Dakota; James H. Beatty and W. Van Devanter, to be Chief Justices of Idaho and Wyoming, respectively; W. R. Sterling and F. Wood, to be District Attorneys of South Dakota and Idaho, respectively. Registers of Land Offices—George E. Blanchard at Sidney, Neb.; James Elton at Grand Forks, Neb.; Bennett S. Gillespie at O'Neil, Neb. Receiver of Public Moneys—G. W. Ayres at Rapid City, S. D. Collectors of Customs—Charles F. Johnson at Duluth, Minn.; G. H. Hopkins, at Detroit, Mich.; P. H. Hildebrand at Indianapolis, Ind. Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels—Joseph Cook of Michigan, Eighth District; John Ingle of Indiana, Sixth District.

SOLICITOR GENERAL CHAPMAN.

He Falls a Victim to Bright's Disease—Other Deaths Reported.

A Washington dispatch says: "Solicitor General Chapman of the Department of Justice is dead. He was taken down with the influenza nearly a fortnight ago, but was recovering from it when Bright's disease supervened and caused his death. Mr. Chapman was about 55 years old. He was a leading lawyer of Binghamton, N. Y., and an active Republican leader. He was appointed Solicitor General last spring on the recommendation of ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt and members of Congress."

PUT OXALIC ACID IN THE COFFEE.

An Old Man Tries to Kill Himself, His Daughter, and Her Child.

Frank Fairley, a German shoe-maker 74 years old, living with his daughter, Mrs. Myers, a widow, and her 10-year-old daughter, at Buffalo, N. Y., becoming despondent, proposed to his daughter that they end all their troubles by poisoning themselves, and Fairley having some oxalic acid in the house drugged the coffee and drank it, the child being the only one ignorant of what she was doing. Fairley's chances for recovery are small. The woman's case is apparently the most serious. It is thought the little girl will recover.

IS ROBERT GARRETT A PRISONER?

The President of the Baltimore & Ohio Chafing Under Restraint.

A Baltimore (Md.) dispatch says: There is an ugly rumor about town that the unfortunate Robert Garrett is subjected to stricter surveillance and more closely guarded than his mental weakness requires. The impression given by the rumor is that Mr. Garrett is practically a prisoner in his own house, and that in his lucid moments he chafes very much under the espionage to which he is subjected by his two muscular and always vigilant nurses, who, with Dr. Jacobson, are constantly with him.

MR. POWDERLY STILL SICK.

A Constable Still Waiting to Arrest Him as Soon as He Recovers.

General Master Workman Powderly is still sick at his home in Scranton, Pa., and is not able to leave the house. The warrant for his arrest was read to him on the day that it was received. Mr. Powderly accepted the service, and said that he would accompany the constable to an alderman and give bail, as soon as he was well enough. The constable is now waiting until Mr. Powderly sends him word that he is willing to be arrested.

HEAVY FAILURE AT 'FRISCO.

Lucius D. Stone, Dealer in Saddlery, Goes Under to the Tune of $200,000.

Lucius D. Stone, dealer in saddlery at San Francisco, has signed a petition in insolvency. Liabilities, $205,000; assets not yet known. Among the principal creditors are the German Savings and Loan Society, $23,000; London and San Francisco Bank, $24,000; Donohoe, Kelly & Co., $14,000. The assets include real estate valued at about $100,000, all of which is heavily mortgaged.

TOO MANY NEGROES.

Their Incursion Into Arkansas Arousing Bad Feeling Among the Whites.

The negro exodus to Arkansas is arousing some feeling. The State press generally and a majority of the citizens condemn the planters who employ the negroes on their plantations and defend the movement on the ground that the present force of laborers is insufficient to cultivate the cotton crop or open new land. From this date until April next, 5,000 negroes are expected to settle in the State.

SALISBURY WAS SARCASTIC.

The Official Correspondence Between England and Portugal on Africa.

The official correspondence between England and Portugal on the disputed territory in Africa is published. Portugal based her claims to Nyassaland and Mashonaland on treaties two centuries old and the ruins of ancient forts. Lord Salisbury in his reply is sarcastic, and he repudiates these archæological arguments in a tone overbearing and insolent throughout.

MARY ANDERSON TO BE MARRIED.

Her Engagement to Antonio de Navarro an Assured Fact.

A Paris cable says: Mr. and Mrs. de Navarro, of New York, have cabled congratulations on their son's engagement to Miss Mary Anderson, who is at San Remo with Dr. Sheppard's family. Antonio de Navarro is at the same place, and has been traveling with Miss Anderson's party for some weeks.

The Chicago Offices Filled.

Among the names sent by the President to the Senate were those of John M. Clark to be Collector of Customs for the port of Chicago and Chris Mamer Collector of Internal Revenue for the First Illinois District.

Escaped Prisoners Recaptured.

A San Francisco dispatch says: J. W. McNulty, a condemned murderer, and H. Edwards, a burglar, two of the six men who escaped from the county jail a week ago, have been [illegible] bay. A constable and two men effected their capture. A farmer named McPherson recognized McNulty on the road and got the other two men to help him. McNulty showed fight, but revolvers and Winchesters brought him to terms. This makes three out of the six that have been recaptured.

To Investigate Kansas Legislators.

A petition is being circulated at Topeka, Kan., calling upon Judge Guthrie, of the District Court, to convene a special grand jury to "investigate the action of certain officers and members of the Legislature." Over two hundred names have been secured, a requisite number to warrant the judge in such action. Some very sensational charges are promised by those engineering the matter.

Brazil's New Banking Scheme.

The Brazilian Government has issued a decree dividing the country into three banking districts and providing for three issue banks with a capital of $250,000,000 in Government stock, the circulation of each bank's notes to be confined to its own district. Ten per cent. of the earnings will be applied to the redemption of the capital stock.

Death of Lord Napier.

A London cable says: Lord Robert Cornelius Napier, of Magdala, is dead. He was a victim of influenza. Lord Napier was born in 1810 and served with distinction in a number of wars in which Great Britain was engaged, his most brilliant campaigning being in connection with the capture of Pekin, the Abyssinian expedition, and the capture of Magdala.

Polish Catholics Fight Over a Corpse.

The Polish church war at Plymouth, Pa., has broken out anew. The Lithuanian faction attempted to bury a child at the Polish cemetery, but another Polish faction met the funeral procession at the gate of the cemetery and threatened to shoot the mourners. The latter retreated. There is talk about taking the cemetery by force.

The Cronin Murderers in Joliet.

Judge McConnell, of Chicago, has overruled the motion of Daniel Coughlin, Patrick O'Sullivan, and Martin Burke for a new trial, and sentenced them to lifelong penal servitude. The motion of John P. Kunze for a new trial was granted. The three murderers were taken to Joliet the day of their sentence.

Fire in a Court House.

Fire started in the Probate Judge's office at the Court House at Chillicothe, Mo. The flames spread to an adjoining block of stores and both buildings were destroyed. All the Probate Court records and part of those in the prosecuting attorney's office were burned. Loss about $70,000.

Germans and Czechs at Peace.

A Vienna cable says: The results of the German-Czech conference held in this city has exceeded expectations. The conference has succeeded in reconciling all the differences between the Czechs and Germans in Bohemia.

The Champion Skater Defeated.

Axel Paulsen, the champion long distance skater, was defeated at Minneapolis in a three-mile race by Hugh J. McCormick, the champion of Canada, who made the distance in 17:54 2-5.

Two Senators Chosen.

Mr. Brice was elected United States Senator by the Ohio Legislature, and Ephraim K. Wilson was re-elected by the Maryland Solons.

Great Mortality in New York.

Last week 1,424 persons died in New York City, nearly double the death rate in the same week of 1889. The increase is due to acute respiratory affections.

The Sharon Case Ended.

Judge Shafter, in the Superior Court at San Francisco, ordered that the Sharon case be indefinitely postponed, and sustained the action of the lower court.

Valuable Stallions Burned.

At Newark, Ohio, Thomas Lennox's stallions, Adjuster and Eugene, were destroyed in their stables by an incendiary fire.

Negroes Going to Oklahoma.

It is reported that thousands of negroes are migrating from South Carolina to Oklahoma, and that by spring there will be 50,000 colored people in that district.

The Week's Business Failures.

Failures for the week in the United States number 336, as compared with 373 last week and 330 for the corresponding week a year ago.

Canada's Trade With the United States.

The trade and navigation returns show that Canada's trade with the United States was $94,000,000 last year, against $80,000,000 with Great Britain.

Freight Traffic Obstructed by the Grip.

Owing to the prevalence of the grip among its employes the Pennsylvania Railroad at Pittsburgh has been compelled to refuse freight for the seaboard.

Deadly Electric Wires.

While taking shocks from an electric-light wire at Hartford, Conn., Oscar Williams caught the full force of the current and was instantly killed.

No Redress Against Bucket-Shops.

Judge Hicks, of Minneapolis, has decided there was no redress in Minnesota for those losing money in bucket-shops.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75 @ 5.25
Good	3.50 @ 4.50
Common	2.50 @ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.25 @ 4.00
SHEEP	3.50 @ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76½ @ .77
CORN—No. 2	.28½ @ .29
OATS—No. 2	.20 @ .20½
RYE—No. 2	.44 @ .45
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.23 @ .26
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09 @ .10
EGGS—Fresh	.14 @ .15
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu	.37 @ .42
PORK—Mess	9.25 @ 9.75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.72 @ .73
CORN—No. 3	.27 @ .27½
OATS—No. 2 White	.23 @ .23
RYE—No. 1	.45 @ .45½
BARLEY—No. 2	.42 @ .43
PORK—Mess	9.25 @ 9.75
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00 @ 4.00
HOGS	3.00 @ 3.75
SHEEP	3.50 @ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.80½ @ .81½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.30 @ .31
OATS—No. 2 White	.25 @ .26
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.81 @ .82
CORN—Cash	.30 @ .31
OATS—No. 2 White	.22 @ .22½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.50 @ 4.50
HOGS	3.50 @ 4.25
SHEEP	4.50 @ 6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85 @ .88
CORN—No. 2	.38 @ .40
OATS—Mixed Western	.27 @ .30
PORK—Prime Mess	10.25 @ 11.00
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.25 @ 5.00
HOGS	3.25 @ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77 @ .78
CORN	.25½ @ .26½
OATS	.21 @ .21½
RYE—No. 2	.41 @ .42
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.50 @ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00 @ 3.75
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00 @ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76½ @ .77½
CORN—No. 1 White	.30 @ .31
OATS—No. 2 White	.23½ @ .24½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.50 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.79½ @ .80½
CORN—No. 2	.32½ @ .33½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.24 @ .24½
RYE—No. 2	.51 @ .53
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.00 @ 4.75
HOGS	3.80 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.91 @ .91½
CORN—No. 2	.33½ @ .34½

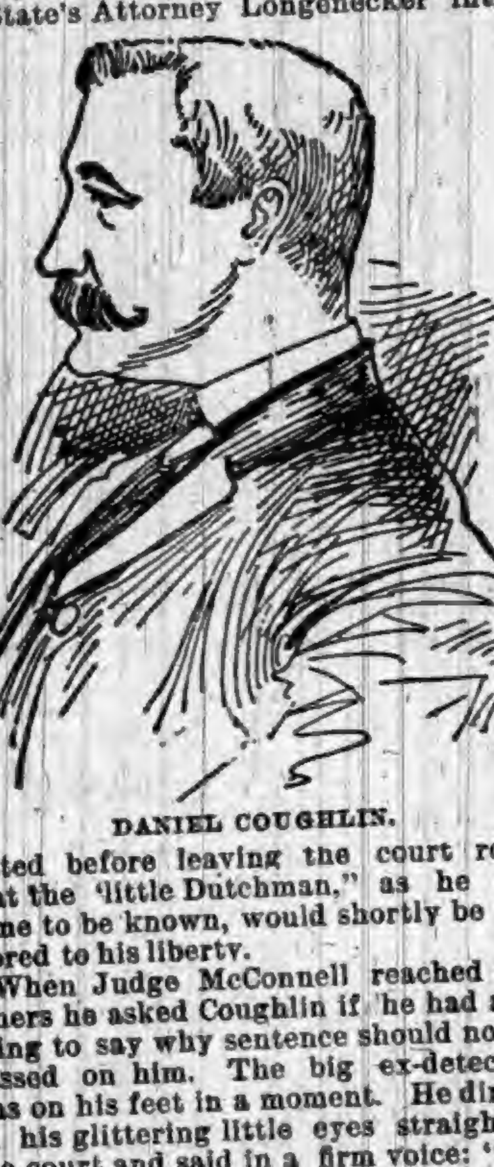
LANDED IN JOLIET.

THREE OF THE CRONIN ASSASSINS BEGIN THEIR SENTENCE.

Kunze Granted a New Trial by Judge McConnell—Speeches of the Convicted Men Before Receiving the Life Sentence—The Trio Taken to the Penitentiary.

Chicago dispatch: Three of the assassins of Dr. P. H. Cronin are in the penitentiary at Joliet. Daniel Coughlin, Patrick O'Sullivan, and Martin Burke were hurried from the jail to the 9 o'clock train on the Chicago & Alton road Tuesday evening, and by 11 o'clock they had entered upon a life term of penal service to the State.

The great trial was brought to an end Tuesday when Judge McConnell formally refused Coughlin, O'Sullivan and Burke a new trial, and sentenced them, in accordance with the finding of the jury that tried them, to life imprisonment at hard labor. John Kunze, whom the jury let off with a sentence of three years, was granted a new trial, but State's Attorney Longenecker intimated before leaving the court room that the "little Dutchman," as he has come to be known, would shortly be restored to his liberty.



DANIEL COUGHLIN.

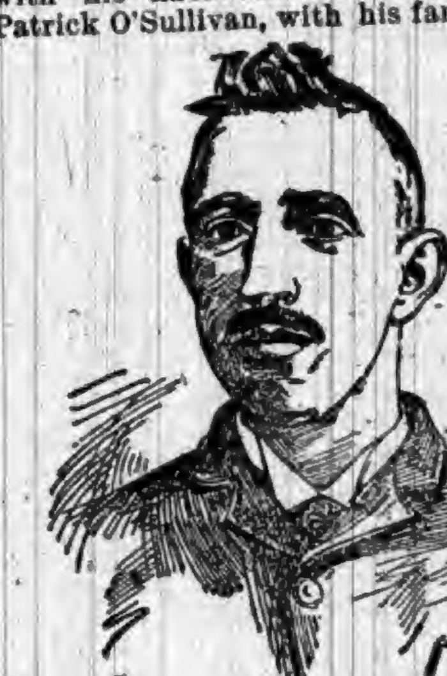
When Judge McConnell reached the others he asked Coughlin if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him. The big ex-detective was on his feet in a moment. He directed his glittering little eyes straight at the court and said in a firm voice: "Yer honor, I'm innocent. This crime was committed by persons I don't know. I was convicted by perjury." With a nervous bow to the court to indicate that he had finished he reached across the prisoners' row, seized John Kunze's hand, and wrung it heartily. Tears of gratitude and joy sprang into the little fellow's eyes.

PATRICK O'SULLIVAN.

O'Sullivan, looking grim and determined, was on his feet before Coughlin sank back in his chair. "I, too, your honor, am innocent," he said, "and I feel that some day the world will know it. I have been convicted by perjured testimony. I am not here to ask for mercy. All I ask for is justice. If I am innocent of this crime, I have not had justice; but if I am guilty, the State has not had justice."

Martin Burke, with his long, heavy face glowing, his little eyes snapping, and his jaws working like an automatic machine, followed O'Sullivan. "I'm innocent, too," he said. "In England I always knew they put perjured witnesses on the stand, but I never knew they did it in America." When he said this Martin sat down, looking triumphant and happy. He seemed to feel that he had unloaded a great mental burden. A minute later all three were on their feet, listening to the solemn words of the court that consigned them to a living death in the penitentiary. When they sat down again they were all pale and trembling. The ordeal was too much even for their superb nerve. Old man Coughlin, the sturdy father of the chief conspirator, was sitting on one of the front benches, and in spite of himself tears came into his eyes as he saw his son marched back to the jail for the last time.

Big Dan Coughlin, with his muscular frame; broad-shouldered Martin Burke, with his habitual smile, and swarthy Patrick O'Sullivan, with his familiar expression of wretchedness, parted company with little Kunze, their clownish fellow-defendant, and the rest of their acquaintances in the county jail Tuesday night and entered upon the service of the State under the sentence which imposes upon them imprisonment for life in the penitentiary at Joliet. The noted trio were taken from Joliet on the 9 o'clock Alton train. The removal of the prisoners was accomplished as speedily and secretly as possible after Judge McConnell had rendered his final decision. The authorities about the jail and the Criminal court made strenuous efforts to keep the news of the removal from the general public, and succeeded admirably.



MARTIN BURKE.

About 8:30 the three men under sentence were brought from their cells in the county jail and heavily ironed. Carriages were in waiting and guarded by Sheriff Matson and an armed posse of deputies and police they were taken to the 9 o'clock Alton train.

Joliet (Ill.) dispatch: When the party arrived at the penitentiary at 10:35 none but the captain of the night watch greeted the delegation which reached the prison headed by Sheriff Matson. At the prison doors that officer, in a very formal and business-like way, turned the trio of Clan-na-Gael assassins over to Warden Berggren and the board of commissioners, who are in session. There was no ceremony whatever.

Warden Berggren at once turned the culprits over to Night Captain Norton, who deprived them of their valuables in the usual way and hustled them out of the big iron door down to the court solitary, where they were left for the night without change of clothes. The prisoners were left to themselves to indulge in silent thought upon their strange situation and to speculate upon the coming morrow, when the barbers, the bath, and the stripes awaited them, with the no less important concomitant of a scientific sizing up according to the forms of the Bertillon system of identification of criminals.

END OF WALKER BLAINE

HIS REMAINS LAID AT REST IN OAK HILL CEMETERY.

A Large Gathering of Friends Do Honor to His Memory—The Sad Services in the Bereaved Home and at the Church of the Covenant.

Washington dispatch: The funeral of Walker Blaine took place Saturday (18th inst). The preliminary services were held at his father's residence and were only attended by the invited friends. Among those present were the members and relatives of the family, President and Mrs. Harrison, Vice-President Morton, members of the cabinet, the Senators and members of the House from Maine, and several of the other New England States.

The services were conducted by Dr. Hamlin and consisted merely of prayer. The pall-bearers were the Hon. William F. Wharton, Judge John Davis (ex-chief clerk of the State Department), L. A. Brown, Marcellus Barley, M. L. Ruth, A. F. Jenks, F. B. Loring, and William Haywood. The remains were enclosed in a black cloth-covered casket, which was heaped with the choicest of flowers, the gifts of the President, Cabinet officers and others in high official and social position.

The second service was held in the Church of the Covenant. Members of the family occupied seats on the right side of the main aisle in front of the pulpit, while opposite sat the President and members of the cabinet and their families. Behind the family and immediate friends sat the representatives of the diplomatic corps, while opposite sat the members of Congress. The services here were again conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hamlin and the organ was played by Walter Damrosch. After the services, which were very simple and impressive, the remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment in the new lot purchased by Secretary Blaine Thursday.

The ushers at the church were personal friends of Mr. Blaine. The attendance was enormous and the expressions of sorrow were universal. It was noted that the press, to which Mr. Blaine has always been an especial friend, was largely represented. In consequence of the large attendance at the church many people of prominence were unable to obtain an entrance. One lady fainted, while several others were overcome by the heated air. The attendance at the funeral represented Congressmen from all parts of the country and the official representatives of nearly every civilized nation in the world. Gov. Robie of Maine and the Hon. J. H. Manley of Augusta, Me., came to attend the funeral.

DECLARE THEIR PRINCIPLES.

The Afro-Americans Adopt a Platform And Elect Officers—Addresses.

Chicago dispatch: An Afro-American league of the United States was organized and officers were elected by the Afro-American convention. A non-partisan article was placed in the constitution by an almost unanimous vote. After a spirited discussion the convention voted to indorse the Blair educational bill. The constitution adopted is as follows:

"The objects of the league are: To protest against taxation without representation; to secure a more equitable distribution of school funds in those States where separate schools exist; to insist upon fair and impartial trial by a judge and a jury of our peers in all causes at law wherein we may be a party; to resist by all legal and reasonable means all mob and lynch law, whereof we are the victims, and to insist upon the arrest and conviction of all such offenders against our legal rights; to resist the tyrannical usages of railroads, steamboats and other corporations, and the violent or unlawful conduct of their employes in all cases where we are concerned, by prosecution of all such corporations and their employes; to labor for the reformation of all penal institutions where cruel, laborious, and unchristian treatment of convicts is practiced, and to assist healthy immigration from terror-ridden sections to other and more law-abiding sections.

"The objects of the league are to encourage all State and local leagues in their efforts to break down color bars, and in obtaining for the Afro-American an equal chance with others in the avocations of life, and to unite such branch leagues for organized and effective work in securing the full privileges of citizenship."

An address was adopted setting out more at large the objects of the league, the means to be used in accomplishing its purpose, and appealing to patriotic people of both races for moral support and assistance.

The officers elected were as follows: President, J. C. Price, principal of Livingston school, Salisbury, N. C.; secretary, J. Thomas Fortune of New York; treasurer, George H. Jackson of Cincinnati; attorney, Edward H. Morris of Chicago.

WEALTHY AND HAPPY.

Money Comes Freely to the Duke of Marlborough Through His Wife.

New York dispatch: News comes from London to the effect that the Duchess of Marlborough has directed the trustees of the Hammersley estate to sell some large slices of real estate in this city, which are among the estate's most valuable belongings. There is some property on Broadway, near Franklin street, and a block running from Sixty-first to Sixty-second streets and Fifth and Madison avenues.

The proceeds of these sales will of course not go to the duchess, as she is only entitled to an income from the estate during her life. She has the power, however, to order the sales and have the avails reinvested, so that the revenues may increase. It is said that the duchess has drawn $450,000 from the estate since her marriage one year ago last July. A good deal of the estate's income, it will be remembered, accumulated during the time that the litigation over the will was in progress. This money has been used for putting Blenheim castle into repair, and it has been fixed up with all modern improvements. Besides this the town house has been purchased and magnificently furnished.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough are said to be very happy in their union and their friends say they will make a visit to this side during the coming spring.

SLAVIN TO JOHN L.

The Australian Is Very Anxious to Meet the American Champion Slugger.

New York dispatch: The following cablegram has been received here: "Richard K. Fox: Frank P. Slavin called at The Sportsman's office to-day, posted £500 forfeit, and is eager to meet John L. Sullivan and arrange a fight. If Sullivan thinks the stakes too small Slavin will arrange a match to fight him according to London prize-ring rules for £2,500 a side, and agree to fight the American champion in America, or he will allow Sullivan £100 for a fight to take place in Belgium. If these terms do not suit the American champion Slavin agrees to fight Sullivan before the California Athletic club with small gloves, Police Gazette rules, for £1,000 a side, provided the directors of the California Athletic club will add a $15,000 purse to the stakes."

A RAILROAD HORROR.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED AT CINCINNATI.

Several Others Injured by a Collision Between Passenger Trains—The Wreck Catches Fire, Adding to the Horror of the Disaster—Suburban Passengers Imperilled.

Cincinnati (Ohio) dispatch: The fast train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road bound for Chicago ran into the Glendale accommodation at Winton place recently, with the result that a dozen lives were lost and more than a score of persons injured.

The Glendale accommodation had just stopped to allow the Winton place commuters to drop off, and the vestibule train, running at a speed of sixty miles an hour, plunged into the rear of the accommodation.

The rear car on the accommodation was an express car, and this alone saved at least two score lives. The big engine on the fast line plowed half way through the baggage car, frightfully wounding the baggage master, Robert Stevenson, who has since died. His assistant and also the firemen and engineer are badly wounded.

A red hot stove in the baggage car was overturned, and, the car catching fire, the flames seemed instantly to communicate with the two coaches, and they too, with from six to twelve people, who were wedged in by the broken seats, were burned.

The dead are:

JOHN WILSON, superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Cincinnati; residence, Winton place.

F. W. WITHERBEE, conductor of No. 77; residence, Toledo.

JAMES STALEY, baggagemaster, died in hospital.

WILLIAM LLAMITZ, a young man, died in hospital.

An unknown woman.

Two of the dead bodies are in the morgue in this city. They were all burned to death.

The wounded are:

WILLIAM COAGLEY, engineer of No. 31, hurt by jumping.

GEORGE MCKEE, fireman of 31, injured by jumping.

At once the fire department of Cincinnati was summoned, and several patrol wagons quickly responded to the call. By the time two fire engines had arrived the two coaches were almost in ashes, and little could be done except to clear the wreck so that the search for the dead might begin. There was the smell of burning flesh in the air, and the screams and sobs of frantic women were heard. As the flames gnawed their way into the two coaches agonizing shrieks from the helpless victims pierced the atmosphere and many women fainted as they heard the awful cries for help. The passengers of the vestibule train, many of whom were badly bruised by the shock, did all in their power to aid those in the accommodation train, who had suffered more than they.

Glendale is fifteen miles from Cincinnati and one of the most aristocratic of its many suburbs. The bulk of those on the accommodation were leading merchants, bankers and brokers of the city, though many of those who got off at Winton place were clerks. A special train with surgeons was sent out from here, and another special brought the most seriously injured to the hospital in the city.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Fatal Accident at the Illinois Steel Company's Works.

Chicago dispatch: Blast furnace No. 4, in operation at the Illinois Steel company's works at South Chicago, burst during working hours, resulting in the death of one man, the serious injury of four others and more or less serious serious injuries of half a dozen.

The shift of men that had been working all day had "drawn off" the furnace but a short time before, but the metal clogging in the center of the furnace prevented it from working with its customary freedom. The men were ordered to clear the furnace of the hanging mass and were busy at work when without any warning the mass of molten metal and slag parted in the center and fell to the bottom. The heavy weight fell but a short distance, but it was enough to tear the sides from the furnace, and the metal, heated to an intense degree, flushing out, enveloped the workmen in the vicinity.

As soon as those who were able could do so they hastened to the assistance of those who were buried beneath the debris. It was found that Edward Johnson, married, 50 years old, was the only person fatally injured. He was terribly burned externally and badly injured internally. He was placed in a patrol wagon, but died on the way to his home. Six others who were injured are:

JOHN JOHNSON, unmarried, burned about the face and body.

FRANK BRINK, unmarried, leg broken, face and body burned.

JOSEPH LEONARD, married, head and body burned.

JOHN CRAPP, unmarried, leg broken and body burned.

FRANK DOHERTY, married, cut on the face and body.

FRANK CONNORS, married, cut on the head and scalded.

Edward Johnson was the father of John Johnson, one of the injured. Many others were slightly hurt. The amount of the damage will not exceed $1,200 and work will be delayed but a short time.

Another version of the cause of the accident is that water came in contact with the hot iron. The officials are reticent concerning the cause of the accident and will say very little about it.

FLOCKING INTO OKLAHOMA.

Over Twenty Thousand Negroes Already There—Many More on the Way.

St. Louis (Mo.) dispatch: Letters received by W. L. Eagleson, business manager of the Oklahoma Immigration society in Kansas, from points in North Carolina, say that a large number of negroes from that State are going through in wagons this winter to the new Territory. Mr. Eagleson says there are now about twenty-two thousand negroes in Oklahoma and that by spring there will be at least fifty thousand. He claims they ought to have that country, and says President Lincoln and the Republican party promised to give it to them. He adds:

"We are determined to take it anyhow, and we will make it one of the grandest States in the Union. I favor Col. Morgan's scheme to purchase the Cherokee strip and other lands in the Indian Territory, exclusively for negro settlement. Give us the Blair bill, the Indian Territory and Senator Butler's $5,000,000 and we shall be content. Oklahoma, in my judgment, is the land of promise for the race, and migration the panacea for every ill now affecting the negroes of the South."

IS VICTORIA ILL?

A Rumor That Her Majesty Has the Influenza.

Much alarm has been occasioned at London by the rumor that the Queen is ill at Osborne with the influenza. The fact that the news has been kept back accentuates the general uneasiness which is naturally increased by the knowledge that her majesty has suffered much recently from rheumatic symptoms. Her health for many weeks past has been anything but good.

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

—Frank McNeeley, of Crawfordsville, fell down stairs with a trunk and broke his arm, besides suffering other serious bruises.

—At Fort Wayne Frederick Rodemeier, a teamster, fell under the wheels of a heavily loaded dray, and was badly crushed.

—The heater in a passenger coach on the L. D. & W., exploded at North Salem, wrecking the car badly, but injuring nobody.

—Two brothers, named Martin and Henry Reimers, were instantly killed at Wheeler, by a backing engine. They were riding on a track velocipede.

—John York, of Monrovia, was fatally shot in the thigh from a gun in the hands of Oliver Bray. They were out hunting together. It was accidental.

—A little 3-year-old son of Mrs. Clara Wright, of Portland, was seriously burned by the careless use of natural gas. It is not believed he can recover.

—Geneva May, the 8-year-old daughter of Ira Mason, died at Logansport, after suffering untold agony from internal injuries sustained by falling down stairs.

—Kokomo captured another bentwood factory last week, employing $50,000 capital and fifty workmen. This is Kokomo's twenty-ninth new factory since the advent of natural gas.

—As Albert Mahlka, of Michigan City, was riding down an incline plane at a saw mill, the machinery broke. He was dug out of the debris with both ankles broken and other serious injuries.

—Sam'l. Butcher, sr., was seriously injured by falling slate at the Nickel Plate mine, near Knightsville. Mr. Butcher was in the act of loading a car when the slate came on him, crushing him under it.

—The Christian Church at Monrovia has been reunited, after a separation of many months. The two divisions have been meeting in two different houses, but from this on they will all meet in their house of worship under the leadership of one minister.

—Further reports from Crothersville show that A. J. Slate made a desperate resistance to the White Caps who attacked him. Though he was shot in the left wrist and shoulder, he cut his way clear of the mob with a corn-knife, and then walked four miles in his nightwear to the house of a friend.

—While Milton Ganow, of Marengo, was superintending the blasting of a rock, a dynamite charge, which had failed to go off, subsequently exploded, throwing up fine pieces of rock. Ganow was badly cut in the face and eyes. David Jones was severely injured, and Charles Loughmiller lost one eye and was otherwise hurt.

—Lee Wah Sing, a laundryman of Logansport, has an aged and widowed mother in China, who is desirous of having her son visit her. He has asked the department at Washington if he would be allowed to return, but was informed that he would be debarred by existing law from re-entering the United States upon his return from visiting China.

—A female white child, about three months of age, was found floating in the French island chute of the Ohio River, about fifteen miles below Rockport. The skull was fractured and the body bruised, showing that it had been murdered, after which its clothes had been removed and the body thrown into the river to cover up the crime. There is no clew to the guilty party.

—The Indiana Live Stock Insurance Company, of Crawfordsville, has elected the following new directors: Zack Mahorney, P. C. Somerville, A. F. Ramsey, Jasper N. Davidson, J. H. Wasson, D. H. Rountree, and T. F. Davidson. This company was organized four years ago, and has issued 10,059 policies, carrying $3,000,000; receiving $200,000 therefor. Losses paid, $125,000.

—At the session of the Indiana Miners' Convention, the following officers were elected: President, John Kane, of Coal Bluff; Vice President, Joseph Donkerly, of Dugger; Secretary and Treasurer, Harvey St. John, of Clinton; Auditor, Arthur Davison, of Dugger; Executive Committee, K. P. Hanna, of Carbon; William Winterbottom, of Washington, and Frank Lockard, of Ayreshire.

—Thousands of grasshoppers appeared on the farms in the southwestern part of Daviess county, when the weather was like summer, and commenced an onslaught on the growing wheat. The farmers are trembling for the safety of their crops, fearing that the pests will reappear as soon as the weather moderates. Their appearance is phenomenal there, as grasshoppers in great numbers are practically unknown.

—James Milburn, a lad attending school southeast of Delphi, created a little sensation a few days ago. While sitting in the school-room he amused himself by picking at a dynamite cartridge with a pin. The cartridge exploded, terribly mangling his hands and creating consternation in the school-room. One scholar was so badly frightened that he had to be carried to his home.

—Mrs. Charles Kain, of St. Louis, who has been on a visit for several weeks at the home of her brother, Mr. Ed Clark, at Metamora, dropped dead at the dinner-table. Supposed to be heart disease.

—Last spring "Tuck" Wright was elected City Marshal of Edinburg over George Rath by one vote. The other day, when the ballot-box was taken down for use in a gravel-road election, a vote for Rath was found in it, which, had been counted, would have made the election a tie.

—While Walter Utterbang, a brakeman on the Lake Erie and Western Railroad, was coupling cars at Albany he had his right arm badly crushed by getting caught between the bumpers. The young man resides at Lafayette, whither he was removed.

—The Menominee Transit Company, which is made up of leading citizens of Cleveland, was incorporated with a capital of $2,000,000. It will have six steel steamers built next year, and two later, with which to transport ore from the Escanaba region to Lake Erie ports.

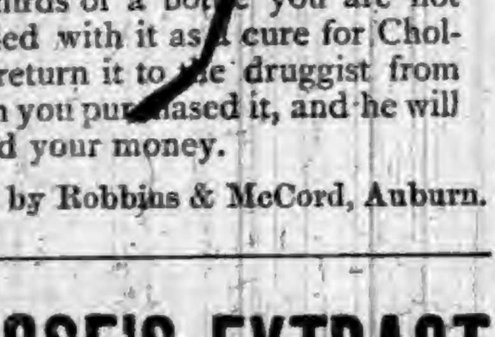
GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM THE GREAT Blood Purifier.

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS,



TRADE MARK

IT CURES

Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

Price, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.

J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST. UNDERWOOD'S CELEBRATED WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, Etc

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.

TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

163 LaSalle St. CHICAGO. | 30 Vesey St. NEW YORK. | 10 Johnston St. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE

Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. Brightine cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. A. Gilliam, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

Chicago, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, Brightine entirely cured me. A. C. Smith, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. Brightine cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.

St. Louis, April 24, '88. Brightine gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 900 Franklin Av.

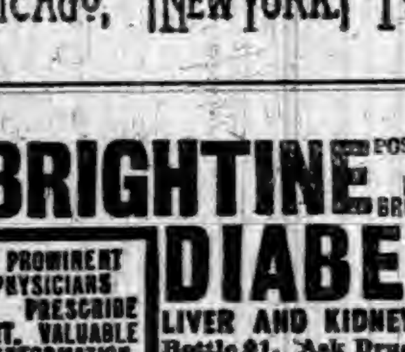
St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. Brightine has all the virtues claimed. Mastbrook, D'gs 109 S. B'way.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend Brightine highly. Rev. John Hawkes.

Chicago Times, March 28, '88-Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.

Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros. J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE



EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT

POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN

STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'R'S PHILADELPHIA, PA.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of Steketee's Dry Bitters will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

IN THE DARK.

BY JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

O, in the depths of midnight,
 When fancies haunt the brain,
When even the sigh of the sleeper
 Sounds like a sob of pain.

A sense of awe and of wonder
 I may never well define,
For the thoughts that come in the shadows
 Never come in the shine.

The old clock down in the parlor,
 Like a sleepless monach grieves,
And the seconds drip in the silence
 As the rain drips from the eaves.

And I think of the hands that signal
 The hours there in the gloom,
And wonder what angel watchers
 Wait in the darkened room.

And I think of the smiling faces
 That used to watch and wait,
Till the click of the clock was answered
 By the click of the opening gate.

They are not there now in the evening—
 Morning or noon—not there;
Yet I know that they keep their vigil,
 And wait for me somewhere.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER VI.

A SPANISH KNIFE.

The Grand Hotel was very quiet that evening. Very properly there was no music, no dancing in the big ball-room. The horror of death, violent, mysterious death, was on the house. People went about sadly, speaking in grave, hushed tones, and long before the usual hour the whole place was silent and shut for the night.

It could not have been much more than six next morning when I went down-stairs, and there was no one about but the sweepers and housemaids at their customary work. On my way to the ground staircase I passed within a dozen yards of No. 99, and for the life of me I could not resist going to the door—it was still securely locked—and beyond it to the window of the fire-escape.

"I wonder whether the police have searched the ground below?"

And with this idea I went down-stairs and out of the front door of the hotel. Very few people were about, and I had the esplanade all to myself as I had passed along the front of the house—there was a short terrace of them—and, turning the corner, entered the back alley which I had noticed from above.

As I thus mused, my eyes were busy searching the place, while I turned over the grass with the end of my foot.

Suddenly it came in contact with a hard substance, and at the same moment I caught sight of something glittering among the green luxuriant growth.

"Ha! this is luck. What have we here?" And I stooped to pick up my treasure trove.

It was a knife, a strange, uncouth weapon, of peculiar shape and curious workmanship, such as I had never seen before. The long, curved handle of brass, rudely chased with an arabesque pattern, the blade as long, having the same curve as the handle, but two-edged for the last six inches of its length.

I now saw, on looking more closely at the blade, that it bore certain words engraved near the haft. The name and address of the maker, probably, or—my heart beat at the thought—the name of the man who had owned the knife—which?

Both: On the haft, in the usual place, were the words:

J. NOMDEDIOU. ALBACETE.

The maker's name. Evidently this was a Spanish cuchillo, an Albacete knife. I had heard of them before; but what was the other name inscribed more roughly lengthways on the blade?

XAVIER DE YRIARTE.

The name, unless all logic was false, of the murdered man. His knife, poor creature, stolen, snatched up, who shall say? and turned against himself to drink his life's blood.

As I turned it over, absorbed and engrossed in the contemplation of the horrible thing, I was struck suddenly with the peculiar formation of the handle of the knife. This was flat through eight inches of its length; after that it became cylindrical and tapered away. The end was as slender as the point of a little finger, and this end, I observed, was denuded of brass, and showed the inner sheath or lining on which the handle was constructed.

"Something has fallen off here. What—a ring?"

Almost as quickly as the thought flashed across my mind, I extracted the ring from my waistcoat pocket and tried it on the end of the knife. It fitted exactly; its arabesque ornament harmonized with the rest of the handle. This evidently was the place from which it had fallen, and to which it rightly belonged.

I was very eager to communicate with the police. It was right that they should know exactly what I had discovered, and the conclusions to which the new facts pointed unmistakably. Accordingly, as neither Mr. Smart nor Hasnip came to the hotel that morning, I went round to the Sessions House in search of them.

Mr. Smart sent out with many apologies to say he could not see me for half an hour, as he was engaged with the Watch Committee; but perhaps I would not mind waiting.

While I waited in the outer office, Hasnip came in, his usually stolid, impassive face beaming with satisfaction.

"Any one with the chief?" he asked, eagerly; and then, catching sight of me, he went on: "Oh, Mr. Leslie, glad to see you. Any news? I have. Come in with me to Mr. Smart, and I will tell you both at the same time."

He was so exultant at this news that he seemed to have lost any ill-feeling toward me.

"Well, Hasnip," said Mr. Smart, when we were introduced and had exchanged greetings, "you seem pleased."

"Great news, sir; I have traced the pin."

"No; impossible!" we both cried; but, however doubting my exclamation, it was uttered, I confess, with a sinking heart.

"Traced beyond question. I took your advice, sir, and went around to all the jewelers in town just to ask if any of them had seen anything of the kind before."

"Well, had they?"

"Linklaw & Stray have had this very pin through their hands. Mr. Linklaw can swear to it."

"Does he remember when and how?"

"Perfectly, he can swear to the person who brought it into the shop. A stone had got loose and had to be reset."

"Who brought it?"

"Mr. Linklaw did not know the name, but he described the person exactly, and to oblige me he went as far as the Grand Hotel, where he identified her beyond doubt."

"Her? A woman then?"

"Of course. Miss Clara Bertram; no one else." And when Hasnip said this he turned triumphantly on me.

"Admitting so much even that she had entered No. 99, you must have more to convict her, or even accuse her of the murder. Now, I have much better evidence than that against another person."

"You have? Since when?" shouted both the police officers, in almost a breath.

"I need not repeat here all that I had found out against Captain Fawcett; to do so would be to weary the reader by going over ground already traveled.

I told them all I had heard. I reminded them of his conduct, and I laid particular stress on his confusion when I showed him the little brass ring, recounting here my discovery of the bloody knife and its manifest connection with the ring.

"None of these facts taken singly are sufficient to base a charge against Fawcett," said Mr. Smart; "but, as a whole, the man's peculiar behavior in seeking to lead the inquiry astray, the waiter's evidence of the quarrel, Mrs. Sarsfield's upbraiding, all these as a whole, I will admit, look very black, indeed."

"Unless some satisfactory explanation is offered, he is, beyond question, very seriously implicated," added Hasnip.

"I will send a man up to London to make inquiries at the Spanish Embassy or Consulate. What did you say was the name?"

"Xavier de Yriarte, a name sufficiently striking and uncommon to be noticeable, and therefore easily traced."

"And I will devote myself to Captain Fawcett," said Hasnip. "What will you do, Mr. Leslie? Watch the ladies? That's rather in your line. You can get into conversation with them and try to draw them out."

"I hardly know them," I protested, anxious to excuse myself from the unworthy role.

"You seemed very sweet on the young lady yesterday," retorted Hasnip, shyly, "and she is bound to be grateful to you for having stood her friend. Besides—who knows?—you may be doing them a good turn, to say nothing of acting in the interests of justice."

"You will promise to take no steps against this young lady without letting me know?" I said, by way of making terms.

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Smart. "Nothing shall be done in a hurry; you may rely on me for that. Only mind you keep our counsel and your own."

With this we parted.

CHAPTER VII.

THE SARSFIELD ANTECEDENTS.

I had no opportunity of speaking to the ladies that morning when I returned to the hotel. It was past luncheon time, and the visitors who generally assembled for that meal had once more separated to follow their own devices. Life at Bythesea followed the usual lines of such holiday resorts—bathing in the forenoon, lounging on the Esplanade till lunch time, then a lazy hour or two indoors, till, in the afternoon, people turned out, more or less smartly dressed, to walk or drive while they listened to the band.

I had no real intention of intruding upon Mrs. Sarsfield and her sister, notwithstanding the wishes of the police; but, as fate would have it, I encountered Miss Bertram alone upon the Esplanade.

To lift my hat as we passed was but an ordinary act of courtesy, and I found it impossible to resist speaking a few commonplace words when I saw her return my greeting with a shy, graceful bow, and blushing consciously.

"You are no worse, I trust, from what happened yesterday? I am so sorry to think that I was a party to anything that annoyed you."

"Oh! pray do not mention it. Do not speak of it again. I was silly to be so upset; but after that terrible morning I was ready to go into hysterics at the slightest thing."

"It was terrible, wasn't it? Poor fellow! to meet his end in that way."

"Do not speak of it, I implore you! I would give worlds, whole worlds, it had never happened—for all our sakes, but especially for his, poor fellow!"

"You knew him?"

I could not forbear asking the question.

"I? Oh, dear, no. Why should you think so?"

What could I reply? Should I remind her of the strange impression conveyed by her stealthy visit to No. 99? Or should I confess to her that I had laid hands upon the second hair-pin in her own bedroom?

"I can guess why you hesitate. But you are wrong; you misinterpret my conduct. It can be so easily explained—some day, perhaps, but not now. Do not ask me, please—not now. Not another word about this, I implore. See, there is my sister. I must go to her; she will want me."

"Mrs. Sarsfield is not alone; your friend, Captain Fawcett, is with her."

"My friend!" There was no mistaking the haughty scorn with which she repeated the expression.

"He does not seem to stand very high in your good graces, Miss Bertram. Forgive me if I have used the wrong word; but, as he is so much with you, I concluded he was a great friend."

"He is an old friend of my sister's. They met years ago in Spain."

"Mr. Sarsfield, you know, was a Spanish merchant," went on Miss Bertram, with the pretty fluency of an unaffected, confiding girl.

"A Spanish merchant, you said?"

"A Spanish—or, more exactly, a Cuban. Mr. Sarsfield's principal business was at Havana, but he had a branch house at Cadiz, and often came there; that was where he first met Anna."

"And where she met Captain Fawcett?"

"I suppose so, but I never heard exactly. But, see, my sister is beckoning me; I must go to her at once." She said this in a timid way, as though she were afraid of Mrs. Sasfield.

"Let me escort you," I said.

"Not a word to her, please, about—you know—about—the hair-pin."

"You can rely on my discretion, Miss Bertram, and on me, now or at any time," I added, with some emphasis.

"Thank you so much. You are good and kind, I can see that. Some day, perhaps——"

"Where have you been Clara?" The interruption, spoken sharply, almost angrily, was Mrs. Sarsfield's. "Who is this?" and she looked at me with rather ill-mannered inquiry, instead of finishing her sentence.

"I was able to do Miss Bertram a slight service yesterday," said I, raising my hat. "We are staying at the same hotel."

"Don't you know Mr. Leslie?" cried Mr. Fawcett, who was standing close by. "He is connected with the Bythesea police."

I turned upon Captain Fawcett, meaning to call him to account very sharply.

"You have no right to make such an assertion," I began. "It is quite unfounded."

"Is it? That is the way with you detectives, you always hate to be known."

"A detective?" said Mrs. Sarsfield, her manner toward me changing completely then and there. The incivility of her address gave place to an eager, anxious, almost cringing politeness! "A detective! How very interesting. Are you engaged in any particular case just now?"

She tried to say this unconcernedly, but there was a tremulousness in her voice which convinced me that she attached deep importance to my reply.

Captain Fawcett answered for me.

"Of course. He is busy with the murder—the affair of No. 99." He had toned down the expression, no doubt, out of consideration for the ladies' nerves.

I waited anxiously to say what Mrs. Sarsfield would do next. She evidently knew something of a damaging nature, and had been compelled by his outspoken caution to stop short when on the verge of betraying it. She knew more than I did, I was certain. She had gained within the last day some convincing proofs against him, but was restrained from saying more by the power he evidently had over her.

The more I thought of this the more resolved I became to make Mrs. Sarsfield speak; to induce her somehow or other, by strategem, adroit questioning, or, if need be, by menace, to tell me what she knew about Captain Fawcett.

"Let us go back to the hotel, Clara," said Mrs. Sarsfield, hoarsely. "Are you coming, Captain Fawcett?"

"Certainly, I will accompany you. We will leave Mr. Leslie to persecute some one else with a subject that seems to absorb him so entirely. Good day! I hope you will find your occupation agreeable."

"I shall stick to it, rest assured: the criminal shall not escape," I replied in a half whisper.

"Perhaps so. But it ought not to be difficult to get the better of you with all the Bythesea police at your back," was his contemptuous answer, as he walked away with the ladies.

Mrs. Sarsfield, who still appeared greatly agitated, took no further notice of me; but Clara cast back one furtive, pleading glance, which I interpreted as an entreaty to spare her sister, and herself, too!—to spare them any further reference to the murder in No. 99.

CHAPTER VIII.

SISTERLY AFFECTION.

When I returned to the hotel toward evening I found Hasnip waiting for me there in the hall.

"Ah, Mr. Leslie, I wanted to see you."

His voice grated rather harshly on my ear, and his manner was not cordial.

"Well, here I am. What have you to say?" "This is too public a place; we'll go over there into the manager's private room." And he led the way through the bar into an inner office, which we had to ourselves.

"You have been leading us astray," he said.

"Not intentionally, I swear. You shall not impute anything of the kind."

"It's all about this Fawcett; you were altogether on the wrong track. He was away—had gone that afternoon to Garchester, and did not return till the very last train; that would not land him here at Bythesea till 1:30 o'clock, and he could not get to the hotel for half an hour or more."

"Cornelis did not tell me the truth, then."

How could he have heard Captain Fawcett quarreling with the murdered man? That part of his story was manifestly untrue. Why had he lied to me? Was the quarrel a pure invention on his part? More perplexity! The case grew more and more involved and confused.

"I have nothing to do with the waiter," said Hasnip, roughly, when I mentioned this seemingly useless misrepresentation. "I mean to deal now with what I know only. We are in possession of certain distinct facts. There is the hair-pin and the ownership of it; these circumstances must be traced home."

"Home?"

"Yes, we must devote our attention to the person I first suspected, and on whom, in my opinion, something more than mere suspicion now rests."

"You mean Miss Bertram?"

"Yes, the young lady—your friend."

"You would not dare to arrest her without more evidence. It would be monstrous; as much as your place is worth."

"It's the Bench that acts, not me."

"The Bythesea Bench would be held up to scorn and derision throughout the whole country, when this conduct became publicly known."

My vehement protests seemed to have some effect upon the generally stolid and self-satisfied detective.

"You don't think we have enough to go upon?" he asked; and there was undoubted hesitation in his voice.

"Well, have you? Do you think so yourself? Granted that the pin is proved to be Miss Bertram's, you have no evidence to show she dropped it."

"May be not. It may be wiser, safer, to hold one's hand a bit. I don't mind doing so, if you will give me your help."

"How can I?"

"Get Mrs. Sarsfield to talk. Extract from her somehow or other what she knows, whom she wishes to shield."

"That was my idea, I will admit, although I do not see for the moment how to carry it out."

"I leave that to you. Only I promise to hold over the warrant for another day to give you a chance."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

An Interesting Story.

A man who once owned San Francisco lives in this city, writes a Fall River, Mass., correspondent, and he tells an interesting story of the manner in which Leidesdorff acquired the property which is now the object of a big lawsuit, involving $40,000,000. His name is Peter Clark. He went to California in 1849, accompanied by a number of the soldiers of the Forty-sixth New York Regiment, with whom he served in the Mexican war.

On their way to the gold-fields they fell in with a priest of the Dolores mission who advised them not to go on before they had staked out a claim on a tract of land which he pointed out as being destined to become a large settlement. The place seemed to be nothing but a long stretch of sand-hills, with only one building in sight. The priest's prophecy came true, for the city of San Francisco grew up on that very site. Clark and three of his companions decided to take the good father's advice, and staked out a tract of forty acres. They had not been on it long before Leidesdorff, and Folsom arrived with nineteen men of the stamp one doesn't like to meet after dark. The location seemed to strike the leaders favorably, and they determined to have it. Their arguments were of 32-caliber weight. After two of Clark's party had been killed and the other had nearly starved to death, fearing to go away in search of food, the survivors decided to strike the claim and go to the gold fields. Leidesdorff took possession at once, and now the value of the tract is written with a long string of figures.

Random Thoughts.

Insects have so fine eyes that perhaps they see air.

The worst thing that can befall a man in this world is shrinkage.

A sailor instead of attempting to teach his parrot English, sets himself seriously at work to learn parrot language. It seems to me far more logical.

He who, meeting a pleasant temptation, stops to shake hands with it, will generally end by going with it wherever it chooses to lead him.

There are times in every life when the soul is ready to cry out in the words of the Arabic proverb, "What cares heaven for the barking of the dogs?"

It is possible that Americans may in time become as superbly ill-bred as the English, but as yet allowances must be made; our country is young—very young.

When one comes to understand how others have been tempted of the devil, he may be sure that he will not live much longer without himself being led into the wilderness.

Many people who profess profound faith in God, yet show by their lives that they believe him to be blind of one eye.

When a man begins to philosophize in regard to women his first feeling is apt to be one of contempt; to this succeeds a sentiment of profound pity, which in turn gives way to one of equally strong admiration.

The elements of geometry were compiled by Euclid, 280 B. C. This author introduced a device of reasoning that has been found very useful where neither the direct proof (the synthetic method) nor the analytic method could be readily used; it consists in proving the truth of a proposition by assuming it contrary to truth, and showing that this implies a logical absurdity.

LETTERS FROM THE CORNERS.

Waiting for "Bob-Tail Horse Cars."

Neck or Nothin' Hall,
Kilkenny Corners.

MR. EDITUR: I no you air awful anxious to hear the rest about Mis Boggs' bow, an I hed kalkalated to tell you in my last, but Mis Perkins, from over on to Spider Crick, cum a visitin, an so I cood not, but I will this time, shore.

Es I wus a sayin when I bruck off afore Willam Henery an Sally both tuck out thare wallets, but I sees:

"No, you don't, mister man; I rede the papers," ses I, "an you kint kim nun o' your slick games over me." An, sir, thay wus thet skeered; the stranger he made a grab fur Sally's wallet an most got it away frum her, an did git 4 shillin out of it afore he run off; but the Mager he never stopped fur nuthin, but got rite out o' thet.

"O! my hart is bruck!" ses the widder, a layin her hans over her stummick.

"Well, it hed better be thet then yure pocketbook," ses I, sturnly; "an I hope this will be a lessing to you, an thet you won't take up with every strange feller you meat," ses I, fur I wus riled to her, an Willam Henery wus so grean.

"Why, maw," ses Mary Tabithy, "yure sharper than me, an I hev lived hear goin on to 7 munths."

"I'm older'n you," ses I, camly, "an now les git out o' hear," an we went down the same way we kim up, an got out on the side walk agin without enny dammidge.

"I mus go home now, but you kin go on up an see the park an annimules an things," ses Mary, "an when you git reddy to kim home take a bob-tail horse keer fur 'g' strete an git off thare an its only 7 blocks to whare I live strate a hed."

We tole her we cood find it an then we went off to the park.

Yes, thet's what thay call it, tho thay haint but only a dozen or so trees in it an thay are dretful scrubby little ones; but thay hed some nice music, an es Willam Henery ses, the trees wood grow. Thay wus sum vary nice dear in the park an the widder wus jest crazy fur one of em.

"Do you think thay'd sell one of 'em?" ses she to the man thet wus a takin keer of 'em. "I've always jest farely pined fur a lovely little dear," ses she. "No'm, I don't think thay'd sell enny of 'em, but most ladies now takes to them little dawgs over thare better than thay do to dears," ses the man. An then we went over thare an seen 'em an thay was sorter cute fur dogs, but the widder she jest took a conniption fit over 'em. "I feal thet ef I hed one of them sweat little darlins it wood fill the akin void lef in my brest by thet falts, fickle man," and she wiped her nose on her hankercher an whuspered to me, "Is my bangs all fluffy an rite?"

I tole her thay wus, an by ther time we thot it best to wate fur the bob-tail horse-keer, so we sot down an wated an wated, an thare wus lots of keers a goin this way an thet, sum hed horses on to em an sum didn't, but thay wan't a bob-tail horse amongst the hull lot.

Well, sir, we stood an waited tell my corns near about killed me, an a perleece kim up an tole us to "move off."

"We're a waitin fur a bob-tail horse-keer," ses Willam Henery, "an thay haint nary a one pass here yit."

Then he arsked us whare we wunted to go an we tole him, an he sed the horses tails didn't hev nothin to do with it, an tole us what keer to git on, an it didn't even hev any horses on to it, but we got home all rite, that is to Mary's, an the day arfter we went to John Jamese's. Forever thine,

HESTER ANN SCOOPER.

Why He Wouldn't Baptize 'Em.

The following is a true story, and is well worth printing: Two young ladies of this city were desirous of joining one of the prominent Episcopalian churches, but as they had been taught that immersion was the true form of baptism, they wished, on joining themselves to the church, to be baptized in that manner. They stated their wishes to the pastor, and he expressed himself entirely willing to administer the ordinance in that form, but as there were no conveniences in the church edifice for the purpose, it would be necessary to go outside—to the frog pond on the common, or the pretty lakelet in the Public Garden. They looked upon this proposal with horror. They could not think of it, could not think of making such a spectacle of themselves.

"Then," said the genial pastor, "you had better go to the Baptist Church for the purpose, and after baptism, if you desire it, you will be received into the Episcopalian fold."

The ladies were delighted with the suggestion and as soon as convenient called upon a prominent Baptist pastor and made known their wish to be baptized.

"Certainly," replied the pastor, "but there are certain preliminaries to be gone through before baptism, certain preparations to be made. It is a solemn ordinance, one not to be lightly submitted to, and, by the way, it appears to me strange that you have not previously consulted me, that the preparations so necessary——"

"Oh! we are already prepared," said the young ladies.

"Already prepared?"

"Yes; we do not intend to become members of your church; we only want to be baptized, as we believe immersion to be the proper form of baptism. We are going to join the Episcopalian Church."

"Oh! that's it," said the pastor, rising; "then permit me to inform you, my dear young ladies, that we do not wash Episcopalian sheep here."—Boston Courier.

The Dahl process of preserving milk by sterilizing it and excluding atmospheric germs is stated to have come into use only in Norway, but efforts are now being made to introduce it into England. In this process fresh milk is placed in cans, which are hermetically sealed and then alternately heated and cooled until every organism or germ is supposed to have been destroyed. Milk thus treated may be kept in the unopened cans for an indefinite period, and has been found after three years to have the taste and appearance of the best fresh milk.

One reason why a fat man doesn't catch cold as easily as a lean man, is because he is so much wrapped up in himself.

FULL WEIGHT PURE DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING: HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.

By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.

Octavo, 800 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.

WE ESPECIALLY INVITE LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS,

to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.

(When writing, mention this paper.)

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young.

Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling.........	am *7 25	9 10	9 15	9 35	pm †3 15
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 08	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus.....ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 08
Deshler..........	3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 23	5 43	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 24	10 23	2 58
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 03	10 47	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	1 10	am 12 05	4 15
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35
Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago......lv	am *10 10	pm *1 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc.......	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 28
Avilla...........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 38	3 22	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 45
Mansfield........	8 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 20
Wheeling.....ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh...ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

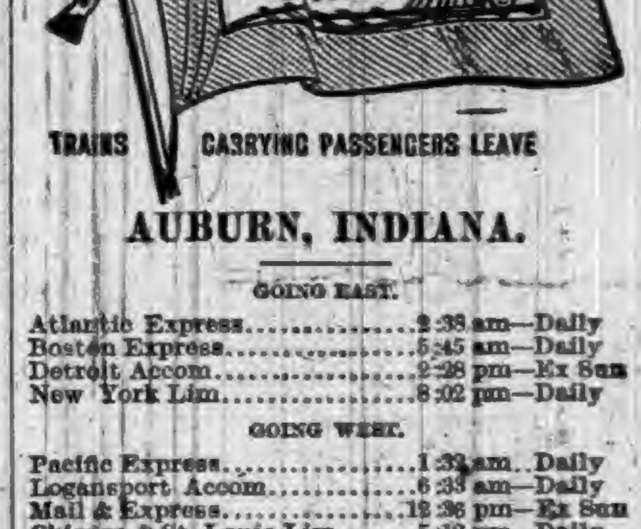
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.....dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era..........	12 22 pm	5 16	7 20
Auburn Junc......	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn...........	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo.........	12 50	5 42	9 28
Summit...........	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake....	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola...........	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont..........	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading..........	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers..........	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale........	2 27	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc..	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville.......	2 47	7 41	4 30
Jackson..........	3 45	8 40	6 03

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson..........	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville.......	8 50	12 14 pm	7 32
Fort Wayne Junc..	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale........	......	12 30	7 45
Bankers..........	9 40	12 56	8 02
Reading..........	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont..........	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola...........	12 01	1 55	8 58
Pleasant Lake....	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit...........	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo.........	2 35	2 35	9 22
Auburn...........	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc......	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era..........	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne.......	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..................2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express....................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.....................2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim......................8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express...................1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom..................6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express....................12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim...........5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD, A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

INDURATED FIBRE WARE
INDESTRUCTIBLE LIGHT
NO HOOPS, SEAMLESS

INDURATED FIBRE WARE. ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE! HAS NO HOOPS! NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED! NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER! HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY. PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c. LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.

CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.

FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS. FULL PRICE LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.......JANUARY 23, 1890

WE again remind our republican friends, that we are still waiting for the answer to our question. "If a protective tariff makes the article affected cheaper, how will it protect the manufacturer, or enable him to pay better wages?"

THE sudden death of Walker Blaine, eldest son of Secretary of State, at his home in Washington last week was a very sad event. He had greatly improved in public estimate, since he made himself rather ridiculed as an assistant to his father, when the latter was Garfield's Secretary of State, and had, in fact, begun to show himself a man of good ability, with a fair prospect, that he would some day, be as well known as his father. His death was caused by exposure, followed by the grip, and that by pneumonia. His father is quite prostrated by the blow.

HARRISON AND MORTON, are turning out to be excellent temperance men. Last Thursday evening the vice-president gave a grand dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and a few others. And this is what the press reports say of the "layout."

"As each place were four wine glasses, a goblet and cut-glass carafe and an odd shaped decanter of wine, in addition to which were several cut-class and open work silver tankards."

It strikes one that this was making the drinks a leading article, especially for a man like Harrison, who allowed it to go out during campaign that "his lips never touched wine and never would." And what will become of all the fervent thanks offered after election was over, that "we will now have a strictly temperate administration?"

THE Press fears the "overthrow of our manufacturing interests if free trade prevails." But no one asks for free trade,—no one ever has or is ever likely to do so. What is asked is to reduce the rate, till it will only bring in what money the government actually needs. But even if "free trade" were brought about, it would not destroy our manufacturing interests. They are able to take care of themselves and always have been. All this cry comes from those who would like greater profits when they already make great enough. And they find plenty who are silly enough to listen to them. It is a shame that Americans will shout to the whole world "We are weaker than you, and need the strong arm of government to protect us from your superior strength superior skill and superior genius." No, we are not weak, or unskillful. Our manufacturers are strong enough but they are at the same time over greedy, and many are foolish enough to sustain them in their greed.

THE FT. WAYNE JOURNAL of Jan. 16, says:

"The Garrett Clipper says that a new democratic paper at Auburn, is one of the things talked of. The Journal is free and fair to say that such a movement is suicidal. The Auburn COURIER, by all odds, is one of the ablest democratic papers in the state. Its democracy is above par and its age and service give it a prestige that no other paper could attain in a quarter of a century. The Journal advises the democrats of DeKalb county to stand by the COURIER and we will guarantee that it will grow greater in force and usefulness if properly supported. The trouble and truth about the matter is that the weekly newspapers do not receive the support their services merit, and wherever one paper is neglected two will die a natural death from starvation."

Now, we feel highly flattered by the Journal's good opinion so frankly expressed, and assure them that DeKalb people, feel just as they do in regard to the COURIER. So well, are the people of Auburn and DeKalb county suited with the COURIER that there is no thought on the part of any responsible person, that we are to have another democratic paper in Auburn, or that we ought to have one. There is absolutely no such talk. If the Journal knew the Clipper editor as well as he is known here, it would know how little reliance is to be placed on anything it says. Its editor is a born liar, a plain fool and a drunken dead beat, who at the time he penned that article was just cooling his head after a two week's drunk in Auburn, which unfortunately for the community, is his home. He and his brother at Garrett, are both too well known here, to stir up any great amount of strife. Their paper is a disgrace to journalism, and a standing menace to the morals of the community. Only a few reputable citizens take the disreputable thing, and those mainly because they do not care to be black-mailed, or lied about if they stop it. And one of its peculiarities is, that when its usually abundant stock of slush runs low, it will chip in the stale lie, that another democratic paper is to be established here. There has never been such a thought here, in the mind of anyone with money enough to pay his poll tax, or with brains enough to think of anything more reasonable. The Journal is right, when it says that the weekly newspapers of the country do not receive the support their services merit. But the democracy of this county will follow the Journal's advice, and "stand by the COURIER," and we copy the Journal's kind words, as much for the pleasure of our home democrats, as for our own, for we know they will be glad to read it.

Dr. Mott on Speer's Wine.

Dr. Mott, of the Bellevue Hospital College, gives his unqualified endorsement to Speer's Wines; and recommends their use to sickly females and consumptives. It can be procured of any first-class druggist in the country.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

C. M. Phillips went to Ft. Wayne last Tuesday.

George Ralston, of Auburn, was here last Wednesday.

Rev. Mygrants came home from Ft. Wayne Monday.

H. H. Knott is still confined to his room with lung disease.

The meetings in the U. B. church still continue this week.

Porter is selling kettles with porcelain lining and a patent lid.

The Wrens were here last Friday evening, had a very good house.

Tuesday is claimed to be the coldest day we have had this winter.

S. Arnold and wife have returned from an extended visit in Michigan.

Mrs. N. T. Jackman has just recovered from a severe attack of the grip.

The elders of the U. B. church were here for a short time, a few days ago.

We learn that one of Mr. Gruhlke's parrots took the grip and died with it.

Mrs. Graves has moved into part of the dwelling occupied by Mr. Metevier.

Work in the broom factory was suspended part of last week, for want of wire.

There is a report that Herman Grueter is married. We give it for what it is worth.

Mr. John Koonz has been very sick with the prevailing influenza, but is now improving.

Several persons from Waterloo attended the funeral of David Ocker, of Garrett, last Sunday.

Mrs. Berry Lowery, of Howard City, Michigan, has been here some days visiting her relatives.

Rev. W. Danes, of Hartsville, Ind., was here last Friday on his way home from Blissfield, Michigan.

Miss Jennie Tedrow, a former Waterloo girl died at Churubusco on last Sunday of typhoid fever.

The last of the machinery of the old handle factory has been sold, and is packed ready for shipping.

Go to Speer & Co and buy one dollars' worth of merchandise and they will give you a fine calendar of 1890.

Rev. H. C. Smith went to Summit to commence a series of meetings at Barker's church, Monday evening.

Wednesday evening the Rebecca lodge had a public installation of officers, to which the members invited their friends

Mrs. Smith, wife of Rev. Smith, gave a supper to her Sunday school class of young ladies, Monday evening. They had a very enjoyable time.

A partnership has been formed between Mart Rinesmith and John McEnderfer, for the manufacture of ax handles They will put in saws and more hands for shaving.

We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the first issue of "Hoosier Tidings," by D. H. Kime, of Kendallville. This is a sprightly little monthly and starts out under very favorable auspices.

Some of the young men of this place are talking of organizing a band of music They say they prefer to spend their evenings in this way, rather than to hang around the saloons. Good idea.

The Waterloo Broom M'f'g Co., held its annual election of the stockholders last week. More business was done than in any former year The directors found it necessary to make some retrenchments and made a cut of 10 per cent on wages in the shop, which by giving more steady employment to men, will make it the best place in town to work in.

The first contest in the court, in the north Ohio conference of the U. B church, for the possession of church property was heard at Wauseon, Ohio, a few days ago resulting in victory for the liberals. The matter as told us is thus Both parties had agreed to use the house on alternate Sundays, and had employed a janitor, not a member of the church, who was instructed to open the house for each party. But the radicals were in the majority, and afterward concluded not to abide this agreement, and to this end broke in a window and put a new lock on the door and then refused to let the liberals into the house. The liberals then took out a writ of injunction, and the case was argued and decided as above stated.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Fred Gengnagel is reported quite sick.

La grippe has finally grappled with a few of our people.

The mud embargo was raised last Saturday and it filled our streets to repletion

Thurston's meat market in the saloon row is doing a fair business for a new venture in that vicinity.

The revival at the M. E. church continues with moderate success. The quarterly occasion will be next Sabbath.

Henry Tintsman, a resident of Butler, for a few years is about to remove to Troy township, to a farm purchased from L. B. Rose.

C. S. Stoy still handles the mail for Uncle Sam, and several long faced aspirants are repeating, "How long. Oh how long will this hope deferred last!"

A large number of our people availed themselves of the privilege offered by the officials of the Wabash in sending an extra train, to carry them to the funeral of David Ocker, at Garrett, last Sabbath. He was for many years a resident of Butler.

NEWVILLE.

Aunt Julia Rex continues convalescent.

W. Moody and wife, of Kendallville, are the guests of the widow Ackley.

Boney has his life insured for fear of having his body snatched by Chubb & Cripp.

Rosa Harter has returned from a six weeks siege of hard labor up in the Moorsville neighborhood.

We are glad to find by close observation that we was sadly mistaken in the Dan's back room we spoke of in our last issue, it was coal oil.

The funeral of Alfred Rose's oldest daughter was preached at the Christian church last Sunday the 19th. We all sympathize with the bereaved parents.

On poetry, I will not be quite so small,
But I'll endeavor to please you all.
My subject, is a hunt by Warren and Dock,
G. N., Frank, Dode and Petty, were in the —flock.

They all went out to have a little fun,
Frank says to Dode, let me have the gun!
He was to get a position—that he soon got,
Out jumped the rabbit, he missed his shot.
They laughed at him so, it rattled his brain,
He says, I'll hit the next rabbit, or I'll never shoot again.
But he shot again and again, at last in despair,
He cried: Boys there goes the hare!
He gave up the gun for Warren to try,
When Warren shot, his game was too high
The next shot was by G. N., on the run,
He made a bad shot and gave up the gun.
They all gave up, and never shot another load,
But tracked a rabbit to a sluice in the bend of the road;
They began punching next to Anna's land,
The rabbit jumped through G. N.'s hands.
Discouraged, they all started away,
Saying, let us try it again another day,
They agreed as it was getting late,
To hunt next day up by McCole's gate.

SPENCERVILLE.

J. A. Provines made a flying visit to Indianapolis last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones have been visiting their many friends in this vicinity for several days.

The republicans last week elected John Henderson committeeman in the south precinct, Concord township.

Protracted meeting in the Lutheran church will continue during the present week, and longer, if the interest justifies.

The fourth quarterly meeting for Leo circuit of the M. E. church, will be held at Leo, Saturday and Sunday Jan. 25 and 26.

A considerable number of our citizens attended the township Sunday School convention at St. Joe Thursday. They report a profitable session.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wasson was celebrated by their many friends on Thursday. A large number of persons partook of their hospitality, and left substantial tokens of their good will.

The following brethren have been installed officers of Concord lodge No. 556, F. & A. M.: G. B. Erick, W. M.; T. S. Murray, S. W.; C. A. Rhoads, J. W.; J. H. Murray, Treas.; O. W. Rummell, Sec.; J. A. Provines, S. D.; J. T. Steward, J. D.; J. W. Beams and G. W. A. Smith, Stewards; J. F. Baltz, Tyler.

SUMMIT.

Ed. Hoffman is on the sick list.

Freddie Mortorff is down with the grip.

Margaret Mortorff is visiting friends in Hudson this week.

Mrs. Frank Hilt visited friends in this place last Saturday.

Mrs. Jane Snowberger visited friends in Summit last Tuesday.

Dan. Rogers and wife visited in the family of Amos Sweigart over Sunday.

Rev. H. C. Smith commenced a protracted meeting at Barker's Chapel last Sunday.

John Simpson and wife, of Iowa, took dinner with H. P. R. Lawson's on last Monday.

H. D. Snowberger has purchased twenty acres of land of his father at Steubenville, this week.

LEO.

Everybody is complaining with la grip

The funeral of Miss Lizzie Sauder occurred last Thursday.

The Hotel Hamilton is now ready to accommodate travelers in first-class style.

The funeral of Frank Beechen's wife took place at the M. E church Monday She leaves one child and a husband to mourn her loss.

CONCORD.

Flossie Buchanan has the grip.

R. L. Gillson has returned from Toledo, Ohio.

John Fetters has returned from Michigan.

E. J. Boyle has returned from Waldron, Michigan.

Lu Smith, and Roy Gifford, are on the sick list.

Trustee Dermott visited C. H. Brown's school last Friday.

Blanche Jenkins, of St Joe, spent last Tuesday with Sadie Woodcox.

Miss Lily Jones, of Edgerton, Ohio, is here visiting her sister, Birdie Fetters.

Mr. M. Andrews and wife, of Coburntown attended church here last Sunday.

James Riggins says the teaming business is as hard as the grip. He has the blues.

The two Misses Miller, of Auburn, were the guests of Jennie Hull last Sunday.

A goodly number attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wasson.

Mrs Anna Baker and daughter Della, were the guests of Mrs. S. Baird, of Auburn, last week.

Rev. S. S. Stanton delivered one of his able sermons to a well filled house on last Sabbath.

Miss Gracie Rose departed this life the morning of the 17th. Her funeral took place at the U B. church, and the burial in the Newville cemetery.

Mollie was like meddlesome Mattie. thought she would taste some of Flossie's Christmas candies, but one hard piece stole two of her teeth. She promised her bubby 25 cts., Harry 12½, Mattie 10 cts., if they would not tell Flossie; but after all her mother had to render a full confession.

SEDAN.

Grip, grip till you can't rest.

Henry Strow has typhoid fever.

Mrs. Morrison is convalescing.

It manages to rain every Sunday at Sedan.

Miss Steckley has been on the sick list for some time.

John Wetzel had the grip the whole length of him.

Christopher Rohm sprained his ankle badly last week.

Rev. Pattee will commence a series of protracted meetings at this place soon.

John Peterman says the grip will knock the rheumatism out 99 times out of 100.

GREAT snow storms have been raging in the west, and northwest. In the mountains travel is greatly impeded. At Mt. Shasta, on the Northern Pacific snow is said to be 18 feet on the level, and in some places drifted 30 to 40 feet.

The "Deestrick Skule" was a solid success last Friday evening. The Opera House was full and the vast audience was well entertained. J. W. Baxter was the teacher and his pupils were as numerous and varied as those of the district schools of the old days. Receipts about $84.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1888, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes 1889.

BUTLER TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	46 70
Huston M & D	in s w qr	14	33	12	00	20	1 17
Hillegass Sarah E.	und pt s e pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	12	30	8 75
Miller Lovina	in n e 1-4 s w qr	26	33	12	13	47	7 44
West Curtis S	und 1-3 in e side s w qr	34	33	12	2	00	1 30
do	in s pt s w qr	34	33	12	4	69	2 76
Walter Sarah A	n e frth n e frth n e qr	31	33	12	10	00	6 38
Work W J	e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	73 01
do	und 2-3 w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	17 86
do	und 2-3 pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	38	46	61 22
do	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	9 76
do	und 2-3 w hf n e qr	32	33	12	53	33	115 21
Work M E	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	28	33	12	11	75	4 97
Shuck Henry	L add Cedar Creek lot 1
do	do do 2
do	do do e end 3						8 27
Ensley George	New Era lot 1						3 74
Holbrook Sanford	s e frth n e qr	31	33	12			14 97
do	in s w cor n e frth s e qr	31	33	12			1 16
Rectenwald Eliza L	s hf n w frth n w qr	15	33	12	20	00	18 87
Vandercook Fred	pt s w qr	15	33	12	151	50	82 28

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Bailey Barbara A	n hf s e frth n e qr	33	33	13	20	00	6 43
McClellan Permelia	w end s hf n e qr	3	33	13	30	00	32 01
Magginis Wm deed	pt e hf s e qr	4	33	13	76	67	133 74
do	e hf n e qr	9	33	13	80	00	59 65
Thomas Sophia	in n fre hf n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	6 61
do	pt e e qr	5	33	13	8	95	8 23
Tarney Ann	s end w hf n w qr	24	33	13	60	00	25 70
Stafford Samuel	e hf n e qr	16	33	13	80	00	28 92
Ferguson N P	s end w hf n e qr	29	33	13	8	00	10 12
Amstutz John	e hf n e qr	29	33	13	80	00	23 05

CONCORD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Cole Septimus	in s w qr	28	33	14	00	60	1 43
Ferguson John D	in s e frth s e qr	16	33	14	00	62	4 38
Hennesey James	in s side e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25	3 21
Johnson Rosetta	in n e frth n e qr	16	33	14	1	00	2 04
Kirk Wm B	n hf n w qr	3	33	14	75	20	31 35
Maxwell Jas H	und 1-3 s end w hf n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	2	66	1 41
Milton Susan	s w cor w hf n w qr	9	33	14	2	00	8 25
May J W & H E	und 3-4 n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	30	00	13 92
Morr Adam	e pt w hf n w qr	18	33	14	27	59	14 02
Place Susan	in n e cor s hf s e qr	1	33	14	1	00	1 20
Ricketts Ira	und frth n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	10	00	5 10
Smith James H	s e frth s e qr	8	33	14	40	00	14 86
do	s hf e frth n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	10	00	14 77
Wineland Simon	in s w qr	15	33	14	2	00	31 27
Wineland Elizabeth	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	36	1 37
Hamilton J G	town Orangeville und hf lot 109						38
Harrow J C	do do 109						38
Bair Samuel & Mary	town Spencerville lot 5						7 16
Gifford James B	do 25 ft n pt lot 1						2 01
Rhodes Wm	do 25x30 ft e pt lot 30						6 04
Gill David	C add town St Joe lot 6						4 74
Teatison Martin	L 1st add do lot 8 blk 9						00 00
do	do do lot 9 blk 9						1 82
Walker J F	C add do lot 10						6 90
Dermott John E	in s pt s e frth n e qr	23	33	14	16	00	6 59

NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Beamer D A	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	6 89
Baird Emma E	w hf s w frth s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	11 45
Borden F H	s e frth s e qr	32	23	15	40	00
do	e hf n e frth s e qr	32	33	15	20	00	29 02
Davis Joel	s fr s e qr	7	33	15	78	50	42 09
do	n pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	45	00	25 82
do	in mid pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	14	46	7 70
Fusselman Quincy	s e pt n hf s w qr	6	33	15	1	00	5 10
Fusselman Mary	pt s w qr	6	33	15	00	50	4 43
Jefford David	in n w qr	6	33	15	00	80	78
Kirkbride G W	in s l f n w fr qr	6	33	15	3	00	2 50
Like Julia	in n pt e hf s w qr	5	33	15	00	75	78
Mullenix Moses	n hf n fr hf	9	33	15	55	00	21 79
Milliman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	19	33	15	21	00	7 90
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	6	33	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s w qr	6	33	15	7	48	18 50
Palmerton Geo N	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	00	1 58
Steel Martin A	s w frth s e qr	17	33	15	40	00	23 39
Tarney John W	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	50
do	do	6	33	15	3	77	7 81
Aikens Hales	Vienna pt of lot 44
do	do do 41						10 23
Catlett David	do lot 24
do	do 25						9 91
Fell Amos C	do 58
do	do n e hf lot 51						6 93
Friend Nancy	do lot 3						78
Harter Bryaney	do 30
do	do 89						2 19
Like Julia	do 2						2 62
Maxwell Margaret	do n w pt lot 46						1 71
Rex Joseph	do lot 63						3 56
Salmon Matilda	do 30 ft n end lot 44
do	do 18x28 ft n e cor lot 37
do	do 30 ft n end lot 41						4 05
Stepleton Anthony	do 30 ft n end lot 49						58
Whitehurst John	do lot 46
do	do 34
do	do 39						9 91

STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Funk Mary	pt n hf n hf s e qr	18	31	15	39	25	44 45
Flickinger Ezra	n e frth n w qr	18	31	15	40	00	32 10

WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Lockwood P J	s w frac ¼	7	34	14	142	50	316 17
Brown Wm	w hf n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	64 53
Brown Malinda	und 2-15 pt w hf n w qr	31	34	14	10	12	6 44
Clark George	do	31	34	14	10	12	12 00
Carruth C C	e hf n e frth s w qr	26	34	14	20	00	6 16
Hopkins Ezra M	e side s w frth n e qr	7	34	14	25	00	13 63
Hopkins John & Anna	s end w hf w hf s e qr	14	34	14	30	00	21 08
Jennings Sarah E	e side e hf n w qr	7	34	14	30	00	12 52
Palmerton Geo N	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	17 10
Pifer Wm F	e 3-4 s w frth s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	125 03
do	w frth s e frth s w qr	21	34	14	10	00	41 81
Trostel G W	und 4-5 s end w hf s e qr	24	34	14	24	00
do	s e frth s w qr	24	34	14	40	00	30 40
Wickard Wm	s end e hf n e qr	19	34	14	30	00	268 42
Woods Chas W	n pt e hf n e qr	21	34	14	60	00	33 06
Warner Marcia	und 3-15 s w pt s e qr	24	34	14	6	00	5 43
do	und 3-15 e hf n w frth n e qr	25	4	14	4	00	6 72
Platter A W & L M	e hf n e qr	36	24	14	80	00	44 86
Keller Daniel	e hf s w qr	15	34	14	80	00	46 07
do	s e frth n w qr	15	34	14	40	00	17 47
do	w hf s w qr	15	34	14	80	00	27 13
do	pt n hf n w qr	15	34	14	79	00	37 15
Smurr Jane	pt n pt e hf n e qr	19	34	14	20	75	52 40
Hablawetz John	s e frth s e qr	26	34	14	40	00	51 72
Hellinger Jacob	n e frth n w qr	25	34	1	40	00	125 20
do	w hf n w frth n e qr	25	34	14	20	00	43 02
Fay E G	und 4-5 e hf n w frth n e qr	25	34	14	16	00	17 13
Schoup Peter & Mary	n e frth n e qr	25	34	14	40	00	42 77
Kiser John W	pt n hf s e qr	15	34	14	70	00	47 58
Kiser Thos G	in n e cor n hf s e qr	15	34	14	10	00	37 10
Tomlinson Daniel	s pt n w qr	14	34	14	120	00	99 06
Krontz M E	s w ¼ n e qr	15	34	14	40	00	23 27
McCullough Hiram	n w frth s w qr	14	34	14	40	00	31 40
Smurr Cyrus	in s e cor e hf s e qr	16	34	14	1	00	6 37
Pugsley George	w side e hf s e qr	29	34	14	27	50
do	w hf n e frth n e qr	32	34	14	20	00	17 55
Rose Wm A	e side e hf s e qr	29	34	14	25	00	11 70
do	w pt w hf s w qr	28	34	14	28	00	26 46

UNION TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Bowers Lewis	e hf s hf s w qr s e qr	30	34	13	10	00	11 98
Corbin Chas	n e frth s w frth s e qr	1	34	13	10	00
do	n pt w hf n w frth s e qr	1	34	13	5	00
do	in w side s w frth s e qr	1	34	13		65	4 32
Goodwin Wm D	n e cor n w qr	4	34	13	6	07	1 60
Harris Morgan O	pt n w frth s w qr	3	34	13	1	50	4 08
Lower Solomon	in s w cor n w frth s e qr	1	34	13	15	00	8 05
Livergood Jos	w side s e frth n e qr	13	34	13	11	16
do	w side n e frth s e qr	13	34	13	11	16	6 73
Hannah Miser	in n e cor w hf s e qr	9	34	13	3	33	5 81
McNabb Adam	in s w pt s w qr	31	34	13		15	34
Marlett Maggie J	Auburn Junction Spang add lot 39						41
Frick Sidney	Auburn R & H add lot 30						2 34
Myers O P	do E 2d add lot 75						6 74
Quince Geo W	do R & H add lot 78						10 74
Lower Jemima	pt s w frth s e qr	2	34	13	37	00	13 45
Baughman Isaiah	s e frth s e qr	14	34	13	40	00	25 10
do	s w frth s w qr	13	34	13	40	00	19 97
Fisk Royal J	s pt e hf e hf s w qr	12	34	13	25	00	10 92
do	und 1-3 s w frth s e qr	12	34	13	13	33	5 20
Lockwood P J	s e frth s w qr	23	34	13	40	00	6 12

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Guthrie P K	in s e pt s e frth n e qr	2	34	12	1		2 50
McConnell John	und 1-24 s e frth s e qr	1	34	12	1	66	3 48
Murphy Adolphus	in w hf n e qr	4	34	12		25	1 75
Myers & Blatz	in w pt s w frth s w qr	10	34	12		40	7 97
Schrader Margaret	in n w qr	1	34	12		50	58
Gonser Geo	Lawrence lot 50 in n w qr						70
Wright Emily	do O P s hf lot 35						37
Wyrick Jacob	do do lot 63						75
Dunlee James	do do 19						6 24
Jarvis John B	Corunna O P lot 29						1 07
do	do do 52						1 39
do	do Jarvis add lot 3						1 57
do	do do 6						1 66
do	do do 10						1 88

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Hanna James T	s w frth s w qr	3	35	12	40	00	3 99
Hinkley Amanda	s end w hf n e qr	25	35	12	47	00	18 51
Lower Wm B	in n e pt n w qr	22	35	12	1	50	7 44
Shade Judson	in n w cor n e frth s w qr	5	35	12	1	50	4 05
Sthair John	in n pt n e qr	22	35	12	1	50	3 19

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Buck Jefferson	e ½ e hf s e qr	1	35	13	40	00	20 06
Bell John W	e hf n w qr s e qr	23	35	13	20	00	11 11
Freed Peter	s e cor n w qr	16	35	13	1	00	1 26
Mulvey Wm	s hf s w qr	12	35	13	80	00	30 05
Myers Barbara E	in s w qr	18	35	13	12	25
do	in n pt n w qr	19	35	13	1	75	7 01
Mortorff Samuel	s w frth s w qr	15	35	13	37	00	24 64
Ball Augustus	n hf s e qr	3	35	13	10	00	22 29
Keys Maria	s hf s e qr	3	35	13	80	00	28 10
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e frth s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	22 31

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Aldrich Sarah	in sw cor sw qr	13	35	14	24	36	14 98
Beard Jeff Trustee	pt se qr	28	35	14	150	00	83 28
Cummings Martha	se pt nw fr qr	2	35	14	8	30
do	in sw cor ne qr	2	35	14	4	30	6 19
Enzor Stephen	n hf sw frth nw qr	13	35	14	20	00	9 80
do	ne frth ne qr	14	35	14	40	00	24 44
Oberl'n Wm	s hf se qr	15	35	14	80	00	65 32
Willard Henry	in nw qr	2	35	14		25	92
Nelson Isaac	sw frth nw qr	25	35	14	40	00	36 09
Musser Catherine	ne frth nw qr	7	35	14	40	00	12 96

TROY TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Freeby John	und 9-10 ne cor sw qr	7	35	15		90
do	do se qr	7	35	15	154	00	57 72
Rickard Nancy	in s pt n hf sw qr	16	35	15	22	00	10 06
Rickard James	n end e hf n e qr	30	35	15	11	50	7 67
Sise Francis	s hf sw qr	8	35	15	80	00	16 29

KEYSER TOWNSHIP.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Cabe Frederick	pt ne qr	3	33	12		31	5 77
Depew John	w side w hf ne qr	30	34	12	66	67	48 18
Goetschius James	s hf w hf w hf nw qr	26	34	12	20		8 35
Hanna James T	nw frth se qr	33	34	12	40		173 07
Myers & Hersler	und 2-3 in w pt w hf nw qr	2	33	12		67	5 50
Offen M A & Hudson L S	in ne pt ne qr	4	33	12		25	36
Olinger G W	n hf ne frth se qr	35	34	12	20		14 16
Potter Mary L	in sw cor sw qr	7	33	12	20		6 66
Winterhalter John	in n pt nw qr	4	33	12		25	4 45
Newman Herman	T S add Garrett lot 11 block 2						9 86
do	do 12 3						1 44
Watson & Minshall trst	do 12 5						1 44
do	do 2 8						74
Hare Walter	Altona R add lot 32						1 91
Mason John	do R & C add lot 7
Stratton Artemas	n end e hf se qr	32	34	12	7	00	6 78
Rectenwald Joseph	pt e hf s e qr	10	34	12	78	50	31 37
do	w hf w hf sw qr	11	34	12	40	00	31 05
Clink Jacob	se frth se qr	4	33	12	40	00	28 78

TOWN OF AUBURN.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Amount of tax $ cts
Cullers Lewis & C A	O P pt lot 120	29 29
do	do 113	4 41
Cool Isaac N	do lot 289	17 58
Dills Emily A	do 54
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141	14 [illegible]
do	do 142
Hallam Thomas	G & D add lot 6	24 58
do	do 7	20 17
Kiblinger Wm H	McI add lot 21
Moody D D	O P lot 109	46 02
do	do 124	3 00
Spangler Lewis	S add lot 12

WATERLOO TOWN.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Blair L J	in ne ½ se ¼	4	34	13	8	00	59 74
Barkdall Joseph	pt se ¼	4	34	13		30	3 70
Crane Duncan & Co.	Haw add lot 18						2 00
Dickinson Mary A	H add n side lot 234						61
Duncan Jas R Trustee	in ne ¼ sw ¼	3	34	13
do	in nw ¼ sw ¼	3	34	13	2	24	15 42
do	do	3	34	13	1	72	2 84
Derthick Wm	J F & C add lot 30						12 13
Day Sarah M	in	4	34	13	3	00
do	in s side	4	34	13		84	16 25
Fisher Ada S	O P lot 90						5 16
Fisher Harry	do 89						4 16
Haskins Alfred P	in ne ¼ sw ¼	3	34	13	3	24	16 85
Lockhart R M & W C	L 1st add lot 28						3 26
Phillips C M & S E	O P lot 156						10 70
Smith & Simons	Hor 3d add lot 245						2 78
Stroh Peter B	in se ¼	8	34	13	1	00	24 15
Smith Hattie	J F & C add lot 17						24 73
Smith S S	B & Mc add lot 4						7 37
Wise Reuben	Hop add w ½ lot 25
do	do 30						4 77
Yeagy Adaline	Hor 1st add lot 125						13 26
Zirves Solomon	do 64						15 15
Zirkle Milo W & C H	in se ¼	4	34	13		25	1 77
Zimmerman J W	O P pt lot 155						7 03
Colgrove James C	Union Town O P lot 22						11 19
Getts Edward	do 5						4 78

TOWN OF BUTLER.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
Ackley E C	D add lot 35						10 75
Beever Anna	O P lot 179						5 34
Brink F A & M J	Eg add lot 104						12 22
Carpenter F H	O P 14½ ft s end 30
do	do 31
do	do 38½ w side 32						7 00
Coffrin Evaline	T add n½ lot 7 block 2
do	do 8 do 2						5 51
Diehl Susannah	D add lot 14						7 36
Delevan Elizabeth	E add lot 107						4 57
Fosdick E W	O P w ½ lot 180
do	do 181						4 50
Garber John J	E add lot 103						10 97
Hopkins E M & S E	pt e ½ e ½ nw ¼	11	34	14	6	00	20 54
Hopkins S A & E M	O P lot 38						11 42
Lemn Robert F	do 20x26 ft e pt lot 130						5 57
McNabb John O	in ne ¼ nw ¼	12	34	14	4	00	11 60
Mason W A	Mason add lot 2						2 77
do	do 3						39
do	do 10						2 07
May Adolph & Mary	Tom add lot 8 block 7						3 84
do	do n½ " 7 do						1 06
Mason Albert J	O P lot 290						2 90
Searight S G	D add lot 65						28 57
Smith John H	in se cor w ½ se ¼	2	34	14		50	11 02
Shaw Alonzo	E 3d add lot 202						8 97
Snyder Geo	E 2d add lot 185						2 17
Tomlinson Chas W	T add sw pt lot 1 block 1						1 93
Troutman W V	O P s side lot 4						17 56
Warner George	E 3d add lot 177
do	do 178						6 15
Wycoff Mary A	O P lot 36
do	do 37						10 90
White A B	do und ½ lot 142						1 97
Warden Lydia A	E 3d add lot 199						6 70

TOWN OF GARRETT.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Amount of tax $ cts
Blackburn N W	O P lot 19 block 28	32 29
do	do " 11 " 29	23 28
do	do " 12 " 29	4 54
Brown Stephen	do " 18 " 33	5 32
Bloomfield Jas & J	do " 11 " 21	78
do	do " 12 " 21	79
Bennett Asa & G	do und ½ " 20 " 17	13 42
Blair Thos M	do " 19 " 29	3 08
do	do " 20 " 29	13 90
Baltimore Land & Improvement Company	do " 16 " 4	3 08
	do " 17 " 4	1 92
do	do " 18 " 4	1 92
do	do " 12 " 12	3 08
do	do " 11 " 13	1 17
do	C 1st add " 13 " 36	83
do	do " 9 " 39	3 50
do	do " 10 " 39	9 35
do	do " 7 " 48	1 02
do	do " 8 " 49	10 62
do	do " 12 " 52	5 18
do	do " 4 " 54	1 40
Clark Martha	O P lot 8 block 33	6 06
Frederick Wm J	O P lot 4 blk 24	5 97
Getts Moses	Oz 3d add lot 3 blk 1	4 73
Jones C B	O P und ½ lot 9 blk 33	1 40
Marvin Wm H	do lot 5 blk 24	12 90
Paul John	do lot 24 blk 19	10 36
Reynolds W G	C add lot 5 blk 54	18 63
Smith Jerry	O P blk 12 lot 20	17 54
Vansoick Noah D	do 23 w ½ lot 13	86
do	do lot 14	86
do	do 15	86
do	do 16	86
do	do 17	24 81
Houser Margaret J	Oz 1st add blk 1 lot 1	2 41
do	do lot 2	2 41
do	do lot 3	2 41
do	do n ½ lot 4	1 29
do	do n ½ lot 5	1 28
do	do lot 8	10 58

I, Cyrus C. Walter, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1888, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1889, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1890 (the same being the 10th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

CYRUS C. WALTER, Auditor,

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 13, 1890.

Cheap Excursions to California.

In Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, for passengers holding second-class tickets to Pacific coast points, which will be run through from Chicago, via Omaha, to San Francisco without change at any intermediate point, via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Union Pacific Short Line only on the following dates for leaving Chicago, viz: January 16 and 30, February 13 and 27, March 13 and 27, April 10 and 24, May 8 and 22.

The Sleeping Car fare from Chicago to San Francisco is but $4 per berth, and the accommodations are excellent. For further particulars apply to the nearest coupon ticket agent, or address A. V. H. Carpenter, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Unclaimed Letters.

List of letters remaining uncalled for at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice for the week ending Jan. 21, 1890: Miss Josie Carter, Mrs. Etta Cuddabac, Frank T. Cook, Conrad Man, Emma Muncy, John Stroust, Miss Clara Smith.

Persons calling for the above letters will please say advertised

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place. The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Corunna Headlight of Jan. 15, settles an important question in the history of the press of this county, and corrects a commonly received statement as to our early newspapers. This statement also sets right the matter in the DeKalb County History. Mr Loveland knows of these things, and we have no doubt he is correct. He says:

In speaking of the first newspaper established in DeKalb county, the Press falls into an error when it states that the proprietors of the Democratic Messenger dropped out inside of the first year. Established in the spring of 1852 by Berry & Pierce, the publication of the Messenger was continued until the winter of 1855, the office burning up in the great fire of that winter which closed its career. Following the Messenger came W. C. McGonigal who, in the spring of 1856 established the DeKalb County Democrat, which he continued until the fall of 1858, when he removed the material to Wabash, started the Plaindealer and flopped over to the republican party. In the fall of 1859 George Kuhlman with a joint stock company founded the New Era as the next democratic paper in line. The writer of this subsequently bought the office and conducted the paper until the close of the civil war, a period of five years.

Obituary.

Johnny Henry Stair, was born August 14th, 1889, died Jan. 13th, 1890. Aged 4 months and 29 days. He was a patient sufferer all through his short life, until Monday morning, when he passed peacefully away.

Johnny, we will miss you
As we stand around the room,
And see the little cradle
Standing empty in the gloom.

Johnny, we will miss you,
As the morning dawns so bright,
And cannot clasp the hands
We fondly clasped last night.

Johnny, we will miss you,
But to us this comfort's given,
That you will ever happy be
With angels bright in heaven.

Settle Up.

All persons indebted to me on account are earnestly requested to call and settle, as I need the money.

JAMES A. POTTER.

European visitors to this country frequently complain that we have no old ruins. Let them come over and take a look at this Harrison administration when it goes out of office.

BIG LOT
—OF—
New Goods
—Received this week for our—
5c. and 10c. Counters.

UNDERWEAR,
Very cheap to reduce large stock.

Winter Wraps.
Every garment in our store we positive offer at ½ off regular price.

Special Offer!
10 Dozen Men's All Wool Shirts and Drawers,
50c. each,
Regular One Dollar Goods.

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!
MARKED WAY DOWN.

Wool Blankets.
Wool Blankets.

We have several pairs on hand which we offer very cheap. Should you be in need of any, come and see us before buying,

W. P. Harter & Co.
East of Court House,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW
BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.
If You want to Save Money During 1890
BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF
SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

LOCAL NEWS.

Post's closing out sales are immense, not their low prices.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays. tf

Ladies, all our $1.25 corsets at 85cts to close them out, at Post's.

Ladies', gents' and children's underwear. See our prices, at Post's.

Do not fail to read the new advertisement of J. N. Wilson this week.

C. E Emanuel went up to Albion last week to make a plea for the state in the Carter case.

Bauer Bros. give 10 per cent off on all sales this month, so as to have a small stock only to move to the new building Feb. 1. 5

On a ten dollar purchase of shoes, etc., at Wilson,s cost sale at Waterloo you can pay your railroad fare and make a good days wages besides.

Charles Williams was the second kind hearted man, that relieved the printer by bringing in wood. We are sorry to learn that his son is still down with the white swelling that has troubled him so long.

Mrs. W. B. Clock sends in her subscription from Hicksville, and like all Auburn folks, says, "keep the COURIER coming to us. We presume from this, that her business is good in that lively town.

We were a day late with the COURIER last week, owing to the delay in getting ready the delinquent tax list. And as we were too much hurried to get out a supplement, some matter had to be left out. It will appear this week.

Mr. Hollister informs us that his daughter, Mrs. Cobb, will likely remain at the Indianapolis Medical Institute for some months yet for the treatment of the defective limb. But they feel almost certain that she will be fully cured. This will be good news indeed.

A close call. Mrs. C. A. Johnson of Toledo, had every symptom of heart disease, shortness of breath, could not lie on left side, cough, pains in chest, ect., yet after being given up to die, was cured by Dr. Miles' New Cure. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 4

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

The funeral of D. W. Ocker, of Garrett, on Sunday, was one of the largest ever seen in the county. As he was a man high up in masonry, they came from all the neighboring towns, and made a very showy procession, the Knights templar, leading as usual. A special train was over from Butler, and many went over to Garrett on it from this place. After the exercises at the church in Garrett, the train brought them all over here, the burial being in Evergreen Cemetery, at this place.

Closing Sales!
25 and 40 per cent
DISCOUNTS

To show you what we are doing to make room for our new spring goods.

$1.00 Gents' All-Wool Scarlet Underwear, reduced to 75 cts.

$1.00 Gents' Switzs Conde Brown mixed Underwear for 75 cents each.

Line of Gents' all-wool half hose, Price 25 cents per pair, reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Line of 'Ladies' fine Cashmere hose 25 cents per pair, now reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Mrs. Jones & Son,
WEST SIDE OF SQUARE
AUBURN, - INDIANA.

Born, to the wife of B. C. Zeigler, Saturday, January 18, a son.

Harter has a new ad. this week, and invites you to call and see him.

Gus. Stutz is confined to his room with something like lung fever. Dr. W. H. Nusbaum is in attendance.

Mrs. Nice, a lady from Angola, was here last week, visiting Miss McCray, the stenographer, and other friends.

Remember the social supper at the Presbyterian church Friday evening. The ladies say it will be extra nice.

Miss Della Shugers was taken suddenly ill Sunday morning. Dr. B. G. Watson was called to give medical aid.

Miss Lou. Patterson, of Waterloo, was here last Friday, calling on the families of Mr. Richards, and Mr. Lamport, all of whom are old friends.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

A balky team on south Main street Sunday, was made to move on nicely by the peculiar kindness of our townsman, Louie Laemle. A little kindness shown a balky horse is far better than a whip.

The protracted meetings at the Baptist church is progressing favorably. The new minister, Mr. Smith seems to be an energetic and persevering man, and one who will be of service to our people.

The Kiblinger Carriage Works assume a very lively appearance again. In every department of this mammoth enterprise is heard the hum of industry, and many of the old hands are back at their positions again, and all is serene.

Rev. H. M. Lamport was suddenly seized with the grip while up town last week, and was quite ill before he reached home. He had it pretty hard, and there were no services at the M. E. church Sunday. However, he is now about recovered.

Bert. Rickard lost the end of one of his fingers while at work in Kessler & Bro's cigar factory, Monday. It was a genuine Young America that got clipped that time. Only a year ago he got his hand badly mangled in a planing machine. Hard luck for this industrious young man.

Rev. H. A. Sawyers went over to Columbia City, Saturday, and filled the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, for Rev. Gibboney, who came over here, and took his place at Waterloo and this place. The attendance here in the evening was fair, in spite of the rain, which kept drizzling down. The sermon was excellent.

M. H. Chilcote, who will be remembered by many of our citizens, was last week killed by the cars at Galion, Ohio. About two years ago he moved with his family to Goshen, where they still reside. Mr. C. leaves a wife, one son, Edward, and two daughters, Fannie and Ollie, to mourn a husband and father's untimely death.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

J. H. Collins has just finished papering and painting his billiard room, in the Ashley block, having everything refited, also a new Brunswick & Balke Co. Collander billiard table just put in. He has now as fine a billiard room as can be found anywhere. Go and see for yourselves, how he conducts it. Billiards are so cheap now that you cannot help coming in to play. 4

The Kiblinger Carriage factory added to its force this week on Monday, W. S. Sthair goes back into his old place in the blacksmith department as foreman, with a good force of men. Will is a good workman and we hope to see his department boom. In fact we hope to see the whole establishment boom. We know of no reason why it should not. They have already a considerable work done, and underway and are filling orders constantly. It is one of Auburn's big institutions and we hope it will continue to be a hive of industry as in the past.

Our young Texas friend, John W. Pepple has been home for a week or two, and is looking the picture of good health, although these cold snaps set hard on a "southern man," as he may now almost consider himself, as he has been in the Lone Star state several years. He is always full of interesting information concerning that country, and it does one good to talk with him. Sam, is still in Old Mexico, running an engine out of the city of Mexico, which is now his home. Uncle John Pepple and wife, will return to Texas with him to spend the winter, and many good wishes will follow them.

The literary at the Junction, has begun its season of weekly entertainments with very bright prospects before it. Last Saturday evening's discussion was a very warmly contested one, and all seemed to be deeply interested. The question was "Resolved that a girl should have the same educational advantages, as a boy." After a long and earnest debate, the decision was given in favor of the negative. The fact that the school house was packed from entrance to rear, as close as possible—in fact too close for comfort, by men, women and children, is evidence that this highly educational enterprise is appreciated. As an educator for the unlearned, and a developer for the learned, may it have a fruitful record.

If you are troubled with lame back or diseased kidneys, try Hill's Buchu.

Father Young was over here last Sunday looking as though he had just risen from a sick bed. He had probably had something like the prevailing influenza.

Some of the herbs in Hall's Hair Renewer, that wonderful preparation for restoring the color and thickening the growth of the hair, grow plentifully in New England.

Steele & Nedry have the nicest sign in town, at least it is so from an artistic point of view. Steele & Cass, we suppose were the artists. It is a splendid piece of work anyway.

The young ladies of the Presbyterian church will entertain a "Chicken-pie" social in the basement room of the church next Friday evening. Supper from five to seven. Mite, 15 cents.

Leading physicians recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Old and young take it with perfect safety. It cleans s the blood, strengthens the nerves, and vitalizes the system. Popular experience has long placed this medicine at the head of tonic alteratives.

The Chautauqua L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Clarence Rant, on North Cedar street, next Saturday. Lessons: College Latin course in English, Mrs. McQuiston; History of Rome, Mrs. Baldwin; Zenobia, Mrs. C. Schaab; Mental Philosophy, Miss Ramsey; The Uses of Mathematics, Mrs. W. H. Dills.

Peter Noragon, while here the other day, called up the fact that he was one of the men who helped to build the first jail. He was a laborer, and was employed by Wesley Park. He helped to cut and hew the logs. Parks also put up a home for some one about two miles south of town, and Mr. Noragon, while chopping there alone, had just finished his dinner, when an Indian came up, carrying a gun, and having a raccoon and a porcupine. The Indian made signs that he was hungry, and Mr. Noragon gave him what was left in the dinner pail. They had quite a talk by signs, the Indian saying he had his wigwam and three pappooses, up by the Auburn cranberry marsh.

The Indianapolis News, has this good note for Ensley: Pension Agent Ensley this morning appointed his son, O. P. Ensley, Chief Clerk of the pension office, to succeed Joseph L. Riley. The appointee has been book-keeper for Eckhart & Co., carriage manufacturers, at Auburn, for several years.

Nearly every ward in Indianapolis has one or more applicants for places under Mr. Ensley. After being besieged for twenty-four hours with the place-hunters, Mr. Ensley remarked this morning that he thought Marion county ought surely to go republican next fall.

"What makes you think so?"

"I judge from the number of 'active party workers' I have met from each ward," replied Mr. Ensley.

The Dispatch says "the handful of honest democrats could not be found" in the Ohio election, who would vote against Brice for senator. From this we infer that any member who chose to vote for Brice, was dishonest. Why dishonest? Had not these men a right to vote for whom they pleased? Or is this another fling at the personal character of democrats, as in the recent drive at the "temperance" ideas and practices of democratic officials in Auburn? As in that case, when we noted some of the 'moral" qualities of republican officials here, we would like to call attention to the majority of republican United States senators, who must be very objectionable to the Dispatch for the same reasons they offer against Brice. So, once more we challenge a comparison.

We give elsewhere the report of the fair meeting. The officers elected, will, we believe, be found satisfactory, although, of course, some preferred others, as is always the case. The selection of Mr. Husselman for the most difficult office, was the place where the struggle came, but now it is over, and we believe all are suited. Mr. Lanning would have been a good officer, and so would Mr. Rogers, but we presume both are as well suited as if they had got it themselves. Mr. Husselman will, when the time comes, devote a good deal of his time to the work, and will have to be in town a week or two before the fair, to attend to the necessary correspondence. We believe he will take pride in the work, and attend to it, even at a sacrifice. He has had valuable experience in working up the great stock show at Warsaw, and the acquaintance he made there with stock men will be valuable to us. The duties of treasurer, and president, while important, are less exacting, and Mr. Davis and Mr. Yesbera, will be found at their posts when the proper time comes. Now, the next important step, is a strong executive committee, a committee of men who have "business" in them.

The latest postoffice joke reaches us from Lexington, Mo, where some one reported it over the city that O. J. Powell, late publisher of the Garrett Herald, but now publishing the "Saturday Herald" at Lexington, had been given the postoffice there. People were bound to believe it, and as Mr. Powell has been there but a few months, they wondered how he got it. But they soon studied it up, by saying that as he came from Indiana, he was probably a warm personal friend of Harrison, so the latter had appointed him over the humped-up backs of all the Missourians. This made them mad, and they went about sawing the air in wrath, for where will you find a community this side of Terre del Fuego, with three living republicans but what four of 'em want an office? It took Bro. Powell a solid day to talk it out of them. And he only succeeded by offering his printing establishment, worth $5,000, to any man who could find that he had asked anybody to sign a petition or who could find a letter asking an appointment, on file at Washington. The Lexingtonese might do worse than to have Mr. Powell in the office. While we believe he was only a private in the "late, etc," he is as well qualified as any of the "Majahs," "Cunnels," and "Capt'ns," in the land.

Wild Oats, Jan. 30.

O. P. Sisson at Opera House, Jan. 30.

A new postoffice in Illinois has been named "La Grippe."

The great drama, Wild Oats at Opera House Jan. 30. O. P. Sisson's company, is immense and has made a great hit everywhere.

The roaring gas wells are a wonder, but none the more than the effect of Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure. Sold and warrented by Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. Emma Day is back from Chicago, and stopping with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. B. Johnston. She has had the prevailing grip, and will remain till her health is improved.

Trustee Hewitt, of Richland, was up to see us yesterday accompanied by Mr. Cochran, of Michigan, a relative of the Cochrans here. He says they have had some sleighing up there.

That beautiful glossy sheen, so much admired in hair, can be secured by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. There is nothing better than this preparation for strengthening the scalp and keeping it free from dandruff and itching eruptions.

A New Discovery: Weak and deranged livers, stomachs and bowels should never be acted on by irritants like common pills, bran, etc. Miles' Pills cure liver complaint, constipation, piles, etc., by a new method. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

O. P. Sisson, who gained such fame with "Little Nugget," will be at the Opera House Jan. 30, with the ablest company on the road. They will present the popular play "Wild Oats" and our people can depend on a grand treat. Mr Sisson has abundant and excellent recommendations from the various cities where they have performed this season.

Peter Noragon, of Butler, has been here a day or two on some ditch matters that interest him. He agrees with Mr. Kelley, that some change in our ditch law is necessary. He cites a case himself, where one ditch was put through in two sections, and thinks this extra expense could have been avoided by Mr. Kelley's plan. He also thinks the work could be done cheaper, and believes it should be surveyed by the mile instead of by the day.

"Treasurer Davis," says the Press, "took the office with over $13,000 on the delinquent tax list, and at the present, adding the second installment, the delinquent list amounts to about $4,000." The Press purposely deceives its readers, for we cannot think it ignorant of the true condition of things. Mr. Davis took the office after a week of the heaviest and latest rush of tax-paying had been utterly stopped by the death of Treasurer Probst. For all that time, no taxes could be paid, and the door of the treasurer's office was locked. Of course the delinquent list was large, but by extending the time for paying, as was done in this case, the people were enabled to come in and pay their taxes just as they would have done sooner if Mr. Probst had lived. That's all there is of the matter.

The Press says, "The COURIER delights to cast slurs at the republican county officers as regards their whisky drinking propensities." The Press is mistaken as to the COURIER's "delights." The COURIER does not delight in any such things. The COURIER alluded most briefly to these unpleasant truths, merely as a sense of duty. If any of these officers have been deceiving the people as to their habits or vices, it is the privilege of every citizen to expose them. The editor of the COURIER, who knows whereof he speaks in regard to these officials, could have exposed them long ago, had he "delighted" in such quarrels, but he was only lead into it, or rather forced in to it by the Dispatch by an uncalled for "slur" on some democratic officers, whose only offense, as far as we can find, was telling the commissioners that a man who had applied for license, was a fit man to run a saloon. The slur was intended to convey the idea, that democratic officials, were friendly, at least, to intemperance, while it left the impression that on the other hand, the republican officials were of immaculate purity. We reluctantly took up the cudgels in defense of the truth. We stand ready to defend our position. When the people look at some of the officials the republican party saddled on the people of DeKalb county at the election of 1886, we think they will expect republican papers to sing their virtues in very small notes.

The Dispatch says, we carried the idea that "the size of a paper alone determines the amount of reading matter it contains." By no means. We said nothing of the sort, nor did we say anything that could be so construed. Bro. Campbell must have written this quite early Monday morning. What we did do, was to admit that the Press had been enlarged. We think no one will deny this. But as to filling a paper with closely printed matter, we agree, of course, that it will contain much more than if printed loosely, or with large type. The Dispatch uses the largest type of any newspaper in the county, and generally has it pretty well spread out. So we are of the impression that the very thing the Dispatch is trying to claim superiority in, is all against it. The COURIER is by far the most closely printed paper in the county. The Dispatch says it counted the items in the Press, Dispatch and COURIER that week, and found, "outside of editorials," Press, 84; COURIER, 89; Dispatch, 94. This is a great argument. The articles in the COURIER and Dispatch may have all been little ones, while the 84 in the Press may have been large ones. Hence the figures prove nothing. Again, the "editorials" excluded may have been very abundant in one paper, and very scarce in the others. So there is absolutely no showing whatever, as to which paper has the most reading matter. It is a small affair anyway, but if anyone wishes to settle the question fully, he can do so, by taking the three papers of that date, and counting the words in the home matter of each. But we don't suppose anyone cares enough about it to do this. We don't.

Mrs. Berry Lowry, of Howard City, Michigan, has been here a few days visiting her people.

Henry Harris is now at work at Ripley, Indiana, and like all good DeKalb boys, takes the COURIER.

Rev. J. Chester, of Cincinnati, O., will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening.

Mrs. Morse, of Angola, is here visiting with Mrs. George Weamer and Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, her sisters.

Mrs. J. G. Johnson and little daughter, of Waterloo, were here the first of the week visiting relatives and friends.

B. C. Zeigler and wife are the fortunate owners of a nice little boy baby. This good fortune happened last Saturday.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. A. J. Ralston Thursday from 2 to 5 p. m. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. Mate Cleveland, of Angola, and her neice were here this week visiting the families of Frank Zimmerman and George Weamer.

J. A. Marivn, editor of the Sturgis Mail, was here last week. He was at one time a resident of Garrett, we believe, and was back here calling on friends.

The weather turned cold Sunday and Monday, and on Tuesday a second cold wave struck us. Wednesday the mercury was down within 6 or 7 of zero.

The lecture by Prof. Jordan has been postponed to Feb. 1, at which date he will be here and give his thrilling experiences in the "Ascent of the Matterhorn."

Chicken pie, please don't forget it. That is the bill of fare the young ladies of the Presbyterian church will offer to their friends Friday evening. Supper from 5 to 8. All come.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Barns. Subject: The Hebrews and Phoenecians. Paper, Origin and Progress of Letters, by Mrs Hodge. Recitation from Oliver Wendell Holmes, by Miss McTighe.

Mrs. Alpheus Wheelock started Tuesday for a visit with friends at Rochester, N. Y. She will be gone about a month, and on her way home will stop to see her daughter, Mrs. Greisier, who resides in Ohio.

Mrs. Belle Brown, of Coldwater, Mich., has been here a few days visiting the family of Dr. James Adams. She and Mrs. Adams went Tuesday up to Waterloo and from there to visit friends at the old neighborhood.

Prof. O. W. Nottingham the pen artist, who is teaching a large class in the High school building is succeeding admirably. His class numbers about sixty, and all are pleased with his methods, and more than satisfied as to his ability. His penmanship and similar work are highly artistic, being executed with a degree of skill and taste not often seen. Besides, he is a gentleman in every sense of the word and our people esteem him highly. His class is progressing rapidly under his instruction. A public school the size of ours ought to be able to employ such a teacher of penmanship all the time.

J. N. Wilson, of Waterloo, will move his family to Auburn next week and become a citizen of this place. He is well spoken of by the people of Waterloo as a citizen and a business man. He is a minister in the Christian church, and is always prominent in good works or anything that will advance the Master's cause. As a business man he has always stood high. His two boot and shoe stores, one in Waterloo and one in Fremont, have been well managed and prosperous. He comes to Auburn to follow the same business. He will, as seen by his notice elsewhere, put a stock of boots and shoes into the Draggoo room south of the jail on Feb. 8, at which time Bauer Bros. will be in their new room on west Eighth street. Mr. Wilson will keep a first-class stock of goods and asks our people to give him a call.

Obituary.

Mary Wallace was born at Arklow, Ireland, March 27, 1811, and died at the home of her son, Daniel Tomlinson, near Butler, Ind., January 15, 1890, aged 78 years, 9 months and 18 days. Her disease was paralysis. Mrs. Wallace emigrated from Arklow, Ireland, to America in 1847. She was then a widow with four children—all boys—Daniel, with whom she lived when death overtook her, John, Thomas, ex Auditor of DeKalb county, and James, all of whom survive her. After coming to America she married a Mr. Piercetoo, who died. Then, in about a year or so after, she married again to Jefferson Wallace, one of DeKalb county's pioneers, and they lived happily together until 1873, when he died, leaving her a widow for the third time. Since the death of Mr. Wallace she has been making her home with her sons, Thomas and Daniel. She lived a constant christian, having joined the High church of England before her emigration to America, and after her marriage with Mr. Wallace she joined the M. E. church at Corunna, in which faith she lived until death. Thus endeth the biography of a noble woman.

THE "globe racers" are nearing home. Miss Nellie Bly, started from New York to go around the world, and at the same time Miss Lizzie Bisland left the same city going west to San Francisco. They are seeing who can get around first. Now, Miss Bly is coming home on the Pacific and Miss Bisland is on the Atlantic. Both are expected early next week.

THERE has been a strange quarrel as to titles in England. There the oldest son takes the title of his father, and the bulk of the estate. Lord Napier of Magdala, left two sons, twins, and both claimed the title. It was decided that Robert should lead. But George contested, and as his brother has no heirs it was certain he himself would some day inherit all, and as there were two titles in the family, each took one. It is said there has never been a case like it.

Obituary.

David Stonestreet was born in Bath county, Va., Oct. 7, 1825, and died at his home in Butler township, DeKalb county, Ind., Jan. 11, 1890, having reached the age of 64 yrs., 3 mos. and 4 days. His parents were Ashford and Jemima (Ross) Stonestreet, also natives of Virginia. The family moved to Richland county, Ohio, in 1829, where they resided on a farm. In 1849 the subject of this sketch came to DeKalb county, Ind. He first located in Noble county, near Albion, but soon after traded for land in Butler township, on which he has always resided since first moving onto it. By his industry and good management, he had a fine farm under good cultivation and a comfortable home. He was married August 3, 1851, to Rebecca, daughter of David Smith, who with five of their eight children survive him. Both were members of the Dunker church, and the funeral services were by Elder Jacob Gump of that church, the funeral being at the Cedar Creek church, Jan. 13. There was a great gathering of mourning friends, for Mr. Stonestreet was a man who made friends everywhere. He was a self-made man, and owed his success wholly to his own exertions. He had never sought an office, but his neighbors almost forced him to accept that of township trustee, which he reluctantly accepted with the understanding that he might retire at end of one term, which he did, after having filled the place to the satisfaction of all. He died respected by all who knew him.

Court.

Business has been going on with but little interruption, though court has had a day or two of vacation. The case of Meise vs Ed. Sargent and W. I. Work vs Town of Garrett are continued to next term. Kendallville Refrigerator Co. vs. David and Frank Miser, has been dismissed at plaintiff's cost, having been settled. Daniel Kepler, of near Waterloo, was declared of unsound mind and Elias Kepler appointed guardian. Mr. Kepler is about 80 years old, and has not seemed quite sound since he was severely hurt a few years ago. In the partition case between Mrs. Sophia Baird and the Baird heirs, Daniel Gonser, Jacob Walborn and J. J. VanAuken were appointed commissioners to make partition and report this term of court. It appears that Mrs. Baird is entitled to a life use of one third of the estate. The commissioners meet to-morrow. Margaret Weidner was granted a divorce from Albertus Weidner. Two days have been spent in trying the Sommers cases. These are claims in the form of mechanics' liens which are being pushed because C. L. Wilson, the contractor, did not, as they claim, pay them their wages. Tuesday evening the evidence was all in, and court adjourned over till Thursday, when arguments will be heard. Next week will be the last one this term.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Aaron D Moore administrator of the estate of Sarah Meese deceased is plaintiff and Thadeus D. Meese is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of six hundred fifty-six dollars and seventy-five cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, February 8th, 1890,

Between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit: Situated in DeKalb county, Indiana. The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northwest quarter of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy two and twenty one-hundredths (72.20) acres, more or less. The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northeast quarter of section four (4), in the township & range aforesaid, containing seventy-three and ninety-three one-hundredths (73.93) acres, more or less, and the undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the following described tract in section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-four (34) north of said range fourteen (14) east, to-wit: Beginning at the southwest corner of said section thirty-four (34), and running thence north on west line of said section, forty (40) chains and thirty-nine (39) links, to land formerly owned by Hannibal Reve, thence east with the south line of said land forty (40) rods, thence south parallel with the west section line twenty-seven (27) chains and thirty eight and one-half (38½) links to the center of the state road, thence east with said road eight (8) rods and twenty-four and one-half (24½) links, thence south five (5) chains and sixty-one (61) links, thence east seven (7) chains and thirteen (13) links, thence south six (6) chains and ninety-six (96) links to the section line, thence west twenty-five (25) chains and thirty-seven and one-half (37½) links to the place of beginning, containing sixty (60) acres more or less. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two-thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment interest and costs.

Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.
Auburn, Indiana, Jan. 16, 1890.
E. D. HARTMAN, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Notice.

AUBURN, IND., Jan. 22, 1890.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

Notice is hereby given, that at the regular meeting of Auburn Lodge No. 191, K. of P. to be held Jan. 31, 1890, one trustee will be elected to serve for three years.

M. B. WILLIS, JR., K. of R. & S.
4

Annual Report

OF AUBURN FOUNDRY & MACHINE WORKS.

We, the undersigned, President and Directors of the Auburn Foundry & Machine Works, upon our oaths state that the amount of capital stock of said company is Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($25,000), of which capital stock Seventeen Thousand Dollars is fully paid up and that the existing debts of said company amount to Eleven Thousand Seven Hundred Eighty-four and Ninety-nine one-hundredths Dollars ($11-784.99).

Witness our names this 17th day of January, 1890.

EDWARD MOREL, Pres. S. D. HANNA, Sec.
EDWARD MOREL,
S. D. HANNA,
S. R. HEBERLING, } Directors.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of January, 1890.
JAMES E. ROSS,
Notary Public.
[SEAL.]

The first railroad ever built in Indiana was a piece one mile out from Shelbyville. It was constructed of wooden rails in 1834, and was merely put down for the purpose of holding the charter.—Jeffersonville News.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THERE is a breed of dogs in Russia that cannot bark.

JUG TAVERN is the name of a prosperous village in Georgia.

THE German Reichstag has voted to exempt students of theology from military service.

FRESNO COUNTY, California, has a hermit who has lived there thirty years without seeing the county seat.

THE Emperor of China, who married against his will in obedience to his mother, now refuses to see either his mother or his wife.

THE Elwell family, of Northport, Me., consists of seven persons, only one of whom is married. The eldest is eighty-three and the youngest fifty-eight.

THE dentist of the Queen of Italy is an old Maine boy, Dr. Albert Henry Chamberlain, who wore blue and carried a musket a quarter of a century ago. He is rich as well as famous nowadays.

MISS DE FOY has recently beaten any record ever made in parachute descent. She was in the air about ten minutes, and the aneroid registered 14,000 feet before she commenced her descent.

SHEET-IRON is rolled so thin at the Pittsburgh mills that 12,000 sheets are required to make a single inch in thickness. Light shines as readily through one of these sheets as it does through general tissue paper.

STANLEY was so utterly cut off from all communication with the outer world that when someone mentioned the name of General Boulanger, he exclaimed: "Boulanger! Who is he? Never heard of him before!"

"THE only way to do a thing is to do it," cried strong-hearted old Horace Greeley, who never wavered on the brink of a decision. To intend doing bravely or acting right is noble, but to do it—that is a gift of the gods.

IT is said that the first thing that the new Government of Brazil did was to send a telegram to the Rothschilds asking for their continued financial support, and the reply received was favorable and undoubtedly did much toward solidifying the new Government.

THE Pension Department at Washington has upon its rolls the names of twenty-seven widows of revolutionary soldiers who have been regularly paid pensions up to the present time. Three of them are ninety-seven years of age and two ninety-six. The youngest is seventy-one.

A GREEK paper reports that a number of coffers containing 80,000 gold and silver Spanish pieces of the year 1666 have been hauled out of the sea near the island of Andros. Six bronze cannon were also found, and it is thought the articles came from the wreck of a Spanish war vessel.

A COUNTRYMAN went to a store in Morgantown, W. Va., the other day and purchased a kerosene lamp. "That's the first one o' them notions that ever come to my house," he remarked. "Candles was allus good enough for marm and me, but darter's got a beau and thinks we ort to put on a leetle style."

IN Providence, R. I., 485 saloons run full blast from Sunday morning to Saturday night in defiance of the State law, and yet if a grocer puts a jar of beans in his window and offers a box of soap to the one who guesses nearest the number, he is hauled into court and made to pay a twenty-five dollar fine and fourteen dollars cost.

ALFRED N. HAZZARD, 73 years old, turned up in New Haven recently, much to the surprise of his son, Alfred N. Hazzard. Mr. Hazzard deserted his family in Western New York forty years ago, and after wandering about the West has become wealthy and returned to his son. As he puts it, he has come home to die.

TO TALK about one's business in a mixed company is at complete variance with good taste, and those who do it make themselves disagreeable. They do so, as a rule, however, thoughtlessly. Better swear off and talk socially about anything else. Mosquitoes, yellow fever, rain, highway robbery or ballet dancers are better and more interesting subjects to discuss.

AN officer high in army circles suggests that as a solution of the Indian question the red man be enlisted in the regular army. He says that they make good soldiers but very poor farmers. The American army has found the former to be a serious fact, while the Interior Department has made almost an utter failure of converting them into farmers.

THE recently published "Report on Marriage and Divorce in the United States" has established some important facts about divorce. During the past twenty years 25,371 couples sought divorce after a married life of twenty-one years and upward, while 267,739 children were deprived of the care of united parents. There is but little divorce among foreigners coming to this country.

A SPORTSMAN entered an inn in England, laying his gun on a table outside. During his absence a man named Speakman picked it up, cocked it, sighted it, and then laid it down again. The owner took it up afterward without noticing that it had been cocked, and he and two others, including the man who had examined it, walked on. While they were getting over a fence the gun went off, killing the man who had cocked it.

HABITUAL drunkards in Norway and Sweden are imprisoned and have to submit to a plan of treatment which is said to produce most satisfactory results, says the London Lancet. The delinquents are fed only with bread steeped in wine for an hour before the meal is served. Experience shows that a period from eight to ten days of this regimen is generally sufficient to make a man evince the greatest aversion to anything in the shape of wine.

A BUCK that had evidently been chased by hounds dashed into a mining hamlet near Pittston, Pa., last week and ran into the open door of a basement. There was no one in the room, but a man on the outside who had seen the buck enter rushed up and closed the door. In a minute or so the buck leaped through the window and bounded off down the lane with a portion of the sash on his antlers. At the end of the lane he sprang over the fence and took to the woods.

THE next Legislature of Wyoming will pass a law making the killing of a buffalo a misdemeanor. An act to this effect is not required to protect the buffaloes as game, for the hunter would hunt the mountains and plains for wild buffaloes in vain. It is intended to apply to the men who lie in wait and shoot down the buffaloes that happen to stray off the reservation in the Yellowstone Park, where a few relics of the bygone race are preserved. A dead buffalo brings its slayer $200, and the temptation to kill them is a strong one for the hunter.

AN American lady who recently visited Count Tolstoi, the great Russian novelist, complains that he is not quite consistent in practicing what he preaches. He holds that there is something degrading in the mere handling of money and property, and accordingly delegates to the Countess the control of the household and the entire management of his pecuniary affairs. She observed, however, that he has a luxuriously furnished study, and horses, carriages and servants at his command—although they are his wife's. On the whole the great man would appear to have been rather a disappointment.

NEAR Eastaliago, a small station on the Georgia Pacific Railroad, Miss Betty Emmons was walking along the track when she discovered that the spikes had been drawn and a rail removed. Just as she made the discovery Miss Emmons heard the roar of an approaching passenger train, which was running at high speed. She knew the train would be wrecked if she did not stop it, and she did not hesitate an instant. She wore a red flannel petticoat, and hastily tearing it off, ran toward the approaching train, waving the garment across the track. The engineer saw the signal in time to stop the train. When the passengers learned of their narrow escape and Miss Emmons' coolness they at once made up a handsome purse and presented it to her.

Pretty Girls in Cages.

One of the pretty sights in the Treasury is fifteen or twenty handsome ladies in cages. Pretty women are not so scarce in the department that when they get hold of one they put her in a cage, but the ladies referred to occupy their little prisons in accordance with an old custom. The Comptroller of the Currency has decided to revive a system in vogue some years ago by putting a safeguard around the counters of money and isolating them in little iron cages. They are put in their prisons in the morning, large piles of notes are given them, and there they sit all day long counting the currency as fast as their fingers can move. The only communication the ladies have with any one outside of their cages is through a speaking tube connecting them with the Chief of the Bureau. The ladies, naturally, don't take to this arrangement very kindly.—Pittsburg Commercial's Washington letter.

The Monkey's Eyes.

"Why is it," said a man-about-town, addressing the organ-grinder, "why is it that a monkey's eyes are always sore?"

Garibaldi touched his hat and replied:

"Da monk hasa to look soa hard before gooda man give upa da pen' dat it make hees eyes ver-r-r weak and wate-r-r. Deesa monk play in biga luck or poor cussa been blind lika da bat."

IN a hard-boiled hen's-egg, quite fresh, a German chemist lately found a white of a reddish color. He supposed this to indicate the presence of a micro-organism, which he tried to cultivate, and succeeded in developing an intense growth of bacillus prodigiosus. "We have here," he says, "a bacillus that not only stood being boiled for a certain time, without impairing its vitality, but one inside of fresh eggs!"

THE skin of a corpse has been successfully transplanted to a living person by Dr. Bartens. Upon the legs of a scalded boy were placed twenty-eight small grafts, taken from the body of a lunatic who died about twenty minutes before, and of those twenty-four united.

PARTISANS GO TOO FAR.

ELECTION BILLS THAT CANNOT PASS CONGRESS.

Republicans Declare that They Will Not Support the Measures Introduced by Senators Sherman and Chandler to Subjugate the South.

[Washington special.]

It is becoming apparent to the Republican managers that it will be very difficult, and probably impossible, for them to push through Congress a law to deprive the people of the South of local control of elections. After all the talk about what they were going to do, now that they have gained possession of the executive and both branches of Congress the prospects are that the scheme will end in humiliating failure. It was a very pretty scheme from a radical party standpoint. Congressional elections in the South were to be placed under Federal control, and with a Republican executive Federal control would, of course, mean Republican victory. Without some such measure the Republicans despair of again controlling the House of Representatives. With it they would be sure of the House as long as they had the President. So popular among Republicans was the plan of subjugating the South, of robbing the people of their right to control their own elections, that an eager competition sprung up between the members of the radical wing. Representative Houk of Tennessee brought in a bill, Senator Chandler devised one, and Senator Sherman introduced the most sweeping and monstrous measure of them all. It is an infamous scheme of centralization. Until lately Sherman's bill has been the favorite. The Senator himself has declared that it would be made a caucus measure, and that every Republican Senator and Representative would be whipped into its support. Sherman's bill places every Congressional election in the country under Federal control, builds up a gigantic election machine of 500,000 officeholders, and makes it possible for a bad President to control the election of a member to the popular branch of Congress in every doubtful election district, and thus to re-elect himself in case of a Presidential election in which he is a candidate being thrown into the House of Representatives. Chandler's bill is of less general scope and more moderate tone, but at the same time it secures the desired end of giving the executive control of doubtful Congressional districts through the instrumentality of corrupt Federal judges, clerks, and canvassers of elections. According to the Chandler bill, the Federal hand is to be laid on Congressional districts only on the petition of ten voters in each district, but it is easy to foresee that whenever the carpet-bag professional politicians wanted to take the election out of the hands of the people they could easily do so.

The Republicans had carefully laid their plans to force one or the other of these measures through Congress. Reed was elected Speaker as a man of plenty of backbone and brute courage for the work of bulldozing the minority in the House. All was ready to unseat Democratic members in order to make sure of a working majority, and to run the House with new rules, in which the minority should have no rights, or with no rules at all. But at last it became apparent that this high-handed scheme of sectionalism could not be carried out. There are several Republican Representatives from the North who will not vote for the proposed law. A number of the Republican members from the South have heard from their constituents, and are now declaring that they cannot be coerced into voting for any measure which would be regarded by their people at home as a crime against the South. These Southern members know that the enactment of such a law would plunge into violence and disorder every community in which an effort was made to enforce it. Republican Congressmen from the South who represent mixed constituencies know that even Southern white Republicans would resent such Federal interference with popular rights, and that the white element would be solidified and their own hold on their party be weakened. It is as certain as that the sun shines that if Chandler and Sherman had their way the ku-klux or some other organized force of violence would be organized in many parts of the South.

The world's fair canvass has also had something to do with the failure of the Republican scheme. As was some time ago announced, the Southern Democrats are not willing by their votes to give the World's Fair to a city which plays a conspicuous part in forcing the proposed Federal election laws upon them. A New York paper says all four of the Missouri Republicans in the House are against any tampering with the election laws. Mr. Frank, who is on the Elections Committee, is outspoken in his opposition to the Chandler-Sherman programme. Of course this means that St. Louis hopes to get the support of the South for the World's Fair. But there are Illinois Republicans who will go as far as these Congressmen from St. Louis in opposing Sherman's monstrous scheme. There is the best authority for saying that at least two Illinois members will go back on their party on this proposition, and that one Senator who is conspicuous in his advocacy of the World's Fair for Chicago will not uphold the resolution which Senator Sherman proposes.

Senator Higgins, of Delaware, is another Republican Senator who will not vote for this measure. Mr. Higgins believes that the hope of the North and of the Republican party therein is in permitting the people of that region to solve the race problem in their own way; that Republicanism cannot grow and conquer in the South till the white men join it.

Representative Brower, of North Carolina, who attracted some attention last summer by announcing himself as an independent candidate for Speaker, is quoted as follows: "I once thought that if a bill could be framed that would not be obviously sectional, but intended to operate all over the Union, I would favor it. But I do not see that any great change is needed except one that would make elections honest in Indiana and New York, as well as in the South. If a system could be devised, by secret ballot or otherwise, which would insure fair, free, honest elections I would support it with the greatest cheerfulness. There is no use, however, to frame laws and apply them to the South alone. It will do us harm." Mr. Brower predicts that little, if anything, will be done with the subject of Federal elections, and a number of prominent Republicans have confessed that in their opinion the Federal plan of gaining control of the House of Representatives cannot be carried through the present Congress.

Blaine's Latest.

The North American Review article by Mr. Blaine does not call for extended notice by men of truth and reason. It is simply a characteristic piece of misrepresentation and misinformation. Where Mr. Blaine does not misapprehend facts, he mistakes them. This is peculiarly a Blaine practice, and it ought not to excite surprise where he is known.

In the main Mr. Blaine's article is devoted to the assertion that the protective tariff has made Americans prosperous; that it has increased wages; that it guarantees good times, and that panics such as 1857 do not occur under the conditions brought about by protection. Of course, every one of these assertions can be easily disproved, and by men who are now living, speaking from their own recollection. The protective tariff never increased wages in America, because wages always were higher here than in Europe. Wages in this country and in Europe are approaching more nearly an equality under this tariff than they ever did under free trade or under a revenue tariff. In many of the most highly protected American industries wages are not as good, all things considered, as they are in England. The high wages in the United States of which the protectionists never tire of speaking are paid not by protected industries, but by those industries which are entirely unprotected and which not only bear the burdens of an unjust taxation but actually compete in the markets of the world with the poorest paid labor on earth.

The reference to panics is equally false and absurd. No free-trader claims to have a specific for prosperity. No free-trader asserts that free trade will insure prosperity under all circumstances and under all conditions. But your protectionist does claim that his doctrine will guarantee these things, and that prosperity must follow its adoption. If it can be shown, therefore, that after the enormous sacrifices the people make in the name of protection it nevertheless does not guard them against panics, then it must be admitted that the nostrum is a failure. The panic of 1857, which Mr. Blaine declares was the result of a low tariff, was nothing of the sort. It was the result of overtrading, overspeculation and undue extension of credit. It was sharp and far reaching, but the recovery from it was instantaneous, and in a few months the country was more prosperous than ever before. The low tariff had nothing to do with that disturbance, but it doubtless did have much to do with facilitating a speedy recovery. In the decade from 1850 to 1860 the wealth of the country increased as it never had before, and it was better distributed than it ever has been since.

What shall be said, then, of the colossal impudence or the shameless dishonesty of the man who, dwelling on the little panic of 1857, wholly ignores the panic of 1873, which lasted six years, which filled the land with a million of tramps and which was the most protracted season of depression that the world ever saw? Except for the fortunate circumstance that in 1879 there sprang up in Europe a tremendous demand for our food products, a circumstance entirely apart from the preposterous protection idea, we probably would have been in the slough yet. The money received from abroad by our unprotected and tax-ridden farmers for the crops of 1879 and 1880 did what no tariff ever could do. It put our industries on their feet and gave the protected monopolists ten or twelve years more of good stealing. Without that foreign assistance the wretchedness of the producing classes in this country would have become unbearable in a short time and the protective tariff would have been swept away!

The protective system taxes millions for the benefit of hundreds. It promises to give the country prosperity. Did it do that in the years from 1873 to 1879? If it did not, then what claim can it have upon the people? As wages always were higher here than they were in England, why should the tariff falsehood as to wages be longer accepted by men of reason? The tariff is sustained by misrepresentation and impudence. As the most accomplished falsifier and the most impudent demagogue that we have ever had in public life, Mr. Blaine is well fitted for the position of chief defender of a system at once destructive, wasteful and immoral.—Chicago Herald.

RATHER HARD ON THE FARMERS.

War-Tariff Effects in Ohio's Banner Republican County.

A private letter, written from the banner Republican county of Ohio, that which produced Joshua R. Giddings and Benjamin F. Wade, throws a flood of light on the effect of taxing the farmers of that fertile county:

"The farmers are all distracted hereabouts. They can't sell enough of anything to pay taxes. Cattle have not been so low and so little in demand for forty years. My farm is an elephant on my hands and a sickly pachyderm at that. Although I have plenty of feed, I sometimes think it would be cheaper to give my cattle away than to winter them, but I shall keep them to increase the compost heap, so dear to the farmer's heart, which will turn my elephant into a garden next summer. If I have good luck I may then be able to sell out, but I shall be glad to sell for a third of what I refused a few years ago. Wherever I go I hear complaints of the scarcity of money among farmers. One farm, under splendid cultivation, just two miles from town and only forty rods from the railroad tracks, was recently sold for $14 an acre, although it was purchased not long ago for $45 an acre. Where is this to end?"

Trusts.

On one subject at least the free whisky and taxed blanket party may be said to have made some progress since 1888. Here is what the President said in his last message to Congress, and what Mr. Blaine, his Secretary of State, who was then electioneering for Mr. Harrison, said in 1888:

Harrison's Message.	Blaine at Portland, Aug. 15, 1888.
Earnest attention should be given by Congress to a consideration of the question, How far the restraints of those combinations of capital commonly called "trusts" is a matter of Federal jurisdiction. When organized, as they often are, to crush out all healthy competition and to monopolize the production or sale of an article of commerce and general necessity, they are dangerous conspiracies against the public good, and should be made the subject of prohibitory and even penal legislation.	I shall not discuss trusts this afternoon. I shall not venture to say that they are altogether advantageous or disadvantageous. They are largely private affairs with which neither President Cleveland nor any private citizen has any particular right to interfere.

Mr. Blaine was not repudiated by Mr. Harrison during the campaign. Is the slap in the face which the President now gives him meant in earnest, or is it merely a love-tap for effect on the groundlings?

The Tariffs and the Trusts.

1. The steel-rail trust, buttressed by a tariff tax of $17 a ton.
2. The nail trust, by a tariff tax of $1.25 per 100 pounds.
3. The iron nut and washer trust, by a tax of $2 per 100 pounds.
4. The barbed-fence wire trust, by a tax of 60 cents per 100 pounds.
5. The copper trust, by a tax of $2.50 per 100 pounds.
6. The lead trust, by a tax of $1.50 per 100 pounds.
7. The slate-pencil trust, by a tax of 30 per cent.
8. The nickel trust, by a tax of $15 per 100 pounds.
9. The zinc trust, by a tax of $2.50 per 100 pounds.
10. The sugar trust, by a tax of $2 per 100 pounds.
11. The oilcloth trust, by a tax of 40 per cent.
12. The jute-bag trust, by a tax of 40 per cent.
13. The cordage trust, by a tax of 30 per cent.
14. The paper-envelope trust, by a tax of 25 per cent.
15. The gutta-percha trust, by a tax of 35 per cent.
16. The castor-oil trust, by a tax of 80 cents a gallon.
17. The linseed-oil trust, by a tax of 25 cents a gallon.

Protected Market Report.

1 pound butter	10
1 bushel corn	20
1 bushel oats	15
1 bushel apples	20
1 bushel potatoes	20
1 bushel turnips	10
1 bushel wheat	60
Total		$1.55
Buy 10 pounds granulated sugar	$1.00
Buy 1 pound coffee	25
Buy 1 yard flannel	45
Total		$1.70
Farmer in debt		15

Hurrah for Harrison and protection!—Humansville (Mo.) Bee.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capitol—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed of and New Ones Considered.

IN the Senate on the 14th inst. the Finance Committee reported favorably Mr. Sherman's anti-trust bill. The morning hour was consumed in the introduction of unimportant measures, most of them relating to pensions. At the close of the morning hour Senator Call called up his resolution with reference to the Florida swamp-land frauds, upon which he proceeded to speak at some length. His remarks caused something of a sensation. He assailed the Senate Committee on Public Lands, and claimed that thousands of acres had been patented as swamp lands that were capable of cultivation. His attack on the committee aroused Senator Plumb, who made a scathing reply. He said that Congress had given these lands to Florida as a trust, and that if there were any frauds the State alone was responsible for them, and every word spoken by Mr. Call was in denunciation of his own State. At some length he answered the charges against the committee and in round terms denounced Mr. Call's action in placing his own State in such a light before the Senate. Mr. Call replied in equally bitter terms, styling Mr. Plumb's remarks as the contemptible utterances of the gentleman from Kansas. Mr. Dolph also replied in a few words to the charges against the Senate sub-committee. The Senate then went into executive session and adjourned at 4 o'clock. The House spent the day in discussing the bill to refund to members the amount stolen from them by Silcott. At 4:30 the House adjourned without action.

IN the Senate on the 15th Mr. Sherman introduced a concurrent resolution providing for the settlement of disputes between nations by arbitration. After the introduction of a few measures the resolution to recognize the republic of Brazil was read. Mr. Turpie proceeded to make a few remarks on the subject. Mr. Turpie criticised severely the tardiness of the administration in recognizing the republic. He quoted the action of former Presidents in similar cases, especially that of Grant in regard to France, and closed by saying: "The delay of our recognition has already been misconstrued. I hope it may come soon enough to prevent further mistakes." The Senate went into executive session at 2:40, and adjourned at 4:30. In the House, consideration of the bill providing for an appropriation of $75,000 to cover the individual losses sustained by members by Silcott's defalcation was resumed, and the debate continued throughout the afternoon. On Mr. Hemphill's substitute, which proposed sending the entire question to the Court of Claims, the vote was 136 yeas and 138 nays. On Mr. Adams' bill, which appropriates the money for the repayment to members of the amount stolen, the vote was 126 yeas and 142 nays. The bill being thus defeated, a motion was made to reconsider. Pending a vote on this the House adjourned. At the opening of the session Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, rising to a question of privilege, denied the charge that he introduced a bill for the abolition of the tax on oleomargarine.

IN the Senate, on the 16th, after the introduction of miscellaneous business, Mr. Butler began a speech on his bill to provide for the emigration of the negroes of the South, at Government expense, under the direction of the Quartermaster General of the army, and appropriating $5,000,000 to carry out the purpose of the bill. At the conclusion of Senator Butler's remarks, Senator Pasco gave notice that he would at an early day address the Senate upon the question of Federal control of Presidential elections, and then Senator Hoar addressed the Senate in response to Mr. Butler. The Senate on the conclusion of Mr. Hoar's speech went into executive session and adjourned. In the House, Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution for the appointment of a committee on the world's fair, to consist of thirteen members, which committee shall within three days report a plan by which the House can determine the site of the proposed fair, and subsequently report a bill providing for the fair. Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, as the minority of the committee, reported a substitute resolution that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be instructed to report a resolution providing a method of selecting the locality of the World's Fair of 1892, by a vote of the House of Representatives. An exciting discussion ensued in which Messrs. Hitt, of Illinois; Morrow, of California; Springer, of Illinois; McCreary, of Kentucky; Chipman, of Michigan; and Hooker, of Mississippi, spoke in favor of Mr. Cannon's amendment, while Messrs. Hatch, of Missouri; Frank, of Maine; and Payne, of New York, spoke in favor of the majority report. Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, sided with Chicago. At 4:15 p. m. Mr. Cannon, having modified his resolution, offered it as a substitute for the resolution reported by Mr. McKinley, and it was adopted by 137 yeas to 134 nays. On the main question, whether the substitute should pass the vote stood 134 to 134, when Mr. Springer of Illinois changed his vote to no for the purpose of moving for a reconsideration, which motion was pending when the House adjourned.

IN the House, on the 17th, Mr. McKinley called up his motion to table Mr. Springer's motion to reconsider the vote by which the House the previous day refused to substitute the resolution reported by the Committee on Rules (as amended by the adoption of the Cannon resolution) for the original resolution referred to the committee. The motion to table the motion to reconsider was agreed to—yeas, 144; nays, 142. The question then recurred on the adoption of the original resolution, as follows: "Resolved, That a committee of nine members be appointed by the Speaker, to be called the world's fair committee, to which shall be referred all matters relating to the proposed celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, or the World's Fair of 1892." The resolution was adopted—yeas, 141; nays, 136. Mr. Flower, of New York, introduced the New York World's Fair bill, and it was referred to the special committee appointed. Mr. Raines, of New York, offered a resolution increasing the membership of that committee from nine to thirteen. Referred to Committee on Rules. The House then went into committee of whole, Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair, on the bill to provide for townsite entries of land in Oklahoma. The bill was debated throughout the afternoon and the House adjourned without action. The Senate was not in session.

Preoccupied.

Ever since man became civilized enough to trim his hair, the barber has occupied a prominent place in caricatures and newspaper paragraphs. The nature of his occupation brings him into contact with his fellowmen when they are in undress and in his power. Thus he naturally develops the conversational art, and at the same time a decided character of his own.

For many years an old barber wielded the shears in a narrow street, an early "cow path," in Boston. During these years many distinguished men had passed through his hands, and had been benefited by his wisdom. The good man, who saw these notables enter his shop at regular intervals, could not imagine that they were aught in life but appendages of his shop. One day the old man, while trimming the beard of a young lawyer, slowly delivered this reminiscence into his fettered ear:

"Chief Justice Shaw was for many years a customer of mine. Every month he used to come in to have his hair cut. I remember that one month he didn't come. I suppose that he had something else on his mind."

Niter Deposits.

Caves containing deposits of earth with from 4 to 30 per cent. of calcium nitrate and 5 to 60 per cent. of calcium phosphate are common in Venezuela, not only in the littoral mountain chains, but also on the flanks of the Cordillera of the Andes. In these deposits are embedded remains of mammalian bones, preserving their form, but so friable as to fall to powder when they are extracted. They consist solely of calcium phosphate; the gelatin has been nitrified and dissolved out, and the calcium carbonate of the bone has been used up in neutralizing the nitric acid produced. The nitric ferment is found in abundance throughout the deposits in a very well-developed form.

Thirst for Knowledge.

City belle—I hope your stay in our city will not be short, Mr. De Science.

Mr. De Science (member of the American Ornithologists' Union)—Thank you, but my sojourn must be brief. I am here attending the Ornithological convention at the Museum of Natural History, and the sessions will soon be over.

"What kind of a convention did you say?"

"Ornithological — about birds, you know."

"Oh, yes, yes. How stupid of me! Do you think they will be worn much next season?"—New York Weekly.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.
All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
The Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.
My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.
MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.
JOHN T. MISH.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

THE AMERICAN TRAMP.

AS MIGRATORY IN HIS HABITS AS A WATER-FOWL.

In the Summer He Invades the Rural Districts, but Frost and Cold Drive Him to the City, Where He Becomes a "Bum"—His Mode of Life—The Final End.

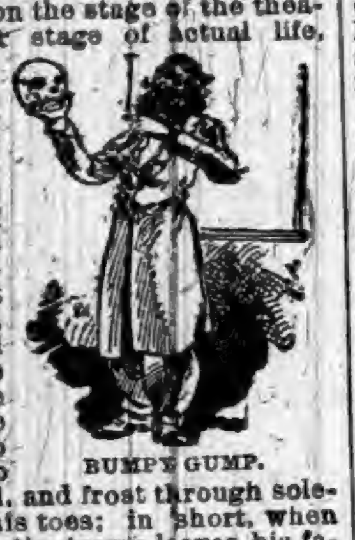
THE waters, having flowed by way of rivulet, creek, and river to the mighty ocean, return again in gentle rain-drops to gladden the green valley from whence they started forth; birds migrate with the changing seasons; indeed, all nature seems to move in circles, to which rule those children of nature, "tramps," form no exception.

The word "tramp" is a generic term and comprises many species, between which the universal points of resemblance are a loathing of work and a passionate love of variety, both in diet and scene.

From the plain signification of the term, the tramp, as a class, first earned the title upon long stretches of country road, turnpikes, and railway tracks. It is amid rural scenes that he forgets whatever trade or occupation he learned in town or city, and by slow gradations becomes more bearded, dirtier, raggeder, and, if possible, more lazy and better contented with his vagrant lot.

As the tramp is the child of the country, it is there, upon his native heath, that he must be studied by one who aspires to become the historian of his class. With country people and those who dwell in villages and towns he is a familiar sight, and in his "own proper person" is known to all.

Acting, whether on the stage of the theater, or the broader stage of actual life, has ever been accounted a pleasurable occupation. To this feeling your tramp offers no exception. When the generous crop of melons and fruits has been harvested, and corn, unfit for roasting-ears, is ripening and hardening in the shock; when the shelter of a hedge or haystack no longer suffices to keep off the cold, and frost through soleless shoes bites his toes; in short, when winter is at hand, the tramp leaves his familiar, much-loved "stamping-ground," and turns his face cityward, there to enter upon another phase of his hybrid existence.

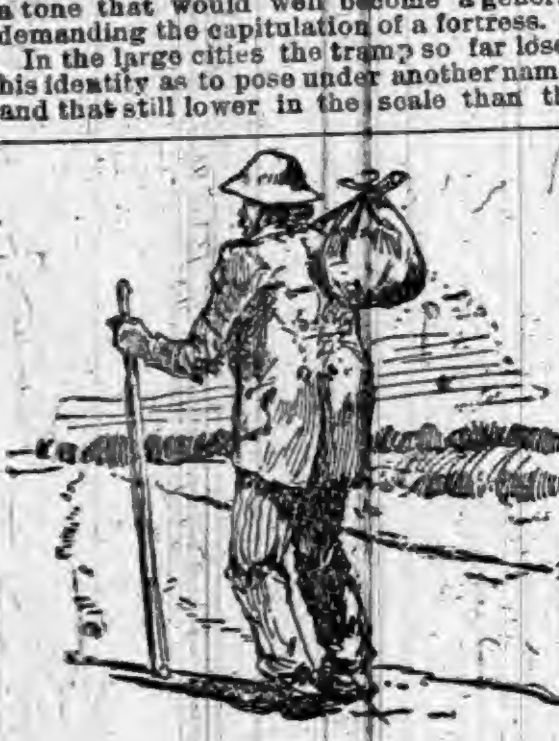


BUMPY GUMP.

The water-fowl, which answering from time to time the shrill call of its leader and sailing gracefully away to the southward, is no more an indication that the pleasant days of autumn are ended, than is the tramp's arrival in the great cities.

Once there he undergoes a decided change. His wardrobe is usually improved, for city people discard their clothing at an earlier stage than do their country cousins, but the great transformation is in his manner and mode of life. Not only is he surrounded by the police, whose watchful eyes restrain him from many of the acts of lawlessness in which he has freely indulged during the long "merry summer months," but the narrow confines to which he is limited, the jostling masses with whom he comes in daily contact, and the radically different life he is compelled to adopt, deprive him of the light-hearted, free-and-easy air that pervades him as he approaches a country mansion and demands a meal from the good housewife in a tone that would well become a general demanding the capitulation of a fortress.

In the large cities the tramp so far loses his identity as to pose under another name, and that still lower in the scale than the one he has rightly earned. When he becomes a denizen of one of the great centers of population he is known as a "bum," and conducts himself in a way to fairly entitle him to the rather vulgar but suggestive appellation.



ON THE TRAMP.

Although the city life of the tramp varies greatly from his normal state of existence, still there is one rule of his life from which he never departs—under no circumstances does he seek any regular employment. As a cover for begging or petty thieving, he may tearfully ask for work, but with no intention of performing it if afforded an opportunity. Sometimes he is seen clearing away the snow from steps and sidewalks, and occasionally actually carrying in a ton of coal. But to be brought to this he must be in pressing need of money, or, what is more likely, lacking in professional self-respect, which draws the line at all forms of manual labor.

"Please give me ten cents to get a lodging."

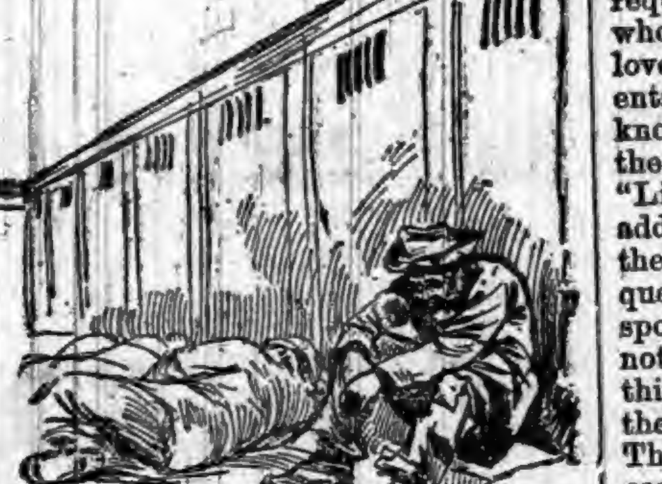
This is the stereotyped appeal most frequently made. It is the one most likely to develop sympathy, especially on a cold or stormy evening, and, besides, a lodging-place is the one great necessity of his existence. He can beg plenty of food and clothing, and find numerous places to warm himself during the day, but when night comes on he must find a place to sleep, and that which for half a year has been as free as the boundless air and the water in purling brooks, becomes the one anxiety of his otherwise light-hearted existence.

In some cities there are lodging-houses where a bed, or rather a board, is supplied on a basis of work to be performed in the morning. These are rarely patronized by the professional tramp; but to see them at their task, sawing the "stint" of wood assigned them, or breaking stones for paving, is an amusing if not an inspiring sight.

All large cities abound in cheap lodging-houses, which are generally operated on a basis of ten cents for the cheapest accommodations. Sometimes a large and respectable-looking building is devoted to the business, which boasts of many grades of prices and corresponding comforts, rising to the dignity of a private room, with sheets on the bed. But the greater number of tramps sleep in underground lodging-houses.

The basement or cellar of a building on one of the poorer but central streets is generally utilized for this purpose. The "guest" enters the front portion, of which a square space, perhaps twenty feet each way, is set apart as the common room, and dignified by the name of "office."

Here he pays his dime, frequently in the form of pennies, and receives a check which entitles him to a bunk and the freedom of the place. This preliminary once dispatched, and the relation of landlord and guest established, a visible change takes place in the manner and bearing of the latter. He is an outcast and a vagrant no longer. The fire that burns in the huge salamander stove and raises the temperature of the place to a point where blankets or covering of any kind would be a burden, is his very own, and the rude lamps on the wall are burning for him. Though dressed in rags he swaggers about with the airs of a dude and the hauteur of one of Gotham's famous "four hundred."

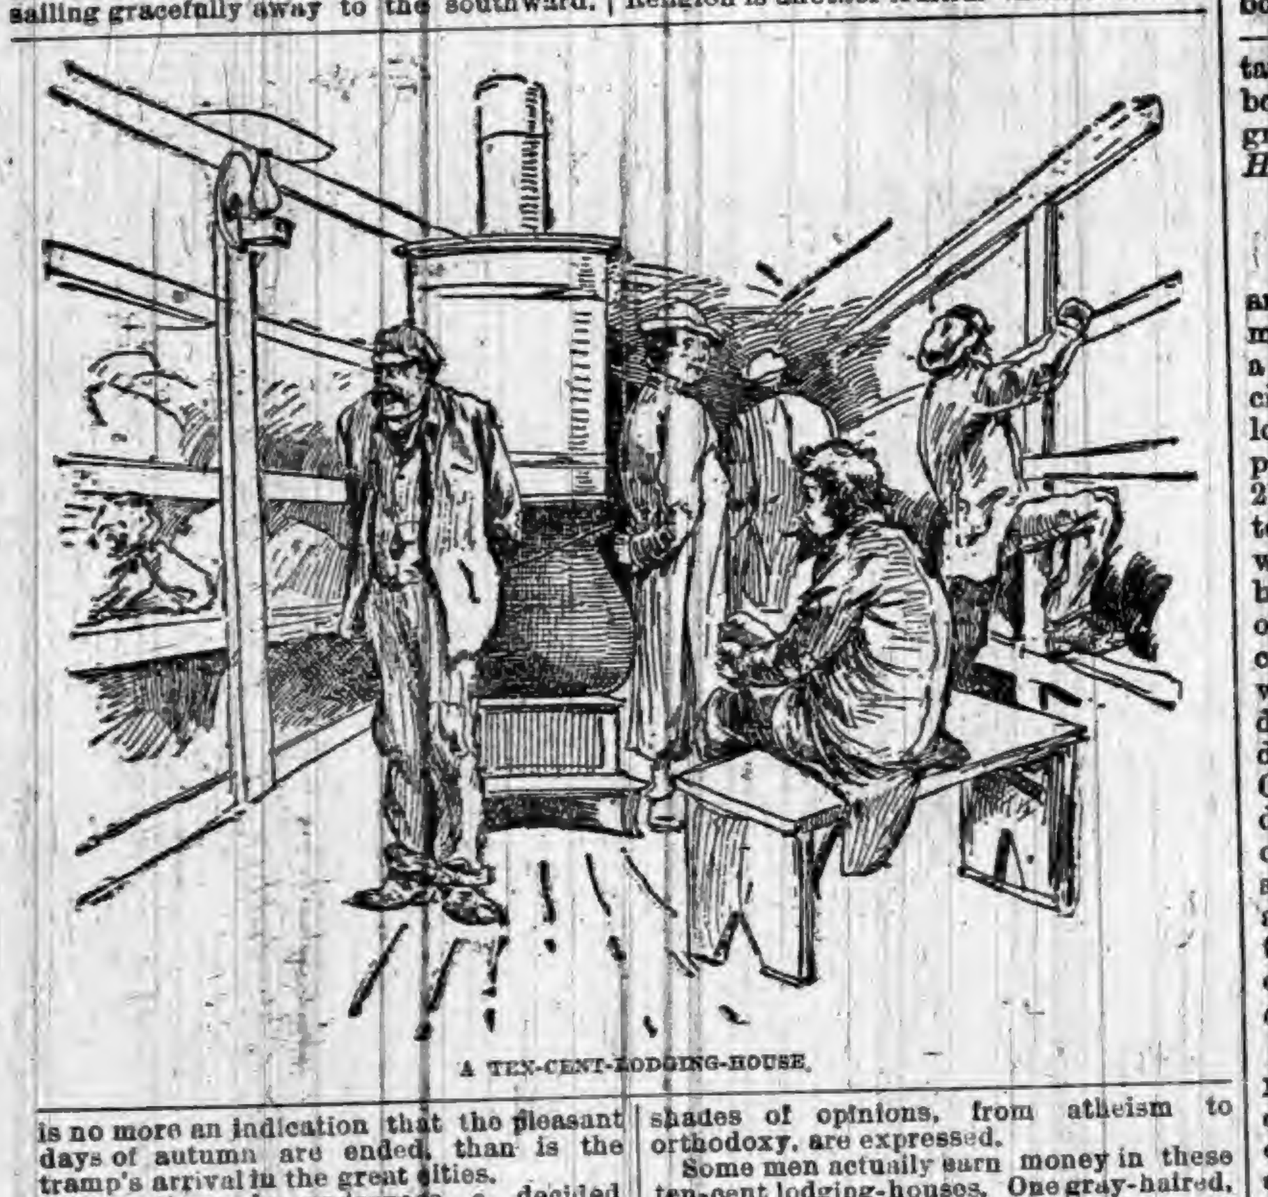


POLICE-STATION SNOOZERS.

Having secured a chair and tilted it back against the wall at the desired angle, he produces a pipe, generally a corn-cob one, as a reminder of the country, and having "loaded it," the ammunition being often a discarded cigar stub, of which he provided himself with a supply during the day, adds a volume of stifling smoke to the already foul atmosphere of the place.

Next, he ordinarily brings forth a soiled and crumpled newspaper and proceeds to entertain and enlighten himself with the news of the day. It may appear strange, but not only can most tramps read, but many of them are men of considerable education, whom hard fortune and disappointment in business or love has driven to drink, from which the transition to a tramp is frequently a swift and easy one.

Here, too, are carried on many discussions of which the newspapers make no report, though they are often filled with less entertaining matter. Politics is the staple subject. As between the two leading parties the honors are about even; the socialists are a good third, while, to the credit of the party be it said, the Prohibitionists are rarely represented. "Protection," "free trade," "grinding monopolies," the merits of candidates, and the acts and policy of the Government, are discussed without reserve, and often as understandingly as in the political club-houses above ground. Religion is another fruitful theme, and all shades of opinions, from atheism to orthodoxy, are expressed.



A TEN-CENT-LODGING-HOUSE.

Some men actually earn money in these ten-cent lodging-houses. One gray-haired, long-bearded old tramp is known in most Western cities, all of which he visits at times, as "Bumpy Gump." Bumpy is a phrenologist, and when the "office" is most crowded often appears with a huge chart and a human skull. He hangs the one on the wall and poising the other in his hand calls for subjects. His charges vary with the financial condition of the party, from a penny to a dime, the latter being high-water mark. Tramps, like other people, love amusements, and are curious as to the character of their associates, and "Bumpy Gump" often makes as much as a dollar in a single evening, though he may have to buy a "check" at two or three different lodging-houses to accomplish it.

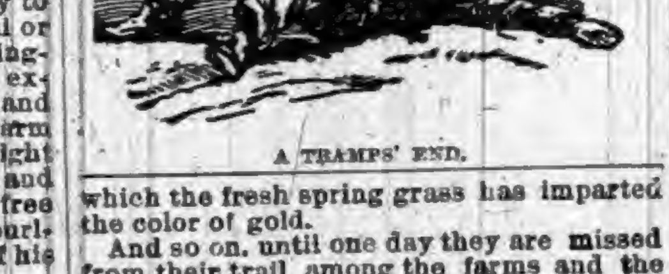
By midnight most of the guests are sleeping as soundly as the vermin and stifling air will permit. The sanitary police often visit these places and compel them to adopt some form of ventilation. Fresh air, however, means a loss of heat, which in turn represents a useless consumption of coal, and the openings are generally closed upon the departure of the officers.

The sleeping accommodations consist of bunks ranged against the walls from the floor to the ceiling. Some are supplied with a rude apology for a mattress, but for the most part they consist of the bare boards, with an elevated portion for the head, much after the fashion of the steerage of a great ocean steamship.

Included with lodging, some "snoozing places," as they are sometimes called, give, by way of breakfast, a "duffer" of bread and a bowl of a decoction dignified by the name of coffee, but manufactured from burnt rye and the grounds procured from hotels and restaurants.

Most tramps are made so by drink, and that monster continues to rule them with an iron hand. Most of the money begged or stolen by them finds its way to the cheap saloons and "barrel-houses." Many low resorts are supported by money begged under the pretense that the supplicant is starving, or is without the means of procuring a place to sleep. These low saloons are the principal loafing places of tramps during the day. The investment of five cents in a drink entitles them to warm themselves at the fire and lounge about for a time. Soon, however, they are driven out again, to procure the price of another drink, with the accompanying "freedom of the saloon."

During a long and cold winter numbers become sick and find their way to the hospital, and later to the potter's field. Such as survive do not needlessly prolong their irksome city life, but depart early enough to see the first violets bloom by the side of country lanes, and taste the sweet butter to which the fresh spring grass has imparted the color of gold.



A TRAMPS' END.

And so on, until one day they are missed from their trail among the farms and the lunch counter in the city, and their long tramp is ended at an unmarked grave.

DWIGHT BALDWIN.

Paganini and the Cabman.

The celebrated violinist, Paganini, had once to give a concert at the Carlo Felice in Genoa, and being late, he drove in a cab. On alighting he offered the usual fare to the cabman, who refused it, saying that a great man, who was able to play as well on one string as on four, ought to give him at least double the fare.

"Very well," answered Paganini, "I will pay you double when you will be able to drive me to the theater on one wheel."—Pick-Me-Up.

Training for the Ministry.

It is well known to be a dangerous thing to ask too many questions in a Sunday school. A clergyman went into his Sunday school to talk to the scholars. "Now, my little dears," he commenced as he stood on the platform rubbing his hands complacently together, "I want all of you who never swear or use bad language to stand up." All but two small boys immediately rose to their feet, and although the teacher urged them to do likewise they retained their seats. The minister cast his glances toward the little fellows, paused a few moments, and then after waving back the children to their seats, repeated the request in this wise: "Now, all of you who love to go to Sunday school, who love the Savior, who love your parents, who never do anything that you know to be wrong, rise." Again all but the two boys rose to their feet promptly. "Little boys," then said the minister, addressing himself particularly to them, "can not you rise, too, on that question?" "No, sir," promptly responded the elder of the two. "Why not; why not, boys? What do you think will become of you if you do all the bad things I have just mentioned?" The boys shrugged their shoulders uneasily for a few moments, and then when the whole school had simmered down to a profound quietness the elder said saucily: "Well, sir, my mamma said we should be both ministers one of these days if we kept on!" The next order of business was taken up without further delay.

Bow-Legs.

In infancy, in certain cases, there is great danger that the bones of the legs will become bent if the child is allowed to stand much, that is, before their bones become sufficiently hardened. It should be remembered that in infancy what is bones are but little more than cartilage, requiring time to harden them into bones, as may be seen by the "soft place" on the top of the head. It is fortunate that the "baby jumpers" and such child tortures are now out of date, in enlightened society, and it would be fortunate if those little ones might not be crowded forward as they sometimes are even now, compelled to stand and learn early to walk, of course overtaxing them and deforming their bones. It would be fortunate, also, if a better diet could be more generally used, that containing more of the bone and muscle materials, more of lime, that these bones might be fed. The coarser meals—instead of the fine flour which contains but a very little to nourish the bones and muscles—would be of the greatest advantage to the young.—Dr. Hanaford.

What Is Done With Coal Dust.

According to the census returns the amount of "culm," or coal dust, on mining anthracite coal is 34 per cent. a year. This waste amounts on anthracite alone to 9,900,832 tons; the same loss in other States is estimated at 20 per cent., making a total return of 21,449,335 tons for last year. Many attempts have been made to utilize this waste by converting it into fuel, with bituminous substances, such as pitch or tar, but owing to the nature of the combustion of these substances they were soon consumed, when the coal dust resumed its former state. The difficulty has been solved by Mr. W. H. Corey, of England, who mixes the coal dust with a small quantity of dry fire clay, and adding a small percentage of silicate of soda. The three materials are throroughly mixed and submitted to pressure. The blocks are as hard as ordinary lump coal.—Scientific Miscellany.

Nature in Convulsion

Is terrific. Volcanic eruptions, cyclones, earthquakes are awfully and tremendously picturesque, but scarcely desirable to emulate in action and effect by the administration of remedies which produce convulsion and agony in the abnormal portion of the human frame. Such is the effect of the old-fashioned violent purgatives happily falling more and more into disuse, and of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the wholesome, pleasant and far more effective succedaneum. They weakened the intestines—the Bitters invigorates them. They left the bowels inactive, because incapacitated by ensuing feebleness. The Bitters, on the contrary, and because it enables, not forces, them to act—a vast and fortunate difference—perpetuates their activity and regularity. The liver is beneficially stimulated, as the kidneys also are, by this medicine, which easily conquers, also, malaria, nervousness and rheumatism.

Whom to Fee.

Sleeping Car Porter—Had a pleasant trip, sah?

Passenger (getting into his overcoat)—Delightful!

Porter—Nothin' happened to mar youah pleasure, sah?

Passenger—Nothing whatever. Came through safe and sound.

Porter (insinuatingly)—Sometimes gem men likes to give a small fee, sah, to—

Passenger—Good idea. I'll hand something to the engineer.

Our Motto

"A dollar's worth for a dollar," is the motto of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other well-known vegetable remedies, and is pronounced by experts the strongest and best preparation of the kind yet produced. It owes its peculiar strength and medicinal merit to the fact that it is prepared by a Combination, Proportion and Process peculiar to itself, discovered by the proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla and known to no other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

SEVEN SEVENTEEN SEVENTY

To cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S

BILE BEANS

Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient; suit all ages. Price of either size, 25 cents per bottle.

KISSING at 7, 17, 70: Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).

J. F. SMITH & CO. Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.

"MOTHERS' FRIEND" MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY SHORTENS LABOR LESSENS PAIN DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD

BOOK TO "MOTHERS" MAILED FREE

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. [illegible] Stowell & Co. [illegible]

No Confusing Environment.

Miss Edith (to evening caller)—When I write I have to be entirely alone, and have everything quiet, so there will be nothing to disturb my thoughts. I don't see how anyone can dictate to an amanuensis."

Mr. Goodfellow—It's very easy. I dictate all my business letters."

"You do? And don't your thoughts often wander from the subject until you find yourself unable to proceed?"

"Oh, no. My typewriter is a man.—New York Weekly.

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

Marrying a Man to Save Him.

Mrs. Frankness—They tell me you married that worthless, dissipated fellow who used to hang around your house so much. What did you do that for?

Mrs. Shiftless—I married him to save him.

Did you save him?

Well not long. They had him in jail as soon as we got back from our honeymoon.—Texas Siftings.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

E. H. Van Hoesen, Cashier Toledo National Bank, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Carl Pretzel's Philosophy.

Negligence was the behind-fadder of unifersal disorter.

Sinceer gratitoot nefer vas got ashamed to honor a benefacktor.

Der feller dot lifs in der bustle of der vorldt dondt cood make good breserves of his firtue.

Der people dat make ridicool of honesty, demplerenz, or droot, vos not more worth as a fool on a a crazy house.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

"SWANS sing before they die." They have to, if they sing at all.

THE oyster persistently refuses to respond to an encore.—Burlington Free Press.

A pocket cigar-case free to smokers of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

THE last man will, of course, be a bootmaker.

THE OLD ENEMY.

It is known as a painful inflammation affecting the muscles and joints of the human body, the symptoms of which are swelling of the joints, acute pains and aches. St. Jacobs Oil cures promptly and permanently this enemy which is:

RHEUMATISM.

Sandyville, Ohio, June 18, 1888.

Was taken with rheumatism in 1861; suffered at times ever since and used crutches. St. Jacobs Oil relieved me about two years ago. GEO. L. NIXON.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda

is endorsed and prescribed by leading physicians because both the Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites are the recognized agents in the cure of Consumption. It is as palatable as milk.

Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion. It is a wonderful Flesh Producer. It is the Best Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Ask for Scott's Emulsion and take no other.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies

Have cured many thousand cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best physicians. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Send for free book of testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days treatment furnished free by mail. If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

ASTHMA.

Popham's Asthma Specific

Relief in TEN MINUTES.

PETER D. SWOYER, M. D. Fritztown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 29 years; [illegible]

TRIAL PACKAGE FREE. Address, T. POPHAM, PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

WORK SHOPS

Of Wood and Metal Workers without Steam Power, Equipped with Outfits of

BARNES' PATENT Foot Power Machin'y

[illegible]

Address W. F. & JNO. BARNES CO., [illegible] Ruby St., ROCKFORD, ILL.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS & FREE Government LANDS.

MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address

CHAS. B. LAMBORN, [illegible] ST. PAUL, MINN.

A SOLID GOLD RING with GENUINE Diamond Setting FOR $[illegible]

[illegible]

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand.

[illegible]

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. [illegible]

TELEGRAPHY [illegible] Madison, Wis.

To Those Interested.

HASTINGS, Mich., April 22, 1889.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich:

GENTS—This is to certify that I had been troubled with rheumatism in all its forms for the past twelve years, and was confined to my bed at various periods from three to six months at a time, and I could get about only by the aid of crutches. I employed several first-class physicians of this city, none of whom effected a cure or gave temporary relief even.

About two years ago I was induced to try Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and, after taking a few bottles I experienced relief, and now consider myself cured. I unhesitatingly recommend this medicine for rheumatism. I know what it has done for me, what physicians could not do, i. e., cured me of rheumatism.

MRS. H. J. KENFIELD.

Ask your druggist for it.

I certify to the above statement.

FRED L. HEATH, Druggist.

A Big "Jaw."

Father (to the dentist)—I want you to examine my little boy's teeth and see what's the matter with them.

Dentist—Certainly. (Seats the boy in the operating chair and looks at his teeth.) Ah, I see. His teeth are crowding each other, and one or two must be extracted to give room for the rest.

Father—What is the cause of the crowding?

Dentist—He has evidently inherited the large teeth of his father and the small jaw of his mother.

Father—Small jaw of his mother! Reckon you never heard that woman talk. She's got the biggest jaw of any woman in seventeen counties.—Texas Siftings.

FOR THROAT DISEASES AND COUGHS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Like all really good things, they are imitated. The genuine are sold only in boxes.

ONE industry remains to the poor Indian—that of ticket-scalper to an immigrant train.—Philadelphia Item.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass, and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address the Oregon Immigration Board, Portland, Oregon.

BYRON had a dog which he called "Perchance," for did he not write, "Perchance my dog will howl."—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

DO YOU wish to know how to have no steam, and not half the usual work on washday? Ask your grocer for a bar of Dobbins' Electric Soap, and the directions will tell you how. Be sure to get no imitation.

THE man who sat upon a bent pin is denounced as a profane upstart.

A Sensible Man

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle Free to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large Bottles 50 cents and $1.

AN unmixed evil—whisky straight.—Burlington Free Press.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

THE physician likes his cough-fee.—Whitehall Times.

CURES LaGRIPPE

PALMER'S MAGNETIC INHALER

Patented June 12, 1888

Price, One Dollar.

The highest French medical authority defines "LA GRIPPE" as follows: "La grippe is a catarrhal affection, is epidemic, and is characterized by a congestion of the mucous membrane of the nose, pharyngeal and laryngeal bronchæ, with feverish action, more or less pronounced, accompanied by headache and general fever."

Dr. Palmer, an eminent English phyician, who has devoted a life of study to the subject of catarrh and diseases of the head, throat, and lungs, some time since commenced a series of experiments with a view to determining whether any combination could be formed which would kill the parasite and act as a healing power at the same time. The result of his experiments was the introduction and rapid sale of his Magnetic Inhaler, the fumes of which, when inhaled, are refreshing and cooling, and for the immediate relief and speedy cure of headache and sore throat, which are the forerunners of LA GRIPPE, HAS NO EQUAL.

BE PREPARED

Because you cannot escape an attack of the most annoying disease that ever existed in this country. DR. PALMER'S MAGNETIC INHALER, if used at the commencement of an attack, is sure to break it up. Six persons employed in one establishment in Chicago were attacked with LA GRIPPE in one day, but a liberal application of the Inhaler through the nostrils and throat prevented their losing any time and saved a doctor's bill. Send for an INHALER at once. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Beware of imitation, as there are unscrupulous persons engaged in the manufacture of a spurious inhaler that strongly resembles the genuine.

Full directions, testimonials, etc., sent with each instrument.

Upon receipt of $1.00 I will send one Inhaler by mail, postage paid, or for $5.00 I will send six Inhalers to any address. E. A. GAVISK, General Western Agent, 271 Franklin St., Chicago, Ill.

don't you remember, 'tis almost December, And soon will the Holidays come!

CANTATAS. FOR CHILDREN.

CHRISTMAS AT THE KERCHIEF'S (20 cts.; $1.80 doz.), Lewis. CAUGHT NAPPING (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Lewis. JINGLE BELLS (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Lewis. CHRISTMAS GIFT (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.), Rosabel. GOOD TIDINGS (25 cts.; $2.40 doz.), Rosabel. KING WINTER (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Emerson. MESSAGE OF CHRISTMAS (30 cts.; $3 doz.), Towne.

FOUR CHRISTMAS SERVICES

By Rosabel. Each 5 cts.; $4 per hundred.

Birthday of Our Lord, Old, Sweet Story, Holy Christ Child, Joyful Chimes.

CAROLS AND SONGS.

Collections by Howard, 11 Carols; 10 Carols; 7 Carols (each 10 cts.) HOLLY BOUGHS (15 cts.; $1.44 doz.) 10 NEW PIECES FOR XMAS (10 cts.)

WE PUBLISH, IN SHEET MUSIC FORM, very many superior pieces that, for quality, might well be termed Prize Songs. Six good specimens are:

Signal Bells at Sea. (40 cts.) Hays. [illegible] (40 cts.) Stults. [illegible] (40 cts.) Gilder. [illegible] (50 cts.) Knight. [illegible]son.

Any Book or Piece Mailed for Retail Price.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. [illegible] best quality [illegible] for work [illegible] for finish [illegible] be deceived by [illegible] which [illegible] and are not [illegible] SMITH & [illegible] upon the barrels [illegible] of patents [illegible] detail. [illegible] and if your [illegible] to address [illegible] attention [illegible] upon application.

SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass.

Mention this paper.

THE GREAT "OHIO" TUBULAR WELL AND PROSPECTING MACHINE [illegible]

SELF CLEANING. [illegible]

CATALOGUE FREE. LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If Write us what work you wish to do with a well machine.

ALL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY.

FREE PRICE-LISTS OF RUG MACHINES, [illegible] and Colored [illegible] Agents Wanted. [illegible] Toledo, Ohio.

HOME STUDY. [illegible] Business Forms, [illegible] Arithmetic, Short-hand, [illegible] Circulars [illegible] Buffalo, N.Y.

IER.

0. NUMBER 5.

Obituary.

ose died at the home of her er a lingering illness of many racie had just budded into anhood, but alas! the casket een destroyed by the ruthless
th. Gracie early sought and aviour. Death had no terrors it is sweet to know that aft-al fever Gracie sleeps well and purified by sickness, has the brightness of earth to a leaven. Although she was
, she never seemed to suffer thers. Just a few moments leath she called her brother her bedside, asked them to Heaven and bade them goodseless was the approach of gel that her friends knew esence. She went as though d upon an angel's lap breathless, dewy sleep.
love which Gracie bore to seemed to bind her to this ove she bore her Saviour
t that she desired to depart
Him in Heaven. Sooner or nds us all. O! may we like him calm and fearlessly. As for the last time, ere sed forever over her, we ings of her quiet life us like the dew,

thoughts, where her footsteps
ed,
agrant blossoms grew.

THE BARGAIN STORE!

IS NOW REMOVED TO

Eighth Street,

West of Court House, and we respectfully invite the people of Auburn and vicinity to call on us in our new quarters.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Dr. Lida Leasure's Lecture.

, Ah is how sweet,
and the change was made in one short week
By DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION.

As an invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no sugar or syrup to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine, not a beverage.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

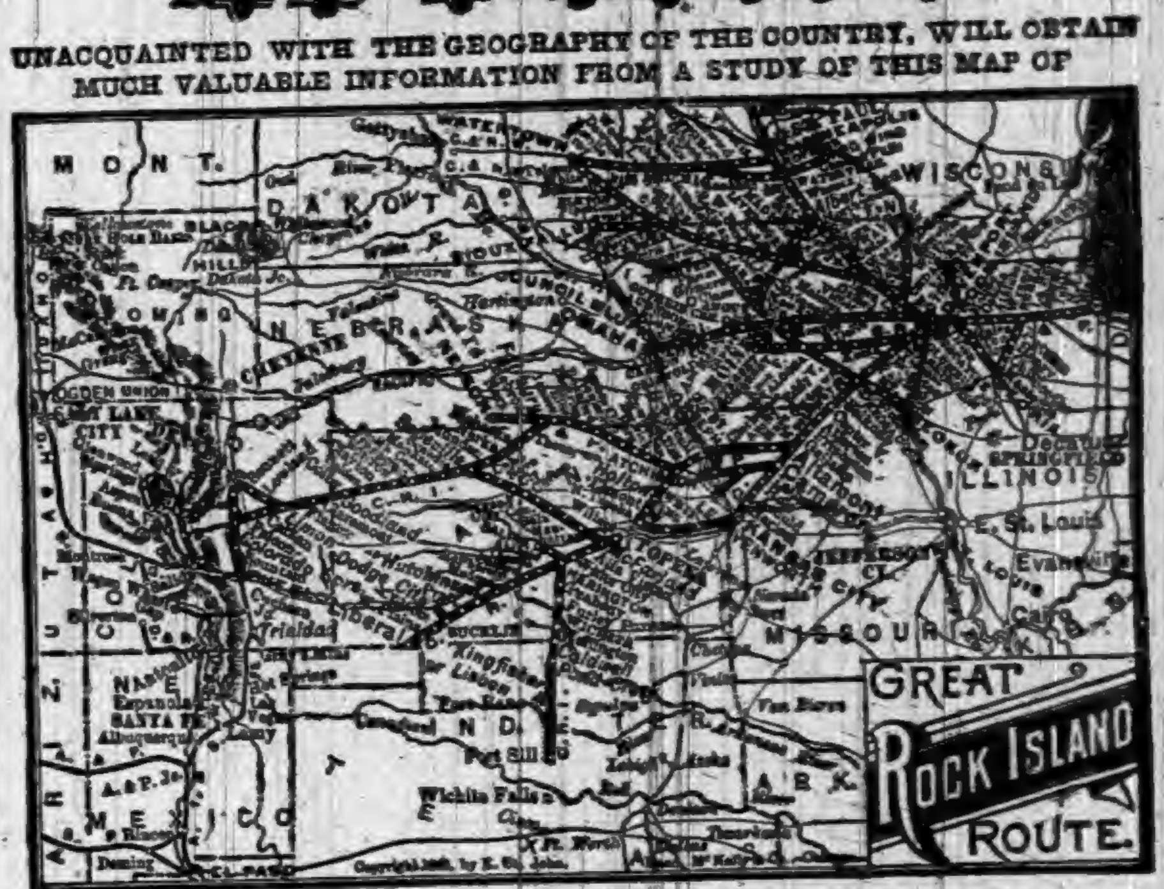
A Book of 160 pages, on "Woman and Her Diseases," sent to any address, in plain, sealed envelope, on receipt of ten cents, in stamps.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager.

CHICAGO, ILL.

JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

FAMOUS CLASSICS.

Large type, unabridged, handsomely printed, neat paper covers, prices sent postpaid:

Evangeline, by Henry W. Longfellow	3c	The Evidences of Evolution, by Huxley	3c
The Lady of the Lake, by Sir Walter Scott	10c	Essay on Heroism, by Ralph Waldo Emerson	3c
Rip Van Winkle, by Washington Irving	3c	Gray's Elegy and Other Poems	3c
Poor Richard's Almanac, by Benj. Franklin	3c	The Deserted Village, etc., by Goldsmith	3c
Dickens's The Cricket on the Hearth. Illustrated	3c	The True Grandeur of Nations, by Charles Sumner	3c
Shakespeare. Separate Plays, each 7c., or 30 for	$1.00	The Love of Books, by John Bright	3c
The Burning of Rome, by Canon Farrar	3c	The Spectre Bridegroom, by Washington Irving	3c
The Buccaneers, by Richard H. Dana	3c	The Pied Piper of Hamlin, etc., by Browning	3c
Ruskin's Sesame and Lilies	8c	John Gilpin's Ride, by Cowper	3c
Æsop's Fables, complete, illustrated	5c	Legend of Sleepy Hollow, by Washington Irving	3c
An Essay on Man, by Alex. Pope	5c	The Bridge of Sighs, etc., by Thomas Hood	3c
Rab and his Friends. Dr. John Brown	2c	Selections from Epictetus, translated	3c
Hawthorne's Twice Told Tales	10c	The Brook and Other Poems, Tennyson	3c
Enoch Arden, by Alfred Tennyson	2c	Bacon's Essays, Complete	10c
Cotter's Saturday Night, etc., by Robert Burns	3c	The Pleasures of Life, by Sir John Lubbock	10c
Selections from Buddha, trans. by Max Müller	3c	Carlyle's Heroes and Hero Worship	10c
Utopia, by Sir Thomas More	10c	The Vicar of Wakefield, by Oliver Goldsmith	10c
Industry and Idleness, by Henry Ward Beecher	3c	Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress	10c
The Village Uncle, by Nathaniel Hawthorne	2c	The Raven and Other Poems, by Edgar A. Poe	3c

Complete Catalogue of THE ELZEVIR LIBRARY, over 400 numbers, the above being samples, sent free on request. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., NEW YORK; 242 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO; 73 Whitehall St., ATLANTA.

ORDER ANY OF THE ALDEN PUBLICATIONS through the publisher of this paper, who will show specimens to those who are pleased to call. By clubbing the orders of several customers, the cost of transportation may be partially saved.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for Circular.

DETECTIVES

Wanted shrewd men to act under instructions in Secret Service work. Representatives receive the International Detective, Grannan's Warning Against Fraud, Grannan's Pocket Gallery of Noted Criminals. Those interested in detective business, or desiring to be detectives, send stamp for particulars. [illegible] ALL GRANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU CO. Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

N. C. F. W. [illegible] No. 4—[illegible]

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

THE

VOLUME XX. AUB

VIEWS ON DITCHING.

Our remarks last week as to Mr. Kelley's views on ditching have called out two letters which we give below. A discussion of this vital question will injure no one, and may do good.

FIRST LETTER.

The drainage system suggested by Mr. Kelley in last week's COURIER is the old "district" system, which has been in vogue in the older states as well as in Europe, and has been discarded in some and found not applicable in the newer states and communities. He gives a very imperfect statement of the plan, whatever it is. In order to obtain drainage in any new community, where as a general thing, nine tenths of the land owners are poor and can scarcely support their families, they cannot afford to go into such a general system and ditch and reclaim land which may not be needed for tillable purposes for a number of years, and before such lands are so needed the ditch has filled and gone to waste, just as was done in the Swamp Land system in this county from 1852 to 1860. Ditching in a new country is just like the tiling system of a farmer who is not rich. How does he tile his farm? Is it not by a field at a time? He of course will have an idea of his general system, but still he does it by piece meal as he can afford to. His, or the district system is inapplicable in this county for at least two reasons. One, because at least three-fourths of the lands requiring drainage are already drained. The other under his state-

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

The best in

IAN

BLIC,

HOE for $1.25.

ne Boot, $2.50.

oes, - $3.00.

INE SHOS,

SE,

that suit everyone.

W. J. BOWMAN,

AUBURN, IND.

Birds of a feather flock together
The Girls and Boys
all have their choice
And so will which own
ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT.

FAIRBANK'S SANTA CLAUS SOAP

THE BEST IN THE WORLD FOR ALL HOUSEHOLD AND LAUNDRY PURPOSES.

MADE ONLY BY

N.K. FAIRBANK & CO.—CHICAGO.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Meat Market.

Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good

NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,

And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.

B. C. ZEIGLER.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

SALESMEN WANTED.

to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. SALARY AND EXPENSES paid to successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

MEN WANTED!

To represent our well-known nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.

CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Chicago, Ill

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

Is a remedy every farmer should keep on hand, as it is invaluable for many diseases. All dealers sell it. Price $1.00.

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

A Stitch in Time Saves Nine.

This is an old adage, and a true one and no one will dispute it. It applies to many things generally, and to Rose's Extract Red Clover Blossoms for the cure of rheumatism especially. It is a remedy that cannot be excelled. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Every Lady in Auburn,

Is requested to call on F. E. Davenport, and try a bottle of Dr. Marshal's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant to take as chewing gum or candy, and the price is only 25cts. It is selling entirely upon its own merits and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded by F. E. Davenport.

FORT WAYNE,
Cincinnati and Louisville
AND
White Water Railroads.

The Direct Line to and from Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne Time Table.

Going South		Ar. from South
5:30 am	Fort Wayne Accomm'n....	10:[illegible] am
10:4[illegible] am	Cin. Louis'lle Mail & Ex.	4:10 pm
5:00 pm	Indianapolis Express.. ...	10:[illegible] pm

S. A. WIKEL, Gen Tkt. Agt.
Fort Wayne, Ind

Col. Voieikoff, of the czar's body guard, and other officers suspected of plotting against the monarch's life have suicided.

Who Was Your Great Grandfather?

The Detroit Journal desires to receive, by postal card, the address of all living male and female descendants of Revolutionary officers and soldiers of 1776, and, when possible, the name and state of the ancestor. Wonder if W. H. Brearly, proprietor of the Detroit Journal, is contemplating a raid upon the national treasury?

DON'T - FAIL
—TO SEE THE—
Good Samaritan
—AND—
KING OF CURES.

He Tells Your Disease Without Asking questions.

CONSULTATION FREE.

He takes no patients without he can cure them.

He Has Practiced Medicine FOR 40 YEARS.

AS A SPECIALIST, FOR 20 YEARS

In all Parts of the Globe.

Cures All Chronic Diseases

No matter who has pronounced you incurable. The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.

He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis Asthma, Rheumatism, billious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.

Piles Cured Without a Knife.

Female Complaints a Specialty

Cured without local treatment.

All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his appointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to

J. H. ANDREWS, M. D,
WAUSEON, OHIO.

Auburn, Swinford House, Feb. 3, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House. Feb. 18 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Feb. 17. One day only.
Garrett, Ross House, Feb 7.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Feb. 8 and 9

FOR DISEASES OF THE

KIDNEYS

JOHNSTON'S ROYAL ENGLISH BUCHU

Will cure all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Burning Urine, Gleet, Gonorrhœa in all its stages, Mucous Discharges, Congestion of the Kidneys, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy of Kidneys and Acid Urine, Bloody Urine, PAIN IN THE BACK, Retention of Urine Frequent Urination, Gravel in all its forms, Inability to Retain the Water, particularly in persons advanced in life. IT IS A KIDNEY INVESTIGATOR and restores the Urine to its natural color, removes the acid and burning, and the effects of the excessive use of intoxicating drink.

PRICE $1; Three Bottles for $2.50

Delivered free of any charges.

Send for Circular. Sold by all Druggists

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich

DeKalb County Fair Meetings.

The Board of Directors met at Auburn, Jan. 16, 1890, at 10 a. m., on call of the president.

The following accounts were allowed and directed to be drawn on the treasury for the amounts, viz:

S. Rogers, tile and hauling........	$5 12
M. Calkins, tile....................	4 80
J. A. Barns, printing...............	5 00
Stevens & Campbell, printing....	3 00
W. H. Dills for services as Sec'y and cash for postage............	21 50

The committee on by-laws through Chairman, W. B. Brown, made report, which after a few amendments, were adopted and ordered filed and copied into the record. Adjourned.

W. H. DILLS, Sec'y.

ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair was held at Ensley's Hall, in Auburn, on Jan. 16, 1890, at 1:30 p. m., pursuant to articles of association and previous notice.

The meeting was called to order by President C. P. Glazier, and upon request of the president and vice-president, W. B. Brown was called to the chair and presided. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were then read and ordered on file, and on motion J. J. VanAuken, W. S. Dancer and John Shugers were auditing committee to examine said reports and the books, vouchers and orders in the treasurer's and secretary's office, and report to the next meeting of the Board of Directors.

On motion the articles of association were so amended as to allow all stock subscribers to vote at this meeting.

Thereupon the following officers were unanimously elected, to-wit: President, John L. Davis; vice president, John Carper; treasurer, F. J. Yesbera.

Upon the first ballot for secretary, the vote stood, C. Husselman 109, S. Rogers 89, G. L. Lanning 15, scattering 5. On second ballot, C. Husselman 108, and S. Rogers 86. Husselman was declared elected.

On motion a committee consisting of J. L. Davis, W. Pepple, J. Carper, J. D. Rowly and J. J. VanAuken were appointed to report names for directors, who after consultation reported the following persons to act as such directors:

John Carper, A. B. Walsworth, J. N. Harkey, John Shugers, R. S. S Reed, J J. VanAuken, G. H. Dunn, C P. Glazier, D. D Metcalf, J. Y. W. McClellan, Dr. Sebring, H. R. Culbertson, S. M Knott, F. M. Kircher, W. H. Fair, Chas Rugman L. W. Treesh, H. E. Trout, E C. Reyher.

On motion the secretary was authorized to cast the vote of members present, for such persons as directors, which was done. On motion the meeting adjourned

C. P. GLAZIER, Pres.
W. H. DILLS, Sec'y

Completely Flattened Out.

The "Clipperdink" showed once more its great power as an election manipulator for Auburn last week, when after its booming three or four candidates for offices in the fair, not one of them got enough votes to be classed as "scattering." And its great head for finance was set down on and completely flattened out, for the meeting of the directors in the forenoon did not even mention the Clipper's great plan of levying 5 per cent installments. Nor was the matter mentioned at the general meeting of the stockholders in the afternoon. The 10 per cent levy seems eminently satisfactory, at least we judge so by what the secretary said in his report, and to which no one present objected. Mr. Dills said: "Some persons have criticised the action of the directors in making assessments as stated." (Ten per cent each month.) "And while such persons realized the fact that a lower assessment would not produce a sufficient sum to meet all demands and expenses, have suggested the borrowing of money with which to meet the deficiency. In defense of the action of the Board, it is fair to presume that if such assessments were lowered to 5 per cent, per month, the necessary loss as spoken of above, and the tardiness of subscribers responding to such assessments, the debt on Sept. 10, next, would certainly increase." And he says that instead of having $11,000 and over paid in at the date named, there would be a debt of more than that amount, and including what is still due on the land, would be enough to ruin the enterprise. He adds: "No better scheme to kill the fair, could be suggested." And he is right. With money paid in, we can pay labor and other expenses without borrowing money and paying interest. He further adds: "Is it good business policy for the fair to pay interest on borrowed money, when there is money due to it which bears no interest, and which being in small sums does the stock subscribers no good?" This is the thing in a nutshell. We hope all our people who really have the success of the fair at heart, will use their own good judgment to secure its success, and not be misled by the wild talk of outsiders who have little or no interest in it.

Mr. Kelley's Ditch Views.

Hon Freeman Kelley was in town Saturday, and we had a short talk with him on matters in general. Like a true farmer, he is studying up the ditching problem. He thinks as carried on under our present law it is not yet satisfactory. It makes too much expense of various kinds, especially on the county, and there is a lack of unity and directness in the work, that often makes needless expense and confusion, and is not satisfactory in its results. He believes a simple plan can be devised, say something like this: 'Suppose A wants a drain to improve his land. Let him go before the commissioners and ask to have a man appointed to examine the proposed work. A man is appointed, and he goes to the locality, examines the drain from its mouth, or where it is to end, back through its entire length to the water shed from which it is to start. He also gets the name of every property-holder affected by the proposed work, or directly interested in it. These names he reports to the board of commissioners, with such other facts, as the nature of the case may seem to require. Then if a majority of the persons named on this list, apply for the construction of the drain, the commissioners may order the work done. If a majority of the men on the list do not petition for the drain, it goes no further until enough of them change their minds to make a majority. If that should never happen, then the ditch is never made." This is the substance, as far as Mr. Kelley has developed it. He has submitted it to several who take an interest in such work, and so far, he finds them agreed that some such change should be made in the law. We have taken pains to give a full statement of his views, so that those on whom fall the expenses as well as the benefits of our drainage system, can be studying the matter over. We know some have complained of the present law, and perhaps they can assist to make it better. A farmer is the man who should know the most about drainage.

Card of Thanks.

We want to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness during our little one's sickness and death.

—MR. and MRS. W. STAIR.

5000 Dollars'

Worth of Clothing which

MUST

BE SOLD WITHIN

30-DAYS-30,

AT

"THE FAMOUS."

COME AT ONCE WHILE THE SELECTION IS LARGE.

North side Courthouse, Three doors west of Postoffice.

THE NEW

SHOE

STORE,

WILL OPEN IN THE

DRAGGOO BUILDING,
SOUTH OF THE JAIL,

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8,'90.

WE COME TO

AUBURN,

TRUSTING WITH OUR

Low Prices,
Good Goods,
AND Fair Dealing,

We may merit the patronage of the public.

CHEAP Shoddy Goods we Will not Sell.

Our Motto Wil be

Good Goods and Low Prices.

Remember the day of opening, February, 8th, 1890.
Call and see us. Respectfully yours,

J. N. WILSON & SON,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

—THE BEST—
FERTILIZER ON EARTH.

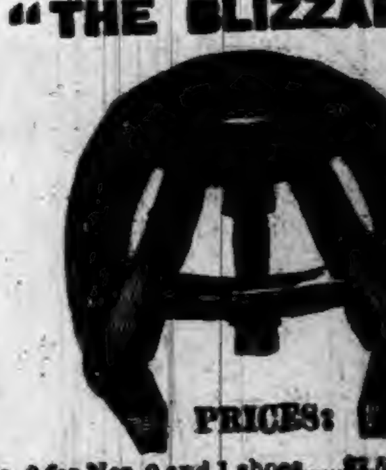
200 LBS.
TRADE
LAKE ERIE
FISH GUANO.
MARK.

ANALYSIS:

Available Phos. Acid, 10-11 per cent.
Insoluble Phos. Acid, 2-3 "
Total Bone Phosphate, 28-33 "
Ammonia,............ 2½-3½ "
Potash (actual)........ 2-3 "

MANUFACTURED BY
Jarecki Chemical Works,
Erie, Pa. & Sandusky, O.

"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes.....	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.50	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Deserving Confidence.

It is quite surprising to notice the numerous reports of remarkable cases of nervous diseases cured, such as headache, fits, nervous prostration, heart affections, St. Vitus' Dance, insanity and prolonged sleeplessness, by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. This new and improved brain and nerve food, and medicine, is everywhere gaining a remarkable reputation for curing the worst of these diseases, as well as the injurous effects of worry, nervous irritation, mental and physical over work. Davenport, the druggist, will give away trial bottles of this wonderful remedy. 4

Gen. A. M. West introduced a memorial in Mississippi legislature calling on congress to abrogate the fifteenth amendment.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

The Elkhart chewing gum factory turned out $400,000 worth of the stuff last year, and the proprietor says the annual output of all the factories in the country will foot up $6,000,000.

A Revolutionizer—M.P

Would you whip a sick horse? No. Then don't use ordinary pills, salts, senna, etc., for sick livers, bowels etc., only use Miles Pills (M. P.) the safest and surest of pills. Samples free at Davenport's. 4

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F. M. Shrout, pastor United Brethren church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishoners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 26 lbs. in weight." Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it." Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00. 3

Clinton county teachers are on their ears because the mayor of Frankfort, fined Teacher Mark Miller $5 and costs for whipping a scholar. Case to be appealed and teachers to stand expense.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health to the use of the great alterative and tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of kidneys, liver or stomach, of long or short standing, you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 3

A. C. Johnson receipted for registered letter at Terre Haute, that didn't belong to him. Bound over to U. S. grand jury.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

The cause of death of a boy baby in Gotham last year was reported as "Sat on by father." It is sometimes necessary to sit on the irrepressible boy severely, but this is carrying the matter a little too far.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory. H. J. Trentman.

DO NOT FAIL
—TO TRY—
SMOKETTE.

It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE, SEED and HAVANA Cigar for

Five Cents.

For Sale in Auburn, by
Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.

Waterloo Agencies,
Locke's Hotel
A. V. Sinclair & Co.

LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1890. NUMBER 5.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

THE DUKE OF AOSTA, who was a brother of King Humbert of Italy was buried last week. He will be remembered as the young man who was chosen King of Spain a few years ago, but who got sick of the office in a short time and went back to Italy.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO. Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING AT 7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE PANEL SIZE Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

VIEWS ON DITCHING.

Our remarks last week as to Mr. Kelley's views on ditching have called out two letters which we give below. A discussion of this vital question will injure no one, and may do good.

FIRST LETTER.

The drainage system suggested by Mr. Kelley in last week's COURIER is the old "district" system, which has been in vogue in the older states as well as in Europe, and has been discarded in some and found not applicable in the newer states and communities. He gives a very imperfect statement of the plan, whatever it is. In order to obtain drainage in any new community, where as a general thing, nine tenths of the land owners are poor and can scarcely support their families, they cannot afford to go into such a general system and ditch and reclaim land which may not be needed for tillable purposes for a number of years, and before such lands are so needed the ditch has filled and gone to waste, just as was done in the Swamp Land system in this county from 1852 to 1860. Ditching in a new country is just like the tiling system of a farmer who is not rich. How does he tile his farm? Is it not by a field at a time? He of course will have an idea of his general system, but still he does it by piece meal as he can afford to. His, or the district system is inapplicable in this county for at least two reasons. One, because at least three-fourths of the lands requiring drainage are already drained. The other is that in this county, under his statement of the system, there would not be to exceed eight or ten districts. He would have every such district to extend from the watershed through the entire length to the mouth—a very indefinite locality—and have the owners of lands affected or directly interested to be named as composing the district, and no ditching or draining can be in that district until a majority petitions for it. So it would be seen that if a half-dozen enterprising farmers wanted to drain, they could not do so if they are in a district of twelve or more. But what would be the size of his districts? Suppose he wanted to drain a ten-acre field of his. The man appointed to ascertain the district might go below him to Cedar Creek. And why stop at Cedar Creek? He ought, as most enterprising men would justly say, go down that stream to the Allen county line. Then, to complete the system or district, go on north and east four or five miles and take in all the tamarack swamps in that part of Smithfield township. Need he stop there? Of course not, for every land owner whose drainage is to that creek where thus cleaned and straightened would be affected and benefited, and so would all those who have drainage into it above where his ditch enters, and so of every little tributary that enters either above or below his ditch. The effect of his plan would greatly enlarge the difficulties in draining our lands and would almost stop such work. Had his plan in the first place been adopted, not one-tenth of the draining we have done would have been done, and we would have been kept back a generation in reclaiming our wet lands. By his system the enterprising, go-ahead farmer, or the poor one who can scarcely make a living for want of drainage, either of whom live in a district where a majority of the land owners are non-residents or shiftless, do-little fellows, would either have to starve or sell, and get out. His idea of sending a man out to locate a district is simply additional expense, which he is so anxious about. For under the present law it is the duty of the drainage viewers to view and assess all lands affected by the proposed ditch, and that is what would have to be done under his plan. Instead of encouraging the reclaiming of wet lands, his plan would retard such improvements very much. For one, I believe that on the point in question our present law is right by which any one or more land owners can compel drainage. That one enterprising man in a community is worth more to the public than a dozen drones. I also believe our courts should be open to every single person without let or hindrance, and not be closed against any for want of endorsers or bonds, as I understand he proposed last winter in the legislature as to criminal cases. Our great progress in ditching in our county during the last fifteen years is due to the efforts of one or two energetic men in each locality. While the expense, as he says, is great to our county, it has been a paying investment giving large returns. The officers have undoubtedly abused the law, but the law is not to blame. JACKSON.

SECOND LETTER.

ARCTIC, Jan. 26, 1890.

EDITOR COURIER: I see in your paper what Mr. Kelley thinks about our ditch law. I will give my views and where I would change it. I would make the parties interested in the ditch pay for the surveying and viewing, instead of the county. Then if they can't agree, let them select three persons themselves or pay the fiddler, just as they please. The county has paid from $12,000 to $17,000 for thirteen years for ditching, and it increases every year. The "health water," as they call it, was all drawn off long ago. As long as we have the law as it is the farmers will use it and you town people will have to help pay it. Throw the cost on the ones benefited and I insure you it wont cost them one-fourth what it costs the county. We are close enough when we have to foot the bill. This change wont suit the county officers.

LEVERET WILLIAMS.

From Ocean to Ocean.

Over thirty-two years ago, Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, imported from the banks of the Douro, in Portugal, a few of the Port Grape vines, and commenced careful experiments for the purpose of producing a first-class American Port, both fermented and unfermented. He has been eminently successful, and now Speer's wine and unfermented juice is known from ocean to ocean, and endorsed by the best medical talent in the world as the best now produced for the use of invalids. For sale by druggists.

Stanley's New Book.

5,000 good active agents wanted at once, either sex to introduce this great work. Here is a chance for you. Any one can sell the book, as the whole world is interested. The book will contain a full account of all of Stanley's explorations in Africa, and especially of his latest expedition for the relief of Emin Bey. About 600 pages and 100 entirely new illustrations, maps, etc. Complete canvassing outfit with all instructions will be mailed on receipt of 40 cents. Do not delay in writing; order outfit and get territory at once. The only genuine new Stanley book out. Address Holloway Publishing Co., 810 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400. $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres splendid farming land, good buildings, good fences, good orchards, within five miles of Hicksville, O. Must be sold soon.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $3,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100 barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 21 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 120 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307. 220 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill. 36-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1¼ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot find what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

CARPETS

AND

Lace Curtains.

—We will have open for inspection, on—

THURSDAY

OF THIS WEEK, A LINE OF

Carpets & Lace Curtains

Such as has never before been shown in the city. We kindly invite you all to call whether you wish to buy or not.

REMEMBER

We are offering all Heavy Weight Goods at greatly reduced prices.

Very respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN, IND.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries, Rochester, N. Y.

Mention this paper.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Colonel Fred D. Grant, the United States Minister to Austria, had the honor of dining with Emperor Francis Joseph for the first time last Friday.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

Long Time Loans.

We have on hand a limited amount of money to loan on farms on long time at 6 per cent. annual interest, in sums of $1,000, and up.

RICKEL & SPROTT 1t

According to Western reports the "Soo" Line and Canadian Pacific have 10,000 cars of corn from Nebraska on the side tracks awaiting movement.

Now is the Time.

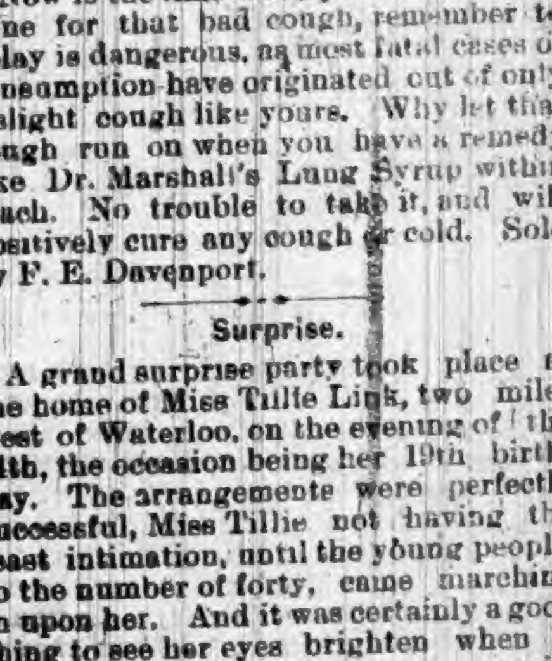
Now is the time when you need a medicine for that bad cough, remember to delay is dangerous, as most fatal cases of consumption have originated out of only a slight cough like yours. Why let that cough run on when you have a remedy like Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup within reach. No trouble to take it, and will positively cure any cough or cold. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Surprise.

A grand surprise party took place at the home of Miss Tillie Link, two miles west of Waterloo, on the evening of the 24th, the occasion being her 19th birthday. The arrangements were perfectly successful, Miss Tillie not having the least intimation, until the young people, to the number of forty, came marching in upon her. And it was certainly a good thing to see her eyes brighten when it occurred to her that it was an especial mark of esteem. An hour or two was spent in conversation and play, although she wasn't able to play, having la grippe. All enjoyed the bounteous repast which the company brought with them. Then Miss Alda Rohm presented to her the gifts, which amounted to $8.25. Miss Tillie was so overcome she could not express her thanks for some time. They then withdrew to their homes, after an enjoyable occasion.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

RHEUMATISM CURED.



MR. W. P. JOHNSON, ATLANTA, GA.

Whose picture adorns the head of this column, is an extensive coal and wood dealer.

He said lately: "My business necessitates a good deal of exposure upon me, and last winter, owing to this fact, I was attacked with a very severe case of inflammatory rheumatism.

"What I suffered from this dread disease can better be imagined than described.

"I did everything I could to cure myself. I tried every means in my power and every remedy left me as bad or worse than I was before. I could not raise my hand to my head, and it looked as if, even if I were rid of the disease, its effects would CRIPPLE ME FOR LIFE.

"About four weeks ago I was persuaded to try Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure, and my relief was almost instantaneous. I am now on my fourth bottle, and I am as sound a man as there is in Georgia."

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE,

Is a superb tonic and blood purifier, quickly curing all diseases of the blood, skin and kidneys. $1 per bottle. Book of testimonials FREE. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. Manufacturers of Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, for bronchitis, coughs, asthma and colds.

Obituary.

Gracie Rose died at the home of her parents after a lingering illness of many months. Gracie had just budded into young womanhood, but alas! the casket of life has been destroyed by the ruthless hand of death. Gracie early sought and found the Saviour. Death had no terrors for her, and it is sweet to know that after life's fitful fever Gracie sleeps well and her spirit, purified by sickness, has passed from the brightness of earth to a brighter Heaven. Although she was sick so long, she never seemed to suffer like many others. Just a few moments before her death she called her brother and sister to her bedside, asked them to meet her in Heaven and bade them goodbye. So noiseless was the approach of the death angel that her friends knew not of his presence. She went as though

Lulled upon an angel's lap
Into a breathless, dewy sleep.

The great love which Gracie bore to her parents seemed to bind her to this life, yet the love she bore her Saviour was so potent that she desired to depart and be with Him in Heaven. Sooner or later death finds us all. O! may we like Gracie meet him calm and fearlessly. As we looked for the last time, ere the grave closed forever over her, we could say,

The blessings of her quiet life
Fell on us like the dew,
And good thoughts, where her footsteps pressed,
Like fragrant blossoms grew.

We watched her breathing thro' the night,
Her breathing soft and low,
As in her breast the wave of life
Kept heaving to and fro.

At last the fluttering pulse was still;
The death chill through her clay
Stole slowly, and, as morn came on,
Our loved one passed away.

For, when the morn came dim and sad
And chill with early showers,
Her quiet eyelids closed. She had
A brighter morn than ours.

But years are moving quickly past
And time will soon be o'er.
Then we shall meet our loved one,
Where parting is no more.

Obituary.

Daniel Kosht was born in Cumberland county, Pa., April 4, 1823. In 1832 he moved with his parents to Ashland county, Ohio. Here on the 27 of Nov. 1845, he was married Rebecca Ferree, who was born Jan. 3, 1824, and died April 7, 1854 To this union there were born 5 children, 3 sons and 2 daughters. In 1855, Dec. 24, he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Lash, of Ashland county Ohio, who was born July 24, 1832, died Nov. 24, 1881. To this union there were born 10 children, six sons and four daughters. In 1864 he moved with his family to DeKalb county Indiana, where he resided until his death, which occurred Jan. 10, 1890, aged, 66 years, 9 months, and 6 days. In the early part of his life he united with the U. B. Church, in which he has been a zealous and a devoted member up to the time of his death. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Bachtel of the U. B. church. His remains were interred in the cemetery at Union Chapel. He leaves 15 children and many friends to mourn his departure.

H. A. W.

The Assassination of Lincoln.

From the "History of Lincoln," by Nicolay and Hay, now drawing to a close in THE CENTURY, we quote the following: "No one, not even the comedian on the stage, could ever remember the last words of the piece that were uttered that night—the last Abraham Lincoln heard upon earth. The whole performance remains in the memory of those who heard it a vague phantasmagoria, the actors the thinnest of specters. The awful tragedy in the box makes everything else seem pale and unreal. Here were five human beings in a narrow space—the greatest man of his time in the glory of the most stupendous success in our history, the beloved chief of a nation already mighty, with illimitable vistas of grandeur to come; his beloved wife, proud and happy; a pair of betrothed lovers, with all the promise of felicity that youth, wealth and social position could give them; and this young actor, handsome as Endymion upon Latmos, the pet of his little world. The murderer seemed to himself to be taking part in a play. Holding a pistol in one hand and a knife in the other, he opened the box door, put the pistol to the president's head and fired; dropping the weapon he took the knife in his right hand, and when Major Rathbone sprang to seize him, he struck savagely at him. Major Rathbone received the blow on his left arm, suffering a wide and deep wound. Booth, rushing forward, then placed his hand on the railing of the box and vaulted lightly over to the stage. It was a high leap, but nothing to such a trained athlete. He was in a habit of introducing what actors call sensational leaps in his plays. In 'Macbeth,' where he met the weird sisters, he leaped from a rock twelve feet high. He would have got safely away, but for his spur catching in the folds of the Union flag, with which the center of the box was draped. He fell on the stage, the torn flag trailing on his spur, but instantly rose as if he had received no hurt though in fact the fall had broken his leg, turned to the audience, brandishing his dripping knife and shouting the State motto of Virginia, 'Sic Semper Tyrannis,' and fled rapidly across the stage and out of sight. Major Rathbone had shouted, 'Stop him!' The cry went out, 'He has shot the President'. From the audience, at first stupid with surprise, and afterwards wild with excitement and horror, two or three men jumped upon the stage in pursuit of the flying assassin; but he ran through the familiar passages, leaped upon his horse, which was in waiting in the alley behind, rewarded with a curse and a kick the call-boy who had held him, and rode rapidly away in the light of the just risen moon.

"The president scarcely moved; his head drooped forward slightly, his eyes closed. Colonel Rathbone, at first not regarding his own grievous hurt, rushed to the door of the box to summon aid. He found it barred and on the outside some one was beating and clamoring for entrance. He opened the door; a young officer named Crawford entered; one or two army surgeons soon followed, who hastily examined the wound. It was at once seen to be mortal. It was afterwards ascertained that a large derringer bullet had entered the back of the head on the left side, and passing through the brain, had lodged just behind the left eye. By direction of Rathbone and Crawford, the President was carried to a house across the street and laid upon a bed in a small room at the rear of the hall, on the ground floor. He was shot a few minutes past ten. At twenty-two minutes after seven the next morning he died.

THE BARGAIN STORE!

IS NOW REMOVED TO

Eighth Street,

West of Court House, and we respectfully invite the people of Auburn and vicinity to call on us in our new quarters.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Dr. Lida Leasure's Lecture.

As befitted the occasion, there was a large attendance Saturday evening to hear Dr. Lida Leasure's lecture on "The Social Evil." And not only was the attendance large, but it was made up mainly of the best elements of Auburn society—people who appreciate a literary effort of the kind. The meeting had been arranged by the Ladies' Literary Club, each member having the privilege to invite twenty guests, and there was no admittance fee. The K. of P. had been invited in a body, in recognition of their kindness in giving them the use of their elegant hall for the club's last annual meeting. Mrs. Leasure had read this lecture before the club, as one of the regular exercises, and it was so full of good thoughts, that the society unanimously requested her to deliver it on some future occasion, to a larger audience, feeling sure it would be appreciated. To this she finally consented, and the result was the meeting at the Presbyterian church Saturday evening. Members of the club acted as ushers, and the great audience was seated quietly and at last comfortably. Mrs. Alice Lewis, president of the club had been ill for some time, and could not be present. So Mrs. M. B. Willis, the vice-president, took charge of the meeting, and presided with ability and dignity. On introducing Mrs. Leasure, the president stated briefly some of the points noted above. The speaker at once entered on her subject, prefacing the lecture proper by a few thoughts called out by the occasion. The speaker had given the subject a great deal of thought, and no phase of this important yet delicate question was neglected. She showed herself master of the situation, and appeared as much at ease as if the lecture platform was a familiar place. She had the ability to clothe her thoughts in choice yet energetic language, and the great audience listened as one man, to catch every word she said. One could hear the ticking of the church clock, from the first words to the close. It would be impossible to give a good idea of this lecture to those who did not hear it. We can only say that she dwelt with emphasis and feeling on the immoral tendencies of the times, and sounded notes of warning to the unthinking, that should be cherished as pieces of gold. Parents should look well to their children, as to their associations, their reading and their amusements. Going farther into her subject, she claimed that where sin has been committed, we are too apt to cast the woman out of society and let the man stand as high as before. This fearful injustice the speaker decried with great force of reason and with words of no uncertain meaning. The man should be cast out of good society just as the woman is. As the speaker warmed to her subject, she became very eloquent and impressive, and the vast throng frequently burst into applause, forgetful of the sacred building they were in. And they were not to be blamed. The truths uttered were such as we hear from the pulpit, and were by no means out of place in the house of God. When the audience dispersed, there was but one opinion, and that was that the lecture has seldom been equaled by anything we have had in Auburn. Those who were present owe a debt of gratitude to the L. L. C. and their talented speaker, for another evening of intellectual pleasure.

A Great Relief to Anxious Mothers.

The traveler cannot have failed to notice the trouble which young America causes his parents or guardian while traveling by rail in the ordinary coaches on account of his determination to go upon the platform every time the door is opened. The through trains to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York via the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are now vestibuled from baggage car to sleeper, and heated by steam drawn from the locomotive. A child can pass from car to car on these trains as safely as through the rooms at home. Vestibuled trains leave Auburn Junction daily at 7:05 p. m. Pullman space reserved in advance by applying to T. H. Sprott or A. J. Bell Ticket agents, B. & O. R. R. Auburn City and Auburn Junction.

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place, The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

A Passenger Train on the "Monon" Wrecked at Carmel, Indiana.

A special from Indianapolis says: Passenger train No. 1 on the Monon route, which left Chicago Sunday night at 11:55, was wrecked at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning one mile above Carmel, a village sixteen miles north of this city. The train was running at a rapid rate and was approaching the long trestle across Wilkerson Creek when the tender jumped the track. The engineer reversed his engine, but before the air-brakes could check the speed of the train the locomotive and baggage-car had cleared the trestle. The sleeper and smoking-coach went over into the creek, both taking fire almost immediately and being consumed in a remarkably short time.

A correct list of the killed is as follows: Mrs. Nellie Eubank, Broad Ripple, burned to death. C. O. Deming, Frankfort, Ind., head crushed. Mrs. D. S. Oldham, twin children, Sheridan, burned to death. Miss Mary Hoover, Horton, crushed to death. Mrs. Hattie Hensley, Cyclone, crushed and burned.

Fully fifty persons were injured and some of them will die.

W. J. Collins, of the Indianapolis Sentinel, a passenger on the "Monon" train which was wrecked at Carmel, Ind., thus describes the terrible accident: "The first intimation of anything unusual was a swaying of the cars followed by the front end of the sleeper going over the embankment. There was a crash and a shock that threw the passengers from one end of the car to the other, out of one berth into another and demolishing everything in the car. A gentleman kicked out a window through which a number made their exit. Others seeing that there was no immediate danger to those in the sleeper, dressed themselves and sought the open air. On emerging from the sleeper it was discovered that the coach immediately in front had been badly wrecked, because in leaving the bridge the front end struck the embankment approach, completely demolishing that end of the car, overturning the stove in which a brisk fire was burning. The car immediately took fire, the flames spreading with great rapidity and in a moment enveloping the entire structure. Those who had escaped from the other coaches and were able to work, began assisting those in the burning coach to free themselves. The first persons taken out were two ladies, both dead. Then Mrs. Oldham and little boy, of Sheridan, and two other children of this lady were still in the car, and the mother noting this fact, and although badly injured, made a desperate effort to return to the burning coach. Being dissuaded in this, she appealed to the by-standers to rescue her boys. Clasping the youngest in her arms, she exclaimed: "Thank God, I have you left; but I have two other children in the fire; God be merciful," and then turning to the passengers, urged them to rescue her burning children. By this time the train from the south arrived and the passengers fell to work, urged on by the frantic appeals of the dying and injured to give them relief. Everyone who could, worked with a will. Axes were procured and a determined effort made to get the dead and dying out, but their efforts proved futile as the flames spread so rapidly that the work had to be abandoned in a few minutes. There was a scene of the wildest confusion. The deck of the bridge was completely demolished, the ties displaced, rails bent, twisted and broken, piles splintered and broken off and all the cars so badly wrecked that no parts of them can ever be utilized. As to the cause of the wreck, Mr. Collins says he is positive it was due to the spreading of the rails on a curve 150 feet from the bridge. The section foreman, who reached the scene half an hour after the wreck, explained that the outside of the curve had been too low and he had elevated it one inch by shimming it up temporarily. Stone had been hauled there for the purpose of raising the outside of the curve in the usual way, but he had not had time to use them, but considered it necessary to do something, and the only thing to be done at the time was to use the shims. The sole cause of the accident was the condition of the track on the curve, it being a sticky clay, destitute of ballast.

Disposes of the Will.

Cincinnati special: Ex-Judge Nicholas Longworth, who died here a millionaire on the 18th of January, left a will dated several months ago. However, there has been recorded by Larz Anderson, his cousin, a deed in the Recorder's office dated only last month whereby the Judge transferred his whole immense interest in the great estate of his father, Joseph Longworth, and his grandfather, Nicholas Longworth, absolutely to his wife. This, under the laws of Ohio, supersedes the will.

Down an Embankment.

A queer accident occurred on the Omaha and Council Bluffs Electric Railroad at Omaha. Just as the train descended the incline from the bridge over the Missouri River the train began to slide on the track. It gained such momentum that when it reached a sharp curve the motor car left the track and plunged down an embankment. There were eighteen passengers on board at the time and all were more or less injured, but none seriously.

Fatal White Cap Visit.

James Lawrence of Melmore, Seneca County, died at the Toledo Insane Asylum yesterday, and his body was taken home for interment. Lawrence became insane from the effect of a White Cap notice served on him last summer, and he never regained his right mind.

Missouri Valley Cut-Stone Contractors.

The Missouri Valley Cut-Stone Contractors and Quarrymen's Association held its annual session at the Chamber of Commerce at St. Paul, Minn., and elected these officers: President, A. Intermeister of Kansas City; Vice President, A. Schall of Omaha; Treasurer, James Cuthbert of Topeka; Secretary, W. E. Emery of Kansas City.

To Clear Their Wives' Reputations.

Sir Francis Cook and John B. Martin, husbands respectively of Tennie C. Claflin and Victoria Woodhull, as they are known in America, are making every effort to hunt down the parties who have for years assailed the reputation of their wives.

KILLED AT A FUNERAL.

Four People Overtaken by a Most Horrible Death.

An appalling accident, involving the lives of four persons, occurred at the entrance to Rose Hill Cemetery, Chicago. The victims are: Frederick Payne, killed instantly; Mrs. Rosa Payne, horribly mangled, died within ten minutes; Mrs. William Reprogel, horribly mangled, died after removal to Chicago; Simon Anderson, died after removal to Chicago. The catastrophe was due to the Milwaukee express on the Northwestern Road, which, while running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, dashed into a funeral procession that was crossing the track to enter the cemetery. It struck one of the carriages, containing four persons, instantly killing one, injuring another so badly that death ensued in a few minutes, and mangling a third, and also the driver so horribly that death soon followed. The only occupant of the carriage who escaped serious injury was a little girl 8 years old, who, by what seems little less than a miracle, sustained only a few scratches. Mr. and Mrs. Payne were the parents of the corpse being buried, Mrs. Reprogel was a friend of theirs, and Simon Anderson was the driver of the carriage. The engineer of the train has been arrested.

PRICES FOR MINING COAL.

A Scale Adopted by the United Mine Workers.

The United Mine Workers, at their convention in Columbus, Ohio, agreed upon the following scale of prices:

Hocking Valley	$ 81
Western Pennsylvania	90
Indiana block coal	95
Indiana bituminous	85
Wilmington coal field	90
Streator, Ill.	90
La Salle, Ill.	1.00
Spring Valley, Ill.	1.00
Springfield, Ill.	71¼
Stanton and Mount Olive, Ill.	66⅔
Peoria District	85
Moundsville, W. Va.	85
Flat Top, W. Va. (run of mine)	50
Monongahela River	90
Kanawha River	90
Pomeroy, Twenty-second Division	57
Reynoldsville (low grade region, run of mine)	50

Price for work in veins under 4½ feet at same proportion as present prices. The price for the Wilmington coal field, exclusive of brushing, is fixed at 45 cents per ton, the scale to take effect May 1.

CENSUS SUPERVISORS.

A Large Number Appointed by the President.

The President has sent to the Senate the following nominations.

John R. Berry to be Collector of Customs at San Diego, Cal., and Daniel C. Clark to be assistant appraiser at Philadelphia. To be supervisors of the census: Ohio—Isaac Minor Kirby, First District; John Devor, Second; Lot Wright, Third; Mark Sternberger, Fourth; Samuel H. Peterman, Fifth; James P. Wood, Seventh; William Grinnell, Eighth. Nebraska—William S. Randall, First; Benjamin F. Shouffer, Second; Thomas M. Cook, Third. Nevada—John H. Sharp, First; J. W. Strange, Second. Washington—Will D. Jenkins, First. South Dakota—Charles W. Mather, Second. New Mexico—Horatio W. Ladd. Utah—Amasa S. Cannon. Illinois—Cash C. Jones, Second. Michigan—James N. McBride, Third. Wisconsin—Luther B. Noyes, Fourth. Minnesota—Edward J. Davenport, Second; Elmer E. Adams, Fourth.

A CRISIS IN CANADA.

The Dominion Claims the Right to Make Its Own Copyright Laws.

An Ottawa (Ont.) special: Matters have come to a crisis between the imperial and Canadian Governments in reference to the copyright question. The English publishers have been making strenuous efforts to induce the British Government to disallow the Canadian act of last session, and recently the Ottawa authorities forwarded to England a strong justification why the Canadian act should not be disallowed. Under the ninety-first section of the British North American act—the Canadian Constitution passed by the Imperial Parliament in 1867—the Parliament of Canada is empowered to legislate on copyright. If this right be taken away the act itself will become a dead letter and serious complications may arise. Besides claiming home rule on this the Canadian Government has asked England to give the requisite one year's notice for the withdrawal from the provisions of the Berne convention.

ACCUSING AN EDITOR OF TREASON.

A Toronto Man Charged with Revealing State Secrets to American Senators.

A Toronto special says: For several days the Empire newspaper, organ of the Dominion Government, has formulated charges of treason against the Mail newspaper and its editor, Edward Farrar, based upon alleged secret information furnished by Farrar to the Republican members of the Senate committee on Canadian affairs, which information tended to serve in coercing Canada into annexation. The Mail editor denied the charges, and upon their reiteration the Mail has caused to be served a warrant for criminal libel on David Creighton, M. P., managing editor of the Empire. The leading constitutional lawyers of the Dominion have already been retained by both sides.

WILL STARVE HIMSELF TO DEATH.

A Kansas Defaulter Announces that He Proposes to End His Days in Agony.

A Manhattan (Kan.) dispatch says: "James Fortner, the defaulting Treasurer of Riley County, announces his intention of committing suicide in a novel manner. He prefers death, he says, to the punishment for his crime, and he has resolved to die by starving himself to death. Since leaving Memphis he has eaten nothing nor has he drank so much as a mouthful of water nor slept. He is already thin and emaciated."

CAPT. CASTLE TO BE POSTMASTER.

Minnesota Senators Have Agreed on Him for the St. Paul Office.

A St. Paul (Minn.) dispatch says: It is stated that Senators Davis and Washburn have agreed on Capt. Henry A. Castle for Postmaster at St. Paul, and President Harrison will nominate him for the place soon. Postmaster Lee's term does not expire until December, 1891, and Democrats are disposed to protest over the proposed summary decapitation.

BOUGHT THE FOREPAUGH SHOW.

An English Syndicate Secures a Controlling Interest in the Concern.

At Philadelphia, Pa., it is stated authoritatively that the English syndicate has concluded negotiations with the representatives of the late Adam Forepaugh, and that his show would pass into their hands. They secure a $600,000 interest in the affair. Adam Forepaugh, Jr., will be retained in charge of the show this season.

DEATH BY AN EXPLOSION.

Five Men Killed and Thirteen More or Less Seriously Hurt.

A Charlotte (N. C.) dispatch says: A report reaches here of a terrific explosion of powder in Wilkes County on the line of the new railroad. A great quantity of rock was thrown up and fell upon several men. Five were killed and thirteen injured more or less seriously.

Named for Office.

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of George P. Fisher, of Delaware, to be First Auditor of the Treasury, and Marcus Johnson Collector of Internal Revenue for the district of Minnesota. Mr. Fisher's nomination has been hung up in the Committee on Finance for some time because of charges made against him, but the committee unanimously decided that there was no reason why he should not be confirmed and so reported. The President has nominated John A. Percival to be Receiver of Public Money at Devil's Lake, N. D.

Claim There Was No Counterfeiting.

A San Antonio (Tex.) dispatch says: Bankers here pronounce the New York counterfeiting story as a "fake." They say it would be a waste of time to counterfeit United States dollars in Mexico, as the banks of that country would pay no more for them than for silver bullion. In Mexico the laws against counterfeiting are severe and most rigidly enforced. The penalty is horrible. The convict has his right hand struck off at the wrist and is confined on a small island off the coast, near Vera Cruz, for the remainder of his life.

Result of the Danish Elections.

A Copenhagen cable says: In the elections just held for members of the lower house of Parliament the candidates of the ministerial party polled 91,159 votes, the opposition candidates 139,854, and the socialists 17,232. This is a gain of 2,987 votes for the ministerialists and 2,195 for the opposition. The new House will comprise 23 ministerialists, against 28 in the preceding House, 57 compromise members, and 17 irreconcilables. In the last House the united opposition numbered 74 votes.

Austria's Empress Insane.

The Empress of Austria gives undoubted evidence of the insanity hereditary in her family. She refuses to see anybody, and spends her time in singing dirges to the accompaniment of an organ. Thrice a day she goes to the cathedral to pray for the welfare of her son's soul, and has a large picture of him draped in crape over her bed.

Solicitor General Chapman's Funeral.

Solicitor General Orlow W. Chapman's remains were buried at Binghamton, N. Y., and the occasion was one of the deepest solemnity. Public and other buildings were draped in mourning, and the city generally wore a funereal aspect.

Pugilists Released on Bail.

Muldoon, Cleary, and Donovan gave bail before the court at Purvis, Miss., Charles Rich, at whose place the fight occurred, going on their bond. They were at once released to appear before the court for trial in June.

Adam Forepaugh Dead.

Adam Forepaugh, Sr., the veteran showman, died recently at his residence on Green street, Philadelphia. Mr. Forepaugh had been ill for some time, having been attacked about ten days before with influenza, which developed into pneumonia.

Cost of Maintaining Niagara.

It cost New York State last year $27,000 to maintain its Niagara Falls property. It is proposed to spend $68,000 this year in improvements.

Worked the Gold-Brick Game.

Clark Adams, a wealthy farmer living near Lima, Ohio, was swindled out of $6,000 Thursday by a pair of clever rascals who worked the old gold-brick game.

An Ohio Railway Sold.

By judicial sale at Portsmouth, Ohio, the Sciota Valley Road was sold to a representative of the New York Trust Company for $3,565,000.

Senator Quay's Niece to Wed.

It is reported that Miss Theta Quay, a niece of Senator Quay, is to marry Mr. Robert Franks, Secretary of the Hartman Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Smuggled Goods Confiscated.

Cotton goods valued at $2,000, which had been placed on a Mexican Central train by smugglers, were confiscated at Paso del Norte.

Settled the Seas with Oil.

The captains of three steamships used oil successfully to break the waves of turbulent seas in their recent passage across the Atlantic.

Short in His Accounts.

A telegram from Washington states that Charles Spalding, the retiring receiver of the land office in Topeka, Kan., is $3,000 short in his accounts with the Government.

Claim-Jumping in Oklahoma.

Claim-jumping has begun again at Guthrie, I. T., and United States troops have been compelled to disperse a mob there.

Another Bloody Fight in Crete.

Another conflict between Christians and Turks is reported at Sphakia, Crete, in which many were killed on both sides.

For a New Methodist College.

The Methodist Episcopal Church of America has decided to build a sectarian college in Kansas City, Kan.

Convicts Severely Whipped.

Investigation of the State Prison at Frankfort, Ky., is being made. It is alleged that convicts have been severely whipped.

Peter Jackson Arrives at New York.

Peter Jackson has arrived at New York on the steamer Adriatic. He is ready and anxious to fight Sullivan, Slavin or Kilrain.

Players' Games Arranged.

The Players' League has arranged its schedule of games for next season, but declines to make it public until March 11.

Will Not Issue Silver Notes.

There is no truth in the report that the Bank of England is to issue silver notes.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.25
Good	3.50	@ 4.50
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.50	@ 4.00
SHEEP	4.50	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76	@ .76½
CORN—No. 2	.28½	@ .29½
OATS—No. 2	.20½	@ .21½
RYE—No. 2	.44	@ .45
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.23	@ .26
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh	.14½	@ .15½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.37	@ .40
PORK—Mess	9.50	@10.00
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.72	@ .74
CORN—No. 3	.28½	@ .29½
OATS—No. 2 White	.23	@ .24
RYE—No. 2	.44½	@ .45½
BARLEY—No. 2	.41	@ .43
PORK—Mess	9.50	@10.00
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@ 4.00
HOGS	3.00	@ 4.00
SHEEP	3.50	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.80	@ .81
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.29½	@ .30½
OATS—No. 2 White	.26	@ .27
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.80½	@ .81½
CORN—Cash	.30½	@ .31½
OATS—No. 2 White	.22	@ .22½
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.75	@ 5.00
HOGS	3.75	@ 4.25
SHEEP	4.50	@ 6.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.87½	@ .88½
CORN—No. 2	.38	@ .40
OATS—Mixed Western	.28	@ .32
PORK—Prime Mess	10.50	@11.25
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.00
HOGS	3.00	@ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
CORN	.25½	@ .26½
OATS	.21	@ .21½
RYE—No. 2	.42	@ .43
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.50	@ 5.00
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.00
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .77½
CORN—No. 1 White	.30½	@ .31½
OATS—No. 2 White	.24	@ .25
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.25	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.78	@ .79
CORN—No. 2	.32½	@ .33½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.24	@ .25
RYE—No. 2	.52	@ .53
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.00	@ 4.75
HOGS	3.50	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.91	@ .91½
CORN—No. 2	.33½	@ .34½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

A Mother Finds Her Children After Twenty-Seven Years of Separation.

Mrs. Thomas J. Johnson, of Greenfield has just received a letter which made known the whereabouts of her daughter Alice, and son Albert Smith, whom she had not seen for twenty-seven years. She was called to Washington City in 1861, to nurse her father, who was wounded in the battle of Bull Run. Her husband was killed in the same battle. She left her children with their grandmother in Scioto, N. Y., and upon the death of the grandmother, Mrs. Smith, who had remained in Washington as a nurse, failed to hear further concerning her children. Afterwards, however, she learned that they had been taken by a family named Wilson, which had removed no one knew where. At the hospital Mrs. Smith, while nursing wounded soldiers, became acquainted with her present husband, Thomas Johnson, whom she afterward married. After the war Mr. and Mrs. Johnson settled in Greenfield, his former home, where they have since resided. Last summer the services of H. M. Mott, editor of the Councilor of Champlain, N. Y., became enlisted, and through his advertisements the children, now grown, were found. The daughter Alice is in Montreal, Canada, and the son Albert in Scioto, N. Y. The children intend coming to see their mother as soon as they can. It will no doubt be a joyous meeting.

A Mild-Mannered Spook.

A family residing in the vicinity of Rose Hill school, Jeffersonville, complain of spooks that render life in the same house with them an almost insupportable burden. The family, who have never been known to be of a superstitious nature, say that at any hour in the night, and occasionally in the day time, there can be heard distinctly footsteps on the stairway, and an opening and shutting of doors. The lady of the house, who in the day time is left alone, says that she has on several different occasions seen a strange woman standing in the room or going out the door. She has become so accustomed to the strange figure that she has ceased paying any attention to it, and goes on with the regular performance of her duties, while the stranger continues her intermittent intrusions. The story was first laughed at, but when it is considered that it comes from one of the most intelligent and highly-respected families in the city, it is given considerable credence.

Minor State Items.

—The water-works plant at Shelbyville has been sold to Walter Stanton, of New York, for $61,250.

—George Hamblion, of Nashville, was found dead in the road. Death was caused by heart failure.

—The new election law will add sixteen new precincts to Montgomery County, making a total of forty-one in the county.

—Fred Lay and John Walters, excavators in a sewer at Lafayette, were buried by a cave-in. They were rescued alive, but badly injured.

—Andrew J. Catterman, of Kokomo, fell dead in his barn of heart disease. He was a wealthy pioneer resident, and was 76 years of age.

—The Stultz family, residing near Zionsville, consisting of the mother and twelve children, have a combined weight of 2,974 pounds.

—C. M. Carpenter, a graduate of Indiana University, class of '89, has been elected Superintendent of the granded schools of Bloomington.

—John Henry Runnels, a well-known young man living near Bloomington, accidentally shot himself while hunting. He was climbing a fence, when the gun was discharged, killing him instantly.

—John Pfeffly, of Ladoga, gathered a mess of string beans from his garden on Jan. 16. The "oldest inhabitant" is not old enough to remember a like instance.

—Jack Johnson and August Swanson, of Chesterton, who were working at Whiting, left their home to walk up town in the evening, and were cut to pieces by a freight train.

—As Mrs. Mary J. Bell, of Muncie, stepped out of the rear door of her house, she fell, and caused a compound fracture of her right hip, which it is feared will cause her death. She is the mother of Hon. R. C. Bell, of Fort Wayne.

—At Anoka, fireman Charles Nelson crawled under the locomotive to clean the ash-pan when, from some unknown cause, the engine moved up, crushing one leg off between the knee and hip and mangling the other in such a manner as to render amputation necessary.

—The new officers of the Indiana Livestock Investment Company, of Crawfordsville, are as follows: President, Zack Mahorney; Vice Presidents, P. C. Somerville and J. H. Wasson; Secretary, T. F. Davidson; Assistant Secretary, Geo. R. Brown; General Agent, D. W. Gerard; Special Agent, E. W. Brewer.

—The Lawrence Fair Association, at its tenth annual meeting, held at Lawrence, elected Levi Bolander President and W. B. Flick Secretary. Reports from officers showed the society to be out of debt. The fair will occur Sept. 9, 10, 11, and 12.

—A collision occurred at Leiter's station, between a Chicago and Atlantic and a Wabash freight train, in which Clarence Gillespie, a brakeman, had both legs broken. Several oil tanks were smashed and one engine was dismantled.

—Sol Thomas, a farmer living near Bowling Green, twelve miles south of Brazil, is missing. He cashed a small check at Brazil a week ago, and left at dark for home, and has not been heard from since. He is of steady habits and is 45 years old. Foul play is suspected.

—It is believed the peach crop will be an entire failure in Southern Indiana next season. Fully one-half the buds are already killed, and the remainder are in such condition that they are likely to be killed soon. The finest peaches raised in this country grow in Clark County.

—John Hrinz, of Michigan City, went to sleep, while intoxicated, on a railroad track, and was cut to pieces.

—John Cordell, a young man of Martinsville, while hunting got a loaded shell fast in his gun. Not being able to push it entirely in, he undertook to drive it to its place with a heavy knife. The shell exploded about the second whack, blowing off his hat brim and injuring one of his eyes so badly that he will probably lose it.

—James Holingshade, recently had the remains of his family disinterred at Chili, Miami County, and removed to Peru. One daughter, who died in 1857, had been reduced to a skeleton, but the bodies of the wife and other daughter, who had died in 1871 and 1872, were found to be in almost perfect preservation, and the clothing as well.

—There is in progress the building of an immense cheese factory near Charleston, near the O. & M. road, on the farm of James E. Cole. The material for the structure has been contracted for, and the work on the building will be commenced about March 1. It is to have a capacity for the use of from 3,000 to 5,000 pounds of milk per day.

—A street car on the south-side line was the scene of a brutal attack and robbery at Indianapolis. Morris Parry was driving, and the car was loaded with passengers, when he was attacked by a large negro and fatally stabbed. The murderer then secured his box of change containing fifteen dollars, and made his escape, the attack being made so suddenly that it was over before the passengers realized what was going on.

—A new bank, with a capital stock of $25,000, has been organized at Rockport, with the following officers: President, Dr. F. M. Hackleman; Vice President, Thomas E. Snyder; Cashier, E. M. Payne; Assistant Cashier, William Jacobs; Directors, E. M. Payne, Thomas Snyder, H. Kramer, F. M. Hackleman, Charles Leib and B. M. Taylor. It is to be called the Farmers' Bank, and will commence business April 1.

—The other day, when the west-bound Wabash train arrived at Huntington, a little girl, aged about four years, was put off the train. She was unable to tell her name, and bore a card addressed to the matron of the Huntington Children's Home. There was nothing to tell where the child belongs or where she came from. Kind-hearted parties took her in charge until something definite can be learned in regard to her.

—A contract has been let for the construction of a ditch twelve miles in length, in the upper course of Flat Rock River. Thirty bids were made for the work, which is estimated to cost $20,000. John S. Boyles, of Winamac, Ind., was the successful bidder, securing the contract on a bid of 11⅞ cents per cubic yard of excavation. The ditch will reclaim several thousand acres of Flat Rock bottom, the finest farming land in the State, and will be of great benefit from a sanitary point of view.

—What might have been a costly wreck occurred on the Wabash Railroad, through the carelessness of the operator at Wabash station. Several fast freights, east-bound, were held at Keller's to allow the general manager's special to pass westward, and westward-bound freights at Wabash. The special passed safely, but the operater allowed the westward freights right of way, when orders were to hold them. In consequence a disaster was narrowly averted by the engineers seeing one another in time to stop. The operator was discharged.

—One Bittner, a farmer residing in Harrison County, near the Washington County line, was charged by his neighbors with having, a few nights ago, nailed the toes of two of his children to the floor as a punishment for some childish misdemeanor. The affair became noised about in the vicinity of his residence, and two nights after a band of White Caps called at his house, and dragging him out, gave him a thrashing. After the punishment was concluded, the leader of the band warned Bittner that unless his future conduct was of the most exemplary character he might expect another visit that would be even more serious.

—The Muncie Novelty and Brass Company has been organized, with a capital stock of $100,000, with C. F. Hathway, President; William A. Hersey, of Lyons, N. Y., Treasurer and Secretary, and U. C. Malon, of Indianapolis, General Business Manager. The large factory is to be removed to Muncie from Rochester, N. Y., where they have been engaged in the manufacturing of display-frames for show-windows, which, with a chuck to cut tubes and rods, patent letter-file and patent door-spring, will be extensively manufactured in their large factory. It is already being filled with machinery shipped from Rochester. When the factory gets in full operation 150 men will be employed, according to the contract signed.

—Arrangements are being made to greatly enlarge the already immense plant of the New Albany Structural Iron Works and Rail-mill, the cost of the improvements being estimated at $300,000.

—The great oil tank of the National Transit Company, at Laketon, Wabash County, is now nearly full of Lima oil, and the work of pumping the fluid to Chicago will begin immediately. An embankment has been built around the tank to protect the town in case of accident.

—John Good, son of Jonas Good, a pioneer of Pulaski County, stumbled and fell, while chasing a goose, and broke his neck.

—At a mass-meeting of ex-soldiers of Johnson County, held at Franklin, resolutions favoring a service pension bill were adopted.

—Whitley County has a farmer in hard luck. He sent a shipment of butter to Fort Wayne, but was only offered 7 cents a pound for it. He took it home in anger, and threw it to his hogs. It proved fatal to two of them.

—Redick Horrel, a pioneer resident of Petersburg, was found dead in his bed.

TEACHER (holding up in oratorical colors the horrors intemperance)—Now, boys, look at me. Why don't I drink? Boy on the back seat—'Cos you ain't got the rocks.

A SCIENTIST says that a very strong solution of salt applied boiling hot will preserve wood. This is important to those whose wood pile has to be protected by a spring gun.

KILLED AND MUTILATED

A NATURAL GAS HORROR AT COLUMBUS.

During a Fire an Explosion from a Leaking Main Causes the Death of Five People and the More or Less Serious Injury of Three Score Others.

Columbus (Ohio) dispatch: This city has been visited by a horrible calamity. The fire department was at the corner of Wall street and Noble alley busily engaged in extinguishing a fire, when an explosion suddenly occurred in the burning building. It was supposed to be gasoline, and no one was injured except a lady Mrs. Marriot, who resided there. She was taken across the street to a house occupied by William James, a bookkeeper. A crowd of spectators surged close up to the building where the fire broke out, and when the flames were got under control and the crowd was beginning to disperse another explosion occurred that shook the earth for several squares distant.

A sheet of flame shot up into the air and the next instant Mr. James' house was a mass of ruins and its occupants were buried beneath the debris. The scene that followed was terrible. Women and men ran to and fro, their faces, heads and shoulders covered with blood. Guided by shrieks and cries, the men who rushed to the rescue of the victims groped about in the darkness and dragged out the injured, and now and then stumbled upon a lifeless body.

The second explosion was of natural gas that came from a leaking gas-main in Wall street. The following is a list of the killed:

CHARLES BECH.
JAMES SEYMOUR, a colored boy.
Mrs. MARRIOT.
An unknown white man and an unknown child.

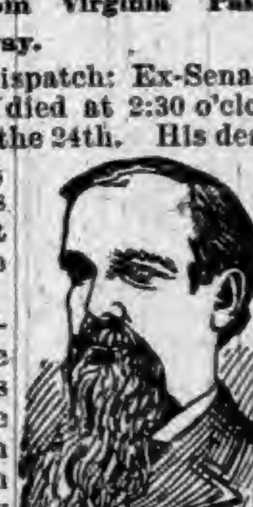
Some of the wounded are:

Dr. T. K. WISSINGER.	WILLIAM BRODY.
ARCHIE NEIL.	WILLIAM JAMES and wife.
Mr. BANKINGER.	T. SHOUTING.
Policeman SYNSKY,	CHARLES LIOKLEIEER
WILLIAM REILIE.	BELL SMITH.
ELMER GATES.	Mrs. CONN.
ED. KEEMER.	CHARLES LOWERY.
THOMAS DOYLE.	FLORA BOWERS.
TARON BEER.	BENJAMIN MORGAN.
MARSHAL KILBOURNE.

All of the above are badly burned and cut, some perhaps fatally. There were about forty others who received less serious injuries.

H. H. RIDDLEBERGER DEAD.

The Ex-Senator from Virginia Passes Away.



H. H. RIDDLEBERGER

Woodstock (Va.) dispatch: Ex-Senator H. H. Riddleberger died at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of the 24th. His death was not unexpected, and all the members of the family were at his bedside when the end came.

Senator Riddleberger began his public career when he was but a boy. At the close of the rebellion he was a captain in the confederate army and was but 20 years old. He was one of the most dashing soldiers and fighters of the Tenth legion. He was born at Edinburg, Va., and received a thorough education. He studied law and was admitted to practice in 1866, and quickly became the idol of the people around the section of country in which he lived.

For two years after the war he was the commonwealth's attorney and was twice elected to the House of Delegates and once to the State Senate. Mr. Riddleberger combined the profession of law with that of editor and was connected with three papers in that capacity—the Tenth Legion, Shenandoah Democrat, and Virginian. He was a member of the State committee of the Conservative party until 1875, was a Presidential elector on the Democratic ticket of 1876, and the same on the Readjuster ticket in 1880. In 1881 he was elected to the Senate as a Readjuster. His term expired in 1889. Mr. Riddleberger was an orator of no mean ability and a man who could have won a brilliant reputation but for his fondness for alchoholic stimulants.

MOST MUST SERVE HIS TERM.

His Sentence to One Year's Imprisonment Affirmed by the Supreme Court.

JOHANN MOST.

New York dispatch: Johann Most, the Anarchist agitator, will have to serve out the sentence imposed upon him some time ago by Judge Cowing. The charge against him was inciting to riot. His trial took place during the excitement caused by the hanging of the Chicago Anarchists. Shortly after that event the Anarchists in this city honored the memory of their dead brethren with a parade. There were also a number of meetings held, at one of which Most made a fiery speech that excited his auditors to wild frenzy, and before he could finish he was arrested. His trial followed and he was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $500. The case was appealed and the Anarchist released on bail pending the appeal. The general term of the Supreme court has handed down its decision confirming the conviction and sentence.

AN ALARMING SITUATION.

Fears Entertained of a Revolt in the State Penitentiary.

Helena (Mont.) dispatch: Gov. Toole, Marshal Irvin, warden at the State penitentiary at Deer Lodge, and the speakers of the Republican and Democratic Houses of Representatives have held a conference to discuss a plan for providing funds to prevent a revolt in the penitentiary and the escape of the 144 convicts confined therein. The penitentiary can accommodate only 144 convicts, the number now on hand, and some of these are now confined in log shacks in the prison grounds. There are only fourteen guards and the chances are that the prisoners, who are preparing for a break for liberty, will carry it into execution unless steps are at once taken to head them off. The plan proposed was to have a committee of three of each party to select such bills now before the House as require immediate attention and pass them, and especially those appropriating funds for the penitentiary. The Democratic House Speaker demurred and asked time to consider the proposition.

Minor News Notes.

THE National Howard Bank of Baltimore, has been authorized to begin business with a capital of $200,000.

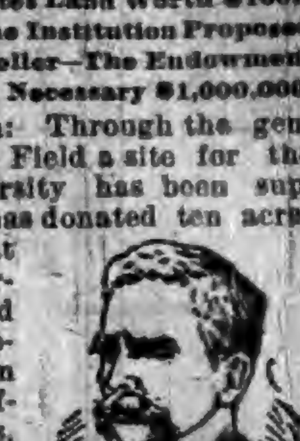
THE reports that a revolution had broken out in Costa Rica are denied by representatives of that country in Washington.

Francis C. Hannon has been appointed store keeper and gauger in the First district of California, and D. M. Bean same in Fifth district of North Carolina.

MAKES UP THE MILLION.

THE BAPTIST UNIVERSITY AT CHICAGO ASSURED.

Marshall Field Donates Land Worth $100,000 for a Site for the Institution Proposed by John D. Rockefeller—The Endowment Fund Reaches the Necessary $1,000,000.



MARSHALL FIELD.

Chicago dispatch: Through the generosity of Marshall Field a site for the new Chicago university has been supplied. Mr. Field has donated ten acres of land valued at $100,000 for the purpose. The ground fronts on Ellis avenue and lies between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh streets. The project of founding a university in Chicago originated with J. D. Rockefeller, the multi-millionaire oil king of New York. Eight months ago he wrote to the American Baptist Educational Society to the effect that he would contribute $600,000 as a starter for an endowment fund for the establishment of a college in Chicago. There were conditions attached. The money should not be used for purchasing a site or erecting buildings; the income arising from it was to be used for current expenses, and that an additional $400,000, should be raised, as much of the latter as necessary to be used for the purposes from which the former was withheld and the remainder to be turned into the endowment fund. By the donation of Mr. Field the requirements have more than been fulfilled and it is expected that the work of erecting suitable building will be begun before the expiration of the time allotted for the raising of the money. The value of the land, together with the money already raised, more than completes the requisite $1,000,000. It is intended, however, to consider it as no part of the $400,000, but to complete this sum regardless of the donation. About $30,000 has been raised during the last week and $100,000 is still wanted.

Although most of the money raised so far has come from Baptists, outsiders are subscribing liberally. Although it is to be a denominational institution it will not be sectarian, but broadly liberal. It is intended to make it an institution that will rank with the best eastern colleges. It will be some time before it will be distinctively a university in the full meaning of the word. A college of arts will first be started and other departments established as soon as practical.

CONDITION OF HOGS.

Cholera Is Spreading in Some States, but Not to a Great Extent.

The Chicago Farmers' Review makes the following report upon the condition and movement of hogs in the western States:

Illinois—The condition of hogs in this State is generally good, notwithstanding the cholera, which continues to prevail to some extent in Bureau, Cass, Clinton, Franklin, Johnson, Knox, Livingston, Mason, McDonough, Pulaski, Stark, Tazewell, White, and Whiteside counties. Nearly all the hogs have been marketed in Bond, Hardin, Lake, Macon, Mason, Putnam, Saline, Tazewell, and Vermillion counties. In Kendall and Jo Daviess the old hogs are all sold. About one-third of our correspondents report movement slow. In the remainder of the State it is brisk.

Indiana—Some disease is reported in Adams, Gibson, Harrison, Morgan, Randolph, and Wayne counties. It does not, however, appear to be of a very serious character, as condition is reported fair to good in these as in all other counties in the State. The ratio of movement is about the same as in Illinois, being brisk in two-thirds of the counties from which we have reports. In nine counties the crop has already been marketed.

Iowa—Some cholera is reported in Appanoose and Grundy counties. Notwithstanding the presence of disease in these counties condition is reported fair to good, and the report is similar from all other counties in the State. Our Appanoose, Jones, and Mitchell county agents report hogs nearly all sold. Movement is brisk in four-fifths of the counties reporting.

Michigan—About half of the reports received from this State indicate that the crop has already been marketed. The remainder of our correspondents, with a few exceptions, report movement slow. Some cholera is reported in Kalamazoo county, but the reports of condition are generally good.

Wisconsin—With one exception, our Wisconsin correspondents report condition of hogs in that State as good. In the majority of the counties movement is fair to brisk, two or three correspondents reporting "hogs all sold."

HIS WIFE SAW HIM DROWN.

Assistance Unable to Reach a Perishing Man.

The new iron bridge at Mather's mills, one mile west of Oregonia, Ohio, across the Little Miami river, fell, the supports being weakened by heavy water. William Debord lost his life and five other men were injured. The names of the injured are:

ALONZO HIDER, leg broken.
ANDY HIDER, back injured and hurt about the body.
HARRY MCCABE, badly cut about the face.
CHARLES SHAW, cut about the face.
MR. MARTIN, foreman of the bridge, slightly injured.

Debord was caught when the bridge fell and held in nine feet of water. He was thrown ropes and took hold of them, but the water chilled him until he perished in the river. His wife witnessed his death from the river bank. The dead man is still in the water, as it has been impossible to get him out. Debord leaves a widow and one child of 2 years in poor circumstances. The bridge was built by the Columbia Bridge company of Dayton, Ohio. The loss is $3,000.

DR. N. M. ADLER DEAD.

The Chief Rabbi of the Hebrew Church of Great Britain Expires.

London cable: Nathan Marcus Adler, D. D., chief rabbi of the United Hebrew congregations of the British Empire, is dead.

He was born in Hanover in 1803 and received his education in the universities of Gottingen, Erlangen, and Wurzburg. He was appointed chief rabbi of Oldenburg in 1829, of Hanover and its provinces in 1830, and on the 9th of July, 1845, was installed chief rabbi of the united congregations of the British Empire. Dr. Adler was the author of "Sermons on the Jewish Faith" and of several Hebrew works, the principal of which is "Nethina Lager," a commentary on the Targum of Onkelos.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

An Aged Woman and Two Children Burned Alive at Unionville, Mo.

At Unionville, Mo., the new residence of Luther McCalmont was burned to the ground and Mr. McCalmont's aged mother and his two children perished in the flames. When the fire broke out all the inmates of the house were sleeping, but all escaped but the three referred to, who were unable to reach the open air before the flames had cut off all means of exit. The father is completely prostrated by the shock.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM THE GREAT Blood Purifier.

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS,

TRADE MARK.

IT CURES Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.

J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.

UNDERWOOD'S CELEBRATED WRITING AND COPYING INKS, MUCILAGE, Etc. SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES. TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, CARBON PAPERS, LINEN PAPERS, RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.

163 LaSalle St. Chicago. | 30 Vesey St. New York. | 10 Johnston St. Toronto.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE. DIABETES LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES. Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill. PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. GILLHAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange. CHICAGO, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., B. I. & P. R. R. BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shanahan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'mboat Co. ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av. St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the merits claimed. MACDONALD, 109 S. B'way. Rockville, Ind., Nov. 16, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES. Chicago Times, March 28, '88. Globe, Nov. 17, '88. Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88.—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 25, '88. PRAISE BRIGHTINE. Refer to Met. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros. J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE. NO TROUBLE NO BOILING. EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT. POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN. STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA. STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS.

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best BITTERS known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and all diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Try it, for the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail postpaid for 30 cts. per single, or 2 packages for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment.

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE.

BY FLORENCE JOSEPHINE BOYCE.

Our past is a failure beyond recall,
  From which we may gain no pleasure;
Our present is needful of something more
  To fill up the vacant measure.
But our future is all that's great and high,
  Where the sun is forever shining;
And every cloud in our future sky
  Is wearing a silver lining.

WAITSFIELD, Vermont.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

It was now dinner-time, the usual table d'hote gathering which brought all the guests of the hotel together. I heard the second gong sound as I still sat in the manager's room, which had a large plate-glass window looking into the outer office, and through it into the hall. From my place here I could see the guests filing into the big dining-room, and my eyes fell upon the Sarsfield party as they passed.

No, not the Sarsfield party; the expression was incorrect. There were Miss Bertram, Captain Fawcett, Mr. Sarsfield; that was all. Where was Mrs. Sarsfield? Late? Her friends in that case would have waited for her. Unable to appear at dinner? That was the more plausible explanation of her absence.

I went out and gained a point in the hall whence I could command the dining-room and the approaches to it. I waited here patiently for ten minutes or a quarter of an hour, resolved to establish it beyond question that Mrs. Sarsfield was not coming to dinner. Satisfied at length on this point, I left the rest of the party busy with their fish, and went up stairs to the floor occupied by the Sarsfields, meaning to find my way to their private sitting-room.

In the corridor I ran up against a servant with a tray; it was the man who waited upon the private rooms. I knew him slightly and he knew me.

"Not at the table d'hote to-day, Gustaf?" I said, to try him.

"No, sir; the lady is dining in her own room—No. 103—Mrs. Sarsfield.

Here was the chance I sought.

"See, Gustaf" (and I showed the man half a sovereign), "would you like to earn this? Yes? Take in a message for me to Mrs. Sarsfield?"

Fear struggled with cupidity in his fat, phlegmatic German face.

"Suppose Mrs. Sarsfield is angry, sir, and complains; the manager would dismiss me."

"Never fear; she will probably give you another half-sovereign. Stay! Take this card; put it there on your tray."

I produced a card, on which I hastily scribbled a few words:

"I must see you privately—at once. It is most urgent—a matter of life and death."

"She will see that for herself; only tell her that I am waiting outside."

The strange message succeeded as I had hardly dared to hope. I was shown into where Mrs. Sarsfield sat listlessly before an untasted meal.

"Really, sir, I must insist," she stammered out; "this intrusion——"

"Could only be justified by what I have to tell you," I quickly explained. "Your sister is in very great danger."

"Danger—from whom?"

"There are people who misjudge her, I am sure; draw wrong conclusions from her conduct."

"What conduct?"

"Her visit to No. 99."

She started violently.

"When? Who says she went there?"

"I myself found her at the door. But that is not what I mean. There are strong grounds for presuming that she had been there before—quite early—and this imprudence has set people to question her conduct."

"Are you referring to Captain Fawcett? If so, it is all a mistake. I have quite satisfied him on that point."

"Satisfied him?"

"Yes," she continued with feminine garrulity, now that she was once started. "He was naturally very much put out, seriously angry, and would have broken off everything with a girl who would confess to such a thing."

"Who admitted she had gone to—No. 99?"

"Yes; but it was all a mistake. She never went there——"

Mrs. Sarsfield stopped dead short and looked at me white and speechless, aghast, as it seemed, at some unguarded indiscreet expression.

"Never went to No. 99—not in the early morning, I mean? Oh, Mrs. Sarsfield, it will save her, save all of you much misery, unhappiness, if that point can be clearly proved."

"But who requires to know? I have told Captain Fawcett; he no longer doubts her. Does any one else believe her capable of such conduct?"

"Yes; the police do." I said it abruptly, point-blank.

"And they accuse her——?"

"Don't you see what the supposition implies? It lays Miss Bertram open to a most awful charge. At present we can make out for certain that only one person visited the room between night and the discovery of the corpse, and that person is the one who dropped the hair-pin——"

"A hair-pin was dropped in No. 99?"

She almost shrieked as she clutched my arm convulsively, and awaited in breathless anxiety my reply.

"Yes, a hair-pin, identified by the police as the property of Miss Bertram."

"My God! how awful!" She sunk back horror-stricken.

"You see what this means. It would be most cruel, most unjust to accuse her of the murder."

"Clara? That sweet, innocent girl guilty of such a crime! No, indeed."

"But she might be taxed with guilty knowledge. See the construction that may be put on that early visit—she would be the first to find the body, yet she never gave the alarm. Why not? The fair inference is that she sought to shield the perpetrator of the crime."

"To shield herself rather. To have given the alarm would have been to acknowledge her visit—alone, and at such an hour—to this man's room."

"That is closely reasoned. You are right. Still, the reason of the visit remains unexplained. What took her there? That is what makes the people suspect her."

"They do suspect her, then?"

"Yes, indeed, and are prepared to press the case to the utmost against her. A warrant has been issued for Miss Bertram's arrest."

"Arrest! They want to take her up?" she cried, with anguish that was quite hysterical. "No, no; that must never be."

"The danger is imminent, I assure you. The warrant is only laid over for a day or two."

"It is not worth the paper on which it is written," went on Mrs. Sarsfield, rising from her seat and walking excitedly up and down the room. "Poor child! Poor child! She shall not suffer such grievous wrong. I cannot be so wicked, so heartless, as to desert you now. You shall not bear the burden which is rightly mine."

I looked at her, eager and amazed at these words.

"It was I who went to No. 99," she now said, speaking very fast, evidently in a state of highly wrought nervous tension. "I went there very early in the morning to—to—for reasons I need not give you, and must have dropped the hair-pin there——"

"Your sister's?"

"Yes. I had brought it. I will tell you how it happened. I had reasons for wishing to speak to him," she shuddered, and I knew that the pronoun referred to the murdered man. "You must not seek to know those reasons, but they were paramount and important, and I rose early, slipping out of our own room—my husband was still asleep—and going into my sister's. The two rooms communicate, you know."

I did know, but I did not tell her so.

"Clara, too, was asleep, so I took her dressing-gown. It was of blue flannel, for I was going out into the open air."

Captain Fawcett was right then. He had seen her pass his window in her blue peignoir.

"I put on the wrap before Clara's looking-glass, and seeing my hair was all untidy I twisted it up and fastened it with one of her pins."

"The one, in fact, that was found?"

"No doubt, although I was never conscious that I had dropped it."

"And your sister knew nothing of all this?"

"How could she? I tell you she was asleep."

"And no one saw you go out on the balcony and along it?"

"I was not sure, but I fancied Captain Fawcett did. I did not see him, nor did he speak to me, but his window was wide open as I passed."

"Well, you got to No. 99?"

"As far as the window—yes, and there I looked in."

"You saw it, I suppose—the body of the dead man?"

"It caught my eye directly; my attention was riveted to it. I turned, and was about to rush back to my room to shut out the horror of this awful sight, when I heard a movement in Captain Fawcett's room. I believed he had seen me pass and would interrupt my retreat. Anything rather than that——"

"Even to facing the corpse?"

"Horrible as was the alternative, I preferred it, and opening the window of No. 99 I stepped into the room, ran across it and escaped from the terrible place."

"And then you returned to your own room?"

"Not exactly." She hesitated.

"You found the door bolted on the inside?"

"Yes; so I went to my sister's."

"But that was bolted, too."

"I knocked gently." She spoke with manifest reluctance, but was unable, as I thought, to escape my question.

"And your sister opened it?" I suggested, still "lifting her" on.

"Yes; she was now awake," she faltered.

"You will not let them harm Clara, will you?" she began. "I have been frank with you; I have told you the exact truth."

"Not quite all the truth, unless I can persuade you to tell me what took you to No. 99."

The terrified look returned intensified to her white face.

"No, no; you must not ask me; you have no right to ask me. I dare not, must not tell you. It would endanger——"

I waited, hoping that some hint might escape her unconsciously.

"What am I saying?" she corrected herself, wildly. "Please do not press me about this. Leave me, I implore you. I have said enough to exonerate Clara completely, but I can tell you nothing more. I went—with no evil intentions, I declare; but beyond that I will not speak."

"Suppose they put you into the witness-box. You know the inquest is only adjourned? It has still to find its verdict?"

"They would not get a syllable out of me, nor would my evidence be worth much if they did."

It slipped out unintentionally, this last phrase, I felt sure, from the way she bit her lip, and this perhaps especially drew my attention to it. I made no remark at the time, only noting this sign of inward dissatisfaction, resolving to cogitate upon it by and by. There was much food for thought in what I had heard from Mrs. Sarsfield, and I was glad enough to leave her, as she more and more earnestly entreated me to do. So with few words of apology I went down stairs.

CHAPTER IX.

CORNELIS, THE FLEMING.

I was down to breakfast early next morning; so early, that I had the breakfast-room entirely to myself. As I took my seat at a table near a window facing the sea, I saw that the waiter who came to take my order was no other than the man Cornelis.

"It is you, is it?" I began sharply. "I must have a word or two with you in private, Mr. Cornelis."

"With me, sir? Why for?"

"Did you not tell me you heard Captain Fawcett quarreling with the murdered man?"

"Yes, sir, so I did. The gentleman with the two eyes and small mustachios twisted up."

"What time was it?"

"Between 5 and 6, I think; any way, late in the afternoon."

"That convicts you of falsehood. At that time Captain Fawcett was not in Bythesea."

"Very strange if I be mistaken. I thought it he for sure."

"No, you didn't; and you had better make a clean breast of it, or I will have you up before Mr. Gray."

"I will tell you, sir; just wait a little. This afternoon, I meet you on the Northwest cliff, near the Garchester road."

Having thus arranged matters with Cornelis and finished my breakfast, I walked round to the Sessions House and was soon closeted with Mr. Smart and Hasnip. Then I told them of Mrs. Sarsfield's unguarded remark about the value of her evidence.

"But who is this husband, Mr. Sarsfield? What could have tempted him to commit such a foul crime?"

"Fear, possibly, of the murdered man."

"There is nothing to show that they were in any way connected."

"Surely something," I said; "that is, if the murdered man was really a Spaniard."

"I think there is no doubt about that," said Smart. "I had a letter this morning from the Spanish Consulate in London, describing just such a man, but not under the name of Cooch."

"But that of Xavier de Yriárte, I suppose?"

"Exactly; the name on the knife. Describing him, I say, as a Spanish seaman, a native of Cadiz, who was looking out for a ship, and wanted assistance."

"We have him!" I cried. "Mr. Sarsfield was a Spanish merchant, doing business at one time in Cadiz. Inquiries must be set on foot in Cadiz itself."

"I was going to suggest it," said Mr. Smart. "Although I hardly see my way. The borough won't stand the expense, and unless her Majesty's treasury comes forward——"

"It will waste too much time to apply for funds. I will go to Spain myself, at my own expense, trusting to the court to order my reimbursement after the trial."

I went back to the hotel, where I busied myself for the next few hours in packing and preparing for my sudden departure. I left the hotel about 4 p. m., and walked leisurely toward the Northwest cliff. But no Cornelis appeared.

I heard the distant clock striking five. Still no waiter.

The quarter struck; the half-hour.

"I will give him a little longer, then walk back toward the hotel."

This was my determination when it wanted just a quarter to six, and in pursuance of it I strolled back to Bythesea, still thinking no evil of Cornelis, beyond abusing him for perhaps obliging me to lose the night express.

It was dinner-time when I regained the hotel, and without asking for him I went and took my usual place, looking round the table among the crowd of waiters for the missing man.

Cornelis was not waiting there at all; that was certain, and this absence at last roused my suspicions, so much so that after dinner I inquired for him from the head waiter.

"Cornelis Janssen, the Fleming? He has left the hotel," was the reply.

"When? Surely I saw him here at lunchtime—no, at breakfast time? When did he go?"

"He is not worth the interest you take in him, sir. An impudent, useless fellow! Spoke very improperly to Mr. Gray this afternoon, and when checked said he should like to leave."

"Then and there?"

"Then and there. I believe he went to London by the next train."

The rogue! He had gone off just to avoid me. I was sure of it. This quarrel with the manager was a mere pretense. He only wanted to get out of my way.

More than ever I was convinced that he had been bought over by some one; surely Mr. Sarsfield, unless all conclusions were hopelessly astray.

I asked for my bill, saying that I must go to town that evening. They brought it to me as I sat under the veranda of the hotel, and as I settled it, Captain Fawcett came up and stood near me. Mr. Sarsfield was with him.

"Going, eh?" The remark was sneering and sarcastic. "Scent weak, or got a new line?"

"I am going up to London on my own business: it would be as well if you paid equal attention to yours," I replied, with marked emphasis.

"Will it prevent your return? We shall all be so grieved!"

"I promise myself the pleasure of returning ere long. I am deeply interested in the detection of this crime——"

"A letter, sir," said a waiter at this moment to Mr. Sarsfield, who missed the latter part of my remark.

But Captain Fawcett heard it, and scowled at me as though he understood its implications.

I watched Mr. Sarsfield as he turned the letter over. Then he opened it, glanced at the contents, turned suddenly ghastly white, and fell flat upon the ground.

There was, of course, a great commotion directly. I, with the other people standing by, summoned help. Mrs. Sarsfield and her sister, who were at no great distance, rushed out, and Mr. Sarsfield, who was in a dead faint, was soon the center of an eager and excited group.

Fawcett only stood somewhat apart. He had snatched the letter from his fainting friend's grasp and read it hurriedly.

"This is your doing! Coward! Cur!" he whispered fiercely in my ear.

"How dare you use such language to me? You shall answer for it."

"What else is a man who stabs in the dark with anonymous threats?" And he flourished the letter in my face.

"That letter is Mr. Sarsfield's. You had no right to it, or to read it. I appeal to you, Miss Bertram," I said, seeing she was watching us.

"Give me the letter. Give it me." She repeated the command, and so imperiously that Fawcett, looking crestfallen, surrendered it.

I hastened to assure Miss Bertram.

"I had no hand in this; believe me."

"I do. I would far sooner trust you than him. This letter is sacred—whatever it contains. If it is my brother-in-law's, no one else ought to have it, and no gentleman"—she paused, looking hard at Fawcett—"would have read it."

Yes; but what did it contain? Here was fresh food for thought occupying me constantly on my way to London that night, and next day as I sped on through Paris southward to Spain.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

For the Superstitious.

It is bad luck to whistle or hum the air that a band plays at a funeral.

"Twice a bridesmaid, never a bride," is a proverb which needs no comment.

Marry at the time of the moon's waning and your luck will wane also.

If two marriages are celebrated simultaneously, one of the husbands will die.

Fair or foul weather upon one's wedding day augurs a happy or unhappy married life.

If a girl who is engaged accidentally lets a knife fall, it is a sign that her lover is coming.

The husband must never take off his wedding ring; to take it off will insure him bad luck of some kind.

The girl who steps, accidentally or otherwise, on a cat's tail need not expect to be married the same year.

It is bad luck to cross a funeral procession, or to count the number of carriages in it; if you do count them, you may expect to die after the expiration of as many weeks as there were carriages at the funeral.

If two persons think and express the same thought at the same time, one of them will die before the year passes.

If two young girls are combing the hair of the third at the same time, it may be taken for granted that the youngest of the three will soon die.

If at the cemetery there be any unusual delay in burying the dead, caused by any unlooked-for circumstances, such as the tomb proving too small to admit the coffin, it is a sign that the deceased is selecting a companion from among those present, and one of the mourners must soon die.

Kiss the Fool and Let Him Go Home.

The story goes that a certain society young man, noted for his handsome bearing and winning voice, accompanied a young lady to her home, and, as all true lovers do, lingered yet a little while at the gate to have a lover's tete a-tete with his fair companion. The night was beautiful, no one near to intrude, and, above all, he loved! Why shouldn't she kiss him? With true maidenly modesty, she refused. He implored. She still withheld from him that which would fill his cup of happiness. The request was repeated several times, and so engrossed did the young man become in wooing, he failed to notice the approach of the parent's step. The old gentleman, who had been there himself, and did not care to intrude upon the happiness of the young couple, quietly stepping behind a convenient rose-bush, waited, thinking the young man would soon leave. In this he was mistaken. The lover tarried over the request until the patience of the old gentleman was exhausted. A voice the couple well knew aroused them from their happiness in a tone of impatient anger by saying:

"Daughter, kiss the —— fool and let him go home!"

It is reported that the young man only hit the ground in high places in his endeavor to comply with the old gentleman's request.—Marietta (Ga.) Journal.

The Bug and the Toad.

"What a philanthropic bug," said a toad as he saw a lightning-bug in the air. "He is trying to light the way for yours truly."

"Nixie," said the bug, which had overheard the remark. "I do not care a continental whether you get lost or not. I carry this argand lamp simply to light my own way."

MORAL.

Men do not run great moral newspapers for fun.—Chicago Ledger.

A CARRIAGE is convenient when you want to go to town, but a wagon is more useful on a farm.

WISE AND UNWISE.

FIGURED goods—heiresses.

INVARIABLY seasonable—salt, mustard, pepper, vinegar.

"WHY is the way of the transgressor so hard?" "S'pose because it's traveled so much."

WHEN a Chicago girl gets there with both feet, how impressive and emphatic is the arrival.

THE race is not always to the swift. A one-legged fat man can catch cold as quick as a sprinter.

BINKS—Barlow says betting is not against his principles? Winks—Of course not; he hasn't any.

"YOU are always talking about a donkey. You don't mean me?" "What ails you? There are many donkeys besides you."

EUROPE seems to be greatly exercised over a triple aliance, but out in Utah they are as thick as the specks on a turkey's egg.

THE man who boasted that he was "regular as the sun" forgot that that luminary rises only twice in the year at the same time.

"YOU look so much like your brother," said Dennis to Phelim, "that I could tell yez was brothers if I'd niver seen aither av yez."

"WHAT I admire about Josephine is her self-possession." "Yes, I fear she can't help that. I don't know anybody else who would have her."

"HOW IS your furnace?" "First rate. We manage to get it warm every day, but it is a little selfish about letting any of the heat get away from it."

FIRST Newsboy—There goes a gent. Chase him. Second Newsboy—No use. Just saw him come out of a barber shop. He's heard all the news there is.

ABDICATING the throne: Mrs. Upton Flatte—Why do you cry, cook? Bridget (about to be married)—It's mesilf that'll soon be no better off than the rest of yez.

TEACHER (to eight-year-old scholar)—What is the population of this city? Scholar—566,664. "The book says 566,663." "But I was born since last census."

YOUNG wife—A horrid rat ate one of those lovely canaries my husband got me, and that's why I got a cat. Matron—Well? Young wife—And then the cat ate the other.

MOTHER—Now, girls, as you've finished your daily quarrel, suppose you go and eat some dinner. Arabella (sarcastically)—Oh, I suppose you want us to swallow our feud.

ONE of our contemporaries, in noting the successful career of a venerable man who has just died in Maine, makes the startling statement that "he was born without a dollar in his pocket."

MR. BROWN (awakening from a two weeks' spree)—Where am I? Mrs. Brown (wishing to make the awakening as horrible as possible)—You are in hades. Brown—And you here, too! Oh, my punishment is greater than I can bear!

MRS. GREENEYES—It is useless for you to attempt to deceive me. Imagine my feelings when I find a blonde hair on your coat when you know my hair is black. Mr. Greeneyes—Well, my dear, if you don't like it, why don't you bleach your hair?

"Have you a quarter you can give me, sir?" asked a tattered-looking individual of a citizen. "My wife and children have had nothing to eat for two days." "Oh, that won't do," replied the gentleman; "I gave you 50 cents yesterday. What did you do with that?" "I had to buy meat for the dog."

The Ingenue of Fiction.

A very pretty girl, with soft, dark hair and a graceful figure, was sitting on the gate immediately before me, with a book in her hands. I knew her at once. I knew that her ear resembled a delicate pink sea-shell. I knew that her eyelashes must inevitably be long. She was the charming, innocent type. The hero finds her thus in her guileless village simplicity, reading some harmless story, in her inexpensive white dress, with the knot of common or garden geranium at the neck. He startles her as he passes, and she drops her book and he picks it up. It is thus that the intimacy begins. She is the daughter of the poor vicar, and he is the scion of a noble house. He has come to the village for the sake of rest, or fishing, or sketching. Whichever it is, he does it rather better than any one else. It is a way these heroes have.

The poor, old, gray-headed vicar goes pottering about his garden, and never sees that a train for a three-volume novel is being laid under his very nose. He is devoted, of course, to his only daughter, and his blindness proceeds partly from the childlike simplicity which is natural to these sylvan haunts, but also because he must be aware by this time that the story could not possibly get along without it. So the hero makes love to her, because he is not in the least in love with her, and she does not make love to him, because she is very much in love with him. In this sinful world the heroes get most of the undercut. As a rule, he kisses her on the eyes and mouth alone; but the nose and back-hair are the only part of a girl's head which the hero never kisses. He leaves the village and marries someone else. Then comes the breakfast-table scene, which we all know and hate so well. She takes up the newspaper with a merry laugh, and suddenly sees the advertisement of the hero's marriage. She turns deadly pale, grasps the table to save herself from falling, and, murmuring that the heat is too much for her, and that she will be better presently, staggers from the room.

The complacency and blandness with which this excuse is always received is simply maddening. "Poor child!" the vicar murmurs, pensively, as he sips his last cup of tea, and then goes out to play the fool among the azaleas without giving the matter another thought.

If the book is to be sad, she is to pine and die; if it is to be cheerful, the curate, who has all the time adored her in secret, now comes to the fore, kisses over the same old ground, and finally marries her. As I looked at her, I felt sorry for her. I determined to give her a little variety in her monotonous existence. So I stepped softly up to her, took her by the hair, and kissed the tip of her nose. There was a whirr and a click as of machinery set in motion. Then she gave a little frightened cry and fluttered like a bird. I might have known it—a kiss is as certain to produce this effect on the innocent and automatic doll of fiction as the placing of a penny in the slot is to produce fusees when you want wax vestas.—Cornhill Magazine.

FULL WEIGHT PURE DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills makes a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING: HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.

By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.

Octavo, 600 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.

WE ESPECIALLY INVITE LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS, to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.

(When writing, mention this paper.)

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's MEMORY DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *5 30	pm *6 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling.........	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville.......	10 31	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus.....ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 05
Columbus.....lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield.........	pm 12 57	am 3 37	......	pm 4 04	10 03
Deshler..........	3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance.........	4 22	5 43	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc........	......	6 40	11 34	10 22	2 38
Avilla............	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc........	......	......	1 16	am 12 05	4 16
Wellsboro........	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 48
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 53	5 15	4 20	‡7 35
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc........	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 22
Avilla............	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc........	......	7 05	12 30	3 22	9 40
Defiance.........	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 45
Mansfield.........	6 10	12 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus.........	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark...........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville........	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 20
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.....ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

Stations—	TRAINS GOING NORTH. Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne........dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era.............	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn..............	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo............	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit..............	1 01	5 56	10 35
Pleasant Lake.......	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola...............	1 20	6 18	12 00
Fremont.............	1 33	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading.............	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers.............	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale............	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville...........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson..............	3 45	8 40	6 00

Stations—	TRAINS GOING SOUTH. Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson..............	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville...........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 32
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale............	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers.............	9 40	12 56	8 04
Reading.............	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont.............	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola...............	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake.......	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit..............	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo............	2 35	2 35	9 23
Auburn..............	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era.............	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne.........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets, or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..................	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express....................	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom....................	2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.....................	8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express....................	1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom................	6:38 am—Daily
Mail & Express.....................	12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.........	5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

DR. ELLIOTT'S MEDICATED FOOD, A Sure Cure for all Diseases in HORSES, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

INDURATED FIBRE WARE
INDESTRUCTIBLE LIGHT
NO HOOPS SEAMLESS

INDURATED FIBRE WARE. ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE! HAS NO HOOPS! NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED! NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER! HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY. PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c. LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.

CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.

FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS. FULL PRICE-LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE AUBURN COURIER,
OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.
JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.
Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.
THURSDAY.......JANUARY 30, 1890

Ex-Senator Riddleberger, of Virginia, died at home in Woodstock, that state, last week.

Spain has granted universal suffrage to all male persons born in the Kingdom who are over 25 years of age.

The Record thinks it strange we want him to tell what advantage a tariff is to the manufacturer if it makes him sell his goods cheaper. Well, then Bro. Record, why don't you answer? We are just starving for that answer.

"Protection does not benefit the manufacturer by offering greater porfits," says the Record. Now let him tell a wondering world how it "opens up new channels of investment" if it don't enable the manufacturer to get better profits. Give us the answer.

Nellie Bly reached New York Saturday afternoon at 3:51, making the trip around the world in less than 73 days. In the days of sail vessels, and without railroads, it took a ship about thirteen months to make the trip. As there was no Suez canal, the ship had to go around Cape Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, in all a journey of over 45,000 miles.

Mexicans are making plenty of silver dollars and bringing them across the border to trade us for goods. There is no tariff on silver dollars, and a coin that costs them about 75 cents, they get a dollar for. Another of our "infant industries," the making of silver dollars, is in great danger from the cheap labor of Mexico.

Last week the democrats tried to have congress pass a law requiring the census takers to make a list of all farm mortgages. This was voted down in the senate by a straight party vote. Republicans did not want to have the people see how many farms were mortgaged to eastern capitalists who had got rich by the tariff.

It is not easy to see how the republicans can throw out those precincts in Montana. The law requires that those voters who cannot read shall so state to the judge of the election, whose duty it then is to mark their ballots for them, just as they say they want to vote. This is the way the miners did, whose votes were thrown out. Their votes were as egal as any that were cast.

The meeting of the democratic editors of the state at Indianapolis last week, was fairly well attended, as reported. A resolution congratulating senator Bryce on his election, occasioned a slight kick on the part of a few, but it was adopted almost unanimously. A vote on preferences for president showed twenty-two out of twenty-five in favor of Cleveland. Correct.

Forepaugh, the great showman, died at his home in Philadelphia last Wednesday night. He was, next after Barnum, the most successful, and the best known of all traveling showmen. He was originally a butcher, but after following that several years, got to buying cattle. Then he dealt in horses and finally got into the show business by selling a lot of horses to O'Brien, the showman, and finally had to take a share in the show, to get his pay.

The Record complains because we seemed to lay the fault of low prices to the Harrison administration. But he has no right to complain. Every republican paper and the few stump speakers who dared to show their heads in 1888, told the people that to elect Cleveland meant lower prices for their produce, and that if they wanted good prices they must elect Harrison. We have been only reminding the Record of its party promises—taking them at their own word. Or shall we say it is the republican chickens of '88 coming home to roost? Gentlemen, you ought to be willing to take your own medicine.

Garfield's statue has just arrived from Europe, where it was made to the utter exclusion of "home labor." When it arrived in New York, there was a big struggle to get it in free of duty. At last it was decided, and very properly, no doubt, that as a work of art it was entitled to come in free. Query for the Press and Record: If a tariff is paid by the foreigner, why not in this case let the "blarsted foreigner" pay it? Or, if, as they say, a tariff tax cheapens an article, why not pay the duty on that monument, and so reduce the cost to the society that ordered it? We hope our two editorial friends won't be at all backward about coming forward and giving an answer to these two conundrums.

The Record misunderstands or misquotes us when it says: "The Courier does not deny that under free trade thousands would be thrown out of employments." We do deny, for we never said such a thing. We positively assert that greater freedom of trade, brought about by a reasonable lowering of the tariff rates, would make even manufacturing establishments pay better, for the world would buy our goods then, though it won't do so now, because of our hoggish treatment of them. There would be more men employed, and at as good wages. There would be less strikes and more prosperity everywhere. Now, dear brother, when you undertake to misrepresent the Courier again, look over our columns and see you don't lie about us.

Settle Up.

All persons indebted to me on account are earnestly requested to call and settle, as I need the money.

James A. Potter.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Dr. Hughs went to Auburn a few days ago.

John Fisher started out on the road again Tuesday.

As usual the Waterloo column leads the procession.

Mr. Hathaway, a taxidermist of Hudson, was in town Monday.

The change in the postoffice will be made this week we are told.

Charles Bassett sen., has gone to Cleveland to remain a week.

Are you giving any attention to the great Afro American question?

Recorder Crane and daughter, of Auburn, were here a few days ago.

Rev. W. C. Smith has closed his protracted meeting at the Barker Chapel.

Speer & Co. will give a good porcelain kettle with one pound of baking powder.

We are not advised of the formation of a "society of he heavenly foot" here yet.

Do you wish to buy a cheap house and lot? If so call on Dr. Carpenter for particulars.

John Voss is now at work with his old-time energy. He has had enough of the theater business.

H. H. Knott still lies very sick at his home here. The death of his son is a hard blow on him.

Rev. Butler was called home to preach the funeral sermon of John Knott, at Pleasant Lake, on last Sunday.

Mrs. Noah Weaver is still in rather poor health, not having fully recovered from her severe attack of influenza.

We notice with a good deal of solicitude that the Newville correspondent has taken to the realms of original poetry.

Dan. Leas is as happy as a big sunflower that rocks and nods in the breezes. He has taken to singing rock-a-by-baby.

A sick tramp is now provided for at the engine house, where he is made as comfortable as possible. But he is pretty sick.

The night clerk at Hotel Locke, N. C. Clark was married Jan 20, to Miss Gertie Dowel, of Ligonier.

Mrs. Mary Boozer, whose name was proposed for membership the week before at the L. M. C. meeting, was elected a member.

Rev. W. O. Butler was at home this week, and made this his headquarters for the transaction of business. His health is greatly improved.

Rev. J. S. Tedrow and wife are spending a few days here visiting and recuperating after the long illness and death of their daughter Jennie.

The reduction of wages in the broom factory is not very well received. This will result, no doubt, in the reduction of the number of employes.

Mrs. Frank Beidler and Mrs. Bassett are recovering from an attack of la grippe. The family of Mr. Davidson are all sick with the same disease.

J. N. Witson removed to Auburn this week to engage in the boot and shoe business. Auburn is to be congratulated in securing so worthy a citizen.

Miss Mary Jackman, an estimable young lady of this vicinity, left here a few days ago for Helena, Mont. She gets a position as short hand writer.

It is reported that Mr. Metevier will resign his position as manager of the broom factory. We fear the reduction in wages will result badly for the factory.

The meetings in the U. B. church closed on last Sunday night. The young people's prayer meeting will be organized on Wednesday night of this week.

One night last week some thief obtained entrance into Philip Morell's shoe shop by breaking a window in the back part of the building. A pair of shoes was taken.

There is a complaint that our school rooms are not properly warmed. The present system necessitates the shutting off of heat from the rooms alternately as the other rooms are heated. A better heating system should be used.

A few days since the report was circulated that Capt. Cutter was dead. This proves to be a mistake. He has been, and perhaps is yet very sick indeed Since leaving here he has met with a serious loss in the burning of his tools.

Last Wednesday evening the Rebecca lodge installed their newly elected officers, on which occasion the Odd Fellows were invited by the lodge, also each member invited one guest. The hall was well filled. The exercises were very interesting to all, as was evinced by the silence and close attention given. The new officers are: Mary Morell, N. G.; Mrs. Saltsman, V. G; Mrs. S. Dickinson, C. S.; Miss Jennie North, F. C.; Mrs. Bartholomew, Treas.; Mrs. H. McEnderfer, Warden; Mrs. Huber, Conductor; Mrs. S. Strow, I. G.; Mr. Bartholomew, O. G.; Mrs. Metevier, Chaplain. A pleasant little incident occurred here, which no doubt will bind the members still closer together. Mrs. Carrie Francis, who is now past grand was presented by the lodge with a beautiful embroidered silk collar, the badge, or regalia of her office, in acknowledgement of her faithfulness as an officer. Mrs. F. was taken completely by surprise, and so much moved as to be unable to say anything. The regalia belonging to the lodge is very tasty and rich, and becoming to the wearers. Hon. Freeman Kelley and Judge McBride were now called upon for a little speech in response to which they made a few well chosen remarks. After this came the supper, which was perfect in every respect, abundant, variety very nicely prepared, and well served. A short time was now given to social intercourse, after which remarks were made by both ladies and gentlemen who were called out by name. As the hour was nearing the "noon of night," the assembly generally turned their steps homeward.

BUTLER.

A Mr. Clodfelter, from Bryan, Ohio, has opened a closing out sale of dry goods, on Oak street.

Thomas Fralick, who is running an engine on the Toledo & Ann Arbor road, spent a few days with his family last week.

The M. E. continued meeting is still in progress, but without results. Elder Simpson, of Goshen, assisted over the Sabbath.

David Hart, a well known citizen of Butler died last Sunday of lung fever. He leaves a wife and a family of five or six children.

Sickness has spread over town until perhaps two hundred cases are on the doctors list, some are quite seriously ill, but as a general thing they are not at all dangerous.

Mrs. Jennings, an aged lady, relict of Hiram Jennings, for more than thirty years a resident of this township, died at her home in Butler, on the 21st. inst. She leaves a family of grown up children. Her funeral took place from the church of God, Rev. Diffinbach officiating.

Died at Butler Ind., Jan., 26, 1890, in the 88th year of her age, Mary Moody. Mary White was born in Hamilton county, Ohio, Sept., 14, 1802 and was brought up in the neighborhood of William Harrison, president of the United States, and was educated with his children by the same private tutor. Her father was Harrison's land agent, and the families were on intimate terms, and as a reminder of this friendship with our illustrious statesman and warrior, she possessed at her death, the camp chest that did service for that worthy in his campaign of 1812. This relic is now in possession of her son. She was married at Cambridge, Guernesey county, Ohio, in 1821 to Peter Moody, and removed with him to this county, settling on a farm near Corunna, in 1837, where her husband died 12 years ago. Their union was blessed with nine children, five sons and four daughters all surviving her. Her remains were taken to Kendallville for interment, the burial place of her husband. Her father's remains lie in the old Harrison vault on the banks of the White Water in southern Indiana.

SPENCERVILLE.

Mrs. John Beams is still seriously ill.

Mrs. G. Erick is suffering with a severe attack of la grippe.

Dr. Emanuel has been in Defiance, O., during the past week.

Ivan Fryburger, of Berrien Springs, Michigan, is visiting friends in town.

S. J. Zimmerman and wife, of Auburn, were the guests of P. Bishop's family over Sunday.

Wallace Wilson talks of going to California next month in company with Milton Wasson.

Frank Wise represented the Spencerville congregation at the M. E. quarterly meeting at Leo Saturday.

Mrs. D. M. Allen and Mrs Jane Butler have been visiting friends in Auburn and Huntertown during the past week.

Jason Keys, our barber, shaved in a fine crop of pennies Saturday, to his chagrin and the delight of his customers.

Immediately after Sabbath school last Sunday morning at the Lutheran church, Mrs. Lizzie Horn presented Superintendent Case with a bible costing $15, as a gift from the school in appreciation of his services.

A telegram received by J. W. Beams Thursday from Shelby, Ohio, containing the announcement of the death at that place, of Mrs. Baker, wife of Rev. E. K. Baker, formerly a pastor of the Lutheran church at this place. Mrs. Baker was one of the most estimable ladies with whom we ever became acquainted. We extend to him our heartfelt sympathy in his sore bereavement.

NEWVILLE.

Charles Bartlett is cutting logs for Jerry Barber.

Adam Chubb is doing the business for Dan. Bair, as Mr. B. is on the sick list.

Boney's sorrel horse is getting better; he is nothing but a shadow, so Dave says.

Toad is the proudest man in town, it is a boy, a democrat and his name is Peter Latson.

Newville against the world, for a town of its population for la gripp, almost every family has from one to three with this disease.

Jas. Hart has purchased the Henry Webster building also the small tract of land across the way from Lud Countryman's. He talks of moving the house on said land.

The correspondent for the Dispatch is not very smart. In his items last week he stated that "Mrs. Rose continues very low," which should have been Mrs Rex He also spoke of Rev. Stootman officiating at the funeral of Alfred Rose's daughter, we all know there is no Rev. Stootman.

Orangeville has the great wonder of the world in the shape of a man, he is a lank lean tyrant of a man. The presumption is that he would not get his wife any wood. She had no bread in the house, and two small children to maintain on wind, what could she do but go to the school house near by and get two sticks of wood. She had her bread in the oven, and she had started a fire with a few boards she gathered from the garden fence. This tyrant of hers got on his ear because she borrowed from the school house and picked up the tea kettle and poured water on the fire, not satisfied he also poured on top of the oven on the bread, of course the water and soot spoilt the bread, so she had to throw it away. Now, if this is not a case for the white caps I don't know where we can find one. He is one of the smart fellows that pays $15 for a pump or $30 for it on election.

CONCORD.

Mrs. Nancy Wyatt is worse again.

David Miller lost one of his fine three year old colts last Thursday.

W. W. Mansfield has gone to Toledo to take his position in the store.

Frank Smith has rented a farm with a house. A little suspicious Frank.

Mrs. Burnett and children, of Garrett, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith.

C. Keller is visiting a few days in Stark county, Ohio. Two of his nephews will accompany him home.

We received notice last week of the death of our friend, Mrs. M. M. Darling. For several months she has been a great sufferer of consumption. She leaves a husband, one little son and a large circle of friends to mourn her death.

Mrs. John Baker has returned from Ft. Wayne, where she has been under treatment with Dr. T. J. Dills. Her eyesight is so greatly restored, that she is able to attend her household affairs something she has not done for many months.

James Ragan and James Hennessey are very sick at present. James Rickett is a hustler when it comes to sawing cord wood. Those reported better: Grant; Mamie and Ethel Keller, Mrs. Matt Scott and Alice Draggoo. Gertie Krise and school are over the mumps. She resumed teaching last Monday.

Col. Zollinger turned the pension office over to Mr. Ensley early last week. He retires after four years of honorable service, with the respect and good will of all who had dealings with him. He had, it seems, kept in four republican clerks during his term, and as they are there yet, there will be but twelve clerks for Mr. Ensley to discharge, and there are about a hundred or more waiting for these places. It is to be hoped, also, that Mr. Ensley will be as liberal as his predecessor, and keep in four democrats, But with the crowd of hungry office seekers after him, he will have hard work to do it.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

Lands and Town Lots returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1888, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes 1889.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax
							$	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	46	70
Buston M & D	in s w qr	14	33	12	00	20	1	17
Hillegass Sarah E	und pt s e pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	12	36	8	75
Miller Lovina	in n e 1-4 s w qr	26	33	12	13	47	7	44
West Curtis S	und 1-3 in e side s w qr	34	33	12	2	00	1	30
do	in s pt s w qr	34	33	12	4	69	2	76
Walter Sarah A	n e frth n e frth n e qr	31	33	12	10	00	6	38
Work W I	e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	73	01
do	und 2-3 w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	17	86
do	und 2-3 pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	36	46	61	22
do	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	9	76
do	und 2-3 w hf n e qr	32	33	12	58	33	116	21
Work M E	und 2-3 n w pt w hf n e qr	28	33	12	11	75	4	97
Shunk Henry	L add Cedar Creek lot 1
do	do do 2
do	do do e end 3						8	27
Ensley George	New Era lot 1						3	74
Holbrook Sanford	s e frth n e qr	31	33	12			14	97
do	in s w cor n e frth s e qr	31	33	12			1	16
Rectenwald Eliza L	s hf n w frth n w qr	15	33	12	20	00	18	87
Vandercook Fred	pt s w qr	15	33	12	151	50	82	28
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Bailey Barbara A	n hf s e frth n e qr	33	33	13	20	00	6	43
McClellan Permelia	w end s hf n e qr	3	33	13	30	00	32	01
Magginis Wm deed	pt e hf s e qr	4	33	13	76	67	133	74
do	e hf n e qr	9	33	13	80	00	59	65
Thomas Sophia	in n frc hf n w qr	5	33	13	1	50	6	61
do	pt n e qr	5	33	13	8	95	8	23
Tarney Ann	s end w hf n w qr	24	33	13	60	00	25	70
Stafford Samuel	e hf n e qr	15	33	13	80	00	28	92
Ferguson N P	s end w hf n e qr	29	33	13	8	00	10	12
Amstutz John	e hf n e qr	29	33	13	80	00	23	05
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Cole Septimus	in s w qr	28	33	14	00	60	1	43
Ferguson John D	in s e frth s e qr	16	33	14	00	62	4	38
Hennessey James	in s side e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25	3	21
Johnson Rosetta	in n e frth n e qr	16	33	14	1	00	2	04
Kirk Wm B	n hf n w qr	3	33	14	75	20	31	35
Maxwell Jas H	und 1-3 s end w hf n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	2	66	1	41
Milton Susan	s w cor w hf n w qr	9	33	14	2	00	8	25
May J W & H E	und 3-4 n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	30	00	13	92
Morr Adam	e pt w hf n w qr	18	33	14	27	59	14	02
Place Susan	in n e cor s hf s e qr	1	33	14	1	00	1	20
Ricketts Ira	und frth n w frth n e qr	8	33	14	10	00	5	10
Smith James H	s e frth s e qr	8	33	14	40	00	14	86
do	s hf e frth n e frth s e qr	8	33	14	10	00	14	77
Wineland Simon	in s w qr	15	33	14	2	00	31	37
Wineland Elizabeth	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	35	1	37
Hamilton J G	town Orangeville und hf lot 109							38
Harrow J C	do do 109							38
Bair Samuel & Mary	town Spencerville lot 5						7	16
Gilford James B	do 25 ft n pt lot 1						2	01
Rhodes Wm	do 25x30 ft e pt lot 30						6	04
Gill David	C add town St Joe lot 6						4	74
Testison Martin	L 1st add do lot 8 blk 9						00	00
do	do do lot 9 blk 9						1	82
Walker J F	C add do lot 10						6	90
Dermott John R	in s pt s e frth n e qr	23	33	14	16	00	6	59
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Beamer D A	in n pt s w qr	6	33	15	1	28	6	89
Baird Emma E	w hf s w frth s w qr	20	33	15	20	00	11	45
Borden F H	s e frth s e qr	32	33	15	40	00
do	e hf n e frth s e qr	32	33	15	20	00	29	02
Davis Joel	s fr s e qr	7	33	15	78	50	42	09
do	n pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	45	00	25	82
do	in mid pt e hf n e qr	19	33	15	14	46	7	70
Fusselman Quincy	s e pt n hf s w qr	6	33	15	1	00	5	10
Fusselman Mary	pt s w qr	6	33	15	00	50	4	43
Jefford David	in n w qr	6	33	15	00	80		78
Kirkbride G W	in s 1-f n w fr qr	6	33	15	3	00	2	50
Like Julia	in n pt e hf s w qr	5	33	15	00	75		78
Mullenix Moses	n hf n fr hf	9	33	15	55	00	21	79
Milliman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	9	33	15	21	00	7	90
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	6	33	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s w qr	6	33	15	7	48	18	50
Palmerton Geo N	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	00	1	58
Steel Martin A	s w frth s e qr	17	33	15	40	00	23	30
Tarney John W	in s w frth n w qr	6	33	15	1	50
do	do	6	33	15	3	77	7	81
Aikens Hales	Vienna pt of lot 44
do	do do 41						10	23
Catlett David	do lot 24
do	do 25						9	91
Fell Amos C	do 58
do	do n e hf lot 51						6	33
Friend Nancy	do lot 3							78
Harter Bryaney	do 80
do	do 89						2	19
Like Julia	do 2						2	62
Maxwell Margaret	do n w pt lot 46						1	71
Rex Joseph	do lot 63						3	56
Salmon Matilda	do 30 ft n end lot 44
do	do 18x28 ft n e cor lot 37
do	do 30 ft n end lot 41						4	05
Stepleton Anthony	do 30 ft n end lot 49							58
Whitehurst John	do lot 46
do	do 34
do	do 39						9	91
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Funk Mary	pt n hf n hf s e qr	18	33	15	20	25	44	45
Flickinger Ezra	n e frth n w qr	18	34	15	40	00	32	10
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Lockwood P J	s w frac ¼	7	34	14	142	50	316	17
Brown Wm	w hf n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	64	53
Brown Malinda	und 2-15 pt w hf n w qr	31	34	14	10	12	6	44
Clark George	do	31	34	14	10	12	12	00
Carruth C C	e hf n e frth s w qr	26	34	14	20	00	6	16
Hopkins Ezra M	e side s w frth n e qr	7	34	14	25	00	13	03
Hopkins John & Anna	s end w hf w hf s e qr	14	34	14	30	00	21	08
Jennings Sarah E	e side e hf n w qr	7	34	14	30	00	12	52
Palmerton Geo. N	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	17	10
Pifer Wm. F	e 3-4 s w frth s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	125	03
do	w frth s e frth s w qr	21	34	14	10	00	41	81
Trostel G. W	und 4-5 s end w hf s e qr	24	34	14	24	00
do	s e frth s w qr	24	34	14	40	00	30	40
Wickard Wm	s end e hf n e qr	19	34	14	30	00	268	42
Woods Chas W	n pt e hf n e qr	21	34	14	60	00	33	06
Warner Marcia	und 3-15 s w pt s e qr	24	34	14	6	00	5	45
do	und 3-15 e hf n w frth n e qr	25	34	14	4	00	6	72
Platter A. W. & L. M.	e hf n e qr	36	34	14	80	00	44	86
Keller Daniel	e hf s w qr	15	34	14	80	00	46	07
do	s e frth n w qr	15	34	14	40	00	17	47
do	w hf s w qr	15	34	14	80	00	27	13
do	pt n hf n w qr	15	34	14	79	00	37	15
Smurr Jane	pt n pt e hf n e qr	19	34	14	20	75	52	40
Hablawetz John	s e frth s e qr	26	34	14	40	00	51	72
Hollinger Jacob	n e frth n w qr	25	34	14	40	00	125	20
do	w hf n w frth n e qr	25	34	14	20	00	43	02
Fay E. G	und 4-5 e hf n w frth n e qr	25	34	14	16	00	17	13
Schoup Peter & Mary	n e frth n e qr	25	34	14	40	00	42	77
Kiser John W	pt n hf s e qr	15	34	14	70	00	47	58
Kiser Thos. C	in n e cor n hf s e qr	15	34	14	10	00	37	10
Tomlinson Daniel	s pt n w qr	14	34	14	120	00	99	06
Krontz M. E	s w ¼ n e qr	15	34	14	40	00	33	27
McCullough Hiram	n w frth s w qr	14	34	14	40	00	31	40
Smurr Cyrus	in s e cor e hf s e qr	18	34	14	1	00	6	37
Pugsley George	w side e hf s e qr	29	34	14	27	50
do	w hf n e frth n e qr	32	34	14	20	00	17	55
Rose Wm. A	e side e hf s e qr	20	34	14	25	60	11	70
do	w pt w hf s w qr	28	34	14	28	00	26	46
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Bowers Lewis	e hf e hf s w qr s e qr	30	34	13	10	00	11	98
Corbin Chas	n e frth s w frth s e qr	1	34	13	10	00
do	n pt w hf n w frth s e qr	1	34	13	5	00
do	in w side s w frth s e qr	1	34	13		65	4	32
Goodwin Wm. D	n e cor n w qr	4	34	13	6	07	1	60
Harris Morgan O	pt n w frth s w qr	3	34	13	1	50	4	08
Lower Solomon	in s w cor n w frth s e qr	1	34	13	15	00	8	05
Livergood Jos	w side s e frth n e qr	13	34	13	11	16
do	w side n e frth s e qr	13	34	13	11	16	6	73
Hannah Miser	in n e cor w hf s e qr	9	34	13	3	33	5	81
McNabb Adam	in s w pt s w qr	31	34	13		15		34
Mariett Maggie J	Auburn Junction Spang add lot 39							41
Frick Sidney	Auburn R & H add lot 30						2	34
Myers C P	do E 2d add lot 75						6	74
Quince Geo W	do R & H add lot 18						10	74
Lowe Jemima	pt s w frth s e qr	2	34	13	37	00	13	45
Baughman Isaiah	s e frth s e qr	14	34	13	40	00	25	10
do	s w frth s w qr	13	34	13	40	00	19	97
Fisk Royal J	s pt e hf e hf s w qr	12	34	13	25	00	10	92
do	und 1-3 s w frth s e qr	12	34	13	13	33	5	20
Lockwood P J	s e frth s w qr	23	34	13	40	00	6	12
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Guthrie P K	in s e pt s e frth n e qr	3	34	12	1		2	59
McConnell John	und 1-24 s e frth s e qr	1	34	12	1	66	3	48
Murphy Adolphus	in w hf n e qr	4	34	12		25	1	75
Myers & Blatz	in w pt s w frth s w qr	19	34	12		40	7	97
Schrader Margaret	in n w qr	1	34	12		50		58
Gonser Geo	Lawrence lot 50 in n w qr							70
Wright Emily	do O P s hf lot 35							37
Wyrick Jacob	do do lot 63							75
Dunsee James	do do 19						6	24
Jarvis John B	Corunna O P lot 29						1	07
do	do do 52						1	39
do	do Jarvis add lot 3						1	57
do	do do 6						1	66
do	do do 10						1	88
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Hanna James T	s w frth s w qr	3	35	12	40	00	3	90
Binkley Amanda	s end w hf n e qr	25	35	12	47	00	18	51
Lower Wm B	in n e pt n w qr	22	35	12	1	50	7	44
Shade Judson	in n w cor n e frth s w qr	5	35	12	1	50	4	09
Sthair John	in n pt n e qr	22	35	12	1	00	3	19
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Buck Jefferson	e ½ e hf s e qr	1	35	13	40	00	20	08
Bell John W	e hf n w qr s e qr	23	35	13	20	00	11	11
Freed Peter	s e cor n w qr	16	35	13	1	00	1	24
Mulvey Wm	s hf s w qr	12	35	13	80	00	36	08
Myers Barbara E	in s w qr	18	35	13	12	25
do	in n pt n w qr	19	35	13	1	75	7	61
Mortorff Samuel	s w frth s w qr	15	35	13	37	00	34	64
Ball Augustus	n hf s e qr	3	35	13	10	00	22	39
Keys Maria	s hf s e qr	3	35	13	80	00	28	10
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e frth s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	22	31
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Aldrich Sarah	in sw cor sw qr	3	35	14	24	36	14	98
Beard Jeff Trustee	pt se qr	28	35	14	150	00	83	38
Cummings Martha	se pt nw fr qr	2	35	14	8	39
do	in sw cor ne qr	2	35	14	4	39	6	10
Enzor Stephen	n hf nw frth nw qr	13	35	14	20	00	9	80
do	ne frth ne qr	14	35	14	40	00	24	44
Oberlin Wm	s hf se qr	15	35	14	80	00	63	22
Willard Henry	in nw qr	2	35	14		25		09
Nelson Isaac	sw frth nw qr	25	35	14	40	00	36	09
Musser Catherine	ne frth nw qr	7	35	14	40	00	12	96
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Freeby John	und 9-10 ne cor sw qr	7	35	15		90
do	do se qr	7	35	15	154	00	57	72
Rickard Nancy	in s pt n hf sw qr	16	35	15	22	00	10	06
Rickard James	n end e hf n e qr	30	35	15	11	50	7	67
Sise Francis	s hf sw qr	8	35	15	80	00	76	29
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Cabe Frederick	pt ne qr	3	33	12		31	6	57
Depew John	w side w hf ne qr	30	34	12	66	67	48	18
Goetschius James	s hf w hf w hf nw qr	26	34	12	20		8	35
Hanna James T	nw frth se qr	33	34	12	40		178	07
Myers & Hersler	und 2-3 in w pt w hf nw qr	2	33	12		67	5	50
Offen M A & Hudson L S	in ne pt ne qr	4	33	12		25		36
Olinger G W	n hf ne frth se qr	35	34	12	20		14	16
Potter Mary L	in sw cor sw qr	7	33	12	20		6	69
Winterhalter John	in n pt nw qr	4	33	12		25	4	48
Newman Herman	T S add Garrett lot 11 block 3
do	do 12 3						9	86
Watson & Minshall trst	do 12 5						1	44
do	do 2 8						1	44
Hare Walter	Altona R add lot 32							74
Mason John	do R & C add lot 7						1	91
Stratton Artemas	n end e hf se qr	32	34	12	7	00	6	78
Rectenwald Joseph	pt e hf s e qr	10	34	12	76	50	31	37
do	w hf w hf sw qr	11	34	12	40	00	31	05
Clink Jacob	se frth se qr	4	33	12	40	00	38	78
	TOWN OF AUBURN.
Cullers Lewis & C A	O P pt lot 120
do	do 113						29	20
Cool Isaac N	do lot 289						4	41
Dills Emily A	do 54						17	58
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141
do	do 142						14	89
Hallam Thomas	G & D add lot 6
do	do 7						24	50
Kiblinger Wm H	McI add lot 21						20	17
Moody D D	O P lot 109
do	do 124						46	02
Spangler Lewis	S add lot 12						3	00
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Blair L J	in ne ¼ se ¼	4	34	13	2	00	50	14
Barkdall Joseph	pt se ¼	4	34	13		20	3	70
Crane Duncan & Co.	Haw add lot 13						2	00
Dickinson Mary A	H add n side lot 234							61
Duncan Jas R Trustee	in ne ¼ sw¼	3	34	13
do	in nw¼ sw¼	3	34	13	2	24	15	42
do	do	3	34	13	1	73	2	84
Derthick Wm	J F & C add lot 30						12	13
Day Sarah M	in	4	34	13	3	00
do	in s side	4	34	13		84	16	25
Fisher Ada S	O P lot 90						5	16
Fisher Harry	do 89						4	16
Haskins Alfred P	in ne ¼ sw ¼	3	34	13	3	24	16	85
Lockhart R M & W C	L 1st add lot 28						3	36
Phillips C M & S E	O P lot 156						10	70
Smith & Simons	Hor 3d add lot 245						2	72
Stroh Peter B	in se¼	3	34	13	1	00	24	15
Smith Hattie	J F & C add lot 17						28	73
Smith S S	B & Mc add lot 4						7	36
Wise Reuben	Hop add w½ lot 25
do	do 30						4	77
Yeagy Adaline	Hor 1st add lot 125						13	28
Zirves Solomon	do 64						15	15
Zirkle Milo W & C H	in se¼	4	34	13		25	1	77
Zimmerman J W	O P pt lot 155						7	63
Colgrove James C	Union Town O P lot 22						11	19
Getts Edward	do 5						4	75
	TOWN OF BUTLER.
Ackley E C	D add lot 35						10	75
Beever Anna	O P lot 179						5	54
Brink F A & M J	Eg add lot 104						12	22
Carpenter F H	O P 14½ ft s end 30
do	do 31
do	do 38½ w side 32						7	00
Coffrin Evaline	T add n½ lot 7 block 2
do	do 8 do 2						8	51
Diehl Susannah	D add lot 14						7	35
Delevan Elizabeth	E add lot 107						4	67
Fosdick E W	O P w ½ lot 180
do	do 181						4	50
Garber John J	E add lot 103						10	97
Hopkins B M & S E	pt e ½ e ½ nw ¼	11	34	14	5	00	29	54
Hopkins S A & E M	O P lot 38						11	42
Leffin Robert F	do 20x26 ft e pt lot 130						5	57
McNabb John O	in ne ¼ nw ¼	12	34	14	1	00	11	60
Mason W A	Mason add lot 2						3	27
do	do 3							30
do	do 10						2	07
May Adolph & Mary	Tom add lot 8 block 7						3	84
do	do n½ " 7 do						1	06
Mason Albert J	O P lot 290						2	90
Searight S G	D add lot 65						28	67
Smith John H	in se cor w ½ se ¼	2	34	14		50	11	02
Shaw Alonzo	E 3d add lot 202						8	97
Snyder Geo	E 2d add lot 185						2	17
Tomlinson Chas W	T add sw pt lot 1 block 1						1	92
Troutman W V	O P s side lot 4						17	88
Warner George	E 3d add lot 177
do	do 178						6	15
Wycoff Mary A	O P lot 36
do	do 37						10	80
White A B	do und ⅔ lot 142						1	97
Warden Lydia A	E 3d add lot 199						6	70
	TOWN OF GARRETT.
Blackburn N W	O P lot 19 block 26						52	29
do	do " 11 " 29						23	28
do	do " 12 " 29						4	54
Brown Stephen	do " 18 " 33						5	32
Bloomfield Jas & J	do " 11 " 21							78
do	do " 12 " 21							79
Bennett Asa & G	do und ½ " 20 " 17						13	42
Blair Thos M	do " 19 " 29						3	08
do	do " 20 " 29						13	90
Baltimore Land & Improvement Company	do " 16 " 4						3	08
	do " 17 " 4						1	92
do	do " 18 " 4						1	92
do	do " 12 " 12						3	08
do	do " 11 " 13						1	17
do	C 1st add " 13 " 36							83
do	do " 9 " 39						3	50
do	do " 10 " 39						9	35
do	do " 7 " 48						1	02
do	do " 8 " 49						10	62
do	do " 12 " 52						5	18
do	do " 4 " 54						1	40
Clark Martha	O P lot 8 block 33						6	66
Frederick Wm J	O P lot 4 blk 24						5	97
Getts Moses	Oz 3d add lot 3 blk 1						4	73
Jones C B	O P und ½ lot 9 blk 33						1	40
Marvin Wm H	do lot 5 blk 24						12	90
Paul John	do lot 24 blk 40						10	36
Reynolds W G	C add lot 5 blk 54						13	63
Smith Jerry	O P blk 12 lot 20						17	54
Vansoick Noah D	do 23 w ½ lot 13							86
do	do lot 14							86
do	do 15							86
do	do 16							86
do	do 17						24	21
Houser Margaret J	Oz 1st add blk 1 lot 1						2	41
do	do lot 2						2	41
do	do lot 3						2	41
do	do n ¼ lot 4						1	29
do	do n ¼ lot 5						1	25
do	do lot 8						10	58

I, Cyrus C. Walter, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1888, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1889, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1890 (the same being the 10th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

CYRUS C. WALTER, Auditor,

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 13, 1890.

A man in the northern part of Vermont lately confessed that he had been a smuggler for many years, and had in that way defrauded the government out of many millions. If this man told the truth, and no one doubts it, why did he smuggle, and so avoid paying a duty on the goods, when any republican editor in his neighborhood would have told him that his goods would have cost him less if he had paid the duty? Let some of our home republicans explain.

The republicans all over the state appointed their central committee last Thursday. For this district, they selected the same one who has held it for two years past, Wm. Bunyan, of Kendallville. Bunyan is now postmaster at that place. In Clevelands time, it was not permitted that a postmaster should take such a position, and yet republicans found fault with Cleveland for not enforcing the civil service reform. After election, it is very different. Now, they want office, and the more the better.

Editor John H. Baker, of Columbia City, and a friend whose name has escaped us, dropped in to see us last Thursday. John is a big gun among the republican editors, but makes himself agreeable everywhere. Like Reub. Williams, he wanted an office but didn't get it. This administration seems to have come to a sudden halt in its favors to "literary fellers"

Monopolists are sharp. Look at the cute endeavors to get a flag put on every schoolhouse in the land. This would give the one or two firms who make all the flags in the country a sure monopoly on many millions of flags, though they don't say so in so many words. They merely say, "Putting flags on all the schoolhouses would be sure to make people patriotic." We are happy in the belief that there has never been a lack of patriotism in this county and there probably never will be, and that the people do not need any such plan to keep them in line.

DEERING JUNIOR STEEL BINDER.
KING OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

Works Perfectly on Rough, Uneven Ground.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Tall, Heavy Grain.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Light, Short Grain.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Badly Lodged Grain.—Some Others do not.

Strongest Frame, Simplest Construction, Lightest Draft, Greatest Durability, Most Easily Managed. GREAT IMPROVEMENTS for 1890 place it farther than ever in the lead of pretended rivals.

OUR ASSORTMENT OF GRAIN AND GRASS-CUTTING MACHINERY is made complete with our

DEERING LIGHT REAPER.
DEERING GIANT MOWER.
DEERING LIGHT MOWER.
} Each the Leader in its Class.

Our DEERING BINDER TWINE made by ourselves is the best in the world. We are the only Harvester Manufacturers who adopted this practical method of protecting farmers against poor Twine.

Apply to our nearest agent for Illustrated Catalogue and Full Information or write direct to us.

WM. DEERING & CO., Chicago.

BIG LOT

OF

New Goods

—Received this week for our—

5c. and 10c. Counters.

UNDERWEAR,

Very cheap to reduce large stock.

Special Offer!

10 Dozen Men's All-Wool Shirts and Drawers,

50c. each,

Regular One Dollar Goods.

Winter Wraps.

Every garment in our store we positive offer at ½ off regular price.

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!

MARKED WAY DOWN.

WOOL BLANKETS.

We have several pairs on hand which we offer very cheap. Should you be in need of any, come and see us before buying,

W. P. Harter & Co.

East of Court House,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW

BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.

If You want to Save Money During 1890

BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF

SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

Closing Sales!

25 and 40 per cent

DISCOUNTS

To show you what we are doing to make room for our new spring goods.

$1.00 Gents' All-Wool Scarlet Underwear, reduced to 75 cts.

$1.00 Gents' Switzs Conde Brown mixed Underwear for 75 cents each.

Line of Gents' all-wool half hose, Price 25 cents per pair, reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Line of Ladies' fine Cashmere hose 25 cents per pair, now reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Mrs. Jones & Son,

WEST SIDE OF SQUARE

AUBURN, - INDIANA.

LOCAL NEWS.

Wild Oats, Jan. 30.

Post's closing out sales are immense, not their low prices.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Ladies, all our $1.25 corsets at 85cts to close them out, at Post's.

Mrs. Shull, of North Jackson street, is visiting relatives at Summit.

Ladies', gents' and children's underwear. See our prices, at Post's.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

O. P. Sisson at Opera House, Jan. 30. The great drama, Wild Oats at Opera House Jan. 30. O. P. Sisson's company, is immense and has made a great hit everywhere.

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

A New Discovery: Weak and deranged livers, stomachs and bowels should never be acted on by irritants like common pills, bran, etc. Miles' Pills cure liver complaint, constipation, piles, etc., by a new method. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's

The Great—M. P. By M. P. is meant Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills which regulate the liver, stomace, bowels, etc. through their nerves. Smallest and mildest. A new principle! A revolutionizer! Samples free at Davenport's.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

O. P. Sisson, who gained such fame with "Little Nugget," will be at the Opera House Jan. 30, with the ablest company on the road. They will present the popular play "Wild Oats" and our people can depend on a grand treat. Mr Sisson has abundant and excellent recommendations from the various cities where they have performed this season.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

A. M. Harkey, of Collingwood, and his best girl are reported to have been in town last week.

Clyde Willis, of the Press force, was over from Waterloo last Saturday. Clydy is always welcomed by the Courier boys.

The Busy Bee society will meet next Saturday at the lecture room at 2:30 p. m. Members are requested to be present.

For restoring the color, thickening the growth, and beautifying the hair, and for preventing baldness, Hall's Hair Renewer is unsurpassed.

Wars and rumors of wars do not effect the wonderful cures of Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure. "No cure, no pay." Sold by Robbins & McCord.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Stevens on next Friday, Jan. 31, from 2 to 5. A full attendance is desired.

Rev. D. F. Kain, of Albion, will preach at the Lutheran church, Auburn, next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. All are invited out to hear Rev. Kain's discourses.

W. A. Shreve, of Garrett, brought over Dick Burniston's subscription last Saturday. Dick is a prompt payer, and wouldn't feel well to let his time run over. Thanks to both.

Wood, which had been very hard to get during the long spell of bad roads, begun to come in by the middle of last week, at a lively rate and by Saturday night nearly everybody had laid in a stock.

R. B. Weisel, of Oklahoma, was in town last week, visiting R. C. Baxter, who is his uncle. He is a bright looking young man, just the kind to succeed in a country like Oklahoma. He speaks highly of the land of the Boomers.

The best anodyne and expectorant for the cure of colds and coughs and all throat, lung and bronchial troubles, is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your druggist for it, and, at the same time, for Ayer's Almanac, which is free to all.

The weakness and debility which result from illness may be speedily overcome by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This is a safe, but powerful tonic, assists digestion, regulates the liver and kidneys, and cleanses the blood of all germs of disease.

Judge McClellan very properly voted against compelling the government to pay back the money in the Silcott steal. It may be hard for innocent members to lose their pay, but it will result in a better arrangement for paying them hereafter.

The first load of 1890 ice was brought through town last Saturday forenoon. Some boys went down to the creek and got a wheel barrow load, and delivered it to George Shugers. It was about three inches thick, and looked rather black. But it was the first fruits of the season.

Uncle John Pepple and wife left on the Wabash evening train Monday, with John on their way to spend the winter with him at Taylor, Texas. Like a good citizen he left the Courier paid up to '91, and with a clear conscience started on the long journey, followed by the good wishes of all.

Ladies, more than any other class in the community require a gentle tonic; their usual sedentary lives and the constant work of the brain, to the exclusion of the muscles, exposes them to relaxation of the vital forces. No tonic is so certain in its effects as Johnston's Compound Sarsaparilla, which moreover, unlike bitters, involves no subsequent unfavorable reaction.

John B. Bryant was last week appointed trustee of Troy township, by Auditor Walter, to take the place of L. B. Rose, who had resigned. Mr. Bryant was Mr. Rose's democratic competitor at the election in April, 1888, and is a worthy and competent man. He is a farmer, is centrally located, and will be convenient of access by those who will have business with him. As far as we are able to learn, the appointment will suit the good people of that wide awake little township as well as any that could have been made.

The Butler Record wants the farmers to go to raising beans and eggs, as there would then be no danger of inflating the market. Well, we don't know as to the eggs, but we have our doubts as to the beans. Then he argues that "the low price of grain is partly the fault of the farmers, who, without regard to the market indications, will sow about so many acres of wheat each year, thus overstocking the market." Oh, rats! Don't he know that wheat is sown on an average 14 months before it is put on the market? Then, would any man see "market indications" 14 months in advance? We would like to know what an intelligent farmer thinks when he reads such twaddle.

Our Little Ones and The Nursery enters upon a new volume with the November number. The Nursery is the veteran of magazines for young readers, and those who read its earlier issues in childhood are now active members of society speaking in the warmest terms of their former favorite, and taking it for their own children. Our Little Ones is ten years old and its million readers are still its strongest friends. The united magazines have won a success never before achieved by any similar publications, and today Our Little Ones and The Nursery stands alone, not only in this country, but in the world, as a marvel of fitness for little readers. Its illustrations are always new and fresh, drawn by the best of artists, and engraved for each number, under the supervision of Mr. George T. Andrew, the sponsor for so many artistic works on the counters of the booksellers. It is very carefully edited by a well-known author. It is largely used in schools and kindergartens, and is an educator of the highest character in both family and school, not only of the mind, but also of the taste of its little readers. Published monthly by the Russell Publishing Co., Boston, at $1.50 a year. A trial subscription of three months for 25 cents.

Philip Bowman, a highly respected citizen of Albion, died Jan. 19.

Mr. Kinsey, of the Churubusco Sunday People was in town Thursday.

Mr. Frank Rose, of Garrett, spent Sunday with the family of J. E. Rose and other friends.

Bauer Brothers have removed their store into the new room on Eighth street, the site of the old jail. There their many patrons will find them, still giving cheap bargains.

Miss Bertie Shaffer, of the Courier force, has been confined to her home nearly two weeks by sickness something like lung fever. But we are glad to state she is now improving.

Co. Supt. Merica wrestled with the grip last week, and after quite a tussle came out ahead. About half of our people have had this disease or something like it, and the rest are only waiting their turn.

The editor of the Sunday People, at Churubusco, is quite a rhymist. He writes up the victims of La Grippe in that town in poetry prose, the reading of which alone, would be a good antidote for a severe case.

Mrs. Wm. Crane and her daughter. Mrs. R Shull, both of Waterloo, came down Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Chas. Schaab. Mrs. Shull and her husband have recently returned from a trip through the far west.

Orlando Kimmel and Moses Kiser, two of Noble county's solid farmers, made us a friendly call last Thursday while here attending the republican district meeting. Both are old acquaintances from wayback and good fellows generally.

The ladies of the Middle Section of the M. E. church, will give a dinner in the lecture room on Friday evening of this week. Stewed chicken and noodle soup, with the usual accompaniments, will be served. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Lamport, Sec'y.

The C. L. S. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Chas Schaab on North Main St. Lesson: History of Rome, Mrs. Baldwin. Latin Courses in English, Mrs. McQuiston. The Politics which made and unmade Rome,———— The Story of Rienzi, ———— Select Reading, Mrs. W. H. Dills.

Geo. Shaffer has taken the agency for Noble county for the fine physiological charts published by the Central School Supply Co., of Chicago. To those who have never seen these charts they will be a revelation and a marvel. Everything shown is natural and life-like, and about every part of the human anatomy is shown. They are for use in the schools and we believe he expects to canvass his territory for their sale.

Albion Democrat: Mr. Widney, of St. Joe, DeKalb Co., the "heavy man" of the new and extensive lumber yard here, was one of the DeKalb county men in attendance at the railroad meeting at Albion last week. He will become a citizen of Albion, when his large property interests in DeKalb are satisfactorily arranged, so as to dispense with his personal supervision. Mr. Widney is a man of wealth and ability to make business hum.

As to the farmers' institute to be held in this county, let us hear from the people, no matter whether country or town. Mr. Lockhart, who has charge of the matter in this 16th district, was in town the other day, and thinks Auburn the proper place to hold this one. The only expense will be for a hall and this can be done by a collection. Or, perhaps, a hall may be donated. Large audiences have attended these meetings so far.

Editor E. G. Thompson of the Ligonier Leader and W. J. Mourey, of Raber, Ind., dropped in to see the old democratic Courier while "waiting for the wheels to go 'round" at the republican "meet" last week. Sorry we were out at the time, for we have a kindly feeling for republican newspaper men just now. What with being snubbed by the administration, and then being expected to prove that a tax makes an article cheaper, they are having a hard time.

Mr. Dills says there is no "foolishness" about "old Grippe" when he attacks a person. While he is getting in his work, there is a whole circus in the house of the victim. Dills' experience and information lead him to believe that "La Grippe" concentrates his forces on his enemy's weakest point, and that is the reason he had it all in his head. For twelve hours he did not think of or say a thing, unless it was about the deadlock in the Iowa legislature, and that which bothered him was that the vote was always a tie; but he declared the democrats must come out all right yet.

We regret that an error crept into the Courier last week, in the note in regard to Mr. Chilcote. His name should have been Joseph H. instead of M. H. as we had it. A letter from his daughter, Mrs. Ida Barney, at Fayette, gives some additional items, which will be read with interest by the old neighbors of the family, here in Auburn. Mr. Chilcote was the father of six children, all now living. There were three daughters by his first marriage and three children by his second. Mr. Chilcote resided in Auburn a number of years and our people were sadly shocked by the news of his tragical death.

E. A. Griffin has the agency and control of this county and Steuben for the sale of the great Stanley work, "Heroes of the Dark Continent," a large work of 600 pages and several hundred thrilling illustrations. It is one of the most readable books ever seen, and has for its subject a matter that just now has the attention of the whole world. It gives a history of African exploration for the past thousand years, and is especially full in regard to the latest developments. He is also agent for the "Bible Companion" for the same counties. It is a valuable work for all students of bible literature. Mr. Griffin will canvass for the sale of the books, and will also get agents to do the work more fully in his territory. He will need several good, live agents for this purpose.

Kendallville is to have a new opera house soon.

Read Holman's ad. of property and business for sale at Cedar Creek.

The P. B. C., will meet next Monday evening with Mrs. Winnie Chapman.

P. J. Lockwood was home for a brief season this week, on some business matter we suppose.

Mr. Hudson, of Avilla, a relative to Mr. Spangle, made us a business call while in town last week.

Hon. D. R. Best has purchased the late Mr. Hale's half-interest in the Steuben County Republican.

The two Webb brothers have united with the Baptist church here. They were immersed in Cedar Creek Sunday.

Bert. Inks and young Mr. Ivory, of Ligonier, have been hired to play ball for the Indianapolis club next year. Both are well known among base ball admirers here.

The L. L. C., will meet this week with Mrs. Zimmerman. Leader, Mrs. Emanuel. Subject, Hindoos. Paper. Sketch of Pundita Ramabai, by Alza Ralston. Selection from Bill Nye, by Miss Murphy.

John Hammond, of Hamilton, was in town last week, and from him we learned that he and O. P. Learned will engage in the selling of carriages, wagons, road carts, etc., at Hamilton in the near future.

Ft. Wayne Journal: "Mr. Henry C. Berghoff will not only have a solid city and county, but the support and strength of an unbroken congressional district at the state convention. What is more, he deserves the honor.

Among our callers last Saturday, were Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Dickinson. Although deprived to a great extent of speech and hearing, they are quite intelligent people, and seem to enjoy life with each other, and with the rest of the world about as well as more favored mortals.

The lecture by Prof. Jordan will be Feb. 11, as the time has now been definitely settled. This lecture is one of thrilling interest, as it describes the dangerous ascent of the famous Alpine peak, the Matterhorn. He describes the exciting scenes as he saw them. Those of our people who have heard this lecture, speak highly of it.

Oron Bair, of Fairfield, was down here as a witness in the Weamer case. He says Weamer's enemies have circulated a report that he is furnishing Weamer the money to carry on this suit. But such is not the case. Mr. Bair puts in no money but what he has to in paying his expenses. And it costs all witnesses something in the same way. Mr. Bair has nothing to do with the suit.

The groundhog is to come out next Sunday to look after his shadow, and if he sees it, he returns and make the ice men happy, but if he fails—which he surely will, if the day is like the last four Sundays—then the ice men will have a different shade on their countenance. Be it cloudy or sunshine, we think the woodchuck will get chucked back into his hole for about six weeks, and have nothing to do with running the weather the balance of this winter.

The Forum for February contains: The Ethics of Property, W. S. Lilly; America's Fourth Centenary, Gen. Francis A. Walker; Key Notes from Rome, Henry Charles Lea; Problems of American Archæology, Major J. W. Powell; The Power of the Supreme Court, Eaton S. Drone; Moral Aspects of College Life, President C. K. Adams; A Political Paradox, Leonard W. Bacon; The Immigrant's Answer, Judge John P. Altgeld; Mrs. Grundy's Kingdom, Eliza Lynn Linton; Writing for the Stage, Prof. Alfred Hennequin.

Mr. Loranger, the popular actor of the Loranger Company that was here a short time ago, died at Avilla Saturday evening. It will be remembered that he and the most of his company had the "grip" when performing here, and were scarcely able to get through their engagement. After leaving here, they went to Avilla and played one evening. Mr. Loranger continued sick, and after a few days the company disbanded, he remaining at Avilla. He gradually grew worse till his death at the date above mentioned. He was an actor of unusual ability.

Daniel Gonser, of Hudson, called up last week and paid his subscription into '91. Dan is a thorough democrat, and realizes that it is good to have the Courier come to see him every week. He is also a firm advocate of the primary election system in selecting candidates for office, believing it to be fairer and more satisfactory than to have delegate conventions. He agrees also with the Courier that the voting at these primaries should be by ballot, with clerks and a judge, and in every respect a carefully guarded secret ballot. He has seen the actual workings of this plan in other counties and says it satisfies the people better, and leaves less cause for quarrels. We believe the people at large will agree with him when they come to study the matter over.

W. J. Huber, was married to Miss Etta Klink, of Salem Center, Steuben county, Jan. 16, 1890. Mr. Huber is quite well known in this vicinity, having recently been engaged in the sale of musical instruments here under the firm of Husselman & Huber. The Indianian adds: Mr. Huber had previously arranged a neat and comfortable home in the northwest part of the town, and expected to, and did take possession of it, on the arrival of himself and bride; but judge of the surprise of both of them on finding a large party in full possession of his home on reaching it! Not only had friends gathered in a goodly number, but a fine supper had also been prepared, and the new bride and groom received not only a kind and cordial reception, but a complete surprise. The affair was a very pleasant one, indeed. Mr. and Mrs. Huber expect to make this place their future home, Mr. H. being engaged in the piano, organ and musical instrument trade in company with Mr. Husselman.

Mr. Lamport having recovered, Mrs. L now has the "grip."

Mrs. Post and Mrs. Sam Buss are both quite ill with lung complaints.

Ice men begin to fear an ice famine next summer. There is still hope for ice yet in February.

It has rained every Sunday, for four Sundays. But last week the thermometer registered almost zero on one or two occasions.

House to Rent.—A good dwelling house to rent. Inquire of Mrs. Sophie Baird, at her residence on South Jackson street.

Ex-Clerk D. Y. Husselman is assisting Clerk Bishop, as J. B. Baxter is at Ft. Wayne, having his eyes treated. They were left weak after the grip.

Whole families are down with the prevailing "floo" as the sinners on the streets call the influenza or grip. And those who don't have it, have bad colds.

Nearly everybody about the court house has been down with the prevailing influenza. The recorder's office was left empty and D. Z. Hoffman had to take charge.

The nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Jacob Walborn Friday afternoon, from 2 to 5 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody.

A singing evangelist from Chicago is to assist in the revival meetings at Kendallville this winter—provided he don't get the grip and lose the tone of his singer.

W. D. Rickel has been down with something like lung fever, and before he could get fairly well, T. H. Sprott took the influenza. But yesterday Mr. Rickel was on deck again.

James Gilliland, who is assisting in Jacob Stamets' grocery at the south end, says business is good there. They have a full stock of goods, and sell at prices that secure trade.

The social at the Presbyterian church last Friday evening given by the young ladies of that church, was a success both socially and financially. We understand they expect to start an organ fund, and we hope they will be encouraged by our good citizens, to go on with this very laudable enterprise.

Billy Stimely is believed to be the man who put the pepper on Dr. Watson's liver. We don't mean Doc's own, personal liver, but the piece his wife cooked for him. "For God's sake, Lizzie, what's the matter with the meat?" And the boys at the drug store look innocent when Doc comes in. But he bides his time. They'll get sick some day, and send for him—and then—

Our friend Henry Lindorfer was in town yesterday and brought in a peach limb that had scores of blossoms on it. He had found it on the tree swelling to bloom, and put it in the house, where in a few days it was out in fine shape. He also had an apple limb, on which the buds were swelling, almost ready to burst. Old Jackson must be warming up for the next campaign.

The meeting of the republicans here last Thursday was anything but harmonious. True, the Dispatch had published the order that no kickers would be allowed. Michener, their state chairman, had sent out printed resolutions all over the state for the meetings to adopt, indorsing Harrison. But when it was offered at the meeting here, quite a number voted "No." Then some one wanted to make it unanimous. But again there was a kick. That is, there were many republicans who refused to endorse their president.

Obituary.

John Adams Knott was born Feb. 15, 1858, in Butler township, DeKalb county, Ind., and died at his home near Pleasant Lake, Steuben county, Jan. 23, 1890, aged 31 years, 11 months and 8 days. He moved with his parents to Waterloo, when but six years old, where he attended school until competent to teach. He taught several terms, and was subsequently employed by the L. S. & M. S. Ry. for a term of years. December 19, 1883, he married Miss Bertha M. Closson, of Steuben countty, who, with his parents and a brother, are left to bear the loss and shock of his sudden death. Naturally possessed of a kind and most unselfish nature, he gathered about him a host of friends, wherever he went. Of him most truly, it can be said, "Those loved him most who knew him best," and while we must bow in submission, we feel that "When the mists have cleared away, we shall know that God in His wisdom has recalled the boon His love had given, but that while the body slumbers here, the soul is safe in heaven." The remains were interred upon the Closson lot in Pleasant Lake cemetery and the obsequies were largely attended on Sabbath, the 26th inst., the pall bearers being from among his friends in Waterloo. A male quartette, Messrs. Harper, Reed, Butler and Bert Beidler, also from Waterloo, rendered several beautiful selections excellently, Prof. E. J. Davis presiding at the organ.

The facts surrounding the accidental death of John A. Knott so far as known are these: On the 23d inst., at about 11, a. m., he went to the wood lot on the Closson farm near Pleasant Lake, where he has resided for the past three years. He had loaded his wagon with stove wood and upon driving his team out of the woods his wagon is supposed to have struck a stump and thrown him forward and on the heels of the horses. A wound of the right eye is supposed to have been the result of a kick from the horses. His body was found lying upon its face, with the fore wheel of the wagon resting upon the back of the neck, in which condition it had lain for over two hours, when it was discovered by a boy who had been hunting in the woods, who immediately gave the alarm. Surgical aid was summoned but life was believed to have been extinct from the first, as either the wound over the eye or the broken neck would indicate.

W. O. Butler.

Court.

Lots of side business has been done in the way of taking judgments, etc., and fixing up minor cases. But the only one that will be of interest to the public at large was the case of Weamer vs. Martin, in Fairfield. As has been noted before, Weamer is an old man who runs a store at the Center, and has a world of trouble with the young men about there. Being old and childish, they have tormented him a good deal, and in some cases injured his property. He, on his part, has become very cranky on the subject, and has sued them for damages. It has taken about all the week. The case began last Thursday, and the jury went out Tuesday of this week, at 11, a. m. They were out all that afternoon and night and till next morning at half past nine. They gave a judgment against three young men Rinehart, Rudolph and Martin, of $15. At noon the jury were discharged for the term, and court adjourned till Friday morning. Four of the jurymen were sick and the long struggle was hard on them.

Obituary.

Mary May Richards was born at Ashland, Ohio, May 13, 1875, and died at Auburn, Ind., Jan. 22, 1890. Her loving and happy disposition made her the favorite of her young companions, and her faithful christian life endeared her to the Sunday school and church of which she was a member. After an illness of three days she passed triumphantly and joyfully to her home "across the river." Her last words were full of happy anticipations of the future, and her faith was firm in the Savior whom she loved. The funeral services were held in the Baptist church, conducted by her pastor Rev. T C. Smith. A large audience paid their last loving tribute of regard to her, and all sympathize with the bereaved family.

Resolutions of Respect.

We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of May Richards, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, Death the most mysterious and unwelcome of guests, has entered the home of our beloved President, Abigail Richards, and removed therefrom one of the brightest flowers, and

Whereas, There comes to each member of our order almost a personal bereavement, when we see the deep grief of our sister over the loss of her darling child, therefore be it

Resolved, That, we extend to our sister, our heartfelt sympathy in this sad bereavement, and that we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. And we greatly rejoice in the evidence of her prepration, for as her feet were dipping in the cold river of death, her spirit was already singing the beautiful songs, and may her death prove a blessing to us all, that as we may be called one by one, we may be ready to meet the loved ones gone before.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be given to the family, also a copy sent to each of the city papers for publication.

Mary C. Gordon,
Anna Silver,
Julia Sherlock,
Com.

Liberal Reward.

Strayed, a large, white colly dog. Large, black spot on right side; small, brown spots on left; head black; nose white. Information leading to recovery of the dog will be gratefully received and a liberal reward paid.

Van B. Perrine.

Prohibition Meeting.

The prohibitionists of DeKalb county will meet in the court room at Auburn, on Saturday, Feb. 8, at 10:30, a. m., to reorganize the county committee, appoint delegates to the state convention, which meets at Indianapolis Feb. 20, and to transact any other business which may be deemed for the best interest of the party.

John W. Baxter,
Chairman County Committee.

For Sale.

Store building and cottage adjoining, also a general stock of merchandise. Depot and postoffice in connection; reasons for selling, change of business.

F. Holman,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Aaron D. Moore, administrator of the estate of Sarah Meese deceased is plaintiff and Thadeus D. Meese is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of six hundred fifty-six dollars and seventy-five cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on Saturday, February 8th, 1890,

Between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit: Situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northwest quarter of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy two and twenty one-hundredths, (72.20) acres, more or less. The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northeast quarter of section four (4), in the township & range aforesaid, containing seventy-three and ninety-three one-hundredths (73.93) acres, more or less, and the undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the following described tract in section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-four (34) north of said range fourteen (14) east, to-wit: Beginning at the southwest corner of said section thirty-four (34), and running thence north on on west line of said section, forty (40) chains and thirty-nine (39) links, to land formerly owned by Hannibal Reve, thence east with the south line of said land forty (40) rods; thence south parallel with the west section line twenty-seven (27) chains and thirty eight and one-half (38½) links to the center of the state road, thence east with said road eight (8) rods and twenty-four and one-half (24½) links, thence south five (5) chains and sixty-one (61) links, thence east seven (7) chains and thirteen (13) links, thence south six (6) chains and ninety-six (96) links to the section line, thence west twenty-five (25) chains and thirty-seven and one-half (37½) links to the place of beginning, containing sixty (60) acres more or less. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two-thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment interest and costs.

Phil Plum,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.

Auburn, Indiana, Jan. 16, 1890.

E. D. Hartman, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

FRENCH newspapers refer to Buffalo Bill as "William le Buffle."

THREE men and one surveyor laid out the largest part of Manhattan Island in 1813.

A FRENCHMAN who smoked excessively for sixty-two years is now suffering from motor hemiplegia and sensory anæsthesia. A terrible warning, this, for the cigarette fiend.

ACCORDING to General Crook, Sitting Bull has no reputation among the Indians as a brave; he is only a medicine man. How lucky it is for us that the Indians do not send out their braves to fight the Government troops!

A LOWER SOUCON, Northumberland County, Pennsylvania, farmer, while butchering the other day, struck a bullock with a sledge-hammer and left the animal for dead. When he returned from his breakfast the animal was finishing a chest of meal.

AN Englishman has bought the contents of the royal castle of Nuremberg, containing the most complete collection of instruments of torture extant, costing £6,000 in all. There is a library of three thousand volumes, giving the history of crime and torture for many centuries.

QUEEN VICTORIA lately gave her consent to the abolition of a number of useless court appointments, including the mastership of the buckhounds, but Lord Salisbury declined to make the sweeping changes involved because he needed the patronage to keep his party friends together in the House of Lords.

A ROMANTIC story comes from Kalosca, in Hungary. A young pupil entered a seminary to prepare for the priesthood, and lived exactly the same life as the young men on the premises. The Cardinal's suspicions were aroused, and it transpired that the pupil was a lady, who said said she desired to become a priest.

TWO OF the daugters of Sir Henry Aaron Isaac, the Lord Mayor of London, are deaf and dumb, but they have been so admirably educated on the oral system, in Holland, that they can by lip-reading even understand what goes on at a theater. They have such bright, intelligent faces that no one could possibly imagine them to be deprived of two of the best senses.

BURGLARS recently broke into a house in London, but obtained little booty for their pains. A newspaper, in giving an account of the affair, spoke of much valuable property they overlooked. Acting on this hint, the rascals paid a second visit and made a great haul. They left a note expressing their obligations to the newspaper reporter.

THE Jews are said to be rapidly increasing in numbers, wealth and influence in New York. Four new synagogues were recently opened within the space of ten days, and the city now has forty-seven of these places of worship, which is a larger number than can be found in any other city in the world. The Hebrew population has doubled in ten years. Some trades they almost entirely control.

NEAR Healdsburg, Cal., is a redwood tree twenty-four feet in diameter, within the hollow of which a squatter and his family have taken up their abode. A few days ago a hunter was attracted to the spot by the sound of voices. To close the opening in the tree a rude door had been constructed of deerskins. Inside the tree benches and tables had been constructed of redwood bark fastened together by wooden pins.

CARTOONIST GILLIAM, who ought to be good authority, corrects the popular impression that the feelings of public men are hurt at finding themselves caricatured. On the contrary, most public men like it and invite it. They send their photographs to the cartoonist in their favorite attitudes, and assist the artist all they can. When Mr. Gilliam picured the late Mr. Cox as a clown, that cheery gentleman sent the cartoonist his compliments and a full set of his writings, bound in morocco.

AN indignant relict makes her protest to the New York Tribune against the indignity thrust upon widows by the ungrammatical compiler of obituary notices. When she dies this particular widow insists that she does not want any fool editor to put her down as "Mehitable, widow of the late Jonathan Jones." This lady very properly feels that all the facts can be presented to the public, and at the same time with correct grammatical construction, by saying: "Mehitable, widow of Jonathan Jones."

A LADY well known in Boston society having been informed that the poet Whittier, when he received an inspiration, was wont to retire to a certain corner of a certain room and there kneel, while he reduced his thought to words, at once, with her own fair hands, made a handsomely embroidered cushion. This she conveyed herself to Oak Knoll, and formally presented it to Mr. Whittier, although she had not had the slightest previous acquaintance with the poet. The emotion of the later upon receipt of this attention can scarcely be described, but they are more easily imagined than is the spectacle of the good old man lugging a pillow about with him to kneel upon in the event of a bright thought striking him.

A REMARKABLY fine specimen of meteoric iron has just been received at the North Carolina State Museum from Rockingham County. Its greatest length is twelve inches, with an average breadth of eight inches, and it is about two inches thick. Its general shape is flat, though somewhat concave on one side and convex on the other, as if broken off on the outer surface of a rounded and larger mass. The specimen is coated with a thick crust of dark-brown rust, and weighs twenty-five and three-quarters pounds.

EX-QUEEN ISABELLA of Spain, who was turned out of the kingdom twenty years ago, thinks the outlook for monarchs is discouraging. If a monarch is good-natured and liberal, sedition is encouraged to break out; if he is severe in suppressing sedition his harshness is made a pretext for revolution. Do what he will or turn as he may he is sure to be beaten in the end. The ex-Queen says that her grandson keeps his throne simply because the Spaniards are too chivalrous to send into exile a young widow and a fatherless child.

GENERAL CROOK is one of the most unassuming men possible. There is nothing about his face, figure, carriage, clothes, cut of his whiskers, or style of hair, to denote the remarkably successful soldier—the man whose influence with the red aborigines is almost absolute. His wife, on the contrary, with her plump, erect figure, white hair combed back from a striking, almost masculine face, is noticeable in any assemblage. She is the daughter of an old Marylander, now dead, whose heart and soul were pinned to the success of the Confederacy.

A MYSTERY of the Artic regions may be cleared up next year if the season is open. This mystery is: Where do the whales go when ice begins to set in along the Alaskan coast? Whalemen know they go eastward, and it is supposed they congregate about the mouth of the great Mackenzie River, but this and the region to the northeast of the river's mouth are practically unknown territory. The Pacific Steam Whaling Company, of San Francisco, has just purchased a strong steamer, which will be sent to the Artic next spring with orders to push through to the mouth of the Mackenzie. The reason for this is that whalebone is rising in price, and this season's catch showed that the whales are rapidly decreasing in their usual feeding grounds.

EVEN the much despised tramp has often more honor than he's given credit for, as witness the following from New Jersey: "Fourteen years ago a tramp knocked at the door of Daniel Palmer, in South Orange Township, Essex County, and asked for a hat. By mistake one of the daughters gave him her father's best silk hat, discovering the mistake just as the tramp started away with it. An exclamation by her sister apprised the tramp of the prize he had received. Little thought was afterward given to the matter until a few mornings ago, when a clean, new hat box was found on the front porch. It contained a new silk hat, and this explanation within a slip of paper: 'To replace your father's best silk hat, taken by me fourteen years ago.'"

THE discovery by M. Pasteur of the microbe of the silkworm disease has been a fortunate matter for the silk industry of the south of France, which was beginning to be very seriously affected. Having found out that the germ of the microbe passed from the moth to the egg, and that therefore when the worm hatched out the microbe was in it, and it perpetuated the disease, M. Pasteur hit upon a method for stamping out the plague. He put each worm to lay its eggs upon a separate piece of paper, then he examined the moth carefully, those found to be diseased were burnt with the eggs they had laid, and only the eggs of healthy moths used. This method was so successful that in a short time the eggs from the station where M. Pasteur was experimenting realized the sum of £1,100,000, and by degrees the disease has been almost entirely eradicated from the south of France.

A Society Woman's Day.

What is the life of a fashionable and emancipated lady? Here is a specimen of the day's routine:

She plays with the children.

She gives orders to the cook and other servants.

She arranges for the reception of visitors, expected or unexpected.

She takes a turn at Herbert Spencer.

She settles a dispute between butler and gardener—the gardener had "given orders" to the butler.

She confutes the French governess, who complains of the eldest daughter.

She soothes the boarding-school master (the curate had been presuming).

She pacifies a tenant who wants his rent reduced, and doesn't like being bit on the leg by a pet mastiff.

She goes for a drive with her husband.

She opens a music hall and makes a speech.

She reads the Bible to a sick woman in the parish.

She receives her guests.

She explains to her husband why the fish isn't up to the mark.

And then, perhaps, she writes an article for a monthly magazine. No wonder that nervous exhaustion is becoming as frequent among hard-living women as gout among hard-drinking men.—Nineteenth Century.

VERY SLY WAS JOEY B.

BUT HE SLIPPED INTO THE MUD ALL THE SAME.

Foraker Placed in a Very Bad Light by the Ballot-Box Inquiry—Forger Wood Says Foraker Helped Him to Get Up the Ballot-Box Contracts and Knew It Was a Forgery When He Used It.

[Washington Cor. Chicago Daily News.]

The testimony so far taken by the committee on the Ohio ballot-box scandal, of which Representative Mason of Chicago is Chairman, gives a very dusky color to the conduct of Joseph Benson Foraker, the late Governor of Ohio. Of course one should not pass judgment until the evidence is all in, but the witnesses examined thus far—and they consist only of the Governor himself, Wood, the man who committed the forgery, and Walters, who furnished him the autographs used in forging the names—place him in an exceedingly uncomfortable position, which he plainly shows, notwithstanding his well-known nerve and audacity; and there is no telling what future witnesses may say. From the Governor's own statement it appears that during the last campaign he was anxious to obtain some evidence against the character of his opponent for Governor—Mr. Campbell—and the man Wood, who was seeking a local appointment at Cincinati, as compensation for his influence, offered to furnish him with the original copy of a contract to supply the State of Ohio with patent ballot-boxes, which was signed by his competitor, and was, to say the least, a very dishonorable one. It was several weeks before the Governor was able to obtain the copy which Wood promised him, and, in the meantime, he induced the authorities at Cincinnati to postpone the appointment Wood was seeking until he (Foraker) gave the word. Foraker also employed a detective to follow up Wood and see that he carried out his promise. Wood being pressed into a corner finally produced a paper signed not only by Campbell but by John Sherman, Representatives Butterworth and McKinley, and other prominent politicians, both in and out of Ohio.

ONLY TOO GLAD TO GET IT.

This paper, which, if genuine, was sufficient evidence to condemn the political morality of all the men whose names were signed to it, was immediately accepted by the Governor, who, in his testimony, says he took no pains to ascertain whether it was genuine or not. The reason he gives for not seeking corroborating evidence is that he recognized Campbell's signature as genuine, and when he saw Senator Sherman's name he was willing to believe almost anything. He did not approach those gentlemen, he says, to ascertain whether their signatures were genuine or not, because it seemed to him a very indelicate thing to go to a man and ask him if he was guilty of such conduct; but he gave the document to Mr. Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, who agreed with him that the document was genuine, and afterward published it. He explained in extenuation that he did send for a volume of biography which contained portraits and engraved autographs of the men involved, and compared these engraved autographs with the signatures on the contract. He also admitted that he had known Wood—whom he denounced yesterday as an infamous scoundrel—for fifteen years, and that he had paid him $320 to cover his expenses in obtaining this paper. This is the story of Foraker in brief.

The witness Walters testified that Wood secured for him an autograph book containing the names of forty or fifty Congressmen.

WOOD'S CONFESSION.

Wood made a clean confession, telling the committee that he proposed to tell the truth if it took his head off. He confessed that he forged the document. He said that he sought the local office alluded to at the suggestion of Jim Foraker, the Governor's brother, and that the Governor himself said he would indorse Wood if the latter would do a little "hustling" for him. The hustling was to get a copy of a document which, he said, had been drawn up in Butterworth's office. Butterworth had been opposed to his renomination, was opposed to his re-election, and he proposed to prove that Butterworth was disreputable. When he gave the document to the Governor he did not tell him the signatures were forged, or that the contract was fictitious, but he advised the Governor that it had better not be published or shown to any one. He said, in answer to a question, that Foraker ought to have known from what he told him that the paper was not genuine, and that when he delivered the paper Foraker remarked that the signatures were all written with the same ink and that they looked like forgeries. The witness expected that Foraker would examine the signatures closely and then return the paper to him as worthless, and was very much surprised that he did not do so.

FORAKER HAD A ROD IN PICKLE.

The facts of the matter are that a feud among the Ohio politicians grew out of Foraker's conduct at the Chicago National Convention, and that when he was renominated for Governor Butterworth openly refused to support him, Sherman went to Europe, and McKinley took no part in the canvass. The Governor sought the assistance of Wood, to obtain some evidence that he could use on the stump against Campbell, his opponent, and Wood, knowing his feeling toward Sherman, Butterworth, and McKinley, added their names with that of Campbell to the disreputable contract because he felt that Foraker would be gratified. The latter seized the document and began to use it on the stump without investigation until it fell into the hands of Halstead, who published it without authority. Foraker never intended that it should be published, but held back as a mysterious and potent instrument in the campaign and shown only to a few leading Republicans.

FORAKER'S A DEAD DUCK.

The Ballot-Box Forgery Disclosures Effectually Squelching Him Politically.

[Columbus (Ohio) dispatch.]

The evidence given by R. G. Wood in the ballot-box contract forgery investigation excites much talk here. Those of ex-Gov. Foraker's own party who are not of his clique do not hesitate to say the case looks very bad for him. "The best that can be said of it for Gov. Foraker," said one of them this evening, "is that the Governor, by continually importuning the man Wood to get a paper for him that would put Mr. Campbell, if not some of his own party, in a bad light, and by holding out the inducement of political preferment, drove him to commit the forgery. We can regard Mr. Foraker as an accomplice in the forgery or not, just as we please. He admits enough to put him in the class of unscrupulous tricksters in politics." Of course his friends, the Republicans who belonged to the same clique with the ex-Governor, maintain that he is simply the victim of a treacherous fellow with whom he had dealings in the conduct of an honorable campaign, but it seems to be the general verdict that Foraker is dead politically and can never expect anything again at the hands of his party. He has made lasting enemies of Sherman, McKinley, Butterworth, Grosvenor, and all the acknowledged leaders of the Republican party, without whose combined power he cannot hope to successfully win again.

Foraker's Part.

[From the Chicago Herald.]

No one is astonished at the facts that have come out in regard to the part taken by ex-Governor Foraker in the Campbell forgery case. It is in perfect consonance with his political record as a dangerous blatherskite and an unscrupulous politician, a fit companion for Dudley and others of that stripe. Like Dudley, Foraker is a representative Republican politician, willing and anxious to stoop to any depth of infamy to win a bad cause.

Foraker's action was meaner than that of a man that forges a check, because his act had in view the ruining of the reputation of an honest man; and to an honest man reputation is more precious than money. But no one is surprised at learning that Foraker assisted in forging Campbell's name. Perhaps if his record were investigated other villainies might be brought to light.

The Dependent Pension Bill.

The pension business will yet bring the Harrison administration to grief. "Pensions for all" was the rock of its salvation in the last Presidential election, and "pensions for all" will be the rock on which it will split in the next Presidential election. It will be impossible for it to satisfy the Grand Army without offending the people, and impossible to satisfy the people without offending the Grand Army. It must make up its mind to lose the Grand Army or the people at large three years hence.

Of the two horns of the dilemma the administration will, of course, choose to satisfy the Grand Army first, because that is now the clamorous party. Accordingly, the President has recommended and Senator Davis, of Minnesota, has reported a bill providing for the payment of $12 a month to every man who was in the army or navy for three months and was honorably discharged, and who is now dependent and incapacitated, not through his own vicious habits. There is very little doubt that this bill, or some similar bill, will pass Congress and become a law. Of course it will cost a good deal of money to pay these pensions. The nation is paying out about $100,000,000 for that purpose now, and as soon as this new pension law gets into operation the amount will have to be doubled.

When the Government has got well started in the payment of $200,000,000 a year for pensions, and when its other running expenses have increased considerably, as they necessarily will within a year or two, there will be no more anxiety to get rid of the surplus. If there is anything left of it, the building of ninety new war ships, which is also on the programme, will more than absorb it. So that the prospect is that within two or three years the nation will not be troubled to spend its money, but will be troubled to meet its expenses, and that, instead of seeking how to reduce taxation, the administration will have to find some way to increase it, in order to keep the wheels of government turning.

The people are busy making money now, and are giving no heed to what Congress is doing. The people will give no heed to it until the harm is done and the damage begins to be felt. But when it will be too late for the administration to retreat or to retrieve itself, the people will wake up and drive it out of power. The popular dissatisfaction, however, so far as pensions are concerned, will be founded not on the amount of treasure expended but on the fact that it is expended indiscriminately and on undeserving persons. Senator Davis' bill should have been entitled, "A bill to put a premium on fraud and pauperism." It is a matter of impossibility, in the majority of cases, to determine what the disability of an old man is the result of. His vices may be known and they may not be known. An old soldier may have got drunk in Vermont, and fallen down and hurt his knee, in 1870. Then he may have moved to Kansas, and now he may have rheumatism in that knee. But no human skill can ever find out the truth about it if he chooses to lie about it. Consequently, in many cases, he will put in a fraudulent claim. So it will be with a majority of the claimants under this bill.

It is a well-known fact that the people of this country, including a great many of the really patriotic soldiers of the last war, regard the pension business, even as it is conducted now, a sickening fraud. But what will they think of it when this dependent pension bill gets into operation? It is morally certain that they will feel so indignant that they will drive into life-long obscurity every man who plunged the country into such a quagmire of extravagance and corruption. Time makes all things even.—Chicago Herald.

Two More Rotten Boroughs.

Little can be said with truth regarding the proposition to take Wyoming and Idaho into the Union except that it is a scheme of Republicans to secure the party control of the United States Senate, which, as things are, might be lost even with the gains made by the admission of the Dakotas and Washington, and to add to the Republican vote in the electoral college. Wyoming and Idaho as States of the Union would be simply rotten boroughs, like Nevada, which had a larger voting population when it became a State than Idaho has to-day. At the election of 1888 the vote of Idaho was 16,013 and that of Wyoming 18,010. Agriculture can never be an important factor in either territory owing to the absence of seasonable rains and the limited possibilities in the way of irrigation, to which must be added (especially as relates to Idaho) the extreme northern latitude and the generally great altitude, which produce short summers and long, cold nights. Idaho will never possess a prosperity more stable than that characteristic of a mining country, while Wyoming will probably be but a range country, with sparse population and uncertain returns on the capital invested in its herds. Gov. Moonlight, indeed, in his last report to the Secretary of the Interior, expressed the opinion that Wyoming was not then (1888) nor ever would be fit for statehood, with its added burden of taxation, etc. The purpose of the majority in Congress is made all the more apparent by the refusal to consider the claims of New Mexico, a Democratic Territory with resources far beyond those of either Idaho or Wyoming, and which cast a total of 30,613 votes, nearly as much as both of the Republican Territories combined. The partisanship of the new admission scheme is too evident to require comment, coupled as it is with the injustice which it is proposed to inflict upon the most populous (except Utah) of all the Territories. It is the duty of the minority in Congress to resist the consummation of so rank a bit of partisan legislation.—Exchange.

Cleveland and the Tariff.

[New York special.]

Morrison Munford, editor of the Kansas City Times, who is visiting New York, has had an interesting interview with ex-President Cleveland. From the account which he telegraphed his paper the following portions of general interest are taken:

Mr. Cleveland has lost none of the zeal for tariff reform which inspired his celebrated message. "It is a most gratifying thing to me," he said, "that the masses as well as the leaders of the party are taking hold of the tariff issue with such spirit and evident determination to win. Even now, when there are no elections pending, they are discussing this question with as much earnestness as if in the heat of a Presidential campaign."

I then said to Mr. Cleveland that the Democratic party was already preparing for 1892 and looking forward to that campaign with expectancy and confidence, and that the sentiment was virtually unanimous that he should be our leader.

"As to that," he replied, "it is the cause and not personal consideration that should concern us. I am so well situated now that if I consulted my own feelings I would prefer to have some one else take the lead. It is not a matter of men but of principles. There ought to be no halt until the ends aimed at are compassed and the people are in full possession of the benefits and blessings which an accumulation of inequalities, called into existence by apathy on one side and self-interest on the other, has diverted from them."

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

WORK OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed and Acted On.

IN the Senate, on the 21st inst., Mr. Blair presented a number of petitions praying for the passage of the Blair educational bill. Mr. Quay introduced a bill to present to the Gettysburg Memorial Association specimens of the arms and equipments used by the Union army during the war. Mr. Berry made a few remarks in favor of the bill to instruct the Census Commissioner to ascertain what percentage of farms in the United States are under mortgage or free from incumbrance. Some discussion of the bill followed Mr. Berry's remarks, and then calendar business was taken up and the following bills were passed: The Senate bill to create the offices of Surveyor General for the States of South Dakota and North Dakota; the Senate bill granting to the State of California 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the cash sales of public lands in the State; the Senate bill creating three additional land offices in Colorado; the Senate joint resolution granting authority for the removal of the Apache Indian prisoners and their families from Alabama to Fort Sill, Indian Territory. The Senate then went into executive session and adjourned soon after. In the House a hot discussion arose over the absence of rules. A demand was made for a division on the pending question when the right to such a demand in the absence of rules was questioned. This led to a general discussion over the absence of rules in which Messrs. Mills, Crisp, Oates, and others on the Democratic side denounced the delay of the Committee on Rules and the majority side of the House for the delay in offering and adopting rules. Mr. Carlisle also spoke, urging that the rules of the last Congress be considered a precedent upon which the enforcement of common parliamentary law should be based, but also urging that definite rules be adopted. On the Republican side Messrs. Cannon, Payne, and Boutelle spoke. The Speaker ruled that under common parliamentary law the right to demand tellers does not exist. Mr. Mills appealed from the decision, and a yea and nay vote was ordered on a motion to table Mills' appeal. The motion was carried by a strict party vote. The House spent the afternoon on the Oklahoma bill and adjourned at 5:30.

IN the Senate on the 22d Senator Chandler presented a concurrent resolution directing the House and Senate committees on immigration to investigate the immigration laws and asked its immediate consideration. Laid over. Discussion of the resolution relative to ascertaining the percentage of farms under mortgage through the census bureau followed. Mr. Teller moved that it be recommitted to the Census Committee. Adopted—yeas, 32; nays, 20. Calendar business was then taken up and a number of bills passed, among them the bill to present badges to the officers and men of the Greely Relief Expedition. The Senate then went into executive session and shortly afterward adjourned. In the House Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio, from the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, reported back the Senate joint resolution appropriating $250,000 for the removal of snags and other obstructions from the Missouri River between St. Joseph and its mouth. The committee proposed a substitute reducing the appropriation to $75,000, and appropriating $75,000 for the removal of snags from the Columbia River, Oregon. On motion of Mr. Hermann of Oregon, the substitute was amended so that the appropriation for the Columbia River may be expended for continuing the jetty work. The substitute was agreed to and the joint resolution as amended passed. The Oklahoma town-site bill, after some unimportant amendments, was passed. The bill as passed provides for the appointment of five boards of commissioners, each board to consist of three members, to make entry of town sites in Oklahoma and examine the claims of occupants to lots which they claim to have entered, and to make titles to those whose proof is sufficient and proper. The members of these boards are to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, and may be selected from any part of the country, and shall receive as compensation $10 per day during their term of service.

IN the Senate on the 23d Mr. Vest presented the credentials of W. M. Clark and Martin Maginnis, as Senators-elect from the State of Montana. They were read and referred (on Mr. Vest's motion) to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. On his motion, also, the four gentlemen claiming to be Senators-elect were admitted (pending the contest) to the privileges of the floor. A number of bills were then reported and placed on the calendar, after which a bill appropriating $500,000 for work at the mouth of the Columbia River was passed, as were also the following: Appropriating $61,000 for the removal of a dangerous obstruction at the entrance of Milwaukee harbor; establishing a light station at Gladstone, Mich. ($10,000); to place Gen. George Stoneman on the retired list as Colonel of infantry; and the Chandler joint resolution for the investigation of immigration matters. Senator Ingalls then spoke on the Southern race question, and the Senate adjourned to the 27th. In the House the bill appropriating $61,000 for the removal of obstructions from the mouth of the harbor at Milwaukee was passed. The House then took up the bill from the Ways and Means Committee making changes in the laws affecting the collection of customs, and defining the methods to be pursued by custom house officials. An adjournment was taken without a vote upon the bill, which is very long, and will require several days for consideration. The report of the Committee on Elections in the Smith-Jackson case was submitted to the House and recommitted.

THE House on the 24th went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair) for the further consideration of the customs-administrative bill. The pending amendment was that offered by Mr. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, to section 15, providing for the holding of merchandise by the Government during the pending of any controversy or litigation about the amount of duty to be paid. Mr. La Follette, Wisconsin, offered an amendment to the amendment providing that perishable goods may be withdrawn pending litigation. This was agreed to, but the Bayne amendment, as amended, was defeated. Mr. Carlisle offered a substitute for the whole section, the chief effect of which is to allow the courts to determine the question of fact as well as of law. The substitute was lost—112 to 124. This leaves the fifteenth section as originally reported. On motion of Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, an amendment was adopted—107 to 104—providing that this section shall not apply to merchandise imported in cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and other covering, which is subject to a rate of duty equal to or greater than 60 per cent. The committee then rose. On motion of Mr. Perkins, of Kansas, a joint resolution was passed appropriating $75,000 for the purchase of food and clothing for Indians at the La Pointe Agency. Mr. Peters, of Kansas, introduced a bill to promote the interests of agriculture by irrigation. Referred. Adjourned. The Senate was not in session.

The Deadly Cold Bed.

If trustworthy statistics could be had of the number of persons who die every year, or become permanently diseased from sleeping in damp or cold beds, they would probably be astonishing and appalling, says Good Housekeeping. It is a peril that constantly besets traveling men, and if they are wise they will invariably insist on having their beds aired and dried, even at the risk of causing much trouble to their landlords. But the peril resides in the home, and the cold "spare room" has slain its thousands of hapless guests, and will go on with its slaughter till persons learn wisdom. Not only the guest but the family often suffer the penalty of sleeping in cold rooms, and chilling their bodies at a time when they need all their bodily heat, by getting between cold sheets. Even in warm summer weather a cold damp bed will get in its deadly work. It is a needless peril, and the neglect to provide dry rooms and beds has in it the elements of murder and suicide.

Life Periods of Animals.

A bear rarely exceeds 20 years.

A tortoise has been known to live to the age of 107.

A squirrel or hare lives 6 or 8 years; rabbits 7 years.

A dog lives 20 years; a wolf 20; a fox 14 to 16 years.

Elephants have been known to live to the age of 400 years.

Sheep seldom exceed the age of 10, and cows live about 15 years.

Camels sometimes live to the age of 100; stags are long-lived.

A swan has attained the age of 200 years; pelicans are long-lived.

Cuvier considers it probable that whales sometimes live 1,000 years.

A horse has been known to live to the age of 62, but averages from 20 to 30.

Pigs have been known to live to the age of 30 years; the rhinoceros to 20.

Insects, as a general rule, are short-lived, though there are a good many exceptions to the rule.—Minneapolis Tribune.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDER,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

THE BEAUTY OF THE SEASON.

BY L. B. W.

To be the first at ball or hop,
To have bouquets by dozens;
To wake the boyish love of male,
And hate of female, cousins;
To say and do just what you please,
And without "rhyme or reason,"
And yet be pleased—this is to be
The "Beauty of the Season."

You're witching; there's no doubt of that,
Your very smile is winning;
One glance from those bewildering eyes
Sets hearts and heads a-spinning.
But when a suitor comes for life,
You flirt beyond all reason;
And so you'll die an old maid yet,
My "Beauty of the Season."

SPECTER OF THE CLIFFS

An Adventure in the Far West.

BY AD H. GIBSON.

THE bold, far-sweeping Rockies were veiled in the purple shadows that succeed early nightfall.

Earnest Tune was belated. He had been in pursuit of mountain grouse up a wild, interminable canyon, and he was now returning to camp over a rough, rocky way, leading through lonely gorges, such as one sees nowhere as in the picturesque State of Colorado. His pony had that day lost a shoe. Hence, it was not possible to urge the animal rapidly over the uneven road, or Tune, much as he wished to get back to his comrade at the camp, disliked to be inhuman enough to do so.

Occasionally, his path would be surrounded by high, dark, frowning ridges of rock, whispering pine trees clung lonesomely, and seemed to awe into murmurless subjection the dwarf cedars below them. Then, again, down into picturesque gullies, with limpid mountain streams urging their torturous courses among the eternally silent bowlders that jutted ever and anon across the canyons and gulches through which he guided his pony.

At one of these beautiful streams Earnest Tune reined in and permitted the thirsty animal to drink. One by one the stars had crept out in the violet vault above, so far, far above, from horse and rider in the gorge. Dense shadows lurked about and refused to yield space to the dainty starlight that dared invade those dark, gloom-enshrouded recesses. The young man looked about him. The night was calm. The scene was sublime. Here the din and tinsel display of boasted civilization were unknown. To a young fellow used all his life to a home in a gay Eastern city, the gulch, with its gloomy mountains reaching away phantasmally into the night, held something inexpressibly fascinating, almost divine. To his right, and overlooking the spot where he had paused, loomed bold, outstanding cliffs, their rugged sides here and there clothed in meager patches of spruce and pine, their summits gray, vague and barren, as if Ceres and Flora had united in afflicting them with an irremovable, blighting curse. As his eyes swept the shadowy cliffs he started and almost leaped from his saddle. Earnest Tune was an educated man and not given to superstition and wild imaginings. He had always hooted the idea of supernatural visitations. But now! He was confronted by an apparition as beautiful as it was startling. Brave as he was, he felt his blood grow chilly, and he seemed deprived of the power to speak or stir.

The spectacle that enchained his gaze was a most lovely object, ghostly though it was. A beautiful girl, clad in a white, flowing dress, with wild masses of midnight tresses falling around a pale, delicate face, stood revealed on the lone mountain side. She stood directly within the halo of a strange, greenish light that glowed steadily, casting its deathly hues around the weird yet namelessly lovely figure of the cliffs.

"Great heavens!" he managed at last to articulate, though his voice was hoarse and unnatural. "Am I in a dream? How awful, yet how beautiful!"

With one pale hand she motioned him away, away. But Earnest sat as if transfixed, and continued to gaze with terrified fascination upon the spectral object of the cliffs. What could she mean by waving him off?

Suddenly the animal ceased drinking, lifted its head, saw the specter in all its beauty and awfulness, uttered a snort of terror, and ere the spell-bound rider knew it the pony had cleared the rocky stream, leaped away through the dusk of the gorge, and was rapidly bearing him from the ghostly vision on the mountain.

When Earnest succeeded in quieting down his animal, they had got too far to go back. He was venturesome enough to do so, and resolved to investigate the mystery on the following night, alone, if he could not persuade his friend to accompany him. The pony trembled in every limb and showed evidence of deep fright.

Very soon horse and rider stopped before a tent in a charming green valley, not more than two miles from the haunted cliffs. Earnest dismounted, put his horse away, and entered the tent, where his comrade was waiting supper for him.

Earnest Tune and Willard Rollerton were young men from New York, out on a sporting expedition in the West. Rollerton, a good-looking, well-made, dark-eyed fellow, was engaged to pretty Gertrude Tune, Earnest's only sister. The marriage was set for early winter, and the young friends were enjoying an outing in Colorado ere the wedding came off.

As Earnest entered the tent, Willard greeted him:

"Hello! you didn't find the grouse? But, I say, old pard, you are as pale as a spook."

"Am I?" Earnest said, as indifferently as he could; and he removed his hat and approached his friend, saying: "Just have the kindness to tell me if I have turned gray."

Willard playfully ran his fingers through the luxuriant gold-brown curls of his sweetheart's brother (so like the tresses he loved), and answered laughingly: "I find no silver threads among the gold. But what mystery have you to unfold? I know from your manner you have met with some adventure. Come, let us eat, and as we do so, you can recount any thrilling Ute encounter or spectral vision that you may have been favored with."

And Earnest obeyed. As they ate their supper of delicious, fresh wild game, he told Willard all that we have told the reader with regard to the specter of the cliffs. Willard listened with strange interest as his friend described the lonely vision. What could it be? He agreed at once to assist Earnest in investigating the mystery.

"How far are the cliffs from here?"

"Not more than two miles," Earnest Tune replied.

"Then, as it is early, let us go this very night. Come, let us load our guns and be equipped should any danger menace us," Willard said in a cautious way, as they finished a hasty meal.

They were soon capped and equipped for their adventure.

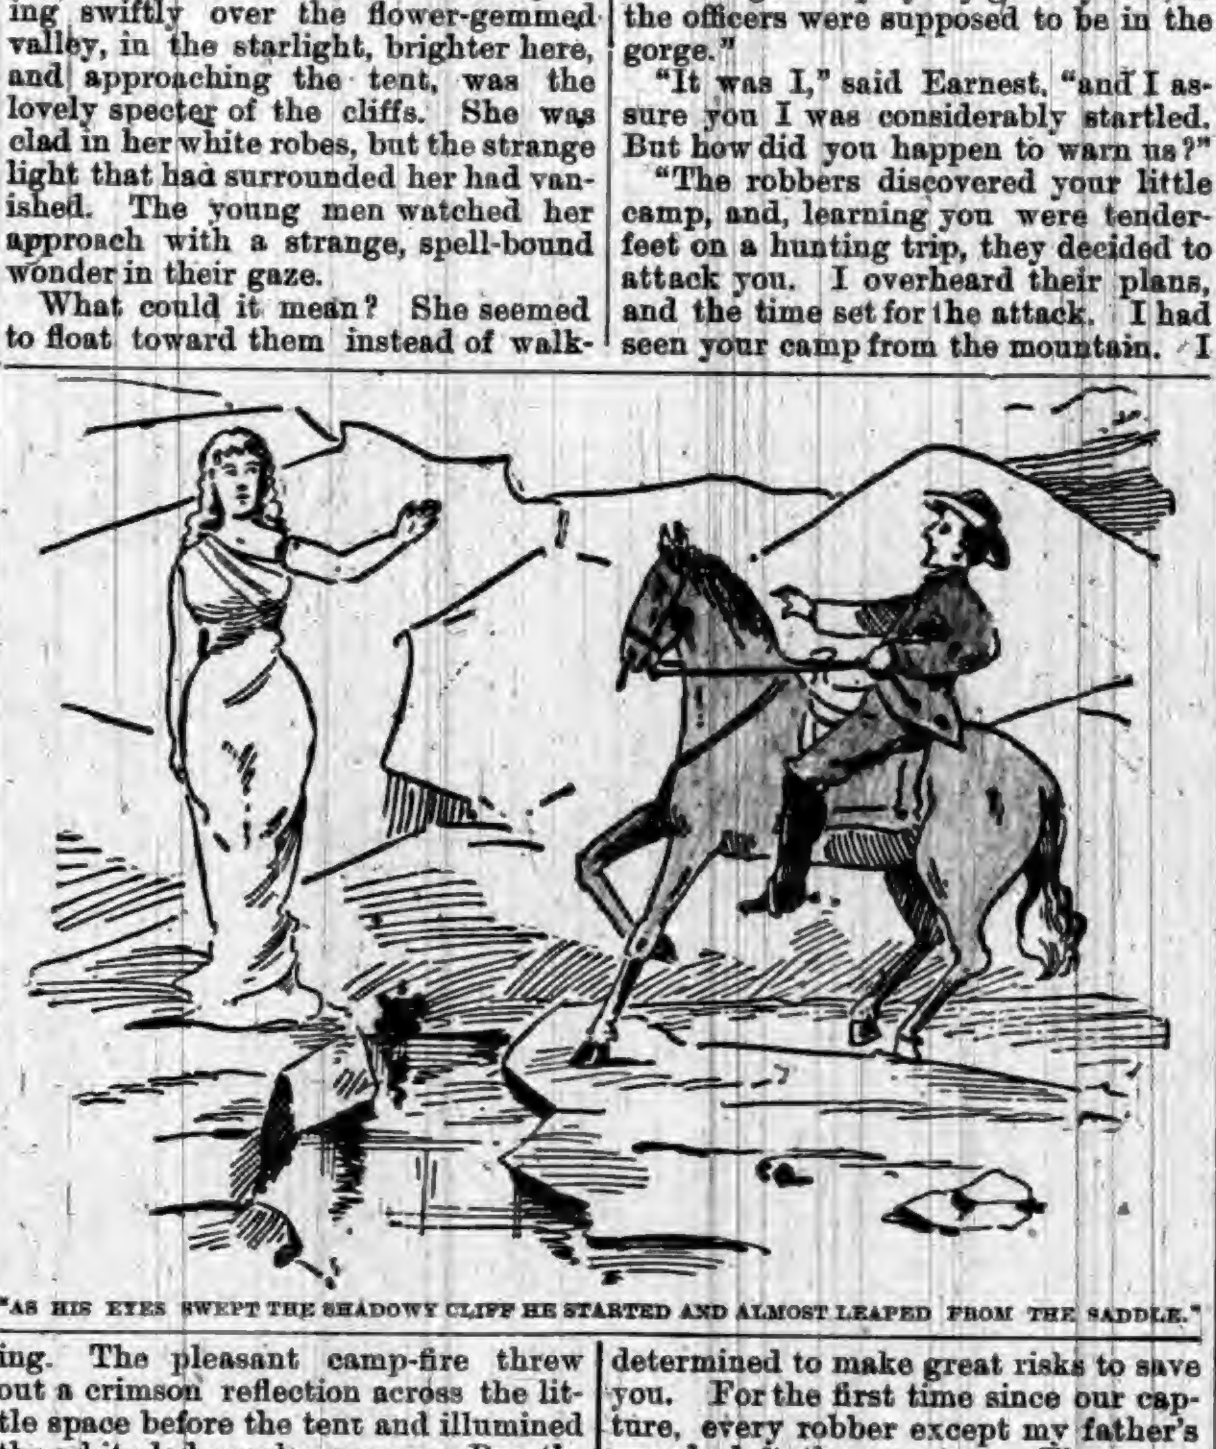
"Now lead the way, Earnest. I never saw a ghost in my life, and I am all impatient to see one."

"Perhaps the visionary maiden will not appear again to-night. But I hope she may. Willard," suddenly changing his tone, "how does it happen that you never thought to doubt my strange story? Perhaps I imagined it all."

"Your looks and manner convinced me at once that something unusual had happened to you. I do not doubt that you saw what you have related. But to discover what it really is, is my mission. I never see anything mysterious but I try to ascertain its real nature. Now lead on."

Earnest started to do so. But when he gained the door of the tent he became rooted to the spot. There, gliding swiftly over the flower-gemmed valley, in the starlight, brighter here, and approaching the tent, was the lovely specter of the cliffs. She was clad in her white robes, but the strange light that had surrounded her had vanished. The young men watched her approach with a strange, spell-bound wonder in their gaze.

What could it mean? She seemed to float toward them instead of walking. The pleasant camp-fire threw out a crimson reflection across the little space before the tent and illumined the white lady as she came on. Breathlessly Earnest and Willard awaited her approach. She drew near and halted a few feet from them. Making a motion to secure their silence by placing the lily fingers of her shapely hand over her lips, she spoke:



"AS HIS EYES SWEPT THE SHADOWY CLIFF HE STARTED AND ALMOST LEAPED FROM THE SADDLE."

"Not a word—not a question. If you would save your lives, follow me."

Not like a ghost's sepulchral voice, but like the dulcet ripples of a gentle cascade among mountain fastnesses, came those words of peculiar import.

"Follow me," repeated the voice. "You will soon be in peril. I will lead you to a place of safety."

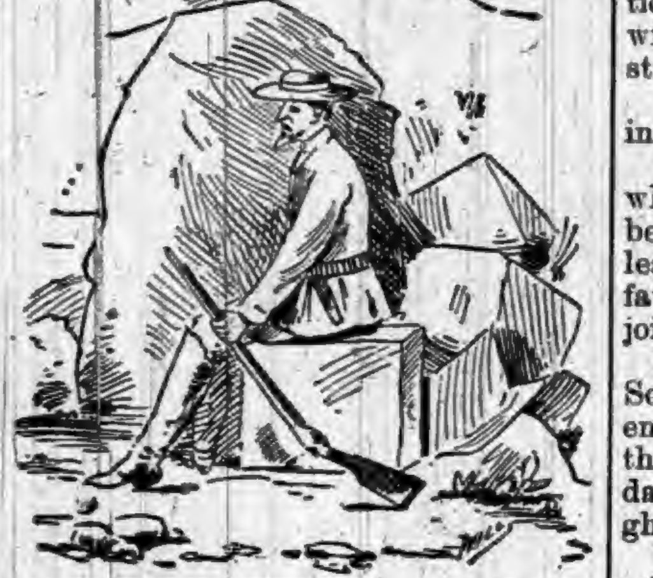
Should they heed the voice? The strange vision, or whatever it was, started away across the valley, beckoning them to follow. It was too much for Earnest Tune and Willard Rollerton, in the flush and wonder of their adventurous young manhood, to resist. They never paused to question the plausibility of the sudden warning. They shouldered their guns and set forth at a rapid gait, following closely in the rear of the specter of the cliffs.

Dimly through the gloom of the gorge they followed their odd guide. From what danger unseen was she conducting them? They never stopped to ask themselves, but kept on.

She might be leading them into a trap. So intent were they on solving the mystery they never gave that fear a thought.

On and on she led them. Over hard, uneven, rocky paths, over dangerous chasms where a single misstep would have proved certain death, and on into the dark mountains they went.

At last the ghostly guide stopped under a large, shelving crag that jutted out over a considerable space of the gorge below. The pine trees of funereal darkness sighed and moaned, like lost spirits, in the mountain wind. Wild, dreary and lonesome the spot was. Earnest and Willard came also to a halt.



"A SOLITARY MAN SITTING ON A FLAT STONE."

The spirit maiden again spoke: "Here you are safe."

Earnest, who could control his curiosity no longer, cried through the gloom that divided them from their guide:

"Are you spirit or flesh? For God's sak, speak, I entreat you!"

A low, silvery laugh answered him. A specter laugh! Oh, horrible!

"Draw nearer, and I shall answer you," the sweet voice said. The young men did as requested. They leaned on their guns and awaited the information almost breathlessly.

"The superstitious Indians and miners about this gulch call me the 'Specter Maiden of the Cliffs,' the spirit of an emigrant's daughter murdered here several years ago by a party of Mormon Danites disguised as Indians."

The young men felt a thrill of horror run through them.

She went on:

"Such a dark deed really did occur years ago in this very gorge. Taking advantage of that fact and the superstition of the natives, my captors have made me play specter on the cliffs around this crag."

An exclamation of surprise burst from the listeners and Earnest asked:

"Your captors? Who are they? Tell us and we will gladly rescue you.

"Listen. My father and I were encamped near here nearly two years ago. One dark night a band of men dressed as Utes attacked us. They robbed us of everything, sparing our lives only on our promise to go quietly with them to their mountain fastnesses. Life was dearer than death, so we accepted the chief's terms. Our captors proved to be a band of robbers, white outlaws and half-breed fiends. Most of the men have Indian wives and live in the mountains near this gorge. I was treated kindly, after their rough fashion. My father has been confined a close prisoner in a cave. The chief agrees to release him only on his word of honor to espouse outlawry and aid in their dark acts. Of course he refuses.

"The officers from one of the neighboring towns, where a bank was robbed a year ago, have been searching for the robbers' quarters. Their guides are Indians. Knowing their belief in ghosts and such like spectral phenomena, I was made to dress in white to scare them away from this part. Strange lights were put at my feet, and I suppose my appearance was truly frightful. Anyway, the ghost business acted like a charm in scaring away the poor red guides. Only this evening I was obliged to play my ghostly role, as the officers were supposed to be in the gorge."

"It was I," said Earnest, "and I assure you I was considerably startled. But how did you happen to warn us?"

"The robbers discovered your little camp, and, learning you were tenderfeet on a hunting trip, they decided to attack you. I overheard their plans, and the time set for the attack. I had seen your camp from the mountain. I determined to make great risks to save you. For the first time since our capture, every robber except my father's guard, left the quarters. Then was my time. Telling the chief's squaw that I had to go to the cliffs to play specter, I easily got away."

"God bless you, noble girl," said Willard, sincerely. "You have not told us your name."

"My name is Olive Glissom," she said, simply.

"Olive Glissom!" repeated Willard Rollerton, in an excited voice. "Are you the daughter of Abner Glissom, of C., in Ohio?"

"Abner Glissom is my father."

"Abner Glissom is my mother's youngest brother, and you are my own cousin, Olive," cried the young fellow joyfully, pressing warmly the little hand she permitted him to take.

"Cousin Willard, I am glad to know you; and how sorry I am that the foolish coolness between our parents has prevented our ever meeting. How strange to meet you here."

"It is, indeed. But how happened it that you and Uncle Abner came out to these wilds?"

"Father was unfortunate in his business in Ohio. So we started to the Colorado mines, only to fall into these robbers' hands."

"My poor Olive!" said her newly found kinsman, sympathetically. "But let us not waste time. Tune and I are well armed. Lead the way and we will rescue your father at all hazards."

"We must be cautious," said the brave, beautiful girl. "All depends on caution. I happen to know where the officers are watching to-night. It is not far. We will approach the cave where poor father has been held so long a prisoner. We will go by a back path with which I am well acquainted. We will attempt the rescue, and God grant we may be successful. Then we will go to the officers and ask protection, for we are as nothing compared with the outlaws in numbers and strength."

"Why not get the officers' help first?" inquired Willard.

"Because that would take time, which must not be wasted. The robbers will not return for an hour at least. By that time we can have father rescued and be on our way to join the officers."

It was decided to follow Olive's plan. So, following her down the gorge, they entered a rough, steep path ascending the mountain. The girl had thrown a dark cloak about her, concealing her ghostly attire.

Under cover of the night and the solemn, brooding cedars, they drew near the cave. Dimly, as they peered from behind a large rock, they could make out a solitary man sitting on a flat stone by the mouth. Creeping softly, slyly toward him, Olive Glisson flung her cloak over the head of the unsuspecting guard. He attempted to cry out, but her able assistants were too quick for him and had him gagged and bound before he had uttered a syllable. Then Abner Glissome, pale and thin from long confinement, was released. He was surprised and delighted beyond measure to learn that one of his rescuers was the son of the sister from whom he had long suffered estrangement.

They found the officers easily and sent them on the robbers' trail. The chief was captured, with some of his most notorious allies, and the mountain gang was broken up.

Our friends reached New York safely, and then a happy reunion took place. There followed a double wedding at Christmas time, when "peace on earth" found a true echo in each heart.

Won't She Make It Hot for Him.

Miss Colman, whom Prof. Stuart is to marry, is the eldest daughter of the great mustard man. Mr. Coleman, who is one of the members for Norwich, is also a great Radical, and it is with him that the Radical politicians on the stump in the eastern counties generally stay. He is a very wealthy man.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE wings of the house were surprised when the chimney flue.

Not What He Meant.

Young Husband (inspecting a pair of newly-mended stockings)—Why, this darn——

Young Wife (interrupting) — Oh, Charley! Please don't swear about it. Don't use such language. I did the best I knew. Oh, boo hoo! boo hoo!

Young Husband (comforting the distressed)—Why, Myrtie love, what's the matter? I only started to say this darning was simply superb.—Drake's Magazine.

The Complications of Modern Society.

Clara—I thought you had decided that everything was over between you and Harry, and yet you've been sitting there for an hour thinking of him.

Maud (dejectedly)—Well, I can't make up my mind whether it would be better to sue him for breach of promise or make up with him, marry, and then sue for divorce and alimony.—Drake's Magazine.

Hateful Blood Relations.

Hateful kindred are those sprung from the parent stem—malaria. They are chills and fever, bilious remittent fever, dumb ague, and ague cake. These foes to bodily peace are all blood relations, as there is no doubt that these endemic complaints are produced by contamination of the blood by the miasmata existent in both air and water in malarious regions. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters expels from the blood the virus with which miasma infects, but it does more than this, it neutralizes the atmospheric and aqueous poison and its germs before they have permanently fructified in the system, and thus effectually protects it against the fierce inroads of this diabolic brotherhood of diseases. Thus it is not only a remedy, but also a preventive, prompt in relieving, lasting in effect, perfectly efficient. Nervousness, biliousness, dyspepsia, and kidney trouble also succumb to it.

Strangers.

The mercury—What is that singular swelling in the lower portion of your slender form?

The tube—That is the bulb, to which you yourself have often retired when chilly.

The mercury—Aw—er—beg pardon! But, really, it has been so long since I went that way that I had entirely forgotten there was such a place.—Pittsburgh Bulletin.

A MAN who has practiced medicine for forty years ought to know salt from sugar. Read what he says:

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most forty years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Yours truly, L. L. GORUSHC, M. D.,
Office, 215 Summit street.

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

It Was a Clear Case.

Boarding mistress (after watching a boarder eat three sausages with great celerity)—You must be an Odd Fellow, sir?

Boarder—You've guessed it; but how did you know?

Mistress—I knew you must be by the familiar way in which you handled those three links.—Lowell Citizen.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

THOUGH barbers, like other men, can only vote once, they spend a great deal of time around the polls.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass, and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address the Oregon Immigration Board, Portland, Oregon.

A SHOE manufacturing company is not a soleless corporation.—Merchant Traveler.

The Standard

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well-known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alterative and tonic it has never been equaled, and physicians are glad to have their patients take so reliable and trustworthy a medicine."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM COLD in HEAD, SNUFFLES OR CATARRH

CATARRH
THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE
ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c
HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup.

There is certainly something remarkable in this preparation, as it is meeting with a success never attained by any other medicine. It never fails if used as directed.

For over twenty years I have been a great sufferer from the effects of a diseased stomach, and for three years past have been unable to do business. Two years ago my case was pronounced incurable. I visited different water cures and climates, all to no purpose. Last June I began taking Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup (prepared by Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.), and at once began to feel better. I have used thirteen bottles and am a well man.

EDWARD BAKER,
Master Mechanic and Blacksmith, 202 Jackson street, Jackson, Mich.

Must Do Something.

Customer (in drug store)—Give me about ten grains of quinine in four ounces of whisky. My physician says if I don't take plenty of quinine I'm a dead man.

Clerk—Sorry, sir, but we're all out of quinine; there's a car load on the way.

Customer—I s'pose there is; but it doesn't do me any good. Well, give me eight ounces of whisky, then—I've got to do something for this terrible malaria.—Epoch.

Don't Fool

Away precious time and money and trifle with your health experimenting with uncertain medicines, when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is so positively certain in its curative action as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to cure diseases of the blood, skin, and scalp, and all scrofulous afflictions, or money paid for it will be refunded.

$500 REWARD offered for an incurable case of Catarrh by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cts., by druggists.

"TIME is the great physician." That is because he "moves with a leaden heal."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

The Remedy for the Influenza.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the influenza is Kemp's Balsam, the specific for coughs and colds, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease before securing the remedy, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the influenza has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

LARGE ears are said to denote generosity. The mule is very generous with his heels.—Philadelphia Call.

WHEN Dobbins' Electric Soap was first made in 1864 it cost 20 cents a bar. It is precisely the same ingredients and quality now and doesn't cost half. Buy it of your grocer and preserve your clothes. He will get it.

MINT statistics—the number of juleps dispensed by the bartender.—Boston Star.

"'BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES' are excellent for the relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are exceedingly effective."—Christian World, London, Eng.

TO WHAT geological formation does rock the cradle belong?—Somerville Journal.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

A ROLLER-SKATE is a nice skate, but an ice skate is not a roller-skate.

A 10c. smoke for 5c. "Tansill's Punch."

AN extension table—the multiplication table.—Texas Siftings.

ST. JACOBS OIL
CURES PERMANENTLY
NEURALGIA.

Instant Relief, First Application.

Boonville, Mo., Dec. 28, 1885.
I suffered dreadfully with neuralgic pains in head which affected face and eyes. I could not attend work. I obtained instantaneous relief from first application of St. Jacobs Oil.
H. M. CLARK.

Suffered 4 Days Severely.
4626 Penna. Ave., Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 18, 1889.
I suffered very severe pains from neuralgia for four days, but was cured by St. Jacobs Oil.
Mrs. JOHN KLEPPLE.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

CURES
LaGRIPPE

PALMER'S MAGNETIC INHALER
Patented June 12, 1888
Price, One Dollar.

The highest French medical authority defines "LA GRIPPE" as follows: "La grippe is a catarrhal affection, is epidemic, and is characterized by a congestion of the mucous membrane of the nose, pharyngeal and laryngeal bronchia, with feverish action, more or less pronounced, accompanied by headache and general fever."

Dr. Palmer, an eminent English phyrician, who has devoted a life of study to the subject of catarrh and diseases of the head, throat and lungs, some time since commenced a series of experiments with a view to determining whether any combination could be formed which would kill the parasite and act as a healing power at the same time. The result of his experiments was the introduction and rapid sale of his Magnetic Inhaler, the fumes of which, when inhaled, are refreshing and cooling, and for the immediate relief and speedy cure of headache and sore throat, which are the forerunners of LA GRIPPE, HAS NO EQUAL.

BE PREPARED

Because you cannot escape an attack of the most annoying disease that ever existed in this country, DR. PALMER'S MAGNETIC INHALER, if used at the commencement of an attack, is sure to break it up. Six persons employed in one establishment in Chicago were attacked with LA GRIPPE in one day, but a liberal application of the Inhaler through the nostrils and throat prevented their losing any time and saved a doctor's bill. Send for an INHALER at once. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Beware of imitation, as there are unscrupulous persons engaged in the manufacture of a spurious inhaler that strongly resembles the genuine.

Full directions, testimonials, etc., sent with each instrument.

Upon receipt of $1.00 I will send one Inhaler by mail, postage paid, or for $5.00 I will send six Inhalers to any address. E. A. GAVISK, General Western Agent, 271 Franklin St., Chicago, Ill.

MIDWINTER MUSIC.

Music as a Handmaid, stands ready to assist in all social pleasures and gaieties.

SOCIAL SINGING. "College Songs," (50 Cents.) "College Songs for Banjo, "Guitar," (each $1.) "Good Old Songs we used to sing" ($1.)

TEMPERANCE. "Temperance Crusade, (35c., or $3.60 doz.) Emerson & Morey. "Temperance Rallying Songs," (35 cts., or $3.60 doz.) Hull.

ANTHEM BOOKS. "Easy Anthems," (80 cts., or $7.20 doz.) Emerson. "Anthems of Praise," ($1 or $9 doz.) Emerson. "American Anthem Book," ($1.25 or $12 doz.) Dow's "Responses and Sentences," (80 cts. or $7.20 doz.)

EASY CANTATAS. Sacred: "Ruth and Boaz," (65 cts., $6 doz.) "Rebecca," (65 cts. or $6 doz. Secular: "Dairy Maids' Supper," (20 cts. or $1.80 doz.) "Garden of Singing Flowers," (40 cts. or $3.60 doz.)

Great Success of Our New $1 Music Books. "Piano Classics," Vol. 1 and Vol 2, "Popular Piano Collection," "Popular Dance Music Collection," "Song Classics for Sop.," "Song Classics for Alto," "Classic Baritone and Bass Songs," "Classic Tenor Songs. Each book $1.

MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, BOSTON.
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
867 Broadway, New York.

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. A Quick and Positive Restorer of Manly Vigor, and the only Legitimate Specific for Sexual Debility and Lost Vitality known. A Marvelous Invigorator, [illegible] By mail, $1, 6 for $5. Circulars free. DR. CATON, Boston.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to Learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Address VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY THE ONLY GUARANTEED BLOOD PURIFIER SARSAPARILLA
COPYRIGHT 1889

TALK IS CHEAP,

but it will only take a minute in which to state a few facts, that, if heeded, will prove invaluable to many. It's well-known that the press teems with advertisements of sarsaparillas and other liver, blood and lung remedies, for which great claims are made. They are generally represented as sure cures. But there is one medicine, and only one, the claims for which as a cure for all lingering diseases arising from Torpid Liver or Biliousness, or from impure blood, are backed up by a positive guarantee! If it don't do just as represented in every case, the money paid for it is promptly refunded.

This peculiar method of business, it will readily be seen, would bankrupt the manufacturers of the ordinary medicines in the market. Only a marvelously efficacious medicine, containing the most positive curative properties, could sustain itself under such trying conditions as these.

This peculiar medicine sells beyond all others throughout the civilized world. And why should it not? "Talk is cheap," but when it's backed up by a positive guarantee, by a house of long established reputation, for honesty, integrity and sound financial standing, then words mean business! And that's just what the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., mean in guaranteeing their Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to do all that it is recommended to do, or refund the price paid for it.

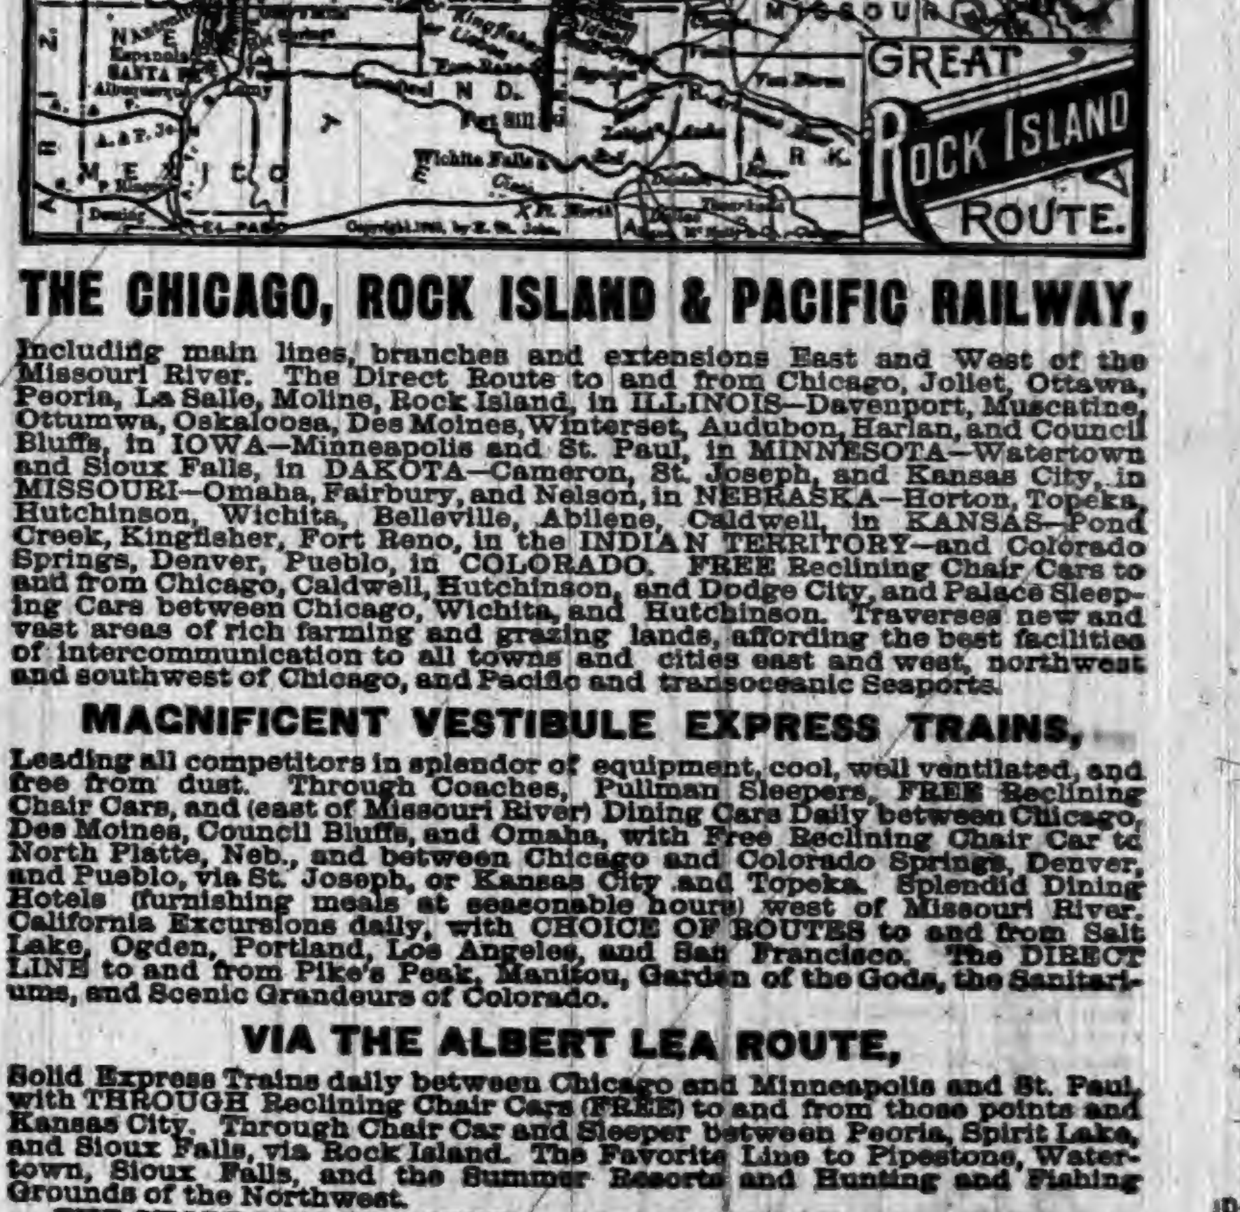
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery checks the frightful inroads of Scrofula, and, if taken in time, arrests the march of Consumption of the Lungs, which is Lung-scrofula, purifies and enriches the blood, thereby curing all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings, and kindred ailments. It is powerfully tonic as well as alterative, or blood-cleansing, in its effects, hence it strengthens the system and restores vitality, thereby dispelling all those "tired feelings" experienced by the debilitated. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

CATARRH IN THE HEAD, no matter of how long standing, is permanently cured by DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY. 50 cents, by druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR
25 CTS
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
25 CTS
CONSUMPTION

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

ASTHMA.
Popham's Asthma Specific
Relief in TEN MINUTES.
PETER D. SWOYER, M. D. Fritztown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 20 years; found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid.
TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.
Address, T. POPHAM, PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

A SOLID GOLD RING WITH A GENUINE Diamond Setting for $3. On receipt of $3 we will send a Solid Gold Ring with a Genuine Diamond Setting and one Mammoth Catalogue (this is not an Alaska, California or quartz stone, but a Genuine Diamond, which is guaranteed by Lapp & Flersham, wholesale jewelers of this city); or, on receipt of 30 cts., we will send the ring C. O. D. for examination. Send size of ring wanted, and money by P. O. order, express, or draft to REED & ANSON, 133 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

HOME STUDY. Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Atty. at Law, Washington, D.C.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. DR. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

N. U. F. W..........................No. 5—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

SEEDS SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN ARE THE BEST FOR ALL SOILS AND CLIMES, FARM AND VEGETABLE SEEDS A SPECIALTY. ROSES AND PLANTS BY THE 100,000 FREE CATALOGUE JOHN A. SALZER LA CROSSE, WIS.

W. J. BOWMAN
OFFERS TO
THE PUBLIC,
A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.
Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.
Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.
E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,
FOR
MEN'S USE.
The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.
W. J. BOWMAN,
AUBURN, IND.

FROM EAST TO WEST, THE ORB OF DAY,
SMILES ON THE SOAP THAT LEADS THE WAY.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
MADE ONLY BY N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. CHICAGO.

CRYSTAL PALACE
Meat Market.
Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good
NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,
And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.
B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

SALESMEN WANTED.
[illegible] sale of Nursery Stock! Steady [illegible] SALARY AND EXPENSES [illegible] successful men. Apply at once [illegible] Mention this paper.
CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

MEN WANTED!
To represent our well-known nursery in this county, for town and country trade. Good pay weekly. Good references required. Apply quick, stating age.
CHASE BROTHERS COMPANY, Chicago, Ill

A Stitch in Time Saves Nine.

This is an old adage, and a true one and no one will dispute it. It applies to many things generally, and to Loose's Extract Red Clover Blossoms for the cure of rheumatism, especially. It is a remedy that cannot be excelled. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

During the calendar year of 1889 109,140,917 pieces of coin were excuted at the mints of the United States, having a total value of $58,194,022.

Every Lady in Auburn,

Is requested to call on F. E. Davenport, and try a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the great guaranteed remedy for coughs, colds and all lung and throat troubles. It is as sweet and pleasant to take as chewing gum or candy, and the price is only 25cts. It is selling entirely upon its own merits and is guaranteed to cure or money refunded by F. E. Davenport.

John Ruskin is hopelessly insane. He has not been able to leave his bed since last November.

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

Is a remedy every farmer should keep on hand, as it is invaluable for many diseases. All dealers sell it. Price $1.00.

DO NOT FAIL
—TO TRY—
SMOKETTE.
It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE, SEED and HAVANA Cigar for
Five Cents.
For Sale in Auburn, by
Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.
Waterloo Agencies,
Locke's Hotel.
A. V. Sinclair & Co.
LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb circuit court. March term, 1890. Elizabeth Albright is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court, for a divorce, by George Albright and that the same will be heard and determined on the 7th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences March 3d, 1890.

Witness, the clerk of said court, this 10th day of January, 1890.

GEO. A. BISHOP, Clerk.

C. M. PHILLIPS, Att'y. 5

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY
Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

DON'T - FAIL
—TO SEE THE—
Good Samaritan
—AND—
KING OF CURES.
He Tells Your Disease
Without Asking questions.
CONSULTATION FREE.
He takes no patients without he can cure them.
He Has Practiced Medicine
FOR 40 YEARS.
AS A SPECIALIST,
FOR 20 YEARS
In all Parts of the Globe.
Cures All Chronic Diseases
No matter who has pronounced you incurable. The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.
He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, bilious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.
Piles Cured Without a Knife.
Female Complaints a Specialty
Cured without local treatment.
All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his oppointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to
J. H. ANDREWS, M. D,
WAUSEON, OHIO.
Auburn, Swineford House, Feb. 3, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House. Feb. 18 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Feb. 17. One day only.
Garrett, Rose House, Feb 7.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Feb. 8 and 9

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city, leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Trentman.

The Indiana School Books.

Now that our schools have been using the new text-books for several months, we know our school patrons and the public generally would like to know something about them. So we submitted to Co. Supt., C. M. Merica, a series of questions, calculated to draw out such points as we believed he must have learned in his working and watching with the schools, which he has faithfully done for the past five months. We give the results of this interview in as brief a form as we can and do justice to the subject.

QUESTION.—As you have been in a position to know more about the workings of the new school book law in this county than any other person, would you have any objection to being interrogated as to its results?

ANSWER.—As a school official, I have felt quite an interest, of course, in the new school book law, and have observed somewhat closely its workings; but I have never as yet been able to see that the expression of my own private opinion of its workings in detail would be of any particular benefit to the progress of the schools; and so I have been loth to commit myself in any way. My duties, under the law in question, are very plain and very definite. When a school trustee makes requisition upon me for books, it becomes my imperative duty to make immediate requisition upon the State Superintendent, and upon receipt of such books, I must at once notify the trustee of the same. This completes my duties under the law. You may ask your questions and I shall answer such as I think are not inconsistent with my duties and my work. There are antagonistic views on this subject, and while I would not care so much for myself personally, I do not wish to do anything or to say anything that will unnecessarily incur the enmity of anyone and detract from my influence for efficient school work.

Q.—How much has the change of text-books under the new law cost this county?

A.—The report for the first quarter, Dec. 6, 1889, shows a total sale of $2,398.85.

Q.—What would these books have cost at the old time prices, and what was the gain to the people?

A.—That is difficult to say. (Here Mr. Merica computed the amount.) At the prices for which the books were contracted to be furnished by the publishing houses, when the books were adopted in the county, they would have cost $4,257, a gain to the purchasers of $1,858 15; but some of the book-sellers did not adhere to these prices and sold the books far above the contract prices. A number of patrons have informed me that they have paid as high as $1.50 for the Complete Geography and 75 cents for the Elementary, when they should have sold respectively for $1.10 and 50 cents. The other books have been overcharged for accordingly.

Q.—Can you make an estimate of what the books would have cost at these overcharged prices?

A.—I believe not. The overcharges would have been at least $150, which would swell the gain to $2,000.

Q.—Will not the people be overcharged for the books under the present law?

A.—I do not see how. The prices are printed on the back of each book, and it is a penal offense to deviate from these prices.

Q.—Have you ever made an estimate as to whether the introduction and use of the new books into the schools will be a saving to the people?

A.—Well, yes; financially, it will. (Emphasizes "financially.") I estimate in this way: Pupils entering school at the age of six and continuing in school seven years, will need the six numbers of the copy books, the five different readers, the two arithmetics, and the two geographies, to say nothing of the speller, the grammars and the history not yet adopted under the new law. These would cost per pupil, under the old prices, $6.05; at the new prices, $3 35. Now, there were in school last year 5,300 pupils. Using this number as an average, buying books for the next seven years, under the old prices the books would cost in the seven years, 5,300 times $6.05, which would be $32,065; but under the new prices they would cost 5,300 times $3 35, which would amount to $17,755, a gain of over $14,000 in the seven years, or $2,000 per year, nearly 50 cents per pupil.

Q.—What has it cost the people to make the introduction?

A.—I could not tell without knowing how many of the pupils were compelled to purchase new books because of the new law, and how many would have been required to purchase new books in the absence of the new law, because of their promotion from one year's work to the next. I would think it a very fair average to consider that, at least, one-fourth of the books purchased, were purchased on promotion. Then of the nearly $2,400 reported, three-fourths, or $1,800, was occasioned by the introduction of the new books, but as those who purchased the other $600 worth of books saved nearly 50 per cent. by buying the new books, the total cost to the patrons of the schools has probably been about $1,500.

Q.—Are the books now introduced into all the schools of the county?

A.—With the exception of the town of Auburn and one township, the books have been introduced pretty generally, I believe. I do not care to speak further on this question at present.

Q.—I noticed that you emphasized the word "financially" in speaking of the benefits that would accrue to the people by the change of books. By that did you mean to insinuate that harm might result from some other source?

A.—I do not know as I did; yet harm would be the inevitable result if the new books were inferior to the old.

Q.—Do you consider the new books inferior to the old?

A.—That is a question I do not care to answer, as I do not think I can give an intelligent answer. The results of a text-book can be truly estimated, in my, opinion, only by actual schoolroom work and I have not had the opportunity, personally, of making this test.

Q.—What do your teachers say of the books?

A.—I have heard very few complaints, but many words of commendation for the copybooks, the readers and the arithmetics. I believe I am safe in saying they are giving general satisfaction with a large majority of our teachers and pupils.

Q.—I would understand then that the geographies are not giving satisfaction?

A.—I did not say so. Well,—the geographies, it seems, are very different in their arrangement, literary execution, and in the scope of the work, from the old geographies. They are intended for the topical method of instruction rather than the catechetic. Physical geography is made the foundation of political geography, and, as the author says in his preface, the pupils are placed more upon their own resources, and so, you see, both teachers and pupils found it difficult at first to get hold of the work. As they become better acquainted, however, with the book, they like it correspondingly better and all are getting along quite satisfactorily. One teacher who at first condemned the book as impractical and illogical, says that he found out after using it awhile that the fault was not nearly so much in the book as in himself in not knowing how to teach it, and that at the end of the year he believed he would have obtained better results from his teaching of geography than he had ever attained before. There was never, to my knowledge, any book adopted under the old law that gave universal satisfaction, and there has almost constantly been in some of our graded schools, books, other than the ones adopted by the County Board of Education.

Q.—Did the trustees meet with much opposition in the introduction of the books into the schools?

A.—In a few districts only.

Q.—Did the opposition in those districts interfere very much with the educational work of the districts?

A.—With the exception of one district, I think not very materially.

Q.—What generally caused the dissatisfaction and opposition?

A.—A misunderstanding on the part of the people, as to the duties of the trustees, and probably as to the objects and intents of the law. A few of the people were prejudiced by the great number of "circular letters" sent through the mails, condemning the law, the State Board of Education, the books, and everything and everybody that had anything to do with the books.

Q.—Who were the circulars from?

A.—Well, their authors only know. I never saw one that had a name signed to it. But this is going farther than I intended to go.

Q.—I should like to put one more question. Do you not find the law deficient in some particulars?

A.—I believe I have so expressed myself, as to a few minor details on several occasions, but do not care to repeat now. It would be a very exceptional act of legislation, especially in an act covering so many duties, and making such a radical charge in the law, if it were perfect in all of its parts. I think I anticipate the drift of your question and will say that as for myself personally, I am very little concerned, but during the whole time that I have been in the school work, there has been a constant complaint on the part of the parents that they are paying too much for their school books; and if the law was intended, as stated by Gov. Hovey, "to reduce the cost to a reasonable price, and lift from parents and guardians these very heavy burdens," I trust it will be given a thorough, candid, and impartial test as to its efficiency. (The Supt. took from his desk the address of Governor Hovey from which he read the above as quoted.)

Remarkable Nerve.

The early history of America is full of instances of men having great nerve. But we are rapidly becoming the most nervous people on earth. The recent increase of insanity, epileptic fits, headache, backache, neuralgia, sleeplessness nervousness, dyspepsia, fluttering of the heart, etc., points to an early decay of the race, unless this tendency is checked. Nothing will cure these diseases like Dr. Miles' Nervine, warranted to contain neither opium nor morphine. Sample bottles free at Davenport's drug store. Don't fail to try it. 5

Lee Wah Sing, Logansport Chinese laundryman, wants to go to China to see his ma, but U. S. won't let him come back if he does.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia, and install Eupepsy. We recomend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by Robbins and McCord, Druggists.

George Roth was beaten for marshal of Edinburg last spring by Wright by one vote. The other day a Roth vote was found in the ballot box.

An Invariable Sign.

Swelling of the ankles or feet when not due to Rheumatism, Prof. DeCosta says, is always caused by a weak or diseased heart. So is shortness of breath, pain or uneasiness when lying on the left side, smothering spells. The only cure is Dr. Miles' New Cure. Sold at F. E. Davenport.'s 3

According to the Harvard Lampoon there are two reasons why some people don't mind their own business. One is that they haven't any mind; the other, that they haven't any business.

Of all the alien who took out letters of naturalization in England last year only three were Americans.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicans that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King,s New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery Free at Robbins & McCord's, Druggists.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

The Russian government will begin next spring to build its 4,500-mile railroad across Siberia. This is a big undertaking, and its estimated cost is $220,000,000.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

A teacher near Allentown suspended a scholar for swearing in Pennsylvania Dutch, and the affair has caused a division in the local school board.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

5000 Dollars'
Worth of Clothing which MUST BE SOLD WITHIN 30-DAYS-30,
AT
"THE FAMOUS."
COME AT ONCE WHILE THE SELECTION IS LARGE.
North side Courthouse, Three doors west of Postoffice.

THE NEW SHOE STORE,
WILL OPEN IN THE
DRAGGOO BUILDING,
SOUTH OF THE JAIL,
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, '90.
WE COME TO
AUBURN,
TRUSTING WITH OUR
Low Prices,
Good Goods,
AND Fair Dealing,
We may merit the patronage of the public.
CHEAP Shoddy Goods we Will not Sell.
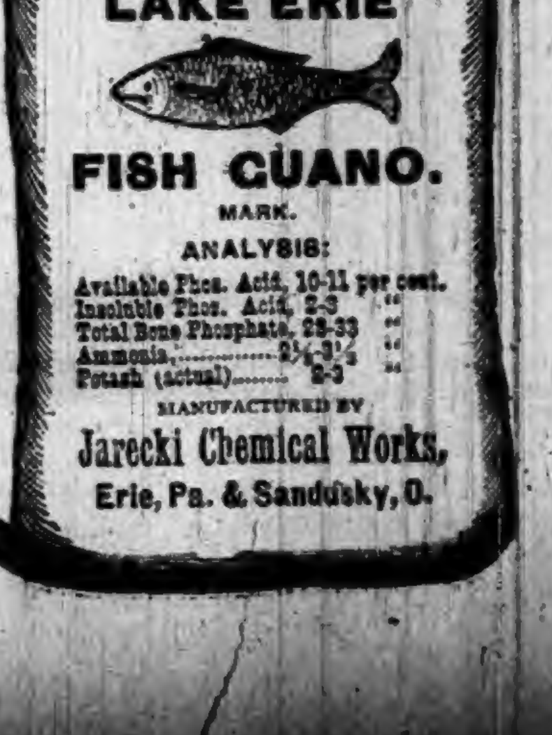
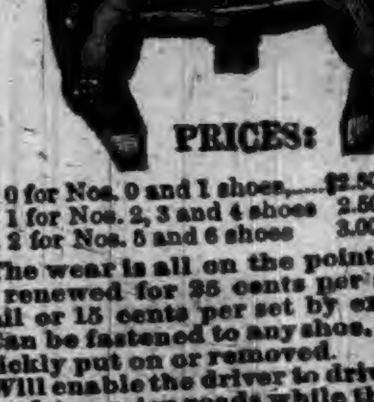
Our Motto Wil be
Good Goods and Low Prices.
Remember the day of opening, February, 8th, 1890.
Call and see us. Respectfully yours,
J. N. WILSON & SON,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

—THE BEST—
FERTILIZER
ON EARTH.



"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:
No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes, $2.50 per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes 2.50 " "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes 3.00 " "
The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.
Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.
Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.
Sent by express on receipt of price.
The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

"If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1890. NUMBER 6.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

ENGLISH capital is still buying up properties in this country, and they will soon, at this rate, have control of our best paying institutions. Then they will bring over skilled workmen, and Americans will be kicked out. And republican papers have been boasting that British capital would not have come over, but for Harrison's election.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO. Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING at "7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE, PANEL SIZE. Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

On call of Chairman Brown, the committeemen of the various precincts were called together at Ensley's Hall last Saturday. They met at 1 p. m., and at once began discussing questions of interest. Mr. Higgins, Mr. Dills, Mr. Moody, Mr. Brown, Mr. Cool, Mr. Miller, Mr. Kelley, Mr. Husselman, Frank Barney, Mr. Dancer, Blair and many others took part. The subjects discussed were the new election laws, and the time for holding caucuses and conventions, but very little decisive work was done. A motion was made and discussed in regard to the time of holding the county convention, but the committee did not feel like expressing an opinion at that time. Some thought it should be held before, and some, after, the first of June. Mr. Dills made a motion, that a committee of five be appointed to prepare a system of organization, and present to the next meeting but the motion was lost. Mr. Blair thought we should have the county convention before June, Mr. Kelley made a motion that it is the sense of this meeting that the county convention be as early as June 1, carried, by a rising vote of 15 to 8. Mr. Kelley made a motion, that we elect new committeemen at the time of holding the township caucuses for nominating township officers, and that the committeemen then selected, begin to serve on the Saturday following the April elections. Carried. Motion by Reinœhl, that caucuses for selecting precinct committeemen be held in the different precincts, on the second Saturday before the April elections, at 3 p. m. Carried, with the proviso, that townships that preferred another date, could fix it for themselves. Meeting then adjourned.

Indiana Districts.

The Record now comes to the rescue of the other republican papers, and complains about the way Indiana is districted. He thinks it real mean, that the state should send ten democrats to congress and only three republicans. He don't give his opinion however, of republican gerrymanders in republican states. In Illinois it takes 49,000 votes to send a democrat to congress, and only 28,000 to send a republican. In Iowa, 179,000 democrats only send one man, while every 24,000 sends a republican. In Kansas, 147,000 democrats have not a single member, but there is a republican member for every 26,000. In California it takes 58,000 democrats to send a member, but only 31,000 republicans. In Maine, 73,000 republicans have 4 members, but the 51,000 democrats have none. In New York 42,000 democrats, have a member, 36,000 republicans. In Pennsylvania, democrats, 63,000; republicans 25,000. In Ohio, that pious minded republican editors do so fear there will be a democratic gerrymander, it takes 79,000 democrats to send a member, but only 26,000 republicans. In brief we could go on in this and take in every republican state, and show that the arrangement is as bad as in this state. The facts are, democrats when they get control of a state, have to practice this for self-defense. When republicans have made a fair division in the states they control, it will be time for them to shed tears over Indiana. If the entire union was so districted that both parties would be properly represented, the demorats would have a majority of 15 in the House of representatives. But the republicans now have a majority of 3. This would be a good article for the Record to re-publish, eh?

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

The Lancet says that the human body can be embalmed so as to be identified three thousand years after death. That may be so, but who is to do the identification?

Stanley's New Book.

5,000 good active agents wanted at once, either sex to introduce this great work. Here is a chance for you. Any one can sell the book, as the whole world is interested. The book will contain a full account of all of Stanley's explorations in Africa, and especially of his latest expedition for the relief of Emin Bey. About 600 pages and 100 entirely new illustration, maps, etc. Complete canvassing outfit with all instructions will be mailed on receipt of 40 cents. Do not delay in writing; order outfit and get territory at once. The only genuine new Stanley book out. Address Holloway Publishing Co., 810 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

Brigandage is now dead in Greece, or will be when the last of the notorious Lyngos family, who is now in prison, has been executed.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium. tf

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400. $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres splendid farming land, good buildings, good fences, good orchards, within five miles of Hicksville, O. Must be sold soon.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $2,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100-barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 120 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307. 220 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 287. 60 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill. 56-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1½ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot fine what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

WE HAVE NOW

Open for your inspection a line of

CARPETS

AND

Lace Curtains,

Of which we may well feel proud. Call and see them. They will please you. We have also just received

A BIG STOCK OF

Hats, Caps & Gents' Furnishing Goods.

IF YOU WISH Proper Styles OF GOOD Honest Goods AT THE Right Prices,

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always anxious to please you. We are very respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN, IND.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries, Rochester, N. Y.

Mention this paper.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

United Brethern church at Nappanee has split on the secret society question and the factions are now in court trying to decide the question of possession.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

Carrying Coals to Newcastle.

This is considered folly, but it is an astounding fact that Speer's Wines, raised at Passaic, N. J., have acquired such a reputation for purity and excellence abroad, that they are shipped by steamers that leave New York for Europe. It is enjoying an enviable reputation at home, and is used by the leading physicians in America as well as in Europe.

Peter Himen, Lafayette, gave away his dog. Animal got back just in time to let Himen know, by his barking, that burglars were getting away with $112 of his money.

A Successful Combination.

Rings, pools, trusts, combines, monopolies—call them what you will—they are fast increasing throughout the length and breadth of this country. Legislators denounce them and newspapers attack them, but still they seem to flourish. It is gratifying, however, to note that there is at least one combination in this country that meets with the approval of the public, especially of farmers; It is composed not of individuals, but of the following quartet of harvesting machines: Deering Binder, Deering Light Reaper, Deering Giant Mower, and New Deering Mower.

The Blood is the Life!

SAMUEL DUNLAP, OF ATLANTA, GA.

The above gentleman had rheumatism in its most excruciating form, took two bottles of

HUNNICUTT'S

RHEUMATIC CURE,

and has enjoyed perfect health ever since. We have thousands of similar certificates. It is made of barks, roots and herbs indigenous to the South. It is a superb blood purifier, an excellent tonic and the gem of all remedies for the cure of blood, stomach and kidney diseases. One bottle often effects a cure. Price, $1 per bottle. If not kept by your druggist, send to us direct. Prepared by who also manufacture Hunnicutt's Throat and Lung Cure, a sure cure for Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs and Colds. Book of testimonials FREE.

Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said town, intends to apply to the Board of Commissioners of said county, at their regular session, to be begun on Monday the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1890, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following described premises situate in said town of Auburn, to-wit: The one-story brick building located on the west end of lot numbered sixty-five (65) in the original plat of said town; said part of said lot being thirteen and one-half (13½) feet wide east and west, by fifty-six (56) feet in length north and south and located in the southwest corner thereof. Dated this 6th day of February, 1890.

R. S. McCLELLAN

A Great Relief to Anxious Mothes.

The traveler cannot have failed to notice the trouble which young America causes his parents or guardian while traveling by rail in the ordinary coaches on account of his determination to go upon the platform every time the door is opened. The through trains to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York via the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are now vestibuled from baggage car to sleeper, and heated by steam drawn from the locomotive. A child can pass from car to car on these trains as safely as through the rooms at home. Vestibuled trains leave Auburn Junction daily at 7:05 p. m. Pullman space reserved in advance by applying to T. H. Sprott or A. J. Bell Ticket agents, B. & O. R. R. Auburn City and Auburn Junction.

A School Ma'am's Letter.

I received your letter, and won't procrastinate more,
But with pen in hand, and a smile most bland;
Do my best to make you roar.
I know I am no wit, and that I am not fit,
To attempt a poem on Spring.
But most anytime, I can spring a rhyme,
On dudes or on most anything.
Many thanks for the Photo, I did as you wrote O!
Showed it to Dr. L., he vowed couldn't tell,
Cause of beard and mustache;
I told him the name, but he had forgotten the same,
Gave it up and went back to his hash.
I didn't make fun of your dear Dickin-son
But think he looks kind and good,
And I hope this isn't soft soap—
He'll come to the "reunion" with his brood,
O! say, while I think, let me tell you "don't wink,"
Mr. Jutt is a bachelor no more.
He married Miss Sheffer and thinks her no heifer,
She can hear and has learning galore.
Married on Christmas morn, one less old bach forlorn.
Out at the old Institute,
Archibald now alone with no girl of his own,
Ain't he a fine old galoot?
Your verses on Phil and many another pill,
[Hard for me to swallow I vow,]
Hit me hard in the ribs, and I wish that his nibs
The plug-hatted dude, saw them now.
But I'm not engaged, and don't mean to be caged,
For many a long day to come.
What'd I do with turnips to stew,
And a cook stove to keep on the hum?
I love not the kitchen and dont mean to pitch in,
And then bawl the rest of my life.
Men love for a season, but that is no reason
For a school ma'am's becoming a wife.
Have you heard that Ida Price, turned out so awful nice?
She'll no more be beholden among us, it's true,
Sometime I'll tell it to you,
But not in this black and white letter though.
Like the new boss? Well yes, but then don't you tell,
I liked McIntire heaps better.
Frances is Mrs. Ross. The one that was sick and cross,
Got well, and is married, lives here,
Name, Hartingdale, I see her husband and her,
About once or twice in a year.
Phil seasick? No. Not a bit O!
Wait till you see him next summer.
If you get stuck on him, I'll take your Jim,
Or ship with a plug-hatted drummer.
I'd love to peep in and see, what Sherman's brush may be,
Spreading on canvas so grandly.
I love painting and art, you know, I'm not much at painting though,
My daubing would make Sherm. smile blandly.
Kate Day, she's provoking and I feel like poking,
Her in the ribs with a sharp stick.
Never hear from the lazy, she must have gone crazy,
I'll write though, and ask if she's sick.
The "Hoosier?" Oh, blast it! I'll try and contrast it,
To a poodle dog kept by a tramp,
Full of vermin and dirt, much bark but little hurt,
Oh! I tell you that Crippen's a scamp!
You make a mistake, for granted I take in reading my last letter over.
You know Alice Robinson, not Alice Robertson, and I'd try now to help you,
Uncover your memory casket, that big waste basket,
Where you've stored her away out of mind.
Her hair was yellow, she ne'er had a fellow,
That ever this scribbler could find.
She lived in the city, was not quick or witty,
Her father had Rev. to his name.
She graduated long before we did, (if wrong)
I humbly beg pardon for this same.
Don't you know who I mean? Why you often have seen her!
And perhaps thought a Jew had no kinkier hair, nor more alien air.
But now, I change my subject, let's see, I believe you asked me,
About May Brandenburg. It's strange,
But that girl with one hand, that her left one does grand
Work with the paint brush. I hear that she gives lessons. Let's see.
No more questions asked me? No. Well,
Mr. Kearney, who lives in Evansville, came last month.
He's the same Charley we knew long ago.
But I'm getting cold so now I'll make bold
To quit and to bed, Cora Cos.
P. S:—Excuse all mistakes dear, and failure to make here,
A proper epistle in rhyme.
I "made up" as I went. So forgive me, I'm bent,
On doing far better next time.

George B. Adams Dead.

The above sad event occurred last Saturday at his residence in Angola, aged 44 yrs., and 9 months, of pneumonia induced by the prevalent disease known as "la grippe."

Many of the readers will remember him as prosecuting attorney of this circuit for several years, and who by his honesty, integrity and ability made more than the average number of friends in the discharge of his duties. He was a self-made man of more than ordinary ability in his profession and had he lived would undoubtedly reached a high eminence at the bar.

He leaves two motherless children, aged respectively 11 and 7 years.

The following persons from this place attended his funeral, which was held at the Disciple church in Angola last Monday the Rev. Mr. Elliot officiating. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dills, W. L. Penfield, J. W. Baxter, D. Y. Husselman, Sheriff Plum, J. J. VanAuken, Calvin VanAuken, J. A. Potter, C. C. Shaffer, J. L. Davis, Eugene Trout, A. J. Ralston. From Waterloo, Judge McBride, Gen. Blair, W. H. Leas and J. F. Shuman. Judge Lowry, of Ft. Wayne, was also there.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. Geo. Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co., Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for 20 years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those who are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours,

Geo. Frank.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

THE BARGAIN STORE!

IS NOW REMOVED TO

Eighth Street,

West of Court House, and we respectfully invite the people of Auburn and vicinity to call on us in our new quarters.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Views on Ditching.

EDITOR COURIER:—It appears that the little conversation I had with you a few days ago, about ditching, had the desired effect, that of inducing discussion. It is pretty generally conceded, that while drainage is a good thing, it is costing too much money, both to the county and to individuals. In the letter signed "Jackson," he pretends to say that the mouth or commencement of the proposed drain, as spoken of in the item in the COURIER, is too indefinite. Now, I did not intend that should it be definite, as I expected it would be made plain by the petition, if a ditch was constructed under such a provision of the law, as is the case now with the hundreds of ditches in the state. He calls the proposed plan, the district plan, all of which is assumed. He sets up his straw man, and then proceeds to knock him down again, just for the fun of seeing him fall. If that is any pleasure to him, I have no objection. He speaks of some enterprising men, who are a benefit to the public and to the country. I agree with him in this, except when they get their noses into other people's business, as I have known them to do, and put innocent and honest parties to needless expense, as I have often seen done. I know of plenty of farmers who have paid from $500 to $1,000 expense on ditches, without any corresponding benefit. Then, I think when that is the case, they are more of an injury to any community than they are a benefit. I am not able to get rid of the democratic doctrine that the majority should rule. This is true not only in politics, but in business, and especially such business as draining our farms, when the action of a few may, and often does, injure the many. Then, "Jackson" seems to attack my record as a member of the legislature and says that he wishes the courts free to all, and that he understands that I advocated a doctrine in the legislature that kept some out of court for want of endorsers. All I have to say about that is, that any man ought to be careful about misrepresenting any one, as the record will show his statement false. I would advise him to look up the record and not depend on hearsay, as hearsay may do an innocent man an injustice. I think if I should make as unguarded a statement in regard to any man's public record, and it should be false, I should prefer to remain incognito. But whenever and wherever you hear from me, I shall expect to sign my name.

Yours Respectfully,
FREEMAN KELLEY.

Waterloo, Feb. 3, 1890.

Cheap Excursions to California.

In Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, for passengers holding second-class tickets to Pacific coast points, which will be run through from Chicago, via Omaha, to San Francisco without change at any intermediate point, via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Union Pacific Short Line only on the following dates for leaving Chicago, viz: January 16 and 30, February 13 and 27, March 13 and 27, April 10 and 24, May 8 and 22.

The Sleeping Car fare from Chicago to San Francisco is but $4 per berth, and the accommodations are excellent. For further particulars apply to the nearest coupon ticket agent, or address A. V. H. Carpenter, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

This great nerve tonic will cure sleeplessness, nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism, and builds up broken-down constitutions. Delicious and nutritious. Sold by druggists and dealers. Price $1.00.

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place. The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A Summary of the Eventful Happenings, of a Week, as Reported by Telegraph.

Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

AWFUL DISASTER.

Destruction by Fire of the Residence of Secretary Tracy—His Wife and Daughter, Mary, Lost.

Washington special: The residence of Secretary of the Navy Tracy was destroyed by fire, and during the excitement that followed the breaking out of the blaze Mrs. Tracy, her daughter Mary, and two servants lost their lives, the Secretary himself was almost overcome by smoke, and several others had narrow escapes from death. The residence of the Secretary was a fine three-story structure of brick and stone and stood on I street, near Seventeenth. A letter carrier on his customary rounds passed the house this morninga few minutes before 7 o'clock. He left a package, and observing nothing unusual continued up the street. Happening to glance back ten minutes later he noticed that the house was enveloped in flames. Within five minutes the firemen were there. Before ladders could be raised to the front, two ladies appeared in the second-story windows and in spite of the warnings not to jump they leaped to the grass. The ladies proved to be Mrs. Wilmerding, the married daughter of the Secretary, and her daughter, Miss Wilmerding. Mrs. Wilmerding broke one of her wrists and was bruised. Her daughter was burned quite severely, but not otherwise injured.

At the rear of the house a woman, presumably one of the servants, had climbed out upon the mansard roof from a third story window. She waved a blanket to keep the smoke and flames away from her, and behaved with great coolness. She was brought down a ladder. In the meantime Fire Chief Parris arrived, and learning that there were people still in the house, he left the fire extinguishing apparatus to his subordinates and dashed into the house, followed by Howard Wright, who drives the chief's wagon. The chief told the story to your correspondent as follows: "I paid no attention to the fire when I heard there were people in the house. I felt my way through the smoke to the second floor and found a man in bed in a room. I tried to pick him up, but he was almost too heavy. I managed to drag him into a back room where there was more air, and then I broke the window out and called to a fireman in the alley to run up a ladder. Then we took the man out and it proved to be the Secretary. I couldn't move him any further, for I was exhausted and full up to the neck with smoke. Then I went back into the smoke again and found a young lady—Miss Mary Tracy they tell me it was—and as I caught hold of her wrists to lift her up the flesh came off her burned hands. I got her out, but she was dead. That exhausted me. I could do no more." E. S. Rheem, whose house on Seventeenth street runs back to the rear of the Secretary's house, gives a graphic account of the terrible death of Mrs. Tracy. "I heard terrible screams," said Mr. Rheem, "about 7:15 o'clock this morning, and jumped from bed and ran to the window. Mrs. Tracy was hanging by her hands from the sill of a window on the second floor. She was screaming and almost immediately dropped to the ground. Mrs. Tracy, still alive, was brought in by two firemen and was placed on a sofa in a neighbor's house. Here she lingered for about an hour, fully conscious, and apparently suffering but little. It was a little after 8 o'clock when she spit up a little blood, hardly enough to be termed a hemorrhage, closed her eyes, and, without a moan ceased to breathe.

The unconscious Secretary, while these sad scenes were occurring, was borne to the residence of Judge Bancroft Davis, in an adjacent block. Ex-Surgeon-General Wales and Drs. Karr and May attended him. Under their ministrations he regained consciousness, and in a feeble voice said: "How is my wife?" "I don't know," replied Dr. Karr. "I haven't seen her."

"Then, for God's sake, don't think of me," he murmured, and elapsed into unconsciousness.

The doctors think that he is not fatally injured. Mrs. Wilmerding, who leaped from the second-story window, sustained slight injuries; one of her wrists was broken, while her young daughter escaped with a slight contusion of the knee.

A Bridge Breaks Down.

While a freight train on the Ohio, Indiana and Western Railroad was passing over a bridge at Peoria, a span gave way precipitating the engine, tender and three cars into the river. Three men were in the cab, Engineer William V. Neiville, Fireman C. O'Brien and Brakeman R. M. Lewis. All were killed. The supposition is that the engine jumped the track owing to the spreading of the rails and broke the supports off close to the stone pier.

Ex-Manager of the Chicago Times Sentenced.

Chicago special: Judge Grinnell overruled the motion for a new trial for James J. West, and imposed sentence upon the one-time President of the Chicago Times Company in accordance with the verdict, five years in the Penitentiary and a fine of $1,000. The charge on which the prisoner was convicted was the fraudulent over-issue of stock of the Times to the extent of nearly $13,000.

Smith Seated.

In the West Virginia contested election case of Smith vs. Jackson, Congress decided that Smith, Republican, was entitled to his seat.

The Sale of Lottery Tickets in Kansas.

It has been a mooted question for some time in Kansas whether the sale of lottery tickets in that State was a violation of the statute laws. The Attorney General in an opinion on the matter says the Constitution forbids the sale of lottery tickets, but that the Legislature has never seen fit to enact any statute to enforce this constitutional provision.

Many County Warrants Void.

The Judge of the District Court at Fort Scott, Kan., has decided that the $200,000 of county warrants issued by the county officers who held office pending the settlement of the contested county-seat election in Hamilton County are void.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The Senate Approves a Large Batch of Appointments.

The Senate in secret session has confirmed the following nominations:

Samuel Bailey, Jr., of Ohio, Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Cincinnati; Frank W. Mead, of New York, Surgeon in the Marine Hospital; N. Wright Cuney, Collector of Customs at Galveston, Texas. United States Attorneys—Charles S. Varian, Utah; George D. Reynolds, Eastern District of Missouri; John M. Witcher, Nevada; John W. Herron, Southern District of Ohio; Charles S. Johnson, of Nebraska, District of Alaska; J. A. Connolly, Southern District of Illinois; Lewis Miles, Southern District of Iowa; J. W. Ady, Kansas; G. W. Jolly, Kentucky; George A. Neal, Western District of Missouri; Morgan D. O'Connell, Northern District of Iowa. United States Marshals—Charles P. Hitch, Southern District of Illinois; Joseph P. Wilson, Idaho. District Judges—Edward T. Green, New Jersey; John S. Bugbee, California, District of Alaska. Associate Justice Supreme Court of Idaho—Willis Sweet. Registrars of Land Offices—S. P. McCree, Las Cruces, N. M.; Lyman P. Hotchkiss, Eau Claire, Wis.; Thomas V. Baldwin, Folsom, N. M.; Julian H. Bingham, Montgomery, Ala. Indian Agents—Archer O. Simons, Fort Belknap Agency, Montana; John Fosner, Shoshone Agency, Wyoming; Moses P. Wyman, Crow Agency, Montana; Warren D. Robbins, Nez Perces Agency, Idaho; Everett W. Foster, Yankton (S. D.) Agency. Postmasters: Wisconsin—Henry Beall, Hayward; R. W. Cheever, Clinton; F. B. Whitlesey, Florence; J. B. Driver, Darlington; C. F. P. Pullen, Evansville; G. E. Bryant, Madison.

HARRISON'S CHOICE.

A Batch of Appointments Sent to the Senate.

The President has sent to the Senate the following nominations.

Blanche K. Bruce, of the District of Columbia, to be Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia. Supervisors of Census: California—Allen B. Lemmon, Third District; Hamilton Wallace, Fourth; William B. Mosher, Fifth. Indiana—Francis Scholz, First District; Ambrose E. Nowlin, Second; Charles Harley, Fifth; Samuel B. Beshore, Sixth. Texas—Hiram A. David, First; Jos. F. Pells, Second; John Nevins, Third; Thomas A. Pope, Fourth; David Redfield, Sixth. Wisconsin—Ernst Demin, First; John C. Metcalf, Second; Andrew Jackson Turner, Third. Illinois—Frank Gilbert, First. Minnesota—Herbert J. Miller, First; William M. Johnston, Third. Arkansas—Jacob Trieber, First; Otis G. Gulley, Second; John W. Howell, Third. Kansas—Thomas A. Hubbard, Fourth. Montana—William O. Spoor. Washington—John M. Hill. Missouri—Eugene F. Weigel, First; Eugene C. Baugher, Second; Woolbridge J. Powell, Third; William M. Davis, Fourth; John M. McCall, Fifth; Arthur P. Morrey, Sixth; Hobart G. Orton, Seventh; William H. Miller, Eighth. Michigan—Harry C. Tillman, First; Charles H. Wisner, Second; Donald C. Henderson, Fourth; James Watson, Fifth; George A. Newett, Sixth.

Justice—William H. Taft, of Ohio, to be Solicitor General, vice Orlow Chapman, resigned. The appointee is now on the Superior Court bench of Cincinnati. Judge Taft is but 30 years of age. State—Robert Adams, Jr., of Pennsylvania, now accredited Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the empire of Brazil, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States of Brazil. Interior—Thomas M. Beer, to be Supervisor of Census for the Sixth District of Ohio.

POSTAL CLERKS ASK RELIEF.

Representatives of Seventy-two Offices to Swoop Down on Congress.

A New York dispatch says: A sub-committee of the Postoffice Clerks' Association of New York City have gone to Washington to present to the House committee the claims of the clerks for a modification of the hours of labor and other measures in which they are interested. This move is the outcome of the conference of clerks from Eastern offices held about two weeks ago in that city. The representatives of the New York clerks will meet at Washington those of at least seventy-two other offices, who have agreed to send not less than two delegates each, and will co-operate with them in their work. All the first and second class offices in the East will be represented. The clerks are looking to secure a uniform eight-hour day, a vacation of fifteen days in summer with pay, and a more equitable arrangement of the scale of salaries.

MR. BLAINE'S DAUGHTER DEAD.

Mrs. Alice Coppinger Succumbs at Washington to an Attack of Brain Fever.

Mrs. Coppinger, the oldest daughter of Secretary Blaine, died in Washington on the 2d inst. The Secretary and his family are completely prostrated with grief. The President and Mrs. Harrison were apprised of her death as soon as it occurred and at once called upon Mr. Blaine, and were followed in a short time by the other members of the Cabinet circle. Mrs. Coppinger was married to Major, now Lieutenant Colonel, Coppinger, of the United States army, in 1881, at her father's residence in Washington, and one child survives her. In December last she was attacked by influenza in New York and before being fully recovered was summoned to the bedside of her dying brother, Walker. Pneumonia followed and then congestion of the brain, which proved fatal.

ENGLISH MONEY IN BEER.

The Syndicate Said to Have Paid $3,000,000 for Four Toledo Breweries.

A Toledo (Ohio) dispatch says: There is every reason to believe that the sale of four Toledo breweries to the English brewery syndicate is an accomplished fact. The breweries are: Grasser & Brands, Lenks, Buckeye, and the Findlay. The money for the first payment has been deposited in the Second National Bank and the papers have been forwarded to London. These sales embrace the entire plant, not merely a controlling interest, and the price, while not yet definitely announced, is understood to be over $3,000,000.

MENINGITIS EPIDEMIC IN TEXAS.

Thirty Persons in the Vicinity of Belcher Die of This Disease.

News has reached Gainesville, Texas, from the Belcher District, twenty miles west of there, that the meningitis epidemic, which broke out there a week ago, is spreading with alarming rapidity. More than thirty persons have died during the week and many others are beyond the hope of recovery. Out of the whole number attacked by the disease not a single person has recovered. Everything that medical skill could suggest has been done to save life, but to no avail.

FIENDISH WORK OF MASKED BURGLARS.

A Kansas City Woman Bound, Gagged, and Nearly Frightened to Death.

A Kansas City (Mo.) dispatch says: During his absence from home masked burglars entered the house of Charles Roonah. Mrs. Roonah was alone, and the outlaws after they had bound and gagged her dragged the unconscious woman to the foot of the bed in one of the sleeping-rooms and bound her securely by the neck to one of the bedposts. After taking all the valuables in sight they escaped. Her condition is serious.

CABINET CRISIS IN BRAZIL.

The Minister of Agriculture Resigns—Financial Reform the Cause.

There is a ministerial crisis at Rio de Janeiro. The trouble has reference to the questions of financial reforms, which do not at present seem likely to be realized, Senhor Di Metris Ribeiro, the Minister of Agriculture, has retired from the cabinet and a new appointment has been made. Senhor Ribeiro was not well known in Brazilian politics before he was called by General Da Fonseca to the ministry.

EJECTED FROM OFFICE.

The Ohio Senate Displaces Lieutenant Governor Lampson.

At the conclusion of the hearing in the Marquis-Lampson contest for the Lieutenant Governorship in the Ohio Senate, Lampson (Rep.) was ousted by a strict party vote. The Republican members filed a number of protests against the manner of proceeding, and the conclusion was attended with stormy scenes. Lampson gave notice the case would be carried to the Supreme Court.

STOLE A SCHOONER AND CARGO.

Pirates Seize a Vessel Laden with Pearls on the California Coast.

A San Diego (Cal.) dispatch says: "The schooner John Hancock and her valuable cargo of pearls have been stolen from the Chinese company which is operating on the Lower California coast, and she is now practically in the hands of pirates. The John Hancock left this port a few months ago under contract to be used in search for pearls."

DR. M'GLYNN VERY ILL.

His Physical Condition Said by His Physicians to Be Serious.

A New York dispatch says Dr. McGlynn is a very ill man. He is not able to leave the house. Dr. Schrady has ordered complete rest and quiet. The Doctor's illness is due to heart trouble. His condition is very favorable, but he is not permitted to see or speak to any one but his attendants.

ACCIDENT IN A FRENCH DUEL.

M. Dreyfus Shot in the Arm in His Encounter with the Marquis de Mores.

A Paris cable says: "M. Dreyfus, editor of the Nation, fought a duel with the Marquis de Mores on the Belgian frontier. M. Dreyfus was shot in the right arm. The ball has been extracted."

THE EARTH SETTLED.

Several Buildings in Plains, Pa., Wrecked by a Sinking of the Ground.

The bottom of a portion of the town of Plains, Pa., about four miles from Wilkesbarre, dropped out, and with it three single houses and a double block, causing consternation among the tenants and excitement in the town.

Violated the Contract Labor Law.

Judge Thayer, of the United States District Court, at St. Louis, heard evidence the other day in a novel case. Henry A. Schmidt, a merchant tailor, was convicted on twelve counts for violation of the contract labor law in importing tailors to this country to work in his shop. He was fined $1,000 for each offense, and a total of $12,000, and now seeks remission of the penalties. Schmidt acknowledges his guilt, but pleads ignorance of the existence of such a law.

Wrecked Two Banks.

The Lenox Hill Bank and the Sixth National Bank of New York City have been closed, owing to the operations of President Claasen of the latter concern, who tried to dispose of $600,000 worth of bonds belonging to the bank. Claasen and a broker named Pell, involved in the transactions, have been arrested. It is believed that all losses caused by the failures will fall on the stockholders.

Canadian Finances.

An Ottawa, Ont., dispatch says the estimates for the Dominion's expenditures for the next fiscal year have been laid before Parliament. Compared with the present year they show a contemplated decrease of £500,000 in ordinary expenditures and a decrease of £1,500,000 in the amount to be expended on capital account (except in reduction of the public debt).

Portugal Will Appeal to the Powers.

The Cologne Gazette publishes an interview of its correspondent at Lisbon with Senhor Pimental, the Portuguese Prime Minister. Senhor Pimental said that Portugal was preparing an appeal to the powers, including Great Britain, based on the provisions of the Berlin Congo treaty.

To Tax English Goods.

The Chamber of Commerce at Lisbon has intimated its readiness to assent to a tax on all English goods. Some merchants have proposed that a voluntary 10 per cent. tax be paid by the consignees of English goods, those declining to pay to be regarded as traitors.

Canadian Knights Criticise Powderly.

A Kingston (Ont.) dispatch says: "The district assembly of the Knights of Labor, including western and eastern Ontario, have approved Taylor's anti-alien bill shutting out American labor, and also expressed dissatisfaction at Powderly's neglect of Canadian interests."

Forty Brazilian Throats Cut.

The first mate of a steamer from Rio de Janeiro reports that in December forty sailors of a Brazilian man-of-war who went ashore and shouted for the deposed Emperor "had their throats cut for their enthusiasm."

Failed for Several Millions.

A St. Petersburg cable says: The Sergueffs, an important firm of cotton spinners, have just failed for several millions of rubles.

A Fatal Italian Row.

During a quarrel at Erie, Pa., between Italians, four persons were so badly cut with stilettos that three of them will probably die. The fourth is in jail.

Not a Rival of Ingalls.

George R. Peck, of Topeka, Kan., has announced that in no case will he be a candidate for the Senatorship against Mr. Ingalls.

Strawberry Crop Injured.

The strawberry crop of South Carolina has been materially injured by recent heavy frosts.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Prime	$4.75	@ 5.50
Good	3.50	@ 4.50
Common	2.50	@ 3.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.50	@ 4.00
Sheep	4.00	@ 5.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.74½	@ .75
Corn—No. 2	.28½	@ .29¼
Oats—No. 2	.20½	@ .21¼
Rye—No. 2	.43	@ .44
Butter—Choice Creamery	.23	@ .26
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@ .10
Eggs—Fresh	.12½	@ .13½
Potatoes—Choice new, per bu	.37	@ .40
Pork—Mess	9.25	@ 9.75
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.72	@ .73
Corn—No. 3	.28	@ .29
Oats—No. 2 White	.22½	@ .23½
Rye—No. 2	.44	@ .45
Barley—No. 2	.41	@ .42
Pork—Mess	9.50	@ 9.75
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.00
Hogs	3.00	@ 4.00
Sheep	3.50	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.79½	@ .80½
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.30½	@ .31½
Oats—No. 2 White	.24½	@ .25½
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.78	@ .78¼
Corn—Cash	.30	@ .30½
Oats—No. 2 White	.22	@ .23
NEW YORK.
Cattle	3.50	@ 4.50
Hogs	3.75	@ 4.25
Sheep	5.00	@ 6.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.86½	@ .87½
Corn—No. 2	.36	@ .38
Oats—Mixed Western	.27	@ .30
Pork—Prime Mess	10.50	@11.25
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.25	@ 5.25
Hogs	3.50	@ 4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.75	@ .76
Corn	.26	@ .27
Oats	.19½	@ .20¼
Rye—No. 2	.41	@ .42
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping Steers	3.50	@ 5.00
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@ 4.00
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.76½	@ .77½
Corn—No. 2 White	.29	@ .30
Oats—No. 2 White	.24	@ .25
CINCINNATI.
Hogs	3.50	@ 4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .78
Corn—No. 2	.31	@ .31½
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.24	@ .25
Rye—No. 2	.51	@ .53
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	3.50	@ 4.75
Hogs	3.50	@ 4.25
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	.90	@ .91
Corn—No. 2	.33½	@ .34½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

Horrible Circumstances of a Madman's Suicide.

A horrible suicide occurred at North Vernon, George F. Strang cutting his throat with a razor. He was a man about fifty years of age, and for some months has been demented, though harmless. The other morning he plunged into a cistern, but the cold water scared him out of his purpose and he pulled himself out. A few hours later he arose from where he had been talking with his wife, who was ill, and passing into another room, in a moment grasped a razor from a drawer and slashed his throat with it. Mrs. Strang, who was keeping as close a watch as possible on him, rushed to prevent the deed and grasped his arms and hands. But she was weak, as were the little son and daughter, who came to her assistance, and the madman pushed them away, declaring loudly that he would kill himself, and grasping the already uncovered blood-vessels, drew the weapon across them, almost severing the head from his body. The blood gushed in torrents, and the stricken wife and children were crimsoned with it. They immediately gave the alarm and assistance and sympathy came to them quickly, but the man was dead. Strang leaves a wife and six children.

Minor State Items.

—Six members of Company D, at Crawfordsville, have been expelled by order of Gov. Hovey.

—Joseph Saunders, a young man living east of Colfax, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen while hunting.

—Edward Roswag, an employe at the Straw-board-works, Kokomo, was severely, if not fatally injured by an accident.

—While felling a tree, near Vincennes, Frank Musterman, a young man, was caught by the branches and crushed to death.

—The clothing of the 5-year-old daughter of John Hogan, of Shelbyville, caught fire, and she was fatally burned.

—A female seminary is to be erected by the Catholics of Fort Wayne. The congregation of St. Mary's Church has pledged $10,000.

—The school at Wesley, in Montgomery County, has been closed because the teacher, Jessie Swift, and thirty pupils have la grippe.

—The semi-annual State Convention of the Indiana Christian Missionary Society will meet at Crawfordsville on February 25, 26, and 27.

—John Summy, aged 65 years, was drowned in Shipshewana Lake. He was a large property-holder of Shipshewana, Lagrange County.

—John McGraw, a farmer residing near Cannelburg, was run down and killed by a train, while walking along the track in an intoxicated condition.

—Tad Gallagher, an employe of the wire nail-works at Anderson, was terribly burned by a red-hot wire breaking and coiling about his face and neck.

—A small child of Fred Wamhoff, residing near Huntingburg, was instantly killed by a post thirty feet high falling on him and crushing his head to a pulp.

—Joseph Arnold, while assisting at the test of a traction engine at Richmond, was caught by the fly-wheel and thrown several feet, receiving two fractures.

—Lee Wah Sing, the Chinese merchant, of Logansport, has finally been granted, by the Treasury Department, a permit to re-enter the United States after visiting China.

—Fred, the 13-year-old son of Charles Balschmeiter, of LaPorte, was drowned in Clear Lake. He lost his life in attempting to rescue a companion who had broken through the ice.

—Charles Pettigrew, of Fortville, who, last November, received a full charge of shot in his abdomen, which at the time was considered fatal, has so far recovered as to be able to get out.

—Seed A. Bonham, of the undertaking firm of Bonham & Gill, of Washington, was injured, probably fatally, in a runaway accident. He is a man of family and about thirty years of age.

—Dr. Swartz, of Fort Wayne, gave his 2-year-old son a dose of corrosive sublimate through mistake, the druggist having put up a wrong prescription. The child died soon after having taken the dose.

—At Evansville, a small boy named Albert McDevitt attempted to steal a ride on the Belt road, but missed his hold and was thrown under the wheels and terribly mangled, both legs being cut off.

—Nick Smith (colored) was in a hurry to make the fire burn in a range at the European Hotel, at Crawfordsville. He poured a quart of gasoline upon the slow-burning fire, and the stove went up to the ceiling and Nick out of the door.

—While Marguerite, the 12-year-old daughter of T. J. Allen, of Muncie, was attempting to push the shutters of an up-stairs window open she lost her balance and fell to the ground, a distance of fifteen feet, alighting in such a manner that she was only slightly hurt.

—Henry Worley, coal leveler at the Crawford shaft, between Knightsville and Harmony, met with a serious accident. He was caught by two tons of coal being dumped into a car and terribly crushed. It is probable that his injuries are fatal.

—Andrew Yasiski, a Pole, was dangerously hurt, at Michigan City, in a runaway accident. His father-in-law, Nicholas Katemarak, while on the way with the injured man, met with a similar accident, suffering a broken arm and internal injuries.

—Andrew J. Huffman, of Lapel, is authority for the statement that he has shipped no hogs to Pittsburgh; that he has had no hogs affected with rabies, and that the stories of rabies among the stock in that neighborhood are without foundation.

—Charles Watkeys, son of Master Mechanic Watkeys, of the Monon, was run down by a freight train at New Albany, while attempting to cross the track, and had his left leg so badly crushed above the ankle that it is feared amputation of the member will be necessitated.

—Zed Banham, driver of a hearse at Washington, was thrown to the ground and fatally injured in a runaway accident.

—William Smith enlisted at Newburg, in 1862, in the Sixtieth Indiana. After the war he went back home, but was not in his right mind, and wandered away. Since then, for eighteen years past, he has worked on the Hummell farm, near Madison. His family have just learned of his whereabouts through correspondence.

—Patents have been issued to Hoosier inventors as follows: Frank O. Climer, portable copying press; Joseph F. Gent, Columbus, pneumatic separator and grader; Eli Keith, Hagerstown, washing-machine; Henry W. Plough and E. N. Giles, Indianapolis, portable hot-air radiator; Joseph G. Whitier, Attica, door-check.

—The Council of Crawfordsville has instructed the City Clerk to go to Indianapolis and make a transcript of all the laws enacted by the Legislature which have any bearing upon said city. It has just been ascertained that an alley had been vacated years ago by an act of the Legislature, for which a petition was before the Council.

—Joseph Kliter, a shoemaker living at New Richmond, Montgomery County, has an original plan of reading newspapers, which he has followed several years. He is a subscriber to several papers, but during the summer he never reads one of them. The papers are laid away until winter, when he puts in the time reading the "latest news."

—Freight Engineer Charles Gorman, of the Nickel Plate road, died very suddenly at Hammond. He was standing in the cab of his engine, with his hand on the throttle, when he was stricken with heart disease and dropped to the floor. He was removed to a caboose near by, where he died a few moments later. The remains will be taken to Blanchard, Ohio, for burial. Mr. Gorman was 36 years old and unmarried.

—The people of Henry County are bound to have free pikes, and have been actively at work toward that end ever since the late Legislature passed a law providing for the purchase of the toll roads. The County Commissioners have bought two roads, aggregating seven miles in length, paying $3,000 for them. Petitions are in circulation for the purchase of nearly every turnpike in the county, and toll-gates will soon be a thing of the past.

—David Cashatt, an old gentleman living with Thomas Ratcliff, just south of Russiaville, was very suddenly deprived of his hearing one day last week. He, in company with James Warbeck, was sawing timber in the woods, and Mr. Warbeck noticed that his partner failed to respond in the conversation they were having, and found to his surprise that the old man was deaf as a post. He was taken to Kokomo to physicians there, but failed to get relief.

—Ed Russell, aged 18 years, employed in the planing-mill of H. M. Caylor, of Noblesville, was struck in the forehead by a piece of an exploded emery wheel, producing a serious wound between the eyes. A piece of the skull one and one-half by three inches, together with fragments of the emery wheel, were removed. Other pieces of the wheel were thrown fully twenty-five feet. The wounded man is resting easily, and bids fair to recover.

—Another heavy damage suit was filed in court at Evansville against the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad Company. The plaintiff is Horace Dahler, jr., who, while working in the capacity of switchman, was, on October 17, 1889, badly injured while coupling cars, the drawheads of which, he claims, were defective, causing his arm to be caught and mangled. It was later necessary to amputate it. He wants $20,000 damages.

—At Nevada Mills, a hamlet in Steuben County, Mrs. Marie Neutz, ex-postmistress de jure, but postmistress de facto, is holding the fort against the government. Thompson C. Terry was recently appointed, but she says he shall not officiate in her store, and that he cannot move the office to his own without an order from the Goverment to do so. A few nights ago Terry and friends attempted to take forcible possession, but the postmistress, with a squad of friends, ejected them.

—A very sad accident occurred five miles south of Russiaville. Nat Heaton was out hunting rabbits and got up on a stump to look around for game, laying his gun on his arm. It slipped down to the stump, and in the fall the lock struck against the bark and discharged the load into the young man's bowels. All one side of the abdominal wall was torn out. When found he was still alive, but his bowels were lying out on the ground. He was carried to his home, where he lingered in great agony until death came to his relief.

—The cases of the State against thirteen prominent young men living in the northern part of Shelby County, amateur White Caps, were called up recently, and, by agreement with the Prosecutor, six of them pleaded guilty and were heavily fined. The six who pleaded guilty were Fleming Ball, Caleb Wilcoxen, W. F. Holbrook, Charles Poston, William Sleeth, and Ben Ernest. The cases against the young men grew out of their running out of the country a young man named Edgar Elliott and his wife, who are now supposed to be in Michigan.

—Patrick Flynn, a farmer near Woodville, Porter County, nearly killed himself by drinking horse liniment. Despondency from sickness was the cause of the attempt.

—Burglars broke into the County Treasurer's office, at the Daviess County Court House, at Washington, and blew open the outside doors of the safe. The noise of the explosion was so great that the neighborhood was aroused, and the burglars had to abandon the work before getting to the cash-box. They succeeded in ruining the safe.

—The coroner's inquest over John Summey, who was supposed to have been drowned in Shipshewana Lake, developed the fact that he had been "sand-bagged" and robbed, and had wandered about for some time in a dazed condition.

—Eleven thousand dollars of the capital stock of the Decatur Natural-gas Company has been subscribed, and arrangements are now being made to drill several wells in the vicinity of Baalbec, Jay County, where the Company has leased 900 acres of land for gas purposes.

BRAZIL IS WELCOMED.

FORMAL RECOGNITION OF BRAZIL'S NEW RULERS.

The Minister and Envoy Extraordinary of the Provisional Government Welcomed at the Executive Mansion by President Harrison—Washington Gossip.

Washington dispatch: The formal recognition of the United States of Brazil was completed at the executive mansion, when Dr. Valente, the new minister accredited by the provisional government, and Mr. Mendonca, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, on a special mission to this country, called and presented their credentials to President Harrison. The ceremonies took place in the blue room and were marked by great cordiality. Dr. Valence, upon presenting his credentials, made a short address, to which President Harrison replied as follows:

"Mr. Minister: I receive you as the representative of a new republic—always a grateful duty to the government of the United States. The peaceful course of events that has transformed the empire of Brazil into the United States of Brazil has been observed with deep interest by the government of this country. It is a source of profound satisfaction to the American people that the provisional government of the Brazilian republicans came into power without bloodshed and without violence. I trust this circumstance may prove a happy augury of peace, progress, and prosperity in the career which now opens to the United States of Brazil. Speaking for the people of this country, it will be my constant aim to cultivate the most friendly relations with your government; to increase the personal intercourse and to enlarge the commercial exchanges between the two republics. I trust, Mr. Minister, that you will find in this capital a pleasant residence, as I am sure you will receive a warm welcome."

Mr. Mendonca then addressed the President and to this the President replied:

"Mr. Minister: This government is happy to receive you on the special mission with which you are intrusted by the provisional government of the United States of Brazil, with the full rank of envoy extraordinary. The Secretary of State of the United States is appointed with full authority, to confer with you on special matters with which you are charged by your government. You will be cordially received in the capital with all the courtesy due to your high rank."

The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, which makes necessary the refunding of several millions of dollars to the importers who paid a duty of 50 per cent on silk ribbons instead of 20 per cent, as they claim they should have paid, was based on the peculiar wording of the tariff act. The bill, which was passed for the purpose of changing this wording, has left the matter practically as it stood before. This morning Senators Aldrich and Morrill, members of the finance committee that now has the bill under consideration, called at the Treasury and talked over the matter with Secretary Windom. The result will be that the Senate committee will amend the bill so that all materials for hats not specially enumerated as assessable at 20 per cent will be required to pay duty of 50 per cent under the law.

Secretary Noble has denied the report that he was to be appointed United States circuit judge in the circuit made vacant by the promotion of Judge Brewer to the bench of the Supreme court. Secretary Noble is undoubtedly sincere in his denial. Nevertheless, it is true that some time ago he was thinking seriously of accepting this place if it were offered him.

While President Harrison determined last July to appoint ex-Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, to be recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, Bruce has just received his commission. Mr. Trotter, of Massachusetts, the present recorder, testified recently that during the three years he had held this office it had netted him a little over $40,000.

WHAT COL. STOPPEL SAYS.

He Recommends an Offensive and Defensive Alliance.

Paris cable: A sensation has been caused here by the publication of a pamphlet by Col. Stppel, formerly military attache of the French embassy in Berlin, and who, prior to 1870, warned his government that the admirable organization of the German army would render war against it by France disastrous. In his pamphlet the colonel recommends an offensive and defensive alliance between France and Germany to oppose Russian aggression, but he adds that this alliance will be possible only if Alsace-Lorraine is returned to France.

A ROYAL QUARREL.

The Emperor Tired of Being Restrained by the Venerable Chancellor.

London cable: The Berlin press confirm the reports that a coolness has arisen between Emperor William and Prince Bismarck, growing out of certain expressions in the speech from the throne which the Emqeror persisted in retaining against the advice of the Chancellor. This is the ostensible reason given, but it is believed that the causes go deeper. It is hinted that radical differences have arisen and the young Emperor is growing weary of restraint.

IN LOVE WITH NATALIE.

A Prince of Roumania Smitten with the Ex-Queen of Servia.

Bucharest cable: The nephew of the King of Roumania, and heir to the throne, has fallen desperately in love with Queen Natalie of Servia, to the intense vexation of the royal family. The Price is bent on marrying Natalie, whom he regards as the greatest heroine and martyr of the age. Close watch is kept to prevent a clandestine marriage.

Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria will, according to report, shortly wed an immensely wealthy American Catholic lady.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS.

A Mob in Bohemia Demolishes a Glass Factory.

Vienna cable: The series of strikes among the glass-blowers of Gablonz, Bohemia, has reached a bloody culmination. Stirred up by the leaders of labor agitation, a mob of about 500 strikers gathered and made an attack on Neudorf & Wissenthal's factories.

The doors were broken down and a mob rushed in and smashed the machinery. The proprietors of the factory appealed to the authorities for protection and a force of police was sent to deal with the strikers.

A fierce fight ensued during which the police killed two and wounded several of the rioters, who were finally dispersed.

Three Men Killed.

A boiler in the sawmill of A. B. Leach & Co., at Falling Rock, twenty-eight miles from Charleston, W. Va., exploded. Joseph Wright and Nordici Hoover were instantly killed and Bud Mullens was so badly mangled that he died a few minutes later.

Frank Filler and Ben Atkins were killed by a boiler explosion at Beebe, Ark.

MR. REED'S IRON HAND.

LIVELY DEBATE IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Speaker Holds that Non-voting Members May Be Counted as "Present" for the Sake of a Quorum—His Decision Is Denounced as Revolutionary by the Democrats and a Bitter Debate Ensues.

[Washington dispatch.]

The expected battle in the House on Wednesday over the Smith-Jackson election case from West Virginia was hotly contested on both sides. Mr. Crisp (Ga.) fired the first gun as soon as the case was called up by raising the question of consideration. On this vote the Democrats, with three exceptions (Messrs. Buckalew, Covert and Cowles), refrained from voting. While the clerk was calling the roll the Speaker was carefully noting the names of those Democrats who were present and not voting. Before the announcement of the vote Mr. Rogers (Ark.), who had inadvertently voted in the affirmative, decided to withdraw his vote, but he was met with a storm of objections from the Republican side. Mr. Rogers endeavored to secure a ruling from the Speaker on the question in order that he might enter an appeal, but the Speaker declined to rule. Mr. Covert (N. Y.) changed his vote from the negative to the affirmative. Mr. Rogers was then given permission to withdraw his vote, as was also Mr. Cowles (N. C.).

The vote was announced as standing—yeas, 161; nays, 2.

Mr. Crisp raised the point of no quorum.

The Speaker directed the Clerk to record the names of members present and not voting, as jotted down by the Speaker. This was the signal for a burst of applause from the Republicans and of jeers from the Democrats. When the name of Mr. Breckinridge (Ky.) was called, he stepped into the aisle, and, in a resounding voice, said:

"I deny the right of the Speaker to do this, and I denounce it as revolutionary."

During the remainder of the roll-call the wildest confusion prevailed, a dozen Democrats being on the floor at once denouncing the action of the Speaker. Mr. Bland (Mo.) roared out that he was responsible for his action only to his constituents and not to the Speaker, and Mr. O'Ferrall (Va.) protested in the name of his State against this action. Mr. McCreary (Ky.) denied the right of the Speaker to count him as present.

The Speaker—The Chair is making a statement of fact that the gentleman is present. Does the gentleman deny that he is present?

Continuing, the Speaker said that the question was now before the House and the Chair proposed to give a statement, accompanied by a ruling, from which an appeal could be taken if any gentleman was satisfied therewith.

Mr. Crisp (in advance)—I enter an appeal.

The Speaker then proceeded to quote precedents in Democratic Legislatures for his action, reading in full a decision of Gov. Hill when President of the New York State Senate, but ignored Mr. Flower's request to have the Republican protest against that decision also read. The Speaker continued:

"But there is an entirely familiar process which every old member will recognize, whereby the opinion of the Chair is incontestable evidence of the recognition at all times of the right to record members present as constituting a part of a quorum. It has been almost an every-day occurrence at certain stages of the session for votes to be announced by the Chair containing obviously and emphatically no quorum. Yet, if the point was not made, the bill was always declared passed, and that could only be on a very distinct basis, and that was that everybody present silently agreed to the fact that there was a quorum. There was no ground on which by any possibility such a bill could be passed constitutionally unless the presence of a quorum was inferred, and it was inferred from the fact that no one had raised the question. All methods of determining the vote were of equal value. It has always been the practice in parliamentary bodies of this character, and especially in the Parliament of Great Britain, for the Speaker to determine the question if there was or was not a quorum present, by count. It was because that was a determination of actual fact, and the determining of that was intrusted to the presiding officer in almost all instances. Again, there was a provision in the Constitution which declared that the House might establish rules for compelling the attendance of members. If members could be present and refuse to exercise their functions, and yet not be counted as a quorum, that provision would seem to be entirely nugatory. The Chair therefore rules that there is a quorum present within the meaning of the Constitution."

Mr. Crisp said that this was the first time in the history of the Government that the Speaker had decided that he could go behind the roll-call provided for by the Constitution. This was more than a mere question of rules. It was a constitutional right—the right to have the yeas and nays entered on the journal—and it necessarily followed that when the Constitution said that the yeas and nays should be so entered they could not be added to or taken from. He then quoted from Speaker Blaine's ruling on the force bill to the effect that the Speaker had not the power to count a quorum, and declared that the decision just made by Speaker Reed would be the foundation of the greatest legislative frauds ever committed. He quoted Mr. Garfield as denouncing a similar rule when it was proposed in his time, and as asking the questions: "Who is to control the seeing of the Speaker?" and "How do we know but that the Speaker may see forty members—for his own purpose—more than there are in the House?"

Mr. Crisp also quoted from the remarks of Mr. Reed, the present Speaker, in the same debate, when he used these words:

"The constitutional idea of a quorum is not the physical presence of a majority of the members of the House, but a majority of the members present and participating in the business of the House."

"I appeal," Mr. Crisp exclaimed, "from Philip drunk to Philip sober."

Mr. Crisp was asked from the Republican side what had been the result of the decision in New York referred to by the Speaker. The question was answered by Mr. Springer to the effect that the action of Mr. Hill on that occasion had been denounced by all the Democrats of the New York Legislature as revolutionary.

Mr. Cannon declared that the presence of the members not voting, but counted by the Chair, constituted more than a quorum. Gentlemen on the other side might rise and say that the action of the Chair was revolutionary. As they disagreed, they should consult the Constitution. The Constitution provided as follows:

"Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and the qualifications of its own members, and the majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business."

Did the Constitution say that a majority should be required to vote for a measure, a motion, or a resolution in order to pass it? Not at all. It merely said that a majority of each house should constitute a quorum to do business. Mr. Cannon laid down the proposition that, by general parliamentary law and under the Constitution, when a quorum is present and when that fact is ascertained, and when there is a majority voting in favor of a measure, that measure is adopted, whether it be motion, resolution, or law. He believed that thereby the Constitution was satisfied in form and substance, and that the people all over the country would justify that course.

Mr. Carlisle declared that every Speaker from the beginning of Congress had held that a majority must not only be present to constitute a quorum, but that a quorum must participate in the legislation. He then quoted the section of the Constitution which provides for the keeping of a journal and for the entering upon it of the yeas and nays when demanded by one fifth of the members present, and also that section which says that less than a quorum can adjourn from day to day and can compel the attendance of absent members.

Now the Constitution, continued Mr. Carlisle, did not say in express terms that in order to transact business a majority of the House should be present, but that a majority of the House should constitute a quorum "to do business," and then it proceeded to specify distinctly what those things were which a majority could do. When the framers of the Constitution provided that a majority of the members-elect should constitute a quorum to do business they saw that if it stopped there less than a quorum could do certain things. If the ruling made this morning was correct there was no necessity for any provision of the Constitution defining what less than a majority could do. He denied absolutely the right of the presiding officer of the House to make the journal. Suppose the Speaker was right; then one man could pass a bill as well as 160. If the Speaker had a right to make a journal and to make a quorum, and to have the Clerk of the House, under his direction, put upon the journal the fact that there was a quorum present, then there was no longer any use for the representatives of the people in the House. The Speaker was simply the organ of the House, not its master.

Mr. McKinley then took the floor, but yielded to a motion to adjourn, which was carried without division.

A Disconsolate Newsboy.

Some time ago a policeman found a little street gamin hanging over an empty beer keg in front of a Superior street saloon. Supposing the boy was drunk, the officer took hold of him and said:

"Come along to the station with me."

"Go 'way," answered the boy, sullenly. "Don't bodder me. I'se got trouble enough."

"Trouble? What's the matter?"

"My girl's gone back on me. Read dat," and the street gamin shoved a soiled note into the officer's palm.

The note read:

"Deer Roxy: I don't go to know bawl wid you. Reddy sold 400 papers yesterday an' he's got der boodle.

"Sally."

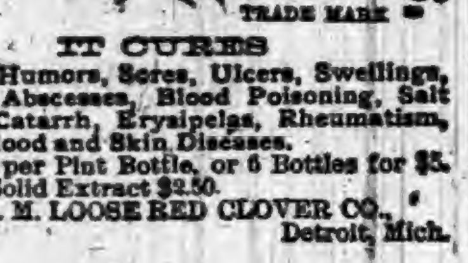
"Giv' me der shake 'cause I didn't sell enough papers ter make big bawl money," said the gamin, bitterly. "An' I've a durn good mind ter 'lectric wire myself."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT
RED
CLOVER BLOSSOM
THE GREAT Blood Purifier.
PURE AND EFFICACIOUS.



TRADE MARK

IT CURES
Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.
PRICE, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.
J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO.,
Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
·CELEBRATED· WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, ETC.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR
ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LaSalle St. CHICAGO. | 30 Vesey St. NEW YORK. | 10 Johnston St. TORONTO.

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write
WM. T. LINDLEY & CO.,
814-824 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. MRS. A. A. GILLIAM, Treas. Woman's Exchange.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1. '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. SMITH, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years. BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.

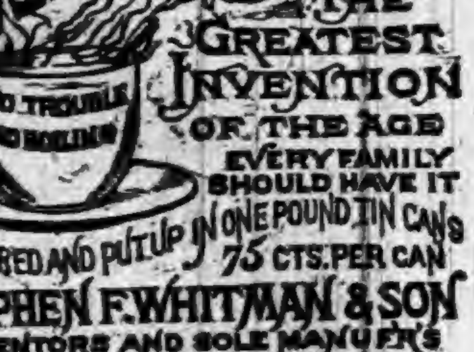
ST. LOUIS, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. STAND'D DRUG CO. 900 Franklin Av.

St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. MASTBROOK, D'gs 109 S. B'way.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. REV. JOHN HAWKES.

Chicago Times, March 28, '88-Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88,—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.

Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U. S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.



INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS
75 CTS. PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS
A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. It's far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price 30 cts. for single, or two packets for 50 cts. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address,

GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Always mention this paper.

"DEM YALLER SHOES."

BY JOHN DE WITT.

I'se trabeled dis yer country,
I'se ridden many miles,
I'se seen de biggest cities,
I'se worn der white folks tiles;
Dey's called me nigger often,
Dey's heaped me wid abuse,
But nebber yit indooced me
To war dem yaller shoes.

I'se proud I is a niggar,
I knows whar I'se brot up,
Ole marster nebber would hab
Frown such shoes to our pup;
He blonged to all der sy-ties,
Payed heaps an' heaps er dues,
But being er white gent-men,
He wore no yaller shoes.

I'se wurked as er porter,
On one ub Pullman's kyars,
I used to make my lib-bing
By tips and good cig-yars;
But now I'le try white-washing,
My place I'le hab ter lose,
I'se knocked out by "po white trash,"
What wars dem yaller shoes.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER X.

OFFICIALS—ENGLISH AND OTHERS.

I REACHED Cadiz on the sixth evening after my departure from Bythesea.

I took up my quarters at the Fonda del Mar, one of the best of the many indifferent hotels in the "Silver Saucer," as Cadiz is called locally.

What was I in search of? Proof of former intimacy, acquaintance, connection, more or less close, between Mr. Peter Sarsfield and Xavier de Yriarte, alias Joseph Cocch; the one, formerly a Cadiz merchant; the other, till only recently, a sea captain sailing from the same port.

I decided at length to make inquiries for Mr. Sarsfield. My first visit was to the British Consulate. The Vice Consul, Mr. Matthew Cripps, a dried-up little man of middle age, received me, his chief being for the moment absent on leave.

"Although I have but little hope of obtaining an answer, did you ever hear of a man named Xavier de Yriarte, a sailor, belonging to Cadiz?" I asked him.

"A Spanish seaman and subject, I suppose. No, sir, I have never heard of the man. You had better apply to the Captain of the Port."

As I was quite hopeless of extracting anything from Don Mateo Cripps, I left the Consulate and returned somewhat disheartened to my hotel.

Mr. Sarsfield for the moment had eluded my researches, so I determined to devote myself to Yriarte.

Before facing the certain vexation of further inquiry, and feeling that, bad as was my semi-British official, the native Spaniard would be infinitely worse, especially to one who spoke little of the vernacular, I now secured the services of a guide and interpreter. Raman Zapato was one of half a dozen such that hung about the Fonda del Mar.

Taking the telegraph office on my way, whence I dispatched a message to Smart, asking whether Mr. Sarsfield was Protestant or Catholic. I went on to see the Captain of the Port.

After waiting quite half an hour I was introduced into the presence of a very fat old man, who appeared to have been just roused from heavy slumber and to be still half asleep. He wore a thin, short jacket of alpaca, showing an open shirt-front, white duck trousers and white canvas shoes.

He was told the object of my visit by Ramon, but he vouchsafed no reply; he only stared silently, indignantly, I thought, for many more minutes, then his huge body was convulsed with internal commotion, and he yelled suddenly at the top of his voice:

"Manoel!"

The shout summoned a lesser official, the counterpart of his chief, but on a smaller scale.

"Manoel!" repeated the Captain of the Port, only a little less loudly, "take this caballero and tell him what he wants to know. Do not let me be disturbed again, or, by the ten lives of my patron saint, I'll postpone your pay another year."

We were dismissed, and going out Ramon whispered to me:

"I'll give him, Manoel, half a doubloon. He'll be as easy as a glove after that." And the bribe had the desired effect, for the man was all eagerness to oblige.

"Xavier de Yriarte? A sailor? What ship? Can't tell? Was he a mate, a master, captain, or what?"

He danced about, took down many brass-bound volumes, wildly turned over leaf after leaf; but it was near half an hour before he said:

"The only person of the name was Captain of the Dos Hermanos (Two Brothers), which cleared from this port on March 10, 186—."

"Where bound?"

"Bound for the Havana."

"And when did the ship return?"

There was another long pause.

"I cannot find that she ever returned," said Manoel, at length. "There is no other entry concerning her."

"No trace of Captain Yriarte?"

"No; none whatever, so far as I can see."

He re-examined the registers, with no more satisfactory result, and I left the port office, as I had the consulate, almost in despair.

But I had no thought of giving in; I was determined to prosecute my search to the end. I now found Ramon very useful. It was his suggestion that inquiries should be made among the sailors of the port; the harbor was crowded with shipping, there must surely be some one on board or at the quay-side to whom Yriarte was known. This task I intrusted to the guide, resolving myself to take the first steamer to Gibraltar, encouraged to to do so by a telegram received that evening from Smart.

It contained the single word "Protestant"; but I knew now that the marriage must have been performed at Gibraltar, and I had some vague, fresh hope that Mr. Sarsfield would probably be better remembered there in an English fortress town than in Cadiz, the sleepy Spanish seaport.

I called on the police magistrate, Major Crichton. I found myself in the presence of a man who impressed me favorably at once.

"A marriage? You want proof of a marriage? Nothing easier. What are the names? When did it take place?"

I confessed my inability to supply all these details.

"Never mind. If you knew all that, probably you would not apply to us. But how much do you know?"

"Only one name—that of Sarsfield."

"It's not much. However—here, Alejandro." He called in a police inspector, to whom he gave a few brief instructions in Spanish, and the man immediately left the room. "Come back, Mr.—Mr. Leslie, this afternoon. We will have the certificate for you. Meanwhile, you may like to see something of the Rock, the galleries, and so forth. I will give you a permit. You will get a guide at your hotel. Good-day."

And I was bowed out, having done more in five minutes than in a whole day at Cadiz.

I returned to the police station at 3 o'clock, and was admitted at once.

"Ah, good-afternoon. This is what you want, I think." And the magistrate promptly handed me a slip of paper, which proved to be a certified extract from the marriage register of the English cathedral at Gibraltar, and which recorded the marriage of one Peter Sarsfield, of the firm of Cooch & Izquierdo, of Cadiz and Havana, with Anna, daughter of the late Lucas Garcia, of Cadiz.

"Cooch!" My eye caught the name directly. Here was positive evidence of some connection between the two men at last. The name Yriarte had assumed was that of a member of the firm to which Mr. Sarsfield belonged; the sailor had probably been employed by the merchant, had commanded a ship of his, the Dos Hermanos, possibly; perhaps during that time had acquired some hold—no, I was getting on too fast. Hasty deduction again; I must verify these assumptions before reasoning from them, and to do that I must return to Cadiz. With that I rose to take my leave of Major Crichton.

There was nothing now to detain me in Gibraltar, much to draw me back to Cadiz. How could I soonest return there?

I heard at my hotel that an American man-of-war was in the bay on the point of starting for Cadiz. Without hesitation I gathered my traps together and went off in a shore-boat to ask passage.

The Captain, to whom I sent my card, received me on the quarter-deck, but politely yet firmly refused my request.

"A United States ship is not a Cunarder, sir. Guess you'll have to apply somewhere else."

I explained that only the extreme urgency of my case, the paramount importance of my returning speedily to Cadiz, would have induced me to intrude.

"Why are you in such a hurry? Why don't you ask your own people—you're a Britisher, I presume?"

"I should certainly have asked them or any one, had any other steamer been under way for Cadiz; but your ship is the only one, and I have ventured to throw myself on your generosity."

"It's very urgent, is it?" asked the Captain, curiously; "not a case of bolt—a clean pair of heels?"

I laughed as I assured him that I did not belong to Gibralter—that I had only visited it on special business, the nature of which I hinted to him very plainly.

"Detective, eh—a limb of the law? Well, every good citizen, whatever his flag, is bound to respect and aid the law. You may bring your traps aboard."

I thanked Captain Verheyden warmly, and quickly availed myself of his permission; indeed, the civility shown me did not end here, with the passage so hospitably accorded, as I was pleased to find after my return to Cadiz.

CHAPTER XI.

DETAILS OF THE DEAD.

Ramon, the guide, reported himself next morning. His little, round, sallow face was beaming with delight, and there was a twinkle of satisfaction in his small, black, beady eyes.

"Good news, senor mio," he began, "I have heard of our man."

"Of Yriarte? Capital? But how?" I inquired.

"One of the crew of the Clavel—a three-masted xebecque from the Canaries—by name Bartolomeo Delgado, sailed with him several voyages to the Havana."

Bartolomeo was brought in, a true type of the Southern sailor, short, squarely built, black as a Lascar, in a blue-and-white striped jersey thrown open, showing his brawny, hairy chest, on which lay a little "Agnus Dei," hanging from a ribbon round his neck.

He stood silent and stolid till he heard the chink of the dollars as I counted them out on the table, and then declared himself mine body and soul.

"He knew Captain Yriarte?" I asked through Ramon.

"Seguro. Of course; I made many voyages with him to the Havana in the Dos Hermanos."

"Who were the owners? Does he remember? Ask him that," I went on.

"Why not? Rich merchants of the Havana—Cooch & Izquierdo."

Again, that name, fresh corroboration; exactly what I wanted to know.

"And he thinks the ship was lost at sea?"

At this question the sailor pursed up his lips sideways and turned out the palms of his hands, a gesture indicating utter ignorance, and said:

"Dios sabe" (God knows). "She never came back to Cadiz."

"The captain did, though, and you have seen him, you admit. When and where was this?"

The man hesitated; but the money was not yet his, and I insisted on an answer.

"Yes—here in Cadiz. I think so, that is to say."

"In the port?"

"No, at a posado; a wine-shop on the wharf, the sign of 'The Salt Codfish,' a house we sailors use."

"Did you speak to him?"

At first Delgado would not allow that he had, but when pressed he admitted that the captain and he had drunk a pint of wine together.

"And he told you where he had been all these years?"

"Away yonder—in the Havana."

"Always in the Dos Hermanos?"

"Quien sabe? I suppose so."

"Till she was lost? Did he tell you how it happened? Where?"

"No." This was a lie, I felt sure, from the way in which it was said. "But he told me he never meant to go to sea again."

"Why not? Had he made his fortune?"

"Oh, no; but he had enough to live upon. He had good friends, too. They would not let him want, he said."

Did this refer to Mr. Sarsfield, and some contemplated scheme of extortion?

"Friends; relations, I suppose, in Cadiz? Do you know them? Who are they? Rich?"

"His mother lives; but she is certainly not rich."

"What is her address?"

"She belongs to Puertocito del Rio, a village down the coast a few miles."

I promised myself the pleasure of an early call upon the Senora Yriarte, but just now the English mail arrived, and as they brought me in my letters I dismissed Bartolomeo, with his reward.

Mr. Smart had written to me a letter, answering my telegram more at length:

"I had no difficulty in sending you the information you sought, for just when it reached me our friend, Captain Fawcett, had called, and was sitting with me. He had come to put me on guard, he said."

Fawcett volunteering assistance to the police, I thought to myself. How strange!

"He is not wrapped up in you, I find. You will probably think you know why. Yes, he suspects you of having set the girl against him, of having cut him out with her; but he suspects, or pretends to suspect, you of more than that. Do you know, Mr. Leslie, he almost persuaded me? I began to think we were pretty flats to let you get away to Spain. It was he who first reminded me that we had no extradition treaty with that country."

The scoundrel! Does he dare to accuse me?

"I was wondering whether you had gone there on purpose to give us the slip when your telegram arrived, and I felt I was near doing you an injustice. Was it probable you would wire to me like that if you were not acting on the square? But this Fawcett is a clever, artful chap, I can tell you; and he put the case very well. Why had you made yourself so busy, why so anxious to help us run in the criminal—putting us on the track first of this person, then that, and all wrongly—except to divert suspicions from yourself? Why had you been so fierce against Mr. Sarsfield? Why threaten him——"

I started as I read this part of the letter.

"Why threaten him with anonymous letters, giving him such a shock and persecuting the poor man till he had a fit, and was almost given up for dead?"

I had here the clew to the contents of that letter which had such an effect upon Mr. Sarsfield, and which I had seen Fawcett snatch from his fingers and read. It was clearly an attempt at extortion, a threat of exposure, a resolve to make public some facts known to the writer and dangerously compromising to Mr. Sarsfield.

Who could be the writer?

Only one person—Cornelis.

I was now more than ever convinced that the waiter was an important witness in this case; that he knew more about it and Mr. Sarsfield's connection with it than any of us. He must be found and compelled to speak somehow, by fair means or foul; to that I had quite made up my mind.

Mr. Smart's letter did not tell me much more. He said that Mr. Sarsfield had been very ill—he had had some seizure, it was supposed—but at any rate he had not left his room since his fall, and that little had been seen of the ladies. Fortunately Captain Fawcett had paid his visit to the police office, and had answered my question as to Mr. Sarsfield's faith; otherwise I should not have heard so soon.

Ramon came to be by appointment that afternoon, and we took the train together to within a mile of the village Puertocito del Rio, where I was told the dead man's mother lived.

It was only a small place, half a dozen whitewashed huts lying at the mouth of a stream with flat, sandy banks.

"Quien es?" (Who is it?) asked an aged, quavering voice from inside the hut they told us belonged to the abuela (grandmother) Yriarte.

We entered the hut, a mere hovel, with a circular strip of matting on the sandy floor, a table and one or two cane-bottomed chairs the only furniture.

The occupant was in keeping with her house; an old, very aged woman she looked, with her shriveled, parchment-like skin, her straggling, snow-white elf locks, toothless gums and pointed chin. She seemed half crazed, yet there was still fire in her dark, wandering eyes, fierceness in the well-developed beard and mustachios, and she spoke in the deep bass of a vigorous man.

"Who are you? What brings you hither?" she asked, most ungraciously.

Ramon replied with the utmost sweetness:

"We came, madam, to inquire for your worship's son. Can you give us news of him?"

"I cannot. He is not here. Begone."

"But you saw him lately, I think? He visited your ladyship not many weeks ago?"

"May not a son come to his mother's house without furnishing gossip for every evil tongue? Was it strange he should return after all these years of absence? I mourned him as dead"—she said this to herself—"dead, my only son."

"He was shipwrecked, I think?" went on Ramon, seeking to bring her back to the point.

"Did they tell you so? They lied. He was in trouble, terrible trouble. They kept him from me by force. He was accused, convicted. But he was not to blame, not alone," she repeated more than once, "and those that made him suffer shall pay for it; yes, they shall pay. We shall be rich, very rich."

She leaned her skinny fingers on Ramon's sleeve, as with deep impressiveness she whispered these words, which he quickly translated to me.

"What has he done? Ask her that," I hurriedly told Ramon.

"Let him tell you," was her answer "I will not, not till he gives me leave."

"You may not see him for some time."

It was thus I sought to break to her the news of his awful death, news that could have hardly reached her yet.

"He is coming to me soon, soon, to take me away from here, from this hovel, these rags; he will give me a big house on the sea-wall at Cadiz, and I shall never soil my fingers or weary my limbs with work again. I shall be rich! I shall have gold, gold! He is coming soon."

"You are mistaken, senora."

"He sent, himself, to tell me so," she cried, angrily interrupting. "His messenger was here only a few days ago, the man he sent for his sea-trunk."

A message from the dead, from beyond the grave! Impossible! Some one, perhaps, that Yriarte had commissioned before the foul blow was struck? This was my first thought; but a second told me I was probably wrong.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Somebody Lied.

In the rotunda of the Russell House, Detroit, I was introduced to fifty prominent citizens who every week buy the Arkansaw Traveler "around at Billy Smith's."

"Delighted to meet you," said Squire Aimsworth. "I read your paper every week—buy it around at Billy Smith's. Why, sir, if I didn't take your paper home every week, my wife would refuse to give me anything to eat. Ah, let me introduce Major Butterfield."

The Major grasped me warmly. "Why, sir," said he, "I have been wanting to meet you for a long time. I have read your—your——"

"Paper," suggested Squire Aimsworth.

"Yes, your paper," the Major continued, "and am delighted with it, I assure you. I buy it every week around at Billy Smith's. Do you know Mr. Moffett? No? I'll introduce him."

Mr. Moffett was delighted to meet me. "I read your paper all the time," said he. "Couldn't get along without it. My wife, daughter, son—all read it. Let me present my friend, Mr. Brizentine."

Mr. Brizentine declared that he bought the paper every week at Billy Smith's; and that whenever he left the city always had his favorite publication forwarded to him. Well, it went on this way until I had met fifty devoted readers, all patrons of the enterprising Billy. It made me feel proud. but in my exultation I did not forget business. I called on a number of patent-medicine men and assured them that an advertisement in our paper meant a shower of gold.

"I don't ask you to take my word concerning our circulation, but am prepared to present facts that can not be disputed. We have an enormous circulation even in your town. Come with me to some of the newsdealers. Suppose we go around to Billy Smith's, for instance."

Several of them went with me. We found Mr. Smith counting a number of dusty, unsold copies of "Robert Elsmere," and the "Quick or the Dead." I handed him my card.

"Glad to meet you, sir."

"Mr. Smith, how many copies of our paper do you sell each week?"

"Six," he answered.

"Gentlemen," said I, "shall we walk around toward the hotel?"

It strikes me that somebody has lied, and I do not believe it was Billy.—Opie P. Read.

Good Rules to Follow.

First, be honest and truthful. All depends upon this.

If you have work to do, do it cheerfully.

If you go out on business, attend to the matter promptly, and then promptly go about your business.

Don't stop to tell stories.

If you have a place of business, be there during business hours.

No one can get rich by sitting around stores and saloons.

PITH AND POINT.

How to raise bread—With your fingers, of course; you should not take a fork.

MRS. A—Did you have a good time at the sewing circle? Mrs. B.—Oh, only sew, sew.

MABLE—Isn't young Mr. Dolly a spruce fellow? Amy—I knew he was a stick, but I did not know exactly what kind.

CUSTOMER—Will this mucilage stick, Mr. Grocer? Grocer—Try it, sir, try it. It stuck me, and I am sure it will stick you.

CITY Cousin—Uncle Abner, do you play whist? Farmer Hayseed—No, Charley,; I don't know anythng about any game but bunco.

Do KITTENS that have been mauled and teased in their infancy become Maultease cats in their advanced years? We paws for a reply.

MR. MEDFORD—Your son seems very industrious. Mrs. Bedford—To a certain extent. He is always doing something when it is time to go to bed.

CROSS-EYED Gentleman (seeking a partner)—Will you honor me, Miss Smith, by dancing the next waltz with me? Two Misses Smith (in unison)—With pleasure.

"AN umbrella is a very good thing to have in the house when it rains," said Mr. Smith. "Yes," answered his companion, "but why don't you get your house shingled?"

ARTIST—Now, in posing do not forget that you are a young girl who refuses disdainfully a wealthy old man. She—Oh, that would be too foolish! I never could do it.

A HARD problem: Flossie (looking up from her history)—Well, what I don't understand about Columbus discovering America is how he knew it was America when he'd never seen it before.

ADORER (after a rebuke by the old lady)—I didn't kiss you. I only pretended I was going to. Why did you call to your mother? Sweet Girl (repentently)—I—I didn't know she was in the house.

FIRST peddler—Vot haf you dere, Levi? Second peddler—O! dis ish a great scheme, Isaacstein. Dis is a letter carrier's vhistle, and it brings the ladies to de door sure every time you rings the bell.

WHAT she made over: Mr. Dumont—How's this, Maria? I gave you money to buy a new hat. and you've made over your old one. Mrs. Dumont (smiling)—Yes; and I've made over $15 also on the operation.

NO BETTER evidence possible: Mrs. Billus—John, you don't seem very grateful for that box of cigars I gave you for a birthday present. Mr. Billus (in anguish of soul)—Not grateful, Maria? Thunder! Ain't I smoking them!

MISS STEELE (of Pittsburg)—So you have a real Chinaman for a servant? is he efficient? Miss Pharwest (of San Francisco)—So-so. He's dreadful hard on dishes. But what would you expect of a domestic that even talks broken China?

A LITTLE mental arithmetic, in a bakery: "Please, mum, how much are those buns?" "Well, my little man, I'll give you six for five cents." "Six for five. That's five for four; four for three; three for two; two for one; and one for—nothing. Please, mum, one's all I want."

ANOTHER MAN.

Whenever Boggs came home at night
Appearing worse for wear,
He told his wife that he got tight
Because it banished care.
Said he: "My darling Mary Ann,
It makes me quite another man."

One night the door was tightly locked,
And though he raised a din
As loud he called and louder knocked
She would not let him in.
"A faithful wife," said Mary Ann,
"Cannot admit another man."

Properties of Quicksand.

The properties of quicksand are thus described in the Mechanical News: "The difference between building sand and true quicksand is most easily explained by comparing building sand to road metal, while the quicksand must be represented by fragments no larger than large buckshot, but shaped like very smooth potatoes. In a word, the quicksand is small and thoroughly waterworn, so that every fragment has been deprived of all its angles and fairly well-polished. Its particles are very small as compared with those of the building sand. The smaller the size and the more complete the rounding the more nearly will the sand approach a liquid condition when it is moistened. The first glance at a fairly mounted sample of quicksand under a microscope is sufficient to show that the quickness of the sand is amply accounted for by the innumerable friction wheels which the particles themselves furnish. Sharp or building sand, on the other hand, will show few round corners, many angles, corners and a general condition like that of broken stone. Sea sand is often unfit for building. even though perfectly deprived of its salt, the reason being that the particles have been worn and polished till they have no more binding powers than so many cobble-stones. It is well to remember that quicksand when dry, if very fine, shows the same properties as a liquid. In holding up the centers of large bridges it is sometimes put into cylinders with a plunger on top of it. It will, when thus confined, hold up the load like a column of water. When it is desired to strike the center a plug is drawn out of the side of the cylinders, and the sand flows out like so much water. The advantage, of course, is that the sand does not need a packed piston, and does not leak out, though the work be prolonged for years. Quicksand when dry and confined forms an admirable foundation, and when wet can be loaded over its whole surface, and give a good support if side openings can be avoided."

Not What He Meant.

An English temperance lecturer, determined to lose no chance of deepening the impressions he sought to make on the minds of his auditors, called to his aid the powers of the magic lantern. He threw on a screen a magnified picture of a drop of water, in which wriggled animalculæ of a particularly lively nature. To this picture of active life succeeded the gloomy view of a drop of water with spirit added, and behold the poor animalculæ all curl up and die. "Lor!" said an old man in the audience, "be 'e sure, mister, I sha'n't never drink a drop of water after seeing that, unless I qualifies it with lots o' spirits to kill the beasties." The lecturer's satisfaction with his experiment is not enlarged upon.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING:
HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.

By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.

Octavo, 600 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.

WE ESPECIALLY INVITE
LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS,
to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.

(When writing, mention this paper.)

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's
MEMORY
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD

In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which, demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address

Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *8 30	am *6 05	......
Wheeling..........	am *7 25	9 10	9 12	9 05	pm ‡12 15
Zanesville.........	10 21	am 12 06	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 01
Newark..........	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus......ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 25
Columbus......lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	‡8 50
Mansfield.........	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 05
Deshler..........	3 30	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance..........	4 22	5 42	10 15	8 50	1 50
Auburn jc..........	......	6 40	11 34	10 22	2 50
Avilla..........	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc..........	......	......	1 16	am 12 06	4 16
Wellsboro..........	......	9 02	2 53	2 00	5 40
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 35

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago.......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro..........	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc..........	......	......	11 00	2 0[illegible]	8 23
Avilla..........	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc..........	......	7 05	12 30	3 22	9 40
Defiance..........	pm 3 06	7 52	2 10	4 37	10 45
Mansfield..........	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 58	12 44
Columbus..........	*6 50	11 30	11 20	11 20	......
Newark..........	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville..........	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 33	6 22
Wheeling.......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh.......ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington....ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.......ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia....ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York.......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent,
Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era..........	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc..........	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn..........	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo..........	12 50	5 43	9 23
Summit..........	1 01	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake..........	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola..........	1 19	6 18	12 00
Fremont..........	1 36	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading..........	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers..........	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale..........	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville..........	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson..........	3 45	8 40	6 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson..........	6 45 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville..........	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale..........	....	12 30	7 45
Bankers..........	9 40	12 54	8 01
Reading..........	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont..........	11 30	1 35	8 40
Angola..........	12 00	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake..........	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit..........	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo..........	2 35	2 35	9 33
Auburn..........	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc..........	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era..........	4 40	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne..........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

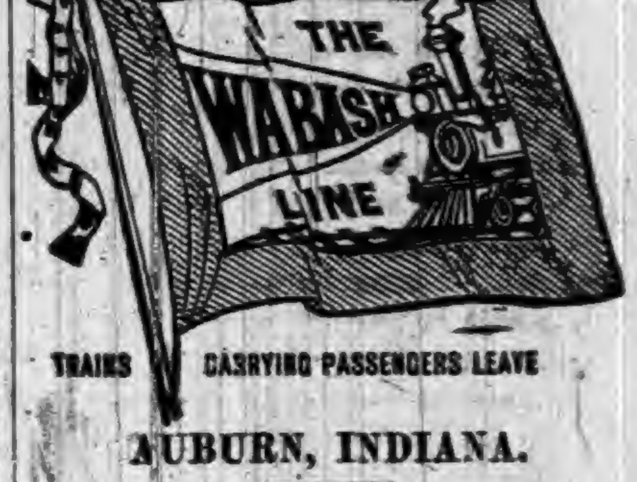
TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..............2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express..............5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom..............2:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim..............8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

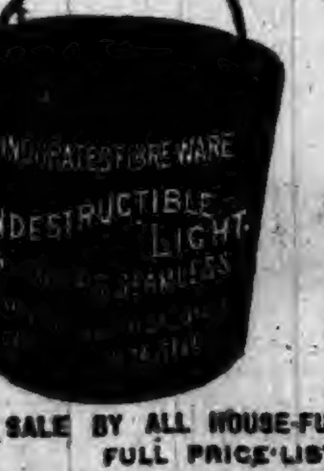
Pacific Express..............1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom..............6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express..............12:26 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.......5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT,
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER,
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in
HORSES,
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.

A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.

SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.



INDURATED FIBRE WARE.
ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!
HAS NO HOOPS!
NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!
NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!
HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.
PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.
LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.
CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.
Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.
FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS.
FULL PRICE LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY......FEBRUARY 5, 1890.

MISS BISLAND, the other lady, who was making the race around the world came in from across the Atlantic, about two days later that "Nellie Bly." Adverse winds and storms caused her defeat in the great race.

ALLEN county democrats have fixed the date of holding their county convention for June 14. The delegates to the convention will be chosen on the day before, that is June 13. Allen county democrats are fully organized and ready to work.

NEW JERSEY pottery makers, are now making bogus coffee, of pottery. It looks like the real coffee kernel, browned longer be sure he has the genuine or roasted, and one can now, no article, even if he does buy it before it is ground.

BLAINE has lost by death in two months, his wife's sister, his brother, his oldest son Walker, and his daughter Alice, Mrs Coppinger. It is feared that this succession of heavy bereavements will tell on his health and mind, and he may retire from office.

HARRISON has appointed Ex-Senator Bruce, mulatto, to be Recorder of Deeds for the district of Columbia, in place of Trotter the colored man appointed by Cleveland. Bruce now resides at Indianapolis, though he was a senator from Mississippi a few years ago.

Samuel Lung, of Cedar Creek, was here yesterday, and called in to help the COURIER over the bad winter.' After trying to keep house on his own hook for two years, like a sensible man he has taken himself a better half, and home will seem like home once more.

KENDALLVILLE had a big railroad meeting last week, at which delegates from Butler were present. They are working to get the Wabash road to start west from Butler instead of starting at Auburn Junction. Auburn will find she must make a fight, if she wins.

SUGAR men in Louisiana object to the republican plan of paying them a bounty on sugar, and then putting sugar on the free list. This is because the tariff enables them to sell sugar at a higher price How do republicans account for this when arguing that a tariff makes things cheaper.

HARRISON'S residence at Indianapolis was burglarized last week, and about $500 in jewelry etc., taken. It belonged to Mrs. Henry S. Frazer, whose family now rent the house. She was absent, though her husband was in another room of the house, while the thief was getting his plunder.

THE ocean steamer "Ocean" that arrived in Boston last week after a stormy voyage, reported that her supply of coal gave out, and that for the last two days the only fuel used was sugar, with which the steamer was loaded. This is believed to be first instance in which this valuable commodity has been used for fuel.

THE president last week formally received the new minister from Brazil. This is considered about the same as a formal recognition by a resolution in congress, and was a proper thing to do. But strange as it may seem, the republicans in congress have so far refused to assist in passing a resolution of recognition. When the Brazilians heard of Harrison's timely act, they cheered wildly for the United States of America and the United States of Brazil.

A BILL is before congress to appropriate 349 millions for new ships of war within the next 14 years. Of course we want to keep up our navy, and a few good ships should be under way all the time. But we don't want any such wholesale work as that. The secretary of the navy, Mr. Tracy, says it is too much. He seems to be the most sensible man in the administration. His opinions and plans will likely prevail, and the schemes of wholesale jobbers be sat down on.

PRUNE raisers in California want a duty on prunes. It is now a cent a pound. They ask for three. This would make our people pay about $1,400,000 more on the 70,000,000 pounds of prunes we import, and would enable California raisers to sell their 20,000,000 pounds two cents higher, thus costing our people $400,00 more, or $1,800,000 additional in all, over and above what we are now paying. Here is another chance for some repbblican editor to show how the tariff makes an article cheaper.

THE BUTLER RECORD must be trying to hedge and get out of danger. It is now discouraging any more talk on the tariff, and wants to talk about the wrongs of the negro under this republican administration. When the Record finds itself utterly unable to answer the few plain questions we have been putting at it, we think it about time it retires, and tackles something it understands better. In the meantime, we continue to assert that a tariff is a tax that is paid by the consumer and that it increases the price.

THE WATERLOO PRESS may as well conclude to take its own bitter medicine. We have already reprinted a part of what it said in 1888 about the good times to come if Harrison was elected. So, if democratic papers keep reminding him of these silly sayings of his, he has only himself to blame. Perhaps the Press begins to see what a fool it made of itself, and hence this soreness when "democratic papers engage in the innocent amusement" of telling about the "good Harrison times" that were promised to us. Yes, it is rather amusing.

VAST amounts of snow have fallen in the far west, especially in the mountain districts, while we have been utterly without snow. Avalanches, or snow slides, have been quite common. Houses have been swept away and several lives lost.

NIAGARA FALLS is likely to be utilized to generate electrical power for use in Buffalo, Lockport, Rochester, Hamilton and Toronto. They expect to dig a shaft under the falls, and make a large chamber there to hold the machinery. Almost unlimited power can be obtained.

MRS. ALICE COPPINGER, eldest daughter of Secretary Blaine, died Sunday morning of brain fever, the result of a severe attack of La Grippe. She was at the Blaine residence, the old Seward mansion. Since the death of Walker Blaine, the superstitious of Washington have begun to talk again of the ill luck of the house in which Seward and his son came so near being assassinated by Payne, the accomplice of Booth. Blaine is greatly depressed by his misfortunes.

LAST Thursday the contest for lieutenant governor of Ohio took a new turn in the senate at Columbus. Lampson, the republican candidate had been declared elected by a plurality of 20, and had been presiding. But the democrats had been getting in new evidence, and on that day showed that Marquis, the democratic candidate was entitled to about 550 more votes than had been given him. So he was declared elected. Lampson gave notice he would contest in the courts. In the meantime a democrat presides over the senate, as Marquis, the democrat lieutenant-governor is sick, and Lampson has gone home.

MR. HENRY C. BERGHOFF, of Ft. Wayne, who is a candidate for treasurer of state, is receiving many complimentary notices, from various parts of the state. This is a very gratifying sign, and proves that democrats are looking as much to the personal character of their candidates, as to locality, or other accidental conditions. We want clean men, like Mr. Bergoff, and then when, as in his case, marked ability, and ripe experience are coupled therewith, our victory in the coming struggle, is assured in advance. And a victory won with such candidates will be a matter of state pride

THE Senate last week passed once more the "direct tax bill" which Cleveland once vetoed. It is little better than a steal, and is a part of the general plan to wipe out the surplus so that high tariffs will have to be kept up. The bill provides for paying back to the states that raised it, the direct tax levied early in the war. But there would be just as much sense in paying back the internal revenue tax, including the stamp tax the license tax and the income tax, or even the tariff taxes. Why make the point just on the one poor little direct tax? All were alike war taxes and the money went to help the federal government. And if any of these taxes were now paid back, the individuals who, alone, suffered by having to pay them, would not get a cent back. And as for the state, the money never belonged to it.

THE Press wants "to call the attention of the COURIER and Senator Voorhees" to the way this state is districted, etc. That's pretty thin. We should think the Press would not care to mention the subject. The districts, as they stood before these, were made by a republican legislature, and were much more unfair than they are now. And more than this, the method itself is always practiced by republicans, who are masters of the business. Look at Ohio, where sixteen members of Congress have a smaller plurality than the five democratic members. A similar state of things exists in New York, Iowa and many other republican states. Of course, two wrongs never make a right, but as long as the republicans practice such things, they have no right to complain. Human nature is apt to seek to retaliate. Shylock said: "The villainy you teach me I will execute." Let republican papers pull the beams out of their own eyes first, and then prate of honest methods later on.

Big Tariff Swindle.

[Chicago Herald.]

A recent decision of the supreme court puts a snug sum of money into the pockets of the silk importers. They were plaintiffs in a case against the government to recover $7,000,000, which they had disbursed in the payment of duties on imported silk ribbons. The silk tariff schedule was ambiguous regarding this item, and they were charged 50 per cent duty, whereas. they claim, they should have been charged but 20 per cent. The supreme court has decided the suit in their favor, and the enormous sum of $7,000,000 is returned to their pockets. Of course it is a clear gain. The goods on which they paid this excess of duties were sold long ago, and the full duty of 50 per cent was paid by the consumers. By the ambiguity of the law and the stupidity of custom house officials, the latter were overcharged for their silk ribbons just $7,000,000. They have been swindled out of that amount. The tariff is a big enough swindle when construed strictly in accordance with the law, without blunders of this kind, to still further defraud the consumer.

A Runaway.

There was a serious runaway Tuesday in the northeast part of town. Thomas Weldon was driving along, when the team was frightened at the cars and ran. He lost one line and the team then ran about in a circle. He was upset and when the buggy was got off him, it was found his collar bone was broken. He is now lying at the residence of his son-in-law, Robert Simpson.

Liberal Reward.

Strayed, a large, white colly dog. Large, black spot on right side; small, brown spots on left; head black; nose white. Information leading to recovery of the dog will be gratefully received and a liberal reward paid.

VAN B. PERRINE.

THE LATEST HORROR.

Burning of Secretary Tracy's Residence and Death of his Wife and Daughter.

No more terrible thing, all things considered, has horrified the public, than the burning of Secretary Tracy's residence in Washington Monday morning. It happened before the family had risen and so they were perfectly helpless. The servants discovered it first, but in their state of fright, could do nothing that could help. Mrs. Tracy was in an upper room, and when called to from a servant outside, rushed to a window, and seeing smoke issuing from the lower story, was so frightened that she jumped to the pavement. She was badly injured and was picked up and carried to a house near by, where she soon died. The fire department hurried up; ladders were used, and on reaching the living apartment, Miss Mary Tracy, the secretary's daughter, was found badly burned and unconscious. She had been seen from below, at the window, on her knees, in prayer, and then fell over, apparently in a swoon. She never recovered, but died soon after. In the meantime, a married daughter of Mr. Tracy, Mrs. Wilmerding had jumped out when Mrs. Tracy did She and her little daughter were badly hurt, but will recover. Mr. Tracy himself, was found in his room, unconscious and nearly suffocated. He partially rallied several times during the day, only to lapse again into unconsciousness. It is believed, however, that he will recover. One of the servants, a girl was found in her room, her body partly charred by the fire. The city was, of course, greatly shocked and excited. The president and heads of the other departments came at once to the scene of the disaster, but could, of course, do nothing except to sympathize with the sufferers. The senate held no sessions that day, and the city was in such a state of excitement as it has not seen since the murder of Lincoln. To be sure, it is not so dreadful a thing as that, but it comes so close on the death of Walker Blaine, and of Blaine's daughter, Mrs. Coppinger, and in both cases, members of the cabinet are so closely touched by death, that it has cast a gloom over the entire administration.

LATER. Mr. Tracy is improving. It now appears that his wife was trying to drag him to a place of safety and was herself overcome, and fell from the window. Origin of the fire not known—possibly the work of an incendiary. Another account will be found on the second page of this paper.

A New Robinson Crusoe.

A dispatch from New York of Jan. 26, brings this strange item:

News received to-day by steamer from San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, says that in a recent return cruise from the coast of Patagonia to the port of Santa Cruz, the Argentine revenue cutter San Juan sighted and came to anchor off an island hitherto unknown, fifty miles from shore, three miles long by one mile wide, averaging probably thirty-feet above high tide, with a rocky, almost perpendicular coast line, extremely tedious of ascent. In the interior, however it was found to be well wooded and the captain of the cutter reports having encountered in his rambles many species of wild animals and thousands of birds. A number of clear, sparkling, fresh-water springs were seen. Beside one of these, a human footprint was discovered. A search of the vicinity led to the finding of a man asleep upon the ground, close by the beach. He was perfectly devoid of clothing, but a snow-white beard and hair reached nearly to his knees.

When first awakened the modern Robinson Crusoe attempted to escape and acted like a wild man, but being captured, soon recovered his speech. He was a native of Spain, he said, forty-eight years old and gave his name as Mariano Rodriguez. He had shipped from Montevideo in 1880, in an American schooner from New York, bound round the Horn. A violent storm had dashed the vessel upon the rocks, and he alone of all the crew had succeeded in gaining shore in safety. No other ship had been sighted since the day he landed until the San Juan came. He had lived on raw shell fish and birds' eggs, which were obtainable in abundance, but his sufferings from exposure to the weather, at times variable and bitter cold, had been terrible and almost unbearable. The island has been named "Isle de Rodriguez," after this Robinson Crusoe. Rodriguez was sent back to Spain a few days ago at the expense of the government of Costa Rica. Congress will be asked at its coming session to vote a gold medal to the captain of the San Juan for having discovered the island, and rescued its solitary shipwrecked occupant.

Prohibition Meeting.

The prohibitionists of DeKalb county will meet in the court room at Auburn, on Saturday, Feb. 8, at 10:30, a. m., to reorganize the county committee, appoint delegates to the state convention, which meets at Indianapolis Feb. 20, and to transact any other business which may be deemed for the best interest of the party.

JOHN W. BAXTER,
Chairman County Committee.

For Sale.

Store building and cottage adjoining, also a general stock of merchandise. Depot and postoffice in connection; reasons for selling, change of business.

F. HOLMAN,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

Proposals for Tile Drain.

Bids for the construction of a tile drain on the fair ground of the DeKalb County Fair will be received up to Saturday noon, Feb. 8, 1890. Profile can be seen at the office of C. C. Shaffer, in Auburn.

J. L. DAVIS, Pres.
CAL. HUSSELMAN, Sec'y.

A young man near Kokomo, Ind., who was jilted by three different girls in one week, bought a big wolf from the Cincinnati Zoo, turned the beast loose in a swamp at home, and there hasn't been any nighttime sparking since the 1st of October. He proposes to have a panther on deck some time this month.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

D. D. Miser has moved back onto his farm.

Rev. H. C. Smith preached at Hudson last Sunday.

Mr. Zirkle has been appointed receiver of W. Henderson's grocery.

Rev. Ackman has moved into the property south of Henry Knott.

Several young gentlemen from Auburn were here last Thursday evening.

Mr. Strow, of Freedom, was in town last week on his way to Kendallville.

The probabilities are that another saloon will soon be opened in our town.

William Shaffer died at the home of his son Oliver, in Smithfield, on last Monday.

It is said that James Robertson will build a new livery barn in the near future.

Henry Smith, our former townsman, now of Ligonier, was here Tuesday and Wednesday.

A number of the advanced scholars of the schools will give a rhetorical entertainment shortly.

A petition will be presented to the town council to build a sidewalk on the south side of Maple street.

Rev. D. B. Keller is assisting Rev. C. M. Eberly in a protracted meeting, this week near Montpelier, Ohio.

Rev. J. H. Crouse and the pastor of the Lutheran church at Sedan, are holding a union meeting in that place.

Mrs. Richard Shull is busy packing her goods and getting ready to start for their new location at Pueblo, Colorado.

Ben. Farrington had a number of live grasshoppers, that he had gathered on his farm, on exhibition in town last week.

S. J. Locke has had a serious time with la grippe. He is not yet able to leave his room, where he has been for many week.

The groundhog failed to see his shadow last Sunday. We give up the winter now, and predict an early spring—according to groundhog sign.

Mr. Mefevier is down with la grippe. Will Francis is recovering from it, Frank Francis has had it bad and does not recover as yet, and many, many more.

Mrs. Boots, of Butler, was here visiting her relatives, the Lockes, this week. She reports almost everybody in Butler as having had, or now having la grippe.

The last quarterly meeting for the conference year of the M. E. church was held last Saturday and Sunday. Elder Simpson was present and conducted the services.

Mr. Hartwick has made some very nice improvements in his gallery, consisting of a new background, a new position chair, carpet, sign, etc. He will also display a nice show-case of his work. If you want a good photograph, call on him

An appalling calamity has visited the family of the Secretary of the Navy in the fatal burning of his wife and daughter, Monday morning. Also from the fact that death has claimed a son and daughter of the Secretary of State, it seems as though a terrible affliction has overtaken those in high position of the present administration. Surely the sympathy of the nation is drawn out, while they look on in grief.

The young ladies, who are members of the J. U. G. gave a pedro party last Thursday evening, at the home of Belle McEnderfer, to which they invited a number of young men as guests. Besides some from Waterloo, several from Butler and a number from Auburn were present A newspaper edited by two of the young ladies was read 'mid applause and laughter at the amusing bits. The supper was very nice. Playing cards, conversation, etc., filled some of the hours. All voted they had had a splendid time.

To show the brazen effrontery of certain medical quacks who advertise their nostrums in high sounding terms, and send out flowery circulars, signed "Professor" or "M. D." to deceive the unwary, and yet are so illiterate as not to be able to spell or writ the most common words in an intelligible manner, we here print a letter received by one of our citizens verbatim et literatim, et spellatim, in brief, just as it came from the "Professor:"

"Mr Eysack—W—ind— As, your cind Friend Neighbour gave me your name and adress I. tuck the liberty of sending you a flew circulars pleas keepe one for your one use post one in a good place hand the banance to aflicted Pepol and oblige me pleas send me a few names of pepol ho are aflicted send their mames in full p stoffice ddress and I. will rite to them send with your order some poor Widows name an adress and I. will send her a bottel free of. charge I. will put the botel in your box if you send your order and her name on the botel and you can give it to her pleas send, like thousands have done before you I, am at your comand yours resp. Prof. —"

FAIRFIELD CENTER.

La grippe is the general complaint.

Joseph Weirich made a trip to Lincolnville last week on business.

Mr. James Bower grinds grain for chop feed on Friday of each week.

There is a literary and debating society organized at this place, and also at No. 2.

Miss Ella Frederick, of Hudson, spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. George Reinoehl.

Henry Deetz and his brother Daniel, are again in our midst after an absence of some months at Garrett.

Rev. Mygrant is holding a protracted meeting at Pleasant Hill. With what success we have not learned.

List of those made happy during the last few weeks. Born to Mr. and Mrs. David Camp, twins, a boy and girl; to Mr. and Mrs. Cora Elson, a boy; to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elson, a girl.

Edgar Buchanan, teacher in the school of this place has been sick for two weeks, during which time Emory Shook took charge of the school. But we are glad to see that Edgar is again in school.

SUMMIT.

A number of cases of la grippe in this vicinity.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. H. P. R. Lawson, a boy, usual weight.

We all look for an early spring now for the ground-hog did not see his shadow.

Oliver Grambling, who has been sick for some time is still very low at this writing.

Mrs. Elvira Shorter of Hudson, visited friends at Summit last week while on her way to Bryan, Ohio.

Rev. Mr. Simpson, presiding elder of this district, passed through this place last Friday on his way to hold quarterly meeting at Hudson.

A Philadelphian estimates the number of "speak-easies" in his city at from 4,000 to 5,000.

NEWVILLE.

Chester Hoisington was calling on old friends last Sabbath.

Plunket is singing hush-a-by, baby on the tree top. It is a girl.

We will speak about Swack in our next issue if he don't take care.

Zella Root is very sick with that much dreaded disease, consumption.

John Quince is on one of his old protracted drunks again. Quincy, brace up and be a man.

Our Orangeville friend is getting good,
He got his wife a nice load of wood.
It is decidedly the best and nicest way,
To find something to do every day.

Not growling continually with a frown,
Looking daggers at everybody, lips down,
But be calm, meek and mild,
Gentle, loving, innocent as a child.

Your wife will worship your kindness,
When you get over your blindness;
It can be proven by the neighbors just the same,
That you are the only one to blame.

Now kind friend please take warning.
Be a good boy and rise in the morning;
Stay with your wife man! it is her delight,
To have your company early every night.

You'll hear from us often if you're not good,
All we ask of you is cut plenty of wood.
Please don't get on your ear any more Sam,
Be docile, gentle and quiet as a lamb

SUMMIT.

[LAST WEEK]

Born to Mrs. Drusa Coonrod Jan. 24, a boy.

Samuel Mortorff has been on the sick list the past few days.

Mrs. Jennie Fisher visited Mrs. Drusa Coonrod last Sunday.

Verren Thrasher and family spent Sunday with friends in Hudson

Mrs. H. D. Snowberger visited friends in Steubenville on Sunday last.

Duncan & Baxter shipped a car load of hogs from this place last Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Swager, of Waterloo, visited her parents a few days last week.

O. Grambling has been under the doctors care the past week with la grippe.

Bert Coonrod and wife visited the latter's parents, Jacob Salander last Sunday.

Mrs. J. Pennick visited her daughter, Mrs. Gust Swager in Waterloo on last Thursday.

Mr. Frank Deets and family, of Fairfield Center, were the guests of A. Sweigart and family, one day last week.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of John H. Smith, Franklin township, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 4th day of March, 1890, the same being the 2d day of their March term, 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning three hundred eighty (380) feet north of the center of section twenty-three [23] township thirty-five [35] north of range fourteen [14] east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance
1	south 84 degrees east	400 feet
2	north 80 degrees east	100 feet
3	north 67 degrees east	100 feet
4	north 70 degrees east	100 feet
5	north 72 degrees east	450 feet
6	north 60 degrees east	200 feet
7	east	250 feet
8	south 40 degrees east	210 feet
9	south 80 degrees east	190 feet
10	south 44 degrees east	150 feet
11	south 42 degrees east	150 feet
12	south 43 degrees east	300 feet
13	south 62 degrees east	800 feet
14	south 10 degrees east	500 feet
15	south 14 degrees east	200 feet
16	south	900 feet
17	south 50 degrees east	500 feet
18	east	150 feet
19	south 70 degrees east	50 feet
20	south 48 degrees east	150 feet
21	south	3050 feet
22	south 30 degrees west	100 feet
23	west	1000 feet
24	south [illegible] degrees west	100 feet
25	south 15 degrees west	600 feet
26	south 38 degrees west	450 feet
27	south 4 degrees west	1450 feet
28	south 30 degrees west	900 feet
29	south 58 degrees west	100 feet
30	north 80 degrees west	500 feet
31	north 88 degrees west	400 feet
32	north 81 degrees west	500 feet
33	north 63 degrees west	150 feet
34	north 84 degrees west	750 feet
35	south 72 degrees west	500 feet
36	south 60 degrees west	100 feet
37	south 40 degrees west	390 feet
38	south 46 degrees west	200 feet
39	south 40 degreet west	450 feet
40	south 57 degrees west	250 feet
15	south 52 degrees west	130 feet
16	south 30 degrees west	270 feet
17	south 12 degrees west	500 feet
18	south 20 degrees east	300 feet
19	south	200 feet
20	south 70 degrees east	100 feet
21	south	100 feet
22	south 12 degrees east	200 feet
23	south 5 degrees west	200 feet
24	south 40 degrees west	200 feet
25	south 20 degrees west	300 feet
26	south 5 degrees east	100 feet
27	south [illegible] degrees east	100 feet
28	south [illegible] degrees east	100 feet

Ending eighty [80] rods north and twenty [20] rods west of the southeast corner of section thirty-four [34] township thirty-five [35] north of range fourteen [14] east, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following named persons:

Edwin C Potter
George Firestone
Catharine Kinkle
Jacob Marks
Samuel K Firestone
James Myers
John H Smith
Josiah Neidig
Samuel Healey
Celinda McCurdy
John Wagoner
John J Weirbaugh
Isaac Nelson
Clark and Jane Porter heirs whose names are. Jane Casebeer Mabel Porter and perhaps others unknown
Benjamin Wise
Martin Hook
Charles Rohrbaugh
Benjamin Casey
Samuel Moody
William R Mitchell
John D Mitchell
Rebecca Mitchell
Thirsa Mitchell
Jay Kepler
Henry Smith
Julia Ashbey
James V Lewis
Ida Lewis
F Marion Haverstock
Lizzie L Norford
George and Louisa Deems
Samuel Haverstock heirs whose names are as follows
Jonathan Haverstock
Francis M Haverstock
Samuel G Haverstock
Robert A Haverstock
Mary Sattison
Martha Sattison
Malissa A Kelley and Phoebe Haverstock
Elias Kepler
Charles Imhoof
Charles Wagoner
Marc S Graves
John M Brown
Samuel Narogon
Robert A Haverstock
Jefferson Beard trustee
Samuel G Haverstock
Charles Oster
Edwin Lowe
John and Eliza A Huntington
Benjamin F Firestone
Jacob Wagoner heirs or, James Walter
Frederick D Oberlin
oliver & Orrin Oberlin
John Lowe
Elliot & Elizabeth Kellogg
William Oberlin
Jacob Slentz
Mary A King
William H & Florence Platt
Jonathan Haverstock

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County.

FLEMING, democrat, has been declared governor of West Virginia after a contest of sixteen months. He was elected in November, 1888, but Goff, republican, contested.

Albion Democrat:—The republican idea of "equality before the law" is illustrated in the tariff that taxes the mahogany that frames the mirrors and luxurious sideboards and sofas of the millionaire, exactly as much as it does the boards of the poorest shanty! Two dollars per 1,000 feet in both cases!

Truly there is nothing new under the sun. It now turns out that massage was a fine art with the Chinese about the time that Moses was maturing his plans for the exodus from Egypt.

—HAVE YOU—
ARTIFICIAL TEETH?

For 35 cents you can enjoy life, notwithstanding.
Buy a FLORENCE DENTAL PLATE BRUSH
If you cannot find it, send for circulars. Brush sent by mail on receipt of price.
It is a Marvelous Brush.

For Natural Teeth
Those who have the whitest Teeth
—USE—
The Prophylactic TOOTH BRUSHES.
Florence Mfg. Co.
Florence, Mass.

FORT WAYNE,
Cincinnati and Louisville
AND
White Water Railroads.

The Direct Line to and from Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne Time Table.
Going South. Ar. from South
5:30 am—Fort Wayne Accomm'n......—10:00 am
10:45 am—Cin. & Louisville Mail & Ex.—4:10 pm
5:00 pm—Indianapolis Express........—10:[illegible] pm
S. A. [illegible], Gen. Tkt. Agt.
Fort Wayne, Ind.

USED ALL THE YEAR ROUND!
JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA
For LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, PURIFYING the BLOOD.

Used for 30 Years. Best Preparation in the World for Sick Headache, Pain in the Side and Back, Constipation, Pimples on the Face, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Boils, Piles and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or an Impure Blood. It is a powerful tonic for the weak and feeble, especially females & children. It can not hurt the most delicate constitution.

It is the Best Medicine in use for Regulating the Bowels. QUART BOTTLES, $1.00. Three Bottles for $2.50. Delivered free of any charge. Sold by all Druggists. Send for Circular.
W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution to me directed from the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein Aaron D Moore administrator of the estate of Sarah Meese deceased is plaintiff and Thadeus D. Meese is defendant, requiring me to make the sum of six hundred fifty-six dollars and seventy-five cents, with interest on said judgment and costs, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on Saturday, February 8th, 1890.

Between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House, of DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit: Situated in DeKalb county, Indiana, The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northwest quarter of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33), north of range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy two and twenty one-hundredths (72 20) acres, more or less. The undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the fractional north half of the northeast quarter of section four (4), in the township & range aforesaid, containing seventy-three and ninety-three one-hundredths (73.93) acres, more or less, and the undivided one-sixth (1-6) of the following described tract in section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-four (34) north of said range fourteen (14) east, to-wit: Beginning at the southwest corner of said section thirty-four (34), and running thence north on west line of said section, forty (40) chains and thirty-nine (39) links, to land formerly owned by Hannibal Reve, thence east with the south line of said land forty (40) rods, thence south parallel with the west section line twenty-seven (27) chains and eighty eight and one-half (88½) links to the center of the state road, thence east with said road eight (8) rods and twenty-four and one-half (24½) links, thence south five (5) chains and sixty-one (61) links, thence east seven (7) chains and thirteen (13) links, thence south six (6) chains and ninety-six (96) links to the section line, thence west twenty-five (25) chains and thirty-seven and one-half (37½) links to the place of beginning, containing sixty (60) acres more or less. The said property has been appraised and will not be sold for less than two-thirds its appraised value.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said judgment, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said judgment interest and costs.

PHIL FLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb County.
Auburn, Indiana, Jan. 16, 1890.
E. D. HARTMAN, Attorney for Plaintiff

TANK HEATER.
A GREAT SAVING
TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.
Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price. Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.
SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.
O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.,
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR—
CRAYON PORTRAIT
NICELY
FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.
Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches.
For $3.00
As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.
(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)
BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF
PROVOST'S
Cream Washing Powder.
ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.
One Coupon in Every Package.
Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.
Ask Your GROCER For It.
If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.
WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

PERFUMES
MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE
LAND OF FLOWERS!
DOUSSAN'S
Sweet South
In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles,
EACH 65 CENTS.
ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:
LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!
LUNEAS! NEVADA!
IMPERIAL PINK!
ROUSSEL ROSE
EDEN BOUQUET!
LILY OF THE VALLEY!
All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!
The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.
"Delicate as a cobweb, Lasting as the hills."
If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.
DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.
46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

FOR DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS
Oh! My Back!
JOHNSTON'S ROYAL ENGLISH BUCHU
Will cure all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Burning Urine, Gleet, Gonorrhoea in all its stages, Mucous Discharges, Congestion of the Kidneys, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy of Kidneys and Acid Urine, Bloody Urine, PAIN IN THE BACK, Retention of Urine, Frequent Urination, Gravel in all its forms, Inability to Retain the Water, particularly in persons advanced in life. IT IS A KIDNEY INVESTIGATOR and restores the Urine to its natural color, removes the acid and burning, and the effect of the excessive use of intoxicating drink.
PRICE $1; Three Bottles for $2.50
Delivered free of any charges.
Send for Circular. Sold by all Druggists
W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich

TRY THE
CHICAGO WEEKLY HERALD
THIS YEAR.
All the News-Fine Illustrations
Good Stories-Full Market Reports-Able Editorials.
A Complete Family Newspaper and the leading Democratic Weekly of the Northwest.
8 PAGES 1 YEAR $1.00
Send for Sample Copy.
James W. Scott Publisher
Chicago Ills.

BIG LOT
—OF—
New Goods
—Receive this week for our—
5c. and 10c. Counters.

UNDERWEAR,
Very cheap to reduce large stock.

Special Offer!
10 Dozen Men's All Wool Shirts and Drawers,
50c. each,
Regular One Dollar Goods.

Winter Wraps.
Every garment in our store we positive offer at ½ off regular price.

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!
MARKED WAY DOWN.

WOOL BLANKETS. WOOL BLANKETS.

We have several pairs on hand which we offer very cheap. Should you be in need of any, come and see us before buying,

W. P. Harter & Co.
East of Court House,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW
BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.
If You want to Save Money During 1890
BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF
SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

Closing Sales!
25 and 40 per cent
DISCOUNTS
To show you what we are doing to make room for our new spring goods.

$1.00 Gents' All-Wool Scarlet Underwear, reduced to 75 cts.

$1.00 Gents' Switzs Conde Brown mixed Underwear for 75 cents each.

Line of Gents' all-wool half hose, Price 25 cents per pair, reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Line of Ladies' fine Cashmere hose 25 cents per pair, now reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Mrs. Jones & Son,
WEST SIDE OF SQUARE.
AUBURN, - INDIANA.

LOCAL NEWS.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Read our notice for making a tile drain on the Auburn fair ground.

Miss Dessie Silver has gone to Hicksville to work at dressmaking.

Don't fail to hear Dr. Jordan Tuesday evening, Feb. 11 at the Presbyterian church.

Who wants them? We have a few 6 and 8 foot show cases to sell at a bargain Robbins & McCord. (6 8)

The social at the M. E. church last Saturday was a success every way. About $25 was cleared, we are told.

Protracted meeting continues through this week at the Baptist church. Several have united with the church.

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

Bauer Brothers have removed their store into the new room on Eighth street, the site of the old jail. There their many patrons will find them, still giving cheap bargains.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

John Gall, of Jackson, looks as if he had had about the hardest "grippe" of any of them. He is a mere shadow. Those who had the real thing, will remember it for some time.

A New Discovery: Weak and deranged livers, stomachs and bowels should never be acted on by irritants like common pills, bran, etc. Miles' Pills cure liver complaint, constipation, piles, etc., by a new method. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D. Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Feb. 11, Tuesday, Jordan's famous lecture.

Hill's Compound Buchu and Cubebs is warranted to cure gravel.

We have a bran new stock of valentines this year. Robbins & McCord. (6)

Mrs. J. W. McCrory, of Angola, is visiting her parents here, the family of C. C. Shaffer.

Dr. Jordan, in his "Ascent of the Matterhorn" next Tuesday evening. Admission 20c.

Christian Smith, of Concord, was in town last Thursday, and in his usual good spirits.

Wanted, 500 live pigeons. Call on or address H. B. McCord, sec'y Auburn Gun Club, at Robbins & McCord's. (6 8)

Dick Burniston, was over from Garrett last week—just getting straightened out after his tussle with the grip.

There is comfort for the man with a prematurely gray beard in Buckingham's Dye, because it never fails to color an even brown or black, as may be desired

Mr. Gragg, who had charge of the saloon at the south end of Main street, died last Thursday, after a protracted illness. He had consumption, we believe.

Dr. Jordan, president of the Indiana university, comes under the auspices of the L. L. C., and we hope our people will assist the ladies in giving him a full house.

Dr. Breeding, of Glasgow, Ky., says: "My chickens are thriftier, healthier, finer, and larger, and have beautiful plumage since I began using Ganter's Magic Chicken Colera Cure."

Geo. W. Ewing, Ft. Wayne's young millionaire, has bought the famous dog, "Rowdy Rod" for $1,800. There are 1,800 dogs in Auburn, which he can have for $1, as far as we are concerned.

Quite a number of our county officers, and ex-officers went up to Angola Monday to attend the funeral of Geo. B. Adams, who was at one time prosecutor for this circuit. He died Saturday, Feb. 1, after an illness of a few weeks.

The ground hog, woodchuck, marmot or whatever he is called, did not bask in any great amount of sunshine last Sunday. So we are in some degree of doubt as to what he is going to do about it. We haven't much faith in the chap, anyway.

What enhances the beauty of fine features more than a clear skin? Even plain features are made attractive by a good complexion. To secure this, purify your blood with Ayers' Sarsaparilla. It has no equal. Price $1. Six bottles $5. Worth $5, a bottle.

Marion Spencer went to Albion Saturday to attend the funeral of his brother, Clif. Spencer, there on Sunday. Mr. S. was in a critical condition from the effects of a cancer in his face, and the grip setting in, caused his death sooner than was expected.

Kessler Brothers, are putting still another fine cigar on the market. It is the "Golden Rule" and bids fair to be as popular as their now famous "Young America." It is very gratifying to see how popular the goods of Kessler Brothers have become.

A close call. Mrs. C. A. Johnson of Toledo, had every symptom of heart disease, shortness of breath, could not lie on left side, cough, pains in chest, ect., yet after being given up to die, was cured by Dr. Miles' New Cure. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 4

Rev. D. B. Kain preached at the new Lutheran church Sunday, morning and evening, to good audiences. He is very popular here, and the church has chosen him for its pastor. He is soon to move to this place, where of course our people will welcome him.

Eminent physicians everywhere recommend Ayers' Cherry Pectoral as the most reliable remedy that can be had for coughs, colds and all pulmonary disorders. Ask your druggist for Ayers' Almanac. It is the best publication of the kind, and full of information.

The editor of the Clipper says he was not able to get to the fair meeting here on account of the "grip." Well, we never heard it called by that name before. It has generally been called "snakes" "jimjams" etc. It isn't the first time he has had 'em so bad he couldn't get up town.

Clarence Raut went down to South Whitley this week, where he takes charge or becomes manager of a boot and shoe store for the house he represents. They have now three stores they have had to take and run in a similar way, and we believe Mr. Raut had the overseeing of all of them.

The Dispatch is informed that we did not attempt to decide the question of Senator Brice's residence. We did not have it in mind, for the Dispatch article we were noticing had not mentioned it. Please stick to the text. As for the senator's citizenship we presume he and the people of Ohio are able to settle that.

We hear a good deal of complaint about the rudeness of little boys, going to and coming from school, in their treatment of little girls. Being stronger and having no care for the rights of the weaker, they make themselves a nuisance in many ways. Perhaps the parents can help the matter if they take the proper pains.

The C. L. S. C. meets with Mrs. Ernest Sheets this week, on North Main street. Lesson, "History of Rome," Mrs. Baldwin. "Latin courses in English," Mrs. McQuiston. "The Politics of Medieval Italy," Mrs. F. Yesbera. Economic Internationalism," Mrs. Sheets, Select reading, Mrs. McKay,

The Waterloo Press goes back on "resolving" too much in favor of this and that and everything and anything. By his talk it looks as if Bro. Willis was one of the immortal band that said "no" in a big round voice, when asked to resolve that Harrison's administration was "pure and honest." Well, it was a pretty hard thing to vote for.

Dr. Jordan Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper, of Waterloo, spent Sunday here with friends.

Mr. Secrist, a nephew of Dr. Coates, has been visiting the latter a few days. He resides at Alliance, Ohio.

Mrs. Juliette Dickinson, of Waterloo, and her daughter Hattie were in town over Sunday, the guests of Dr. Vesta Swarts.

The Lake Shore road is to be double tracked from Elkhart to Chicago this year, and work will begin as soon as possible when spring opens.

John Henderson, of Jackson, was in town Tuesday, looking as well as ever. He finds this winter about as mild as they had when he was in Tennessee.

Capt. Eden H. Fisher has sold his property at Rome City, and will move to Kendallville. He and his wife are almost heart broken over the recent tragical death of their son.

The Avilla News, speaking of the proposed Wabash extension from this place, says: "It appears to us that the southern line, starting from Auburn, is by far the best for the Wabash road and the general public."

Miss Trudie Willis, of Waterloo, had charge of Miss Dickinson's school room last week, while the latter laid off with the grip. Miss Willis is an estimable young lady and we believe has had previous experience as a teacher.

The Dispatch is generally cautious and truthful about its local items. What then, does it mean, when in its report of the republican district meeting it says, that nine Allen county men voted against the resolution endorsing the Harrison administration, and that two refused to make the vote unanimous, and then in another column says that "only one, Wilson, of Allen county," voted against the motion?

Our business men are making an effort to get up an arrangement for incandescent electric lights for use in business rooms, churches and private dwellings. If sufficient encouragement is given, the plant will be put in at an early day. These lights are the nicest and most convenient in the world. All one has to do in order to strike a light is to press a knob, and the light is on, and it is put out as easily. No matches, no lamps no oil, or trouble.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will entertain a social in the basement of their church on Friday evening, from 5 to 7 o'clock. Supper 15 cents. The funds of this social will not be sent away, but will be expended at home to defray the necessary expenses connected with the Presbyterian missionary meeting which will be held here the 2d and 3d of April. It is hoped that everyone will feel it a duty to patronize this social, and urge others to do so.

Kiblinger has purchased a part of the Kuhlman lots, across on the south side of Eighth street, and opposite his large factory, and will at once put up a two story building covering the whole of it. The ground is 48 by 132 feet, lying on the west side next to Jackson street and extending south to Ninth street. The buildings to be erected will of course become a part of the great establishment already in operation. This shows what enterprise can do. Such enterprise helps a town.

We had an offer to go down and take a "divide" with Ben Williams in the "bear meat" business last week, but got so busy we forgot it. They had killed the bear that used to belong to J. B. Long, and Williams & Seery got it for their meat market. A great many citizens bought of it, enough to see how real, tame bear's meat tastes, and they generally pronounced it excellent. If Joe Long should come back now, he and Zent couldn't have half as much fun as they used to. Bruin was like Falstaff, "Not only a source of fun in himself, but the source of fun that is in others."

The Indianapolis News is offering a series of cash prizes on historical and literary work: $25 in gold to the one who shall name "the five greatest battles of the war," and $25 for the best 200 word description of "an ideal home." To be decided by a committee of prominent personages in each case. When these contests are concluded, others on new subjects are to follow. Everybody invited to compete, and all contributions of sufficient merit will appear in the columns of the News from day to day. The scheme promises wholesome results on educational lines.

The Waterloo Press still kicks against the new school books, and does not try to conceal the fact that his chief cause of complaint is that he gets no profit out of the sales. Under the old law, he got about thirty cents on each dollar, which the parents paid for the old high priced books. Now he gets nothing. Hence the kick. But the parent gets books just as good as before and at half the price. Parents are beginning to understand this. But booksellers want the old state of things where they can make big profits, and keep the people changing books every time a new agent comes around.

Our friend Lewis R. Wasson, of Concord, was up here last Thursday, and gave us the pleasure of a visit. He was well pleased at the great interest the old neighbors took in the golden wedding celebration of his father, Uncle Samuel Wasson. There were in all 114 persons present, including the son from California. In fact, there were more than the house would hold, and they were only accommodated by the fact that some would come and stay awhile and then go away, while another set would come and do the same way. The occasion was in every way a pleasant one, not only for the old folks but for the guests. Many valuable as well as timely presents were made. It was one of the most noted gatherings in that section. Uncle Samuel is now about 82, but both he and his good wife are still in a fair state of health.

The grip epidemic is slowly passing away.

A daughter of Wm. Carr, south of town, is seriously ill.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson has been very sick for a week or so.

Dr. Swarts has commenced the excavation for his new business room on Main street.

See the display of valentines next Saturday at Robbins & McCord's drug store. (6)

Mrs. S. A. Rakestraw has been very sick with the influenza, but is slowly recovering.

I have Poland China pigs of all ages for sale. Don't forget it. CAL. HUSSELMAN, Auburn.

Will Madden, our genial tombstone dealer, made a business trip to Churubusco last week.

There was another big rain Monday evening, accompanied by several loud claps of thunder.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith.

Social at Presbyterian church Friday evening, 5 to 7. Please come, all of you, and bring your friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ralston were down to South Whitley Tuesday. Mrs. R. visited Mrs. T. J. Cuppy.

The weather continues warm, not cold enough for even a frost at night. Occasionally a light thunder shower visits us. The fore part of the week it was quite warm.

The groundhog did not see his shadow Sunday, at least not in these parts, for the day was similar to the four previous Sundays—cloudy and raining in the afternoon.

The nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Rummel next Friday afternoon, Feb. 7, from 2 to 5 o'clock A cordial invitation is extended to everybody.

Mrs. Will Miller went up to Waterloo Tuesday to see about getting a house. Mr. Miller being employed in the factory of Duncan & Son, they found it convenient to move there.

A five-year old son of F. M. Askew, west of town, died Tuesday evening. The funeral is at the Baptist church here to-day at 11 o'clock, starting from the home residence at 10, a. m.

Hugh Culbertson has purchased the Dave Ober lot on North Main street, and will erect a handsome dwelling in the spring. Brown & Culbertson will then be near neighbors as well as a firm.

Wilson, the new boot and shoe man, is now fairly started in a cosy home in McIntyre's addition near the residence of Surveyor Hook. The new room for the store is being put in condition to receive his big stock.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Rose. Subject, Commerce of the Ancients. Leader, Miss E. Ensley. Paper, Commerce of To-day, by Mrs. Willis. Lesson in U. S. Geography, conducted by Mrs. Ralston.

The log men are out with their teams every day in spite of the terrible condition of the roads. They put on four and six mules, and go out and bring in one small pole; one team draws the wagon and the other the pole, and the driver walks.

Alfred Griswold is temporarily a pupil of Sheriff Plum's college. He was brought before 'Squire Ralston Monday on charge of stealing a shirt from Hoff's store. For want of bail, he was committed to await the action of the circuit court, which convenes again the first Monday in March.

H. S. McIntosh and his excellent quartet of singers went down to the Junction Saturday evening and favored the literary with a few of their choice selections. The boys have but recently started this enterpise, yet they are capable of holding the attention of their hearers while singing. We believe they are to be known as the "Sober Four."

Ladies, more than any other class in the community require a gentle tonic; their usual sedentary lives and the constant work of the brain, to the exclusion of the muscles, exposes them to relaxation of the vital forces. No tonic is so certain in its effects as Johnston's Compound Sarsaparilla, which moreover, unlike bitters, involves no subsequent unfavorable reaction.

A number of Albion ladies came down here yesterday to visit with friends. They were Mrs. J. J. Martin, Mrs. Elza Shaffer, Mrs. Charles Clapp and Mrs. Richard Stone, the latter being accompanied by her little son Frank. Mrs. Shaffer was the guest of C. C. Shaffer, while the others were guests of Mrs. J. A. Barns. They were pleased with Auburn's prosperous appearance, but were not captivated by our mud.

We are in receipt of the first number of the new paper, the "Times," recently started in Columbia City. It bears the evidence of ability and energy one might expect from its veteran editor, Hon. Eli Brown, and is in every way a first-class and readable paper. We have nothing but kind feelings and good wishes for Mr. Brown, but we cannot believe the new paper will result in adding any strength to the democracy of Whitley county. To keep a party solid and united, with two or more papers, each trying to lead in partially opposite directions, is utterly impossible, no matter how much the publishers may try to remain friendly. Mr. Brown has the same right to start a paper, that every other man has, but with two strong papers already running in that town, we don't see where there can be any money in it. Again, too many papers, are a burden on the people, as DeKalb county people are beginning to realize with their eight newspapers, all clamoring for support. But it is for Whitley county people to decide, and if they want a dozen papers, it is no concern of ours.

A Wet Joke.

A rather wet joke was perpetrated upon our young friend of the lunch counter de' Shugers Monday afternoon. It has been the delight of Geo. ever since his return from the Wild and Wooly West to frighten some one, and then give the Navajo war whoop. On several occasions he has partially quenched this desire by watching until someone would take a seat in Grund's barber shop near the large plate glass, then he would wait till his man was deeply wrapped in thought over the literature of Puck or the COURIER, when he would slip up and throw a bunch of keys against the glass near the silent reader's head. Nine times out of ten the sudden sharp noise will raise a man's hair straight up on his head—and sometimes his ire—and especially a nervous man like Coop Ralston, who happened to be George's last victim of the key ring. Coop tired of being startled so suddenly, and was McGinty bent on "getting even" at once. So he told the boys—Grund, Simp. Johnson, and several others—his scheme, all of whom were anxious to see the sport. Coop arranged that they should get someone to come in and sit down by the window and then tell George to come out and throw the keys, and he would "get even." Coop then went up stairs into the temperance billiard hall of Steele & Nedrey, and secured a large pail of water, raised the window, and when all was in readiness, the signal was given and the curtain rose, and the second and last act of a "waterfall" farce began. Everything worked charmingly. George responded to the call quicker far than he would to a ham sandwich and hard boiled eggs order. Walking on his toes and grinning to beat Germany, he cautiously moved toward the window, reminding one of a cat ready to pounce upon its prey, and just as he was raising his hand to produce his coveted trick of frightening. Siz! Splash!! Bang!!! Oh, such "waters from Lodore," came down from the moss-covered bucket that hung in Cooper's hand, completely drenching George and nearly washing him from the walk. Geo. dropped to the racket, after it was all over, and returned to his lunch room, a wetter, if not a wiser man. The shouts of laughter that went up from the crowd were heard over in Oklahoma. Geo. says, "It's a long lane that don't have a turn," so Coop wants to "look a leedle oudt."

Two Harrison Administrations.

There are a number of things that have happened in this administration that remind one of similar happenings during the four years of the elder Harrison administration. That of W. H. Harrison began March 4, 1841, and the four years for which he was elected would reach to March 4, 1845. After Harrison's death, the vice president, John Tyler served out this time. Within these years, the "Grippe" came to this country for the first time. A member of his cabinet died as the result of it, just as Blaine's son and daughter have died in this administration. In both cases the singular disease went all over the country. As it came while Tyler occupied the White House, serving out Harrison's time, some of his enemies nicknamed it the "Tyler grip." Now comes another and sadder similitude, a disaster that touches close on the administration. We mean the terrible calamity that has just fallen on Mr. Tracy, the secretary of the navy. And it is this that recalls a still more dreadful calamity, that happened in the years that belonged to the other administration. In 1844, on the 28th day of February, Tyler and his cabinet, with most of their families and many invited guests, among them being many distinguished persons from this and other countries, started down the Potomac for a pleasure trip. It was also to be a sort of trial trip for the new war ship, "Princeton," as well as a trial of the powers of the great cannon, the "Peacemaker," recently made for the government by Commodore Stockton. The gun carried a ball of 225 lbs. and took 30 lbs of powder for a charge. It had been fired with 50 lbs a few days before. But on this great occasion, it burst. The secretary of state, Mr. Upshur, the secretary of the navy, Mr. Gilmer, a Mr. Gardiner, of New York, Commodore Kennon, Mr. Maxey our minister to Belgium and a colored lad, who was a servant of the president, all lost their lives. About a dozen sailors were badly hurt, as were also several more of the guests. This happened not fifteen miles below the city, and of course caused the wildest excitement when the ship returned with its dead and wounded and the mourning friends who had started out so gaily but a few hours before. It was Mr. Gardiner's daughter that Tyler afterwards married, and whose death was in the papers a few months ago. Of course people are now too intelligent to be superstitious about such things, but Monday's calamity, that again brought mourning into the family of a prominent member of the Harrison cabinet, makes one call up again these sad incidents.

That Delinquent Tax.

The Press says we "purposely misrepresent the matter of delinquent taxes in this county." By no means. The whole trouble is, the Press don't know anything about it. The Press says there was turned over to Mr. Davis, after Probst's death, a delinquent list of $13,000 on the first installment, and that on adding the second installment there remains but $4,000 etc. Funny way to handle figures, ain't it? The facts are, the delinquent list, as shown by the books when the office was turned over to Davis after Mr. Probst's death, is about $13,000, including the Lockwood tax. Mr. Davis was then given about a month longer than usual to continue collections, because, as we said before, Mr. Probst's death had stopped the paying of any taxes, at a time when they were coming in rapidly. And besides, by extending the time, much scattering tax could be collected, that would otherwise have been totally lost. This extended time took in two pay days on all the roads. The auditor did all he could to assist in this extension of time and kept the books open as long as was possible, in order to facilitate the collection. In fact, if any extra credit is to be given, it is due to the auditor, who put himself to a good deal of trouble in waiting for these matters to be fixed up. But the treasurer and auditor both did their duty, no more, no less. And after all this advantage, Mr. Davis will not claim that he reduced the $13,000 to $4,000. The fact is, he collected about $4,000 of this delinquent, at least $1,000 of which is ditch tax, and did not appear on the general delinquent list. The reduction therefore is about $3,000, leaving a delinquent list yet of about $10,000. The trouble about this is, the desire of republican papers to make it appear that their officers are the only efficient ones. They are so much abler and holier than democratic officials! As we said about the drinking, we are willing to compare democratic with republican officials, in the matter of honesty and efficiency. At Mr. Davis' last settlement, when he turned the office over to Probst, the delinquent list was about $1,000 larger than the list the Press is just complaining of, for the books show about $14,000. We make no objection to this. It was, we presume, the best he could do. But we propose to let both sides have a fair hearing, and have no fear but the democrats will make as good a showing as any. What Mr. Davis and the republican officials need most is to be saved from their fool friends.

Fair Meeting.

The new officers and directors met last Saturday and all entered upon the discharge of their duties, except Mr. Yesbera, who was sick, and had not his bond of treasurer completed. Further time was given. President Davis presided, the annual reports of the outgoing secretary and treasurer were read and referred to the auditing committee, which consists of Van Auken, Dancer and Shugers.

Bills of the COURIER for $4.00 and the Clipper for $3.05 were allowed.

Bond of Secretary Husselman for $2,000 approved.

Salaries for the present year, of secretary, not to exceed $150, and of the treasurer, not over $75.

J. L. Davis, C. C. Shaffer, S. Rogers, C. P. Glagier, and A. J. Ralston were selected executive committee for the year.

The secretary's printed report was ordered sent by mail to all stockholders.

The executive committee met in the afternoon, and went vigorously to work, being in session seven hours. Among other things, they adopted plans for grand stand, to be 100 feet long with dining hall underneath, and one exhibition hall to be in form of a cross 200 feet long.

We have now "rushers" at the head of the association, the kickers and growlers being left.

Paid in January.

We find we owe thanks to the following good friends of the COURIER who paid subscription in January: L. Bowers, F. M. Teeters, Wm. Whetsell, Cyrus Olinger, J. W. Platter, Burton Brown, Ed. Weeks, H. K. Lees, C. Barkey, Henry Witt, Allen Shultz, Geo. Barney, H. E. Trout, C. Pommert, J. Beuret, O. H. Widney, Mrs. M. Houston, D. T. Smith, J. B. Hoover, W. L. Penfield, John Lees, John Rice, Mrs. A. Urban, J. B. Casebeer, M. J. Thomas, W. F. McNagny, Frank Ashley, T. G. Matheny, Wm. Carr, Wm. Moudy, Mrs. W. B. Clock, C. Brandeberry, N. Ensley, James Provines, Mrs. S. Williams, John W. Pepple, Mrs. Sarah Sheets, John Rowe, Oscar Haines, Daniel Gonser, J. W. Osbun, S. Dove, J. R. Burniston, D. Magginis, Henry Wilks, J. B. Coy, John Pepple, James Gilliland, Geo. Walker, B. F. Moffit, W. H. Durim, Mrs. Kate Plumb, E. Ashley, and Eli Miers.

Unclaimed Letters.

List of letters remaining uncalled for at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice for the week ending Feb. 4, 1890: V. Hurth, Miss Emma Night, Miss Lizzie Miller. Persons calling for the above letters will please say advertised.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE lash has never been abolished as a means of discipline in the German penal institutions.

IN 1888 nearly 3,000,000,000 bricks were manufactured in twelve cities of the United States. About 80,000,000 were made in Pittsburg.

IT is said that one of the English novelists is able to repeat from memory every word he has written, and he is the author of many books.

A WEST VIRGINIA girl has saved money enough to buy herself a gold watch by trapping muskrats, skunks, and other animals and selling their hides.

AT a G. A. R. fair in Steubenville recently $2,000 of Confederate money, which was taken from the trunk of Jefferson Davis after his capture, was on exhibition.

WITH a record of having buried 1,300 persons, George L. Moore, an aged undertaker of Guthrieville, Chester County, Pa., has at last been laid under the sod himself.

A PHILADELPHIA undertaker who has much use for his telephone, has had it rigged up on a dumb-waiter arrangement so that it can answer a call from any part of the house.

IT is estimated that the Indians now living own an average of 466 acres each of land. That gives the average redskin too much to farm and too little to make a successful wilderness.

WASHINGTON people are said to be apprehensive that the novel which the widow of Gen. Ricketts is writing will portray some incidents in their lives with rather too much vividness.

IN answer to the question, "Is the bite of the black snake poisonous?" Scientific American says: The common black snake of the United States is not armed with poison fangs and glands, and consequently is not poisonous.

RUSSIAN officials have decided that the telephone is "dangerous to the state." In Warsaw orders have been given that telephones be removed from all restaurants, coffee-houses, and liquor saloons. Similar orders have been issued in all other large Polish towns.

THE United States has the smallest standing army of all the great nations, and yet it spends almost as much per head for military purposes as Prussia or Russia. This is explained, of course, by the fact that we maintain the most liberal pension system in the world.

HIS elevation to the Senate has made no change in the quiet ways of Judge Moody, of Deadwood, S. D. He is a pleasant-looking, quiet old gentleman, wearing a silk hat, and gray hair and whiskers, and he still possesses the amiability of manner to which his success in life is greatly due.

MARK TWAIN has spent about $100,000 in perfecting the Page type-setting machine, and he is the principal owner of the company that will manufacture them. The machine is sixteen feet long, nine feet high in the middle, and, it is claimed, will set, justify, and distribute 45,000 ems of type daily.

JOHN MCCLOSKEY, of San Antonio, Texas, has been mourned as dead for nine years. The other night a bearded stranger appeared at the home of Mrs. McCloskey. She became very indignant when he took her in his arms. It was her husband. He had been in the West, and made a great deal of money.

THEY don't mince matters much in the untrammeled West. The following advertisement appeared in a Kansas City paper the other day: Physician wanted—Immediately, to take charge of the largest country practice in Kansas, in an eastern border county; nine graveyards within the limits; no competition."

THERE is a curiosity along the Fairmont, Morgantown and Pittsburgh Railroad, about six miles above town, worth noticing, says the Morgantown (Pa.) Post. Two sycamore trees, standing about ten feet apart, are joined together by a limb fifteen inches in diameter, and it's dollars to doughnuts which tree it started to grow from. They are the only Siamese twins in this vicinity.

IT is believed that the largest farm under cultivation in this country belongs to Col. John W. Bookwalter, of Ohio, at one time the Democratic candidate for Governor of his State. The farm is on the Nebraska line south of Beatrice, and the Kansas City, Wyandotte and Northwestern Road runs through it. It contains nearly thirteen thousand acres, covering twenty square miles, all under an excellent state of cultivation.

QUEENSLAND, Australia, lays claim to the greatest and richest gold mine in the world. It is called Mt. Morgan, and will this year pay to its owners not less than $6,000,000, with the promise of a great increase when more completely developed. The gold obtained from it assays 99.8 pure, a test which is believed to be without parallel. The original owner of this property bought it for a shilling an acre and sold it at about one pound sterling per acre, or in all for about $3,000. It is now valued, judging by the price of the company's shares, at $50,000,000.

THERE were altogether about three hundred distinct epidemics of influenza in Europe between 1510, when the disease was first noted at Malta, and 1850. In 1729 the whole of Europe suffered severely. According to statistics published by the Novoe Vremya, the disease caused 908 deaths in London in one week, and in Vienna 60,000 persons were affected. In 1737 and 1743 there were further outbreaks, and the deaths in one week in London amounted to 1,000. In 1775 domestic animals were first attacked by it. In 1782 40,000 persons fell ill of it in St. Petersburg in twenty-four hours. In St. Petersburg quinine is now served out daily to the troops, mixed with vodka.

THE women of the Russian telegraph service are raising a great outcry in the press against the hardship of the law in force in Russia that they may only marry telegraphists, and that, too, only those who are engaged at the same station, the official idea being that they thereby, in case of need, would be able to take the place of their husbands. A young Russian woman writes to a Novgorod paper: "I have, therefore, if I do not choose to forfeit my situation, first to fall in love with an electrical swain, then to manage that he falls in love with me; next to arrange that he is transferred to my station. This is a hard task for a girl who is riveted fourteen hours every day to her apparatus, and does not wish to lose her pittance of 720 rubles a year."

THE Buddhists in Burmah do not consider the question of expense in beautifying their temples. Here is the description of the new vane of a pagoda at Rangoon: The vane is about three feet by one and a half feet broad, and thickly crusted with precious stones and lovely fans of the red Burmese gold. One ruby alone is worth 6,000 rupees, and there are several hundred rubies upon this beautiful thing. On the tip of the iron rod on which works the vane is a richly carved and gold ornament called the Semboo. It is somewhat egg-shaped and a foot in height, tipped by an enormous diamond, encircled by many smaller ones crusted on like barnacles. All over this exquisite oval object are similar clumps of diamonds, no other stone being used for this part.

THE mementos of an old love affair are always interesting. Romance never dies. The flavor of it clings to the materials which aided in carrying it on. And so the finding of a begrimed and badly battered metallic box containing a locket, a bundle of parchment letters, and a faded ribbon on the revolutionary battle-field of Stone Arabia sets the imaginative mind at work to weaving a romance of the days of '76. One side of the locket was engraved with a monogram. The letters were evidently written by a titled woman living in London in 1778-9 to her betrothed, who was a Capt. Lowe, probably with the English forces in America. The last letter told of the failing health of the writer and of her wish to see her lover again. It was received just before the battle of Stone Arabia. Did the lover return to England, leaving the case behind, or was he killed in battle, and is the package of letters so carefully preserved the abiding proof that his true love's love was returned?

Five Millions of Soldiers.

Some years ago an idea suggested itself to an obscure workman of Belleville, an idea that since then has engendered an army, amply qualified, were it a question of numbers alone, to realize the dream of eternal peace, by keeping in check the assembled armies of Europe. He sets on foot 5,000,000 soldiers a year. These soldiers are of humble origin, but so was Napoleon. They spring from old sardine boxes. Relegated to the dust hole, the sardine box is preserved from destruction by the dustman, who sells it to a rag merchant in Belleville or in Buttes Chaumont, who in his turn disposes of it to a specialist, by whom it is then prepared for the manufactories. The warriors are made from the bottom of the box, the lid and sides are used for guns, railway carriages, bicycles, etc. All this may seem unimportant at first sight, but the utilization of these old sardine boxes has resulted in the foundation of an enormous manufactory, at which no less than 200 workmen are employed. The poor workman, out of whose head the armed tin soldier sprung—via the sardine box—is now a rich man, and, what is more, an eager and keen-sighted patriot, who in his sphere deserves the gratitude of his country.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Charming Duel of Politeness.

Old Judge Fernald, of Santa Barbara, has the reputation of being the politest man in California. He never loses an opportunity to doff his hat or to offer some slight attention to wayfaring men and women. One day, as he was about to take the train for San Francisco, he reached the rear steps of the last car just as they were approached by a young priest.

"After the cloth," said the chivalric Judge, stepping back with a courtly bow.

"Gray hairs have the preference," returned the priest, with a splendid wave of the hand.

"The church always has precedence," retorted the Judge, taking another backward step, hat in hand.

"The church follows in the footsteps of the fathers," replied the priest, bowing low and indicating the way to the steps.

The duel of politeness was not half through, neither yielding an inch, when the train pulled out, leaving both bowing and smiling on the platform.—San Francisco Examiner.

WILSON'S WISE WORDS.

HE TELLS YOUNG MEN WHY THEY SHOULD BE DEMOCRATS.

The Fight for Lower Taxes Is a Fight for Higher Manhood, and the Fight for Local Sovereignty Is a Fight for Broader Freedom.

Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia, one of the leading members of the last Ways and Means Committee of the House, and an earnest tariff reformer, presents the cause of Democracy to the young men of the country in a very forcible way. His article, which appeared in the Wheeling Register, should be read by all those who wish to know what true Democracy is, and tariff reformers, whatever their political faith, should be glad to see this definition of it. Mr. Wilson writes:

With which party should a young man, who takes his politics not by inheritance or dictation from others, but by his own intelligent and independent judgment, identify himself? Where will he find sentiments and politics that are worthy of his adoption and ardent support? Surely not in the Republican party. That is to-day the party of reaction, while he belongs to the future. Its leaders are generally men past the prime of life, who naturally believe in perpetuating the conditions under which they won leadership and their party reached power. Their statesmanship consists accordingly in efforts to maintain war passions as a lasting sentiment, and war taxes as a permanent policy. The young voter can find neither glory for himself nor benefit for his country by supporting them in either effort.

The great sectional issues, slowly ripening from the foundation of our Government, were fought out by the men of a quarter of a century ago. Every question submitted to the arbitrament of war has been settled, and settled so indisputably that a search warrant could hardly find, in all the land, a corporal's guard who do not understand and fully acquiesce in that settlement. The exceptions, if any such there be, are found among the old and the non-combatant. The generation on whom the storm burst met its fury as constant and brave men. Honor and abiding glory are with the men who fought real battles and made real sacrifices. But for those doughty warriors who defy foes that no longer exist, who delight to insult the vanquished, and to reopen wounds that time has healed, and who fill the arena with their vaporings and imprecations, there should be only contempt to-day, as there will be only scorn and derision in the future.

History is always on the side of the magnanimous. Her laurels are lavishly bestowed on those who are sturdiest in the fight and most generous in the victory, but she will wave into deserved oblivion and disgrace the whole host of tongue-valiant, post-bellum heroes, who still vex our ears with their sectional cries.

But if there are no titles or brevets in the army of the bloody shirt which a self-respecting young man should aspire or consent to wear, are the general policies of the Republican party worthy of support? There, too, he finds reaction. These policies may be summed up in one word, centralization. Centralization of political power in the Federal Government. Centralization of wealth in favored classes. It is difficult to say which portends more evil to free institutions, which is the surest corrosive of individual manhood and individual freedom.

The history of the growth of free institutions is a history of the development of local self-government.

That is their vitalizing principle. Under no theory or practice do we reach the goal of government by the people, that government that belongs to the people, not the government to which the people belong. The government that deals with a citizen at long range becomes his master, no matter what its name be or how its machinery may work. The government which he can hold immediately under his eye, on which he can constantly keep his hand, that is his servant.

Our Constitution, growing out of the voluntary union of independent States, made it possible to combine the two sovereignties—State sovereignty for local affairs—a combination that has been weightily pronounced the highest reach of constructive statesmanship. The party that overrides the autonomy of the States, that seeks to have the General Government interfere with and assume to control matters which the State should and ought exclusively to deal with, wars against the fundamental principles of our institutions, the law of their life and of their healthy expansion. Yet such is the steady, unrelaxing gravitation of the Republican party, and to-day we find it not only, as ever, striving to gather all political power to the Federal Government, but even to bestow upon it that "worldly omnipotence that is annexed to the power of dealing out wealth and poverty."

Its chief existence, as avowed by itself, is to maintain a system of taxation that hampers national progress, represses production, clogs trade, and makes war on commerce, and that, having in all these ways diminished the earnings of labor, interposes with cruel favoritism to divert a part of those earnings into the pockets of chosen beneficiaries.

And worst of all pretenses, it imposes on ignorance and plays with patriotism, by calling this policy the "American system," when in truth it is but the cast-off garment of British statesmanship.

More than forty years ago, when England sought to widen the bounds of freedom, she decreed the extinction of her system of class taxation. In lifting the burden of unequal taxes from the backs of her laborers she lifted a political and social pressure which was equally as heavy and to a freeman far more galling.

This so-called "American system" makes the American laborer more of a serf than his English brother. From his current earnings it gathers not only the bulk of the taxes needed for the support of government, but even greater sums to be bestowed in free and unearned bounty on those who are already so rich that they are his employers. Out of these bounties are springing up monopolies, monster combinations of capital, and the trusts that wrap themselves about with the mantle of concealment while they wield the power of swelling millions.

The Democratic party appeals to the youth of the country to rally to its standard and fight against these sentiments and politics of the Republican party. Over against the banner of the bloody shirt it plants the flag of a restored Union and a reconciled people; a flag that represents no primacy of section, no grades or geographical distinctions of citizenship, but equality of States and equality of people.

Against political centralization, by the massing of powers in the Federal Government, it fights for vigorous and healthy local government as the safeguard of personal freedom. Against the centralization of wealth by unjust taxation, it fights for equality of burdens as the condition of equal manhood. In all its history, and never more zealously than now, it has championed the cause of the individual. It has not sought to add to the power of government, but to the stature of the men; not to circumscribe the citizen with increasing interference, but to widen the bounds of his free, untrammeled actions. Trusting to the capacity and virtue of the whole people to govern themselves, it has never permitted a few to share in the powers of taxation as a reward for their administration of government or as a bribe for their support of party. Knowing that under any wise and frugal government prosperity and wealth would come by natural laws to our people, its concern has not been how it might increase trade or wealth, but how it might preserve and secure liberty. It recognizes that to foster capital is to make labor more dependent.

The Democracy means a chance in life for every man. We have loved to boast that under free and equal government we had forever rid ourselves of the class laws and social prejudices that made honors and social position and poverty the heritage of a privileged order and condemned the great body of the people to a poverty and obscurity from which there was no escape. We have rightly pointed to our young men who have risen from lowliest beginnings by mere force of virtue and merit as the most precious fruit of free institutions. Yet this fruit is now threatened with deadly blight. The corporations, steam and electricity, the great forces of modern industry, are terribly centralizing in their effects. By their own free play they threaten the integrity of the Government and the liberty of the citizen. But when the law steps in, not to curb or chasten, but to aid and increase their effects, to add to the power of wealth, to cherish and protect monopoly and to stimulate that latest and most dangerous form of commercial combination, the centralization of corporations into trusts, a shadow is flung across the path of the American youth; barriers that cannot be surmounted are rising before him; his heritage is passing from him into the possession of others. Classes differentiate, and society, as elsewhere, hardens into its unyielding stratifications. This is the great contest of the future—the struggle between the people and plutocracy. The Democratic party, as the hereditary champion of the people, is rallying to their cause with an enthusiasm it has never before felt. The Republican party is chained in helpless and, sad to say, seemingly willing service to the money power. It has made its covenant with that power. "Keep us in control of the Government, and you shall dictate the laws."

No young man ought to hesitate as to his duty in such a struggle. He discredits his manhood when he enlists under the banner of the bloody shirt. He wars against posterity when he consents to accept service or command in the subsidized battalions of monopoly. The fight for lower taxes is a fight for higher manhood. The fight for local sovereignty is a fight for broader freedom.

There are, as Mr. Cleveland well says, no weak, weary, or dependent members of the true Democracy to-day. In its success are involved not only the issues of restored citizenship, of just and equal taxation, but the more momentous question whether the race in life shall be kept open equally to all American youth or the chasm grow wider between the rich and the poor, as the power of the Government is thrown in favor of the one and against the other.

MORTGAGE FIGURES IN THE CENSUS.

Republicans Trying to Fool the Farmers.

Washington telegram: Indignant protests from farmers have been pouring in ever since the Senate summarily recommitted the bill introduced by Mr. Berry, making it the duty of the Superintendent of Census to "ascertain the number of persons who live on and cultivate their own farms and who live in their own homes and the number who hire their farms and homes, and the number of farms and homes which are under mortgage, the amount of mortgage debt, and the value of the property mortgaged," and providing that "he shall also ascertain the objects for which mortgaged farms and homes have been mortgaged and the rate of interest paid upon mortgage loans." Many of these protests have come from Maine, where the stones are said to be so thick that animals cannot graze until their noses have been sharpened. The noses of the hardy husbandmen themselves have also been kept on the grindstone by the men who hold mortgages on the bleak and barren farms of the Pine Tree State, and they object to the shabby treatment accorded them by the Senate. Mr. Hale knows well enough that the millionaire society of which he is a member does not care to increase the present outcry against tariff and trust robbery by ordering the collection of statistics showing the enormous burdens which are crushing the farmer out of existence, but in order to pacify his constituents he has introduced a bill similar to Mr. Berry's, and appropriating $1,000,000 to carry out its purpose. The Senate can attend to that bill in about two minutes.

VANCE SCORES INGALLS.

The Kansas Senator's Speech Likened to the Tail of a Comet.

[Washington dispatch.]

Senator Vance, of North Carolina, addressed the Senate Thursday on the Butler negro-emigration bill. He criticised Senator Ingalls' speech, which, he said, reminded him of an astronomer's description of the tail of a recent comet. Its length was described as 100,000,000 miles, its breadth as 50,000 miles, and yet the solid matter which it contained could be transported in a one-horse car. He (Vance) had listened with the greatest entertainment to that speech; he had searched and he had wondered where the remedy was for the evil that was depicted in such colors. Suddenly, before the light expired and the Senate was left in darkness, the solution was announced as "justice." The Senator announced that the millennium had not yet dawned on the South, and that the land of reconstruction was not yet a land of perfect righteousness. Just north of Mason and Dixon's line there was such a land. There was a country where there was no suppression of the popular vote by gerrymandering or otherwise; where there was no purchase of the floating vote in "blocks of five;" where there was no ejectment of colored children from white schools or of colored men from theaters and barbers' chairs; and where it was to be hoped that, in the process of time, one black man would be chosen to sit in Congress, and that even some railroad attorney or millionaire would make room in the Senate chamber for a colored brother. He hoped that in course of time one accomplished black man might be sent abroad to represent the country to some other land besides Hayti and Liberia. He even hoped that a colored man might be found fit to serve his country in some other region than the South, and that great dumping ground of political dead-beats, the District of Columbia, on whose helpless people had been imposed—in every office from the judiciary down—the worn-out partisans for whom their people at home had no further use.

Senator Vance quoted Senator Ingalls' speech as to the South standing on a volcano, and said he believed the Senator had passed the blackest and foulest judgment on his own people. He believed that hundreds of thousand of stout hearts would rush to the rescue of their Southern brethren should the South have need of such help. But the South could wage such a war without assistance, and could easily overcome an uprising of 7,000,000 negroes. Then there would come a solution of the negro problem which would stay solved. What, he asked, was the problem? Even a high-spirited, liberty-loving, cultivated, dominant race, occupying a free State, full of capacity, energy, and progress, and, with that race, a race of manumitted slaves of recently barbaric origin, with no race traditions, no pride, no history of progress; how, he asked, should the two be made to dwell together in peace and fraternity? It was a fundamental principle in American law that a majority of those to whom the franchise is committed shall rule, within limits; but it was a principle of natural law, as old as man himself, that the stronger must rule, without limit. He affirmed not that the negro was incapable of civilization, but that he was incapable of keeping up with the civilization of the white race. His solution of the problem was simply "hands off."

He could not support Senator Butler's bill. It did not reach the case. There was ample room for the negroes in the Northern and Northwestern States, and it was entirely practicable to induce them to settle in those States. If, said he, the negro is a good thing, let us divide him out. In conclusion he said, addressing Senator Ingalls: "If you cannot help, either white or black, common decency requires that you should hold your peace."

Ingalls and His Backers.

There is a serious political, social, and economical question in the Southern States arising out of the presence in that section of the republic of 8,000,000 blacks. The best men and wisest men of America are seriously concerned over the possibilities which this situation of affairs opens up. It is hoped and believed by most people who are capable of lucid thought on the subject that the question will be solved—that it is being solved—by the whites of that section, and that if things are left to themselves a satisfactory adjustment of all difficulties will be made as they arise. It is certain that on the people of the South themselves the momentous problem rests with greater weight than it possibly can upon any other class, and that they, more than the people of the North, are interested in a solution which will be generally regarded as just and accepted as satisfactory. This adjustment may proceed on various lines, but it will hardly be denied by any temperate man that it must be within the limit of white supremacy. There may be white men here who will advocate the subjection of American commonwealths to the barbarous rule of a race that has yet to take its first lesson in civilized government, but the Herald prefers not to think so meanly of any participant in the glories of a civilization that was not so easily obtained as to be thrown away without a struggle.

Confronting this solemn issue, a malignant creature named Ingalls delivered himself in the United States of a tirade of inflammatory falsehood and unprovoked abuse which would have shamed a savage, and Republican newspapers from one end of the country to the other applaud him with such lines as "Ingalls at his best" and "Hot shot for the South." What is this Ingalls' evil purpose? What is his aim? To subject the white population of the South to negro rule. Why? Because he assumes that negro rule would be Republican rule, as if party advantage were to be had in so great a loss to civilization and so stupendous a blow to the free institutions of a race that has been free and progressive for a thousand years. Thus lightly do the bigots, the fools, the villains of the day approach a subject which can give thoughtful people nothing but apprehension, and thus heartily do heedless partisans applaud an orator using his reptile tongue to stir up strife, and to take the question out of the courts of reason and project it into the arena of violence. So vicious a man as John J. Ingalls may be dismissed with loathing and contempt. He is a political monster to be hated and avoided, but what shall be said of a party that finds in the snakish glitter of his evil eye, in the leer of his pinched and repulsive face, and in the unspeakable venom of his poisonous tongue, something to rejoice in and to indorse?—Chicago Herald.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capitol—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed Of and New Ones Considered.

IN the Senate, on the 28th, petitions were presented for the prevention of a sale of options on farm produce. Senator Chandler presented a petition from 100 citizens of Mississippi asking for the establishment of a republican government in that State, which, the petition states, is now lacking. Mr. Morrill introduced the bill authorizing the issue of treasury notes on deposits of silver bullion. Under the calendar the bill to pay the States and Territories all moneys collected under the direct tax levied by the act of Congress in 1861 came up. The amendment by Senator Vance was rejected, and after some debate a vote was taken, resulting in the passage of the bill by a vote of 44 to 7. The Senate then went into executive session and adjourned. The following confirmations were announced: Richard Guenther, of Wisconsin, Consul General to the City of Mexico; L. Gottschalk, of California, Consul to Stuttgart; J. F. Winter, of Illinois, Consul to Mannheim; Jacob Yoes, United States Marshal for the Western District of Arkansas. The House passed a bill providing that, in cases of pension claims of dependent parents, it shall be necessary only to show to the pension office that the parents are without other means of support than manual labor. Mr. Dorsey, of Nebraska, from the Committee on Banking and Currency, reported a bill to provide for the issue of circulating notes to national banking associations, upon which the House spent the entire afternoon.

IN the Senate on the 29th, after some routine business, Mr. Mitchell took the floor and addressed the Senate on the bill for the free coinage of silver. On the conclusion of Mr. Mitchell's address the Senate went into executive session, and at 3 o'clock the doors were opened and the Senate adjourned. In the House Mr. Payson, of Illinois, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported the Senate bill for the creation of three additional land districts in Colorado. The bill was passed—yeas, 182; days, 98. Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, called up the election case of Smith vs. Jackson, from the Fourth West Virginia District. Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, raised the question of consideration. Upon the question of considering the Smith vs. Jackson election case, the Democrats generally refused to vote, and made the point of no quorum. The Speaker, however, counted as present the members refusing to vote, and declared a quorum present. The House was immediately in a great turmoil, but quiet was at length restored, and the Speaker made a long statement in justification of his course. Mr. Crisp appealed from the decision of the Chair, and proceeded to make a reply to the Speaker's argument. Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, replied in support of the Speaker. He read from speeches in Congress by Randolph Tucker, Mr. Springer, and others in support of Speaker Reed's position. Mr. Carlisle followed, simply saying that the question was higher than parliamentary law; that it was one of constitutional law. He quoted from the Constitution to show that a majority of the members constituted a quorum, and that it only gives power to less than a quorum to adjourn or compel the attendance of members. He said that if the Speaker were allowed to put names in the journal of the House, it would be a violation of the spirit of the Constitution. Mr. McKinley took the floor to reply, but the House adjourned without further action.

IN the Senate, on the 30th, Mr. Vance, in pursuance of notice given some days before, replied to Ingalls' speech on the race problem. At the close of Senator Vance's speech, Senator Hampton followed in remarks of some length on the same subject. His speech was devoted largely to data relative to the progress of the South and the condition of the negro. At 3:50 the Senate proceeded to the consideration of calendar business, at 4 went into executive session, and at 4:30 adjourned. In the House, the reading of the journal of the previous day precipitated a renewal of the contest between the Speaker and the Democratic side of the House. Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, moved that the journal be approved, and upon that motion demanded the previous question. Mr. Springer, of Illinois, moved an adjournment, and demanded the yeas and nays. The roll was then called, and the motion was defeated—yeas, 142; nays, 160. The question then recurred on the demand for the previous question on the approval of the journal, and, the yeas and nays having been ordered, the Democrats abstained from voting. Before the vote was announced, the Speaker directed the Clerk to record the names of certain members as present and not voting, after which he announced that the vote stood, yeas 160, nays 1, and added: "Which, in addition to the gentlemen present, constitutes a quorum, and the previous question is ordered." The Speaker then ordered the yeas and nays on the approval of the previous question and the journal was declared to stand approved. A vote was taken on the motion to lay on the table the appeal from the Speaker's ruling of the previous day, that he had a right to take notice of the presence of persons not voting and thus make a quorum. On this the Democrats declined to vote, and the result was announced—yeas, 162; nays, 0. The point of no quorum was made, but the Speaker directed the Clerk to place upon the journal the fact that certain members who did not vote and whose names he called were present in their seats, and that a quorum was present. The Speaker declared the motion to lay on the table the appeal from his ruling carried, and the House, after another roll-call, adjourned.

THE Senate, in executive session on the 31st ult., confirmed the nomination of John M. Clark to be Collector of the Port at Chicago. In the House the contest of the two previous days over taking up consideration of the Smith-Jackson contested election case was renewed. Mr. Springer moved to adjourn, saying he did so to enable the Committee on Rules to bring in a code of rules. The motion to adjourn was lost—yeas 135, nays 162—and the question recurring on the demand for the previous question, the yeas and nays were ordered. The Democrats again pursued their policy of not voting, and the Speaker once more pursued his method of jotting down the names of members present and not voting. The Speaker then declared the demand for the previous question carried—yeas, 160; nays, 0; amid the loud protests of the Democrats. Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, entered a vigorous protest. The Speaker refused to recognize several motions for adjournment, explaining his position at some length. The motion to take up the case at length reached a roll-call, and the Democrats again refrained from voting, but the Speaker, glancing over the Democratic side, now and then checked off a member whose name was called and who refused to respond. The vote resulted—yeas, 163; nays, 0, and the Speaker's decision was sustained. Mr. Dalzell then took the floor and presented the claims of the contestant, and at the conclusion of Mr. Dalzell's address the House adjourned. A caucus of the Democrats of the House was held later in the day, at which it was resolved to continue the contest against the Speaker's rulings.

New Use of Phosphoric Acid.

Some interesting details have been given in The Medical Record, London, of the treatment of ulcers by phosphoric acid, under the practice of Grossich. In the treatment there is used a 10 per cent. solution of pure phosphoric acid in distilled water, the ulcer being covered with a bit of lint dipped in this solution, and the dressing renewed three or four times a day. The result of this is that the patient for the first few minntes feels a slight burning sensation, but this soon passes, and within twenty-four or thirty-six hours the ulcer cleans and appears better, inflammation or eczema of the surrounding parts disappears, and all pruritus ceases—the ulcer cicatrizing rapidly, and the cicatrix being firm and healthy. It is also stated that the treatment by the solution of phosphoric acid was further employed in a case of tuberculous abscess of some eight months' duration, and also a case of eczema margination which had lasted more than a year, good results following in both of these.

Incredible Meanness.

A hard case is told as follows: The daughter of a wealthy Boston merchant, deceased, fell in love with a man and became engaged to him. Without cause he neglected the lady, and finally became so rude to her as to force her to break the engagement. While that lasted, however, the lady had made a will, giving to the man the sum of $25,000 or thereabouts, and making him a coexecutor with her mother and other relatives. The lady being deeply attached to the man, his treatment of her so far affected her as to become indirectly the cause of her death. She had expressed her intentions of changing her will as soon as she should return to her home from the summer resort where she tarried, but her death came suddenly, and her will stands. It is understood that the man not only accepts the gifts named in the will, but also persists in serving as coexecutor of the lady's property. It is a melancholy fact that there is no law in Massachusetts that can reach this cruel state of things.—Boston Gazette.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

UPROAR IN THE HOUSE.

AN EXCITING DAY IN THE LOWER HOUSE OF CONGRESS.

Speaker Reed's Ruling Sustained by the Republicans—The Democratic Minority Exhaust the Resources of Parliamentary Tactics to Defeat the Ruling.

The galleries of the House were crowded on Thursday in anticipation of a renewal of the previous day's hostilities. As soon as the journal was read, Mr. Breckenridge of Kentucky demanded the reading of the names of those who did not vote Wednesday. That was done and the ruling of the Speaker, as placed on the journal, was also read as a part of the journal.

The moment the reading of the journal was ended McKinley moved that the journal be approved, and on that motion moved the previous question.

The Speaker put the motion amid great confusion.

Mr. Blanchard tried to get recognition on a question of privilege, intending to protest against the placing of his name on record Wednesday by the SPEAKER REED.

Speaker. Mr. Springer, who meantime had been shouting for recognition, moved to adjourn, and demanded a roll call on his motion. This was ordered and the clerk was directed to call the roll.

Mr. Bland then sprang to his feet and moved to reconsider the vote by which the roll-call was ordered, his apparent purpose being to begin filibustering tactics.

The speaker paid no attention to his motion, and Mr. Bland then shouted "Mr. Speaker! Mr. Speaker!" at the top of his voice and denounced the Speaker's course as revolutionary and that of a tyrant. His shouts and demonstrations were greeted with rounds of applause and yells from the Democratic side and shouts of derisive laughter on the Republican side until he sat down exhausted, and the roll-call, which had gone on in the meantime amid great confusion, proceeded in comparative quiet.

The motion for adjournment was defeated—yeas 142, nays 160.

A roll-call was then demanded on the previous question of the approval of the journal, and on this the Democrats declined to vote.

Before the vote was announced, the Speaker directed the clerk to record the following names of members as present and not voting: Messrs. Breckinridge, of Arkansas; Carlise, Clements, Crain, Crisp, Culberson, of Texas; Dockery, Enloe, Goodnight, Hemphill, Hooker, Kilgore, Lane, McCreary, McMillin, Montgomery, Moore, of Texas, Oates and Outhwaite.

Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, raised a burst of laughter by his complaint that he had been present and not voting, and that his name was not upon the Speaker's list. The Speaker then announced the vote to stand: Yeas, 160; nays, 1; and added: "Which in addition to the gentlemen present, constitute a quorum, and the previous question is ordered."

This brought forth a storm of applause from the Republican side.

Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, wished to appeal from the decision, but the Speaker sided with the point of order raised by Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, that the appeal was not in order, as another appeal was pending.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, made the point of order that no quorum had voted and said that if the Speaker so desired he would take an appeal.

The Speaker—And the Chair declines to entertain the appeal of the gentleman from Illinois. [Applause on the Republican side and hisses from the Democrats.]

Then, amid wild cheering on the Democratic side, Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, rushed down the aisle, and standing in front of the Speaker, exclaimed: "From that we appeal. There is no appeal pending. There was an appeal yesterday, but this is a different appeal, because the Speaker is assuming that the House will sustain his decision of yesterday, and so is carrying by his own vote to-day the decision he has had."

"It, therefore," continued Mr. Breckinridge, "does not come within the rule, as stated by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. McKinley), and the gag law, which that gentleman, with the help of the Speaker, has applied to-day is usurpatory, revolutionary and corrupt."

Cheer after cheer arose from the Democratic side, mingled with hisses from the Republicans. In the midst of the tumult the Speaker stated the question to be on the motion to approve the journal, and the yeas and nays having been ordered, directed the clerk to call the roll. Owing to the confusion many Democratic members did not understand the question as put by the chair, and another scene of excitement ensued, dozens of members arising and demanding to know what they were to vote upon.

The Speaker tried in vain to restore order, and one Democrat was heard to shout above the turmoil that the House was as much in order as the Speaker. A lull occurred, however, and Mr. Carlisle arose and hoped that the roll call would be suspended until order was restored.

The journal was declared to stand approved, and, after another storm, occasioned by Mr. Springer's persistent efforts, which in the end proved successful, to address the chair, the House became quiet and the floor was accorded to Mr. McKinley, who spoke upon the appeal taken yesterday and supported the Speaker's decision.

Mr. McKinley argued that one man could pass a measure if sixteen remained in their seats silent and inactive, and characterized such inactivity as a betrayal of trust. He had indulged in filibustering himself, but he had never done so for any high or noble purpose and generally felt ashamed of himself afterward. [Voice from the Democratic side: "When were you converted?"]

He said that the other side wanted to rule or ruin, and said: "While we are in the majority we say you shall do neither."

Mr. Turner, Democrat, maintained that the clerk was the officer of the House to keep the minutes and the Speaker had no more power over these minutes than an other member had. "If," he said, "the Speaker can put any name on the journal why can not I, his peer on this floor, direct the clerk to leave my name off?"

Mr. Butterworth, taking the floor, said that the proposition of the Democrats was untenable. Their position was that a member was responsible only to himself and his constituents as to whether he should vote or not vote. Such a doctrine was well enough in the days when members were regarded as ambassadors from the States, "but it won't do in January, 1890." It was absurd to hold that members who sat on the floor of the House drawing $10 or $12 per day were not participating, or that members could be bodily present and legislatively absent. He cited a similar case in Kentucky, where a Democratic officer had ruled in the same manner that Speaker Reed is now ruling.

Here a member on the Democratic side asked Mr. Butterworth if it were certain that the presiding officer of the Senate of Kentucky counted the Senators who were present but did not vote in order to make up a quorum.

Mr. Butterworth referred to Mr. Wilson, of Kentucky, who, answering the inquiry, said that in 1886, while he had the honor of being a member of the Kentucky Senate, "and it is always an honor to be a member of the Kentucky Senate," the precise question arose there and had been decided by a Democratic presiding officer exactly as Speaker Reed is now holding and the bill so passed had been signed by Gov. Knott, a distinguished constitutional lawyer, who was perfectly familiar with the manner in which the bill was passed.

A vote was taken on the motion to lay on the table the appeal from the Speaker's ruling of yesterday, that he had a right to take notice of the presence of persons not voting, and thus make a quorum. On this the Democrats declined to vote, and the result was announced—yeas 162, nays 0.

The point of no quorum was made, but the Speaker directed the clerk to place upon the journal the fact that certain members who did not vote and whose names he called, were present in their seats, and that a quorum was present. This course was received by the Democrats with demonstrations of disapproval, and Mr. Mansur entered a formal protest.

The Speaker declared the motion to lay on the table. The appeal from his ruling carried, and the House, after another roll-call, adjourned.

Capital Gossip.

The Senate has passed the House bill providing for duplicate discharge papers to naval veterans who have lost their originals.

The Senate has adopted a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to debts due by Southern States on Indian trust funds and on the direct tax of 1861.

The interstate commerce committee of the Senate have ordered the interstate telegraph bill favorably in the form in which it passed the Senate in the last Congress, with unimportant amendments.

APPROPRIATIONS have been asked by the Secretary of the Treasury as follows: Military port at Fort Myer, Va., $66,410; for eleventh census, $75,000; building garrisons, $140,000; expenses of West Point Military Academy, $75,000.

AT a caucus of Democratic Senators a resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee to consult with the House Congressional committee as to the conduct of the next campaign and to define questions of party policy. No mention was made of the Aberdeen affair.

SECRETARY WINDOM is about to issue a second call on the national bank depositories for a surrender of 10 per cent of government funds held by them. The six or eight banks that hold less than $50,000 will be called upon to surrender all and close up their account with the government.

GEORGE H. ELY, of Cleveland; H. W. Seymour, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Colonel C. H. Graves, of Duluth, made an argument before the House committee on rivers and harbors in favor of granting the lump sum asked for the improvement of the St. Mary's river and the Hay Lake channel.

SPELLING REFORM IN CONGRESS

The Hon. Frank Lawler's Bill Providing for a Shorter Method of Spelling.

Congressman Lawler, of Chicago, recently introduced the following resolution in the House. It was referred to the Committee on Printing and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the Public Printer be, and is hereby directed, in all work for Congress and for the departments begun after passage of this resolution, to adopt the following rules for amended spellings, except in educational and other works where a different orthography may be required:

First—Drop ue at the end of words like dialogue, catalogue, etc., where the preceding vowel is short. Thus, spell demagog, epilog, synagog, etc. When the preceding vowel is long, as in prorogue, vogue, disembogue, retain final letters as at present.

Second—Drop final e in such words as definite, infinite, favorite, etc., when the preceding vowel is short. Thus, spell opposit, preterit, hypocrit, requisit, etc. When the preceding vowel is long, as in polite, finite, unite, etc., retain present forms unchanged.

Third—Drop final te in words like quartette, coquette, cigarette, etc. Thus spell cigaret, roset, epaulet, vedet, gazet, etc.

Fourth—Drop final me in words like programme. Thus spell program, oriflam, gram, etc.

Fifth—Change ph to f in words like phantom, telegraph, phase, etc. Thus spell alfabet, paragraf, filosofy, fonetic, fotograf, etc.

Sixth—Substitute e for the diphthongs æ and œ when they have the sound of that letter. Thus spell eolian, esthetic, diarrhea, subpena, esofagus, atheneum, etc.

N. B. No change in proper names.

Duly Warned.

"Lookee here, Jim Shipton, I jist want yer to understand who it is yer sassin," cried an irate Dakota woman on the occasion of a trifling connubial eclogue between her husband and herself.

"I jist want yer to b'ar in mind that it ain't none o'yer common, low-down Western women yer talkin' to, but a lady born an' raised in the State of Mizzoury, an' used to good manners, be gosh! A lady whose par was a Justice of the Peace, and one of the prominentest men in the town—a lady what uster sing in the choir, and who never knowed what it was to 'sociate with the common run o' folks till she tuk up with you, dem yer picter! An' don't you presume to raise up an' sass me as if yer was my ek'al, Jim Shipton! Don't you dast do it!"—Drake's Magazine.

Her Ring Is Her Mascot.

Miss Amelia B. Edwards, the English author and Egyptologist, dresses in quiet, conventional taste, but possesses one noticeable ornament, which, however, seldom leaves its resting-place in her jewel box. This is a ring mounted with a scarabæus in gold. The Egyptian beetle, for such it is, is said to have been taken from the wrappings of a mummy, and is as old, perhaps, as the days of the Pharaohs. It is green with age and green with the glitter of small emeralds. Although she seldom puts it on her finger, Miss Edwards is said to regard the symbol of ancient Egypt as a sort of mascot, and to carry the scarabæus ring with her constantly on her travels.—New York Press.

He Rolled Over on the Boy.

Very fat gentleman—Sonny, can you tell me the quickest way I can get to the station?

Very naughty boy (after looking him over carefully)—I sh'd say you'd better lay down 'n roll over 'bout twice.—Munsey's Weekly.

AN ENTERPRISING CORPORATION.

"Has Agents Everywhere."

The Phenix of Brooklyn is one of the wonders of fire insurance, and one of the famous companies of the world. Its rapid rise in popular favor is without parallel. The familiar sign, "The Phenix of Brooklyn Has Agents Everywhere," while apparently exaggerative, is almost literally true, so far as the United States is concerned. Should the reader, no matter whom or where, wonder whether the company is represented in his place, he has only to make an inquiry "down-town" to be convinced. Its agents are workers. The Phenix moves, and this in part explains its success. Another explanation is that it is as prompt and active in the settlement of losses as in the pursuit of premiums.

The headquarters of the company's Western and Southern department are located in its own building at Chicago. In the West and South it does a business as large as, if not larger than, that of any other company. In farm insurance it leads. Last year, its premium receipts in this territory were over $2,400,000. "Nothing succeeds like success." During 1889, this company materially strengthened its assets and net surplus, its funds now aggregating over $4,780,000. The company was the first to pay a loss resulting from the Chicago fire. It paid $425,000 to sufferers from that disaster and $450,000 to Boston the year following.

Since its organization in 1853, the Phenix has paid losses representing nearly thirty-eight times its present cash capital, the total payments being $37,720,621.60. The relief afforded by the redistribution of this vast amount among the people cannot be accurately determined. It has supplemented credit, promoted trade, and fostered all industries. Great numbers of commercial establishments have thus been enabled to substitute the new for the old, while a still greater number of private homes have been restored from their ashes and ruins.

The Porter Was Surprised.

It is very hard to surprise a Pullman car porter," says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He is hardened. All sorts and conditions of men are the same to him. Grain ripe unto the harvest.

But the other day, on a Pennsylvania train, an African autocrat had a surprise party. There were two young men in his sleeper. Quietly dressed, orderly young men. They both had upper berths, which early in the evening they asked his royal highness to make up.

"Berths boaf ready, gemmen," he announced presently, adding: "Shall I get de ladder, sir?"

"What?" said both young men abruptly, and before the porter could explain, they were seated in their berths smiling at him. How they did it so quickly a spectator who saw it done could not tell me. He says the two young men made a simultaneous spring, each caught the rail of the berth and drew himself in in less time by ten seconds than it takes to write this sentence.

"Learnt that mountin' Texas ponies," one of them told the porter, who stared at them in vague alarm.

They were cowboys.

She Couldn't Think of Violating Common Custom.

"Oh! oh!" she spluttered as the young traveling man pulled her out of the waters. "What made you do any such thing?"

"I beg your pardon," he responded in a tone of surprise.

"What business had you rescuing me from a watery grave?"

"I'm sorry that it should annoy you, but believe me, there is no necessity that the slightest sense of obligation should attach—"

"Of course, it annoys me. Now I'll have to marry you—and I'm sure I shall not like you."

"I don't see why that should follow."

"Of course you don't; that is because men are stupid. Imagine how horridly the story will read in the newspapers if I didn't marry you. It would be simply preposterous."—Merchant Traveler.

Ingratitude.

Perhaps next to blowing cigarette smoke into a gentleman's face there is no crime more detestable than ingratitude to friends we do not expect to use again. And yet what a rare thing is lasting gratitude, unless it be of the type described by Talleyrand as a lively expectation of future benefits. "He who expects gratitude from man," say another cynic, "may as well look for tears in the eyes of a corpse."

"Ingratitude is such a deadly poison that it destroys the very bosom in which it is harbored," says an ancient axiom, the truth of which may well be doubted, since ungrateful people as a general thing flourish like a green bay tree planted by the river of waters.

Gratitude is an emotion. When it becomes a matter of reasoning there are numerous ways of escaping from its bonds; and it can then no longer be called gratitude.—Texas Siftings.

A Haunted House.

This body of ours has been likened to a tenement. It often has a haunted apartment—the stomach. Scared by the eldrich sprite, dyspepsia, digestion flies and refuses to return. What can break the spell, what can raise the ban laid upon the unhappy organs? We answer unhesitatingly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and we are warranted in the response by the recorded testimony of myriads, covering over a third of a century. A course of the Bitters, begun in any stage of the affliction, and persistently followed, will terminate in a cure positive, not partial. The Bitters restores tone to the epigastric nerve, renews and purifies the juices exuding from the cellular tissue that act upon the food digestively, expels bile from the stomach and the blood, and promotes a regular habit of body. Malaria, kidney complaint, nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia give way to this medicine.

A Poor Actor.

In Chicago. First Thug—Here comes a well-dressed man. Let's go for him.

Second Thug—Better not; you won't get anything.

First Thug—He looks as though he might have something valuable about him.

Second Thug—Well, he hasn't. I saw him on the stage in a West Side theater the other night and he's the poorest actor I ever saw.

Lowering the Record.

Mother (to her old maid daughter)—Why, Julia, what do you mean by using the family Bible in that way? You are scratching out figures in the family record and inserting others.

Julia—It is a record of my birth, isn't it?

"Yes, it is."

"Well, I'm lowering the record.—Texas Siftings.

An Unhappy Spirit.

First Female Spirit—Why are you unhappy? Why do you weep?

Second Female Spirit—Look at the inscription on my tomb! They've made me a year older than I really was! Oh, I shall never know what rest means!

A MAN at Genoa, Ohio, has a clock two hundred years old. That must be one of the old times we read about.—Tid-Bits.

WHEN a fellow rushes from a house into the street in a towering passion, it is an out-rage.

Growth of Insanity.

Prominent physicians assure us that insanity is steadily increasing in this country. This opinion is confirmed to some extent by the number of insane people who commit murder. Nine murderers out of a possible ten insist that they are mentally unbalanced.

There are a great many lunatics in New York City, but since a perfectly sane female reporter got herself sent to Ward's Island in order to write up the institution, the examinations have become so strict that very few residents know enough to go crazy.

If men's minds were as unsettled as their bills, how few of us would there be at liberty.

Crazy persons are called lunatics, because formerly it was supposed that the moon was responsible for their demented condition. In this connection it is curious to note that while a crazy man is a maniac a crazy girl is never called a girliac.—Texas Siftings.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, }
LUCAS COUNTY, SS. }

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{ SEAL. } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists, 75 cents.

On the Verge of a Panic.

Jackson (whose financial credit is gone)—I tell you, Witherbee, we are on the verge of a financial panic.

Witherbee—Pshaw! What makes you think that?

(Confidentially)—Well, sir, Bagley and Roberts used to lend me small sums a year ago, but when I go to them nowadays for a five or ten, they tell me frankly that they haven't got it. Bagley and Roberts are two of our best business men, too. I tell you, sir, we're going to have a panic.—Time.

Entirely Helpless to Health.

The above statement made by Mrs. S. H. Ford, wife of Gen. Ford, can be vouched for by nearly the entire population of Corunna, Mich., her home for years. She was for two years a terrible sufferer from rheumatism, being confined to her bed most of the time, her feet and limbs being so badly swollen she could scarcely move. She was induced to try a bottle of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. It helped her, and two additional bottles entirely cured her. To-day she is a well woman.

First ask your druggist; should he not keep it, we will send on receipt of price, $1 per bottle or six for $5.

RHEUMATIC SYRUP CO.
Jackson, Mich.

Female Curiosity.

Wife—I think I shall advertise for my missing purse.

Husband—As it was probably stolen, you will not get it back unless you say that no questions will be asked.

Wife—What! Not ask any questions? Why, what do you take me for? Do you think I'm a dummy?—Texas Siftings.

When the summer's rose i as faded,
What shall make it fair again?
When the face with pain is shaded,
What shall drive away the pain?
Never shall a blossom brighten
After blighted by the frost,
But the load of pain may lighten,
And we need not count as lost

all the pleasure of life when the wife and mother, upon whom the happiness of home so largely depends, is afflicted with the delicate diseases so peculiar to women. It is terrible to contemplate the misery existing in our midst because of the prevalence of these diseases. It is high time that all women should know that there is one sure remedy for all female complaints, and that is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Do not allow ill-health to fasten itself upon you. Ward it off by the use of this standard remedy. But if it has already crept in, put it to rout. You can do it by the use of the "Favorite Prescription." It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be returned.

FOR biliousness, sick headache, indigestion and constipation take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

PARADOXICAL as it may sound, no man who gets over Niagara Falls ever gets over it.—Texas Siftings.

How to Buy Buggies.

The correct way to buy goods of any kind is from the manufacturer, when possible. For sixteen years the Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Company, of Elkhart, Ind., have sold direct to the consumer at wholesale prices, saving their customers the middleman's profit. As they ship anywhere, with privilege to examine before paying, and pay all charges if not satisfactory, the buyer runs no risk. See their advertisement, and send for catalogue.

"WHAT I want," said a speaker, "is plain, every day-sense——" "That's what you need," broke in a bystander.

ISN'T it queer a white man always feels blue after painting the town red?

What It Costs

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people before buying an article which seems absolutely necessary. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla taken according to directions will average to last a month, while other medicines last but half or quarter as long. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see for yourself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

If you have a
COLD or COUGH,
acute or leading to
CONSUMPTION,
SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE COD LIVER OIL
AND HYPOPHOSPHITES
OF LIME AND SODA
IS SURE CURE FOR IT.

This preparation contains the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites and fine Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. Used by physicians all the world over. It is as palatable as milk. Three times as efficacious as plain Cod Liver Oil. A perfect Emulsion, better than all others made. For all forms of Wasting Diseases, Bronchitis,

CONSUMPTION,
Scrofula, and as a Flesh Producer
there is nothing like SCOTT'S EMULSION.

It is sold by all Druggists. Let no one by profuse explanation or impudent entreaty induce you to accept a substitute.

SEVEN SEVENTEEN SEVENTY

To cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Malaria, Liver Complaints, take the safe and certain remedy, SMITH'S

BILE BEANS

Use the SMALL SIZE (40 little beans to the bottle). They are the most convenient; suit all ages. Price of either size, 25 cents per bottle.

KISSING at 7, 17, 70: Photo-gravure, panel size of this picture for 4 cents (coppers or stamps).

J. F. SMITH & CO.,
Makers of "Bile Beans," St. Louis, Mo.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

So Near And Yet So Far.

Reginald—Your eyes are just like two stars, darling!

Penelope—How can you say so? You know I am near-sighted in one and far sighted in the other.

"Reginald—That's it. They are near and yet so far, you know."—Chicago Journal.

Florence, Ala.

The personally conducted excursions to this rapidly growing city have been so successful that the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad (Evansville Route) will run one on each of the following dates: Feb. 4, 11, 18 and 25. For copy of "Alabama as It Is," and further information, send to William Hill, Gen. Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ill.

WHEN ignorance is bliss it is folly to ask the landlady what she puts in the hash.

The Remedy for the Influenza.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the influenza is Kemp's Balsam, the specific for coughs and colds, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease before securing the remedy, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the influenza has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

BOARDING-HOUSE keepers should be cremated when they die. "Hashes to hashes" would be most appropriate.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

THOUGH a member of a brass band may be perfectly temperate, he takes his horn with great regularity.

DOBBINS' ELECTRIC SOAP is cheaper for you to use than any other soaps would be if given to you, for by its use clothes are saved. Clothes cost more than soap. Ask for Dobbins'. Take no other.

TOBACCO leaves—the cigar stubs that are thrown away.

SUDDEN CHANGES OF WEATHER cause Throat Diseases. There is no more effectual remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc., than BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

POOR clothes ill-become a rich mind; so does a poverty-stricken purse.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

MEN who have national reputations without situations—tramps.

A 10c. cigar in quality, but only a 5c. Cigar in price is "Tansill's Punch."

THE grandest verse ever composed—the universe.—Golden Days.

ST. JACOBS OIL
Sure Cure.
CURES PERMANENTLY
SPRAINS.
Suffered Years in Pain.
14 Sumner St., Cleveland, Ohio,
Aug. 11, 1888.
In 1851 I sprained my arm clubbing chestnuts; suffered years in pain and could not lift my arm. It was finally cured by St. Jacobs Oil. JACOB ETZENSPERGER.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

THIS IS THE GREAT "OHIO"
TUBULAR WELL AND PROSPECTING MACHINE famous for succeeding where others have failed.
SELF CLEANING.
Drill drops 60 to 90 times a minute.
CATALOGUE FREE.
LOOMIS & NYMAN,
TIFFIN, OHIO.
Write us what work you wish to do with a well machine.
ALL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY.

Ely's Cream Balm
WILL CURE
CATARRH
Price 50 Cents.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.
CURE FOR CATARRH COLD in HEAD HAY FEVER ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably
DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S
CELEBRATED EYE-WATER.
This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. Y. Established 1797.

Platform Wagon, $50. The Elkhart Carriage & Harness Mfg. Co.
For 16 Years have sold to consumers at WHOLESALE PRICES, saving them the dealers' profit. Ship anywhere for examination before buying. Pay freight charges if not satisfactory. Warranted for 2 years. 64-page Catalogue FREE.
No. 1 Farm Harness, $22.00.
Address F. B. PRATT, Sec'y, Elkhart, - - - Indiana.

ASTHMA.
Popham's Asthma Specific
Relief in TEN MINUTES.
PETER D. SWOYER, M. D., Frittstown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 30 years; found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid.
TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.
Address T. POPHAM,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

A SOLID GOLD RING "1" GENUINE Diamond Setting for $3. On receipt of $3 we will send a Solid Gold Ring with a Genuine Diamond Setting and one Mammoth Catalogue (this is not an Alaska, California or quartz stone, but a Genuine Diamond, which is guaranteed by Lapp & Flersham, wholesale jewelers of this city); or, on receipt of 50 cts., we will send the ring C. O. D. for examination. Send size of ring wanted, and money by P. O. order, express, or draft to REED & ANSON, 153 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Red Cross Diamond Brand.
The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims.
Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

DETECTIVES
Wanted shrewd men to act under instructions in Secret Service work. Representatives receive the International Detective, Grannan's Warning Against Fraud, Grannan's Pocket Gallery of Noted Criminals. Those interested in detective business, or desiring to be detectives, send stamp for particulars. Employment for all. GRANNAN DETECTIVE BUREAU CO. Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

PRICE-LISTS OF RUG MACHINES, Patterns and Yarns, and Colored Pattern Book free. Agents Wanted. E. ROSS & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Atty. at Law, Washington, D.C.

TELEGRAPHY. We guarantee a good paying position to every graduate. American School of Telegraphy, Madison, Wis.

COPYRIGHT • 1889

HEALTHY OFFSPRING

are only begotten of healthy mothers. How important, then, that the health of the future mothers of our land should be carefully guarded. Our girls need the tenderest care as they are entering upon womanhood. At this critical period of their existence it often happens, through neglect, that the seeds of distressing ailments are sown, which afflict them in after years. As a regulator and promoter of functional action at this important stage, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most reliable agent for building up the strength and system and establishing the proper functions. "Favorite Prescription" is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded, by an experienced and skillful physician and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For all those peculiar weaknesses, "bearing-down" sensations, weak back, displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion and kindred ailments, it is specific. The only medicine for woman's peculiar diseases, guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded.

A Book of 160 pages on Woman, Her Diseases and their Self-cure, mailed, sealed in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. By druggists.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF

MONT.
DAKOTA
NEBRASKA
WISCONSIN
ILLINOIS
MISSOURI
ARK.
IND. T.
N. MEXICO
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE.

THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager. CHICAGO, ILL. JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.

MIDWINTER MUSIC.

Music as a Handmaid, stands ready to assist in all social pleasures and gaieties.

SOCIAL SINGING. "College Songs," (50 Cents,) "College Songs for Banjo, "Guitar," (each $1.) "Good Old Songs we used to sing" ($1.)

TEMPERANCE. "Temperance Crusade, (35c., or $3.60 doz.) Emerson & Morey. "Temperance Rallying Songs," (35 cts., or $3.60 doz.) Hull.

ANTHEM BOOKS. "Easy Anthems," (80 cts., or $7.20 doz.) Emerson "Anthems of Praise," ($1 or $9 doz.) Emerson "American Anthem Book," ($1.25 or $12 doz.) Dow's "Responses and Sentences," (80 cts. or $7.20 doz.)

EASY CANTATAS. Sacred: "Ruth and Boaz," (65 cts. $6 doz.) "Rebecca," (65 cts. or $6 doz. Secular: "Dairy Maids' Supper," (20 cts. or $1.80 doz.) "Garden of Singing Flowers," (40 cts. or $3.60 doz.)

Great Success of Our New $1 Music Books.

"Piano Classics," Vol. 1 and Vol 2. "Popular Piano Collection," "Popular Dance Music Collection," "Song Classics for Sop," "Song Classics for Alto," "Classic Baritone and Bass Songs," "Classic Tenor Songs. Each book $1.

MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

CATON'S FRENCH VITALIZERS. A Quick and Permanent Restorer of Manly Vigor, and the only Legitimate specific for Sexual Debility and Lost Vitality known. A Marvellous invigorant. Sealed in boxes. By mail, $1, 6 for $5. Circulars free. DR. CATON, Boston.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

NORTHERN PACIFIC
LOW PRICE RAILROAD LANDS &
FREE Government LANDS.
MILLIONS of Acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.
SEND FOR Publications with maps describing THE BEST Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to Settlers. SENT FREE. Address
CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Commissioner, ST. PAUL, MINN.

HOME STUDY. Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

N. U. F. W.........................No. 6—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

W. J. BOWMAN
OFFERS TO
THE PUBLIC,
A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.
Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.
Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.
E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,
FOR
MEN'S USE.
The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.
W. J. BOWMAN,
AUBURN, IND.

Three little Maidens with their Skipping rope.
Forget that they were sent for Santa Claus Soap.
YOUR GROCER Sells it.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP, MAKES WASHING VERY EASY.
Standard Quality and Weight.
Three little Maidens with faces to the Wall,
Are crying as loud as they can bawl.
MADE ONLY BY N.K.FAIRBANK & CO.—CHICAGO.

CRYSTAL PALACE
Meat Market.
Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good
NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,
And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.
B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

The project of tunneling the English Channel is still cherished by a company of British capitalists, who have expended $400,000 on experimental works which are not yet completed.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50cts. and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 5

What are supposed to be the first playing cards used were recently found in the Pompeiian excavations and are now in the possession of a collector in Philadelphia. The cards are perfectly square.

Deserving Confidence. 4

It is quite surprising to notice the numerous reports of remarkable cases of nervous diseases cured, such as headache, fits, nervous prostration, heart affections, St. Vitus' Dance, insanity and prolonged sleeplessness, by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. This new and improved brain and nerve food, and medicine, is everywhere gaining a remarkable reputation for curing the worst of these diseases, as well as the injurous effects of worry, nervous irritation, mental and physical over work. Davenport, the druggist, will give away trial bottles of this wonderful remedy.

MEMORY
Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

DO NOT FAIL
—TO TRY—
SMOKETTE.
It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE SEED and HAVANA Cigar for
Five Cents.
For Sale in Auburn, by
Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.
Waterloo Agencies,
Locke's Hotel.
A. V. Sinclair & Co.
LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER
SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES
ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

DON'T - FAIL
—TO SEE THE—
Good Samaritan
—AND—
KING OF CURES.
He Tells Your Disease
Without Asking questions.
CONSULTATION FREE.
He takes no patients without he can cure them.
He Has Practiced Medicine
FOR 40 YEARS.
AS A SPECIALIST,
FOR 20 YEARS
In all Parts of the Globe.
Cures All Chronic Diseases.

No matter who has pronounced you incurable, The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight, and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.

He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, bilious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.

Piles Cured Without a Knife,
Female Complaints a Specialty
Cured without local treatment.

All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his oppointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to

J. H. ANDREWS, M. D.,
WAUSEON, OHIO.

Auburn, Swineford House, Feb. 3, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House. Feb. 18 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Feb. 17. One day only.
Garrett, Ross House, Feb 7.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Feb. 8 and 9

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S. Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Trentman.

Our Flag Was Not There.

[Chicago Herald.]

A few days ago a fine steel bark of about 2,000 tons burden arrived in the harbor of New York. It was held in position by ballast and was towed into port from Philadelphia. It might have brought a cargo of coal, but as the flag on the topmast was not that of the United States it was not allowed to do a coasting business. The colors it did display were those of the kingdom of Hawaii. The owner of the vessel was an American and so was the captain. The craft, however, which was called Fony Suey, was built in Scotland. As such was the case, the man who bought it at Glasgow because he could get it cheap was not able to obtain a registry for it in this country. King Kalakua, however, likes to see the flag of his country flying in foreign ports and so gave an American permission to have the vessel registered, though it was built on an island situated on the opposite side of the globe. He is ambitious to have a merchant marine and does not care where the vessels that compose it come from.

This bark built in Great Britain, registered in the Sandwich Islands and owned in the United States, is employed in bringing raw sugar from Manila to Philadelphia for the supply of a refinery. It takes back a cargo of petroleum, which can sometimes be obtained in New York on better terms than in Philadelphia. It is doing a profitable business, and the owner is thinking of buying some more British vessels on which to display the flag of the kingdom of Hawaii. It is hinted that this flag will float from the masts of many vessels that will engage in exchanging our products for those of other countries. Persons who pride themselves on their patriotism and who are memorializing Congress to subsidize vessels that are the product of American industry will complain about this arrangement. But people who want ships will be likely to purchase them, as they do other things, where they can obtain them cheapest, even if they are put to some inconvenience.

A Surprise.

Last Tuesday, the 27th, being the 68th anniversary of Mother Sansom, her grandaughter, Miss West, arranged a complete surprise for her, at her home in Butler. At the hour of eight in the evening, the string band appeared upon the scene, and soon after about thirty-five old friends and neighbors assembled. A handsome couch was presented by the friends, in a few pleasing and appropriate remarks by Mrs. March. At the proper time, a well prepared lunch of cake, sauce and pickles was served. Much credit is due Miss West for the delicious repast, to which all did ample justice. Mother Sansom has lived to a good old age, and was among the early settlers. She came in '41, and was married to Amasa Smith in '42. This was the first marriage in Wilmington township. At that time, the place where she now lives was a perfect wilderness. She is a woman of decided ability, and a splendid neighbor. She has a good word for all and the hungry are never turned from her door. It may be truthfully said of her that those who know her best love her most. Mother Sansom is thankful to each and every one who so kindly remembered her. It was easily seen that all had a jolly good time. * * *

Compile Your Own History.

[Goshen Democrat]

If people only could be induced to cut out every item of important local and and other news, and preserve it, they could in time have the most interesting history of general events that could possibly be procured. An exchange touches upon the subject below that we have been harping upon for years, and we begin to learn that our efforts are not entirely for naught. It says: "Every family should have a scrap book. Almost every newspaper contains some items worth preserving. In most households the newspaper is torn up, used for a wrapper, or converted into a pattern as soon as read. If you haven't a scrap book of the regulation kind, and one can easily be made of any good-sized book by cutting out half of the leaves.

S. S. Institute.

The forty-ninth session of the Richland township S. S. institutes was held Saturday Jan. 25, 1890, in the Lutheran church at Richland Center. The attendance was good, considering the amount of sickness. The work was as follows:

Songs, from the Gospel Hymns, Miss Alda Treesh organist; welcome address, report of previous meeting; address by Rev. T. A. Pattee, subject, "The parable of the talents as applied to S. S. work," essay by Edna Graham, subject, "Our thoughts," address by M. B. Willis, subject, "Should scholars be taught the old scriptures in S. S., when they know little or nothing of the new testament scriptures?" address by James Griswold, subject "Institute work made practical," address by Aaron Hartman, subject "The importance of the married people's class." The next institute which will be the fiftieth, or "golden" will be held at Shower's Corners, the last Saturday in April, 1890, to which all Sunday school workers and well-wishers are cordially invited to be present.

L. W. Treesh, Pres.
Belle Harding, Sec.

A "horse" Apiece.

(Indianapolis Sun.)

Tuesday Judge Walker, presiding judge of the superior bench, sent a note to Judge Howe asking him to meet with the court in special session Wednesday morning, but Judge Howe couldn't read the note. He accordingly replied by note stating his inability to make out the presiding judge's chirography, but the latter could not read Howe's note, so at last the two judges had to explain by word of mouth.

A Revolutionizer—M.P

Would you whip a sick horse? No. Then don't use ordinary pills, salts, senna, etc., for sick livers, bowels etc., only use Miles Pills (M. P.) the safest and surest of pills. Samples free at Davenport's. 4

A lady at Titusville, Fla., has a novelty in the way of roses. One of her many varieties bears a bud which is green when it blossoms. In the bud it is so nearly the color of the foliage as to be hard to distinguish.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

Getting Lost.

The Dispatch, as well as the other local republican papers seems to have lost its high tariff compass and gone astray depending only on a very defective memory to bring it safe through the woods. In its latest "patent original editorial" furnished by the republican bureau, it says some queer things. The article is furnished with a patent head "American Ships and Sailors." The drift seems to be, that we ought to have more ships at sea, with the American flag. Does it forget that before the republicans came into power, our flag was on every sea on the globe? Thirty years of republican mismanagement has resulted in the almost total destruction of American commerce. There has never been a year in all this time, but the republican party had it in its power to revive our commerce and put our flag at the head where it used to be. But they could not rise to the occasion. Had they been statesmen, they never would have ruined our shipping interests. Had they been statesmen, they could have revived these interests, after they had been brought low. But they were not statesmen, nor are they now likely to be able to make a single move except to pay out some millions of the surplus to pet lines of steamers, in order to force a small amount of business into the hands of some pet company. What the government should do, is to loosen the shackles of trade, so that ships will have some business that will take them across the sea. But republican policy says: "Fix up a tariff duty so high that no goods will come over." Now, if no goods are to come over, what do we want with ships? Why subsidize vessels to go abroad empty and come home empty?

* * *

The article adds: "We produce iron and steel as cheaply as they can be produced elsewhere." Of course we do. We have been doing this for some time, and yet republicans still insist that this "infant industry" should be protected by a high tariff, and say that taking off the duty would shut up our rolling mills. It continues. "The cost of production decreases every year, thanks to the tariff etc." That is, if you levy a tax on an article, it makes that article cheaper. In other words, if you add to the cost of the material of which a thing is made, it will make the article cheaper. Take for example quinine. They would say. "If we put a tax of 25 cents on each dollar's worth of the bark from which quinine is made, the quinine would be cheaper." That is, if we can sell quinine at a given price when the bark is $1 a pound we could make and sell it much cheaper when the bark is $1.25 a pound. Did ever anyone hear such nonsense till this wild effort was made to make people believe a tariff is not a tax.

* * *

Subsidies, subsidies is all the burden of the article. That is, we must pick out an industry that national misrule has ruined, and make the people go down into their pockets and pay that industry a big sum of money, to change its business from a losing to a paying one. It would be just as proper to ask the government to step in, and pay some thousands to an Auburn firm, that had not prospered the past year. Suppose the firm had run behind $1000. Now, ask the government to give it $2,000, and its accounts would show a credit. Sensible plan, that. Who would ask the government to do this for an Auburn firm? Not, a newspaper in New England, we venture to say. And yet, that is just what republican papers here are trying to do.

* * *

And then after saying that we poor, weak puny Americans, who keep begging our government to protect us from the great industrial giants of the old world "have learned to make iron, weave cotton and wool" (sic) it adds. "We want to re-learn the half-forgotten arts of building our own ships and educating our own sailors." Had we permitted such weaklings as these to talk thus about America and Americans 100 years ago it would have appeared sufficently ridiculous and humiliating. What shall we say of it in 1890?

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: M. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Robbins & McCord's, Drugstore. 5

Pombolano is the name of a plant found in Mexico, the root of which is said to contain a substance analogous to but more powerful than quinine in its antiperiodic action. It has been found to cure rebellious intermitent fevers that had resisted the action of quinine.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Mr. Harrison said to a disappointed office-seeker the other day: "The trouble is that so many people take a kind word and a smile for a promise." Benjamin may smile and smile, and still have no intention of giving the man an office.

Bogus Medicine Certificates.

Have you rheumatism, blood diseases, skin diseases, scrofula or any ailment caused by impure blood? If so, send for our book with a two-cent stamp, and read the home indorsements of eminent physicians, merchants and others who live where Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure is made. Their certificates tell the whole story of this wonderful medicine for the cure of rheumatism and all blood and skin diseases. Hunnicutt Medicine Co. Atlanta, Ga. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle.

5000 Dollars'
Worth of Clothing which MUST BE SOLD WITHIN 30-DAYS-30,
AT
"THE FAMOUS."
COME AT ONCE WHILE THE SELECTION IS LARGE.
North side Courthouse, Three doors west of Postoffice.

THE NEW SHOE STORE,
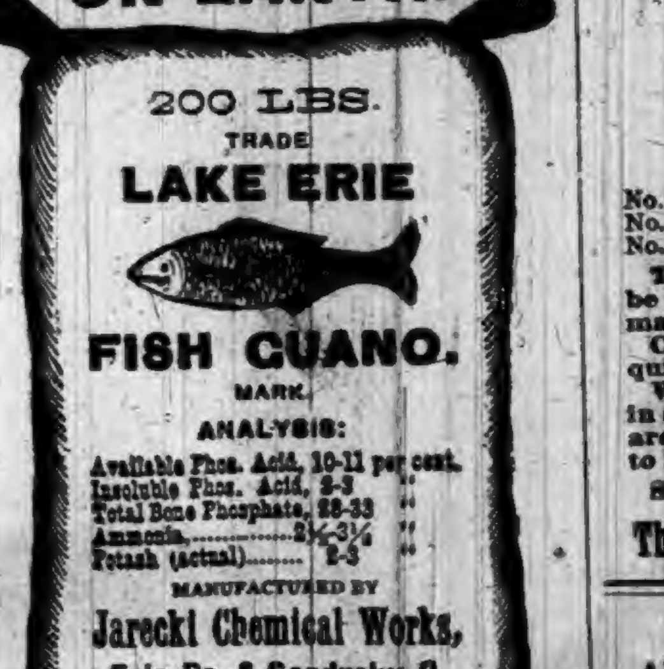
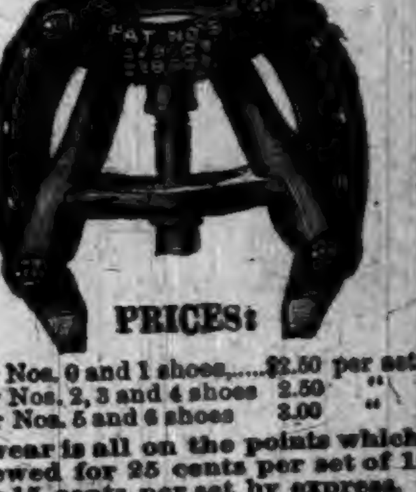
WILL OPEN IN THE
DRAGGOO BUILDING,
SOUTH OF THE JAIL,
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, '90.
WE COME TO
AUBURN,
TRUSTING WITH OUR
Low Prices,
Good Goods,
—AND—
Fair Dealing,
We may merit the patronage of the public.
CHEAP Shoddy Goods we
Will not Sell.
Our Motto Wil be
Good Goods and Low Prices.
Remember the day of opening, February, 8th, 1890.
Call and see us. Respectfully yours,
J. N. WILSON & SON,
AUBURN, INDIANA.



"THE BLIZZARD."



PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.50	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

Settle Up.

All persons indebted to me on account are earnestly requested to call and settle, as I need the money.

James A. Potter.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. FEBRUARY 13, 1890. NUMBER 7.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

Speaker Reed's Rules.

A mere struggle for advantage one may call it. It is all about the rules that are to govern the House of Representatives. At the beginning of each new congress, a speaker is elected to serve two years, or as long as that congress lasts. One of next things the new House does, is to appoint a committee to draw up new rules. The new speaker is always chairman of this committee, and has for the other members, two of his own party and two of the opposite party. The men chosen are generally the ones who understand the usual rules, and are able in conducting business of this kind. Usually some of the names chosen are those of men who have themselves been speakers. In the present case, the two democrats chosen were Ex-Speakers Randall and Carlisle, while the two republicans were McKinley of Ohio and Cannon of Illinois, both having been candidates for the speakership. They should have gone to work at once to prepare new rules, or else they should have adopted the old ones. They did neither. The republican speaker and the republican members seemed disposed to trifle with the matter. Randall has been sick the whole term and could not leave his room. The only democrat to meet with them was Carlisle, and he was notified of only a meeting or two, at which nothing was done. It seemed the speaker, Reed, and his two friends did not want rules. So they kept trying to work with no rules at all, and depended on Reed himself to decide all questions that might arise as to the proceedings of the House. Of course they soon got into a muss. After Reed had made several arbitrary rulings against motions made by democrats, and the latter had become thoroughly exasperated, it was made plain that Reed was bent on bringing up the contested election cases, while the House was without rules. Democrats determined to prevent this, and to compel the republicans to adopt some kind of rules. So they determined to break a quorum by refusing to vote. The old House, before the four new states were admitted, contained 325 members, and a quorum would be more than half of this number, say 163, and this 163 would be a quorum. The constitution says no business can be done without a quorum, or more than half of the whole number. It has always been the custom to reckon this quorum from the members voting, though there may be others present and not voting. This was the custom when the republicans were in the minority, and was so understood by their leading men. In this view of the case, it has always been allowed for those who could not defeat an obnoxious bill in any other way, to refuse to vote, and if the other side could not show that a majority or quorum had voted, the bill could not pass. This game the democrats have been trying for a week or two. But Speaker Reed would at once count enough of the democrats in sight, but who had not voted, to put with his republicans and make a quorum, and then would declare the measure passed. This is the substance of the quarrel. Besides refusing to vote, there are many other devices by which a weaker party may delay business and sometimes finally compel the majority to enact better measures. All these devices are called "fillibustering." They are useful only to prevent a high-banded majority from going to extremes, but they have long been employed.

* * *

The original republicans delayed the Kansas-Nebraska bill in this way, mainly by making motions to adjourn and then fixing the day of adjournment, then a member asking to be excused, taking appeals from the chair, etc., causing 138 needless votes and stopping legislation for ten days. In 1875 when Blaine was speaker, there was a struggle over the "Civil Rights" bill, and 77 votes of a dilatory kind were taken. Members refused to vote, and so "broke a quorum," though enough of them were actually present. Then the republican leaders appealed to Blaine to count in enough of those present to make a quorum, just as Reed is now doing. But this Blaine refused to do. "The chair," he said, "cannot declare a quorum against a yea and nay vote." Mr. Coburn, of Indiana, proposed that when the roll was being called and members refused to vote, the difficulty could be overcome by a member rising in his place and naming another as present and refusing to vote, and asking that a record should be made to show the fact. To that Mr. Blaine replied: "The very principle enunciated by the gentleman from Indiana has been the foundation, probably, for the greatest legislative frauds ever committed. The moment you clothe your speaker with power to go behind your roll-call and assume that there is a quorum in the hall, why, gentlemen, you stand on the very brink of a volcano." During this conflict Mr. Blaine declared that the only solution was that a majority willing to participate in the business of the house must be actually present, and then there would be no difficulty. But even then the majority had finally to amend the rules by cutting off dilatory motions after a certain point, called the gag rule, before they succeeded in passing the bill. The Supreme Court afterward decided that the law was unconstitutional, thus showing that the democrats were absolutely right in opposing its passage by every means known to parliamentary law. In 1879, when the democrats controlled the house, Mr. Randall being the speaker, Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, proposed a rule of the house that the speaker should be authorized to declare a quorum whenever those voting and those refusing to vote together made a majority of the house. Among the prominent republicans then members of the house who opposed this rule were Mr. Garfield, Mr. Conger, Mr. Hawley of Connecticut and this very Mr. Reed who is now the speaker. They all took high ground against any such arbitrary power, and as the leading democrats were also opposed to it, Mr. Tucker withdrew his proposition. These are some of the instances in the past which show the arbitrary and radical character of Speaker Reed's ruling. The question for the people to consider is not whether a majority shall not have the power to do business. There is no dispute about that. Let the majority appear, and then it will make no difference whether the minority vote or not. The question is, shall the speaker be supposed to declare who is present? If that principle be admitted then, as Mr. Blaine says, the house is "on the brink of a volcano."

* * *

The best reasons given for "breaking a quorum" by refusing to vote, is that this course compels the majority to have their men present. They are paid to be there, and were anxious enough to be elected, but are now fooling away their time somewhere else. If the republicans would call in their men they would have enough men of their own to show a quorum, and could pass any measure they chose. The democrats are trying to compel them to call in their men and make them earn their pay.

* * *

The quarrel over this matter set some of the republican members to thinking, and they gave Reed to understand that as he wanted to establish rules, he must have them made by the regular committee. This compelled him to get his committee to work, and they have brought in a lot of rules, among which is one that permits the speaker to count in members who refuse to vote until he has names enough to make a quorum. This is entirely different from what the democrats gave them when the House was democratic. And should the next House be democratic, as it probably will, the republicans will have set a precedent that will come home to plague them. They have always taken the side the democrats now take. But the other ox is about to be gored just now.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

A bushel of corn now will not buy a pound of coffee. It would do that in war times.

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400. $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres splendid farming land, good buildings, good fences, good orchards, within five miles of Hicksville, O. Must be sold soon.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $3,500. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100 barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 120 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber. Well drained.

No. 307. 240 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for someone who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill, 56-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1¼ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 80-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot find what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

WE HAVE NOW

Open for your inspection a line of

CARPETS

AND

Lace Curtains,

Of which we may well feel proud. Call and see them. They will please you. We have also just received

A BIG STOCK OF

Hats, Caps & Gents' Furnishing Goods.

IF YOU WISH Proper Styles

OF GOOD Honest Goods

AT THE Right Prices,

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always anxious to please you. We are very respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.,

AUBURN, IND.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

WANTED.

—AT ONCE—

Good men to solicit for our first-class Nursery Stock, on salary or commission, paid weekly. Permanent employment guaranteed. Outfit free. Previous experience not required. We can make a successful salesman of anyone who will work and follow our instructions. Write for terms at once to

JONES & ROUSE, Lake View Nurseries,
Mention this paper. Rochester, N. Y.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

The Windom silver bill is strongly opposed by many republican senators and it is likely to have a hard road to travel.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

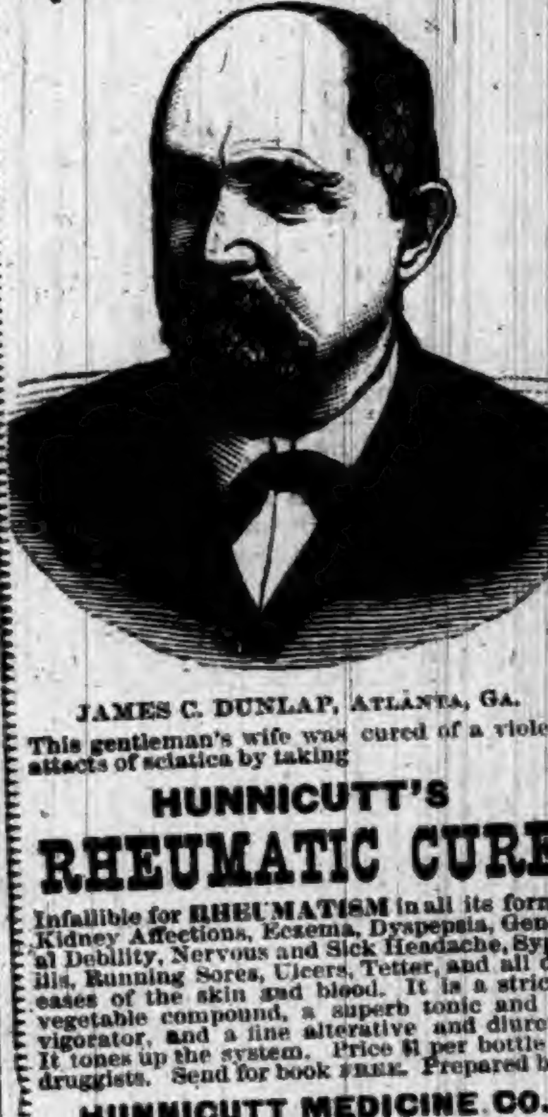
Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING at 7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE, PANEL SIZE. Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

Improved after the first dose.



JAMES C. DUNLAP, ATLANTA, GA.

This gentleman's wife was cured of a violent attack of sciatica by taking

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE,

Infallible for RHEUMATISM in all its forms, Kidney Affections, Eczema, Dyspepsia, General Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Syphilis, Running Sores, Ulcers, Tetter, and all diseases of the skin and blood. It is a strictly vegetable compound, a superb tonic and invigorator, and a fine alterative and diuretic. It tones up the system. Price $1 per bottle by druggists. Send for book FREE. Prepared by

HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO.
ATLANTA, GA.
MANUFACTURERS OF HUNNICUTT'S THROAT AND LUNG CURE.

USED ALL THE YEAR ROUND!

JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA

For LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, PURIFYING the BLOOD.

Used for 30 Years. Best Preparation in the World for Sick Headache, Pain in the Side and Back, Constipation, Pimples on the Face, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Boils, Piles and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or an Impure Blood. It is a powerful tonic for the weak and feeble, especially females & children. It cannot hurt the most delicate constitution.

It is the Best Medicine in use for Regulating the Bowels. QUART BOTTLES, $1.00. Three Bottles for $2.50. Delivered free of any charge. Sold by all Druggists. Send for Circular.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich.

For Twenty Years.

Mr. Geo. Frank, ex-commissioner of Adams Co., Ind., says: I have had a bronchial cough for 20 years and used all the different cough medicines, and found nothing that has given me so much relief as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I can heartily recommend it to all of those who are affected with a chronic cough and guarantee that it will give entire satisfaction. Yours,

Geo. Frank.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

No American Shipping.

A writer in the Chicago Herald speaking of his own experience says:

"In 1846 I visited Europe, and from the time I left the American coast till my return all the first-class ships I saw at sea carried our national flag. You could tell those beautiful clipper-built ships as far as you could see them. They were the belles of the ocean. Their tall, tapering masts, clean run and the immense spread of canvas they carried made them the clippers of the seas. In the docks at Liverpool they were the most numerous. But a very remarkable change has taken place since then. In 1867 I revisited Europe, and from the time I left New York till my return I did not see a single ship carrying our national flag. All the first-class ships were Clyde built, carrying the English colors. In the interim we had changed places with England. We had piled on the tariff till it covered over forty-five hundred articles (only 1,000 of which pays duties enough to meet cost of collection), while England had abolised all duties except on about eight different articles. All of these are non-essentials and don't enter into the general wants of the people. They are distilled spirits, wines, tobacco, opium, tea, snuff, etc. What has been the result? Our fine commercial navy that used to be found on every sea has disappeared, and England monopolizes the trade and commerce of the world. And this has so increased her wealth that her capitalists are buying all the best paying enterprises in the world. I am well aware that the advocates of high tariff attribute this decline of the American navy to the confederate cruisers that destoyed so many of the commissioned vessels, but that argument does not hold good in respect to so energetic and progressive a people as the American nation. The war has been over for a quarter of a century, and most of the English stemships have been built within that period. Now let us compare the facilities enjoyed by us for ship building with the great drawbacks that England has to contend with. The banks of the river Clyde on either side from Greenock up to Glasgow are one continuous ship yard. All the lumber used in the construction of those ships must be broughts from distant ports. The iron, coal and other minerals are taken from immense depths, not, as with us, cropping out at the surface. The river itself is not half the size of the Illinois but it has been dredged out till the largest steamers pass up to Glasgow, and this is altogether owing to cheap capital and free trade. The ship builder borrows his money at from 2 to 3 per cent. No patent right claims are permitted to clog his efforts, but the government affords him every facility and encouragement. Now all this would have been impossible under the former British tariff. But the Scotch ship builders are fed on the best American beef, pork and breadstuffs, which cost less there than such articles are sold for at the port they are shipped from. The ship yards of Maine are fast decreasing, owing to too much protection.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech.

It has sometimes been said that this (the Gettysburg) speech was not appreciated at the time of its delivery; we therefore add the testimony of another high authority to that of Emerson. On the day after the dedication, Edward Everett wrote to the president: "Permit me....to express my great admiration of the thoughts expressed by you with such eloquent simplicity and appropriateness at the consecration of the cemetery. I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion, in two hours, as you did in two minutes." Mr. Lincoln replied: "Your kind note of to-day is received. In our respective parts yesterday, you could not have been excused to make a short address, nor I a short one. I am pleased to know that in your judgment the little I did say was not entirely a failure. Of course I knew that Mr. Everett would not fail; and yet while the whole discourse was eminently satisfactory, and will be of great value, there were passages in it which transcended my expectations. The point made against the theory of the General Government being only an agency, whose principals are the states, was new to me, and, as I think, is one of the best arguments for the national supremacy. The tribute to our noble women for their angel ministering to the suffering soldiers surpasses in its way, as do the subjects of it, whatever has gone before."—February Century.

Cheap Excursions to California,

In Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, for passengers holding second-class tickets to Pacific coast points, which will be run through from Chicago, via Omaha, to San Francisco without change at any intermediate point, via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Union Pacific Short Line only on the following dates for leaving Chicago, viz: January 16 and 30, February 13 and 27, March 13 and 27, April 10 and 24, May 8 and 22.

The Sleeping Car fare from Chicago to San Francisco is but $4 per berth, and the accommodations are excellent. For further particulars apply to the nearest coupon ticket agent, or address A. V. H. Carpenter, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Liberal Reward.

Strayed, a large, white colly dog. Large, black spot on right side; small brown spots on left; head black; nose white. Information leading to recovery of the dog will be gratefully received and a liberal reward paid.

VAN B. PERRINE.

Just Received!

A lot of Fine Towels, Napkins, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Corsets, and a hundred other things in the line of Notions and Tinware which we will sell at half the regular price. We have also a fine assortment of

DRESS BUTTONS

of all styles, very cheap. You can save 50 cents on every dollar by dealing at the

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Railroad Meeting.

Persons interested along the line of the Wabash and Chicago railroad, (the Chicago extension from Auburn) will have a meeting, to-day, Thursday Feb. 13, at 1:30 p. m. at Albion. The purpose of the meeting will be to perfect the organization and general business

Representatives from Garrett, Avilla, Albion, Ligonier, Stillwell, North Liberty, Lakeville, Wakarusa, New Paris and other points will be present.

Let Auburn send a delegation of at least twenty-five. Fare 75 cents round trip for 10 or more, leaving Auburn Junction at 11:30 a. m., leaving Albion for home at 9:05 p. m.

THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Upon the Proper Ingredients for Wholesome Baking Powder.

The baking powder manufacturers who are trying by dishonest statements to deceive the people of this community into buying baking powders found by the official analysts to be adulterated and greatly inferior in leavening strength, fail to agree with the official health bodies, physicians and scientists, in their estimate of the value of carbonate of ammonia as a leavening agent. In their indecent attacks they over-shoot the mark altogether and make themselves supremely ridiculous in the light of what the State Board of Health of Indiana officially publishes upon the subject. The following, from the report of this Board for 1885, page 232, will be of general interest:

"As regards carbonate of ammonia, I am safe in saying it cannot be inimical to health, because the heat of the oven will totally dissipate it, as it is readily volatile at a much lower temperature than is necessary for baking bread. It depends, too upon this very property of volatility for its value as a lightener of dough; for when transformed to a gas by the oven's heat, in its struggle to escape the effect sought is obtained. Much ado has lately been made by certain baking powder makers about the origin of ammonia, as if that should condemn its use. The facts are, that ammonia being composed of the two gases of nitrogen and hydrogen, it matters not how manufactured, the result, when the substance is pure, is always the same. It is simply a trade dodge to advertise," etc.

The Scientific American, recognized as one of the highest authorities upon such subjects, likewise says:

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold over a flame, and it will almost immediately be developed into gas and pass off into the air. The gas thus formed is a simple composition of nitrogen and hydrogen, slightly aromatic, inoffensive and perfectly wholesome. No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening power over soda and cream of tartar used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to these articles. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this act it uses itself up, as it were; the ammonia is entirely diffused, leaving no trace or residuum whatever. The light, fluffy, flaky appearance, so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is said to be imparted to them only by the use of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest goods have availed themselves of this useful agent, and the handsomest and best bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of carbonate of ammonia, combined, of course, with other leavening material."

AUBURN FLOURING MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place, The Auburn Flouring Mills, Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

MORMONS CRUSHED.

The Gentiles Carry the Salt Lake City Election and Indulge in a Demonstration Without Precedent.

A Salt Lake City special, dated the 11th inst., says: The municipal election passed off quietly. The city was crowded with special police, detectives, and deputy United States marshals for the purpose of preventing illegal voting, which each party claimed that the other would resort to. It was feared that an attempt to challenge and arrest voters would result in a riot and bloodshed, but this anticipation was not realized, and though the excitement was so intense that half of the stores were closed, order prevailed. Bands paraded the streets, and the thoroughfares were jammed with excited citizens who realized that upon the result of the battle depended the future of the Mormon church as a political organization. The voting passed off quietly, and only six arrests were made, and these were accompanied by no demonstration from either side. Snow began falling early in the morning and continued until noon, when the sun came out, melting the snow and turning the streets into rivers and slush. This did not deter the voters, many of whom waded the mud to the polling places, while hundreds of carriages ran between the precinct headquarters and every part of the city conveying voters to and from the polls. When the polls closed at 6 o'clock, the liberal leaders posted a bulletin claiming 1,200 majority. The news spread rapidly, and the gentiles became wild with joy. They literally took possession of the city, the Mormons retiring to their homes. Flags were run up in all directions. Cannons boomed, bon fires were lighted at every corner, and hundreds of men in line paraded the streets with drums and torches, yelling like mad. No such scenes were ever witnessed before in Utah. The Mormons admit their defeat, but say it was brought about by the most glaringly illegal methods, and that the result will be reversed by the courts. They do not think the majority shown by the returns will exceed 400.

A SECOND OKALAHOMA.

A Tremendous Rush of Settlers to Secure Claims on the Sioux Reservation.

A special from Chamberlin, S. D., dated the 11th inst., says: The report of cannon this afternoon startled the people camped here awaiting the opportunity to get up on the Sioux Reservation. It was a grand sight, viewed from the hills and bluffs on the east side of the river to see the teams with their great lumber loads dashing across the river on a dead run, up the bluff on American island, and finally lost to sight in the heavy timber which covers the island. A novel sight was the moving of a large building, under which had been placed heavy timbers and wheels, pulled across the river by galloping horses. It took but a few minutes for sections on the valuable ground to be literally covered with claimants, and it will take a score of lawyers to solve the problem as to who are the rightful owners.

FAST IN THE ICE.

A Vessel Reported to Be in Peril and Surrounded by a Field of Ice.

The steamer Amsterdam, fifteen days out from Amsterdam has arrived at New York and reports that on the 5th inst. she passed through an ice field 165 miles long. While six miles south of the ice in latitude 45.15, longitude 48.14, the bark Oliver Emery, from Dublin for St. Johns, N. B., was spoken on signal. The bark was found in bad shape. She was fast in the ice with her bows considerably torn and all the men short on rations. The captain was willing to take off the crew of the Emery for their ship had been fast in a gigantic ice-field for thirty-six hours, besides having hard work to get along at all, but all save one, an inexperienced seaman, refused to desert the vessel. They asked for some provisions which were sent to them, and her captain was sure he should carry her safe into port.

Scalded to Death.

A flue collapsed in one of the boilers of the Standard Lumber Company's mill at Dubuque, Iowa. There are ten boilers in the concern, but only four were turning at a pressure of eighty pounds, just enough to furnish power for the plaining machines. The engineer, Joseph Reed, was fatally scalded and died soon after the accident. The fireman, Richard Rigler, was blown 250 feet, landing on the ice in the river. He was scalded and sustained other injuries that will prove fatal. The damage to the building is slight. The dead engineer was a candidate for the position of Steamboat Inspector, vacated by the recent death of Capt. John Scott. The boilers are of steel and showed abundance of water.

Seven Boys Drowned.

A sad accident occurred in Carrollton, La. Eight boys, all residents of the upper city, secured two pinnaces, and jumping into them started out to take a ride on the river. Their course led them between two empty coal barges lying at the head of Octavia street. There was a strong current running at the time, and despite their efforts the yawls were hurled by the current against the barges, causing both boats to upset, and seven of the eight unfortunate youths were thrown into the river and drowned.

A Shake-Up.

At 7:05 o'clock Tuesday evening two distinct earthquake shocks were felt in St. Louis. A great many people rushed into the streets. The shocks were violent in the suburbs.

SHIPWRECKED SEAMEN.

A Number Lost, but the Survivors Brought Into Boston.

A Boston special says: The British steamer Thanemore, which has arrived, after a tempestuous voyage of eighteen days from London, brought seven shipwrecked seamen, just half the number who sailed from New York January 6, on board the Norwegian ship Josephine, for Dantzig. The others are lost. Capt. Baxter, of the Thanemore, says that on the evening of the 28th ult., in latitude 48.48, longitude 24.51, he sighted a flashlight from a distressed vessel. He ran toward it and found the Josephine rolling about, waterlogged, swept clean of boats, water casks and other movables. Capt. Bugge prayed that he and his men be taken off and accordingly a crew of volunteers from the Thanemore, headed by Second Officer Greenwood, performed the hazardous feat with the aid of oil alongside. It was 8 o'clock when Capt. Bugge and his six companions were safe on the steamer's deck. The Josephine's cargo consisted of 5,400 barrels of petroleum, shipped by Sawyer, Wallace & Co. She got heavy weather almost immediately after leaving New York. On the 18th of January seamen Oscar Johannessen fell from the jib beam and was lost; and on the 24th, during a fearful hurricane, a sea came on board and swept five men over the side and at the same time instantly killing Johan Patterson, the man at the wheel. All the boats were swept from the davits and the vessel began to leak. From that time until the Thanemore took them off, all hands kept at the pumps. The forecastle was the only habitable part of the ship.

BOILED IN A BATH.

Sad Death of an Imbecile Child at Columbus, Ohio.

Columbus special: A horrible and most distressing accident by which an invalid and weak-minded girl lost her life, happened at the State Institution for Feeble-Minded Youth. Jennie Whitehead, an inmate of the Institution, whose family reside at Hamilton, Butler County, through the carelessness and ignorance of another inmate was literally boiled to death in a bath-tub. The accident occurred about the noon hour, and the child, for such she was, lingered in the greatest agony until next morning, when death came to her relief. The details of the terrible affair can best be told in the language of Dr. Doren, the Superintendent of the Institution.

The doctor said Jennie Whitehead came to the institution in March, 1885. At the time of her death she was 17 years of age, but her stature and mental development were those of an infant of about 18 months. She could not walk alone, and required the same care as would a babe of the age mentioned.

"Saturday at the noon hour," explained the doctor, "after Jennie had had her dinner, it was found that she required bathing. Her attendant was temporarily away, and Jennie was being cared for by one of the larger and most intelligent inmates, who has assisted the attendant in the care of her charges, and especially of Jennie, for years. In direct violation of the rules of the institution which prohibits any inmate from drawing water or bathing patients, this girl, whom, however, I would have trusted in my own household, proceeded to bathe Jennie. The little one made no complaint at the time indicating that the water was too warm, but after the operation was over it was discovered that she had been badly scalded. I was hastily summoned, and found that the scalds were on the feet, the back part of the limbs, and the hips. The burns, which were superficial, being confined to the skin, were dressed, and Jennie was soon seated on her little chair, apparently suffering no pain, and playing contentedly with her blocks. I immediately wrote her brother concerning the accident, expressing the hope and belief that the injuries were not serious. About 7 o'clock, however, Jennie was seized with convulsions and had five spasms, which greatly reduced her puny strength. She afterward slept till about 10:30, but was wakeful during the balance of the night, and next morning about 7 o'clock she was again seized with the spasms and died.

A CITY IMPERILED.

The City of Portland, Ore., Said to Be in Danger from Floods.

A special from Chicago, dated the 6th inst., says: For several days past the city of Portland and other points in Oregon have been practically cut off from telegraphic communication, and from a telegram received this afternoon by the Postal Telegraph Company at Montreal, by C. R. Hosmer, of the Canadian Pacific, and forwarded by him to the Associated Press here, it would seem that the city of Portland is in danger from floods. The message, which came from Portland this afternoon, was as follows: "The water is now flooding First street and is knee deep. All traffic in the streets is suspended, as the only means of communication is by small boats. The Pacific postal telegraph office floor is flooded with water and the river is still rising. There is no news from the south." A phenomenal rain storm has prevailed in Southern Oregon since Friday, which, in connection with the melting snow in the mountains, has caused the greatest flood known since the country was settled. The damage to Southern Oregon cannot be estimated as yet, for postal communication is so uncertain and limited that only surmises can be made of the ravages of the water on the line of the numerous tributaries of the Roque River.

VIGILANTES IN OHIO.

Many Culprits Brought in to Justice by Irate Farmers and Citizens.

A dispatch from Chillicothe, Ohio, says: For several months Point Township, this county, has suffered from an epidemic of crimes. It seemed impossible to apprehend the offenders and the people grew desperate. As a last resort it was decided to hold a public meeting. Last Thursday night over one hundred of the best citizens of the township met in the township house at Spout Springs, and with attorneys as legal advisers formed what is in fact a vigilance committee, though it is called the Arresting and Jailing Club. It was decided to go to work at once, and a dozen stalwart farmers were sworn in as special constables. Tuesday morning court was convened and from that time, until 5 o'clock p. m., the special constables were busy bringing in offenders. Hundreds were out to see the fun. The total number of arrests for the day was twenty-six. Thieft, disturbing schools and church services, wife whipping, and drunkenness were charged. Not one escaped punishment. Some were fined, some bound over to a higher court, some were imprisoned, and two were sent to the Cincinnati work-house.

A Chinese Cloudburst.

The Shanghai Mercury of January 7 gives an account of a cloudburst near Nanking, of which a brief announcement was received by cable at the time. It says: "On the 7th of this moon, in Jangtze river, near Nanking, at about 10 a. m., when the weather was bright, there was suddenly heard a rushing noise as of water, when two large black clouds appeared and soon enveloped everything like a fog. The waters were much disturbed and the river full of large waves. The two clouds evidently reached a place called Tsit Li Chow, when they burst assunder, making a very loud report. During the disturbance many boats were destroyed and over 100 people drowned. More than fifty were picked up in an exhausted condition by the Chinese Life Preserving Association. Those who lost their lives were buried by the authorities. A long strip of the river bank caved in at the time of the cloudburst.

Frightful Discovery.

Witchita (Kan.) special: J. Hempstead, a cattle man from Purcell, reports a horrible discovery of mutilated human remains in a ravine about forty miles south of Purcell, in the Arbuckle Hills. As he and two cow-boys were seeking some strayed horses in the foot hills they were attracted by a wagon in the distance and riding up they found near by four human bodies in an advanced stage of decomposition. And from which the flesh had been torn, evidently by wolves, in several places. The bodies were those of an old man and woman perhaps fifty or sixty years old, a young woman and a child about ten years old. Examination showed that murder had been committed. The man had three bullet wounds in his body, the older woman a shot through the temple, the younger one through the back of the head, and the child having been shot in the mouth.

OVER AN EMBANKMENT.

A Fast Mail Train on the Baltimore and Ohio Goes Into the River.

Connellsville (Pa.) special: The through mail from Baltimore on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, ran into a mountain of snow three miles east of the Ohio line. The engine and a combination postal and baggage car went over the bank into the river. The smoking car followed half way. Engineer Henry Bush, of Pittsburgh; Fireman Lewis Burcher, Baggage Master Isaac Ingles, of Pittsburgh, were injured but it is not fatally. The only passenger believed fatally injured was John Landsay, of Glenwood, master carpenter of the road. A relief train was sent from Connellsville and the wounded were cared for.

A Bold Theft.

St. Louis special: On February 1, the City National Bank of Dallas remitted to the Commercial Bank of St. Louis, the sum of $50,000 of which amount $15,000 was in gold contained in a canvas bag and $35,000 in bills, enclosed in a regular express package. The bank reported to Superintendent Fuller that the gold which was received was only part of the remittance and the City National Bank held receipts for two packages, one $35,000 and one of $15,000. Information came from Dallas that the money clerk of the Dallas office, F. A. Walton, who was missing, had made out two receipts, which were on file in the Dallas office—one for $15,000 and one for $35,000—on one blank. On the duplicate forwarded to St. Louis, however, no mention was made of the $35,000. Walton was with the American Express Company at Ionа, Mich., five years. Detectives are pursuing him.

Wharf Fire at Portland, Me.

Portland (Me.) special: One of the most disastrous fires that has visited this city in many years occurred Thursday night, three wharves and the buildings thereon being destroyed. The fire started in M. P. Emsey's building on Brown wharf, used as the store house for hogsheads, and is believed to have been incendiary. The flames shot across the passage to J. H. Hamlin & Co.'s cooper shop, which was destroyed, and then communicated to the Berlin mills wharf, at the lower end of which Frank Dudley had 2,000,000 feet of lumber. This was destroyed. The fire was checked in this direction, after considerably damaging the Boston and Maine Railroad wharf. East of Brown's wharf is the merchant's wharf, where the Portland Yacht Club house is located. The club house was badly damaged, and bonded warehouse No. 44 was somewhat damaged.

Brice Must Ante.

There will be a hearing at the office of the Auditor of Allen County, Ohio, this week regarding the question of the citizenship of Senator-elect Brice, who for the past five years has evaded the payment of personal taxes in Lima because of his claiming citizenship in New York. He has made himself liable for nearly $70,000 back taxes and penalties by claiming in the senatorial fight to be a resident of Ohio. H. W. Morganthaler has in his possession an immense amount of papers, each one making a link in the chain, and the latter is entirely complete. It has been calculated that the amount of Brice's personal property subject to taxation in Lima, by reason of citizenship, is somewhat over $2,800,000 invested in various corporations. Brice will try to compromise, but as Morganthaler gets a big percentage on collections, he will not agree to anything but a fair settlement.

Born at the Opera.

While the heavy opera of "Gotterdammering" was being rendered in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, there was a sudden commotion in the third row of chairs from the orchestra. Gentlemen hurriedly vacated their seats, all except one, who evidently was a physician. Ladies in the fourth and second rows, directly behind and in front of the seats refered to, stood upon the seats, forming a sort of screen. Within a few minutes in the center of that group a strong, healthy woman gave birth to an infant. Fortunately, the curtain fell about this time and in the general movement of the audience always occurring between the acts the removal of the lady and the lusty little infant was noticed by but very few.

Freight Trains Collide.

Two freight trains, one bound east, loaded with cattle, and the other west loaded with coal, plaster, etc., collided at Yarmouth Center, four miles east of St. Thomas, Ont. The west bound train was on the main line and had the right of way. The accident happened at a switch where the double track becomes a single one, and the east-bound train was supposed to come to a stop, but failed to do so. The engines struck with terrific force. Twenty-five or thirty cars are wrecked and the debris is piled up about the station in a great mass. The engineer, John Cook, of the west-bound train, was killed and a number of trainmen were seriously injured. The others saved themselves by jumping. The loss of property will be considerable.

State Lotteries.

Bismarck, (N. D.) special: The bill permitting lottery companies to operate in this State has passed the Senate by a majority of twenty-two to eight. It is said the bill will have a large majority in the House also. Gov. Miller has announced his determination to veto the bill, but it is said the measure has enough friends in both Houses to pass it over his veto. The objects of the bill are stated to be besides raising needful revenue, to protect the State against the great losses which occur from sending large sums to the lotteries of other States, and the building up of solvent and reliable home institutions. It is known now that the Louisiana Lottery Company will establish in the State under the name of the North Dakota Lottery Company.

Gas Works Explode.

St. Paul special: There was an explosion in the condenser room of the St. Paul Gas Works of this city. There are two branches of the plant, one for the manufacture of coal gas and the other for water gas. The accident occurred in the coal gas department. Joseph McMahon was instantly killed; Sam Desmond died after being removed. Martin Curran and Mike McMahon were wounded about the head and will probably die. Chris Kennedy, an old man about 60 years of age, is badly wounded and may not recover from the shock. Jas. Simmons was badly hurt. The damage is estimated at $40,000 with no insurance. No cause can be assigned for the accident.

Youthful Somnambulist.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Baroff, an aged couple, live on a farm, south of Van Wert, Ohio. The other night they were up late and the doors were not locked. Mr. Baroff was startled by the coughing of a child in the sitting-room. Lamp in hand, thinking of hobgoblins and ghosts, he entered the room and found sitting in a rocking-chair in front of the fire-place a 7-year-old daughter of a neighbor who lives three miles away. In her bare feet, clad in her night-clothes, she had walked the whole distance over the muddy road in her sleep.

Saved by a Miracle.

While breaking on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad, near Conersville, Ind., Oliver Davis, a young man of Eaton, had a wonderful escape from death. In attempting to step from one box-car to another, the two cars broke their connection, causing the young man to fall to the middle of the track below, where he was hurled from one rail to the other by the brake-beams, until the remainder of the train passed over him. He exhibited great presence of mind in keeping from under the flying wheels. He escaped with a badly broken leg, sprained shoulder and hand, and numerous serious cuts. He was taken to his home in Fort Wayne, where he is suffering much pain.

The Sioux Indian Reservation to Be Opened for Settlement.

It is expected the President will immediately issue a proclamation opening the Sioux Indian Reservation, embracing nine million acres of land in Dakota, to public settlement. These lands will be disposed of to settlers under the provisions of the homestead law. In addition to the fees each settler will be required to pay $1.25 per acre, and upon the full payment of the money due will be entitled to a patent. Land offices will be established at Chamberlain and Pierre, Dakota. The portion of the land lying south of latitude forty-three will be annexed to the O'Neil District in Nebraska.

Fell Eighty-Five Feet.

A terrible accident resulting in the death of one man and serious injury of another, occurred at Waterloo, Iowa, by the giving away of the scaffold of the new steel stand-pipe. Jack Long, of Hamilton, Ont., and Wilder Bardeen, of Waterloo, were precipitated to the bottom, a distance of eighty-five feet. Long's neck was broken and he expired immediately. Barden had several ribs fractured, and is terribly bruised from striking timbers in his descent, but the physicians think that he will recover.

Court House Destroyed.

The new court-house in Dallas, Tex., was totally destroyed by fire. Several officials and clerks employed in the various offices narrowly escaped death by suffocation as the fire started in the basement from a defective furnace, and rapidly spread through the building. A portion of the court records and a private library of one of the county judges were lost. The loss is $100,000; fully covered by insurance.

Cutting Down the Allowance.

Indianapolis special: Supreme Justice Somerby, Order of the Iron Hall, has issued a circular to local officers directing that no claim now pending or which may hereafter be presented to the supreme sittings, for any adjust on account of the malady which is now epidemic in the United States and Canada, known as la grippe or influenza, shall be allowed or paid for a longer period than one week.

Glass Works Blown Down.

The new glass works at Blairsville Pa., were blown down during a severe storm. Charles Barr, Superintendent, and Mr. Bierney were killed, and a number of persons injured. The men killed were from Tarentum. Superintendent Barr is still under the works. Another man, unknown, is under the debris and is undoubtedly killed. The building was of brick and is a total wreck.

Narrow Escape from Death.

The Mansion Hotel and a small building adjoining were burned at Glens Falls, N. Y. A. C. Stone, landlord, his wife and three children escaped in their night clothes. Stephen Cole, a French doctor, was badly burned and jumped from a back window to a shed beneath. Anna Buckley and Julia Welsh, two servants, escaped in a similar manner.

A Bad Explosion at Lima, Ohio.

A still at the Standard Solar Refinery at Lima, exploded, killing Patrick Yan and injuring five or six others. The names are Frank Kane, badly burned; W. E. Hotkins, seriously; A. Delany, W. Donerhue, and John Ryan, slightly burned. The cause of the explosion was a leak of gas from one of the stills. The end of the building was blown out.

Poisoned His Sweetheart.

A great sensation has been caused by the arrest of Frank Smith, of Wheeling, W. Va., on a charge of poisoning Miss Belle Simpson. Miss Simpson is the daughter of a wealthy farmer. From letters left by the young lady, it is supposed that Smith was giving her medicine for unlawful purpose and killed her.

The Hawes Murder.

John Wylie, a railroad man was arrested at Atlanta, Ga., for complicity in the murder of members of the Hawes family at Birmingham, for which Dick Hawes is to be hanged Feb. 28. It is understood that Hawes has made a new statement implicating Wylie, who was once before arrested, but released.

Will Not Go to the Supreme Court.

Lampson, Republican Lieutenant Governor of Ohio, ousted by the Democratic Senate, has decided not to carry the case to the Supreme Court.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Prime	$4.75	@	$5.50
Good	3.50	@	4.50
Common	2.50	@	3.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.50	@	4.25
SHEEP	4.00	@	5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.75	@	.75½
CORN—No. 2	.28	@	.29
OATS—No. 2	.20½	@	.21
RYE—No. 2	.43	@	.43½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.23	@	.26
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09	@	.10
EGGS—Fresh	.12½	@	.13½
POTATOES—Choice new, per bu.	.35	@	.42
PORK—Mess	9.50	@	9.75
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.72½	@	.73½
CORN—No. 3	.28	@	.28½
OATS—No. 2 White	.22½	@	.23½
RYE—No. 2	.43	@	.44
BARLEY—No. 2	.42	@	.43
PORK—Mess	9.50	@	10.00
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@	4.25
HOGS	3.00	@	4.50
SHEEP	3.50	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.78	@	.78
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.30	@	.21
OATS—No. 2 White	.25	@	.25½
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.78	@	.78½
CORN—Cash	.30	@	.31
OATS—No. 2 White	.24½	@	.25
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.75	@	5.00
HOGS	4.00	@	4.50
SHEEP	4.50	@	6.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.86½	@	.87½
CORN—No. 2	.36½	@	.37½
OATS—Mixed Western	.27	@	.30
PORK—Prime Mess	10.50	@	11.50
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.23	@	5.00
HOGS	3.50	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.75½	@	.76
CORN—No. 2	.26	@	.26½
OATS—No. 2	.21	@	.21½
RYE—No. 2	.42	@	.42½
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping Steers	3.00	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	4.25
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.76	@	.77
CORN—No. 1 White	.30	@	.30½
OATS—No. 2 White	.24	@	.24½
CINCINNATI.
HOGS	3.50	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.79	@	.80
CORN—No. 2	.31	@	.32
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.24	@	.25
RYE—No. 2	.49	@	.49½
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	3.50	@	4.50
HOGS	3.50	@	4.50
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.90	@	.90½
CORN—No. 2	.33¼	@	.34½

INDIANA HAPPENINGS.

EVENTS AND INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crime, Casualties and General News Notes.

—James Boyd, of New Washington, shot off his right hand while out hunting.

—By a tie vote the Brazil Council has tabled a proposition to raise the liquor license from $100 to $125.

—George West, an old miner at Rosedale, was caught under eight tons of falling slate and instantly killed.

—George Harlan was run down and killed by a Panhandle train, near New Castle. He was an old resident of that city.

—Mrs. Sarah Nafrey, of Mount Lebanon, who was thrown from a horse a few days ago, has died from her injuries.

—Mrs. George Kellar, of Coal Creek, Fountain County, choked to death in a coughing paroxysm, while ill with the grip.

—While operating a buzz-saw at Lawrenceburg, Charles Wesler fell upon it, and his skull was ripped open. He may recover.

—While going to church in her buggy, Mrs. Gotlieb Walter, of Huntington, aged 80 years, an old pioneer, died of heart disease.

—A boiler explosion wrecked Hufford's saw-mill at Rossville, and badly injured John Hufford and Albert Smith, of Frankfort.

—Solomon Henshaw, of Grassy Branch, Hamilton County, lost a cow from hydrophobia. Before her death she bit several dogs.

—Philip Snyder, a pioneer of Marion Township, Allen County, dropped dead from heart disease while walking from the house to the barn.

—H. R. Frisinger, of Bobo, station agent for the C. & A. Railway at that point, shot himself in the bowels in a fit of temporary insanity.

—William S. Robinson, a wealthy farmer of Bruceville, Knox County, put a pistol in his mouth and blew out his brains. He was temporarily insane.

—Henry Patty accidentally filled his body with bird-shot, while out hunting, near Greetingsville, Clinton County. He walked home, but died shortly afterward.

—Ben Zackery, aged 19 years, in attempting to get on a moving O., I. & W. freight train at Crawfordsville, got his right foot under the wheels and lost half of the foot.

—Burglars at Deerfield, plundered the store of Charles Barrett, and then set fire to it. Barrett and family, who reside on the premises, narrowly escaped burning to death.

—Lou Morgan, a brakeman on the J. M. & I. road, while uncoupling cars from the engine at Memphis, was caught between the draw-bars and his body dangerously crushed.

—While Jefferson Bouter, residing five miles west of Montpelier, was chopping a tree down in the woods, the tree fell on him, breaking his leg and otherwise injuring him.

—Francis M. Dicks, of Ladoga, has been awarded $7[illegible] damages in the Montgomery Circuit Court, on account of his being injured in a wreck on the Midland Railroad last fall.

—Lycurgus L. Shields, a well-known citizen of Seymour, was stricken with apoplexy in his barn, and died while being removed to his home. He leaves a widow and several children.

—Mrs. Emmett Early has gotten a judgment of $10,000 against the O. & M. Railroad Company in the Jackson County Circuit Court for the killing of her husband by a train three years ago.

—Miss Stella Swope, aged 16, of Clinton Township, Boone County, looked into a gun which "wasn't loaded." The ball struck her between the eyes and has not been found, though she still lives.

—Several supposed mad dogs have been shot at Fortville during the past few days. A great deal of excitement has prevailed thereabouts, and a general war has been declared against canines.

—A tramp giving the name of G. Watson was found in a box car at Brazil with his face beaten into a jelly. His companions claim that he did it himself by striking his head against the side of the car.

—Some unknown vandals at Pendleton, to vent their spite against J. C. Manning, an insurance and real estate agent, broke all the glass in the windows and front doors of his fine office with brick bats.

—A large barn south of Dublin, owned by Edward Ferris, was burned. Two horses and six cattle perished in the flames, and hay, corn and farming implements were destroyed. He carried $500 insurance.

—The congregation of St. John's Lutheran Church, of Fort Wayne, has tendered a call to Rev. H. P. Dennecker, of New Washington, O. Rev. John Kucher was forced to resign on account of ill health.

—Traces of arsenical poison were found in the remains of Jacob Eberle, of Peru, who died some two years ago, and which were analyzed under direction of the county coroner. The grand jury will investigate the case.

—Joe Hill, of Shelbyville, left a 38-caliber revolver under his pillow, and when his wife went to make up the bed she pulled it off on to the floor, and it was discharged, the ball striking her in the thigh and inflicting a dangerous wound.

—Harry Haun, of Pendleton, was accidentally shot while out hunting. He and friends were hunting in a large thicket when one of his companions filled his face full of bird-shot, not knowing that he was present. The wounds are not considered dangerous.

—James Lawrence, of Columbia City, was out hunting, and while crossing some logs the trigger of his gun caught and both barrels were discharged, the balls entering the abdomen, killing him almost instantly. He was unmarried.

—Mrs. Elisuha McNeeley, of Crawfordsville, secured a pass from the township trustee for herself and child to Shelbyville, and left her husband standing at the depot. He wanted to go, but she did not want him, and told the trustee not to give him a pass, as she did not expect to live with him much longer anyway.

—The Brookside canning factory at Kokomo is being enlarged, and will give employment to 700 hands during the packing season commencing June 15.

-Representatives of the new Peru Binder Twine and Cordage Company are now East procuring necessary machinery, etc., to properly equip the plant, which will shortly be in active operation, employing about 150 men.

—The Unson County Commissioners have adopted plans for a new court-house, and will advertise for bids for the building of it at once. The structure will be entirely of stone, iron and slate, and the estimated cost will be about $100,000.

—Kokomo has secured two more large factories, one for the manufacture of chewing gum, the other being a concern for manufacture of pumps, with a brass foundry in connection. Each will employ one hundred hands. The latter is the fourth factory secured in the past thirty days and the thirty-second since the discovery of natural gas, three years ago.

—Warsaw has a society of girls who meet periodically to compare notes upon the character and conduct of the young men or their acquaintance. They "keep tab" on the boys on their eligible list, noting how often they attend church, whether they drink, smoke, or indulge in other wickedness, and strike them from the list as soon as they fall below the requirements.

—Patents have been issued to Indianians as follows: Geo. J. Cline, Goshen, fence; Samuel L. Cowan, assignor of one-half to C. B. Emmert, Clarksburg, coffee-grinder; Jas. J. Hamilton and J. W. Hull, New Castle, seed-sower; Jas. P. Karr, Monticello, removing incrustation from boiler-tubes; Jas. L. Leeper, Fort Wayne, bicycle; Wm. A. Watson, Lewisville, farm gate.

—The Montgomery County Agricultural Association held a meeting at Crawfordsville, and decided to hold the next fair on Sept. 8 to 12, and the premiums will amount to $8,500. Last fall during the fair a valuable collection of coins, on exhibition in the floral hall, was stolen from Mrs. A. P. Reynolds, and the association has just given her $35. The various superintendents were also chosen.

—The new fair association of Randolph County has effected an organization by adopting a constitution and by-laws and electing officers: The association comprises thirty of the live men of the county, and starts out by electing B. F. Boltz, President; Thomas G. Mullen, Vice President; D. E. Hoffman, Secretary, and John Meier, Treasurer. The following are the directors: D. Chusman, William O. King, C. E. Magee. William Kemp and Al Canfield.

—Mary Hooper, aged 17, and Rachel Ferguson, aged 18, had a desperate fight at Utica, six miles from Jeffersonville. The girls are recent converts of the Baptist Church and were to be baptized in the river. The Hooper girl objected to Miss Ferguson going in first. She deliberately struck her on the nose and blackened her eye and when separated by minister Westly made an attack on him. The whole baptizing broke up in a row and great consternation in religious circles exist in the village.

—Rudolph Ellaberger, a prominent farmer, living in the vicinity of Cambridge City, for fifty years, died at his residence just north of that city, being over 90 years old. He was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in 1799, and has two brothers living, each of whom is over 80 years old, besides a large family surviving him. Several weeks ago he received serious injuries from a fall, having a hip broken, which was probably the cause of his death.

—The Fort Wayne Land and Improvement Company, lately organized to open up for settlement a large tract of land north of that city, and to promote business interests, has made the first purchase of land, consisting of 501 acres as follows: The Loree tract of 180 acres, immediately east of the Maumee bridge, for $75,000; the Stephen C. Taber property, of 160 acres, for $50,000, and the Elizabeth C. Hanna tract of 161 acres, for $29,000. The work of platting this land will be commenced at once, and the company expect to have lots for sale within thirty days.

—Several prominent farmers living near Evansville have been interviewed as to the product of the coming wheat crop, and the result was not very encouraging. They say wheat is not ready yet to joint, and that it will take considerable more warm weather than we have thus far had to bring it to a point where it would be damaged by cold weather. But Hessian flies have appeared and are very destructive in their ravages upon the growing crops. Farmers are hopeful for the future, but the outlook at this time is not very encouraging.

—About eight months ago Miss Rosa Fideler, a very pretty girl, 17 years old, who came with her parents to Fort Wayne from Germany, two years ago, was betrayed by a young man whose name she refused to give. Grieved at her misfortune, she secluded herself from the world, and in her sorrowful condition her health gradually failed. In spite of all that mortal science could do the poor girl pined away, and the other day breathed her last. Up to her dying moment she refused to name the man who caused her downfall and death. The case has excited much sympathy.

—Thomas Legg, who has resided in Tipton County since 1871, died at the home of his son. A. M. Legg, of Windfall. He was, at the time of his death, 91 years of age. He was the father of B. F. Legg, a member of the Legislature from that county two years ago.

—Bartley Morgan, an ex-soldier of the British Army, was warned to leave his home in Fulton County within ten days. He issued a counter-proclamation that if any alleged White Caps attacked him there would probably be a funeral, and he would not occupy the coffin.

—George Gregory, a veteran of the war of the rebellion, through which he served as First Lieutenant, died at Union City, aged 68 years. His death resulted from an injury received from an exploded shell at the battle of Black River, during the Vicksburg campaign.

—In the Circuit Court at Columbus, William Leibfried brought suit against the Pennsylvania Company, operating the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad, for personal injuries received in the yards of the latter company last August, the amount demanded being $20,000.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS AND WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted On—Gist of the Business.

THE House spent the morning of the 4th in the usual demands from the Democratic side for a full reading of the journal and its approval on a yea and nay vote, motions for adjournment, etc. The Senate bill to relieve the Treasurer of the United States from the amount now charged to him and deposited in the several States came up, and several hours were wasted in a decision as to its reference, the Democrats pursuing the policy of offering dilatory motions. By counting about sixty-five Democrats present but not voting, the Speaker finally declared that the question was on the motion to refer to the Ways and Means Committee, which being put was carried by a viva voce vote, not a single Democrat voting against it. The House then at 4:35, on motion of Mr. McKinley, adjourned, the Democrats as well as Republicans joining in the vote. In the Senate several petitions praying for the passage of a per-diem pension bill were presented. Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Morrill to prevent the extermination of fur-bearing animals in Alaska, and also one by Senator Wolcott allowing New Mexico to frame a constitution and be admitted to the Union. After the introduction of a large number of private relief bills the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. The Senate in executive session debated at length the Samoan treaty and finally ratified it with only nine dissenting votes.

IN the Senate on the 5th inst., after a long discussion on the question of providing more rooms for the use of committees, the bill to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools was taken up and Mr. Blair proceeded to address the Senate in advocacy of it. The Committee on Foreign Relations reported the following joint resolution, which was placed on the calendar: "Resolved, That the United States of America congratulates the people of Brazil on their just and peaceful assumption of the powers, duties, and responsibilities of self-government based upon the free consent of the governed and on their recent adoption of a republican form of government." This joint resolution is reported as a substitute for that of Mr. Morgan introduced Dec. 18 and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. It omits the words "expressed in their repudiation of monarchic rule." It also omits several paragraphs declaring the recognition of the United States of Brazil as a lawful and rightful government, and directing the President to require the people and officers of the United States to recognize the flag of the United States of Brazil as the flag of a free, sovereign and independent state. Mr. Blair then resumed his argument. He declared that the constitutionality of the bill was beyond question, and spoke at some length in support of his favorite measure. The House transacted no business. After a yea and nay vote on the journal, which was approved—yeas 150, nays 0 (the constitutional quorum being counted by the Speaker), an adjournment was taken on motion of Mr. McKinley, of Ohio.

IN the Senate on the 6th inst. Senator Platt called up a bill to provide a temporary government for Oklahoma. The discussion of the amendments offered to the Oklahoma bill consumed the time of the Senate until 2 o'clock, when Senator Blair continued his speech on the educational bill. The Senate then went into executive session, and the Samoan treaty was again discussed. Two motions made by Senator Edmunds were tabled, whereupon Mr. Edmunds asked to be excused from further service on the Committee on Foreign Relations. In the House the Democrats carried out their policy of protest against the rulings of the Speaker by declining to vote upon the question of approving the journal. This instrument was, however, approved by a vote of yeas 158, nays 0—the constitutional quorum being counted by the Speaker. Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, from the Committee on Rules, reported the new code of rules and it was ordered printed and recommitted. Congressman Dorsey introduced a bill providing for the issue of $300,000,000 of 2 per cent. bonds payable at the pleasure of the Government. The bill provides that the holders of 4 per cent. bonds may exchange their bonds for these, 2 per cents, issued by estimating the present worth of their bonds at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum until due and payable. The House passed a substitute for the Senate "disability" pension bill. The substitute makes the rate of pension for total disability—where the pensioner requires the regular personal aid and attendance of another person—$72 a month. When the pensioner is disqualified for manual labor and is only partially dependent upon attendants, the rate is fixed at $50 a month. The House also passed the bill for the relief of survivors of the Samoan disaster; the bill to establish two additional land offices in Montana, and the bill extending for two years the time within which the Kansas City and Pacific Railroad Company may construct its line through the Indian Territory.

IN the House, on the 7th inst., a bill increasing the pension of Gen. Abram Duryea to $100 per month was passed after some debate. A Senate bill was passed authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River between Douglas, or Sarpy County, Nebraska, and Pottawattomie County, Iowa. On motion of Mr. Gear, of Iowa, the Senate bill was passed extending for two years the time within which a bridge across the Mississippi River at Burlington, Iowa, previously authorized, may be constructed. A number of private bills occupied the remainder of the session. The Senate was not in session.

Curious Facts.

Dr. Gravenigo, of the University of Padua, is said to have successfully performed an operation which hitherto has been vainly tried by various experimenters, both in France and elsewhere. The operation consists in the grafting of a chicken's cornea into the human eye. In the successful case reported by Gravenigo the graft is said to have united quickly, and formed a cornea which was very transparent, shining and convex.

A gold nugget, worth $7.50, was found in the crop of a grouse that a woman was dressing for dinner at Sampson's Mills, Ore., a few days ago.

Dr. T. M. Greenwood, of Mineral Bluff, Ga., reports a very interesting case. The patient is a woman aged 78 years, mother of twenty-one children. Had never taken a dose of medicine from a physician until June of this year, when Dr. Greenwood was called in and found her suffering. Three weeks thereafter she cut two middle upper incisors, then next two, and last two lower incisors. The gums are much swollen, and there is every indication that she will cut a full set of teeth.

According to the best statistical authority the consumption of sugar in the world is 5,200,000 tons a year, of which the United States consumes 1,500,000 tons and Great Britain 1,100,000 tons. This is a quantity about equal to the beet sugar production of Europe. That is, as much or nearly as much beet sugar as cane sugar is produced in the world.

The sun does not rise on Mirror Lake, Yosemite, until 11:30 in the morning.

M. Zola describes his mode of working thus: "I am as regular as clockwork. Every morning I write four pages of manuscript, no more, no less. That makes about 800 words, and is all I can do in a day and do it well. As I take a year for each one of my novels, you see that I have plenty of time at that rate. Of course a large part of my work has been done before I take up the pen, and what I write the first time goes to the printers with few erasures. No, I never dictate, but write every line of my books with my own hand, like this, voyez-vous?"

Chauncey Depew Was to Be Grady's Model.

At the last public dinner in New York which Henry W. Grady attended he sat opposite Chauncey M. Depew. Toward the end of the banquet Mr. Grady remarked to a gentleman by his side:

"I've been watching Mr. Depew, and I notice he drinks no wine. Is that his custom?"

"Yes, he drinks almost nothing. The greatest indulgence I ever knew him to allow himself was to barely sip occasionally from his champagne glass."

"Well, I've about made up my mind that that is the only course to adopt if you want to make an after-dinner speech that is worth hearing or worth remembering. I mean to make it my rule hereafter."—New York Sun.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT
RED
CLOVER BLOSSOM
THE GREAT Blood Purifier.
PURE AND EFFICACIOUS.
TRADE MARK
IT CURES
Cancers, Humors, Sores, Ulcers, Swellings, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.
PRICE, $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb. can Solid Extract $2.50.
J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., Detroit, Mich.

USE ONLY THE BEST.
UNDERWOOD'S
CELEBRATED
WRITING AND COPYING INKS,
MUCILAGE, ETC.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND SAMPLES.
TYPEWRITER RIBBONS,
CARBON PAPERS,
LINEN PAPERS,
RIBBONS AND SUPPLIES FOR ALL KINDS OF MACHINES.
163 LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO. | 30 VESEY ST. NEW YORK. | 10 JOHNSTON ST. TORONTO

BRIGHTINE POSITIVELY CURES LUMBAGO, PAIN IN BACK, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.
PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE IT. VALUABLE INFORMATION MAILED FREE
DIABETES
LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES.
Bottle $1. Ask Druggist or write WM. T. LINDLEY & CO., 214-224 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.
St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1, '88. BRIGHTINE cured me of Diabetes, and to-day am hearty and well. Mrs. A. A. Gilliam, Treas. Woman's Exchange.
Chicago, Dec. 1, '87. My Kidneys troubled me several years, BRIGHTINE entirely cured me. A. C. Smith, Western News Co. Jos. M. Norris, Agt. C., R. I. & P. R. R.
Buffalo, N. Y., May 11, '88. Suffered from Lumbago several years, BRIGHTINE cured me. Shannan, Capt. Steamer Chemung, Un. St'boat Co.
St. Louis, April 24, '88. BRIGHTINE gives satisfaction. Stand'd Drug Co. 900 Franklin Av.
St. Louis, Dec. 12, '88. BRIGHTINE has all the virtues claimed. Mastbrook, D'gs 109 S. B'way.
Rockville, Ind., Nov. 18, '87. Can recommend BRIGHTINE highly. Rev. John Hawkes.
Chicago Times, March 28, '88—Globe, Nov. 17, '88 Illustrated Century, Jan. 28, '88.—Commercial Traveller, Feb. 15, '88, PRAISE BRIGHTINE.
Refer to Mut. Inv. & Loan Assn., Bullock Bros, J. Shepard, Supt. U.S. Ex. G. F. Kimball Glass Imp.

INSTANTANEOUS CHOCOLATE
THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE
NO TROUBLE NO BOILING
EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IT
POWDERED AND PUT UP IN ONE POUND TIN CANS 75 CTS. PER CAN
STEPHEN F. WHITMAN & SON
INVENTORS AND SOLE MANUF'RS
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A PERFECT CURE FOR MALARIA
STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS
One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will CURE Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder; the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. [illegible] Address, GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Always mention this paper.

A SHABBY OLD COAT.

BY EVA KATHARINE CLAPP.

Fold it gently away in this wide cedar chest,
'Tis a hero's old coat, late his only, his best;
There has dawned on his fortunes a prosperous day,
And, wolf-like, grim poverty slinks from the way.

But, oh, the sweet memories that tenderly cling
Round each rent, fold and fray of this shabby old thing
Stir each pulse of my heart until tears blind my view,
And its dull, faded colors the bright drops renew.

You were faithful, old friend, all those wintry days bleak,
When the form you enshrined oft with hunger grew weak,
While his courage stood firm and his honor shone bright,
As it does, amidst plenty and friends, on this night.

You were faithful, old friend, while the hard-hearted crew,
Who all crowded so close while your gloss was still new,
With averted, cold eye, gazed afar down the street,
Lest their paltry self-love your mute protest might meet.

'Twas just here he once pinned, with a smile, grave and sweet,
A wild blossom, bestowed by a child in the street,
And the love that shone forth from that ragged child's eyes
"Made the gift," he said, softly, "a keepsake to prize."

To a long-winded prayer that proud head seldom bowed,
But to Love's true religion his true heart was bowed;
Ever stanch to a friend, ever just to a foe,
While his presence made home a small heaven below.

In their well-cushioned pulpits our natty divines
Between saint and sinner draw strict, rigid lines,
And their clerical garb, with a manner austere,
They would hold far aloof if this old coat drew near.

Good, respectable friends, if the heaven you preach
Should, indeed, dawn in beauty, let down to your reach,
Oh, how stunned you would feel if its popular vote
Should elect him a prince in this shabby old coat.

True, that's never the way, in this blindfold old earth,
Where a diamond must glitter to herald its worth;
But thanks be to Nature, some few hearts still prize
The ring of true worth, 'neath all mask and disguise.

So fold it away in the wide cedar chest,
Just a shabby old coat, late his only and best,
Letting softly the fragrance of lavender float,
Like a prayerful "Well done," round our hero's old coat.

CHICAGO, III.

THE JEWELED HAIRPIN;

—OR—

The Strange Tragedy of the Grand Hotel.

BY ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

"Ask her to describe this visitor. Quick, Ramon."

I began to believe I had got a fresh clew.

"He was a forastero, a stranger, speaking little Castilian, but enough to tell me of my boy. He came from him, I was sure. He showed me the blessed image that Xavier wore always on his heart."

And which must have been removed by the hands of the murderer. Who else? The real criminal, who had secured it for this very purpose, probably to send it as a token to the mother as an authority to deliver up the sea-chest or any other property he coveted for reasons of his own.

Who was he?

We plied the old woman with questions.

But she shook her head and became impenetrably stupid, obstinately dumb.

I left her at last, intending to renew the attack another day. Ramon should go to her and try what persuasion could do. If all other means failed, he was to break to her gently the news of her son's death, hinting at its violent nature so as to arouse a revengeful spirit, and thus win her support.

An idea had been gradually taking possession of me that perhaps the mysterious visitor was Mr. Sarsfield himself. Smart's letter rather encouraged me in this. The long illness, I told myself, with its close confinement, might be only a blind. What if it were a mere subterfuge to cover his departure, to conceal a hurried visit to Spain?

True, he could not leave Bythesea without the collusion of the two ladies; but might this not have been secured by some specious excuse to Miss Bertram, if needs were, by a half confession to his wife?

There was much to support my theory that Mr. Sarsfield himself had come to Cadiz.

Where could he find another messenger whom he could trust? It was everything to him, his secret. True, he might employ some messenger and still keep his own counsel; but how much safer, if not how much easier, for him to go himself!

Following out this line, I set inquiries on foot for Mr. Sarsfield. Had he, or any one like him, been seen in Cadiz these last few days? The same result met us at the railway station and the steamboat offices—no Mr. Sarsfield, no person at all resembling him, was to be heard of anywhere.

But he might, and would probably, be in disguise, to which, naturally, I had no clue. So I changed my line of investigation, and devoted it now to the sea-chest of which the old woman had spoken.

A stranger with a sea-chest, but not a sea-faring man. I felt that this was a part Mr. Sarsfield would hardly assume. Could we come upon the traces of any of this kind?

CHAPTER XII.

THE DOS HERMANOS.

While I awaited the result of Ramon's further search I passed my time as best I could in this dull seaport. Time would have hung very heavy had I not cultivated closer relations with the officers of the United States frigate that had brought me to Cadiz. Captain Verheyden always had a joke about the inquiry I was conducting.

"Waal, how does it progress?" he said to me one evening as we sat over our wine at the "Fonda del Mar."

"Not so fast as I could wish; still, we are making progress." And then I opened my heart to him, telling him plainly what I was doing and all the difficulties I encountered.

"Case looks ugly against Sarsfield—is that how you call him?—there's no gainsaying it," remarked Captain Verheyden, who had listened attentively.

"But I've got to prove he came to Cadiz."

"That ought to be easy enough. You've got the chest as a clew. 'Tain't easy to hide a sea-chest."

"Unless he took it off altogether—to England, his own country."

"He'd be far more likely to break it open and extract what he was in search of than destroy or leave the chest behind him."

"But what was the murdered man's real name? You have not told me that." He was deeply interested now, I could see that. "The Dos Hermanos! Yriarte! That's thundering strange," he cried when I told him. "Those names ain't new to me, Mr. Leslie. What like was the ship, and where did she hail from?"

"She was a bark, 400 tons register. Cleared from the port of Cadiz on March 19, 186–, bound for the Havana with a cargo of wine."

"Wine was on her manifest—sherry wine, priorato, and Taragona port—when I boarded her in the Great Bahama Channel, but nary cask did I find in her."

"When you boarded her, Captain Verheyden? Gracious goodness! what had you to say to her? I was just going to ask you whether you could help me to trace her in the Cuban port, and now you tell me you knew the ship."

"Knew her! Yes, by thunder, knew her, and her captain and all her rascally crew!"

"Go on, please, tell me all about her."

"'Tain't a long story, but it's full of meat. In that year, 186–, I was Lieutenant-Commander of the United States sloop Opossum, cruising in the Gulf of Florida, in and about the Bahamas, and round the Havana. You know we'd just put down slavery, and we didn't mean to let no one else carry on the trade in humans, either. My orders were to keep a sharp lookout for any craft with niggers on board, and seize her then and there. I fell in with nothing, sir, for weeks and weeks, and might not till now but for the master of a cutter from New Providence, who told me a rakish-looking craft, with heavy spars and strongly manned, had been driven northward by stress of weather, and when he met her was trying to beat back toward the Havana.

"Suspicious description this, so I cruised her course. It was still blowing a fresh breeze from the south-southwest; but at daylight on the third day we sighted her sailing on the wind. She must have seen us, too, for she fell away at once, and went before it, cracking on canvas and trying hard to give us the slip. I went ahead full steam, and of course had the legs of her. But she was a clipper, you bet, and gave us a long chase. It was late in the afternoon before I overhauled her. Waal, we ran within a few fathoms' length of her, and hailed.

"'What ship's that? Show your colors and send a boat aboard,' I sung out on the trumpet.

"She ran up Spanish colors, but still sheered off, and seemed anxious to avoid close quarters.

"'Lie to, or I'll sink you,' I shouted again, and, as she continued her course, I ordered a gun to be fired across her bows. The blackguard now opened his ports and showed his teeth. He'd have given me a broadside, but I ran alongside, grappled and boarded him. The crew were at their stations; the Captain with a drawn cutlass ready to show fight, but he saw how strong we were, and caved in.

"'This is an outrage on the Spanish flag,' he said, sullenly, in fairly good English. 'You will have to answer for it.'

"I ran down with the quartermaster and saw the 'tween decks. There was not a doubt of it—the benches, the chains, scraps of food, water-gourds, all the signs that tell the story of human occupation. But where were the wretched beings that had so recently been cooped up here in filth and utter misery? Then, at least, they were alive. What had become of them now?

"I returned to the upper deck, determined to fathom this to the bottom.

"'Send all the hands aft,' I cried; and when every man was mustered I made them a short speech. I told them what I suspected—that some black deed had just been done—and I promised, in the name of the United States Government, a full pardon to any one who would sneak out.

"They were as ugly a lot as you ever clapped eyes on, Mr. Leslie—Spanish, Greeks, Maltese, and mongrels of all nations—black-faced, murderous-looking, villains who would not go back upon any bloody job. But my address touched them in the right place, for it gave them a chance of selling one another.

"Half a dozen chaps came forward, and more would have done so, but that they were too late.

"You never heard such a story! It sickened us, maddened us. I believe my fellows, if they had not been under discipline, would have lynched the lot."

"What had happened? What had he done with them?"

"Drowned them—two hundred and fifty human souls drowned like blind puppies in a pond."

"But why, in God's name?"

"To get clear of our clutches. He thought he'd escape us, that we should have no evidence against him."

"It was the captain's, this Yriarte's doing?"

"Not entirely, although he was held responsible. He tried to shelter himself under his instructions. Said his owners had told him to make away with his cargo."

"Was that proved?" I asked eagerly, scenting a reason at last for Yriarte's threatening Mr. Sarsfield. "Who were these owners?"

"Cooch & Izquierdo. We got their names right enough. But what could we do against them? They were merchants of Havana, beyond the reach of American law. Besides, the captain's statement was never substantiated; he could not produce his instructions."

"Anyway, he did not escape."

"'Taint likely. I took him and his ship into Galveston with a prize crew on board. They were tried before the Supreme Court for murder on the high seas, found guilty"——

"But not hanged, as they surely ought to have been?"

"It was not a hanging State, Mr. Leslie, so they got off with imprisonment. The captain was put down for life, but he seems to have got away somehow—escaped, pardoned."

"Fate brought retribution to the end. To be stabbed in the back with his own clasp-knife——"

"Was a death almost too good for him. I am inclined to think that the man who killed him did good service to society."

"That would be a rather dangerous doctrine to publish, Captain Verheyden," I said, protesting; "besides, in this case the murderer shared his victim's crime."

"No, no, you must not say that; you are not certain Mr. Sarsfield was a party to the massacre."

"There was a strong suspicion against his firm, anyway, and if his conscience was not sore, why did he go to such lengths? If he could have braved Yriarte's threats he need not have killed him."

"You still charge him with the murder?"

"Can you doubt it, now that we know so much?"

"I'd rather not stand in his shoes, that much I'll allow. But you've got more to do if you want to convict him."

"His recent visit to Cadiz——"

"Ah, if you can prove that; but can you?"

We went all over the points again one by one, and while we were discussing the case, detail after detail, trying hard to fix our conclusions by logical proof, a waiter came in to tell me that Ramon had called and wished to see me without delay.

"Well, you have something important to say," I remarked, when the guide came in, "I can see it in your face."

"Si, Senor, I have found the chest."

"Where? Then you know the man? How did you manage?"

"One moment, sir. The old woman, after much pressing, let out that the chest was fetched away by a man——"

"You have his description? Out with it, quick."

"By a man," continued Ramon, determined to tell the story his own way, "who came in a rowboat from Cadiz. I found the boat and those who rowed it. They tell me they helped to carry the chest on board, and brought it back with the man to Cadiz."

"But this man? Describe him, I insist."

"He was a foreigner, speaking Spanish not badly, but still a foreigner; not a sailor, although he tried to pass for one, and was taken with his chest to a sailor's lodging-house near the quay. He was looking out for a berth, he said, in a ship bound for South America."

"And he found one?"

"No one can tell; he disappeared after the second day, leaving his chest behind him to pay for his lodging. There was nothing in it except some old clothes, moth-eaten, which must have lain there for a dozen years."

"Clever trick," said Captain Verheyden, who had been listening attentively; "he got well rid of the chest."

"After extracting all he wanted. But now, Ramon, for the man's appearance. Tall, middle-aged, dark complexion, grayish hair——"

"No, sir; rather young, short, inclined to be fat, with a white face, straw-colored hair, and pale-blue eyes—that's how they all describe him."

It was the waiter, Cornelis Janssen, there could be no doubt of it; and instantaneously the whole current of my thoughts was diverted into another channel.

"What had brought him to Cadiz?" I asked myself at once. He had come for no good purpose. Of course, he was in search of further evidence against Mr. Sarsfield, and knew exactly where to find it.

CHAPTER XIII.

BANGLE'S BATHING MACHINES.

Bidding farewell to my American friends, I left Cadiz next day, turning my face homeward with considerable satisfaction. My mission had borne fruit, not that which I had expected, but fruit of a far pleasanter and more substantial kind.

I had not only gained proof which led to the arrest and conviction of the murderer, but I had relieved Mr. Sarsfield of a wrongful imputation.

I went on to Bythesea without pausing in London, and reached the Grand Hotel late one evening, just a month since I had left it.

"I could scrag the murderer myself," Mr. Gray confessed to me in his little inner room, as we sat there smoking a cigar before we turned in.

"The police are still at fault, eh?" I asked.

"I expect you know that better than I do," he replied, with a meaning look.

"What makes you say that?"

"Mr. Smart gave me an idea what took you to Spain. They're still here, that lot." And I gathered from his tone that he no longer looked upon the Sarsfields with affection.

"What lot?" I asked, willfully stupid.

"Why, the Sarsfields. I wonder he has the cheek to stay on here. But it will be all the easier to run him in."

"What! Mr. Sarsfield? I don't understand. I thought he had been ill."

"They said it was a fit," replied Mr. Gray, contemptuously. "All sham. Don't believe a word of it. Why, he's about again, as well as ever."

"I am delighted to hear it. It must have been a trying, anxious time for the ladies. Good-night, Mr. Gray," I said, abruptly, as I got up from my chair in a way to show that I had had enough of his gossip.

My first visit the next morning was to the police office, where I told Mr. Smart and Hasnip, at great length, all that had happened at Cadiz.

"We must have that chap Cornelis," said the Chief Constable, after congratulating me warmly on my success. "I remember the fellow. Wouldn't touch the corpse that first morning. It looked odd, I thought then."

"Ay, but where is he? We shan't catch him easily," said Hasnip.

"It's quite likely he'll give himself away. Depend upon it, he's come back to England and means to put pressure on Mr. Sarsfield."

"He'll never show up himself," said Hasnip.

"He needn't. The threats can come through another, or he can so work the pressure as to keep in the background himself."

"Well, it may happen so," said Mr. Smart. "In the meantime we'll put Mr. Cornelis Janssen into the Hue and Cry. We'll advertise in the police gazette——"

"No, no; you must do nothing of the kind. Don't let him suppose he's wanted; it would put him on his guard. I believe he has no idea what we know against him."

"Are you sure of that?"

"Almost. At any rate, to advertise for him would be to give away your chance of dropping on him quietly."

"And you will get the Sarsfields to tell us if Cornelis makes any move?"

"Yes," I said, "I will try and arrange that," hoping to get a few quiet words with Miss Bertram during the day.

It was not so easy, however, to reopen communications with the Sarsfields. They knew I had returned; the hotel party was now a small one, and we had met at table, where we had exchanged bows, but I had no opportunity of speech with any of them. I fancied they all avoided me, including Miss Bertram and Captain Fawcett.

On the second morning none of them appeared, and I heard to my surprise that Mr. Sarsfield was much worse. He had had a relapse. Yet the day previous I had seen him at dinner, looking white, worn, more aged, but otherwise well. I hesitated to intrude upon them, and yet, for their own sakes, especially for Mr. Sarsfield's and in the interests of justice, it was most desirable that they should know what I knew against Cornelis Janssen. Accordingly, I made up my mind to ask for an interview with one or other of the ladies. I sent up my name, giving as reason my desire to make an important communication. The answer was long in coming, but presently I was asked to go up to the private sitting-room where I had spoken to Mrs. Sarsfield.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Jewel Gossip.

Infinite is the gossip about jewels, every precious stone having woven round it, in the course of the ages, some fragment of story, or suppositious and miraculous, not to say supernatural, legend.

Thus, of old, the happy woman who possessed a sapphire always had her prayers fulfilled, and therefore this diamond was much coveted by love-lorn maidens.

Similarly, the man who owned an amethyst might go to the wars in the sure and certain belief that the sword was not forged which could hurt him, nor the bolt made which, so far as he was concerned, could carry hurt or harm to him in its flight.

The diamond itself had many wonderful properties, and being the "king of stones," surpassed all its brethren in magical virtues.

It was capable, so the middle ages believed, of averting bad dreams and insanity, and was even of inestimable power in warding off the effects of poison.

An agate had similar uses with regard to serpent bites, and besides had power to make its finder or owner a skillful orator.

Chrysolite was valued because it was thought that it frightened evil spirits away.

Curious Facts About the Hair.

Four hundred hairs of average thickness would cover an inch of space. The blonde belle has about 140,000 filaments to comb and brush, while the red-haired beauty has to be satisfied with 88,000; the brown-haired damsel may have 109,000, the black-haired but 102,000. Few ladies consider that they carry some forty or fifty miles of hair on their head; the fair-haired may have to dress seventy miles of threads of gold every morning. A German experimentalist has proved that a single hair will suspend four ounces without breaking, stretching under the process and contracting again. But the hair thus heavily weighted must be dark brown, for blonde hair breaks down under two and one-half ounces.

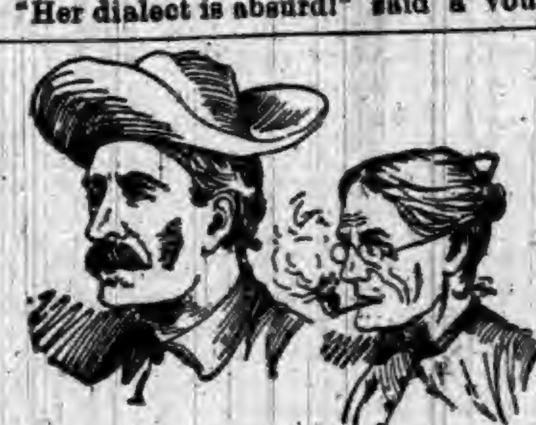
CHILDREN OF NATURE.

Strange Characteristics and Manner of Life of the Tennessee Mountaineers.

WHAT powerful novelist of the Southern school, Charles Egbert Craddock, has been silent for a time. Her works are read very little nowadays, and no talk is heard of her at all. It would seem that she has been so unfortunate as to fail to awaken a popular response, although the critics and reviewers everywhere received her with open arms. But few writers, if I may be excused for advancing an opinion which has been advanced oft-times before, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, approach this marvelous woman in strength and in range of vision. The field, too, which she has so ably worked has proved particularly rich to her. Setting aside the dogmas and violent denunciations of the anti-dialecticians, we find her work to be little short of wonders—the polished, well-conceived silhouettes of a delicately poised genius.

We who have formed an acquaintance with that strange creature, the Tennessee mountaineer, are better enabled to appreciate the intensely realistic pictures which Miss Murfree has drawn. There is, nevertheless, an amusing diversity of comment on her work by Tennesseans.

"Her dialect is absurd!" said a young lady friend, who should know some time ago. "'Obligated'—'you-uns' in the singular! Whoever heard such?"



TYPES OF MOUNTAINEERS.

"She attempts realism, and yet is most realistic," said a bright writer, a member of the old ante-bellum school, but who has long since ceased taking an active part in literature. "Feeling and romance and subtle, intangible senses in a mountaineer? They are as insensate, as incapable of such, as that bowlder there?"

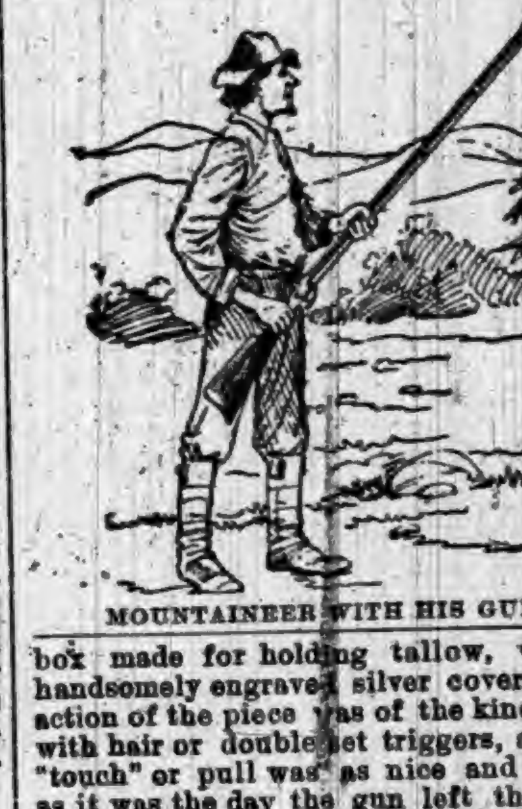
Could I have politely said that the speaker was blind—was dispossessed of that fine, sympathetic insight necessary to the full appreciation and understanding of the things he enumerated, wherever they exist?

The child of this wild wilderness could be nothing else than an anomaly. That curious animal known as the human being is but an odd creature at best—with mind attuned and in a manner adjusted by culture or sophistication. Without a solitary trace of such, or the rudimentary parts of that thing known tangibly to some as education, he must prove interesting at least.

Ethically, such is the Southern mountaineer. As he lives now in the great smoky mountains, so his father and his father's father lived before him, generations back into the days of Nolichucky Jack and his "yelling devils of the mountains."

The house he lives in—cabin is not the word and hovel is tainted by ill-usage—is generally a two-roomed structure of logs, with a lean-to kitchen of pine poles. Here the family hearthstone is. The structure may be 100 years old. Over the door hangs a rifle—perhaps a lengthy, flint-locked affair, time-honored, but serviceable still. This rifle is the greatest institution known to the mountaineer and his family, and I would like to speak extendedly of it. It is looked up to by the younger members of the family with a sort of undefined awe.

I once tried to purchase one of these weapons, which was quite as ancient, to the best of my knowledge, and fully as conservative, as the hills themselves. It was an enormous gun; the barrel was fully five feet in length and an inch in diameter, and it was proportionately heavy. The stock was perfectly straight, and imbedded in the cheek-rest was a box made for holding tallow, with a handsomely engraved silver cover. The action of the piece was of the kind usual with hair or double set triggers, and the "touch" or pull was as nice and strong as it was the day the gun left the shop of its maker. This latter I judged to be a Spaniard, by the inscription on the elaborately and quaintly graved lock. I was quite entranced with the weapon, and as I said before I offered to buy it, desiring to preserve it as a relic of my tour among a strange people. I might as well have offered to purchase the mountaineer's grandmother! That gun was his god of love and of war; it was the household Penates in one. It had occupied its throne of buck-horn hooks above the door since the day which the memory of the aged gran'ther at the fireside failed of. I could have bought, perhaps, the roof over their heads, the weedy clearing which they called their "gyarding," and everything else they happened to possess, even the mangy "cur-dog" lying asleep in the shade, but as to that rifle—ah, no!



MOUNTAINEER WITH HIS GUN.

Disagreeable Agreement.

It is dangerous to make a confession unless one really means it, and we may add that it is sometimes dangerous to take a confession as honestly meant.

A husband and wife, between whom a little unpleasant passage had occurred, had made the matter up, and the wife said, as if to clear her conscience:

"Oh, well, I suppose I have my faults."

"Yes, my dear," said the husband.

"What?"

"I simply said yes."

"That I have my faults!" exclaimed the wife, indignantly. "What are they, I should like to know?"

"Well, to begin with——"

"No. I don't want to hear."

Shopkeeping in Paris.

French Girl—Papa, a man who looks like an American is observing those gloves in the window. What shall I ask for them?

Shopkeeper—Twenty dollars.

Man (entering)—How much?

Girl—Twenty dollars.

Man—Sar-r-r-r!

Shopkeeper—Forty cents, m'sieur.—Omaha World.

AFTER a man has been married fourteen years he seldom gets up more than three times in one night to light a match and look around the room because his wife thinks she heard a noise.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE
Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great University as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain ammonia, lime or alum. Sold only in cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
CURE
Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing
SICK
Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured
HEAD
Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head
ACHE
Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.
Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

ROSCOE CONKLING:
HIS LIFE AND LETTERS.
By his nephew, Alfred R. Conkling. This work will shortly be issued by us, and sold strictly by subscription.
Octavo, 600 pages, steel portrait, and fac-similes of letters of eminent contemporaries in both parties.
WE ESPECIALLY INVITE
LAWYERS AND MEN OUT OF BUSINESS, POLITICIANS, AND CANVASSERS,
to make early applications for the exclusive control of territory. One of the greatest opportunities to make money ever offered.
(When writing, mention this paper.)
CHARLES L. WEBSTER & CO.,
3 East 14th Street, New York.

Prof. Loisette's
MEMORY
DISCOVERY AND TRAINING METHOD
In spite of adulterated imitations which miss the theory, and practical results of the Original, in spite of the grossest misrepresentations by envious would-be competitors, and in spite of "base attempts to rob" him of the fruit of his labors, (all of which demonstrate the undoubted superiority and popularity of his teaching), Prof. Loisette's Art of Never Forgetting is recognized to-day in both Hemispheres as marking an Epoch in Memory Culture. His Prospectus (sent post free) gives opinions of people in all parts of the globe who have actually studied his System by correspondence, showing that his System is used only while being studied, not afterwards; that any book can be learned in a single reading, mind-wandering cured, &c. For Prospectus, Terms and Testimonials address
Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

FOR MEN ONLY!
VIGOR AND STRENGTH
For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 24, 1889.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Pittsburg......lv	......	pm *6 30	pm *6 30	am *5 05	......
Wheeling	am *7 35	9 10	9 15	9 05	pm 12 15
Zanesville	10 31	am 12 00	am 12 22	pm 12 30	7 02
Newark	pm 12 30	1 40	1 40	1 45	8 05
Columbus......ar	1 20	2 45	2 45	2 45	9 02
Columbus......lv	am 10 00	pm 11 30	......	am 11 20	10 50
Mansfield	pm 12 57	am 2 37	......	pm 4 04	10 03
Deshler	3 39	5 04	9 20	7 47	am 1 07
Defiance	4 22	5 45	10 15	8 50	1 56
Auburn jc	......	6 40	11 34	10 22	3 08
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	10 47	......
Milford jc	......	......	1 10	am 12 05	4 18
Wellsboro	......	9 02	2 58	2 00	5 40
Chicago......ar	pm 9 45	10 55	5 15	4 30	7 25

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago......lv	am *10 10	pm *3 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro	......	4 44	9 25	am 12 40	7 00
Milford jc	......	......	11 00	2 05	8 23
Avilla	......	......	pm 12 05	3 00	......
Auburn jc	......	7 05	12 38	3 22	9 48
Defiance	pm 3 05	7 55	2 10	4 37	10 48
Mansfield	6 10	11 06	7 17	9 55	12 44
Columbus	*6 50	11 30	11 30	11 20	......
Newark	8 05	am 12 47	am 12 55	pm 12 40	5 00
Zanesville	8 50	1 31	1 43	1 38	6 28
Wheeling......ar	11 45	4 30	4 35	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh......ar	......	7 25	7 25	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington......ar	am 11 45	pm 4 05	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore......ar	pm 12 45	5 20	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia......ar	3 20	7 20	......	11 00	......
New York......ar	5 55	10 00	......	pm 1 45	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Columbus, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't., Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH
L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Dec. 1, 1889.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 22 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 32	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 50	5 42	9 23
Summit	1 01	5 55	10 55
Pleasant Lake	1 10	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 19	6 18	12 06
Fremont	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading	2 04	7 04	3 10
Bankers	2 15	7 15	3 30
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc	2 45	7 39	4 05
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	4 10
Jackson	3 45	8 40	6 08

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.
Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson	6 43 am	11 25 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 14 pm	7 33
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 35
Hillsdale	......	12 30	7 45
Bankers	9 40	12 56	8 01
Reading	10 05	1 17	8 11
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 40
Angola	12 01	1 55	8 52
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 07	9 02
Summit	1 45	2 18	9 12
Waterloo	2 35	2 35	9 22
Auburn	3 45	2 50	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 54	9 36
New Era	4 42	3 06	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.	9:28 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.	8:02 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express	1:22 am..Daily
Logansport Accom	6:33 am—Daily
Mail & Express	12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.	5:12 pm—Daily

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

DR. ELLIOTT'S
MEDICATED FOOD,
A Sure Cure for all Diseases in
HORSES,
Cattle, Sheep and Hogs
Arising from Impurities of the Blood, and from Functional Derangements.
A DEAD SHOT ON WORMS, AND A CERTAIN PREVENTION OF HOG CHOLERA.
SOLD BY
G. W. McKAY & CO., Druggists, Auburn, Ind.
C. HIKE, General Merchandise, East Garrett, Ind.
G. A. LIPSETT, General Store, Fairfield Center, Ind.
S. G. STONE, the Druggist, Butler, Ind.
B. F. BLAIR, Drugs and Notions, Newville, Ind.
O. P. DRAPER, Druggist, Corunna, Ind.
M. TUTISON, General Store, St Joe Station, Ind.

INDURATED FIBRE WARE.
INDESTRUCTIBLE. LIGHT.
NO HOOPS, SEAMLESS.
IMPERVIOUS TO LIQUIDS.
ABSOLUTELY TASTELESS.

INDURATED FIBRE WARE.
ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!
HAS NO HOOPS!
NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!
NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!
HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.
PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.
LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.
CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.
Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.
FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS.
FULL PRICE LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....FEBRUARY 13, 1890.

THE anti-Mormons carried Salt Lake City election Monday. First time.

A FLORIDA farmer has a fine field of corn just tasseled out, and a Florida florist has succeeded in producing a rose that has green flowers.

JUDGE FLEMING was inaugurated governor of West Virginia, at Charleston, last Thursday. From his election in November, 1888, to his inauguration in February, 1890, is quite a space of time, but he hung onto the willows manfully, and after the long contest, can write "Governor" after his name, with all the greater satisfaction for the long delay and hard fight.

THE funeral of Mrs. Tracy and her daughter took place from the White House, to which their remains had been carried, last Wednesday. The Secretary was able to be present, but the daughter, Mrs. Wilmerding, and her little girl were too badly, injured to leave their beds. There were two hearses, and each coffin was in charge of eight sailors in uniform as pall bearers. The President and other members of the cabinet attended.

UP to date not a single republican paper of all our exchanges has even attempted to tell why those manufacturers came before the tariff committee in congress and asked to have the duty kept up or increased. Did these men want a duty that would make them sell their goods cheaper, as republican papers say, or did they want a duty kept up, because it would enable them to sell higher, as democratic papers says? Don't be backward gentlemen!

REPUBLICANS are said to be laying plans to steal the next United States senator from this state, that is, to defeat Voorhees. Two democratic state senators had resigned to accept an office under Cleveland, and at the last election owing to local quarrels two republicans were sent from these districts. Now, the plan is to have these two hold for four years instead of the two for which they were elected. If they can't hold over, two democrats are sure to be chosen So there may be quite a struggle over the matter.

THE UNITED STATES OF BRAZIL, is pretty fresh for a new government. It is now trying to discard our present system of dividing time. They will have 13 months in a year, and 28 days in a month. The months, they will name, Moses, Homer, Aristotle, Archimedes, Cæsar, St. Paul, Charlemagne, Dante, Gutenberg, Shakespeare, Descartes, Frederic and Richat. The days of the week, will be: Marida, Patridi, Filidi, Fratridi, Domidi, Matridi and Humanidi. These names mean, marriage, paternity, sonship, brotherhood, domesticity, love and humanity. The best thing Brazil can do, is to choke off these budding statesmen, or send for old Dom Pedro to return.

THE Waterloo Press has not the courage to acknowledge his inability to answer our question about that Garfield monument having to pay a duty. His sneaking out by saying that he "does not know there is a Garfield monument industry in this country" is very silly. The point will pay to make again, just to see him squirm a little more. The Press has been telling its benighted readers that a duty levied on an article resulted in lowering the price of that article. The Garfield monument folks are trying to get the monument brought into this country free of duty. Our question is: If a duty makes the article cheaper, why not pay the duty on this monument and so get it cheaper? We again ask the Press to tell why the monument committee does not pay this duty and get the monument cheaper, as he says they would. We say, as we have all along said, that the duty would be added to the original cost, and the monument committee would have to pay that much more for it. The issue between the COURIER and the Press is a plain one. The COURIER makes a plain fight, because it is right and can prove its position. The Press makes a cowardly dodge, because it is wrong and cannot sustain its position.

To Indianapolis.

Auburn people have now a better route to Indianapolis, than ever before. The train going south on the Lake Shore road make close connections with the Muncie road at Ft. Wayne. A coach goes through from there to Indianapolis, and a similar arrangement gives a chance to get home without any delay. Similar arrangements are made with regard to Cincinnati. The Lake Shore will likely soon put on another train both to and from Ft. Wayne.

The Auburn Sanitarium.

These now popular baths are being well patronized as people are beginning to realize their value. They afford much of the advantages to be derived from a long and expensive stay at any of the various mineral springs now so much sought after. The treatment is all that could be had anywhere, including hot, cold and medicated waters; steam, Turkish, cabinet and electric baths. Good and skillful attendants are furnished, and one can receive the massage treatment if desired. Good board and furnished rooms can be had near by at reasonable rates. Patients can be treated with almost any mineral desired, and with the skillful medical attendance of two able physicians, Dr. Swarts and his wife Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, patients may feel sure of such relief as is possible for them. Try the Auburn Sanitarium.

Our Lost Merchant Marine.

A writer, Mr. John Sarrell, in a recent number of the Chicago Daily Herald, calls up these facts in regard to our merchant navy, that has now about disappeared from the seas: "Let us look at what protection has done for American shipping and all connected with ships. The writer well remembers when four-fifths of the ships that lay in New York harbor were American built and more than half of them manned by citizens of this republic; when every shipyard on the Atlantic seabord was worked to its fullest capacity; when the flag of my country was seen in every commercial port of he world, and when English merchants bought our ships because of their superiority in speed and price (notwithstanding we paid higher wages). How changed now! If an American desires to go to a foreign country a foreigner will hoist his flag and the citizen must bow his head beneath the alien ensign. Foreign sailors and foreign help of every grade render every service on board. Where are our shipbuilders and the thousand of other laborers who worked in the yards and who provided the material necessary to build those ships that carried our flag east and west, north and south over the world? Their occupation is gone. Our shipbuilding is entirely confined to our local trade instead of supplying the wants of the people of every kindred and tongue. Let Americans study the history of shipbuilding for the last forty years and I think they must come to the conclusion that protection has driven American ships from off the ocean.

Majority and Plurality.

A subscriber asks us to make clear the difference between a "majority" and a "plurality." With pleasure. A man who gets a "majority" vote gets more than all the other candidates together Say three men are running for township trustee, and 200 votes are cast in all, of which A gets 90, B 80, and C 30. In this case no one has a majority, for that would be 101, for a majority must be more than a half of all. And if a majority were necessary to elect, no one would be elected on this vote. But in ordinary political election a mere plurality will elect. A "plurality" is a vote higher than any other one person gets. In the case given, A has more than B, who is next to him on the list, and therefore A has a plurality, and hence he is elected. In some companies and societies, however, a majority is necessary to elect. This is the rule in the Auburn fair. At the recent election of officers, the vote for secretary stood: Husselman 109, Rogers 89, Lanning 15, with 5 scattering; total, 218 votes. Husselman had exactly half, of all. Had he received 1 more, he would have had a "majority" or more than all the rest put together. But he lacked that one vote and a second ballot was had. In an ordinary political election he would have been elected on the first vote, as he had a plurality, or more votes than any other one person. The reason a mere plurality is considered sufficient in ordinary elections, is the fact that it must be settled on that very day if possible, so as not to call another election. Minority means less than half, in its ordinary sense. In the present House of Representatives at Washington, the republicans have a little more than half, and of course the democrats have a little less than half. The republicans can therefore outvote the democrats. The republicans have a majority and are said to be "in the majority," while the democrats are "in the minority." The terms majority and plurality are liable to be used carelessly, the one for the other; but we think the explanation above given will make it plain.

The Voice of the people on Wine.

It is a well known fact that wines above all other liquors are grossly adulterated, but when a pure article is placed on the market and people find it to be pure, they all with one voice recommend it. The Port Grape Wine from the vineyard of Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., has received the unqualified endorsement of the medical faculty and of thousands of invalids who have been won back to health by their use. For sale by druggists.

A leading Chinaman in New York, being chaffed on his custom of spreading a splendid feast for Joss, replied with a broad celestial grin: "Chinaman feedee his god; lazy christian man waitee for his god to feedee him."

NEW BAKERY!

Saturday, Feb. 15,

I will open to the public, my New Bakery in Louis Brown's old stand on West Seventh St., Auburn, where will be found a large and fresh stock of everything in the bakery line, such as

Fresh Bread,
Fresh Pies,
Fresh Cakes,
Fresh Cookies
And Candies, Nuts,
Tobacco and Cigars.

I kindly solicit a share of the public patronage, extending to all a cordial invitation to call and see me when in need of anything in my line. Yours truly,

B. BAKER.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Rev. H. C. Smith went to Ft. Wayne Monday.

Alvaro Seery will move to town and work in the broom factory.

Drs. Chamberlain, Darby and Hughs went to Auburn last Monday.

C. S. Harper has been elected vice-foreman in the broom factory.

Frank Fisk is home from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Ab. Kelley has opened his large sugar camp, so look out for maple molasses.

G. T. Abbey has taken up his cellar drain and is replacing it with another.

Dr. Yeagy has several fine colts for sale. Call and see him if you wish to buy.

Mr. Bundy moved last Monday into the property he purchased of Mr. Jackman.

D. H. Haul, of Ray, was in town last Thursday on his way home from Elkhart.

Mr. Hartwick's outside showcase is very attractive, taking the eye of all passersby.

Word just reaches us that Capt. E. B Cutter, of Evansville, is rapidly nearing death.

Wm. Dye and Miss Flora Speer have been elected class leaders in the U. B. church of this place.

The first sleighs of the season since Thanksgiving made their appearance on our streets last Saturday.

A. V. Sinclair has purchased the Richard Shull property. He was moving into it Monday of this week.

The Waterloo Boxing Club is in full blast. Some of the members are wearing prize medals for first blood.

Leander Southworth, a substantial farmer from near Reading, Mich., was in town last week on his way to Elkhart.

Jacob Hoover, our former townsman, was here last Monday. It seems quite natural to see him on our streets again.

Rev. D. B. Keller is home and reports church matters prospering in his district. A number of the preachers are having good revivals.

Miss L. Emma Cartright, an estimable young lady of Montgomery, Mich., was here over Sunday, the guest of Dr. Carpenter's family.

Mrs. Faith Marsh, wife of John Marsh, died last Wednesday morning of puerpureal convulsions. The funeral occurred Saturday.

Dr. Broughton has purchased of "Mother Sauders" her property on Wayne street, now occupied by Judge McBride as an office.

Repairs are progressing nicely on the Evangelical church. It is ready for papering, and when completed will be very much improved, making it a fine building.

Several gentlemen from Kendallville were here Monday, looking after the interests of the proposed new extension of the Wabash railroad from Butler to Chicago.

Willie E. Timmerman is prepared to put new bottoms in cane chairs. This work is equal to the best. Call and see him at his rooms over Dr. Carpenter's drug store, if in need of such work.

The many friends of Rev. J. S. Tedrow will be sorry to learn that he is sick with typhoid fever at his home in Churubusco. This is the same disease that his daughter Jennie died with a short time since.

Counsel for the U. B. church in the trial at Richmond, Ind., withdrew the suit last week before trial, so it can now be re-entered and tried before another judge. The radicals have dropped the fight on "secrecy" and are making their issue on the "confession of faith."

Mrs. Rose Shull will be given a farewell reception Saturday evening by the ladies of the Chautauqua Circle at the residence of Judge McBride. There will be a literary program besides the social features. She has long been a member of the society, and her co-workers in the field of literature part from her with regret.

The Ladies' Minerva Club held their regular election of officers on Tuesday evening of last week, resulting as follows: president, S. C. S. Winslow; vice-president, Rena Smith; secretary, Rose Blair; treasurer, Emma Keep; critic, Olive C. Jackman; custodian of queries, Mattie Maxson. The general attendance is good and much interest is manifested in the studies.

R. M. Lockhart, who is a member of the State Board of Agriculture, went to Indianapolis last Monday to attend a meeting of the board. He has served eight terms of two years each, and is now commencing on his ninth term. There is but one other member of the board who has served so long. He states the society is in excellent condition, the grounds being worth nearly half a million dollars.

The young man who left the cars here or was put off sick some days ago, and has since been cared for by the trustees, died Wednesday morning of last week at the residence of S. Barnhart. There is something very sad, even pathetic, as we think of it in such a death among strangers. Time was when he was a mother's darling, mayhap a father's pride. He commenced writing a letter to his mother, as the writer was informed, but laid it aside unfinished, saying there was trouble and it was his fault. That he left home having $400, but had drunk and gambled it all away and was on his way to his father's in Pennsylvania when he reached here sick. His sad story should hold words of warning to young men and boys.

BUTLER.

Miss Carrie Hazlet still remains in very poor health.

L. Cole has returned from a three weeks visit in New York.

Miss Jessie Beyer is slowly recovering from her recent severe illness.

Jacob Click was caught in a railroad smash up near Piqua, Ohio, and seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Britton, of Holly, Mich., have been the guests of Mrs. B's mother the past week.

John Baxter and two bright little sons, of Auburn, were calling on friends in Butler Monday.

Mr. Strole, trustee of Stafford township, made a business trip to Auburn on Monday evenning.

The little daughter of Benjamin Oberlin's, of whose serious illness mention was recently made, is slowly improving.

Al. Barns, living three miles north of town had the misfortune last week to have a horse fall upon him breaking his leg.

Mrs. A. Plum, of Butler, passed several days this week in Auburn with friends and with her father, who was badly hurt by the running away of his horses.

Fireman Beech, who had the misfortune to injure his hand, has been spending a few days in Deerfield, Mich., with his sister, who is very low with consumption.

Peter Barnhart, who recently erected a fine dwelling on the south side and moved from his farm in the south part of the township is seriously ill with the result of la gripp.

The Church of God are holding a protracted effort at their church with some success. The M. E church closed their meetings with moderate success. Their new church will be ready to occupy within thirty days.

Leonard Ocker, son of Silas Ocker of this place, is reported dangerously ill at Plymouth, Indiana, the result of la grippe terminating in pneumonia. Jasper Ocker, his brother left for his bedside on Monday morning.

NEWVILLE.

Plunket and Pelly carry the little white jug, but unfortunately for them, it is empty two-thirds of the time.

John Q. has concluded under the circumstances not to pay Bill R., as Bill R has got more to live on till spring than John Q. has.

A grand tornado, and the old man who predicted a mild, damp winter, has one more prediction to make, for we are aware we have snow. Where is uncle John.

Question: Is it right, if a man hauls logs to a sawmill, legally owning said logs, and someone orders the logs not to be sawed, for the mill man to refuse to saw them? Had the mill owner ought ever to have any logs to saw? If the matter is not answered soon in a legitimate way, the parties will find there is a time they will wish they had.

Lawrence Gibson was awakened from his slumbers on the couch by the voice of some one hallooing "murder" the other night. He went to investigate the matter, and found that Dave and Jane had got into a family fight, and the children, poor little innocent ones, were crying "murder." And we do not blame them, for Dave had Jane by the throat and was choking the life out of her. Now it is high time this thing should be stopped. Some one must see to this matter, for it is a public nuisance.

It has been handed down from generation to generation, and always will be that people will talk. But Bonny takes the cake. Hollis B Akins lives on a farm three miles from town. His birthday came on Friday, Feb. 7th. But as his good wife had to attend to her school on that day, she and her kind friends set Saturday, the 8th, to have a surprise for him. It was arranged that Mrs. Mell. Whitehurst was to do part of the inviting in town. So she started, and of course invited Geo. Bartlett with others. By the way, George is in the silver trade and had to go away. So George called Bonny and said, "Bonny, I am going away. If you see Hollis, tell him there is to be a surprise at his house" This was the eve of the first invitation, Wednesday. That same evening the first man Bonny saw was Hollis. "Hello, Hollis, you are going to have a birthday surprise at your house." Hollis, of course, the next morning commenced inviting his own folks to the party. It was so arranged that they all turned out just the same, and they had a grand a time. Plenty of everything fancy and nice to eat. King Samuel made the speech over the grand hanging lamp that was presented, and H. B. thanked them and was well pleased. Mrs. L Countryman was queen of the hour. A collection was then raised to pay for the lamp, to which all gave freely. We then had a good, old fashioned time and family visit. Later we all commenced hunting our wraps and went home, thinking where we would meet again.

ST. JOE.

The M. P. people held their third quarterly meeting last Saturday and Sunday.

M. T. Bishop, wife and son Charles were at the Hub one day and night the middle of last week.

Some of the many friends of George Hamm, of Garrett, were visiting with him over last Sabbath.

A. F. Woodcox has gone to Millersburg, Ind., to see his brother, Dr. N. C., who is reported quite sick.

A series of meetings will soon commence at the Lutheran church in this place, to be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Nelson.

Ben. Leighty was at home last Sunday on a visit to his family. Ben. is employed by the B. & O. at North Baltimore, Ohio, as night watchman.

Commissioner Hoffelder was in town on Thursday of last week. He was called here by Commissioner Platter to attend to some bridge matter which Platter was unable to attend to, owing to sickness.

The protracted meeting held by the Christian church and just closed, resulted in several accessions to the church at this place, among others, Mahlon Baker and wife, A. M. Dermott and wife, Sam Warner, wife and daughter and Isaac Meese.

Some sneak thieves broke into the hardware store of Bishop & Kagy last Thursday morning and got away with all the pocket cutlery, some scissors and all the lead pencils that the firm had in their show cases. They effected an entrance by breaking out a pane of glass in the door and then turning the key which had been left in the door, which was locked from the inside.

The B. & O. had quite a wreck here early Friday morning. As a freight train was coming down the hill east of town, they somehow broke in two, and as the forward part stopped at the tank to take water, the rear part crashed into them, smashing to pieces two empty box cars and bursting two oil tanks, one of which was thrown down the bank. The escaping oil sent out its sweet tainted smell all over town and the surrounding country, so all, both great and small, had their share. It is said that even the senior editor of the News got a sniff about 10 o'clock and hastened down to see what the matter was.

CONCORD.

The Gifford House is in full blast again.

C. Keller is home from his visit in the east.

W. Baker is visiting relatives near Auburn.

E. J. Boyle is back from Waldron, Michigan.

A little queen arrived at Al. King's on Friday last.

Miss Apple, of Auburn, is the guest of Emma Knight.

Milt. Wasson left last Saturday for his home in California.

Mrs. Mansfield will shortly join her husband in Toledo, Ohio.

Birdie Fetters was at Auburn last Monday on a business trip.

Ida and Della Koch have returned from visiting relatives in Waterloo.

Miss Emma Tastison paid her sister, Mrs. James Johnson a visit last week.

Mr and Mrs. F. Buchanan attended quarterly meeting at St. Joe last Sabbath.

Jim. Wyatt was at Hicksville, Ohio, last Wednesday, he seemed to enjoy the trip hugely.

Roy Johnson visited his two cousins, George Jenkins and Willie Johnson of St. Joe last Saturday and Sunday.

Tell Elson took advantage of the snow last Sunday, he even had his bells on so all could see him and his fine team.

Mr. R. B. Clear, of Churubusco, will occupy the Mansfield residence. We heartly welcome them in our midst.

Mrs. E E. Wilson, of Marion, Indiana, and Mrs. C. A. Jenkins, of St. Joe, were visiting their many relatives here last week.

SUMMIT.

O. Grambling is better at this writing.

There will be a wedding in these parts in the near future.

J. Strickmen, from north of Hudson, was here on Monday.

Miss Swift, of Eaton Rapids, Mich., is here visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Rose.

Mrs. G. H. McDougle visited her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lawson, one day last week.

Mrs Wes. McDougle, of Pleasant Lake, visited friends in this place, a few days last week.

Mrs. F. N. Rose, who has been under the doctor's care the past week is slowly improving.

A. Coonrod, who has been in Washington Territory for some time returned home last Saturday.

SPENCERVILLE.

Michael Vesper made a business trip to Auburn last week.

Erick Bros. hauled their clover seed to Ft. Wayne Monday.

J. N. Hursh, our popular butcher, went to Ft. Wayne Monday morning.

Ed. Beams and wife have been visiting friends at Huntertown during the past week.

John Wilson and wife, of Wilmington, visited with friends in this vicinity over Sunday.

Frank Bogan, having an antipathy for hard work, has purchased a Zimmerman wind pump.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Kale returned home Tuesday from an extended visit among friends in Ohio.

Theodore Kepler has bought a lot of Joseph Spitler, and will build a house on it this spring.

Ezra Horn has taken the agency for a patent medicine, and will move to Columbia City in the Spring.

The woman's missionary society of the M. E church was entertained by Mrs. R. Chaney last Thursday afternoon.

There are indications of a change among our business men in the near future. Who will be Nasby then?

Communion services were held in the Lutheran church Sunday. There were eight accessions to the protracted meeting.

Unclaimed Letters.

List of letters remaining uncalled for at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice for the week ending Feb. 11, 1890: George Harney D. Brink, Charles H. Eckert, Mrs. Mary French, Evan Jones, John Masters.

Persons calling for the above letters will please say advertised

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of John H. Smith, Franklin township, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, State of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Tuesday, the 4th day of March, 1890, the same being the 2d day of their March term. 1890.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit: Beginning three hundred eighty (380) feet north of the center of section twenty-three [23] township thirty-five [35] north of range fourteen [14] east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence as follows:

No.	Course.	Distance.
1	south 84 degrees east	400 feet
2	north 80 degrees east	100 feet
3	north 67 degrees east	100 feet
4	north 70 degrees east	100 feet
5	north 72 degrees east	450 feet
6	north 60 degrees east	200 feet
7	east	250 feet
8	south 40 degrees east	210 feet
9	south 30 degrees east	190 feet
10	south 44 degrees east	150 feet
11	south 52 degrees east	150 feet
12	south 43 degrees east	300 feet
13	south 62 degrees east	300 feet
14	south 16 degrees east	500 feet
15	south 14 degrees east	200 feet
16	south	900 feet
17	south 50 degrees east	500 feet
18	east	150 feet
19	south 70 degrees east	50 feet
20	south 48 degrees east	150 feet
21	south	3050 feet
22	south 30 degrees west	100 feet
23	west	1000 feet
24	south 37 degrees west	400 feet
25	south 10 degrees west	600 feet
26	south 36 degrees west	450 feet
27	south 4 degrees west	1450 feet
28	south 30 degrees west	900 feet
29	south 58 degrees west	100 feet
30	north 80 degrees west	500 feet
31	north 58 degrees west	400 feet
32	north 81 degrees west	500 feet
33	north 65 degrees west	150 feet
34	north 84 degrees west	750 feet
35	south 72 degrees west	500 feet
36	south 50 degrees west	100 feet
37	south 40 degrees west	300 feet
38	south 46 degrees west	200 feet
39	south 40 degrees west	450 feet
40	south 57 degrees west	250 feet
15	south 52 degrees west	130 feet
16	south 30 degrees west	270 feet
17	south 12 degrees west	500 feet
18	south 20 degrees east	300 feet
19	south	200 feet
20	south 10 degrees east	100 feet
21	south	100 feet
22	south 12 degrees east	200 feet
23	south 5 degrees west	200 feet
24	south 40 degrees west	200 feet
25	south 20 degrees west	300 feet
26	south 5 degrees east	100 feet
27	south 21 degrees east	100 feet
28	south 44 degrees east	100 feet

Ending eighty [80] rods north and twenty [20] rods west of the southeast corner of section thirty-four [34] township thirty-five [35] north of range fourteen [14] east, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following named persons:

Edwin C Potter
George Firestone
Catharine Klinkle
Jacob Marks
Samuel K Firestone
James Myers
John H Smith
Josiah Neidig
Samuel Healey
Celinda McCurdy
John Wagoner
John J Werrbaugh
Isaac Nelson
Clark and Jane Porter heirs whose names are Jane Casebeer Mabel Porter and perhaps others unknown
Benjamin Wiss
Martin Hook
Charles Rohrbaugh
Benjamin Casey
Samuel Moody
William R Mitchell
John D Mitchell
Rebecca Mitchell
Thirsa Mitchell
Jay Kepler
Henry Smith
Julia Ashbey
James V Lewis
Ida Lewis
F Marion Haverstock
Lizzie L Norford
George and Louisa Deems
Samuel Haverstock heirs whose names are as follows
Jonathan Haverstock
Francis M Haverstock
Samuel G Haverstock
Robert A Haverstock
Mary Sattison
Martha Sattison
Malissa A Kelley and Phœbe Haverstock
Elias Kepler
Charles Imhoof
Charles Wagoner
Mare S Graves
John M Brown
Samuel Narogon
Robert A Haverstock
Jefferson Beard trustee
Samuel G Haverstock
Charles Oster
Edwin Lowe
John and Eliza A Huntington
Benjamin F Firestone
Jacob Wagoner heirs or, James Walter
Frederick D Oberlin
Oliver & Orrin Oberlin
John Lowe
Elliot & Elizabeth Kellogg
William Oberlin
Jacob Slentz
Mary A King
William B
Florence Platt
Jonathan Haverstock

C. C. WALTER,
Auditor DeKalb County.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to return our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends and good neighbors, who gave us their help during the sickness and death of our loved one. We assure you their kind offerings shall never be forgotten.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID HOUGH AND FAMILY.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

—HAVE YOU—
ARTIFICIAL TEETH?

For 35 cents you can enjoy life, notwithstanding.

Buy a FLORENCE DENTAL PLATE BRUSH

If you cannot find it, send for circulars. Brush sent by mail on receipt of price.

It is a Marvelous Brush.

For Natural Teeth

Those who have the whitest Teeth

—USE—

The Prophylactic TOOTH BRUSHES.

Florence Mfg. Co.
Florence, Mass.

"THE BLIZZARD."

PRICES:

No. 0 for Nos. 0 and 1 shoes	$2.50	per set of 4.
No. 1 for Nos. 2, 3 and 4 shoes	2.50	" "
No. 2 for Nos. 5 and 6 shoes	3.00	" "

The wear is all on the points which can be renewed for 25 cents per set of 16 by mail or 15 cents per set by express.

Can be fastened to any shoe. Easily and quickly put on or removed.

Will enable the driver to drive his horses in safety on icy roads while those without are waiting their turn at the Blacksmith's to have theirs shod.

Sent by express on receipt of price.

The BEECHER MFG. CO. Meriden, Conn.

FOR DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS
JOHNSTON'S
ROYAL ENGLISH
BUCHU

Will cure all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Burning Urine, Gleet, Gonorrhœa in all its stages, Mucous Discharges, Congestion of the Kidneys, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy of Kidneys and Acid Urine, Bloody Urine, PAIN IN THE BACK, Retention of Urine Frequent Urination, Gravel in all its forms, Inability to Retain the Water, particularly in persons advanced in life. IT IS A KIDNEY INVESTIGATOR and restores the Urine to its natural color, removes the acid and burning, and the effect of the excessive use of intoxicating drink.

PRICE $1; Three Bottles for $2.50

Delivered free of any charges.

Send for Circular. Sold by all Druggists

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Detroit, Mich

A Net Profit of $950,000.

[Laporte Argus.]

PITTSBURG, PA., Jan. 31.—The profits of the Pittsburg Plate Glass company, as shown in the reports submitted to the meeting of the stockholders, were nearly $1,000,000. Regular dividends to the amount of 23 per cent were paid during the year, and to-day a special dividend of 11⅓ per cent was declared, making in round figures $950,000 net profit for 1889.

The above press dispatch has a significance that should not escape public attention, for it is only a sample of its kind. A similar one was sent out from a group of cotton mills in Massachusetts. This plate glass concern is protected from foreign competion by a tariff of fully one hundred per cent, and the way it puts up prices under this exclusion of competition is shown very plainly by the enormous profits returned to the stockholders of this company. "Regular dividend of 23 per cent, and a special dividend of 11⅓ per cent," or a total of 33⅓ per cent a year! Think of that, you men who buy glass, and then decide whether a high tariff benefits you, or whether the benefits all go to the other fellow.

A Chester, Pa., tailor some time ago closed his place and put up a sign: "Will be back in an hour." The next heard from him he was in Tacoma, Wash.

★ TANK HEATER,
A GREAT SAVING
TO ALL CATTLE FEEDERS.

Stockmen who have used this Heater say they would not do without them at any price.

Sectional view below shows how the flame and smoke is carried around under the bottom, giving great heating surface. No sparks leave the heater. One firing will last from 5 to 7 days. Any boy can operate. No progressive farmer can afford to be without one. Investigate and you will surely buy one.

COSTS FROM 2c TO 5c PER DAY. 4 SIZES.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR AND PRICES.

O. P. BENJAMIN & BRO.;
LAFAYETTE, IND.

—YOUR—
CRAYON PORTRAIT
NICELY
FRAMED IN BRONZE OR GILT.

Plush Border. Size, 24 x 28 inches.

☞ For $3.00 ☜

As fine as any Artist will sell for $10.00.

(ALMOST ANY DEALER CAN SHOW YOU ONE.)

BY SAVING 25 COUPONS OF
PROVOST'S
Cream Washing Powder.

ONLY COSTS 5c PER PACKAGE.

One Coupon in Every Package. Unexcelled in Quality and Quantity.

Ask Your GROCER For it.

If he does not have it, write to us and we will see that you get it.

WARREN PROVOST & CO.,
26-30 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

PERFUMES
—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—
LAND OF FLOWERS!
DOUSSAN'S
Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles,
EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!
LUNEAS! NEVADA!
IMPERIAL PINK!
ROUSSEL ROSE
EDEN BOUQUET!
LILY OF THE VALLEY!
All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

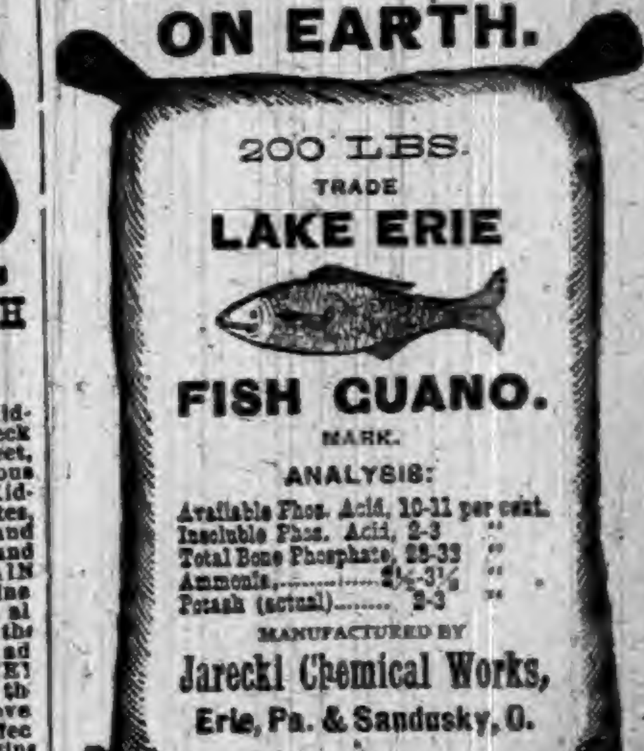
The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a cobweb, Lasting as the hills."

☞ If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.
46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

—THE BEST—
FERTILIZER
ON EARTH.



Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly,

For February, 1890. "Brazil and the Braganzas," written by the Hon. George Makepeace Towle, and superbly illustrated with portraits, views and autograph fac similes, leads off the February (Midwinter) number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly with admirable timeliness. It is the first complete and illustrated magazine paper on the subject that has appeared since the revolution of Nov. 14. An article on the Smithsonian Institution and the National Museum at Washington is full of interesting information which every American ought to possess. The biographical papers are a sketch of Louisa M. Alcott's noble and fruitful life, and a delightful account of the boyhood of the poet Schiller. "The Land of the Lute," written and illustrated by Herbert Pierson, gives an artist's reminiscences of a sojourn in fair Provence, the home of the Troubadours, the ancient Rome of Gaul, and the birthplace of the redoubtable Tartarin of Tarascon. A. L. Rawson contributes a racy Oriental paper, illustrated with his own sketches, and Prof. L. B. Fletcher gives an entertaining "Talk on Photography." There are novelettes by Lucy Hooper, W. H. Siviter, Etta W. Pierce and others; poems by Douglas Sladen, Carlotta Perry and the Ex Emperor Dom Pedro, of Brazil; together with the usual departments, all full and varied.

"FOR THE LADIES."

We are showing pretty line of

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

—Consisting of—

GOWNS, SKIRTS, CHEMISES, DRAWERS, CORSET·COVERS.

—ALSO—

Infants' Long and Short Dresses,

Which we offer at a very small advance above cost of material.

New Dress Goods,
New Dress Ginghams,
Outing Cloths and Satines,
New Jersey Jackets
New Embroideries and Laces.

Special low prices on all heavy winter goods.
Every Cloak goes at one-half off the regular price

W. P. Harter & Co.
East of Court House,
AUBURN, - - IND.

WE DO NOT CROW
BECAUSE WE HAVE THE LARGEST STOCK OF CLOTHING IN THE COUNTY, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE THE BEST, AND CAN SELL YOU A SUIT FOR LESS MONEY THAN YOU CAN BUY ELSEWHERE.

If You want to Save Money During 1890
BUY YOUR CLOTHING AND GENTS' FURNISHINGS OF
SCHAAB & MURPHY, Auburn, Ind.

Closing Sales!
25 and 40 per cent
DISCOUNTS

To show you what we are doing to make room for our new spring goods.

$1.00 Gents' All-Wool Scarlet Underwear, reduced to 75 cts.

$1.00 Gents' Swiss Conde Brown mixed Underwear for 75 cents each.

Line of Gents' all-wool half hose, Price 25 cents per pair, reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Line of Ladies' fine Cashmere hose 25 cents per pair, now reduced to 15 cents per pair.

Mrs. Jones & Son,
WEST SIDE OF SQUARE
AUBURN, - INDIANA.

LOCAL NEWS.

Monte Cristo Thursday evening.

Candee or Boston rubber boots at Wilson's $2 30. 7-9

The C. L. S. C. will meet this week with Mrs. F. J. Yesbera.

B. Baker's new bakery, at Brown's old stand, Seventh street, Auburn.

Another stock of baby carriages just received at Robbins & McCord's. 7-9

Druggists claim larger sales for Hill's Buchu than any other medicine.

Who wants them? We have a few 6 and 8 foot show cases to sell at a bargain Robbins & McCord. (6 8)

Loose's Red Clover Pills, cure sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation; 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Robt. McDougall next Friday afternoon from 2 till 5. Please bring your thimbles.

The first load of brick for the new Kiblinger building came in Monday morning. It was rough hauling, but business is business, with the Groscop boys.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

If you want the most liberal Fire Policy ever issued by a responsible company on dwelling, household or farm property, call on, or address, J. A. Campbell at Butler, Ind. tf

Loose's Red Clover Pill Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated, and protruding piles.—Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The Monte Cristo company will be at the Opera House three nights, beginning Friday, Feb. 13. No better company on the road, and the play, Monte Cristo, for the first night, is considered the masterpiece of the famous Alexandre Dumas.

A New Discovery: Weak and deranged livers, stomachs and bowels should never be acted on by irritants like common pills, bran, etc. Miles' Pills cure liver complaint, constipation, piles, etc., by a new method. Samples free at F E. Davenport's

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

Abstract work and real estate business promptly and carefully attended to by D Z. Hoffman. Long experience in this line of work will make his services valuable. If you have land or town property to sell or trade, if you want an abstract of your title or anything a notary public can do, call on D. Z. Hoffman, Auburn, Ind. tf

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

See Wilson's $2 calf boot, it can't be beat. 7-9

I have Poland China pigs of all ages for sale. Don't forget it. CAL. HUSSELMAN, Auburn.

A desirable residence with lot, in Auburn for sale at a sacrifice. Inquire of Mrs. Fannie Smith.

Monday morning the mercury showed ten above zero, and clear weather, turning warm that day.

John Shugers reports a pull of the grip all around, everyone of his family having had a full siege.

Wanted, 500 live pigeons. Call on or address H. B. McCord, sec'y Auburn Gun Club, at Robbins & McCord's. (6 8)

The great Sub-Tropical Exposition at Jacksonville, Florida, is now running. It lasts from January to May.

Billy Miller, one of our barbers, has a relapse of the grip. Peggy Armstrong is temporarily filling his place at Charlie Pommert's.

O. P. Sisson, whose comedy company was to have played "Wild Oats" here a week or two ago, plays for the Indianapolis folks next week.

Mrs. Earle got her divorce from Graham Earle, at Rochester, last week. We suppose she will call herself "Agatha Singleton," as before.

As soon as you discover any falling of the hair or grayness always use Hall's Hair Renewer to tone up the secretions and prevent baldness or grayness.

Bert Baker opens up the Louis Brown bakery Saturday of this week, and will keep a full line of fresh bread, cakes, confectionery, etc. etc. See his advertisement.

One hundred different styles of baby carriages to select from at Foster's Furniture store, Fort Wayne, Ind. Prices one-third less than they can be had elsewhere.

Rev. H. M. Lamport went to Bristol on Tuesday, to assist his brother in holding a series of meetings. He will return however in time to hold regular services in his own church next Sunday.

Josiah Boyer, came down from Fairfield Monday. He started to come with a team, his wife driving him to Summit, but about half way there he was glad to get out and finish the trip on foot.

T. C. Ford was in town this week visiting his old neighbors. He says that G. W. Lewis has now moved to Hicksville and is with them, so they are all so situated as to take things easy and enjoy life.

For the restoration of faded and gray hair to its original color and freshness, Ayer's Hair Vigor remains unrivaled. This is the most popular and valuable preparation in the world; all who use it are perfectly satisfied that it is the best.

A beautiful young lady became so sadly disfigured with pimples and blotches that it was feared she would die of grief. A friend recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which she took and was completely cured. She is now one of the fairest of the fair.

Frank Hough, near the Junction, is very sick with pleura pneumonia. His brother died last Wednesday, and Frank was so low that he did not know of his brother's death, and does not yet. He was lying in the same room with him. He is now improving.

People with cash in hand should avoid stores which do a credit business. The only house in Fort Wayne, in the furniture trade which is conducted on the cash system, is the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co. Consequently you find no credit prices in their establishment.

No house in the state of Indiana deals so largely in carpets as the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., Fort Wayne, La Fayette and Terre Haute, Ind. They show handsomer patterns, larger assortments, better goods and lower prices than can be found anywhere else, not even excepting the larger cities.

Mr. Schrock still keeps inventing devices connected with windmill machinery. He has just perfected a new regulator to be used on windmills to regulate the supply of water. Several mills have a device of this kind already, but some have none. Mr. Schrock feels certain he will find plenty of demand among windmill men for his latest and best one. We hope it will prove an abundant success.

Britton Division, No. 138. Order of Railroad Conductors will hold their fifth annual charity ball at Wagner's Opera House in Garrett Thursday, Feb. 27. A train will carry free all who hold tickets for the ball, starting at the Lake Shore depot in Auburn at 7:30 p. m., and returning at 1 o'clock to the same depot. This will give easy transportation to all who wish to go. The tickets to the ball are $1.

Geo. Shugers, of this place, is one of the forty who guessed correctly on the weight of that horse. It will be remembered that a Toledo cigar firm sent a photo of a horse and buggy, to each establishment that sold their brand of cigars, and promised a prize to the one that could guess its weight. Forty persons out of the thousands, who tried, got it right, 1372½ lbs. Now comes the struggle to see which of the fortunate forty is the fortunate one.

The popular five-act drama Monte Cristo at the Opera House, Thursday evening by McCallum's superb company. This is one of the best plays ever produced here, and Mr. McCallum's company is one of the very best. A part of the company, were members of the popular Loranger troupe, that came here New Years. It was a strong company and they were very successful in spite of the fact that Mr. Loranger and several others were sick with the grip. Mr. Loranger, it will be remembered, never recovered. But he and the company left a very pleasant impression here among theater going people. We hope they will have full houses. They play here Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, with a change of program each evening.

S. B. Johnston, dentist, at Waterloo, Thursdays and Fridays tf

Ladies, Wilson sells fine shoes cheap. See his $1.50 shoe, worth $2.25. 7-9

Just think of it! Robbins & McCord are selling baby carriages this season from $2.50 up. 7-9

Mrs. Frederick Groscop, at the old home two miles northwest of town, will sell her personal property, on Saturday, February, 28.

Robbins & McCord are selling baby carriages so cheap that everybody can afford to buy one. Only think of it! From $2.50 up. 7 9

The ladies who gave the social at the Presbyterian church Friday, were well patronized in spite of bad weather, and much sickness. They cleared about $15.

We had a good visit with our old friend Anton Hablawetz on Monday. He is, enjoying life in his usual hearty way, and his good wife at home is also in good health.

Who struck Patterson, we cannot tell; but we can positively assure you that if Ganter's magic chicken cholera cure fails your money will be refunded by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

The L. L. C. will meet with Mrs. A. Lewis this week. Subject, Greece, Mrs. Houser, leader. Present political situation, Mrs. Lewis. Original four-line stanzas on winter, by the class.

Mrs C. H. Jackson, of Angola and son Howard, came over here Friday, and Mr. Jackson came Saturday, remaining over Sunday. All are in the enjoyment of a good visit we presume, for they have a host of friends here.

Laporte Argus: "On the Michigan Central railway they are about to try the experiment of running ordinary passenger coaches by electricity. The storage battery system will be used and the run will be from Detroit to Chicago and return.

The first loads of brick for the new rooms east of the postoffice, came on Monday. Charlie and Fred Groscop are to furnish the brick for this building. There will be three rooms, William Shelfer's and then the two east of him, belonging to Nickey & Gandy.

John Lahnum, our young townsman, is still on the wing. We received the Vicksburg, Miss., Evening Post, of Jan. 29, containing this notice: "Mr. John D. Lahnum, representing Clarke's Extracts Company, of Chicago, is in the city and favored the Post with a call to-day."

"There are some editors whose feeble intellect teaches them that antagonism to individuals is vindication of moral and political questions." This was quoted last week by the Dispatch. We wonder if it "has reference to allusions" about the Dispatch's attack on those officers who said an applicant for license was a suitable man?

Dr. Lyman Beecher used to prepare himself for writing a sermon by sawing half a cord, more or less, of wood. Exercise, in most cases, is an admirable tonic, but it will not supersede the necessity of proper medicines. The most valuable of this is Johnston's Compound Sarsaparilla, the virtues of which are certified to by thousands who have tried it.

Pension Agent Ensley came home Saturday and remained over Sunday, going back on the Lake Shore road. His son, O. P. Ensley, his chief deputy was obliged to remain to attend to business, as his work is very important and cannot be neglected. Mr. Ensley says that the chief clerk under Mr. Zollinger, was absent from duty but two days in his entire term.

The Chicago Daily Herald has this item, and we are wondering whether our friend Dr. Richard Elson, is the dentist who enjoyed the blowout. "A patient was suffering quietly in a dentist's chair, one mild January afternoon, in Canton, Ohio, when he was suddenly expelled, the operator and several of his household effects accompanying him. After quiet had been restored it was found that a vulcanizer had exploded with great force, tearing a large hole in the wall and making a wreck of the dentist's office."

T. P. Scott says that as sad a funeral as he has conducted was that of David Hough's son, last Friday. About all the family were sick, some of them seriously and dangerously so, and everything had to be quiet so as not to disturb them. Mr. Hough himself was very sick, and another son so bad that he was not permitted to know of his brother's death. The neighbors, however, turned out and did all they could for the afflicted family, and in spite of the hard snow storm there was a large attendance at the grave.

The Dispatch seems hard to please. After complaining about those fair assessments, it now says they were not paid, mainly because the "notification that the January assessement was due, was involved in a long report of the proceedings of the officers of the fair and was not understood to be an assessment." But the Dispatch itself published this "long report," about three inches in length, containing these words: "All subscriptions for stock were ordered to be paid in monthly installments of 10 per cent commencing January 1, 1890." It seems to us that this is as plain as anything could be made. The COURIER published the report also, and understood it perfectly.

Simp. Johnson, one of our most popular young bachelors, will be married today, Thursday, Feb. 13, to Miss Ola Elson, daughter of T. C. Elson, a former well known resident of this county. The wedding is at the home of the bride's parents, at Buchanan, Mich., and the happy couple will at once return to Auburn, arriving Friday afternoon over the Lake Shore road. "Simp." has a cosy home all fitted up to receive him and his wife. Our people will make them welcome, and we trust they will find the people of Auburn good neighbors, and that they will never regret making their home among us.

We have a bran new stock of valentines this year. Robbins & McCord. (6)

Wm. Carr's daughter, who has been very sick with pneumonia, is now getting better.

Meetings at the Baptist church stilll continue. There have been many accessions.

If you want a baby carriage, save big money and go to Robbins & McCord's drug store. 7-9

There have been several accessions during the present protracted meeting at the Church of God.

A few sleds started out last Saturday, but soon gave it up. Two inches of snow and three inches of hubs.

A telegram came yesterday from Angola, that the Beard and Rakestraw suit had been put off till next term.

Our subscribers who are to bring wood, should not forget it. There is a day now and then that the roads are passable.

The Hoosier Fire company give their fifth annual ball Feb. 21, at the Opera House. They always have a pleasant time.

Rev. D. F. Kain will preach at the new Lutheran church next Sunday morning and evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Zent stated on a trip to Florida, Saturday evening. They expect to remain several weeks in the "Land of Flowers."

Kiblinger contracted for the lumber needed in building his new factory yesterday. It takes 70,000 feet. A. Lewis got the contract.

The protracted meetings at the Church of God are still in progress at this place, and it is hoped much good may come from the efforts that are being put forth.

WANTED: Girl to do general housework. Must be able to take charge of the entire housework. Permanent place to right party. Apply to T. H. Sprott. tf Verily Auburn's building boom begins early, like the fl were that bloom, etc. W. J. Wallace has got tired of paying $10 a month rent, and is putting up a room of his own at his home on West Seventh.

Persons who want to become census enumerators should address S. B. Beshore, at Marion, Ind., who has been appointed supervisor for this (the sixth) census district. Enumerators must reside in the subdivision they represent.

Read our notice of the great vegatable exhibition to be made at the Illinois State Fair by that veteran seed house of James Vick, Rochester, N. Y. The fair is at Peoria, and the exhibition of vegetables and cut flowers, will be the largest ever seen in the world.

A letter from Dr. A. B. Mathews, at Fremont, Indiana, says he is in poor health from his old army troubles. For some time he was confined to his bed, though now improving slowly. Also, that Miss Maggie Mathews, the Doctor's daughter, was married at the home Feb. 2, to Mr. Frank Yull, of East Gilead, Mich. Our people will read these items with interest.

We had quite a number of new names added to our list this week, in spite of the dull season. We are very grateful to our friends for these favors and will try to give them full value for their money. We shall try to make the COURIER as interesting as possible, and would be pleased to have any of our subscribers, who choose, to give now and then a COURIER to their non-subscribing neighbors to let them see just what we are doing. We are not afraid to let the COURIER be seen anywhere.

Judge McClellan is a member of the democratic congressional campaign committee. This is made up of one member from each state and territory, that has a democratic member or a delegate. We see in the list, that he has a number of distinguished colleagues, among them being J. B. McCreery, of Kentucky; John F. Andrews, of Massachusetts; Roswell P. Flower, of New York; R. P. Bland, of Missouri; J. B. Pennington, of Deleware; and many others, equally well known. We are pleased to see that the honor of representing Indiana on this important political committee, falls on the Twelfth District. The choice will prove a wise one.

The McCallum Monte Cristo Co., which is billed here for the last three nights of this week, is under the management of W. B. McCallum, who managed Frederick Loranger, prior to his death, and has an excellent company. Mr. Howard Hall, late leading man with the Horace Monte Cristo Co.; Miss Josie Vickers Mitchel, is an excellent singer and dancer of great note, she having last season sang the principal roles with Norcross Opera Co., and is a soubrette of the Lotta school; Harry R. Vickers, late leading man with Ranch King Co; Mr. Harry C. Todd, late comedian, with Miss Rose Osborne, and a company of unequaled excellence. The repertoire consists of some of the latest successes and the company a strong one in every sense of the word.

By the kindness of Cal. Husselman, secretary of the fair, we have the substance of the work done at the meeting of officers of the several fairs, held at Waterloo Monday. Representatives were present from Angola, Hicksville, Montpelier, Bryan and Kendallville, besides the two home fairs of Auburn and Waterloo. They made arrangements for a fair circuit and fixed most of the dates. At Auburn the fair will begin September 9 and close the 12th. This will be the first fair of the circuit, and is, we believe, the best date that could be chosen. This will be out of the way of all the fairs nearest to us, and is the only date earlier than Oct. 13 that would not conflict with some fair near by. The same circuit officers were re elected—Frank Macartney, Angola, president, and J. S. Confogue, Kendallville, secretary. They hold the next circuit meeting in Auburn, on call of the president.

Don't miss any of the articles in this week's COURIER.

Wake up, Auburn. Other parties are after the Wabash road in earnest.

Mrs. Judge McBride and son Bert, were over here to attend Jordan's lecture.

Miss Ida Blair, of Waterloo was here to attend Prof. Jordan's lecture Tuesday evening.

Our people will be surprised to read of the death of young Foltz, published elsewhere to day.

Read Bauer Brothers' new "ad" this week. New rooms, new location, new goods, low prices.

Wilson, of the boot and shoe store south of court house calls attention to his new and cheap goods.

The Ligonier Knights of Pythias give their second annual reception and ball next Wednesday evening, Feb. 19.

H. T. Harner and Silas Nugen are among our friends who enrolled on the COURIER list for the first time, this week. That's the kind we like to see.

SETTLEMENT NOTICE: All parties knowing themselves indebted to Cowan Sisters, are kindly requested to call and settle within the next two weeks.

We hope the boys who are discussing the ditch question will keep cool, for if they don't we "reserve the right to reject any and all bids," as the commissioners would say.

There was a meeting of the doctors here yesterday. We noticed Drs. Chamberlain and Darby of Waterloo, and Dr. Fanning of Butler. They have a district association.

We saw one of the real "Australian" tickets the other day. Josiah Shull, at Phillipsburg, Montana, sent it to his father, H. A. Shull. The ticket is a huge one, and looks odd, but we will probably have one here, nearly like it.

Killed on the Bridge.

Wm. Foster, an old man whose home is in Steuben county, was killed on the B. & O., bridge over Cedar Creek, south of town Tuesday morning. He was going east over the bridge, just as the limited express was going west. The Engineer, Frank Kircher, one of the best men on the road, whistled repeatedly, and tried to stop, but it was so close, and the train moveing at such a high rate of speed that he could not stop in time. The man from some cause or other did not seem to notice the train, at least he did not get off. He was thrown from the bridge and badly mangled. The train backed up and picked him up and carried him to Auburn Junction. From papers found with him, his name was learned, and word sent to Angola. Judge Powers came down on the forenoon train, and recognized the body, and took it back on the noon train. Foster was a well known character, his home being about six miles east of Angola. He was not considered of very sound mind, though able to make a living. He resided over in Ohio a few years ago, and was sent to the penitentiary six years for burning a barn. Since his release, he has behaved better. On this occasion, he was on his way to Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Hollister, D. D. Moody, and others saw him early in the morning going south through town, and it is supposed he turned east on the track in Stamets' addition. Engineer Kircher says, the accident occurred just at dawn, when he could see ahead but a few rods at most. This will also account for the fact that Foster did not see the train.

Ascent of the Matterhorn.

Dr. Jordan's lecture Tuesday evening on his "Ascent of the Matterhorn" was intensely interesting. Any attempt to give in a paper even a brief account would be in vain. We well remember when a few years ago the daily papers brought the news that an American had been severely hurt on the Matterhorn in Switzerland. Then when the news came that our own W. W. Spangler was one of the party, with Gilbert and Dr. Jordan of our university, the interest was intensified. Jordan's lecture described this. The Matterhorn is one of the most difficult in the world to ascend. There are many higher mountains—many too high to be climbed, but this one is difficult because of the bare, crumbling rocks and steep sides. Only a few persons have reached its top. But this party succeeded; yet on coming down, a stone was loosened which, flying over Dr. Jordan's head, struck Gilbert who was ahead of him, knocking him off a cliff and out of sight for a moment. As the party were fastened together by a strong rope, they were able to reach him. He was badly cut on the head, his life being saved by his stiff hat. Covered with blood and half unconscious, he was first led, then carried, down the sides of the rocks, where it was difficult for strong men to go without such a burden. They reached a small hut under the shelving rocks and laid him on the straw within. Spangler and Jordan lay down, one on each side of the injured man, to keep him warm, for it was very cold up there. Two guides staid with them, while the rest of the party went down the mountain. It was a night of terrible suffering, but the next day they were rescued by a party from below. Gilbert recovered, but none of them care to repeat the terrible trip. The attendance was good, for our people have come to know that whenever the L. L. C. give an entertainment, it will be an excellent one.

Kelley's Ditching.

EDITOR COURIER:—Mr. Kelley appears again in your last issue, and nowhere do I find him sticking to his text, which was that no ditches should be located or dug unless a majority of the interested land-owners first petition for it. He goes off on other matters, after saying that I set up a man of straw and then knocked it down. That is no argument and counts nothing in a contoversy. Let me assure him, that he furnished the straw in his first published views, and if I used the material furnished by him he should not complain. If my argument and statements are not correct, or are not his straw, let him show it. There being nothing to show that his present views are a recent revelation of ditch wisdom, why didn't he do something in the last legislature? He had plenty of of time, sixty days after election, and sixty days of the session. He is like the old Jew. "He wants the boy to have another shance." He says that my calling his plan the district plan, is assumed. That too, is no argument. Please show, Mr. Kelley, that it is an assumption. I find in his last article only one statement against the present ditch law, which is in these words: "I know plenty of farmers who have paid from $500 to $1,000 on ditches, without any corresponding benefits." In this he is as indefinite, as in his first statement he was indefinite as to the source of his ditches. The difficulty is in the use of the word "corresponding." As used he means I think the same as the word "equal." I have no doubt of his statement. I know of similar cases. But was it the fault of the law? Suppose a man allows the ditches he paid for go to waste; get filled up; does not utilize them; does not try to get the surplus water from his land into the ditch, simply lets it lie, of course he realizes nothing for the expense. Suppose a farmer should plant his corn and never cultivate it, would he get a return for his work? Many ditches dug are like tiling a farm. Who ever expected an immediate return of the cost? The return is yearly and gradual. Mr. Kelley wants your readers to understand that these men he speaks of, have sustained a loss in the sums named. I can't agree with him. Why? Because these men were assessed by three sworn disinterested viewers, who reported to a disinterested court, and if those assessed were not satisfied with the amount assessed against them, they could have had the errors corrected by another disinterested court. But this statement of what I wrote is nearly as erroneous as that which he complains of. But if he did not propose or advocate in the legislature, the requiring of bond in criminal cases, did he not after the election and before the session, in his meetings in which he wanted the people to tell him what they wanted, and what he should do, say that such a measure should be the law? Forty years ago it required five persons to start ditch proceedings. Ten years later it went down to one. The law has had many changes, but never in all that time of the 3,000 legislators in Indiana, has one suggested what you propose, nor did you when you had a chance. In bidding adieu to Mr. Kelley and his ditches, allow me this couplet:

Freeman! Freeman! don't tear your linen,
The hide's not worth half the skinnin'!

JACKSON.

Edward P. Foltz.

Word comes from Ft. Crawford, Colo., of the death at that post of Edward P. Foltz, son of Ex-Surveyor A. P. Foltz, of this county. He was a member of Co. A. Tenth Regular Infantry, now stationed at that point, and had been in the service for several years, having enlisted soon after he left this place. A few weeks ago, he sent back to his guardian, Mr. Henry Hines, of this place, for a small sum of money that remained his due from his mother's estate. While waiting for it, he was taken sick, but at the time it was sent to him, he was able to write a letter to the editor of this paper acknowledging its receipt. We believe this was the last word heard from him. Yesterday, a letter from a comrade came to this office, bringing the sad news of his death. It is as follows:

FT. CRAWFORD, COLO., Feb. 9, '90.

EDITOR COURIER:

Will you please inform the friends of Edward Foltz, through the COURIER of his death while on duty at his post. He was excelled by none as a good, brave soldier, and his loss is felt by all his comrades. He was buried at 1 p. m. to-day with all military honors. Any of his friends desiring to learn the particulars can do so by addressing me. Yours Resp'y.,

WILLIAM M. ABRAMS, Co. A. 10th Infantry.
FT. CRAWFORD, MONTROSE CO., COLO.

North End Grocery.

The grocery at the north end of Main street, John Otto's, has been purchased by Ira Brandon, who will at once put in a new and fresh stock of all kinds of groceries and family supplies, and make it in every way a first-class grocery. He will also pay the highest market price for all farm produce. Give him a call. We hope to see Mr. Brandon build up a good trade, for we believe he will do a fair, square business.

Parlor Entertainment.

The young ladies' mission circle will give a parlor entertainment at the residence of George Lannings next Friday evening, Feb. 14. A musical and literary program has been arranged; afterwards there will be spelling and other games. Everybody is invited. Mite 10 cents.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

It will surprise many people to learn that neither James G. Blaine nor Samuel J. Randall ever studied law.

Now a New York man is suing his former sweetheart for the cost of the jewelry he gave her during their engagement, because she jilted him. The course of true love seems to have a good many whirlpools in Gotham.

One of the best-trained nurses in New York City was, a few years ago, a popular and prominent society woman in Baltimore, with a devoted husband and almost unlimited wealth. Her husband died and the riches vanished.

It is a fact well known to pigeon fanciers that the two eggs laid by pigeons almost invariably produce male and female. Some curious experiments as to which of the eggs produce the male and which the female have resulted in showing that the first egg laid is the female and the second the male.

So far as is known the first railroad in the country to receive a contribution of a "conscience fund" is the New York Central. The management of that road was much astonished a few days ago at the receipt of a letter containing a round sum of money from a correspondent who said that he had defrauded the company some years ago.

George W. Childs has lately added 320 clocks to the number he had on hand, and now he is the possessor of over 1,100 tick-tack time-pieces, which he keeps in a room set aside for the purpose. Mr. Childs, however, does not get things on "tick." He has money enough to pay as he goes, and much of his wealth goes for benevolent purposes.

Napoleon's grand army has dwindled down to a small company. It has been ascertained that there are now only 112 men who wear the medal of St. Helena, and whose names appear on the pension list of the Legion of Honor for 1890. In 1883 there were 1,428 of these veterans still living. The next year there were 500 less, and in 1887 there were only 224.

Miss Gabrielle Greeley, daughter of Horace Greeley, who, as a girl of 18, was a famous belle, resides very quietly on the old farm at Chappaqua. She is about twenty-six years of age, still very beautiful, but has almost entirely given up society, devoting herself chiefly to charitable work under ritualistic auspices. She bought in the old Greely homestead, and has since spent much money and time on the Episcopal Church near by.

At the closing session of the Mormon Conference, April 8, G. Q. Cannon read the statistics of the church, which are: Apostles, 12; patriarchs, 70; high priests, 3,759; elders, 11,805; priests, 2,069; teachers, 2,292; deacons, 11,610; families, 81,899; officers and members, 115,915, and children under eight years of age, 49,302 a total Mormon population of 153,911. The number of marriages for the six month ending April 6, 1889, was 530; births, 3,754; new members, 488; ex-communications, 113.

Probably nowhere else in the country are there so many obsolete but unrepealed blue-laws as in Washington, the remains of early Maryland legislation. A commission, now engaged in codifying the laws, have found one still in force which provides that any person who shall be profane, or who shall deny the Trinity, shall be bored through the tongue, and shall have the letter B branded on his forehead. Such were the ideas that prevailed when the foundations of religious liberty were being laid.

Henry M. Stanley writes to a friend: "My hair is like snow from Ruwenzari; but it is the crown of a busy period and I wear it without regret as the gift of time." Stanley's white hair will not convince Americans that he is an old man beyond his prime, for where is the lusty youth who could endure what he has passed through in the last three years? His admirers everywhere will look upon the snowy hair as the "crown of a busy life" and continue to believe that Stanley is in the prime of life, and that time will spare him to see his dark continent flooded with the light of civilization.

At San Antonio, Texas, while workmen were excavating the Central Alamo plaza, with the object of preparing the ground for a park, they turned up several copper cannon balls and a number of half decayed human bones. The place is within fifty yards of the famous structure which was the death-place of Crockett and Bowie, and some of the balls are flattened from having been fired against the stone wall, and, indeed, the venerable building bears their scars. The bones are those of Mexican soldiers who fell in the fray, some of whom were buried. The bodies of the massacred Americans were all burned up. The relics have been taken in by curiosity-seekers.

A scientific institution in New York has offered a prize of $200 for the best plan of breeding insects which will prey upon and destroy mosquitoes. It means well, but it is feared that its humane effort to rid us of the mosquito pest will not meet with entire success. It seems to be a law of nature that there shall be just about so many mosquitoes in spite of their natural enemies. It pleases her in the work of perpetuating the insect varieties to produce mosquitoes and the insects hostile to that species in a ratio that has no perceptible effect on the number of the former. Probably no artificial means can change this regulation, and the mosquito is here to stay with undiminished activity and bloodthirstiness.

Mr. Parnell has been caught nodding for once. In a recent cable dispatch from London he is quoted as having said that he would answer Captain O'Shea's charges, adding that, as Stonewall Jackson once said, "there are times when the insignificance of the accuser is lost in the ingratitude of the accusation." It seems that Mr. Parnell here mixed up Stonewall Jackson with no less a person than Henry Grattan, the greatest of Irish orators. In the Irish House of Commons, in 1800, Grattan replied to a personal attack by Mr. Corry in which he said: "On any other occasion, I should think myself justified in treating with silent contempt anything which might fall from that honorable member; but there are times when the insignificance of the accuser is lost in the magnitude of the accusation." A duel was the result of this philippic, and Mr. Corry was wounded in the arm.

A Canadian surveyor who was engaged in an official expedition to Hudson Bay in 1885 and 1886 says few people have any idea of the resources of this great sea. Its shores are the haunts of the musk ox, the moose, the reindeer, the red deer, the white bear and his black brother, the otter, the beaver, the mink, the black fox, also the silver, gray and white varieties, and other valuable fur-bearing animals. Its waters are teeming with the most valuable varieties of water mammals and fish. He has seen the bay as far as the eye could reach, appear one undulating mass of white porpoises. Both the hides and the oil of these are very valuable. In some parts of the bay and in the straits the shores of the islands are swarming with walrus. It has been reported by Prof. Bell that on one island on the east coast there was found to be thickly strewn with the ivory tusks of the walrus. The tusks are valuable, though the chief value of the walrus lies in the hide, which weighs on an average 300 pounds, and is worth from 10 to 20 cents per pound.

Adam Forepaugh knew everything about a circus, and used to twit Barnum with knowing nothing about the business. Forepaugh could tell the number, price and place of every rope, belt, spike, pole, and strip of canvas. Given a tent of a certain diameter, he could tell off-hand how many yards of canvas there were in it, its seating capacity, and how much it would cost to equip it, fixing a place for every stake, dog-wood pole and rope. He checked off his own pay-roll every Wednesday, bought his own meat and groceries, approved every bill, and would brook not the slightest show of insubordination from his men. He would abruptly discharge any one, and went on the plan that the Forepaugh show was beholden to no other than himself for its success. He always kept his securities and never disposed of so-called "worthless paper." In this way many securities became very valuable to him. He was an inveterate reader of the newspapers and thought himself a good critic of the press work of his agents. He was somewhat excitable, and at times when he was angry he spared no one.

Twice Tempted.

One of the dearest and loveliest of grandmas owns that there were two occasions in her life when she was actually tempted to steal, and, strange to say, the recollection apparently amuses rather than shocks her. "I was a very little girl," she says, when she feels moved to tell this wicked story, "and I went with my mother to evening meeting. One after another, the neighbors came suddenly in, dressed in their best clothes, and looking quite imposing to me, who knew them better in their work-day costumes.

Miss Nancy Simmons came and sat down beside me. She was a very precise and serious 'maiden lady;' she carried a large palmleaf fan, which she began to wave slowly back and forth as soon as she was seated.

"The prayer and 'testimonies' began and continued, and I grew very sleepy. My poor little head was just sinking into my mother's lap, when a pungent odor, made up of all delight, broke upon the air. I lifted my head, and gazed about me, to find the object of my search close beside me. It was an enormous peppermint which Miss Simmons had taken from her pocket and broken in two.

"'Oh,' thought I, 'she will give me half!'

"Not at all! She slowly and decorously placed one in her mouth. The other she laid on her knee for future use. Then that piece of peppermint began to tempt me. I coveted it, I longed for it. Suppose I boldly reached forth and took it! Would Miss Simmons cry 'Stop thief?' Would my mother see and take me out for prompt chastisement? I suffered an agony of longing and temptation, and when, after a terrible interval, Miss Simmons slowly conveyed the candy to her mouth, I drew a long breath of relief over my safety.

"The next and last time I wanted to steal was when I was a young married woman, and before I had any children of my own. One day a gypsy woman came to the door to ask for food. She carried on her shoulder a dirty but beautiful child. When they had finished their meal, the woman laid down on the lawn, and with her baby at her side, went fast asleep.

"After watching them for some time, I stole down to take a nearer look at the child. No little pig could have been dirtier, and yet that baby was adorable. If I could but steal him away from his mother's arms, give him a bath, brush out those rings of hair and keep him for my own! The more I looked the more I coveted, until I positively had to run back to the house, and shut myself up in my own room.

"My temptations are over now, dearies. I've babies enough, babies to cuddle among my grandchildren, and I don't even lack for peppermints."

A Wisconsin court has decided that a man has a lawful right to open his wife's letters. Now, if we could get a binding judicial decision which would compel a husband to mail his wife's letters within a week after she gives them to him to post—but that would be requiring a moral impossibility.

HIS FATE IS UNCERTAIN

PROBABLE SCHEME TO SECURE THE FRENCH THRONE.

The Eldest Son of the Count de Paris Enters France, in Violation of the Exile Law, and Is Placed Under Arrest by the Authorities—He Protests His Loyalty to the Republic.

Paris cable: By prompt action the government has nipped in the bud what was apparently intended to be a royalist coup d'etat, modeled after Louis Napoleon's mad descent upon Boulogne, and the only consequence is that the Duke of Orleans, eldest son of the Count of Paris, is in custody. The Duke arrived in Paris last week bearing a letter signed by the Count of Paris announcing to the faithful and all others the Count's renunciation of all claim to the throne of France. He also had with him a manifesto addressed to the people of France. Nominally, and according to the theory of pretenders, a pretender is always a King, and therefore the Count of Paris abdicates the throne he never possessed. He consequently abdicates his claims as a pretender, and in virtue of this abdication all his claims, rights, and titles descend to his eldest son, the gentleman now in the hands of the authorities, Philippe Louis Robert, Duke of Orleans. The gentleman, therefore, is not merely one of many vagrant princes, but the actual pretender to the throne in virtue of his claims as the heir of Louis Philippe and also as the heir of the old Bourbon line. His coming into the country in violation of the law banishing all the heads and direct heirs of reigning families, is a rash escapade, even if it stands alone. The fact that he was equipped with an appeal to the nation shows his intentions and may make the escapade serious for him.

If it should be developed that this movement is made in virtue of an understanding with the partisans of the monarchy in France it may be more than a mere violation of the law of expulsion. There is some reason to believe that the movement is made in concert with the more determined opponents of the republic, as the Duke repaired immediately to house of the Duke of Luyres, the present head of a family that has always adhered uncompromisingly to the old monarchy. In that house the young gentleman was King of France in theory—the descendant of Henry IV., and not merely the descendant of Louis Phillippe.

On the day before Feb. 6 the Duke of Orleans attained the age of 21, for he was born on Feb. 6, 1869. The abdication of his father, the manifesto, and the movement were all apparently planned with regard to that date and in order to electrify France with the demonstration that the fortunes of the monarchy were now in new hands: that the crown now belonged on the head of a chevalier who would dare something for it and not fold his hands in a quiet corner like another Chambord.

The government was not caught napping, however. It was promptly informed of the presence of the Duke in Paris, and of his whereabouts. The Duke was in France in violation of the law made purposely for excluding his father and himself as enemies of the republic. Therefore the Duke of Orleans was at once arrested at the house of the Duke of Luvres. He was taken to the prefecture of police, where his identity was fixed beyond all doubt, and where process verbal of his violation of the law of banishment was drawn up. He was then detained at the conciergerie.

On the same day he was arraigned before the military authorities at the central bureau. In response to the inquiry as to the objects and purposes of his visit to France, he said that, having attained his majority, he had come to France to place himself at the disposal of the military authorities. This dash of audacity is regarded as a very happy stroke, and is sure to make friends for him, for a gallant French boy who wants to take his chance for conscription is a somewhat unusual and captivating figure to appear in the daily news. But this did not touch the sensibilities of the hard-hearted authorities, and M. Constance, the minister of the interior, ordered that the Duke be held in custody.

The monarchist members of the chamber of deputies have decided to interpellate the government as to its reason for imprisoning the Duke. The Republique-Francaise, in commenting on the arrest of the Duke, points out that the expulsion law imposes a penalty of from two to five years' imprisonment upon the head or direct heir of any family that has reigned in France who violates its provisions.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

A Moderate Improvement Noted Owing to More Seasonable Weather.

New York dispatch: Bradstreet's "State of Trade," says: Special telegrams indicate a moderate improvement in the movement of general merchandise east of the Rocky Mountains, with more seasonable weather and consequently a more active demand for staple goods. Prices of cattle and hogs generally tend lower on a free movement. Wheat is depressed on the Pacific coast by free offerings and large interior stocks. Groceries, dry goods and drugs are fairly active. Iron prices are fairly steady on the belief that the demand will increase at an early date, but anthracite coal is barely steady, with no improvement in the demand for domestic purposes. The industrial situation is attracting attention with an increasing number of employes on strike and an outlook for a strike of considerable proportions May 1 in case a general conclusion is not made that eight hours shall constitute a day's work. The movement in flour has been dull and prices have been shaded. Reports of available stocks of wheat east of the Rocky mountains, United States and Canada show 49,691 349 bushels on Feb. 1, or 4,535,827 bushels less, than on Jan. 1. The month's decrease for both coasts is 5,986,961 bushels. Bradstreet's totals with Beerbohm's report of stocks in Europe and afloat therefor, Feb. 1, show a decrease of 9,558,585 bushels during January, or 8.3 per cent, and a decrease of 13,025,585 bushels compared with Feb. 1, 1889, or 11.6 per cent. Exports of wheat (and flour as wheat) for the week from both coasts equal 2,214,917 bushels against 1,613,854 bushels the previous week. The total shipped July 1 to date is 84,032,698 bushels. Business failures reported are declining in number, amounting to 259 in the United States for the week, against 286 the previous week and 266 the corresponding week last year. The total number of failures in the United States since Jan. 1 is 1,877, against 1,871 in 1889.

Committed Suicide Too Hastily.

Helena (Mont.) dispatch: F. C. Cartwright, in charge of a collection agency in this city, shot himself through the head and died almost instantly. He had overdrawn his bank account and was pressed for small debts, but his entire liabilities did not exceed $1,000. He had been on a spree for about a week. He came to Helena from Portland, where his family resides. A few hours after the tragedy a letter was found at the postoffice for the suicide, stating that a ranch he owned near Portland had been sold for $6,000, and that the money would be forwarded immediately.

THE PRESERVATION OF BEAUTY

According to the Laws of Health.

THE care and preservation of female beauty has been a study from earliest history. Even in the Bible we read of the arts that women have employed to enhance their beauty, and history and tradition have presented us some strange things to believe. Noted beauties have been mentioned as having taken baths of wine, of asses' milk, of milk and honey, and many other things to preserve their charms.

It is said by historians that some of the renowned beauties bathed in dew, collected by slaves, and others again in rain water, and so on through all the possible things in creation. It is even related of one great beauty that she was bathed every day in fresh bullock's blood while it was yet warm.

It would occupy the whole Ledger to recount the stories current of the ridiculous ideas held by the ancients as to different means to preserve or restore their charms, and few of them would be of service in the light of science.

The most of the so-called cosmetics, from the very beginning of the use of them, were based upon poisonous substances, just as they are to-day, and we read in a book on Egypt that a paste made of an arsenical preparation was used over four thousand years ago, and from that time to the present day women have been using all kinds of preparations offered for sale by conscienceless persons, the most of them made of most dangerous minerals.

It would be a curious study to show in what beauty consists, according to different ideas, in different countries, though, according to their lights, the women in each do the most they can to render themselves attractive, and in all countries women have, and always will, rely upon the use of cosmetics of one kind or another to enhance their charms or conceal the ravages of time.

To impress upon those who may read this series of articles the fact that they are taking their lives, even, into their hands, to say nothing of eventually ruining whatever good looks they had in the beginning, we shall tell them something of the materials which enter into the compounding of the various preparations now in the market, and which are said (by the makers) to be entirely harmless.

All of the so-called creams, and lily balms, and such like liquids, are of necessity based upon white lead, and are, beyond measure, injurious to health and beauty. The commonest kind of flake white is generally used in their manufacture, and what is in one bottle, for which the buyer pays from 75 cents to $2, costs but the fraction of a penny. Rose-water, diluted with pure water, fills the rest of the bottle. The bottle must be well shaken before using, as the lead settles to the bottom, and the water then takes the appearance of cream, which is applied to the face with a sponge, which is exactly the same thing as painting a door or a wall, in effect, and a dead white is the result, which is unnatural and ugly. Some of them have a drop or two of cochineal added, which gives a so-called flesh tint, which is as glaring as the white in its unnaturalness.—Emma Vilo in Chicago Ledger.

Men Without Names.

In a work upon the prisons of Siberia, M. Edgar Boulangier, a French engineer, who spent a long time in the service of the Trans-Caspian Railway, describes a strange class of beings in that country. They are the men who do not know who they are.

No doubt many of these men merely assume this ignorance, in order to mystify the officials, but their identity is in many cases totally unknown to the authorities and all their acquaintances.

The prison of Alexandrovsk, M. Boulangier says, contains several of these singular people. Now and then, driven by hunger, a vagabond comes to the prison door and asks to be taken in.

"I have come to deliver myself up," says the vagabond.

"For what reason? Who are you?"

"I don't know."

"Don't know? What's your name?"

"I have forgotten it; it was so long ago."

"Where is your passport?"

"I have none."

"Then you are a brodiaga—a vagabond; you have escaped from prison. What crime were you in for?"

"I have forgotten."

Nothing more definite can be got out of him. Sometimes these vagabond exiles accuse themselves of crimes that they have not committed, in order to make interesting journeys at the expense of the government. Frequently their imposture is detected after they have been transported long distances, but who they really are the authorities seldom ascertain. They are kept under surveillance, and M. Boulangier is of opinion that they sometimes really forget what their names are.

How the Infants Shoot.

A charming young public school teacher, with a very lively set of young charges, is responsible for the following tales, which appear in the Washington Post. She told the youngsters to write compositions on "Good Manners." This was the most unique, by an eight-year-old:

"Good manners is keeping your fresh mouth out of other people's business."

The teacher drew a picture on the blackboard of a boy wading in the water holding a crab in the net. Little Jules Garnier wrote:

"The crab we see on the board is not a deviled crab, but a salt water crab."

Is the dime novel disappearing from the hands of innocence? It looks that way. The teacher read her pupils a short Indian story. They listened with open-mouthed interest.

"—'and tomahawk flew by the boy's head and buried itself in a tree.' Now, children, how many of you know what a tomahawk is?"

No reponse.

"Come, any boy who knows what a tomahawk is may hold up his right hand."

One timid hand went up.

"Well, Johnny, what is a tomahawk?"

"A tomahawk, Miss Mamie, is some kind of a bird, I believe!"

"Why do you think it is a bird?"

"Because it is a hawk, and you said it flew by the boy's head."

Innocence forever, and down with the "Boy Scout of Dead Man's Gulch!"

WORK OF THE WITS.

Pressing business—Ironing.

A shoer sign—"Horseshoeing done here."

The ditch-digger is the man who always "gets in his work."

Editor's shears—How do you feel? Exchange—All cut up.

A school board whose doings never need whitewashing—the blackboard.

A young man whose girl went back on him says that he suffers from heart failure.

She (between the acts)—Where are you going? He—Out to see a man for a moment. She—Is he going to buy it, or are you?

Guest—Say, waiter, I can't get my teeth through this ham. Waiter (a Y. M. C. A. young man)—Well, Ham was always a little hard to Noah, you know?

He—I like parlor matches better than the ordinary kind. She (nearly thirty)—I like all kinds of matches, whether they are made in the parlor or not.

A Pittsburg newspaper in its answers to correspondents says, "Anna Dickinson was born in 1842;" then it gallantly adds, "We do not know the lady's age."

Old Gentleman—I don't know what to think of the coming generation. One of the Coming Generation—Well, you can make me your son-in-law if you want to.

Yellowly—It seems strange to me, Brownly, that Whitely enjoys the most perfect health and yet takes no exercise. Brownly—Nothing strange about it at all. Whitely is too lazy to catch any disease.

Gazzam—I see that a lighthouse on the shore of Lake Michigan has been blown away by a gale. Mrs. Gazzam—Well I think the Government ought to stop building light houses and build heavier ones.

Gaggs—By George! how tired some of these jokes look one sees in the alleged humorous papers. Baggs—Guess you'd look tired if you'd traveled around as much as they have, and been declined with thanks as often.

"Well, sir," asked a noisy disputant, "don't you think I've defeated my antagonist to some purpose?" "Oh, yes," replied the listener, "you have. If ever I should happen to fight with such Philistines, I'll borrow your jaw-bone."

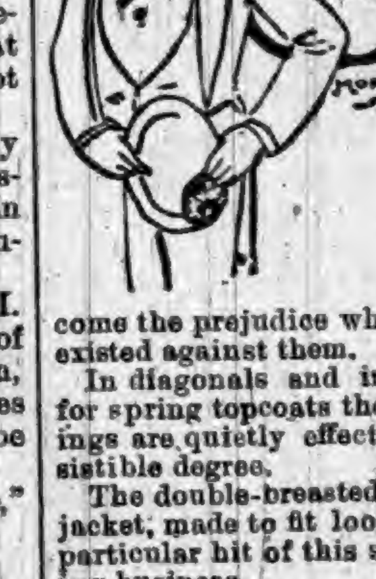
She—They say that vaccination will be obsolete in the twentieth century. He—I should think it would, at least for women. She—Why for women more than men? He—Because ballroom and bathing dresses will probably leave no room for it.

Farmer Hayseed—Doctor, that heifer o' mine is a pretty sick animal. Doctor—Yes, so I see. Farmer Hayseed—I'd like to have you fix her up if you can. You see, Doctor, my wife died two months ago, and it would be awful hard to lose 'em both in one year.

A teacher was instructing his class in natural history. "And to what class of birds does the hawk belong?" he asked. "To the birds of prey," was the reply. "And to what class do quail belong?" There was a pause. The teacher repeated the question. "Where does the quail belong?" "On toast!" yelled the boy at the foot of the class.

FASHIONS FOR GENTLEMEN.

Some Suggestions for Heavy Swells.



GREEN in the invisible dark shades will be a color permanently seen in mixed suitings and spring overcoatings. The designers of fine cloth fabrics seem to have made a concerted move to give these rich and subdued colorings an opportunity to overcome the prejudice which has heretofore existed against them.

In diagonals and in wide wale goods for spring topcoats the dark-green shadings are quietly effective to a quite irresistible degree.

The double-breasted long sack reefing jacket, made to fit loosely, is the bright particular hit of this season in the clothing business.

Well-made trousers are seen at their best under the present accepted vogue as to measurements. The tendency toward the absurd balloon revival has been happily checked. The correct trousers are now cut reasonably snug about the hips with a straight fall and a slight sharp taper toward a point at the bottom.

Aside from the crush hat, the tall silk stovepipe is the only appropriate headgear to be worn with evening dress. Swelldom will welcome the opera hat back again when the proper time arrives, for the silk hat is, upon occasions, very much in the way and decidedly inconvenient to manage.

Some of the ultra swells will wear white waistcoats when the thermometer is down near freezing point. The material is washable, but infinitely warmer than the summer textures.

The figured waistcoat is the one sop cast by the relentless fashion-molders this season to the small army of men with ready money to spend in costume, and possessing a well-defined penchant for the natty and picturesque in dress.

In the variety of style and beauty of workmanship the American manufacturers of canes and umbrellas long since distanced European competitors. These articles come forth in wondrous multiplicity of design at this period of the year, and for serviceability those of the best quality may be warranted to stand all of the tests in contest with the best example on which duty was ever paid.

As if to deprecate and discountenance the wearing of the high hat with the sack dress coat, some of the leading swells have taken to wearing brown and light-colored Derbys with the garment. This attitude makes the association of the high hat and swallowtail even more distinctively correct, and furthermore acts as a foil to any suggestion of encroachment upon the realm of the skirt coat of full evening dress.

"Poor Richard."

Ben Franklin is to blame for the sordid and very partial view of success that prevails in this country. Franklin, though himself not a parsimonious man, dinned maxims of parsimony into the ears of the American people so persistently, and did it in such a wonderfully forcible way, that he succeeded in ingraining the thought of the American people with an eminently material philosophy. The moral of it all is—save, save, save for a rainy day. By dint of everlasting repetition of the vision of the rainy day that has got to be laid up for, Ben Franklin has succeeded in taking all the sunshine out of the days that are not rainy for hundreds of thousands of people.—Boston Transcript.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure
The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.
It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.
All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
Dear Gents:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. Harder,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 19, 1886.
My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.
Mrs. W. S. Ensminger.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
Chas. M. Travis, Notary Public.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.
John T. Mish.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
Chas. W. Wright, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.
Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind
PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

THE LOOM OF LIFE.

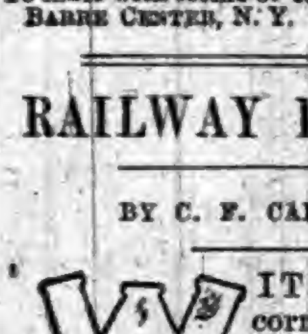
J. B. SALISBURY.

The loom of life with sturdy beat—
The tramp, tramp, tramp of human feet—
Is weaving now a silken veil,
A living web, so fair, so frail,
Yet every thread is dearly bought—
A flashing gem for human thought.
The warp was drawn when morning stars
Attuned their harps to golden bars,
Which echoed down the hills of space,
And suns and worlds, with maiden grace,
Joined in the song, piercing the air
With darts of tone. 'Twas music rare
As 'long the lines of quiv'ring light
That chased away the gloom of night,
There hung as jewels there and long
The swaying tentacles of song.
God's throne, the strong and sturdy beam,
Held fast the threads of light agleam,
And souls slipped down the golden way
To mate with forms of sordid clay.

BARRE CENTER, N. Y.

A RAILWAY ROMANCE.

BY C. F. CARTER.



WITHIN the grimy corner that served for a telegraph office in the Warren Depot, one stormy November evening, a rosy-cheeked girl sat at a table receiving a message. Her task finished, she tossed her pen aside, and, looking out at the dripping landscape, exclaimed impatiently:

"Dear me, isn't this awful! I do wish that poky old Ironsides would come and relieve me. It will soon be dark, and then how will I ever get home through those oceans of mud?"

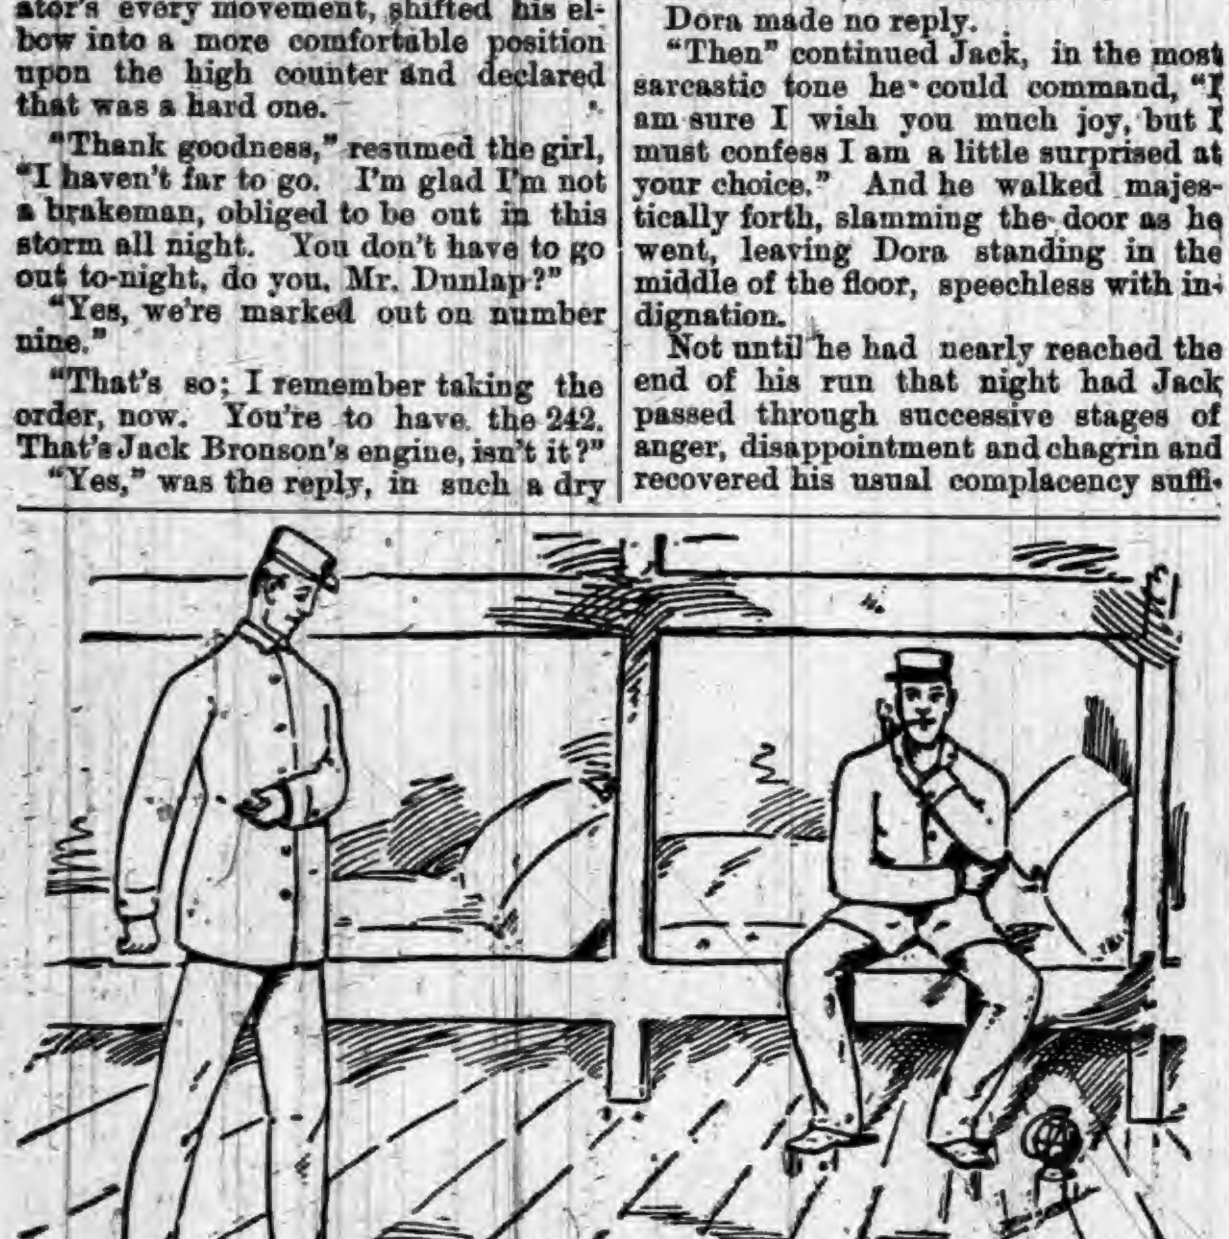
A solemn-looking young man, who had been furtively watching the operator's every movement, shifted his elbow into a more comfortable position upon the high counter and declared that was a hard one.

"Thank goodness," resumed the girl, "I haven't far to go. I'm glad I'm not a brakeman, obliged to be out in this storm all night. You don't have to go out to-night, do you, Mr. Dunlap?"

"Yes, we're marked out on number nine."

"That's so; I remember taking the order, now. You're to have the 242. That's Jack Bronson's engine, isn't it?"

"Yes," was the reply, in such a dry tone that the operator turned with an amused smile and said:



"LICK HIM! I'LL BREAK HIM IN TWO!"

"I don't believe you love your neighbor Bronson as yourself."

"Can't say that I do," replied the young man. Then, as though moved by a sudden impulse, he stepped to the side of the rosy-cheeked operator, and, bending down until his mustache almost brushed her ear, exclaimed:

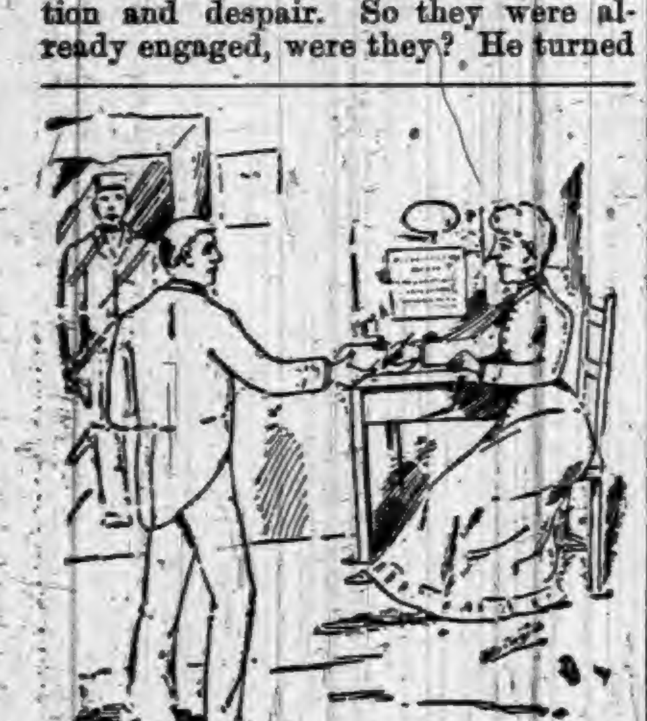
"Dora—Miss Cheney; I mean—I can't bear to see you treat that Jack Bronson just as friendly as you do me any longer. I want you all to myself, for I love you, Dora."

"Do sit down, Mr. Dunlap," said Dora. "Some one will come in. This is so very unexpected, and besides, you know, I'm already—— Good-evening, Mr. Bronson!"

The door had suddenly opened, revealing the astonished faces of Jack Bronson and Ironsides, the night operator.

"Charley," said Ironsides, as he stepped in and shook the water from his dripping hat, "I saw yer partner, Shanty, as I came along, and he told me to tell you to come down to the car."

Charley pulled his cap over his eyes and hurried out, wild with mortification and despair. So they were already engaged, were they? He turned toward the river, with a vague notion of throwing himself into its turbid waters, but changed his mind and started back to his way car. Reaching the car, he bolted in and flung himself upon a locker with a dismal groan.



"GOOD EVENING, MR. BRONSON."

Shanty was lying upon his back on the opposite side of the car, smoking vigorously. He was a man who never troubled himself about the affairs of others; but the conduct of his partner was so extraordinary that he stopped smoking, raised himself upon his elbow, and, after gazing a moment in speechless wonder, inquired:

"W'at's the matter?"

"Nothin'."

"Git fired?"

"No."

"Got the colic?"

"No—oh, no."

"Well, what in thunder does ail ye?"

"Are you a friend of mine?" asked Charley, impressively, suddenly starting up.

Shanty's only answer was a look of astonishment.

"You see," went on Charley, "I told Dora I loved her—I mean—Jack Bronson—confound it, they're goin' to be married," he concluded, in desperation.

"Well—you—are—a—dandy," drawled Shanty, in a tone of withering contempt. "D'ye mean to let that dinner-table railroad man cut ye out like that?"

"How can I help it?"

"Lick him."

"Lick him? I'll break him in two. But I'm afraid that won't help the matter any."

Shanty was prevented from expressing his views upon this point by the entrance of the conductor with the announcement that it was leaving time.

As soon as Ironsides made his tardy appearance Dora had encased herself in waterproof and rubbers, and, accompanied by Jack Bronson, started home. Jack was not at all pleased with the scene he had witnessed upon entering the telegraph office, and determined to intimate to Dora that the frequent presence of that brakeman in the telegraph office was very distasteful to him; but Dora prattled on so prettily that he hadn't the heart to chide her. By the time they had reached the Cheney mansion and were seated before a bright fire, he had nearly made up his mind to let the matter go, when, by a happy inspiration, he saw an easy way out of the difficulty.

"Dora," said he, suddenly, "will you marry me!"

Dora was so startled by this abrupt question that she was unable to reply for a moment, and Jack, remembering the old adage that "silence gives consent," concluded she was too much overcome with emotion to speak, and so put his arm around her waist reassuringly.

"Mr. Bronson," said Dora, rising to her feet, "I am very sorry. I never meant to encourage you to think we could ever be more than friends."

Jack was completely overwhelmed by this unexpected reply. He, too, rose to his feet.

"I suppose from that that some one else has won your affections?"

Dora made no reply.

"Then" continued Jack, in the most sarcastic tone he could command, "I am sure I wish you much joy, but I must confess I am a little surprised at your choice." And he walked majestically forth, slamming the door as he went, leaving Dora standing in the middle of the floor, speechless with indignation.

Not until he had nearly reached the end of his run that night had Jack passed through successive stages of anger, disappointment and chagrin and recovered his usual complacency sufficiently to remark to his fireman:

"I understand, Jim, that Dora Cheney is going to marry that brakeman, Charley Dunlap."

"That so?"

"Yes; pity to see that girl throw herself away on such a good-for-nothing brute, ain't it?"

"That's what it is."

"Somebody ought to tell old Cheney what's up. He'd stop Mister Dunlap's little game."

"Ye-ep."

"I never did have any use for that Dunlap. If he ever crosses my path I'll drive him into the ground—notion to do it anyway on general principles."

A week later a solitary figure walking down the quietest of Warren's quiet streets had his attention attracted by two persons coming out of the Methodist parsonage. One he recognized as Dora Cheney; the other was a well-dressed stranger, who improved the opportunity to press a kiss upon Dora's unresisting lips as he assisted her into a waiting buggy. This proceeding so engrossed the attention of the solitary figure that he did not notice the rapid approach of a man from the opposite direction, equally intent as himself upon the scene across the street.

There was a muffled thud, a mutual recoil, a glare of recognition, and Charley Dunlap and Jack Bronson each instantly became serenely oblivious of the other's existence.

Upon reaching Mrs. Johnson's boarding house Charley was met at the door by the landlady's daughter, Angelina, her eyes sparkling with the complacent consciousness of interesting and exclusive gossip.

"Oh, Charley," she exclaimed eagerly, "what do you think? Dora Cheney's gone and married a drummer from Chicago. He's awful handsome, and his name is Harry, and they've been engaged ever so long—say what makes ye look so funny?"

He Didn't Mean To.

Mamma—Now, Johnnie, dear, you'll keep nice and clean if mamma dresses you up nice in your pretty white suit, and puts on your lovely Fauntleroy sacque, won't you, dear? We're going to have company for tea, and mamma don't want them to see her little boy all dirty; you'll be very careful, now?

Johnnie—Yes'em.

Mamma—That's a good little boy. Here's a cooky for you, dear.

An hour later:

Mamma—Why, Johnnie Kiser! What under the shining sun have you been doing? Just look at your clothes! Look at them! literally and completely spoiled! What have you been doing? Say?

Johnnie—I wasn't doing nothing but just throwing dirt on Dicky Rogers, 'cause he throwed some on me; and then we made a little dam in the gutter, and had some fun rolling down that clay bank back of the house afterward, and—that's all. I—I didn't mean to get dirty.

Mamma—Oh, no! you never mean to do anything! I declare if you're not enough to try the patience of a saint! Dear me, dear me!—Drake's Magazine.

INQUIRING Boy—Pa, what do sailors mean by scuttling a ship? Pa—(worried over family expenses)—They mean, my son, that they put a big hole in it like the one which Bridget's scuttle has made in that last ton of coal.

A MAN discovers more virtues in his wife before he is married and after he is divorced than he ever did in the interim between those two periods in his career.

DRESSING THE GIRLS.

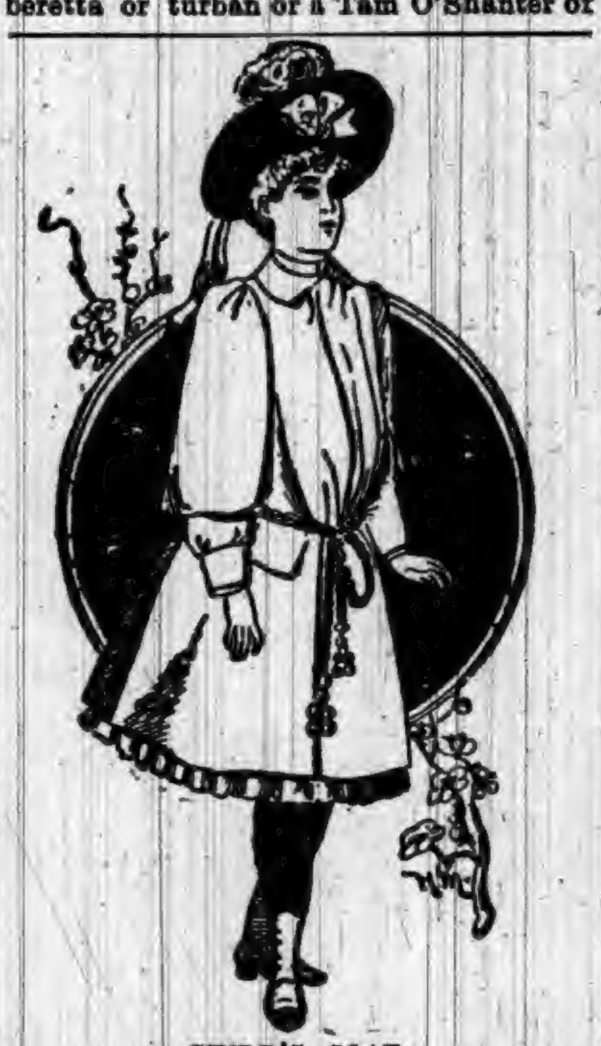
VERY ATTRACTIVE STYLES IN FROCKS AND HATS.

All Colors Are Worn by the Little Misses, Though Red Is the Most Favored—Quaint Effects Retain Their Hold on Popular Fancy.

NOWADAYS picture children are so numerous that one is forced to the conclusion that the youngsters of to-day possess an uncommon and remarkable uniformity of good looks, or else the present styles are wonderfully becoming. Even the plainest-featured child is given at least a certain individuality, and the really pretty children are simply irresistible.

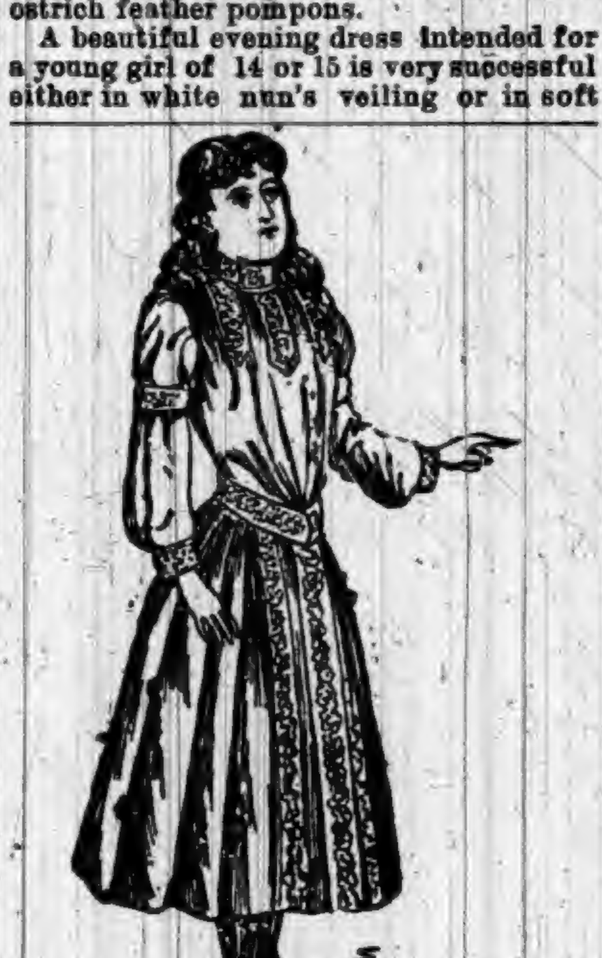
Especially attractive are the styles in hats, whether large or small. All colors, even black, are worn, although red is probably the most favored. There are few fresh young faces that do not look lovely under the shade of a red hat, and a red frock or jacket is an equally pretty contrast to a child's round, white limbs. For these reasons red continues the prevailing color in children's dresses. The novel hat in our illustration inclines to the new flat-crowned shape. As may be seen, the soft crown hangs over the broad front brim. A passementerie ornament with four points trims the soft crown, and the rest of the hat has black satin bows.

With tartan dresses little girls wear a beretta or turban or a Tam O'Shanter of velvet matching the darkest shade in the frock. Then the wing or blade feather is tipped with the lighter, brighter colors of the plaid. These plaid frocks are more frequently cut capes; the novelty of this design consists in a wide revers and double-breasted front, the revers crossing over the capes at one side and turning back over the other; plain sleeves with rolled-back cuffs. One and three-quarters yards of cloth required. Wide-trimmed hat of beaver, with trimming of ostrich feather pompons.



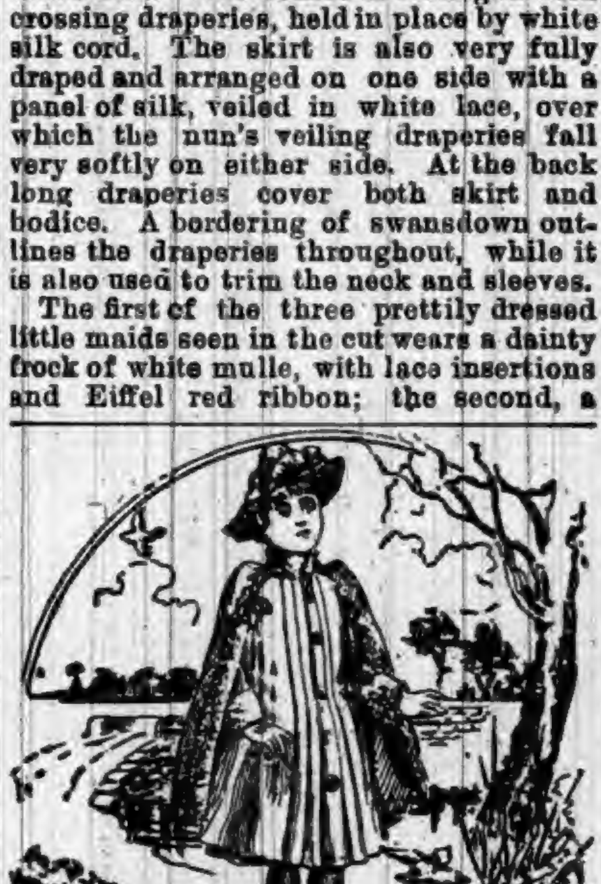
CHILD'S COAT.

A beautiful evening dress intended for a young girl of 14 or 15 is very successful either in white nun's veiling or in soft white silk. The bodice is arranged with crossing draperies, held in place by white silk cord. The skirt is also very fully draped and arranged on one side with a panel of silk, veiled in white lace, over which the nun's veiling draperies fall very softly on either side. At the back long draperies cover both skirt and bodice. A bordering of swansdown outlines the draperies throughout, while it is also used to trim the neck and sleeves.



CHILD'S GOWN.

The first of the three prettily dressed little maids seen in the cut wears a dainty frock of white mulle, with lace insertions and Eiffel red ribbon; the second, a white cashmere dress, with shirred blouse waist and Russian embroidery; and the third a stylish Scotch plaid dress, with sacque and hat of krimmer fur, the latter ornamented with plaid bows.



LITTLE GIRL'S MANTLE.

Nothing Good Enough.

Managing Editor—H'm! I understand that you are a graduate of a school of journalism. Am I right?

Applicant—Yes, sir. I have a diploma showing that I have finished my course with high honors.

Managing Editor—H'm! Yes, I'm sorry, but we haven't any position on this paper quite good enough for you. —Somerville Journal.

THE thickest octavo volume in the world known is the last edition of Whitaker's "Reference Catalogue of English Literature." This book, which weighs twelve pounds, is eleven inches in thickness.

CO-EDUCATION in college is a success, but it isn't so much of a success as it would be if most of the girls who are co-educated in college were better looking.

Infernal Ingenuity

Could scarcely devise more excruciating tortures than those of which you see the evidences in the face of a rheumatic or neuralgic sufferer. The agonies are the consequence of not checking a rheumatic or neuralgic attack at the outset. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been found by skillful medical practitioners to possess not only remedial but defensive efficacy, where those diseases exist, or a tendency to them is exhibited. Surely this puissant but safe botanic medicine, bearing, too, such high specific sanction, is better than the poisons often employed, but most unsafe, not only in continuance, but in isolated doses. The blood is depurated thoroughly from the rheumatic virus, and the nerves, slightly impurged upon, saved from ultimate and direful throes, by this benign, saving medicine, which likewise exhibits marked efficacy for malaria, kidney complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, and liver complaint.

How to Care for Canaries.

A good many people don't know how to take care of canary birds, and I therefore give them the following advice, which I got from a bird fancier: Never give your bird sugar or figs or raisins, or anything sweet, expect a small piece of sweet apple (peeled) twice a week. Put the apple in the cage in the morning and take it out at night. It should have all the rape and canary seed it wants and gravel should be kept at the bottom of the cage. Avoid feeding the bird on celery. Twice a week feed it on one-third of a boiled egg, using both the white and yellow of the egg. Grate up the egg; that is better than putting it in whole. Give it the egg the day before it gets the apple, and as large a piece of the former as of the latter. Let it have a bath every day, using water with the chill taken off.—Epoch.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

As Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucus surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine; it is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

☞Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

Why He Wasn't Killed.

Capt. Spear—And were you never wounded, Pat?

Pat—Faith, sor, and I was. In the fight at Spottsylvania, a dirty reb lifted his gun and fired. I was scared, I tell yez. He struck me right under me left breast.

"But if it struck where you say, the ball must have gone through your heart and killed you."

"Oh, bedad, sor! me heart was in me mouth at the time."—Harvard Lampoon.

A Remedy for the Influenza Cough.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the influenza is Kemp's Balsam, the specific for coughs and colds, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease before securing the remedy, but get a bottle and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the influenza has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. All druggists sell the Balsam.

Fatherly Aid.

Mr. Trenbrock—Eileen, do you think—that is—ahem—er—do you suppose you c-could be happy for life with—(a swallowing gulp)—with—Mr.—ahem!—Mr. Archer?

Miss Trenbrock—Papa—this is so sudden!

Mr. Trenbrock—Well, he was afraid to ask you himself, and I've been trying to think what I said to your mother on a similar occasion, so as to help him out. —Judge.

Hibbard's Rheumatic and Liver Pills.

These Pills are scientifically compounded, uniform in action. No griping pain so commonly following the use of pills. They are adapted to both adults and children with perfect safety. We guarantee they have no equal in the cure of Sick Headache, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness; and, as an appetizer, they excel any other preparation.

Electric Plants.

"Where have you been, Charley?"

"Down to the flower show."

"You look disappointed."

"I am."

"What's the matter?"

"I saw the chief botanist, and do you know the old noodle couldn't even point me out the electric plant."—Chicago Ledger.

Florence, Ala.

The personally conducted excursions to this rapidly growing city have been so successful that the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad (Evansville Route) will run one on each of the following dates: Feb. 4, 11, 18 and 25. For copy of "Alabama as It Is," and further information, send to William Hill, Gen. Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ill.

WHEELING, W. Va., must be a great place for carriage smiths. This is the remark of a wag-on the subject.—Boston Star.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

WHEN a tailor goes to law it is generally not so much to gain a suit as to get the cost of one.

EVER since 1864 there have been women (more each year) who claim that there is no soap half as good, or as economical as Dobbins' Electric. There must be some truth in their claim. Try it, see how much.

A DESCRIPTIVE writer said of a pompous man that he looked as if he knew so much that it made him unhappy.

The smoker's delight—"Tansill's Punch."

BETTING is no argument, yet it will do in the place of a better.—New Orleans Picayune.

Pure Blood

Is absolutely necessary in order to have perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier, quickly conquering scrofula, salt rheum, and all other insidious enemies which attack the blood and undermine the health. It also builds up the whole system, cures dyspepsia and sick headache, and overcomes that tired feeling.

"I have been troubled by a scrofulous affection all my life. It is one of the marked recollections of my boyhood days, and for several years has rendered me unable to labor much. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I have been using at intervals for ten years, is the best thing I have ever taken. I am now 60, and my general health seems better than ever." H. D. ABBOTT, Warren, N. H.

"I have taken two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla for salt rheum and dyspepsia, with which I was troubled very much. After taking this medicine I am feeling as well as ever in my life." G. W. ROSE, Pottsville, Pa.

N. B. If you want a good medicine, get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Ely's Cream Balm
WILL CURE
CATARRH
Price 50 Cents.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S
CREAM BALM
50c

PENSIONS If you want your pension without delay, put your claim in the hands of JOSEPH H. HUNTER, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

YOUNG MEN Wanted to Learn Telegraphy. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Address VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

Never Say Die!

Scourged with ulcers, boils and tetter,
Weak of limb and sore of eye,
Hopeless now of growing better,
Surely one must die.

Not at all, poor, discouraged sufferer from disordered blood and scrofulous trouble. Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great blood-purifier and life-saver of modern days. All those unwholesome sores and blood disorders may be cured, and the victim will look and feel like a new man. It is warranted to benefit or cure, or money paid for it promptly returned.

PERFECTION is attained in Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures the worst cases.

A Liberal Education.

Mr. Stoxandbonds—I understand, Mr. Quicklyrich, that you have sent your son to college. Do you intend to give him a liberal education?

Mr. Quicklyrich—Yes sir, I do! He has $500 a month and if you know of any one who is giving his son a more liberal education than that, I am prepared to make it a thousand.—Burlington Free Press.

Copy of Original.

VAN WERT, Ohio, July 11, 1889.

Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich:

GENTS—This is to certify that I had what is called sciatic rheumatism so badly that I was all drawn over to one side. My hip sank in so that you could lay your hand in the cavity, and I could do no work for over one year. I tried some of the best physicians and did almost everything I could hear or think of, and nothing did me any good until I purchased a bottle of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup of Hines & Son, druggists, Van Wert, O. Four bottles cured me and have never had it since.

ALBERT KING.

We certify to the above testimonial.

HINES & SON, Druggists.

In Striking Attire.

Dumpsey—I saw Blobson's wife in a striking costume to-day.

Popinjay—Indeed! What was it?

Dumpsey—Why, she had a broomstick in one hand and a flat-iron in the other, and Blobson was helping to wear the broomstick."—Burlington Free Press.

The Excitement Not Over.

The rush on the druggists still continues, and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free.

A CHICAGO clergyman recently coupled two Carrs (in marriage) in that city, and escaped without being squeezed.—Milwaukee Globe.

"I have been occasionally troubled with Coughs, and in each case have used BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, which have never failed, and I must say they are second to none in the world."—Felix A. May, Cashier, St. Paul, Minn.

"CHANGEABLE hosiery" is now fashionable, but a fellow can't well keep in style if he has but one pair of socks.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

IF a fellow really wants a niche in the Temple of Fame he has got to come up to the scratch.

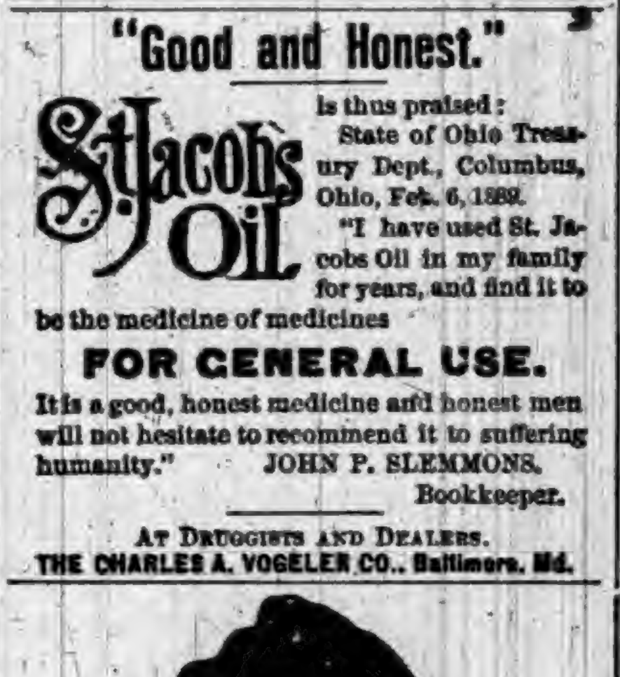
"Good and Honest."

St. Jacobs Oil is thus praised: State of Ohio Treasury Dept., Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 6, 1889. "I have used St. Jacobs Oil in my family for years, and find it to be the medicine of medicines

FOR GENERAL USE.

It is a good, honest medicine and honest men will not hesitate to recommend it to suffering humanity." JOHN P. SLEMMONS, Bookkeeper.

AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.



ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

MIDWINTER MUSIC.

Music as a Handmaid, stands ready to assist in all social pleasures and gaieties.

SOCIAL SINGING. "College Songs," (50 Cents.) "College Songs for Banjo, "Guitar," (each $1.) "Good Old Songs we used to sing" ($1.)

TEMPERANCE. "Temperance Crusade, (35c., or $3.60 doz.) Emerson & Morey. "Temperance Rallying Songs," (35 cts., or $3.60 doz.) Hull.

ANTHEM BOOKS. "Easy Anthems," (80 cts., or $7.20 doz.) Emerson "Anthems of Praise," ($1 or $9 doz.) Emerson "American Anthem Book," ($1.25 or $12. doz.) Dow's "Responses and Sentences," (80 cts. or $7.20 doz.)

EASY CANTATAS. Sacred: "Ruth and Boaz," (65 cts., $6 doz.) "Rebecca," (65 cts. or $6 doz. Secular: "Dairy Maids' Supper," (20 cts. or $1.80 doz.) "Garden of Singing Flowers," (40 cts. or $3.60 doz.)

Great Success of Our New $1 Music Books. "Piano Classics," Vol. 1 and Vol 2, "Popular Piano Collection," "Popular Dance Music Collection," "Song Classics for Sop," "Song Classics for Alto," "Classic Baritone and Bass Songs," "Classic Tenor Songs. Each book $1.

MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

OLIVER DITSON COMPANY, Boston.

$75.00 to $250.00 A MONTH can be made working for us. Persons preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief ASTHMA. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

DR PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Copyright, 1889.

"ONE FOOT IN THE GRAVE."

How often do we hear the above said of some poor pilgrim o'er life's thorny path, whose tottering step, pallid face, unnatural glitter of the eye and hacking cough, and its accompanying involuntary pressure of the hand over the lungs, the seat of the dread disease—consumption—that causes the remark? Too frequently, alas! and in the interests of such unfortunates this is penned, to assure them that their steps need tend no longer towards that narrow receptacle that awaits all—that is, until life's allotted space is covered—from any such cause, for the scientific researches of Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., resulting in his "Golden Medical Discovery," have wrested from Nature a remedy which never fails to cure this scourge of our race (which is really nothing more nor less than Scrofula of the Lungs), if taken in time and given a fair trial.

For Scrofula in all its myriad forms, whether affecting the lung-tissues or other organs or parts, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a sovereign remedy, and the only one that is sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from its manufacturers, that it will benefit or cure, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it will be refunded. Enlarged glands, tumors or "bunches," are dissipated by its use; old sores or ulcers healed; "white swellings," hip-joint disease, and kindred ailments, permanently cured. It's a medicine, not a beverage; a concentrated vegetable extract, without sugar or syrup in its make-up. Don't beget drunkards. As peculiar and marvelous in curative properties as in its composition. It's mission is to cure, not palliate.

"Golden Medical Discovery" invigorates and strengthens the liver and lungs, sharpens the appetite, improves digestion, purifies the blood, cleanses the system, and builds up both flesh and strength when reduced by "wasting diseases." It leads all other medicines in amount of sales. There's nothing like it for the diseases for which it is recommended, so don't be fooled into accepting any substitute, said to be "just as good." It's an insult to your intelligence when unprincipled dealers try to palm off something else upon you, just to make a little better profit! An honest dealer supplies what his customers want, without questioning their intelligence. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD is offered by the manufacturers of DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY, for a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases, no matter of how long standing. 50c., by druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

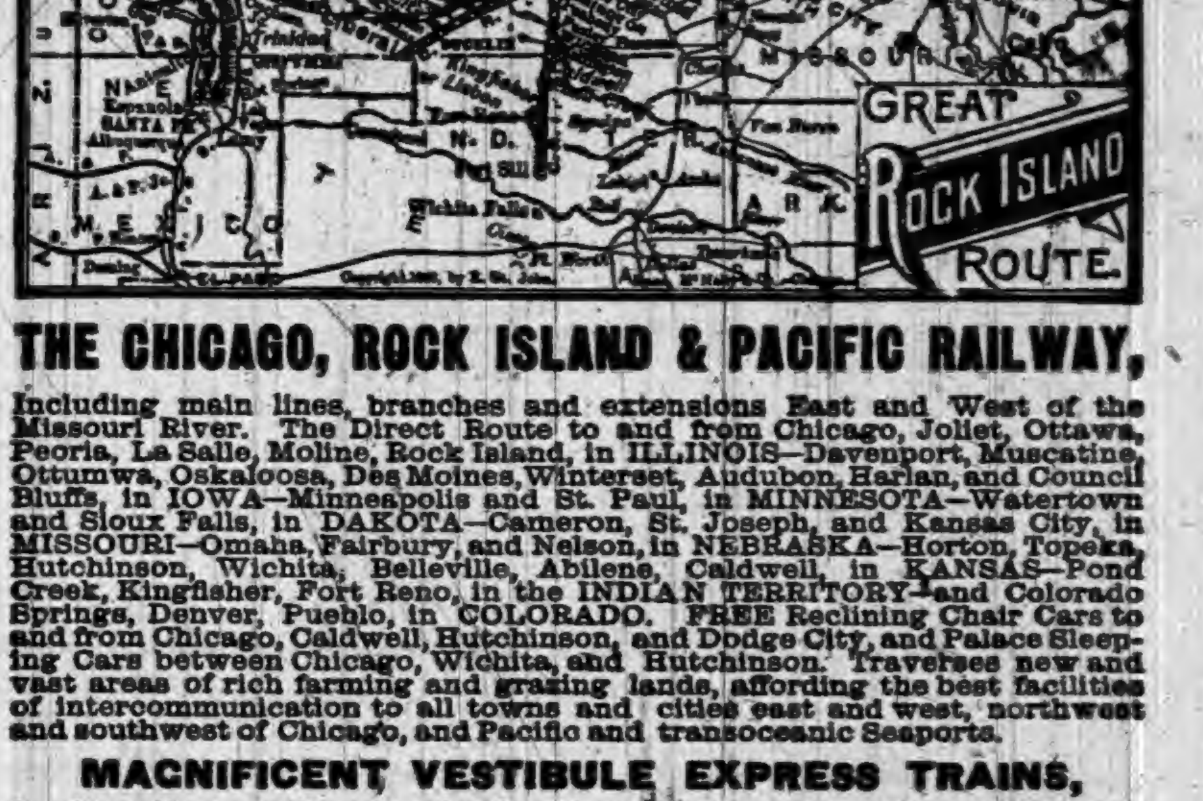
25 CTS

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

25 CTS

A MAN

UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY, WILL OBTAIN MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION FROM A STUDY OF THIS MAP OF



THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY,

Including main lines, branches and extensions East and West of the Missouri River. The Direct Route to and from Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, La Salle, Moline, Rock Island, in ILLINOIS—Davenport, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, Des Moines, Winterset, Audubon, Harlan, and Council Bluffs, in IOWA—Minneapolis and St. Paul, in MINNESOTA—Watertown and Sioux Falls, in DAKOTA—Cameron, St. Joseph, and Kansas City, in MISSOURI—Omaha, Fairbury, and Nelson, in NEBRASKA—Horton, Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita, Belleville, Abilene, Caldwell, in KANSAS—Pond Creek, Kingfisher, Fort Reno, in the INDIAN TERRITORY—and Colorado Springs, Denver, Pueblo, in COLORADO. FREE Reclining Chair Cars to and from Chicago, Caldwell, Hutchinson, and Dodge City, and Palace Sleeping Cars between Chicago, Wichita, and Hutchinson. Traverses new and vast areas of rich farming and grazing lands, affording the best facilities of intercommunication to all towns and cities east and west, northwest and southwest of Chicago, and Pacific and transoceanic Seaports.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS,

Leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, cool, well ventilated, and free from dust. Through Coaches, Pullman Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars, and (east of Missouri River) Dining Cars Daily between Chicago, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, and Omaha, with Free Reclining Chair Car to North Platte, Neb., and between Chicago and Colorado Springs, Denver, and Pueblo, via St. Joseph, or Kansas City and Topeka. Splendid Dining Hotels (furnishing meals at seasonable hours) west of Missouri River. California Excursions daily, with CHOICE OF ROUTES to and from Salt Lake, Ogden, Portland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. The DIRECT LINE to and from Pike's Peak, Manitou, Garden of the Gods, the Sanitariums, and Scenic Grandeurs of Colorado.

VIA THE ALBERT LEA ROUTE,

Solid Express Trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with THROUGH Reclining Chair Cars (FREE) to and from those points and Kansas City. Through Chair Car and Sleeper between Peoria, Spirit Lake, and Sioux Falls, via Rock Island. The Favorite Line to Pipestone, Watertown, Sioux Falls, and the Summer Resorts and Hunting and Fishing Grounds of the Northwest.

THE SHORT LINE VIA SENECA AND KANKAKEE offers facilities to travel between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette, and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

For Tickets, Maps, Folders, or desired information, apply to any Ticket Office in the United States or Canada, or address

E. ST. JOHN, General Manager.
JOHN SEBASTIAN, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agent.
CHICAGO, ILL.

ASTHMA. Popham's Asthma Specific Relief in TEN MINUTES. PETER D. SNYDER, M. D. Frittstown, Pa., writes: "I have had Asthma for 20 years; found no relief until I tried your Specific, which relieved me immediately." Sold by all Druggists. $1 per box, by mail, post paid.

TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.
Address, T. POPHAM,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

WANTED SALESMEN and SALESLADIES, both Local and Traveling, to sell Diamonds, Watches and Jewelry. Goods novel and staple, and find a ready sale in all communities. Absolutely no competition. Money refunded if all goods are not as represented, and all bear the guarantee of the manufacturers. We pay salary of from $12.00 to $30.00 per week. Address for full particulars REED & ANSON, Manufacturing Jewelers' Agents, 153 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. DR. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.

HOME STUDY. Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BRYANT'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N.Y.

PENSIONS PATENTS, CLAIMS. Send for Circulars. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Atty. at Law, Washington, D.C.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping our selves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:
JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
London, England.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OPIUM Habit. The only certain and easy cure. Dr. J. L. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

N. U. F. W.........................No. 7—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

SEEDS SALZER'S NORTHERN GROWN ARE THE BEST FOR ALL SOILS AND CLIMES. FARM AND VEGETABLE SEEDS A SPECIALTY. ROSES AND PLANTS BY THE 100,000 FREE CATALOGUE JOHN A. SALZER LA CROSSE, WIS.

W. J. BOWMAN
OFFERS TO
THE PUBLIC,
A MAN'S CONGRESS SHOE for $1.25.
Ladies' Celebrated Telephone Boot, $2.50.
Genuine Hand-Turned Shoes, - $3.00.
E. T. HARVELL'S FINE SHOS,
FOR
MEN'S USE.
The best in the market, at prices that suit everyone.
W. J. BOWMAN,
AUBURN, IND.

Yes! Grand-Pa, I'm a soldier and your my pris'ner here.
But I'm not going to hurt you, so you need have no fear.
Just sit and take it easy, you are not scared I hope,
Only you must surrender, to
General SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

We fight it out on the Clothes Line, if it takes all Summer. S.C. SOAP Comrds.
FAIRBANK'S SANTA CLAUS SOAP

FOR LAUNDRY USE.
MADE ONLY BY
N.K. FAIRBANK & Co. CHICAGO.
FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

CRYSTAL PALACE
Meat Market.
Having opened up my meat market, I desire to purchase good
NO. 1 BEEF CATTLE,
And all the VEAL CALVES I can get. Also good FAT LAMBS and WILD GAME of all kinds, for which I will pay the highest market price. A share of the public patronage is kindly solicited.
B. C. ZEIGLER.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Some time, perhaps the coal deposits of this country will give out, and then Western farmers will get better prices for corn for fuel.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial Bottles Free at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

The Decatur Democrat says: "It seems to be the prevailing opinion among the representative democracy that the chronic office seekers stand aside and allow new men to have a chance at the state offices."

Remarkable Nerve.

The early history of America is full of instances of men having great nerve. But we are rapidly becoming the most nervous people on earth. The recent increase of insanity, epileptic fits, headache, backache, neuralgia, sleeplessness nervousness, dyspepsia, fluttering of the heart, etc., points to an early decay of the race, unless this tendency is checked. Nothing will cure these diseases like Dr. Miles' Nervine, warranted to contain neither opium nor morphine. Sample bottles free at Davenport's drug store. Don't fail to try it. 5

For Sale.

Store building and cottage adjoining, also a general stock of merchandise. Depot and postoffice in connection; reasons for selling, change of business.

F. HOLMAN,
Cedar Creek, Ind.

DO NOT FAIL
—TO TRY—
SMOKETTE.
It is equal to the ordinary 10-cent Cigar and is a genuine HAND-MADE SEED and HAVANA Cigar for
Five Cents.
For Sale in Auburn, by
Robbins & McCord,
F. E. Davenport,
E. M. Bishop,
Hebel Bro's.
Waterloo Agencies,
Locke's Hotel.
A. V. Sinclair & Co.
LELAND, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Distributing Agents,
Toledo, Ohio.

All Indiana congressmen were opposed to taking the money out of the treasury to reimburse Silcott's embezzlement.

Scrofula and Rheumatism

Are quickly cured and the cause removed by Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure. Endorsed by physicians, clergymen, merchants, mechanics, and others. Send two cent stamp for our book of particulars containing certificates of wonderful cures from living people. Don't be humbugged, but be cured at a small expense. Address Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle.

Republican Literature.

(Rochester, Ind. Sentinel.)

Through the grace of the inefficiency of the republican mail service the Sentinel comes into possession of a letter from the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee to republican postmasters. In order to "open the eyes" of democrats we here reproduce extracts from the letter.

"DEAR SIR—In your capacity as postmaster you can be of great service to our party in many ways. You can impress upon those of our party with whom you come in contact, the importance of selecting the best and most available men for township trustees, assessors, and road supervisors. These officers, to be elected in April, will hold their offices for four years. It is not necessary to say anything further concerning the importance of electing as many of these officers as possible."

"The above is in the nature of general work, but the following we wish to have your special and unceasing attention. We wish to make this a reading campaign. We believe that more votes are to be made by the distribution of good republican newspapers than in any other way. With the advantages of your place and acquaintance you can contribute more than any other agency to the proper and wise circulation of newspapers, and at the same time you can turn an honest penny for yourself. We do not want to confine to our party, but we wish them to be taken by those of the opposite political parties. By pressing this subject in a prudent way upon those who do not belong to our party, as well as those who are members of it, you can easily increase the newspapers circulation in your neighborhood. For your benefit, we have obtained the prices of a number of papers, and in the following table you will find information which will be of benefit to you."

In this list of "good republican papers" appears the National Tribune, and American Tribune, two soldiers' papers which make great pretensions at political neutrality, but which are regarded all right for the republican party by chairman Michener and his committee. The letter further says:

"From this time on you will find republican papers coming to your office addressed to persons who have not subscribed for them. In all such cases, it will be safe for you to say to the person to whom they are addressed that they need have no fear of being required to pay for them. We know this will be true in thousands of cases in this State. Of course you will be discreet in saying these things. If such a person refuses to take the paper, after you have given him this assurance, you will please notify the paper that he refuses to receive it, and suggest that it be sent to someone else, whose name you will furnish to the paper."

Here we have it. Republican literature is to be forced upon the people, if not through the solicition of P. O. agents, then if "will come to persons who have not subscribed for it," and be paid for by the American Protective Tariff League, an association of millionaires and factory lords who have made millions through the injustice of our tariff laws. Democrats should arouse and counteract this organized effort to further the cause of high taxes, and consequent hard times for the laboring classes by educating the people thoroughly on the necessity of lower taxes.

Bogus Medicine Certificates.

Have you rheumatism, blood diseases, skin diseases, scrofula or any ailment caused by impure blood? If so, send for our book with a two-cent stamp, and read the home indorsements of eminent physicians, merchants and others who live where Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure is made. Their certificates tell the whole story of this wonderful medicine for the cure of rheumatism and all blood and skin diseases. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle.

Call for Convention.

Headquarters
Indiana Tariff Reform League,
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 28, 1890.

To the Tariff Reform Clubs of Indiana:

The annual convention of the Indiana Tariff Reform League will be held in this city, beginning at 7:30 p. m., March 4th, 1890. Every club in the state should be represented by delegates at that convention. You are requested to select delegates at once, in accordance with Art. IV of the constitution of the State League and forward their names to the Corresponding Secretary. The headquarters of the League will be at the Grand hotel, where delegates will report upon their arrival in the city. Arrangements have been made with the railroads to carry all persons desiring to attend this convention, for one and one-third fare for the round trip. In purchasing tickets, be sure and get the certificate of your local agent, which entitles you to the reduced return fare. All tariff reformers in Indiana are invited to be present, whether delegates or not.

The work of organization is now about complete, and the work of agitation and education will soon begin. The masses are beginning to have serious doubts as to whether protection is really a good thing or not, and it is our duty to show them the truth. Relying upon honesty and good judgment of the American people, when they learn the truth, to correct the injustice and inequalities in our system of taxation, we call upon all, who are interested in this work, to give us their aid and encouragement. For any further information, address the corresponding secretary, Thos. J. Hudson, 36½ E. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind. By order of the Executive Committee.

EDGAR A. BROWN, Pres.

M. P.—A New Principle.

A great physician has discovered that the true way to act on the liver stomach, bowels, etc., is through their nerves. Miles' Pills, the smallest and mildest. Samples free at Davenport's. 5

DON'T - FAIL
—TO SEE THE—
Good Samaritan
—AND—
KING OF CURES.
He Tells Your Disease
Without Asking questions.
CONSULTATION FREE.
He takes no patients without he can cure them.
He Has Practiced Medicine
FOR 40 YEARS.
AS A SPECIALIST,
FOR 20 YEARS
In all Parts of the Globe.
Cures All Chronic Diseases
No matter who has pronounced you incurable, The Good Samaritan will cure you when others fail. There are thousands of long sufferers he has cured after doctoring for years with others. They hail his name with delight and rejoice in telling other sufferers so they can get relief as they did.
He cures all chronic diseases, such as Epileptic Fits, Spasms, paralysis, Asthma, Rheumatism, bilious and sick Headache, Neuralgia, Fever Sores, all forms of Scrofula, Catarrh in the head, Liver Complaint, Dropsy Kidney diseases, Erysipelas, Spinal Diseases, Female weakness, and all private diseases.
Piles Cured Without a Knife.
Female Complaints a Specialty
Cured without local treatment.
All consultations strictly private and confidential. Where it is not convenient to see the Doctor at his oppointed places, send your name, age, and a lock of your hair, and two two cent postage stamps to pay postage. It will be promptly answered. All Correspondence directed to
J. H. ANDREWS, M. D,
WAUSEON, OHIO.
Auburn, Swineford House, Mar. 3, One day only.
Butler, Waverly House. Feb. 18 from 7 to 1 o'clock.
Waterloo, Locke's hotel, Feb. 17. One day only.
Garrett, Ross House, Mar. 7.
Hicksville, Swilley House, Mar. 8 and 9.

Wanted.

White ash butts, 8 inches in diameter and upwards. Cut 4 ft. 9 inches, 5 ft. 3 inches, 5 ft. 9 inches, 6 ft. 3 inches. To be not less than half white.

Hickory butts, black or shell bark, cut 2 ft. 6 inches, 5 ft., 7 ft. 6 inches or 10 ft. long not less than 5 in. diameter at top end.

Elm butts cut from 1 ft. to 10 ft. long 4 inches to 8 inches diameter at top end. For which I will pay the highest cash prices. Delivered at my factory near Wabash depot in Auburn, Ind., or at Stations on R. R. leading into this place.

H. J. Trentman.

P. S: Wood for sale at 50 cts. per load, delivered to any part of the city. leave orders at Frank Hoff's or at my factory.

H. J. Trentman.

Time.

[LaPorte Herald, Nov. 19, 1889.]

The following was a portion of yesterday afternoon's program at the opening of Parson's Horological institute. The poem was written and read by Mrs. B. A. Davis, of Galena township:

Hail Time; thou great immensity, all hail;
To pen thy wondrous records, mortal skill would fail,
And only the Recording Angel should aspire
To write thy pages with a pen of fire.
While looking backward, down thy vista dim and long,
We seem to see that vast, unnumbered throng,
Thy children, whom thou long ago called in.
The good of ages and the child of sin
Grew side by side, till time, with his relentless scythe,
Cut each one down, the old and feeble and the young and blythe.
The present age, how grandly it doth shine
With works that almost seem less human than divine.
I cannot stay to note them all, for legion is their name;
And many mighty intellects have won their way to fame.
In vain we forward look, and wish we knew
What lieth in the future days, in store for me and you.
'Tis well that none can tell us now, if it be weal or woe,
It matters not; the future only God can know.
The Past, the Present, and the Future time
Should be the burden of my so-called rhyme.
But I have wandered far, perhaps you think,
And wasted paper, time, and pen and ink.
If so, I will return and also pardon ask,
And straightway now take up, and shortly close my task.
Time's first division was by Him who wisely ruleth all,
When darkness covered earth and sea, like a black funeral pall,
And the Creator spake and heaven's dominions bright,
Rang with the order grand, "Let there be light,"
And there was light, and since then, night and day,
Summer and winter, seed-time and harvest have held sway.
Then man's inventions came, to mark the day
In sub-division, in the sunshine's ray.
The shadow by the "Dial" slowly cast,
Told that the noonday hour was surely past.
Next came the hour-glass, with its steady running sand,
And turned each hour by ever watchful hand.
Clepsydras, too, at this time came in plenty.
And clocks were made B. C. in the year 220.
For Charles the 5th of France the first good clock we hear
Was made by Henry Vick, in the 1370th year.
Sometime in 16 hundred, in Germany, we read,
Watches were made at Nuremburg, the very first indeed,
And long were known as "Nuremburg Eggs," a name now of the past,
And this now brings our record up to our own time at last.
Our watches now we need not buy, in foreign lands, to-day,
For in the art, it is very plain, our Nation leads the way.
And now we come to "Parson's School." Long may his name be known,
Till the last man on this fair earth be old and grizzled grown,
Oh may this school is our best wish, be famous and be grand,
And may the hour-glass of his life run smooth with golden sand,
His "Dial" to the "Great Sun's" rays prove constant to his end of days,
With "watchfulness" for others' needs, his life be full of kindly deeds,
And now my friends, I haste to close. My rhymes should not be long.
Farewell, and may we meet again, in heaven's unnumbered throng,
When the archangel on the sea and shore
Proclaims aloud that "time shall be no more."

Nov. 18, 1889.

Obituary.

Isaac Mac, little son of Marion and Ida Askew, was born August 15, 1885, and died February 4, 1890, aged 4 years, 4 months and 20 days. After a lingering illness of three months he passed sweetly away to the bright home above. The funeral services were held in the Baptist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. C. Smith. The remains were laid away to rest in the Evergreen cemetery, Auburn. During his illness and when the end seemed near, his affection for his grandma was very marked. Pleading with her not to leave him, he would talk to her about the "Good Man" and of heaven. May God help us all to become as little children that we may have an abundant entrance to the home prepared for the faithful here.

One little star in the beautiful west
One little window of light.
One little gleam from the kingdom of rest,
One little beacon to night.
Up through the pathway of stars he has gone
Up from the shadow to welcome the dawn,
Up from the sorrows of earth's estate,
Safely within the golden gate.

One little tress of his silken hair,
Over my fingers I twine.
One little blossom, tenderly fair,
Gone to the heavenly clime.
Gone from the country of anguish and pain.
Gone where farewells come not again.
Gone to the land for which we wait,
Safely within the golden gate.

One little flower that he plucked long ago,
One little dress that he wore,
One little mound, out in the snow,
That never was there before.
Gone where the beautiful gates are ajar;
Gone where the many mansions are;
Gone where our vanished darlings wait.
Safely within the golden gate.

Obituary.

DIED:—On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 5th, at the home of his parents near Auburn Junction, Dillman F. Hough, aged 17 years, 5 months, and 21 days. A large concourse of friends attested the esteem in which this young man was held. Father, mother, brothers and sisters, good-by till we meet again.

We miss thee from our home, dear brother;
We miss thee from thy place.
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.

We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care;
Our home is dark without thee,
We miss thee everywhere.

One more spirit has flown away,
One more heart is resting to-day.
It is sad and lonely since he was called away.
Oh, what a vacant place in our home to-day!

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

Mystic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action on the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 c. We sell and warrant it. Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY
MEMORY
Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

WATCH FOR MY "AD."
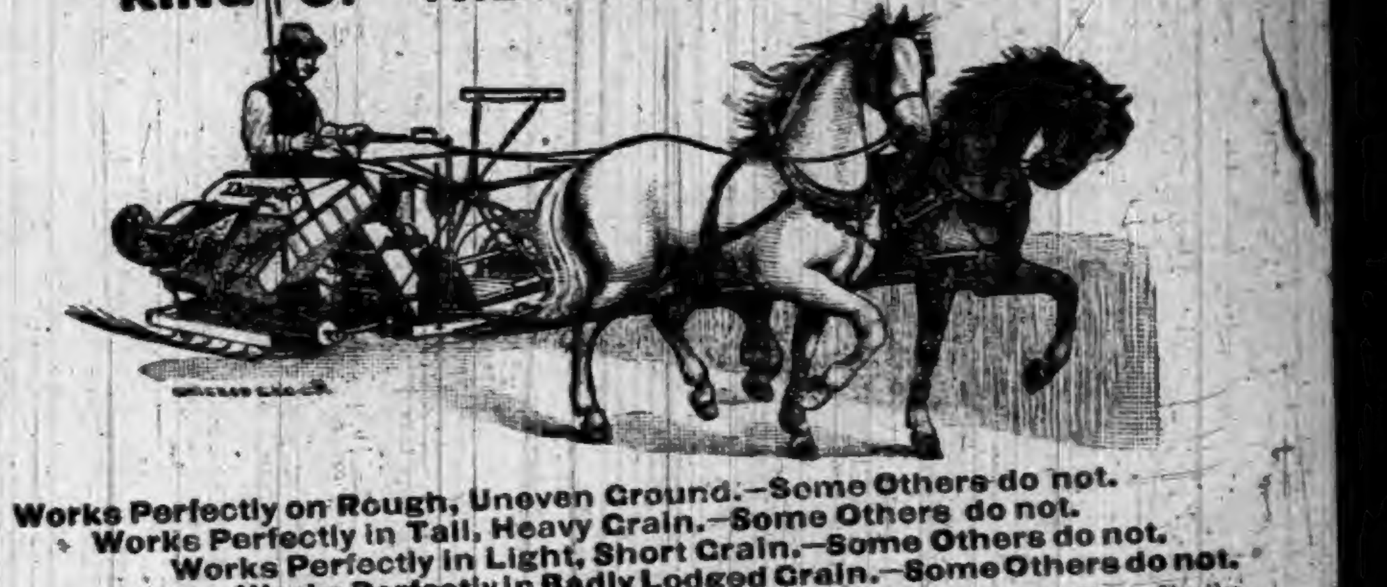
Next Week!
"THE FAMOUS."
CLOTHIER,
North side Courthouse, Three doors west of Postoffice.
AUBURN, IND.

DEERING JUNIOR STEEL BINDER.
KING OF THE HARVEST FIELD.



Works Perfectly on Rough, Uneven Ground.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Tall, Heavy Grain.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Light, Short Grain.—Some Others do not.
Works Perfectly in Badly Lodged Grain.—Some Others do not.
Strongest Frame, Simplest Construction, Lightest Draft, Greatest Durability, Most Easily Managed. GREAT IMPROVEMENTS for 1890 place it farther than ever in the lead of pretended rivals.
OUR ASSORTMENT OF GRAIN AND GRASS-CUTTING MACHINERY is made complete with our
DEERING LIGHT REAPER.
DEERING GIANT MOWER.
DEERING LIGHT MOWER.
Each the Leader in its Class.
Our DEERING BINDER TWINE made by ourselves is the best in the world. We are the only Harvester Manufacturers who adopted this practical method of protecting farmers against poor Twine.
Apply to our nearest agent for Illustrated Catalogue and Full Information or write direct to us
WM. DEERING & CO., Chicago.

Don't Read This!
AT WILSON'S SHOE STORE,
—You can rely on—
Fair Treatment and Low Prices.
And everything guaranteed to be as represented.
Note some of our Prices:
Candee & Boston Rubber Boots, $2.30.
Calf front, double sole and tap front all sizes, $2.00.
Ladies' Kid Button Shoes, worth $2.25 for $1.50.
Extremely Low Prices on Fine Shoes for Ladies, Misses, and Gents.
FELTS AND ARCTICS
At Bottom Prices to close. Come and see us and learn our prices before purchasing. No trouble to show goods.
Respectfully, yours,
J. N. WILSON & SON,
SOUTH OF JAIL, AUBURN, IND.
AND MAIN ST., WATERLOO, IND.

Attorney General Michener decides that the new school book law must be enforced, and that trustees must compel the use of the books provided by the law.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

South Bend society young men are getting threatening letters written in red ink promising them rawhidings unless they reform. Some woman's trick 'tis thought.

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

This great nerve tonic will cure sleeplessness, nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism, and builds up broken-down constitutions. Delicious and nutritious. Sold by druggists and dealers. Price $1.00.

The New York Herald prints a picture of President Harrison's ear, which will interest many politicians who have failed to get it.—Phila. Record.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1890. NUMBER 8.

CLOSING SALES

CONTINUES.

Our. Entire Stock

AT

COST.

And we mean it.

Please don't forget it.

It is money to save money by buying your goods at

COST,

At Post's.

THE entire buildings of the Toronto University, at Toronto, Canada were destroyed by fire last Friday evening. It was the greatest institution of learning in the Dominion. The loss was over half a million. Insurance about $164,000.

Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

BEFORE YOU BUY
A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Referring to the ravages of a mad dog a western paper recently said that "the rabid animal bit Rev. Smith, and several other dogs." This is scarcely complimentary to Brother Smith.

Bogus Medicine Certificates.

Have you rheumatism, blood diseases, skin diseases, scrofula or any ailment caused by impure blood? If so, send for our book with a two cent stamp, and read the home indorsements of eminent physicians, merchants and others who live where Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure is made. Their certificates tell the whole story of this wonderful medicine for the cure of rheumatism and all blood and skin diseases. Hunnicutt Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga. For sale by druggists at $1 per bottle.

Great Sioux Reservation Now Open.

The fertile lands in the great Sioux Indian Reservation, west of the Missouri river, are now open for settlement. The President's proclamation was issued on February 10th, 1890. The natural gateway to the southern part of the reservation is via Chamberlain, South Dakota, the present western terminus of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. From that point to the lands beyond, homeseekers must proceed by team. All necessary outfits can be secured at reasonable prices at Chamberlain.

For the convenience of persons who may desire to inspect the new country, first-class reduced rate excursion tickets, to Chamberlain and return, will be sold from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, good to return until October 31st, 1890.

For maps and circulars, containing general and detailed information, please apply to the nearest ticket agent, or address A. V. H. Carpenter, General Passenger Agent, Milwaukee, Wis. 8-10

Evergreen Nurseries,

Of Evergreen, Wis., claims to be the largest nursery of the class in America. It now contains several millions of small evergreens, comprising some fifty varieties, and about the same number of ornamental trees and flowering shrubs. These nurseries now serve about three thousand customers annually, whose orders range all the way from one dollar to one thousand dollars or more each. A stenographer and type-writer is employed for the correspondence. During the digging and packing season twenty-five to thirty men are employed and about fifteen to twenty are required to take care of the trees during the growing season. These nurseries are making a specialty of plants for evergreen hedges, and have several millions ready for sale, of three or four of the most popular kinds. Their prices on tree seedlings are much below any others we have seen. It will pay any of our readers thinking of planting an evergreen hedge, or any other ornamental trees or shrubs, to send a postal card to these nurseries asking for their catalogue.

Canadian Pacific Coming.

(Chicago Herald.)

It is expected that within ninety days the Canadian Pacific will enter Chicago. It is now building into Detroit and will be running trains regularly into that city before the middle of March. From Detroit to Chicago, it is reported on good authority, the Canadian Pacific will use the tracks of the Wabash. It is said the foreign company has lately become a large holder of Wabash securities, and that it has brought about a contract with that road enabling it to run its trains anywhere on the Wabash system. This will let the Canadian Pacific into Chicago as a direct competitor to all prominent points reached by the Grand Trunk and as a big competitor to the New England lines. It will also have a roundabout route to New York, which, however, may be a source of considerable trouble, owing to the road being out of the jurisdiction of the inter-state commerce commission and its much-boasted but almost universally ignored long and short haul clause. There is also a strong probability that the Canadian Pacific's entrance into Chicago will be celebrated by a lively fight with the Grand Trunk.

Vick—State Fair.

James Vick, Seedman, of Rochester, N. Y., offers $1,000.00 in cash Premiums, to be awarded at the Illinois State Fair, Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29, 1890, by the society's judges, for best cabbage, celery, potatoes, cauliflower, tomatoes, musk melon, onion and mangel. Last year the prizes awarded at the New York State Fair went to Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Iowa and New York. This year we are anxious to see our state take the lead, and hope that all interested in vegetables will send to Vick, of Rochester, for particulars regarding this offer. No doubt it will be one of the principal features of interest at the fair. The Vicks will erect a separate building, or tent, in which they will make a grand show of flowers with the vegetables, and will be on hand to receive their friends.

DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the world there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

Ballot reform and school book reform, adopted by the State of Indiana, is leading other states to take steps in these great reforms in behalf of the people. The writer is proud of the fact that he is a Hoosier and lives in Hoosierdom.

Cross Cruelty. 6.

Parents too frequently permit their children to suffer from headache, fits, St Vitus Dance, nervousness, etc., when they can be cured. Mrs. P. was cured of sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, nervous prostration of eighteen years standing, after failure of sixteen physicians; Mrs. K., of sick headache for 35 years; Mrs. P. of twenty to fifty fits a night; others from this vicinity could be mentioned who have been cured by that wonderful nerve food and medicine—Dr. Miles' Nervine, which contains no morphine, opium or dangerous drug. Free sample bottles may be had at Davenport's drug store

ENTIRELY NEW,

—AND OF—

Interest to You!

WE have Revised our List and present to you a list of Farm and Town Properties which cannot be found in any other Real Estate Agency in the State.

TO a person unacquainted with the Lands in this and the adjoining Counties, the above assertion may seem a little like bragging, but it is the truth and we stand ready to prove what we say, by taking our customers, FREE OF CHARGE, out to the lands and show them that our representations are true.

THE LIST:

No. 305. 140 acres in Smithfield Tp., over 100 acres cleared, about 20 acres of excellent timber land, good orchards, plenty of small fruit, good dwelling, barns and out buildings, an elegant spring on the farm. This farm will be sold on reasonable terms and at a price that is an inducement to a person who wants a farm that will pay for itself in a few years.

No. 304. 60 acres fine land in Wilmington township, splendid house, good barn, well, cistern and good orchard. Price $2,400. $600 cash balance in equal annual payments. This, for a small farm, cannot be beat.

No. 302. 160 acres of fine land in Wheeler county, Neb. Price $1,800. Will exchange for town property in DeKalb county, Ind.

No. 300. Good 6-room one-story frame dwelling on south Van Buren street. Price $500 cash.

No. 294. Good one and one-half story frame dwelling on north Main street. Price $1,000.

No. 290. Fine large residence property, one acre of land with it. Plenty of fruit of good quality. Price $1,200, on easy terms.

No. 279. 40 acres timber land in Union township. Price $600.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres splendid farming land, good buildings, good fences, good orchards, within five miles of Hicksville, O. Must be sold soon.

No. 275. Vacant lot in Ensley's second addition. Three acres land adjoining the town of Auburn.

No. 263. 52 acres of excellent land in Wilmington township. Price $1,900.

No. 260. 160 acres fine land in Butler township. Soil black loam, gravel bottom, good timber, fine large brick dwelling, bank barn, good orchard, fences and no waste land. Price $10,000.

No. 252. 80 acres splendid land in Stafford township. Good buildings, good fences and elegant soil. Possession given at once. Land well drained. No waste land.

No. 231. 75 acres two and one-half miles south of Spencerville. 65 acres under cultivation, balance in good timber. Good house, bank barn 36 x 50 feet, good well, wind pump, orchard and good fences. Price $3,800. $1,000 cash, balance on long time.

No. 230. 192 acres in Newville township, two miles east of Newville, and three miles northwest of Hicksville, O. 130 acres cleared and in splendid cultivation, all drained. Balance first-class timber. Three-story brick house 34 x 36, good cellar, 100 barrel cistern, splendid well of water, wind pump, two barns, one 36 x 50 the other one 36 x 64, corn crib and granary, 24 x 24, good fences, two good orchards of bearing trees, school and church near, soil black loam. Price $60 per acre. One-third cash, balance on time.

No. 251. 80 acres southwest of Garrett. 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and bottom land. Two-story frame dwelling 16 x 16, wing 16 x 18, barn 30 x 46, well, orchard and good fences.

No. 206. 120 acres 7 miles east of Auburn, one-half mile from Moore's Station. Good two-story frame dwelling 20 x 28, wing 16 x 22, barn 22 x 37, new granary, corn crib 20 x 30, and good log stable, two good wells, large orchard and good fences. 80 acres cleared, balance timber, well drained.

No. 307. 220 acres of as good land as there is in DeKalb county. 100 acres under cultivation, balance in bottom and timber land. Good orchard, well, and fair buildings. Here is a chance in a lifetime for somebody who wants a cheap farm.

No. 222. 100 acres, ½ mile southwest of Butler, Ind. 80 acres cleared and in splendid state of cultivation, balance in good timber. All under fence. Nine-room dwelling. Good cellar, well and cistern. Barn 50x60 feet, well painted and all necessary out buildings.

No. 297. 80 acre farm of land, within 1½ miles of Auburn. Price $2,700. Will trade for town property in Auburn.

No. 291. 20-horse power stationary engine and mill. 26-inch saw for posts, pickets, etc., and all necessary belts etc., to run it. The machinery is new and in first-class condition. Price $800.

No. 47. 160-acre farm 4 miles northwest of Butler, 30 acres timber, 10 acres pasture, balance in splendid state of cultivation. 2 houses, 2 barns, wind pump, cistern, cellar, 2 orchards, 3 wells, 1 mile from school house, splendid neighborhood, 1½ miles to new brick church.

No. 67. 60-acre farm adjoining the town of Auburn, good house, good barn, good orchard, some good timber. This farm can be laid out in desirable residence lots and could be bought very cheap. A more desirable location and better land cannot be found anywhere.

We have other properties which are cheap as dirt, but our space is limited to one column. But come to our office and we will be pleased to take the time to show you something that will please you if you cannot fine what you want here.

We want your insurance at lowest rates in the best insurance companies in the world. We can loan you money on long time at low rates of interest. Come and see us, and we will try to please you.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate Agents,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

WE HAVE NOW

—Open for your inspection a line of—

CARPETS

AND

Lace Curtains,

Of which we may well feel proud. Call and see them. They will please you. We have also just received

A BIG STOCK OF

Hats, Caps & Gents' Furnishing Goods.

IF YOU WISH Proper Styles
OF GOOD Honest Goods
AT THE Right Prices,

It will pay you to give us your patronage. Always anxious to please you. We are very respectfully,

SCHAAB & BRO.,
AUBURN, IND.

Notice to Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan, on Wednesday, March 5th, 1890, at one o'clock p. m. for the election of thirteen directors constituting a board to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting. J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary. 9

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. J. Adams, lately from Illinois, has taken up his residence in Auburn and will hereafter practice his profession among our people wherever his services are needed in the treatment of horses and cattle. He has had thirty years successful practice and comes well recommended. He has purchased the brick dwelling on North Main street, of S. J. Brandon, where he will be found or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

The last run of shad will soon cease to be a figure of speech in Massachusetts; the Fish Commissioners find a decrease of 90 per cent. in the catch since 1879.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

Landlady—You haven't eaten any soup, Mr. Roberts. Is there anything in it?

Boarder—I don't think there is; I couldn't taste anything.

Heart Disease.

If you get short of breath, have fluttering, pain in side, faint or hungry spells, swollen ankles, etc., you have heart disease, and don't fail to take Dr. Miles' New Cure. Sold at Davenport's drug store. 6

Only 21,918 barrels of mackerel were landed at all the New England ports last year, against 48,205 barrels in 1888, 88,302 barrels in 1887, 79,998 barrels in 1886, 329,943 barrels in 1885, and 478,076 barrels in 1884.

Every Christian Mother.

Should be careful with her children. The damp atmosphere of our climate often brings on coughs colds etc. which if not attended to in time lead to that dreaded disease consumption, to prevent this it is the duty of all mothers to have a remedy near to check these coughs that your children may contract, and you cannot get a safer or more reliable remedy than Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the children's friend. You can buy this for 25cts. of F. E. Davenport.

Dr. Henley's Celery, Beef and Iron.

This great nerve tonic will cure sleeplessness, nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism, and builds up broken-down constitutions. Delicious and nutritious. Sold by druggists and dealers. Price $1.00.

WORTH CONSIDERING!

DR. J. S. PEMBERTON, OF ATLANTA, GA.

Is a celebrated dealer in Proprietary medicines of his own manufacture. He said: "I had a most severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which brought me down upon my bed and entirely incapacitated me for business. The disease appeared to have a lien on my system, and all I could do did not dislodge it. Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure was recommended to me, and I took it. In a day after beginning its use I began to improve, and in five or six days I was entirely free from pain and able to resume my business. I told Mr. Hunnicutt at that time, that his cure is the best medicine the world has ever offered for rheumatism." The Doctor refused $2500 to say as much for another remedy. This he said free and voluntary.

HUNNICUTT'S RHEUMATIC CURE

Is a superb Female Tonic and blood purifier, rendering the skin soft and beautiful, removing blotches, pimples, etc., increasing the appetite and invigorating the system. Send for book of particulars, FREE. Address,
HUNNICUTT MEDICINE CO., Atlanta, Ga.

The discovery of a burglar under a bed up in Chicago ends a long and persistent search. About every lone women in Christendom has been looking for him since beds were invented, but never with success until now.

SMITH'S
BILE
BEANS

Act on the Bile, Kidneys and Bowels, Cleansing the Body of all Impurities; Clear the Complexion.

THE BEST REMEDY KNOWN

For Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Headaches, Fullness after Eating, Wind on the Bowels, Pains in the Back, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Constipation, Foul Breath, Drowsiness, Dizziness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue. Will positively

Cure Bilious Attacks.

Use the SMALL Size (40 little Beans to the bottle); THEY ARE THE MOST CONVENIENT.

Sold in Bottles only, by all Druggists. Price of either size, 25 cts.

J. F. SMITH & CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
Proprietors of "BILE BEANS" and "BILE BEANS SMALL."

KISSING AT "7-17-70" PHOTOGRAVURE PANEL SIZE. Mailed for 4 cents (coppers or stamps). J. F. SMITH & CO., makers of "BILE BEANS," ST. LOUIS, MO.

Primary Elections.

In order to make our people still better acquainted with the practical workings of the primary election system, we copy nearly in full, a notice issued by the chairman of the Coshocton county, Ohio, democratic committee, and published in the Coshocton Democrat of May 7, 1889, this being a part of the actual campaign work of last year. Ohio regulates these primary elections by law, as will be seen on reading the article. The law designates who shall be entitled to vote at a primary election, and how inspectors or judges shall be appointed. We wish every democrat would save this article, as it contains much valuable information. We insert only a part of the offices to be filled, and only a part of the supervisors appointed, as a few samples will show for all. We also append a few announcements that are made, of candidates who are going to submit their claims to this primary election. The following is the call:

To the Democracy of Coshocton County, Ohio.

You are hereby notified that an election will be held in Coshocton county, on Saturday, June 1st. 1889.

To nominate the following officers:
One person for representative.
One person for auditor.
One person for sheriff, Etc.

Also, to elect in each township at the same time and in the same manner, one person to serve as member of the County Central Committee for the coming year.

The Democratic Central Committee, by which said election is called, by vote elected to invoke the protection and subject said election to the provisions of the primary election law, entitled, An act to protect the elections of voluntary political associations and to punish frauds therein.

The polls will be open at the usual voting places, between 6 o'clock a. m. and one o'clock p. m., as may be determined by supervisors of the respective townships, and close at 6 p. m.

The following prescribes the qualification of voters: That in all primary elections hereafter held, men who supported the democratic state and county ticket at the preceding general election, democrats who move into the county and will be legal electors at the next general election; young men known to be democrats who will be of age in time to vote at the next general election, and democratic foreigners who may be entitled to naturalization papers in time to vote at the next election, shall be entitled to vote at the primary election.

The Central Committee appointed the following supervisors:
Adams Tp.—J. B. Warren.
Bethlehem Tp.—C. B. Hershman.
Bedford Tp.—J. H. Norris, Etc.

Each supervisor, being first sworn or affirmed by some person authorized to administer oaths, that he is a legal voter of the township; that he will correctly and faithfully conduct such election, protect it against all frauds and unfairness, carefully and truly canvass all votes cast thereat, shall then cause the electors present possessing qualifications above set forth to choose two judges of election and two clerks to assist him in receiving and taking account of the votes cast, to each of whom shall be administered by some officer authorized to administer oaths, the same taken by said supervisor.

In case any supervisor hereby appointed is not present to open the polls, any democratic elector of the township may be chosen by the electors present to act, and after being qualified as herein stated shall proceed to conduct such election as herein provided.

The judges and clerks shall each proceed as in general elections to conduct said election under the provisions of this call and said law, and to determine objections to any electors.

The supervisor and judges, at the close of the polls, will count the vote and declare the result of their several township polls, and upon the following Monday the said supervisor in each township or judge duly authorized by the supervisor shall return the poll-books and tally-sheets, duly certified and sealed to the chairman and secretary of the County Central Committee at Coshocton, on which day, June 3rd, 1889, at 10 o'clock a. m., the Central Committee and supervisors shall meet in convention, and after duly organizing, shall thereupon proceed to count and tabulate the vote of the several townships of said county for each officer, and truly declare and publish the vote candidates have received in said county.

And such convention shall transact such other business as may belong to and come before it.

Before leaving for home, and after the adjournment of said convention, the new Central Committees shall meet and organize, and if in their judgment it is deemed necessary may select an executive committee to attend to the business of the campaign for the ensuing year.

By order of the Central Committee.
C. A. LAMBERSON, Secretary.
W. H. NELDON, Chairman.

Announcements of Candidates.

REPRESENTATIVE.

J. P. Forbes is a candidate for representative, subject to the democratic primary election of June 1st.

AUDITOR.

Joseph Burrell is a candidate for auditor, subject to the democratic primary election of June 1st.

Just Received!

A lot of Fine Towels, Napkins, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Corsets, and a hundred other things in the line of Notions and Tinware which we will sell at half the regular price. We have also a fine assortment of

DRESS BUTTONS

of all styles, very cheap. You can save 50 cents on every dollar by dealing at the

Bargain Store

On Eighth St., West of Court House.

BAUER BRO'S, Prop's.

Woodlawn Cemetery.

As fine a piece of landscape drawing as has ever been seen here, we saw at C. C. Shaffer's furniture store the other day. It is the plat of the new cemetery southeast of town, which is being laid out by Henry J. Shafer. It will be called "Woodlawn" a very appropriate name, for a great part of the ground is in woods and as many of the smaller trees as can be utilized, will be saved to adorn the grounds. The work of surveying and platting was done by C. E. VanAuken, who has shown great good taste and ability in the work, as well as unusual skill as a draughtsman. The map of the ground is beautiful, showing every street and alley of the entire grounds, as well as the numbers and boundaries of the blocks and lots. The entrance is on the north and south road, running past the Peter Shafer home, and just south of it. After entering the grounds, the broad avenue divides, to the right and the left, each of the new avenues being nearly as wide as the entrance. These avenues, lead to large circles, one called the "south circle," and the other the "north circle." Continuing past these, the avenues continue to curve in beautiful lines, as they extend around the grounds. At appropriate points, other avenues branch off from these, reach smaller circles, and connect with paths and boundaries, making access to every lot easy and simple, and distinctly defining the boundaries of the several blocks into which the ground is first divided. There is also, in one part of the ground, a suitable slope for locating vaults, should anyone wish to do so. At the divergence of the two main avenues near the entrance, is reserved a large and appropriate plat of ground to be used as a memorial plat for the unknown dead, who died in the service of their country. This is so arranged, that memorial stones, such as the government supplies free, can be placed about this plat, appropriately arranged, and which will enable us to pay tributes even to our unknown patriots. The idea is a good one, and has been tastefully carried out. The grounds are being cleared, and cleaned up as fast as possible and when suitable weather comes, the grading and graveling of the avenues and walks will be begun and pushed forward vigorously. It would be impossible to give one a full conception of this work without an examination of the plat and the ground. But these will show that Mr. VanAuken is an able engineer, and that our people do not need to go away from home either, for this class of work or for anything that requires a skillful draughtsman. Nor should we omit Mr. Shafer's liberality and good taste in commencing and carrying out this work. We also understand they have been ably assisted by John F. Aber, whose good taste and judgment in matters of this kind, are well known. "Woodlawn" will not only fill a want in this city and this section of the country, but it will be a monument to the enterprise of its founders and the skill of the engineer.

Next Sunday Morning

at ten o'clock or any day this week, you can buy at Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough as it is guaranteed to cure and relieve all chronic and acute coughs for less money than any other, as the price is only 25cts. it enables all to give this great medicine a trial. A fresh supply at Davenport's.

AUBURN
FLOURING
MILLS,

—Now in full running order with—

FULL ROLLER PROCESS.

All kinds of Custom Work done on short notice. Will buy all kinds of grain. Farmers, call on us, and get your work done or sell us your grain. We mean business. All work done by us will be first-class. Remember the place, The Auburn Flouring Mills. Near Wabash depot.

KICHLER & CO., Prop's.,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS - - PUBLISHER

THE NEWS RECORD.

A SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S EVENTFUL HAPPENINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World—Political, Commercial, and Industrial News, Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Suicides, Etc., Etc.

BROUGHT HIM DOWN.

A Crestline, Ohio, Man Defend His Property from an Attack by Burglars.

A special from Crestline, Ohio, dated the 19th inst., says: Last night about 9:30 Adam Fringle, residing two miles east of this place, heard a rap at his door, but before going to answer the summons he took the precaution to arm himself, and before opening the door he asked what was wanted, when the reply came that they had a message for him. With this information, Fringle opened the door, when two men sprang upon him. Although armed, he was powerless to discharge the weapon and by this time his wife had come upon the scene, and one of the men turned his attention to her. Fringle could easily manage his man alone, but saw that his wife was being choked in a very brutal manner and quickly freeing himself from his assailants, he discarged his weapon at the man who was assaulting his wife. His aim did not seem to be very good but served the purpose to frighten the men, for both beat a hasty retreat, one, in his haste, jumping through a window. Fringle went to the door and fired three shots after them and then returned to care for his wife whom he found not dangerously injured. This morning, on opening the house, Fringle found one of the men on his face, about fifty feet from the door, with a bullet-hole through his lungs. The man is about 25 years of age, coarsely clad, but having nothing on his person to lead to his identity. The other man is supposed to have escaped. Fringle cannot give a very accurate description of the men other than they wore no masks. Undertaker Heibenshaus took charge of the body and will hold it a few days to await identification. From tools found in his possession he is a professional, and it is believed Crestline parties brought him in, as Fringle was known to have recently received quite a sum of money.

TROUBLE ANTICIPATED.

The Crusaders in Missouri Do Not Propose to Permit the Officers to Serve Warrants.

A special from Spickardsville, Mo., says: John Brady, owner of the building which was wrecked by the temperance crusaders went to Lathrop, county seat, and swore out warrants for the arrest of sixteen participants in the affair. Thirteen of these warrants were for the arrest of women and girls, and three for men. When the train from Lathrop, on which the deputy charged with serving the warrants was expected to arrive, drew up at the station, it was met by a crowd of fifty men and as many women who determined that these warrants should not be served. The deputy made no attempt to discharge his duty, but says they will be served. The crusaders and their friends say they won't. Trouble is anticipated.

KILRAIN, THE BRUISER.

He Is Knocked Completely Out in Six Rounds by Slugger Corbett.

New Orleans special: Kilrain loses $3,500. He was to knock Corbett out in six rounds. He failed, not only, but got the worst of it from the first. Corbett weighed 170; Kilrain, 202. Kilrain was not well yet of grippe, contracted at Austin. He was quite badly hurt. Corbett was unscratched. Kilrain says he is not satisfied with the contest, as all in-fighting was barred, and Corbett having the longest reach naturally, could tip and get away. He would like to box him ten rounds with five-ounce gloves, but prefers a finish fight with light gloves. He will fight in the club for a suitable purse to a finish, the winner to take all. In the two other six-round contests, Cleary whipped Smith, and Bezinah whipped Johnson.

It Was Fatal.

Wichita (Kan.) special: The engine and baggage car on the Galveston express plunged through a bridge over Chisholm Creek, six miles south of here. The passenger coaches were left on the bridge. Roadmaster E. Peters, of Newton, was killed. Engineer Ward and Fireman Smith each had a leg broken. The express messenger, name not learned yet, both arms broken. Miss Cain, of Udel, four ribs broken. Josiah Ericsen, of Topeka, arm broken. Edwin Whitney, of St. Louis, fractured collar bone, and several other passengers suffered from cuts and bruises. A relief train and six doctors arrived at the wreck from this city, and the injured were brought here as soon as possible. The supports of the bridge had been burned away during the night, supposedly by tramps. A posse is looking for the miscreant.

The Cherokee Outlet.

